DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT. Westport, Jan. 29, 1879. DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him. DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION. Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879. DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northrop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

IT occasionally happens that a man tells the truth when his real object is to tell a lie. An Italian, unfamiliar with the English language, used to sell fish on the streets, using the usual call—"Freshee fishee, all alive!" After a while he retired from the fish business and took to selling eggs, using however, the words—"Freshi eggs, all alive," densely unconscious that he is not telling the lie he thinks he is.

INTERESTING ITEMS.

DR. WILMS, a celebrated surgeon and scientific light of Germany, died recently from blood-poisoning contracted during a surgical operation.

IN a discussion in the House of Commons shortly before the close of the session it was stated that two of the corbels of the New Law Courts were grotesque representations of the architect and contractor, and it has now come to light that in the recent restoration of Chester Cathedral two political corbels had been introduced. They were elaborately carved, and are excellent and unmistabable caricatures of the late and present Prime Ministers.

A MAN darted into a store at Nicholsville, Ohio, bought the first travelling bag he could get his hands on, and hurried forward toward the railroad station. On the way he caught up several bricks from a pile, and put them into the bag. His object was understood when a passenger discovered that his own satchel, containing $3,000, had been taken from the seat by his side, and the one with bricks put in its place.

THE well-known tea clipper Cutty Sark, of London, has put into Singapore, from London to China and Japan, in charge of the second officer, who reports that when the vessel was lying at Anjer the chief officer struck one of the crew, who shortly afterward died from the effects of the blow. The Captain is said to have assisted the officer to escape on board an American ship, and then to have deliberately jumped overboard and drowned himself.

To play for high stakes at "keerds," when one does not understand the game, is sometimes a perilous manœuvre. When the late Baron Bodisco was Russian Minister at Washington he gave very fine dinners. After dinner, on one occasion, some of the guests sat down to a game of whist, at which the Baron was not an expert, and he lost over a thousand dollars. At the supper table he announced, in sad tones, "Ladies and gentlemens! — It is my disagreeable duty to make the announce that these receptions must have an end, and to declare them at end for the present—because why? The fund for their expend, ladies and gentlemen, is exhaust, and they must discontinue."

FOR the first time in the record of the settlement of a large estate, the expressed wishes of a rich man have been literally followed by his heirs rather than their legal rights as expressed in his will. Mr. Joshua T. Jeanes, who died in January last in Philadelphia, left an estate of about $1,000,000, bequeathing to his two brothers and two sisters $100,000 each, and to his sisters additionally all his real estate in Philadelphia. It was the intention of the testator to make certain bequests to public institutions and a few friends, but this he neglected to do; but the brothers and sisters decided not only to have the wish of the testator carried out, but consented to an equal division of the estate between them after the gifts to institutions and individuals and the expenses incident to the transfer of the property had been deducted. Of the total amount five gifts of $2000 each were paid to individuals, and the following donations were made: Working Home for Blind Women, $5000; Working Home for Blind Men, $5000; Women's Hospital, $20,000; Academy of Natural Sciences, $20,000; Penn Asylum, $5000. The very large sum of $46,444,40 to Register-of-Wills Taylor as a collateral inheritance tax. The balance of $874,214 81 was divided into four equal shares of $218,524 each, for each of the surviving brothers and sisters. This estate of nearly $1,1000,000 was settled up within eight months of the time it was taken into court.

Attitude of the Clergy in Ireland.

Too much praise cannot be given to the Roman Catholic Clergy in unhappy Ireland for the bold stand they (or the majority of them) have taken against the suicidal action of the Land Leaguers. Archbishop McCabe in a recent pastoral strongly condemned the use of violence in obtaining redress of the grievances under which, beyond question, the people are labouring, and quoted the great O'Connell in support of his position. The great agitator—of whom (as was wittily said by Labouchere) Parnell is but a papier mache imitation—lost no opportunity of counselling the use of legal means to obtain what the people of Ireland craved, and he denounced in the most unsparing manner the use of the very means that Parnell is advocating with all his might. There is the truest wisdom in the policy adopted by the R. C. Clergy in this matter, for in a country where the hatred of the creeds runs so high, the most terrible results would inevitably follow if the movement became identified with Roman Catholicism. It would certainly result in a general uprising, both of Protestants and Catholics, and a repetition of the wholesale massacres that have already stained Ireland's history. In strong contrast to this policy on the part of Archbishop McCabe was the imprudence of Archbishop McClosky, of New York, who identified himself, to a certain extent, at least, with the Irish agitators who visited America, and was said thus to have incurred the anger of the supreme Pontiff. It remains to be seen how the prosecutions of the Parnell party will eventuate, but there is every indication on the part of the government of adopting the most vigorous repressive measures, and, when they are driven to that course, there can be but one issue—the quenching in the blood of poor misguided peasants of the flame that Parnell has so rashly kindled.

THE New York correspondent of the Rochester Democrat, who was formerly, we believe, a clergman, and who is thoroughly posted on personal matters relating to the clergy, gives in a recent letter the ages of several ministers who are prominent in New York and Brooklyn. "ELBERT S. PARKER, of the Reformed Church is sixty; Dr. ORMISTON is fifty-nine; Dr. CHAMBERS, sixty-one, Dr. ARMITAGE is sixty-one. He is a native of England, and was at an early age very useful in the Church. He made attempts at preaching when only sixteen, and some of these efforts were highly successful. THEODORE L. CUYLER fifty-eight. HOWARD CROSBY is fifty-four. JOHN HALL is in his fiftieth year. SAMUEL D. BURCHARD is still a working preacher, though now sixty-eight. HOUGHTON, of the 'little church round the corner,' is in his sixty-first year. MORGAN, of St. Thomas's, is sixty-two. BELLOWS, the veteran of Unitarianism, is sixty-six, while ROBERT COLLYER is fifty-eight. TAYLOR of the Broadway Tabernacle, and ROBINSON, of the Memorial Church, each is in his fifty-first year. RYLANCE, of St. Mark's, is fifty-four. TALMAGE is forty-eight, and VAN DYKE, who was his most severe opponent, is ten years older. BEECHER has just entered his sixty-eighth year, and has a greater degree of vitality than any American preacher of that age."

That the Sultan has most effectually outmanœuvred the Powers. The "sick man" has played a deep game, and by skilfully manipulating the representatives of the various counties, and, working on their mutual jealousies, has fairly bluffed them.

THE marriage of the Marquis of Lorne's brother, Lord Colin Camqbell, with Miss Blood has been definitely arranged. The bride is a beautiful Irish girl, and belongs to a distinguished family.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 72,

Uxbridge, Ont.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

Hair.

A lock of her black and glossy hair
 She gave me with earnest art,
The pretty coquette who long may share
 The larger half of my heart.

I sometimes think I will make a cord
 Of that cherished raven tress
To hang me; but I'll wait till my hoard
 Of hair increases, I guess.

And weave an emblem of vagrant love,
 A various-coloured braid,
Suggesting sweet reflections of
 The hair-breadth 'scapes I have made!

Before the Church.

Before the lofty church I stand;
 The organ's melancholy strain,
The moonlight, and the chanting tones
 Weave strange thoughts in my doubting brain.

Why do I linger near the door?
 Will holy tunes my spirit win?
Ah, no, small reverence is mine;
 I wait because my love's within.

The NOBBIE, In the McFAR

Fashion Notes.

GOLD soutache is revived.

FANCY furs are in demand.

SCOTCH fashions are revived.

BONNET strings are a yard long.

STRIPED cheviots are very popular.

SEALSKIN remains the fashionable fur.

LIGHT cloths and serges are much worn.

PILGRIM suits appear among late importations.

MOUSQUETAIRE gloves grow in fashionable favour.

BEADED stockinet for Jerseys is a late importation.

SPECKLED woollen stuffs are among novelty dress goods.

BLUE-BLACK and drab-green Scotch plaids are again in vogue.

AFTER all, the Fanchon remains the favourite evening bonnet.

BABY elephant jewellery is taking the place of little pig ornaments.

VIOLET satin merveilleuse plays an important part in dress effects.

SEAL cloaks and seal dolmans will be worn as well as seal sacques.

SOME of the polonaises for young girls are buttoned down the back.

COMBINATIONS of plush and satin are as popular for bonnets as for costumes.

SEAL ulsters à la Sarah Bernhardt are made to the order of a few fashionable women.

BONNET strings are fringed, beaded, tasselled, or shirred and lace-trimmed at the ends.

QUANTITIES of bead and gold-thread embroidered laces appear among the late importations.

JERSEY suits do not take readily, but they are brought out from week to week on new forms.

THE entire long tablier of dresses are frequently formed of bead-embroidered velvet cut work.

WHITE materials of every description, including white plush, will be used for entire costumes.

PRINCE OF WALES red and monks brown are the newest shades of these very fashionable colours.

MANY dressy hats for young girls are trimmed only with a cord and tassels and a fluffy silk pompon.

THE latest caprice is to have one's bedroom upholstery to match one's dresses, and china to match the bedroom.

MUFFS match the bonnet, and are trimmed with ecru lace, wide ribbon bows, and ornaments of gold, silver, steel, and jet.

THE Macfarlane cloak has a full pleated back, a large round cape, a hood lined with plaid Surah, and a collar of brown plush.

WOOL and silk mixed goods in silk squares and streaks of an undefinable gas-like hue on a soft wool sober colour are much worn.

MATRONS wear their yard-long, soft, wide bonnet strings tied under the chin; young ladies wear them in a long looped bow low on the back hair.

LIGHT-COLOURED, rough-surfaced cloths are preferred for jackets, but warmth of effect is given by having the collars, cuffs, and pockets of fur or seal-brown plush.

SEA lion and dahlia shades of purple and maroon tinged with crimson appear in the latest importations of satins de Lyons, damasses, and silk and wool mixtures.

SOME of Worth's handsomest costumes are trimmed with two bands of fur around the skirt, with only a narrow pleated balayeuse flounces below the bottom band of fur.

DRESSY aprons of satin and moire antique, trimmed with one pocket of lace or fringed passementerie and a trimming to match at the bottom, will be worn with dressy home toilets.

SHARP contrasts are avoided in the different materials used in composing a handsome costume, but the shaded effects are produced by the difference in sheen of velvet or plush and satin or silk.

Waifs.

THE young woman who witnessed her young man carried away by a balloon saw her beau of promise in the sky.

TOTTLE: "I wonder why dolls are nearly always girls, Tom?" Tom: "Why, because boys hate being made babies of!"

SOMEBODY notes that love is more interesting than marriage, for the same reason that romance is more enticing than history.

A YOUNG lady is gaining great reputation as a violinist. Still she is not the only fair one who has mastered the art of handling a beau.

"SHE never told her love"—because her young man, anticipating something of the kind, hasn't called to see her since leap year opened.

THE small boy said to the little girl: "Do you wish to be my little wife?" The little girl, after reflecting: "Yes." The small boy: "Then take off my boots."

THE ladies wear their hats very large this year and their bonnets very small. As usual, they wear their bonnets on the street and their hats at the theatre.

STRIPED stockings are no longer fashionable, and hereafter the back-yards of our first families on wash days will not resemble a collection of the flags of all nations.

She may dress in silk, or may dress in satin,
May know the languages, Greek and Latin,
May know fine art, may love and sigh—
But she ain't no good if she can't make pie.

WHENEVER a single woman begins to talk of the past, and says certain events occurred so far back that she does not remember them, you may say she has arrived at the age known as old maidenhood.

A HAPPY COUPLE.—"How it it that Wilkins and his wife live so happily together? Why they've been married two-and-twenty years and have never had a row!" "Oh, that's a very simple matter! She is out the whole day washing, and he is a night-watchman, and out all night!"

THE outfit for the baby of the Marchioness di Caraglio, formerly Miss Helen Gillender, is on exhibition in New York. Some of the cradle sheets are entirely made of Valenciennes and embroidery, and so are the christening robes; one of the cloaks is half covered with embroidery of pearls. The cost of the whole layette is five thousand eight hundred dollars.

A YOUNG woman, rather prepossessing in appearance, but possessed of a considerable growth of beard, is once a week a visitor to a barber shop at Clinton, Ga. She takes her seat in a chair, just like a man, and quietly submits her face to the lather brush and razor. Showmen have tried to induce her to travel as a bearded woman, but she scornfully rejects their offers.

A HEARTLESS FRAUD.—A merchant of Berne has been sentenced to imprisonment for three years and a half for a very heartless fraud, perpetrated on a young lady to whom he was engaged to be married. He took her to London to marry her, and whilst there he possessed himself of her fortune of 15,000 francs, and all the jewellery she had, and left her at a hotel without a penny. The jury found him guilty, without any extenuating circumstances.

"IMPORTANT, if true," and especially pleasant to the parties interested, was an incident that occurred at the marriage of Mr. William Converse Skinner and Miss Florence C. Roberts, at Hartford, recently. The father of the bride is a manufacturer of large wealth, and the groom was lately made a partner in the firm. The incident to which we refer was a wedding present from Mr. Roberts to the young couple of a check for $100,000. At least that was the telegraphic announcement, and the wires are usually accurate.

THE LAST WHALE DID FOR ANN JONES.—"I must tell you," said a skipper, as he took a fresh cigar, "about Stiles, a shipmate of mine on one of my early voyages. Stiles was a simple-hearted, transparent young fellow, and when we sailed had been 'payin'' attention to a young lady, who, he had reason to think, did not fully reciprocate his ardent feelings. At all events, the parting on her side was not so affectionate as he could wish, and he was impressed with the belief that she only kept him as a stand-by in default of a better offer. 'I don't believe,' Stiles would say, with a despondent shake of his head—'I don't believe Ann Jones 'll have me anyhow.' When we had been out a few months, and had met with fair success, Stiles' tone was modified. The burden of his monologue changed to 'Well, I don'no but what Ann Jones 'll have me after all.' With a thousand barrels under hatches he became still more hopeful. 'Chance is pretty good for Ann Jones,' he would say, 'Pretty good now.' At fifteen hundred barrels he had assumed a self-satisfied manner, and thus he soliloquised—'I guess there's no danger but what Ann Jones 'll have me now.' At two thousand barrels—'Ann Jones 'll be glad enough to get me now, I know.' When we cut the last whale that was to fill the Rose, and squared away for home, Stiles threw his hat in the air with a yell of triumph—'I'll be blowed if I'll have Ann Jones anyhow!' And he didn't."

A Wedding Garment.

A very magnificent trousseau is making in Paris for the daughter of a wealthy Turkish gentleman. One dress which the bride will wear at a levee following her wedding is of the most delicate shade of heliotrope. It is made with an extremely long court train, cut square, and decorated with a superb pattern in heavily brocaded velvet of a royal purple shade, cut out and appliqued down so as to show the satin underneath, and bordered with point lace an inch and a half deep. The front of the skirt is formed of a plastron or tablier of point lace in one piece, which, over the satin underdress, displays the most exquisite patterns of orange-blossoms, roses, lilies, ferns, and trailing vines. The bodice is cut Louis XIV. style, and is trimmed over the hips, around the neck, and on the sleeves with an applique bordering of the brocaded velvet, edged with point lace. A magnificent lace veil matching the tablier in pattern is added, and is of unusual length, reaching from the crown of the head to the foot of the immense train. To be worn with this royal costume is a superb parure of diamonds and pearls—a gift from the father of the groom.

The Darling Baby.

The Marquis Robert de San Marzano, who married an American, Miss Helen Gillender, has ordered in this country some things for their baby. A willow cradle has a canopy decorated with draperies, medallions, points of Valenciennes lace, and blue satin ribbon. There are sheets with tucked borders and bands of French embroidery, and others of lawn, with lace enough on them to make hat cost $500 for four. An eider-down quilt and some exquisitely fine blankets are included in the outfit. There are three dozen dresses in the wardrobe, many of them of lawn, mull, and fine laces. "Young mothers," says a correspondent of the Philadelphia Times, "can easily imagine the dainty beauty of the tiny silken socks, the exquisitely embroidered lawn skirts garnitured with the finest of fine laces, the richness of the flannel skirts with embroidery, and the handsome tucked, trimmed, and lace-finished petticoats, but it is difficult to conceive of anything so lovely as the robes of real laces arranged in diamonds, medallions, squares, and all manner of conceits, with applique of embroidery in roses and other flowers, each figure in the Valenciennes lace being punched or upraised until it looks like a round point."

Fixing Her Hair.

When a girl concludes to put up her hair and make herself look sweet, the best policy is to let her have her own way. She can't be drawn away from her mirror by any of the ordinary things of this life. A fire will sometimes do it, but it has been shown that even a fire may fail to excite some girls. The other night a New York lodging-house took fire, and at a most uncomfortable hour, when most girls probably have their back hair down. One of the young ladies heard that the place was burning down, but she didn't feel like making her appearance before the crowd that had gathered in the street looking like a perfect fright. She shut the door leading into the hall to keep out the flames and went to her mirror to fix her hair. Anybody who has waited for a girl to fix her hair knows that it takes time and a great deal of it. This girl wasn't any quicker than the average, and she was very particular about having her hair done up exactly as it should be. The fire had cut off her chances of escape by the stairs, and her lover, after appealing to her for some time, finally lost his patience and got away without her. A fireman got up to the room on a ladder and he made him sit on the edge of the window and wait until she had arranged her hairpins and ribbons for a right sort of public appearance, then she threw herself into his arms—it was so romantic—and slid down the ladder with him, looking just sweet. The whole thing was a tremendous success, but when the careful young girl was safely landed on the pavement she found that she had forgotten her stockings.

Carolina's Sweet Sixteen.

A curious petition was that addressed in 1733 to the governor of South Carolina by sixteen maidens of Charleston. It ran thus: "The humble petition of all the maids whose names are underwritten. Whereas, we, the humble petitioners, are at present in a very melancholy disposition of mind, considering how all the bachelors are blindly captivated by widows, and our own youthful charms thereby neglected; in consequence of this, our request is that your excellency will, for the future, order that no widows presume to marry any young man till the maids are provided for; or else to pay each of them a fine for satisfaction for invading our liberties, and likewise a fine to be levied on all such bachelors as shall be married to widows. The great disadvantage it is to us maids is that the widows, by their forward carriage, do snap up the young men, and have the vanity to think their merit beyond ours, which is a great imposition on us, who ought to have the preference. This is humbly recommended to your excellency's consideration, and hope you will permit no further insults. And we poor maids, in duty bound, will ever pray." The forlorn sixteen would have approved the edict of the Portuguese king, which forbade widows more than fifty years old from remarrying, on the ground that experience taught that widows of that age commonly wedded young men of no property, who dissipated the fortunes such marriages brought them, to the prejudice of children and other relatives.

How She Won.

But here comes one of my favourites, writes the Boston correspondent of the San Francisco Bulletin. Isn't she fine looking? No? Well, listen while I tell you her story, and learn why I like her looks. Some years ago, a man who had more money than good reputation, advertised that he would give $5,000 to any respectable white woman who would walk unveiled from the Adams house entrance down Washington street with him, at an hour when all the fashionables were promenading. For weeks that offer remained untaken, for his reputation was such that no respectable woman would be seen with him, and the advertisement had said "that none others need apply." Finally, this woman who has just passed us agreed to his terms, and to join him at the appointed place and time. When the hour came, Mr. —— was on hand. Soon a carriage drove up with the lady. It had been noised abroad that the offer had been taken up, and quite a crowd had gathered to see him pay his $5,000. He helped her alight, offered her his arm, walked a few steps with her, when she removed her veil at his request and revealed to his gaze a face as black as night. "You have deceived me," he said, "this is not fair." "I am not a negro," she replied, and to prove it she pulled off her gloves and showed a pair of hands as white as yours are this minute. The man turned toward his carriage, paid her the $5,000, and she drove off, leaving him to the laughter and hoots of the amused crowd of by-standers. It turned out afterward that she was very poor, and that she had a magnificent voice that she could not cultivate for want of money, and this is the way she overcame that obstacle. She went to Europe and studied five years and returned one of our most brilliant singers. You can tell from her proud bearing and refined appearance that she is just the sort of a woman who would do such a thing with a dignity, and come out none the worse for it either.

The Blondes Must Go.

The blondes must go, says an exchange, because we are weary of them; because they have been weighed in the balance and found to be anything but fine, true gold; because it is high time the brunettes were coming to the front, and, finally, because fashion wills it. And so the blonde must go. She is no longer to gild the stage and the parlor; and the sudden flood of brightness that used to be so rare that when, once in an age, a woman was born with it, painters painted her, troubadours celebrated her, and locks of her hair were handed down like a treasure—that brightness is going into eclipse; and where bleaching baths and alkaline water and annota and orpiments and bichlorides of tin and and gold powders have reigned, litharge and nitrate of silver and Aleppo galls and iron and bismuth are seizing the sceptre. No more will the lithe ladies of the spectacular and the burlesque display the new golden fleece as they dance down the boards and shake at us the wealth of their

 Fine locks,
Stained like pale honey oozed from topmost rocks,
Sun-blanched the live-long summer.

No more will ever damsel who patrols the avenues out-Saxon the Saxon in her braids and curls. No more will the little love locks flutter gold-threaded round the temples, but dark and heavy braids and waves must supersede them. No more will the delicate faded colors be seen among us, pale as the early sunrise tints; but deep, rich bodies of colors, of crimson and orange, and emerald, and lapis blue, the only wear of your brunettes, will efface their airy softness.

And do they really suppose—the people who utter the pronunciamento—that the blonde is going to cease at their dictum? The blonde who went—a nondescript, or with black hair, and sat patiently as the camel's hair brush passed over each hair till the black hair became brown, and the brown red, and the red gold, and the gold flaxen—that the silly blonde may go, and all her glory with her. But the blonde of art and literature, and history, the blonde of beauty—could all the Eugenies and Metterniches that ever ruled the court, could all the Cora Pearls that ever ruled the demi monde—banish that blonde when nature had given her the right to be? Did Titian paint his woman with that hair to have some modiste announce the day of his destiny over, and the blonde a good-for-naught? And have all the poets that ever handled pen launched out in praise of the hair that Titian painted to have their script become a dead letter? Shall Maud, and Enid, and Elaine, and Guinevere depart into the world of shadows with Gurdrum, with the Lorelei, with Porphyria, with David when he went harp in hand before Saul,

 God's child, with the dew
 On His gracious gold hair?

Rottenness in Republicanism.

We do not mean Republicanism as it is understood on the other side during an election—as contradistinct from Democracy—but the general principle on which the Government of the United States is moulded. This principle is admitted on all hands to be theoretically perfect, but that is a very different matter from being, practically, an efficient and satisfactory form of Government. This has been more than once sufficiently proved in the history of the greatest Republicin the world, and at no time more markedly, than at the time of the Presidential elections. It is an admitted fact, that when there are great movements taking place among great nations,—just as in large bodies of water,—much of the scum must of necessity come to the surface, but it must be a very dirty pond indeed, where so much that is offensive and corrupt is brought up by agitation as has been, time and again, in the history of American Presidential contests. The normal mode of procedure seems to be something like the following: When the candidates come forward, and even sometimes, when their candidature is a mere matter of conjecture, the opposite party immediately begins to throw all kinds of moral mud at them, and, to his astonishment, a candidate for the highest office in the State is declared to be a liar, a thief, a blasphemer, an infidel, and a man morally unfit to hold even the menial position of the prodigal son in the far country.

As soon as they have exhausted all the supply of objectionable epithets at their command, in the hope that some at least of the mud will stick; they have a little leisure left to deify and praise their own candidate. The most highfalutin terms of praise are plentifully showered upon him, until he is, perhaps, more astonished at the number of good qualities discovered in him by his admirers, than his opponent was at the amount of vileness the same men discovered in him. All this programme is carried out in the press, on the stump and on the electional platform, until it finally lulls for a little while the votes are being counted and the returns made. When the result is known, there are shouts of gratulation heard on every side, mingled of course, with howls of indignant disappointment; and, finally, the latter merge into shouts of "corruption" "bribery," "cheating," impersonation," "falsifying of returns" &c. &c. The recent election is a typical one in this respect,—as the last one was—in the matter of chicane at least—and the outcry is that Garfield has been elected by a system of bare-faced fraud. The scene from an outsider's point of view is, far from an edifying one, and the more one regards it, the more thankful one feels, that he does not live beneath the shadow of the Stars and Stripes.

The Bernhardt is making quite as great a furore in Gotham as she did in London, but her besmirched moral reputation does not seem to be so much a fault as a merit in her. This says either a great deal for the charity of the world, or very little for its ideas of morality. Genius, which she undeniably has, should not surely be considered a sufficient cloak to cover, still less to sanctify, vice.

At the Mercy of the Waves.

MEN LEFT IN MID-OCEAN CLINGING TO A SINKING SHIP'S MASTS—THE FRUITLESS ATTEMPTS OF THE CALIFORNIA'S MEN TO RESCUE THEM—DISAPPEARING IN THE NIGHT—A POSSIBILITY THAT THEY HAVE BEEN SAVED.

The three hundred sixty-five cabin and steerage passengers which arrived in New York yesterday on the Anchor line steamship California saw a thrilling spectacle in mid-ocean. When four days out from London a bark was seen in an apparently sinking condition. The sea was boisterous, and the crew, clinging to her shrouds, waved their hands in appeal for help.

Capt. Donaldson of the California brought his ship up into the wind.

"Hardie," he said, calling to the first officer, "lower the big cutter and try and get to her."

Hardie, a veteran mariner, lost no time in clearing away his boat, which, manned by a hardy crew, was soon in the huge seas that had been generated by a fierce northeaster.

Officer Hardie says that, with great exertion, he succeeded in getting to leeward of the bark, which was tossing about helplessly in the trough of the sea. After many attempts his crew got the end of the line which had been made fast to a broken spar and thrown overboard by the bark's crew. His boat was pitched up and down on the seas as though it had been in the surf, and before he could approach nearer the line parted. Many of the crew in the rigging seemed to have their dunnage strapped in the rigging, and they did not respond to his appeals to them to jump overboard. By their signalling he learned that the bark was the Macedonia, from Pensacola, Fla., for Berwick, England. She had ten feet of water in her hold, and was leaking badly. The day was waning, and a thick haze was setting in. So much difficulty had Hardie and his crew experienced in reaching the sinking bark, and such a tax upon the strength of his crew had it proved to keep their boat head to the sea, that he finally decided it would be fatal to all hands to remain longer away from the steamship, which was fast becoming indistinct. Before returning, however, he made a final effort to get the men in the shrouds to jump overboard. This they seemed loth to do. Their ship was lunging about in the seaway, the waves making a clear breach over her. It would have been fatal, he says, to have approached her. Had he touched her rearing sides his boat would have been crushed. This was the reason, he says, that he was finally compelled to sheer off and make for the steamship. His men were so exhausted when they reached their ship that they had to be lifted aboard by a fall and tackle.

Capt. Donaldson decided to stay as close as possible to the sinking ship and make another attempt at rescue in the morning. When darkness set in a white signal light was seen on the bark, and a red light was shown aboard the steamship in response. The gale continued all night, and in the morning the sinking bark was not in sight. After describing a great circle with lookouts in the tops, without seeing anything of the bark, the California proceeded on her way hither.

The officers of the California are of the opinion that the bark was settling very slowly into the sea. They say she was, when last seen, directly in the track of passing vessels, and they think the crew may have been rescued. The bark was last seen in latitude 48° 47′ north, longitude 21° 57′ west.

The bark Macedonia was commanded by Capt. Parker. She was built at Bath, Me., in 1845. She was 125 feet in length, 27 feet beam, 19 feet depth of hold, and of 476 tons register; Her owner is M. Thompson, of Newcastle, England.

Fiendish Fury.

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY OF A VIRGINIA WOMAN BY HER BROTHER-IN-LAW—THE WRETCH'S ATTEMPT TO TAKE HIS OWN LIFE ABLY SECONDED BY HIS WIFE.

At Richmond, Va., intelligence has been received here of one of the most desperate and bloody crimes known in the history of murders, and one which shows how strongly hatred animates a human being even in the hour of death. The tragedy took place yesterday, near the village of Green Springs, in London county. It seems that Merrill Nott yesterday morning early had a quarrel with his wife's sister, who lived in the house with him. Thoroughly infuriated, he went out and got a large knife used for cutting corn, and, coming back, assaulted her with the murderous weapon. He pursued the unfortunate woman into the yard and stabbed and hacked her until he thought she was dead. After this he went into the house, and, taking his gun, discharged it into the air. He then reloaded the weapon, and, proceeding to within a few feet of where his victim lay weltering in blood, placed the muzzle of the gun under his own chin and fired, the load passing through his mouth, tearing of the tongue and lodging in the upper part of the jaw. He fell in his own gore, and while struggling on the ground gasping for breath he noticed signs of returnturning life in his dying sister-in-law. Summoning the full strength of every muscle and concentrating the whole of his vital forces in one almost superhuman effort, and even then struggling in the throes of dissolution, he crawled about on the ground until he reached a large stone, which he caught in his clammy hands, and then, wriggling his distorted body over the ground with almost worm-like motion, he dragged it to the side of the dying woman, and, lifting himself, he raised the stone as high as he could and let it fall on the woman's face. It crushed in the skull and nose of the woman, but she still struggled. The dying scoundrel, with a determination which did not leave him in his last moments, reached out again for the rock, with the design of dealing another blow. At this stage of the tragedy his wife appeared in the yard, and, seeing him reaching for the stone, seized another, and, standing over his body, dealt him a death blow, but too late to save her sister, who died in a few minutes after her murderer. It is not known what caused the quarrel between Nott and his sister-in-law, but it is understood that he and his wife had also been quarreling, and that his sister-in-law simply took his wife's part.

PERSONAL.

MR. WILLIAM B. ASTOR lately paid one hundred and ninety thousand dollars for the beautiful Parish estate in Newport.

MRS. ABRAHAM LINCOLN, who has just returned to this country, is in poor health. She intends to spend the rest of her days with her son Robert.

WHILE Mr. Vanderbilt was in Amsterdam recently he purchased, one afternoon, thirteen thousand dollars' worth of blue ware for his new residence in New York.

ROBERT BROWNING and his sister have spent the summer in foot rambles among the mountains of France, near Grenoble, and have been much improved in health thereby.

DR. GRAHAM, of Louisville, in his 97th year, has gone on his regular annual hunt in the mountains. He says that every autumn since 1830 he has eaten venison of his own killing and cooking.

MR. WENDELL PHILLIPS has been all his life a very devoted husband to his wife, who is nervous invalid, and whose health is so precarious that he is often forced on account of it to cancel his engagements to lecture.

M. JULES JACQUEMART, the famous French antiquarian, whose books on ancient furnitures, tapestries, and porcelains are so valuable, had among his various collections one of boots and shoes, beginning at early Greek and Roman times, and numbering between three and four hundred pieces.

WHEN Hans Christian Andersen, one of whose dearest hopes in going to Sweden had been to meet Fredrika Bremer, was presented to her on the deck of a steamer, she had never heard of him, and was quite stiff. He produced one of his books, however, as she left him; and after an hour or so she hurried back. "I know you now," said she; and thus began a lifelong friendship.

THE story of the British frigate Hussar may be familiar to many of our readers. On November 25, 1780, while on her way to Norwich, Connecticut, the Hussar struck on Pot Rock, in Hell Gate. She had on board seventy American prisoners, chained to the gun-deck, and, it was believed, about £960,000 sterling, which was to be used in subjugating the Americans. In spite of the efforts of the commander to save the vessel, she went down in ninety feet of water, carrying with her all the manacled prisoners. The officers and crew escaped. Many divers have worked upon the wreck, and in June of this year operations have begun anew in the hope that some of the lost treasure might be recovered. Whether anything has been found is not yet known, for the workmen are bound to secrecy, but it is expected that the search will continue until ice in the river prevents.

THE STANDA[illegible]D.

Friday, Nov. 26th, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

WE have decided to print a supplement in connection with the STANDARD a week before the Holidays, as there is an extra amount of advertising done at that season of the year, and we do not want to decrease the reading matter, we will give those who wish extra space, liberal terms, by means of a half sheet supplement, parties wishing to take advantage of the arrangement will please let us know in good time.

ALTHOUGH the Reeve of Artemesia informed us some three or four weeks ago that he had no intention of "fighting an Editor in his own paper," it will be seen that he still keeps pegging away at us. We thought at the time, well knowing the Reeve was suffering from a disease known by the name of cacoethis scribendi; that he was only too happy of getting the opportunity to show his admirers how easily he could vanquish an Editor, even in "his own paper." and the result as proved that we were no false prophet.

We entered into this discussion in a friendly spirit; we have given the Reeve every opportunity to air his views, and have taken as much pains with his communications as we have done with our own articles, and all the thanks we have received is abuse, base insinuations as to our motives for advocating the granting a bonus, and told we have not sufficient brains to write our own editorials, but have to employ an Editor especially to write down the invincible Reeve of Artemesia. If he were a gentleman, he would have taken our word when we assured him we wrote our own articles and have let the matter drop, and confined himself to the subsect in discussion, but that is not the Reeve's style. The truth of the matter is, he has no arguments to offer, but falls back on his usual stock in trade—attributing dishonest and interested motives to any and all who are unable to see through the same pair of spectacles that he does, and holding Dr. Christoe up to view as the only intelligent and upright man in the Township.

The Reeve accuses us of glaring mistatements in regard Messrs. Howland & Co.'s letter, and here again comes in the old plea—interested motives. We presume the Messrs. H. know their own business better than the Reeve of Artemesia, and their reputation, as business men, stands too high to permit them to endanger it by stooping to such contemptible tricks as the doctor insinuates.

He states that only about 100 of the names attached to the petition were entitled to be there. No one knows better than the Reeve that this is a downright falsification of the records. We say emphatically, with the exception of about a dozen, they are all property owners and fully entitled to vote. We ask, what can be said of a man who, for the sake of making a point, will made such a statement, knowing it to be untrue? The fact of the matter is, the Reeve is moved by a bitter hatred towards Markdale and the Railroad Company, and every line that he has written since this discussion commenced shows this plainly, and it is evident he will leave no stone unturned to thwart them by every means in his power, even if he has to sacrifice the best intests of the Township. With an opponent of this kind there is neither honor or profit in discussing any subject, and we must decline carrying it on any further.

The Reeve tries to be exceedingly funny towards the latter part of his letter. We wonder the mighty effort did not unhing his brain. We would kindly recommed the Doctor to keep his paregoric, as we think he will need all he has. That coon hunt seems to have affected his stomach, and he appears to be suffering from windy colic, and we have been told that paregoric is good for such troubles.

The Reeve asks, "how many avail the opportunity of through freight?" Few, we admit. But why is it so? Simply because they have to break bulk at Toronto. When we take into consideration the cost of transhiping, loss of time, and loss in weight caused by again handling the grain, is it not a wonder we have any, or that our heaviest buyers fight shy of the Narrow Gauge and go where they can by to better advantage. Should the road be widened to the standard gauge through freight men will come among us, there will be greater competition, and higher prices will naturally prevail.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

A FARMER'S OPINION.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—As a farmer and an old resident of this Township, I have tried to mind my own business, while at the same time taking a deep interest in the Townships's welfare. Knowing from bitter experience the disadvantages, slavery, wear and tear, we labored under in taking our produce long distances to market previous to the building of the railroad, I was not only pleased but delighted when it was first introduced. Let it be remembered that at that time there was no standard gauge, there was a broad gauge, but that proved too broad.—The citizens of Toronto, with their money and influence, introduced the narrow guage through this part of the country. Well, sir, the Company were very accommodating; the road has answered a good purpose, and we have been well repaid for the assistance we have rendered it. From my own experience, and the experience of others, we now realize two dollars where formerly, before the road was built, we only realized one dollar.—Now the farmers of Artemesia can find a very good market and dispose of their lambs, sheep, cattle, butter, and other products of the farm at good prices, in cash, along the line of railroad, viz: at Markdale, Flesherton and Dundalk, and then return to the improvement of their farms, hence, one man can now do more work with his team, and proper tools to work with, than two men with their teams could accomplish in the days when we were without a railroad. I have heard from the mouths of Township officials that the road has brought no increased prosperity to Artemesia. Well, sir, as a farmer, I would ask where all the luxuries, style, fine waggons, buggies, brick houses, and other large buildings and improvements came from. I am willing to give half of the credit to the peoples industry; but the other half must undoubtedly be attributed to the advantages arrising from the railroad. Fearing I am trespassing too much on your space, I will conclude, but may again refer to the subject at a future time.

I remain yours.

A. FARMER.

Artemesia, Nov. 22, 1880.

T. G. & B. R. R.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—I notice that I fail to convince you, notwithstanding, so logical a deduction—you say "I stick to it that you advised the petitioners to remember the council for evil." Most certainly I do. I did not think it necessary to anylise every point, but like your sentene. "The 150 influential ratepayers who signed the petition will certainly soon not forget the insult." This was penned angrily and in common parlance, means, retaliation, opportunity to revenge the insult. Now, "not soon to forget" is to remember, but not for good you see; hence thee logical conclusion was to "remember for evil." But I am not surprised that you fail to be convinced—your heart was better than your head. In my remarks I was not trying to convince your—the ratepayers are convinced. You say, I am "barking up the wrong tree." Well perhaps! But I have not lived in Canada forty years, without knowing when a coon is treed. You say, our patronage amounts only to eight dollars—pray how long have you been born? Surely before a comment of that description, you could have afforded to wait until the printing season came around. The council's maxim has been to support home industry, but you sir, can scarcely expect it at our hands, if at every turn of the crank, you use your columns to, unfairly criticise our actions. You say Artemesia and Holland are "not parallell cases." Perhaps not. We could have obtained a petition of 400, including nearly half of the celebrated 150 if deemed necessary, to support us in our action. But we rested on the word of the Solicitor, that our by-law was not to be submitted until the scheme were tested elsewhere. I know of no petition in circulation—it seems there was notwithstanding. You say, that a "corporals guard could not be found in Glenelg to oppose a bonus." This is most glaring mis-statement—in the face of the necessity to divide the Township to carry a bonus at all. You publish, a letter purporting to have been written by Howland & Co., and made calculations thereon; most flattering to somebody if true. A thoughtful person. will ask why does it appear just now? And for what intent? Is it not a ruse? A fiction? Now sir, the last campaign is not so distant but people will remember, that two cents per bushel was the outside of difference claimed. Those who had to tranship—our own merchants should be the best authority on such a question. It was stated, that this company had no accommodation in Toronto. But by a notice in the Mail a few weeks since the Co. have made arrangements, second to none in Toronto. So that it stands on a par, with other roads and therefore four cents on the bushel, is simply not so. This was a business letter be it remembered, and carries the principal of the good book. It is naught! It is naught! Says the buyer. Supposing it to be true. Two things remain to be answered. How many avail the opportunity of through freight? And who would pocket the profits? This letter bears its own reputation. Those gentleman named are honerable men, but circumstances alter cases in election times. Once more, those petitions of 150 names analysed are nearly as may be, like the following—after making necessary deductions, there remain about 100 names—70 of which are residents of Markdale Ward—only 3 in Eugenia Ward! And the balance are distributed among the other two These facts speak for them selves—the people are strongly opposed to a bonus—and it is no use to get angry about it—and equally useless for the company to waste their money in testing. Until other prints are raised I have now done. And now sir, if sorrow, has got hold of you, over my waywardness on this question; and the fountain of tears are broken up—I would be oblivous to my usual sympathetic nature, if I did not try to mellify the stricken—therefore friend Editor—don't despair—there's lots of Paregoric in Flesherton. Finally I call your attention to errors in my article of last week, for instance you ma le me say that the ex-deputy "did object"—I intended to say "he did not object" unit. I suppose errors in orthography, must pass, to correspondents of my color—of course an occasional error is always admissible.

Yours,

DR. CHRISTOE.

To the Editor of the STANDARD,

SIR,—I may as well confess at once that, so far as personal abuse is concerned I cannot hold a candle to Dr. Christoe. Instead of pricking at me, why did'nt he prick at the reasons advanced. My first article contained no personal attack beyond what the legitimate discussion of the question warranted. Let your readers place my letter and his P. S. side by side, and I have no fear of the verdict. In his last weeks letter the Doctor tells us a beautiful little fable, but then, on his own showing, it is only a fable. That the Doctor is an authority on fables, is undoubted. His own letters prove it. The unfounded insinuations therein contained manifest very clearly the low conception he entertains of other mens action, and one can hardly help thinking, that the person who so rashly adjuges low motives cannot himself be guided by a very high standard of action. A man who stoops to such a method of personal vituperation must feel himself pretty well cornered, and for my part I can quite afford to let the Doctor have all the credit accruing from such a mode of reasoning. Long before I ever saw Dr. Chritsoe I have dicussed public questions with men who were gentlemen, and of a mental and moral calibre far different from our Reeve; but I have never hitherto had an opponent so small as to subject himself to the humiliation of fabricating baseless motives, or impugning my arguments by personal invective. I am an interested party. We ought all to be deeply interested parties. My individual opinion is nothing in itself. I would be the last to lay any stress upon it, simply as such; but in so far as it is correct let it be considered. my motives are perfectly clean and satisfactory to myself, and if they are not so to others, no amount of self assertion on my part would make them so. I leave them to be construed by your readers as they may feel inclined, knowing well that those who know me will credit my motives with being what they really are. In the meantime let us narrow this down to its proper dimensions, and look at it in a reasonable light. All admit that the standard gauge is the thing wanted. We paid our share for the narrow gauge and it will not be denied by fair minded men, that the investment has paid this section well. That it has not paid the shareholders or bond holders is a well known fact. These men came formard to us six months ago, asking our assistance to put the road in good shape. They said in effect—"we are neither able nor willing to do it all ourselves, but if you will do a part so will we." The majority refused to assist; but expressed a very general desire for the road to go into the hands of the Grand Trunk or some strong company. The request is now again made for assistance; the road to go into the hands of the Grand Trunk Company on lease. Should this request also be refused, one of two things is likely to happen; either the scheme of widening and leasing the road be dropped, and the present road patched up, or, if assistance be sufficiently rendered by other localities, then the scheme, as now proposed, may be carried through, and our section probably discriminated against in the matter of tariffs. Not long since I was conversing with a Dundalk gentleman and he made the remark, that the folks in Dundalk would like nothing better than that Artemesia should again refuse the bonus. I mention this in a friendly way to our Flesherton neighbours. Let them ponder it a little and they will see there is something in it, specially as applied to their village. I know well, that on some occasions in the summer season the T. G. & B. Company have run grain from Owen Sound at smaller rates than they have ever done from this quarter; but that does not prove that they are able to do so in the same proportion from this and every other section. It only proves that the Company having their cars on the road and not being fully occupied at that season, they will rather earn something than nothing. Where is the railroad that don't do such thing? Look at all the great trunk lines that lower their rates as navigation opens and raised them when water communication closes. I do not at all seek to justify this state of matters; but we must take such things as they are, and make the best of them; for if we wait for a railroad company that will make a uniform equalised rate in proportion to mileage in all circumstances, then will we wait for what has never yet exhisted. In short I look at the whole thing from two simple stand points. 1st whether, in common justice, we are called upon to help those men who run the road out of their difficulties? For reasons previously given and which need not again be dwelt upon I unhesitatingly say that, taking all the circumstances into account, we are, as honest men, bound to do so. 2nd will it pay us to help them? Without doubt it will. In helping them we are effectively helping ourselves, and whatever the feeling toward the company may be, it would not be the act of reasonable men to keep ourselves in difficulties for the sake merely of continuing theirs. As an investment, the giving of this bonus will pay the township direcly, and indirectly in numberless ways that need not all be again repeated. The money would be spent amongst ourselves, and our young men, instead of having to flock away to the States in search of work, would find it at home for one season at least. And then the almost immediate impetus that would be given agricultural progress, and to things in general, would give to this section of Canada a standing not heretofore possessed. People of means would be attracted; farms and village property would increase in value, and our community, as a whole, would make a step in advance to which the first laying down of the narrow gauge was but the stepping stone. Accepting thanks, sir, for allowing me thus far to ventilate a few thoughts at this crises of our township welfare.

Yours truly,

ROBERT ROBERTSON.

Flesherton & Priceville station.

Nov. 22nd, 1880.

A DISINTERESTED OPINION.

We clip the following from the Meaford Monitor. Coming as it does from an outsider, and one interested in a rival railroad, it should carry conviction with it.

The campaign for the bonuses required to widen the gauge of the T., G. & B. Railway, under the agreement with the Grand Trunk Company. There is, of course, going to be some opposition to the by-laws, but we really cannot see why there should be any. The people along the line of the road will make a grave mistake if they allow the present opportunity to slip by them unimproved. Did we live along the line of the Narrow Gauge we would use every exertion to get the road changed to the standard gauge, and placed under the management of the Grand Trunk. No better fate could possibly happen to the people served (or misserved) by the Narrow Gauge than to have it pass into the control of the leading railway in the Dominion. It is not our business to advise the passing of the bonuses to be asked for; selfish considerations might rather prompt us to wish that things might remain as they are; we simply state what under certain circumstances we would do, and we let our opinion thus given go for what it is worth.

PARTIES who have missed any cattle or sheep should look carefully over the columns of the STANDARD. Quite a number are adverised this week.

STRAYED.

CAME to the premises of the undersigned Lot 3, Con. 12, township of Glenelg, about the 1st October, three head of yearlings, one Steer red and white, one Heifer red and white, and one Heifer white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take them away.

ROBERT WATERSON.

Glenelg, Nov. 20, 1880. 11-3i

Apprentice Wanted.

WANTED, a Boy to learn the Blacksmithing. He must be a good active boy. Apply to

R. HOWELL,

Kimberly P. O., Ont.

Kimberly, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-2i

THE BEST PAPER! TRY IT!

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

36th YEAR.

[illegible]

Single copies, 10c. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order, to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 35 years experience, and have the largest establishment in the world. Patents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained by writing to MUNN & Co. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade-Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints how to procure andvances on inventions. Address for the paper, or concerning patents,

MUNN & CO.,

37 Park Row, New York.

Branch Office cor. F and 7th sts., Washington D. C.

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS

Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorize them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or with any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, and to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: and for other purposes.

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,

Secretary-Treasurer.

Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,

HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,

HARROWS AND

All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

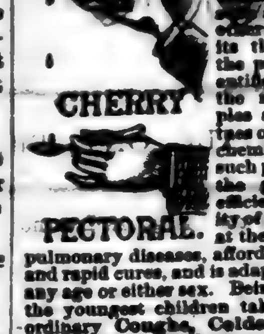
TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every description in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price.

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

THE BEST REMEDY FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.



In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists,

Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

STRAYED.

CAME into the enclosure of the subscriber Lot 72, East Toronto and Sydenham Road, Township of Holland, some time in September, one Ewe. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.

WM. JACKSON.

Holland, Nov. 17, 1880. 10-3i*

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, on the 15th inst., a Steer rising three years The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him away.

SAMUEL MILLER.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-3i

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 20, Con. 12 township of Holland, in July, a red Steer, 2 years old. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him away.

J. S. LYONS.

Holland, Nov. 12, 1880. 10-3i*

STRAYED

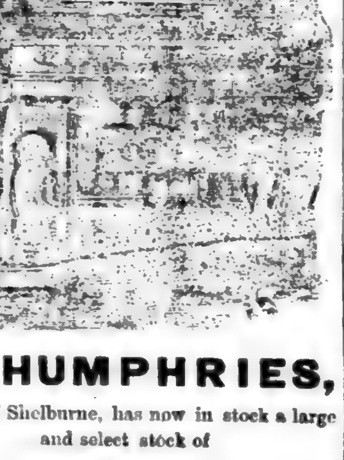
INTO the premises of the subscriber. Lot 8, Con. 14, township of Glenelg, on or about the 1st of September, a Heifer, one year old, spotted red and white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.

GEORGE LAMB.

Glenelg, Nov. 13, 1880, 10-3i*

New Furniture Store

In Dundalk.



C. HUMPHRIES,

Late of Shelburne, has now in stock a large and select stock of

COMMON AND HAIR-CLOTH

FurniturE,

Which he will sell very Cheap for Cash.

Coffins and Shrouds always on hand,

Also agent for Doherty's Organs, and Raymond & Ashburn's Sewing Machines. Call and examine our Organs and Machines before purchasing elsewhere.

Dundalk. Nov. 17, 1880. 10-2i

THOS. MATHEWS,

WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feelng confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

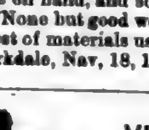
FIRST-CLASS

HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.

☞ None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880 10



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.

Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

MONTHLY CATTLE FAIRS

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.

[illegible]—Monday before Durham.

Hanover—Monday before Durham.

Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.

Guelph—First Wednesday in each month.

Harriston—Friday before the Guelph Fair.

Drayton—Saturday before Guelph.

Elora—The day before Guelph.

Douglas—Monday before Elora Fair.

Hamilton—Cyrstal Palace Grounds, the day after Guelph.

Berlin—First Thursday in each month.

Brampton—First Thursday in each month.

Listowel—First Friday in each month.

Fergus—Thursday following Mount Forest.

Rosemont—Fifteenth of February, April, June, August, October and December.

Primrose—Wednesday preceding the Orangeville Fair.

Orangeville—The 2nd Thursday in each month.

Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.

Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.

Shelburne—Wednesday before Orangeville.

Marshville—Second Wednesday in each month.

Walkerton—The last Wednesday in each month.

Mildmay—Last Wednesday of each month.

NOTICE.

PARTIES delivering logs at the Steam Saw Mill, Markdale, will please call and leave their names, and get a number to stamp on their logs, otherwise the proprietor will not hold himself responsible for logs which may be delivered.

Lumber, after being sawed three days and not piled. the "Mill Proprietor" will proceed to pile out of his way, and charge owner for time for doing so, and for space occupied.

The Highest Price in Cash

Paid for

Butternut, Cherry and Large Birch

JAMES CHAPMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-2i

J. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

THE Subscriber in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is now prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description. from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that be done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

NEW DRUG STORE,

DUNDALK.

R. PHILLIPS, M.C.P.,

PROPRIETOR.

MR. PHILLIPS begs to inform the inhabitants of Dundalk and the adjacent country, that he has opened a Drug Business in the stand lately occupied by Mr. Carter. Having laid in a large stock of

DRUGS,

CHEMICALS,

STATIONERY,

FANCY GOODS,

BOOKS, &c., &c.

Parties desirous of procuring anything in any of those lines, will find it to their advantage to visit the

Dundalk Drug Store, before going elsewhere.

CHRISTMAS

—AND—

NEW YEAR'S

Toys, Gift Books,

FANCY PRESENTS, ETC.

In endless variety.

R. PHILLIPS.

Dundalk, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-2i

ESTABLISHED 35 YEARS.

WEEKLY SPECTATOR

A LARGE EIGHT-PAGE PAPER

—ONLY—

Per Year. ($1) Per Year.

One of the Largest and best Weeklies in Canada.

BALLANCE OF 1880 FREE.

Agents receive 25 Cents for every yearly subscriber. Any party sending us three subscribers will receive a copy, post-paid, of the Farmer's Account Book, worth one dollar, in place of the usual commission. Send a post card for Sample Copy of our Weekly, which is sent free. The only paper in Canada that publishes a Draught Column. Address

SPECTATOR PRINTING COMPANY,

Hamilton, Ont.

Nov. 11, 1880.

Subscribe for the Standard. We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, ETC.

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be passed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAND.

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880.

MEDICAL HALL.

Pure Drugs and Chemicals

PTENT MEDICINES!

Dye Stuffs, Fancy Soaps, Perfumery, Combs, Tooth, and Hair Brushes, Trusses and Surgical Appliances and general Druggists sundries.

Stationery and School Books

IN GREAT VARIETY.

FRESH TEAS AND TOBACCOS

TOGETHER WITH

PAINTS AND OILS.

Physicians' Prescriptions

AND

VETERINARY PREPERATIONS

CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED

Montreal Telegraph Office.

T. S. SPROULE, M.

MILL STREET, MARKDALE, Sep. 17, 1880. 1

GO TO

McINTYRE'S

For all kinds of

Groceries, Provisions, Liquors, Canned Goods

CONECTIONERY, SPICES, TOBACCOS, BUISCUITS

AND ALL GOODS

Generally kept in a First-Class Grocery, Provision and Liquor Store

TEAS, SUGARS, COFFEE,

And all Groceries, the very Cleanest and Freshest. I sell for Cash, and a customer that gives me a call is sure to come back, as I sell good Goods Cheap. I never pay more than the Goods are worth, and give my customers the benefit of the bargains I get. You will always find me in the same place, always ready to wait upon you None but the Best Brands of

RYE, MALT, BRANDY, ALE, PORTER, & OTHER LIQUORS & WINES

Kept in stock, ☞ Be sure you call.

A. McINTYRE

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880,

Read This.

MONEY LOANED at 7 per cent. Simple Interest, and not in advance. The Borrower can have his own terms as to the TIME and the WAY he REPAYS it. LOANS put through with the LEAST possible DELAY.

See the Undersigned before applying Elsewhere.

Offices in Shelburne and Dunkalk.

Always in the Shelburne Office on MONDAYS and TUESDAYS, from 8.30 a. m. to 5 p. m., and on WEDNESDAYS, from 8.30 a. m. to 2 p. m.

In the Dundalk Office on THURSDAYS and FRIDAYS. On Thursdays, from 30 to 6 p.m., and on Fridays, from 9 a.m. to 4 p. m.

I would like all my friends to make it their business to see me on Fridays in Dundalk, rather than Thursday Evenings, if possible.

GEO. RUTHERFORD,

Estate and General Agent.

FARMS SOLD AND RENTED

By sending number of Lot, Concession, Price, Terms, &c., for very moderate charges.

CONVEYANCING

A SPECIALTY.

All Kinds of Writings Executed.

INSURANCES

Effected in the best Stock Companies.

GREAT BARGAINS

Given in the Best and Hardiest Canadian

FRUIT & ORNAMENTAL TREES.

IRON FORCE PUMPS!

WELLS and CISTERNS,

Sold Very Cheap.

Every Farmer ought to get one.

GEO. RUTHERFORD,

Estate and General Agent.

SHELBURNE AND DUNDALK.

October 21, 1880. 6

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

OYSTERS, OYSTERS

JUST RECEIVED

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE"

I have fitted up a room over my Store I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD

ANY AMOUNT of P

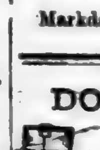
FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I [illegible] Public to give me a call and be [illegible] what bargains I am giving, before [illegible] chase elsewhere.

WILSON BENS[illegible]

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880.

DONALD [illegible]



MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal [illegible] in the past, and hopes by honorable [illegible] FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close atte[illegible] business, to merit a continuance of [illegible]

THE BEST OF MATER[illegible]

Used, and none but First-Class [illegible] employed.

Special attention paid to Repairing will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Specialty

NOTICE.

All over due accounts must be paid [illegible] delay or I shall have to resort to [illegible]ly means for collection.

D. McLEOD.

Corner of Queen and Mill [illegible]

Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880.

[illegible] STANDARD,

[illegible]riday. Nov. 26th, 1880.

[illegible]CAL & OTHER NOTICES.

[illegible] and see our 25 cent packages [illegible] stationery, &c. The cheapest in [illegible]n.

THE Flesherton Skating Rink was opened yesterday evening for the season.

"CORDWOOD is up"—but Haskett Bros will continue to sell Burrell's axes at 90c.

S. DONNELLY will be at the Revere House, Markdale, on 1st Dec., for the purpose of receiving taxes.

PERSONS desiring a change in advertisement will please hand it in not later than noon on Wednesday's.

IF you have lost, found, or want anything announce it through the columns of the STANDARD. It is the [illegible] medium in the county.

[illegible] BENSON, of the Belfast House, says [illegible] is prepared to furnish oysters to the hungry in every style. Go and see if it is so.

McINTYRE, is always to the fore. Read his advertisement on third page. His [illegible] is large, well selected, fresh and cheap. Give him a call.

MR. DOLL has his new advertisement in this week. As the season for the interchange of presents is approaching, don't fail to pay Doll a visit [illegible] we think he can supply your need[illegible]

EVERY business man should have [illegible] name and address printed on [illegible] envelopes he uses. Call at the STANDARD office and you will be astonished [illegible]w cheap we can do them.

WHAT is the proprietor of the Markdale Skating Rink doing, that he [illegible] not taking advantage of this fine [illegible]ing weather? Come friend W[illegible] wake up, the lads and lasses are [illegible] impatient.

MR. HOGG, of Flesherton Sta[illegible] announces that he has his Saw [illegible] in full operation, and is prepared to [illegible] cut lumber by the thousand an[illegible] shares. Read advertisement on [illegible] page.

POST MASTERS.—Where the STAN[illegible] is not called for, the P. M's will p[illegible] distribute the papers to whom t[illegible] please, and not return them, but [illegible] a card with the names of th[illegible] whom they are addressed.

No business man should fa[illegible] have the business he follows, pri[illegible] on his envelopes and note paper [illegible] can furnish you with both art[illegible] neatly printed, at city prices, at [illegible] STANDARD office.

C. A. OWEN, announces through [illegible] STANDARD this week, that he has [illegible]ed the shop over McFarland's st[illegible] and is prepared to adorn the o[illegible] man equal to any city estab[illegible] See adv.

BREATHES there a man wi[illegible] dead, who never to himself [illegible] I'll buy, my girl a ring? W[illegible] just step in and see Wilcox's st[illegible] are sure you can suit yourself. [illegible] stock is good and complete.

FROM our Eugenia correspon[illegible] we learn of the death of Mr. [illegible] Benson, mail carrier, an old [illegible] esteemed resident of that place. [illegible] funeral was largely attended. [illegible] balance of our correspondents [illegible] will have to remain over to [illegible] for want of space.

M. RICHARDSON, F[illegible] laid in his winter stock of [illegible] staple, Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing, Mi[illegible] and Boots and Shoes. In the Gro[illegible] line he is prepared to furnish [illegible] customers with everything nec[illegible] for the holiday festives. Don't [illegible] to drop into his store.

WE learn from Orangevi[illegible] Mr. Grimes yardsman of th[illegible] lost his thumb on the 19th [illegible] whilst coupling cars; and that [illegible] man, Watson got his should[illegible] broken on the following day, [illegible] means or other, the partic[illegible] which we were not able t[illegible]

WE are so crowded for [illegible] week that we are obliged t[illegible] the [illegible] give [illegible] for the principal [illegible] dale, Fall wheat 106 [illegible] spring 117; barley 101; [illegible] peas 63; dressed hogs 560. F[illegible] ton about the same.

SOME of our subscribers at [illegible] are complaining that they [illegible] the paper until the week [illegible] published. It is mailed h[illegible] Friday morning and should [illegible]ed the same day. We shall [illegible] the matter and if we can fin[illegible] linquent, we shall bring th[illegible] to the notice of the P[illegible] Insepector.

WE beg to inform thos[illegible] whom the STANDARD has bee[illegible] the past five weeks in Pro[illegible] Melancthon, that the tim[illegible] this issue. If any wish to [illegible] the paper they will please s[illegible] their names next week. By [illegible]ing now you get the balanc[illegible] year free. To clubs of five [illegible] we will give the paper for $[illegible] cash in advance.

WE were visited with a seve[illegible] and snow storm on Saturday af[illegible] which continued through Sund[illegible] Monday, Sunday was parti[illegible] boisterous and few ventured [illegible] less comp[illegible] through neces[illegible] do so. Tuesday the weather [illegible]rated somewhat, and the [illegible] taking advantage of the good [illegible]ing, are rushing in their g[illegible] other products, consequen[illegible] streets present a lively appea[illegible]

WE have made arrangeme[illegible] the following papers to furni[illegible] to parties who wish to take [illegible] connection with the STAN[illegible] greatly reduced rates. The [illegible] Agriculturist $1.00; Canadia[illegible] 75c.; Scientific American $[illegible] ronto Weekly Globe $1.25. [illegible] to be able to give the price of [illegible] several others next week. T[illegible] prices are only adhered [illegible] the papers are taken in c[illegible] with the STANDARD.

TIME, it is said, proves e[illegible] and among other things it [illegible] the value of Dr. J. C. Aye[illegible] Pectoral as a standard re[illegible] diseases of the throat and lu[illegible] is a household medicine w[illegible] ands of people, and deserve[illegible] it has been in use more [illegible] years, and all who use it k[illegible] accomplishes even more tha[illegible] ed for it. Nearly every [illegible] possesses evidences of its gre[illegible] power, in persons who have [illegible] ed by it of various throat [illegible]

ASH STO
lds & S ont with a complete stock of ds, Groceries
AND SHOES.
KERY, GLASSWARE, E nd LOW PRICES cannot a call and try some of our
JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FO

RUP ALWAYS ON HA
before purchasing elsew
AND EGGS TAKEN IN S.
YNOLDS & SON.
So.

CAL HALL.

and Chemical MEDICINES!
, Perfumery, Combs, Tooth
usses and Surgical Appliance l Druggists sundries.
nd School Books
REAT VARIETY.
AND TOBACCO
ETHER WITH
AND OILS.
s' Prescription
AND PREPERATION
LY COMPOUNDED
ce.
. SPROULE, M.
Sep. 17, 1880.

O TO TYRE'S
all kinds of , Liquors, Canned Goo
CES. TOBACCOS. BUISCUITS
LL GOODS
d Liquor Sta
ARS, COFF and Freshest. I sell for Cash, a to come as I sell good Goods als are worth, and give my customers ys and me in the same place, always ready but the Best Brands of RTER, & OTHER LIQUORS & W
A. McINTYRE

, OYSTERS, OYSTE
EVER
AT THE
"BELFAST HOUS
I have fitted up a room over my Store
I can supply
OYSTERS
—IN—Every Styl
by the Plate or Can CHEAPER THAN ANY
IN TOWN
My Stock of Provisions and Groce
Togther with Wines and Liqu
ARE VERY CHEAP AND GO
ANY AMOUNT of P
FOR SALE.
As I do no puffing or blowing, I
Public to give me a call and be what bargains I am giving, before chase elsewhere.
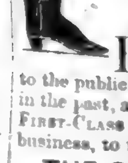
WILSON BENS
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880.

DONA
MAKER



BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal in the past, and hopes by FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close business, to merit a continuance of
THE BEST OF MATER
Used, and none but First-Class employed.
Special attention paid to Rep will be done promptly.
Sewed work a Spe
NOTICE.
All over due accounts must be delay or I shall have to resort ly means for collection.
D. McLEO
Corner of Queen and Markdale, Oct. 29, 1880.

THE STANDARD.

Friday. Nov. 26th, 1880.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

CALL and see our 25 cent packages stationery, &c. The cheapest in town.

THE Flesherton Skating Rink was opened yesterday evening for the season.

"CORDWOOD is up"—but Haskett Bros will continue to sell Burrell's ... at 90c.

... DONNELLY will be at the Revere House, Markdale, on 1st Dec., for the purpose of receiving taxes.

PERSONS desiring a change in advertisement will please hand it in not later than noon on Wednesday's.

IF you have lost, found, or want anything announce it through the columns of the STANDARD. It is the best medium in the county.

... JOHNSON, of the Belfast House, says he is prepared to furnish oysters to the hungry in every style. Go and see if it is so.

McINTYRE, is always to the fore. Read his advertisement on third page. His stock is large, well selected, fresh, and cheap. Give him a call.

MR. DOLL has his new advertisement in this week. As the season for the interchange of presents is approaching, don't fail to pay Doll a visit, we think he can supply your needs.

EVERY business man should have his name and address printed on the envelopes he uses. Call at the STANDARD office and you will be astonished how cheap we can do them.

WHAT is the proprietor of the Markdale Skating Rink doing, that he is not taking advantage of this fine skating weather? Come friend Welsh ... the lads and lasses are getting impatient.

MR. HOGG, of Flesherton Station, announces that he has his Saw Mill in full operation, and is prepared to cut lumber by the thousand and on shares. Read advertisement on third page.

POST MASTERS.—Where the STANDARD is not called for, the P. M's will please distribute the papers to whom they please, and not return them, but send a card with the names of those to whom they are addressed.

No business man should fail to have the business he follows printed on his envelopes and note paper. We can furnish you with both articles neatly printed, at city prices, at the STANDARD office.

C. A. OWEN, announces through the STANDARD this week, that he has rented the shop over McFarland's store, and is prepared to adorn the outer man equal to any city establishment. See ...

BREATHES there a man with soul so dead, who never to himself hath said I'll buy my girl a ring? Well then just step in and see Wilcox's stock, we are sure you can suit yourself. His stock is good and complete.

FROM our Eugenia correspondent we learn of the death of Mr. John Benson, mail carrier, an old and esteemed resident of that place. His funeral was largely attended. The balance of our correspondents letter will have to remain over to next week for want of space.

M. RICHARDSON, Flesherton, has laid in his winter stock, of staple, and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing, Millinery and Boots and Shoes. In the Grocery line he is prepared to furnish his customers with everything necessary for the holiday festives. Don't forget to drop into his store.

WE learn from Orangeville, that Mr. Grines yardsman of that place, lost his thumb on the 19th inst., whilst coupling cars; and that switchman, Watson got his shoulder blade broken on the following day by some means or other, the particulars of which we were not able to learn.

WE are so crowded for space this week that we are obliged to leave out the general market report, but will give here the top prices paid to-day for the principal produce in Markdale, Fall wheat 106 per bush.; spring 117; barley 101; oats 29; peas 63; dressed hogs 560. Flesherton about the same.

SOME of our subscribers at Pomona are complaining that they do not get the paper until the week after it is published. It is mailed here early on Friday morning and should be received the same day. We shall look into the matter and if we can find the delinquent, we shall bring the matter to the notice of the Post Office Insepector.

WE beg to inform those parties to whom the STANDARD has been sent free the past five weeks in Proton and Melancthon, that the time expires this issue. If any wish to continue the paper they will please send in their names next week. By subscribing now you get the balance of this year free. To clubs of five and over we will give the paper for $1 each, cash in advance.

WE were visited with a severe wind and snow storm on Saturday afternoon which continued through Sunday and Monday. Sunday was particularly boisterous, and few ventured out unless compelled through necessity to do so. Tuesday the weather moderated somewhat, and the farmers, taking advantage of the good sleighing, are rushing in their grain and other products, consequently our streets present a lively appearance.

WE have made arrangements with the following papers to furnish them to parties who wish to take them in connection with the STANDARD, at greatly reduced rates. The American Agriculturist $1.60; Canadian Farmer 75c.; Scientific American $2.60; Toronto Weekly Globe $1.25. We hope to be able to give the price of Mail and several others next week. The above prices are only adhered to when the papers are taken in connection with the STANDARD.

TIME, it is said, proves everything, and among other things it has proved the value of Dr. J. C. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral as a standard remedy for diseases of the throat and lungs. This is a household medicine with thousands of people, and deservedly so, for it has been in use more than forty years, and all who use it know that it accomplishes even more than is claimed for it. Nearly every community possesses evidences of its great curative power, in persons who have been cured by it of various throat and lung complaints, and who owe their recovery from the ... consumption. In ... croup and sudden colds, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the remedy that every family should have at hand for the treatment of these cases as they arise. —Richmond, Va., Standard.

FAREWELL SUPPER.—The many friends of C. W. & A. Sproule, hearing that they were about departing from our midst, tendered them a complimentary supper on Wednesday evening at the Revere House, where a goodly number sat down to a sumptuously spread table, in which mine host Sproule did himself no discredit. We have no time this week to say further than that a very pleasant evening was passed; we will give a full report next week.

OF INTEREST TO FARMERS.—A case of special interest at the Division Court, Beaverton was one known as "the wild oats case." A farmer named Gaughn, from Mara, purchased seed barley from a neighbor named Courtney, who represented his barley clean and free from foul seed, and in every respect suitable for seed. However when the barley was cut it turned out, as was proven in Court, that the barley contained a quantity of what is known as wild oats and that Courtney, the defendant in the case, was aware of the fact previous to his disposing of it to Gaughn. His Honor gave full damages, $60 the amount claimed by Gaughn, and costs, and warned farmers that if they sold a certain kind of grain and afterwards it turned out to be some otherkind or not what was represented, they were liable for damages. There is talk of some more "wild oats" cases for next court.

BETTER TIMES.—The period of depression, if not over, is fast passing away, and signs of awakening prosperity are on every hand. The great increase in the revenue, for the last three months, is the best proof of revival of commerce, the increase in bank circulation and discounts, during the last month, is not less striking. The railways are doing a greatly increased business, and the revenue of some of them, notably the Grand Trunk, shows a very large augmentation. Sharing in the prosperity of the railways, the express companies are busier than at any previous time. The lumber trade is active and healthy, and probably more lumber will be got out this winter than ever before. Domestic manufactures are thriving, and as a consequence new ventures are being every day engaged in. There is one deplorable exception to this renewed activity. Our shipbuilding interest continues depressed; and for it there is, in any case, only a moderate revival possible. Bankruptcies have fallen to one-thid what they were a year ago, and suits for the recovery of debts are less frequent. —Monetary Times.

PRICEVILLE.

From a Correspondent.

SUDDEN DEATH —Mr. Charles Hales who lived about five miles from here, on the Old Durham Road, went out on Sunday morning last to attend to his cattle, almost immediately after his leaving the house, some members of the family were alarmed by his shouting. They hastened to him, and found him helpless on the ground: He was at once carried into the house and a messenger dispatched for medical aid, but it was of no avail, as death put an end to his existence about fifteen minutes after he was taken ill.—It was the opinion of Dr. Bennett, who arrived some time after death, that Mr. Hales died from appoplexy. He was over 60 years of age, but strong and hearty—thirty years being spent in the neighborhood. He was very highly respected by all who had the pleasure of his acquaintance. He leaves a large and intelligent family to bitterly mourn his sudden demise.

Mr. Tuck, late of the Farmers' Inn, has removed into the new brick hotel erected by Alexander Brown, Esq. The premises are commodious and conveniently arranged. We predict for the genial host a successful business career.

We feel grateful that we have not the grounds for complaint that some of your correspondents have. Our sidewalks and crossings are so complete, that the innocent mud and ordinary pedestrian know little of each other.

DIED.

In Markdale, on the 18th inst., Archibald, son of George Noble aged 1 year, 11 months.

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, Lot 11, Con. 15, Township of Glenelg, on the 20th October, two yearling Heifers, one spoted red and white, one dark red with top off one horn. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses and take them away.
B. E. ENGLISH.
Glenelg, Nov, 19, 1880. 11 3i

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKER,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

THE Undersigned will be at Lot 6, 2nd 3rd Concession, N. D. R., Glenelg on Saturday, Nov. 20, 1880, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of letting contract of building New Bridge across Saugeen River. Plans and Specifications to be seen at the house of Thomas Davis, Lot 2, 3rd Concession, N. D. R.
F. MACRAE,
G. BINNIE,
T. DAVIS,
Glenelg, Nov. 5, 1880.

General Advertisements.

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

☞ LOAN ND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.

Sept. 17th 1880 2-4l

—XMASS—

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS, AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have for sale, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &c.

In Watches I have—Gold and Silver Hunting and Open-faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham [illegible] they are the best. Swiss, English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated St. Thomas and other Clocks, from [illegible] up. In Jewelry, I have—I have selected and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, Pins, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pens, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty. W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.

Nov. 25, 1880. (5) Flesherton and Dundalk.

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 143 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

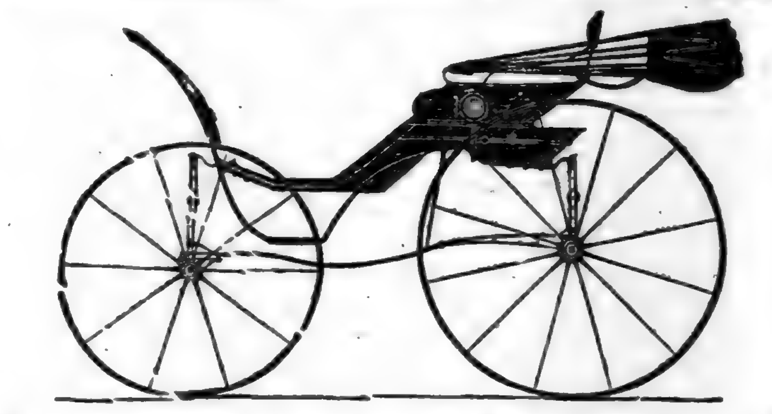
CUSTOM SAWING PROMPTLY DONE.

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 3-tf



Buggies and Waggons

OF ALL KINDS, SOLD BY

W. L. MARSHALL, Dundalk.

Dundalk, Nov. 11, 1880. 9-3w

MARKDALE.

WM. FOX,
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Selling Off. Selling Off.

GREAT

Clearing Out Sale!

GRANT & CHELLEW

will offer for the

NEXT 60 DAYS!

Bargains unprecedented in the County of Grey.

SIDEBOARDS,
BUREAUS,
CUPBOARDS,
WASHSTANDS, open and enclosed,
BEADSTEADS,
SPRING BEDS,
MATTRASSES,
CRADLES,
CENTRE TABLES,
EXTENSION TABLES,

Fall-Leaf Tables, and Chairs of every variety to be in all its branches.

SOLD AT COST!

—o—

Pictures and Picture Framing!

Upholstering and Repairing!

promptly attended to.

☞ Produce and Dry Lumber taken at market price.

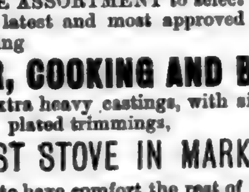
GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Sept., 1880. 1

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.



At the New Tinshop

MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX

STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!

A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!

made to order on the shortest notice.

EAVETROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. C. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

A Choice Farm of 150 Acres
FOR SALE,

One Mile from the Village of Markdale.

There are about 100 acres cleared, the most of which is in a high state of cultivation and fit for a Reaper or Mower to work on. There are on the premises a Frame House bricked inside; a Milk House-bricked inside; a Frame Stable and Driving House, and Log Barn; a Young Orchard commencing to bear; a good Well, beside the house; a never-failing Stream runs across the farm; Cedar sufficient for fencing, balance of bush hardwood, (a First-class Maple Sugar Bush of some 400 trees). The farm is well fenced, in a good state of repair, and in a choice locality, being within a mile of good market, churches, school houses, and all necessary conveniences.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
Proprietor.

Maple Leaf Farm, Markdale P.O.

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill streett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept, 17th 1880. 1

Money Lost!

By those who buy stoves before going to

J. GARDINER'S
Dundalk.

Best and Cheapest stock of

STOVES and TINWARE

North of Toronto. 6

China TEA Store
R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 1-tf

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

[illegible]

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

September 21st, 1880. BUTTER & RAE. 1

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Coun tyat

McFARLAND'.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

BOOTS and SHOES!

FOR THE MILLION.

A NOVELTY in these Goods!

The Indestructible Riveted and Cemented and Water-proof Seam.

Call and Examine Stock and Prices!

before purchasing "slop" goods elsewhere.

FULL LINES IN

Groceries, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing,

(Ready-made,) Crockery and Glassware!

—AT THE—

"TORONTO HOUSE,"

MARKDALE.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Sept. 17th, 1880.

Cash! Cash! Cash!

People may Puff and Blow, but if you want full value for

Your Money or Produce

GO TO THE

Toronto House,
DUNDALK,

The following is a list of prices of a few of the many leading lines offered.

Men's Overcoats $5.50 and upwards.		Boy's Ulster Overcoats $4.75 and upwards.
Men's Tweed suits $4.00	do	Men's undershirts and Drawers, 50c	do
" Overalls (Duck) 75c	do	" heavy Pants, $2.75	do
" Winter Caps 45c	do	Ladies' all wool shawls, $1.25	do
Ladies' Clouds, 50c	do	Beautiful patterned dress Goods 15c	do
Beautiful Lustres, 15c	do	Factory Cotton, 7c	do
Ladies' Fur Caps $1.75	do	Children's Fur Caps 85c	do
Men's long Boots, $2.00	do	Men's seamless whole stock Boots $3.65	do
Boys long Boots, $1.25	do	Women's strong shoes, $1.10,	do
Children's strong shoes45c	do

Together with a full stock of First-Class Groceries. Teas, Sugars, choice Brands of Tobaccos, Soaps, Syrups, Vinegar, Dried Apples. Buiscuits, Confectionery, Spices of all kinds, Patent Medicines, Castor Oil, Castorine, Machine Oils, Coal Oil. Also Hardware, Spoons, Table Knives, Nails, Screws, Hinges, latches, &c., and a full stock of all the leading lines in Dry Goods, Millinery, Furs of all kinds, and all other Goods such as are kept in a First Class General Store.

Farm Produce taken as oash. A call is solicited and you will be convinced that this is the place to get good value for your money.

Highest Cash Price paid for all kinks of Grain, Pork, &c.

GEORGE NIXON.

Dundalk, Nov 25, 1880. 11 4i

H. & R. HOOPER

RESPECTFULLY invite every Man and Woman in the country to visit their Factory and Warerooms and inspect their stock of furniture, manufactured during the summer, for fall trade. Our stock is now the largest and most complete yet held by us, and we have been successful in introducing a great many

NEW AND TASTY DESIGNS!

—IN—

BED-ROOM SETS, COUCHES,

SIDEBOARDS, EXTENSION TABLES, CENTRE TABLES, DRESSING BUREAUS, BEDSTEADS, SOFAS, WHATNOTS, HAT-RACKS, HALL TABLES, &c., &c., &c.

WE ARE MAKING A SPECIALTY IN

New Styles of WOOD SEAT CHAIRS!

CHEAP AND DURABLE.

—OUR—

UNDERTAKING DEPARTM'NT

Fully supplied with COFFINS, SHROUDS, &c., and special attention given on the very shortest notice.

ALL KINDS OF

Fancy Turning, Scroll Work, Fence Pickets & Mouldings

made to order. Also SASH, DOORS, PLANING, &c.

With our present experience we feel justified in asking a continuance of the patrons so liberally bestowed on us in the past. Our prices will be found as low as any, and much so as is consistent with good work and finish. If you are in need of anything in our line we feel confident we can suit you in quantity and quality to select from and also in terms.

H. & R. HOOPER,

Flesherton Steam Furniture Factory and Planing Mill.

Removed!
Removed.

HILL BROTHERS,

Would intimate to their numerous friends and the public generally, that they have removed to their new premises, and will be pleased to receive a call from our many friends and customers. Call and see us. We will GIVE YOU BARGAINS. WE MEAN BUSINESS.

SEE OUR

Cheap Dress Goods,
Lustres,
Wincies,
Laces,
And Fringes.

Gents, see our CLOTHING. They are Stylish, Good CHEAP.

SEE OUR TWEEDS!

You will find them right in Price and Quality.

Boots and Shoes a Specialty.

Call and get a sample of our Splendid TEAS.

Gentlemen we have a splendid SMOKING TOBACCO, at 40c per lb. Try it.

We again give a general invitation to inspect our Stock. Have not time to write long advertisements. Don't believe in them. Would rather have the Goods speak for themselves.

Thanking you for past favors, and trust to have a continuance of the same.

HILL BROS.

Markdale, Nov. 4, 1880. 1-tf

A Confession.

I'm fond of flowers, sweet and shy,
From nature's fragrant bowers;
My boutonnieres I always buy
Of Clara Kimball Powers.

Who reads me novels full of gore,
To cheer me when I'm feeble,
And sings about the golden shore?
Why Sophie Martin Keble.

A little maiden, ebon-curled,
Now serves my papers daily;
Her appellation, all unfurled,
Is Julia Haskins Haley.

The damsel who darns my socks
With chic and sweet abandon,
And charms me with her golden locks,
Is Laura Winter Landon.

I look up to the gentle dames
As one looks up a steeple,
Because they proudly wave their names
Like literary people.

ONLY A WOMAN'S HAIR.

By the Author of "A Strange Friendship," &c.

CHAPTER V.—CONTINUED.

I think that the sight of me was somewhat of a trouble to him just then; one of his daughters was dead, the other he had driven away from him, and had forced into a marriage which was hateful to her. Possibly he might have felt a little sorry, a trifle remorseful at the sight of my pale face and sad reproachful eyes; but now it was too late; so, by tacit consent, we kept away from each other as much as possible.

I sat up for hours that night, crouching on the hearthrug, and staring into the warm glow of the wood embers. The shadows of the trees without waved and tossed upon the blind of the large recessed window of my room. I was watching faces in the fire; I was looking back mournfully at my past girlhood, and looking forward with a dull apathy to what the future was to bring me.

When I at last lay down and fell asleep, I had a vivid and terrible dream. I thought I was standing outside upon the lawn. I wore my bridal dress, and the ground was not green, but covered with snow. Suddenly I saw Rose coming to meet me among the trees; she, too, was dressed in white. When she was within a few paces of me, she stopped and beckoned me to follow her. I did so, feeling no surprise, only a calm content at again beholding her. She led me through the trees; the snow sparkled on the branches, and lay deep upon the ground. Her footsteps made no sound, and utter silence was around us.

Suddenly Rose stopped, and she pointed to something a few paces in front of us.

"There, Cathie," she said, "I have brought you here to show you who it was that did it!"

I darted forward. I saw a form recumbent on the ground, and, veiled beneath the snow, I could discern the outline of a human figure, but all else was hidden beneath its icy covering. I tried to sweep away the snow, to discover what face lay hidden there from my anxious gaze, but in vain. I could not move hand or foot: I was spell-bound to the spot whereon I stood. I struggled fruitlessly to penetrate the mystery before me, and Rose all the time stood by, not helping me in the least, but looking on calmly.

At last she broke into a harsh, mocking laugh, not like the silvery ring of her old girlish glee.

"You cannot do it, Cathie," she said; "your hands are tied."

I looked down at my hands. I saw to my horror and dismay that they were fastened together round the wrists by the missing lock of golden hair. An agony of terror seemed to wrap me round. Rose had disappeared, and, struggling frantically to release my hands, I awoke, and found that the cold gray dawn of my wedding-morning had broken.

CHAPTER VI.

As I was dressing on the morning of the day which was to see me married to a man I did not love, a letter was brought to me. I opened it with dull, apathetic fingers, and found that it was from Mrs. Holland.

She wrote to tell me that she had already met with a situation, and that she was going to it at once. It was a place as housekeeper which she had taken, and she was almost sure that she would be happy there. I was not to fret any more about her as I had been doing, for she could not bear to think of it, and I was not to address my letters to her any longer to the care of her cousins in town, for she would be in her new home before this letter reached me.

The name of the house was Ravelston; and then she gave me the rest of the address, but she did not tell me the name of the people with whom she was going to live.

I put off my mourning for Rose for the first time on my wedding-day. I wore a very simple dress of white silk, and I think my face was just as white. The clergyman who was to perform the ceremony had arrived at my father's house the evening before; we were twenty miles from the nearest church. I had only one bridesmaid, an old schoolfellow of mine, and we had very few guests on account of the recent mourning in our family.

I was married in the dining-room of my father's house. Cyril was very pale and very quiet. He did not look in the least a happy bridegroom, and I am sure the sun never shone upon a more forlorn and miserable bride than myself that day.

It had been settled that we should drive over to Cyril's house the same afternoon and stay there for a day or two; after that we were to start upon a tour to the Hot Lakes. We had planned to remain upon our travels for two or three months before returning home again.

The ceremony was over very quickly, and so, too, it seemed to me, was the breakfast which followed it; I scarcely now remember anything about it. Very soon I had put on my traveling-dress, a very quiet one of two shades of brown, and was seated by Cyril's side driving towards my new home. We were both very quiet during the drive.

Once Cyril remarked upon my paleness, and asked me if I felt cold. I told him "No," but that I had gone through a bad night and had had terrible dreams. He said quietly, "So had I."

I did not ask him what his dreams were about. I felt like a person half stunned, and saw the road recede behind me, and felt that I was leaving the home of my girlhood and my happiness and freedom for evermore. At last Cyril said suddenly—

"I am afraid I have rather forced you into this step, Cathie. It seemed cruel of me, does it not?"

He looked at me with a curious half sorrowful expression in his black eyes which I had never seen there before. It softened his face and improved it. After a moment, he added—

"I believe, Cathie, if you will have patience with me, and try to like me a little, you may make a better man of me yet. Once, long ago, before I ever saw you, I fell in love with another girl; I think her beauty nearly drove me mad. But I did not respect her as I do you."

"What became of her?" I asked, with some curiosity; for Cyril was ordinarily so reserved that even the few words he had spoken were an unusual expression of confidence on his part.

He turned away, and looked gloomily out at some object in the distance, as he replied.

"She died," he said slowly, with great bitterness in his tone. "She died—and quickly. Don't ask me any more questions. That is quite enough for you to know."

I felt repulsed, and I turned away from him, and not another word passed between us during the rest of the drive. Not the faintest shade of jealousy of Cyril's first love had crossed my mind. I did not love him enough for that; but I knew and felt that [illegible] now my husband.

Tea was waiting for us when we arrived at Cyril's house. [illegible] The two servants we had engaged [illegible] lighted fires in two or three of the rooms; for the house was very gloomy and chilly, with a threatening of snow outside.

"Would you like to go round the house, Cathie?" said Cyril. "I will take you out, if you wish it, to look at him at once."

[illegible] towards the stables. They were a handsome and comfortable building a little distance from the house—Cyril was fond of horses.

Gladiator was so glad to see me, and rubbed his nose against my shoulder in a way that I was accustomed to as his manner of bidding me welcome. I, for my part, was pleased to see how comfortably he was lodged, and how well cared for he was looking. I followed Cyril at once, with the utmost obedience, when he reminded me that tea was waiting and that it was time we returned to the house.

Our tea was scarcely over when Cyril was summoned from the room; some one wanted to see him on business. He looked black over it, but could not refuse to go. Many minutes had not elapsed before he again returned.

"I am sorry to say I shall have to leave you for a few hours, Cathie," he said. "This confounded business of mine won't wait. I'll be back as soon as ever I can, and I dare say you will find some way to amuse yourself meanwhile. There are lots of newspapers and books lying about."

I felt as if his absence would be a pleasure and relief to me, so little did I love my husband.

"Oh, don't trouble yourself about me!" I replied. "I shall be all right and very comfortable by the side of this snug fire. Don't hurry over your business, pray, on my account."

He looked somewhat dissatisfied. I think he felt I was too ready to let him go.

"I would not stir a step if I could help it," he said; "but this"—and here, I am afraid, he uttered an imprecation—"won't wait; and go I must, whether I like it or not."

After he had left the room, he came back again.

"Stay here quietly," he said. "I want to show you the house when I get home. The room opposite to this is my study and office; you need not go into it without me. I keep many valuable papers there, and I do not like anything to be touched. Good-bye, Cathie."

"Good-bye," I responded, and I said no more.

I felt hurt at his giving me orders how to spend my time during his absence, and I let him go without another word. He had married me, knowing that I did not love him, and, if my coldness angered him, he had only himself to blame for it.

In a few minutes I saw him through the dining-room window riding away from the house, in the company of the person who had come to fetch him.

I sat down before the warm fire with my hands crossed in my lap, and, for a while, I did absolutely nothing.

There might be newspapers lying about: but I did not care to read them. I could not feel at home or grow accustomed to the strange aspect of the room. At last I noticed that in getting out of the carriage in which we had driven over, I had slightly torn some of the trimming of my brown silk traveling-dress, and I resolved to while away a few minutes by mending it.

A little dressing-case of mine, fitted with all kinds of useful articles, was standing on a table in the hall. I had set it down on entering the house. I rose and went out into the hall, and selected what I required from its contents.

As I turned round after doing so, I found that I was standing exactly opposite to the door of the room Cyril had called his study, and which he had desired me not to enter.

Of course the prohibition had only roused my woman's curiosity to see what that room was like. I felt myself to be another Fatima in the house of Bluebeard; and more and more irresistibly did idleness and loneliness impel me to follow her example, even at the risk of meeting with some unforeseen punishment.

I felt sure, however, that Cyril would not be back for some hours, and that I should remain undetected in my act of disobedience; and I am afraid that I did not love him sufficiently to care very much about attending to his wishes.

At last I rose, laid down my scissors and thimble, and, walking softly across the hall to the door opposite, I gently turned the handle, and quietly glided in.

If I had expected to see anything startling or unexpected, I was at the first glance disappointed.

The room was a large, bare, cold-looking, common-place apartment, with a few shelves of books at one side, a writing-table and desk in the centre, and an easy-chair, with a large waste-paper basket by its side, before the fireplace. That was all I noted during the first few moments.

"I must not touch anything," I thought. "He will find me out if I meddle with the smallest bit of paper."

I walked up to the book-case and read the titles of a few of the volumes. They were chiefly works on agriculture, and a few on civil engineering, none of them in the least likely to interest a girl like myself. I do not think they had been often consulted by any one. There was a good deal of dust upon them. I felt tempted to brush some of it off; but then, I reflected, if the room looks too neat when he returns, he will certainly find me out.

There was a gun-case lying in one corner. I raised the lid softly and looked in; but it was quite empty. Nothing to gratify my curiosity was there.

I was beginning to think that I had seen enough, and, as the room was very cold, that I had better return to the warm fire in the dining-room, when I first noticed the one artistic object Cyril's study contained. This was a handsome and valuable old time-piece in the centre of the mantel-shelf. It was not working. The hands had stopped at half-twelve. It was surmounted by a figure in bronze of the Recording Angel, pen and tablet in hand, noting down how the minutes were spent. I took an immediate fancy to that clock. It was so handsome, so uncommon, and so superior to all its surroundings.

"I wonder how long it is since it stopped?" I said to myself.

I opened the little door at the back to look at the works, and I saw that there was a small parcel lying thrust in among them, so that the clock could not have worked until it was removed.

"No wonder it will not go," I thought, "with things stuffed into it like that!"

Then I put it in my hand, all unconscious of the terror approaching me, and lifted out the little packet; and, as I did so, a chill ran through me, for the parcel was a little embroidered handkerchief which had once belonged to Rose, and rolled up inside it was the missing lock of golden hair.

[illegible] of great darkness, [illegible] with wide-open, awe-struck eyes at the terrible piece of evidence in my hands. [illegible]

"When I find that lost lock of hair, I shall find with it the murderer of my sister!"

Could I feel the slightest further doubt? [illegible] crowd back like a flash of lightning upon my memory, all confirming the testimony of that awful mute witness in my hands?

Cyril's occasional allusions to Rose, [illegible]

I do not know how long I stood there [illegible]

My first clear, distinct thought was to wonder if any one was aware of my presence in that room. I stole softly to the door. [illegible]

"I must keep this proof, which I [illegible]

[illegible]

CHAPTER VII.

I passed out of Cyril's study and closed the door behind me. I was going to leave that terrible room with empty hands. [illegible]

[illegible] rubbed his nose against my shoulder [illegible]

I always wear when riding, [illegible] on my foot.

In a little inner pocket of my dress I had my father's wedding-present to me that morning; it was a purse containing four ten-pound notes.

My preparations were now complete, and I crept out noiselessly through one of the long dining-room windows, and found myself standing safely on the lawn outside.

It was growing dark; and I knew that no one could see me now, especially in my dark cloak; but I knew too that before long the moon would rise, and I counted upon it to assist me in the execution of my plans. I stole round to the stables, listened a moment and, finding all quiet, I opened the door of Gladiator's loose box and quietly glided in. He pawed the ground with pleasure and rubbed his nose against my shoulder as soon as he saw me. It was quite easy to me to saddle him; I had often done it for amusement's sake only.

As I was about to put the bit in his mouth however, I stopped and shrank back into the shadow, for I heard the voices of the men who were at work in the place outside.

At any other time it would have amused me to find that they were speaking about myself. One of them, who was evidently Scotch, said that I was "a very bonnie lassie," with a "winsome face," and eyes like stars. The other remarked that I was much too good for his master, who was a surly brute, with an awful temper at times. He wondered how I ever came to fancy him at all. I could have told him that fancy had very little to do with my being his wife.

All the time they were near I cowered back into my corner and trembled lest I should be discovered; but it was very dark now, and my gray cloak was not easily to be discerned in the obscurity within the stables, and gradually their voices died away in the distance.

When all was quite quiet again, I led Gladiator outside, and mounted him in a moment; and never shall I forget the exultant thrill which flashed through every nerve when my horse and I went galloping away into the darkness.

The nervous coldness I had been suffering from passed quite away from me as Gladiator bounded along. The fresh air and the delightful exercise brought back warmth to my frame and strength and courage to my sinking heart. I was determined never to return to the shelter of Cyril's roof again, even though I had the misfortune to call him "husband." Rather by far would I go out as a governess or a lady help; and I felt sure that when Cyril came home he would not be long in discovering the reason why I had left him.

I was now on my way to the nearest railway station, and my intention was to set off at once in search of Mrs. Holland. Once with her, I thought I could stay a day or two to take breath as it were, and then make some further plans for the future. My father could hear nothing of all this for some months at any rate, for he would soon be fairly launched on his voyage to England.

The moon rose; the night was clear and cloudless, with a slight frost. In any other circumstances it would have been a delightful ride under the brilliant starlight.

Even my very solitude was welcome to me after the hours I had spent that day in Cyril's society; and, alone with Gladiator, I began to feel like myself once more. But time pressed; I was compelled to ride fast to catch the last train that night, and I had many miles to go.

At last, after a gallop over a breezy stretch of tussock land unfenced and uncultivated, the lights of the railway station came in sight before me. I rode to within about a hundred yards of the station, and then I halted, and, in the shadow of a clump of trees, I dismounted.

"Good-bye, my darling, darling horse!" I said, clasping him round the neck and showering kisses on his smooth coat. "How I hope they will love you and be kind to you now that I shall not be there any longer to look after you! Go home, dear old fellow, and get there before daylight, so that no one may see the way you came!"

He rubbed his nose caressingly against me, and seemed to understand all that I said to him.

I broke into passionate tears and sobs as I rested my head against his neck, and felt as if I were losing my last friend. Then I dropped the bridle and walked away from him. He seemed perplexed, and followed me a few steps; but I ordered him to go home and pointed backwards towards the way that I had come. I knew that he would go straight back, not to Cyril's house, which he was scarcely yet accustomed to, but to my old home, and this would cause a delay of some hours before he was found, which would be in my favour.

At last, at a bend of the road, I lost sight of him, and, drying my tears as best I could, I hurried forward on to the station platform, and found that I had only just time to take my ticket before the train came up and carried me away with its other passengers.

I was rejoiced to find that the carriage in which I had taken a seat was quite empty. I wished to avoid all observation, though indeed by this late train I was not very likely to meet with any one who knew me. Of course Cyril would use his best endeavours to trace me out; but if I could only get the start of a few hours I might baffle all his inquiries.

It was about six o'clock in the morning when the train reached town, and I got out at once and drove to the station whence I had next to start. Here I waited until the morning was a little advanced, and then I sallied forth to make some purchases. I bought myself a neat travelling-bag and a complete new costume, including a hat, also a change of boots and a few other things.

(TO BE CONTINUED.)

GENERAL.

A GAS company has been formed for lighting Jerusalem, and a street car company for connecting that city with the Mount of Olives is hinted at.

THE New-Zealanders are destroying their forests in a manner so reckless that there is a fear not only of a scarcity of timber, but that the climate will soon be changed for the worse.

SOME one has said, what has been observed by thousands, that [illegible] from a middling fortune, and nothing will [illegible] sooner than a great one. Poverty treads upon the heels of great and unexpected riches.

TWO Texas desperadoes agreed to fight with knives in a closed room at Fort Worth. [illegible] they fully intended a deadly duel. They were prevented by arrest.

A MECHANIC at Beaufort, S.C., intent upon suicide by drowning, but aware that his body should be recovered, fastened lead to his head and life preservers to his feet before leaping into the water. So he quickly drowned, while his legs floated.

THE recent earthquake at Lisbon, Portugal, seems to have caused little damage; [illegible] have also been experienced lately in other Spanish towns and in sections of France.

SO the Prince of Wales is 39 years of age. [illegible] There is no help for it but patience. All things come to him who waits.

RECENTLY Prof. Huxley said that ninety-nine men out of every hundred became simply deteriorated after sixty years old, and were but obstacles in the way of the advance of new ideas. The world, he thought, would be benefited by any man who had taken part in science being strangled after sixty. [illegible]

JUSTICE SMITH said, on opening his court at Connorsville, Tenn.: "Well Henry Smith is arraigned for assaulting his father." [illegible] He continued: "The evidence is conclusive, and I'm not sure but I ought to send myself to jail for ten days. But as this is my first offence, and I certainly had a good deal of provocation, I will simply impose a fine of ten dollars."

THE Londonderry Sentinel says: "At all events, so far as Ulster is concerned, [illegible] The rebellion of 1798 began among the Presbyterians of Ulster, a circumstance of which [illegible]"

[illegible]

Account for it as we may, there is no gainsaying the fact [illegible]

[illegible] the world never appeared to be aware of their existence until they came into conflict with the ecclesiastical authorities to whom they were responsible for their teaching.

Popular as the Rev. Mr. MacDonnell of this city deservedly is, and various and admirable as are his gifts, it may well be questioned whether he would ever have become so widely known, or the object of one-half the interest he [illegible]

The Rev. Mr. Roy of Montreal, is a man of respectable gifts and considerable culture—greater perhaps in almost everything else than in that upon which he prides himself most, his ability as an original thinker; but it was not until he became so erratic and difficult [illegible] that he really became an object of wide-spread public attention and admiration. [illegible] he was probably the most popular minister in the city of Montreal. [illegible] he is pastor of one of the finest Protestant Churches in the commercial metropolis of Canada, [illegible]

The case of Prof. Swing, of Chicago, is another case which illustrates the same principle. [illegible]

It is too soon perhaps to speak particularly of the case of Dr. Thomas. It is still before the church courts, and what will be the final disposal of it, is not yet known. He more closely resembles Prof. Swing perhaps than any other minister in the United States. [illegible]

Now what does this all mean? How is this upward drift to be accounted for? [illegible]

MR. WORTH is described, by a recent interviewer, as looking like a shrewd active business man, with a head bearing a most pronounced resemblance to the portraits of Oliver Goldsmith.

THE Osservatore Romano tells its readers that whilst the Irish are now suffering, [illegible] the Holy See, have contributed a sum of money equivalent to 80,000 francs for their Archbishop's present to the Pope.

[illegible]

[illegible] in the future the ill[illegible] the player instead of [illegible]

THE corporation of the City of London have established a School of Music, wherein [illegible] the very best teach[illegible] indeed. Tuition [illegible] dollars for four lessons [illegible] best teachers. The [illegible] from about forty-two [illegible] a lesson, according [illegible]

By Ole Bull's last will, that artist bequeathed to the Museum of Bergen, Norway, [illegible] jewels, medals and decorations in the shape of [illegible] of the most [illegible] in the course of his long [illegible] kings and other grandees [illegible] not forgetting the golden [illegible] and pearls given to him [illegible] by the citizens of San Francisco.

Miss Terry will assist Mr. Irving in the production of Tennyson's new play. The Laureate's drama is to be a tragedy in two acts, based on an incident in the early Christian persecutions, as narrated by Gibbon. If [illegible] anything out of the [illegible] Mr. Irving and his company will do it; but Mr. Tennyson has not the gift of dramatic writing, and [illegible] wasting his efforts on [illegible] natural fitness for. His "Queen Mary" was [illegible] without either movement or [illegible] to make it take, on the stage.

An elephant is used in a spectacular play in Philadelphia. He is kept in a stable several [illegible] and taken to the theatre [illegible] proper point in the [illegible] One afternoon he took it into his [illegible] come to perform. [illegible] he burst into the [illegible] and several street [illegible] theatre; smashed a [illegible] place on the stage. [illegible] audience seemed [illegible] had made a mistake, [illegible] to be led back to the stable.

A Sensible Criticism.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean pricks the "hyper-classical" bubble as follows:

"Ole Bull did not undertake to give music that people did not comprehend. He did not soar away over the heads of those who came to hear him, for the sake of being called "classical." He gave what was pure and good, and was satisfied to feed his hearers with something that they could digest. He lived to contend with a fashion in music which, for the most part, is mere affectation. Nobody with a musical fibre in his soul [illegible] every note that came from his violin, and so what was the use of [illegible] because another performer would have played something that hardly anybody in the house could understand?

If Ole Bull played "music for the million," so much the better. They are the ones who want music, and who make popular concerts possible.

There has not been a time in fifty years when Ole Bull did not rank among the best half-dozen violin players in the world, whether measured by the "classical" standard or any other. Why should we not be simply grateful, now that he has gone, that we were fortunate enough to hear him before he died?

There is absolutely no one to take his place, and the great body of people whose enjoyment of music gave the chief importance to the art itself, his death must be reckoned a greater loss than that of any other one man could possibly be."

The Rights of an Organist.

The question as to the exact status of the organist, of his rights and wrongs, and of his privileges and duties, has often given rise to discussions, says a writer in the London Opinion. What with clergymen who know nothing of music, but who unfortunately think that they do, and members of the congregation who give advice which they do not need, the seat in front of the keyboard is not always too comfortable. As a case in point, and as further illustrating our remarks, we are informed that at a dissenting place of worship not a hundred miles from Liverpool, the other Sunday evening, a member of the congregation—himself a professor of music and an organist—was invited to fill the position of the regular organist, who was absent. All seemed to go most satisfactorily until the last hymn, before the reading of which the minister publicly expressed a wish that the hymn might be sung softly, and "with but little organ." The organist, exhibiting the courtesy of a gentleman, bent to the request of the worthy clergyman; but after the service this ill-advised and injudicious public remark was severely commented upon by the congregation. As a rule, the clergy know very little about organ-playing, although they not unfrequently attempt to dictate that which is not warranted. We shall next hear of the selection of stops being taken out of the organist's hands.

Concerning Applause.

The New York correspondent of the Rochester Democrat writes: Now that the theatres are open for the season, twenty-one in number, including concerts, the question of applause is one of much importance. It is well known that not only the players depend on their friends to start these flattering expressions, but the managers also employ leaders to give the cue at the professional occasions. It is an old habit, that applause as a part of public performance is as old as history itself. The Isthmian games were accompanied by loud confessions, which were heard as far as [illegible] From Greece the custom reached Rome, and Seneca speaks of clapping the hands and [illegible]. The Romans had three kinds of applause. One was the bombus, which resembled the loud buzzing of bees, made by the mouth and nose; the second was the imbrices, caused by striking together earthen vessels placed in theatres for that purpose, and the third was the testa, which was merely an increase on the last one. From the theatre the custom passed naturally to the church, and it was still common, by Augustine, to greet a fine passage in the sermon by a demonstration. Some pious [illegible] idea when they utter their fervent "amen" as the preacher pours out his eloquent and moving utterances, and some of the clergy are gratified at such, though it shows that the congregation [illegible] the custom is generally on the decline.

Emma Thursby at Wiesbaden.

Miss Thursby, according to her critics abroad, is worthy of being compared with Patti and Nilsson. This is, indeed, high praise, and all Americans will heartily congratulate our fair American Singer. That the readers of The Record may be enabled to judge for themselves, we quote the following from the Rheinischer Kurier: "Yesterday evening, [illegible] of hearing Miss [illegible] celebrated American vocalist. [illegible] As a pupil of [illegible] introduced by so [illegible] into the art circles [illegible] lady would attract [illegible] the success she [illegible] and which has made [illegible] popular artistic notabilities [illegible] Continent. We [illegible] the reality has far [illegible] expectations raised in [illegible] Strakosch. In the [illegible] and of the artistic sense of the words [illegible] dazzling, though [illegible] as by the person, not so astounding [illegible] which she holds [illegible] in which she as sovereign queen of [illegible] which modern vocal [illegible] virtuosity, can [illegible]; equality of tone [illegible] flexibility of a na[illegible] style which re[illegible] and which can do [illegible] of Italian florid [illegible] German 'Lied,' based [illegible] a certain intensi[illegible] Miss Thursby [illegible] as an artist, and [illegible] the critics, which [illegible] star in a beautiful [illegible] Christine Nilsson [illegible] few days Miss [illegible] where she has [illegible] the 'Kur,' and [illegible] purpose of singing [illegible] Emperor; we can only [illegible] here, also, had [illegible] the acquaintance [illegible] vocalist."

Alexander Mackenzie.

Alexander Mackenzie is no ordinary man, and has had no ordinary career. He has made for himself a name which will be indissolubly connected with the history of his adopted country, and has achieved a reputation and a position which could only have been secured by great natural abilities, undauntable courage, unshaken tenacity of purpose, great singleness and sympathy of aim, and withal, an integrity and honour which even his bitterest opponents have been forced at once to acknowledge and respect.

In the best sense of the term he has been a self-made man. He has had to maintain a constant struggle of one kind or another, and, upon the whole, has always come out with honour, and generally with what is called success. Born not far from Perth in Scotland, of a humble, yet respectable family, inheriting little or nothing from his father, except a sound constitution and a vigorous intellect, with high moral principles and a moderate amount of that common school education which has long been within the reach of even the poorest of Scotchmen, the future Premier of Canada was, while still merely a boy of some fourteen years of age, cast upon his own resources and forced to make his way in the world as he best could. We suppose that it is the right and proper thing to say that he learned in early life to be "a builder and architect," and that, coming to Canada when he was about twenty years of age, he struck vigorously out as a "contractor" for the erection of buildings of greater or less extent. But if one were permitted to use language of a plainer and less pretentious character in describing what he was and what he did it would have to be stated that Alexander Mackenzie and that, at first, when he came to Canada, he wrought at his trade for part of the time, at any rate, on some of the Government buildings, in Kingston, which, by and by, he had to visit and inspect as first Minister of the Crown. Nor is it any disparagement to Mr. Mackenzie, but very much the reverse, to speak of him in such language and to describe his occupation and original surroundings, in this way, in such language as facts would justify and as simple honesty would suggest. Some very foolish persons may wince under the idea of either themselves, or any of their relations, having ever been "mere mechanics" but a wiser estimate and a nobler pride will lead men to view matters in a very different light, and will, if necessary, make them glory in the thought of having originally been "poor, but honest," especially if they can add—

LEARNED THE HANDICRAFT OF A STONE MASON,

"POOR NO LONGER, BUT HONEST STILL."

It is not necessary to describe how the stone mason rose, step by step, till he could say with the proud self-respect of modest worth and conscious success to any who might be inclined to sneer at his lowly origin and his humble occupation:—"Yes, I was a mason, but had you been a mason, you would have been a mason still." Few though Mr. McKenzie's opportunities for mental improvement were, it would be a great mistake to think of him, even in his early days, as an uneducated man. He had, from boyhood, a quenchless thirst for knowledge, and always did his very utmost to turn what opportunities he had for mental improvement to the best account. Living in an atmosphere of mental activity, ceaseless discussion and eager curiosity, it was but natural that his original faculties should have been greatly sharpened by all that he saw, heard and experienced, amid the varied occurrences of his early life. It is notorious that in very many cases whether in politics, religion or science, are eagerly and intelligently canvassed among working men both during their hours of labour and rest. Alexander Mackenzie had his full share of the discipline and studies to be derived from such schools and schoolmasters, while his private reading and systematic study were at once extensive and thorough, not only considering his outward circumstances, but even though there had been much more favourable than they were. It is not saying anything but what is matter of notoriety to affirm that Mr. Mackenzie's acquaintance with English literature in general as well as with some departments of science, to say nothing of politics and political economy, which he has made specially his own, is far more extensive and greatly more accurate and at command than that of many who have had leisure all their days, and who have been honestly trying to turn that leisure to pleasant and profitable account.

ALL THE BURNING QUESTIONS OF THE HOUR,

It could not be that such a man should remain at his original low level, especially in such a country as Canada where a career is open to every one who has intelligence enough to mark his opportunity, and energy to seize that opportunity and turn it to satisfactory account. Step by step he made his way.

HIS SOUND JUDGMENT,

his varied knowledge, his ready utterance and his fearless outspoken honesty, which was at once bold without being rash, and soundly cautious without being weakly cowardly, gave him a standing and influence among an ever-widening number of neighbours and acquaintances. It was a stirring time in Canada's history when the battle of constitutionalism was being fought out, against personal government and irresponsible cliques, and in all the discussions and contendings, Mr. Mackenzie bore himself right manfully both with tongue and pen. The editor's chair was occupied with characteristic energy independence and success, and gradually, from being a mere local notability, Mr. Mackenzie rose to be generally recognized as most honest politicians and most intelligent statesmen. Into the details of his public career or into any defence of his principal means it is not our intention to enter. We are not either among his undiscriminating eulogists or his unswerving adherents. It would not be difficult to point out what may be his failings, or to indicate what have to be regarded as his positive faults. Perhaps he might have been more conciliatory without losing any of his honesty, and less abrupt and outspoken without his independence and fearlessness having, to any degree, to be called in question. His opponents have often said that he is not a "gentleman." It all depends upon what they mean by such a term. In a very narrow conventional and altogether unimportant sense what they say may have about it a certain modicum of truth. But in the better and more honourable meaning of the word, the best, most sensible and most high minded of his political opponents will never refuse to Alexander Mackenzie the honour and the excellences implied in such a name. His tongue may not be exactly and always tuned to court airs, though as a courtier, even his friends and admirers have never had to blush on his account. He may indeed have sometimes been resolute in his adherence to his own opinions and plans to an extent which savoured of obstinacy, and, in the consciousness of personal integrity and strong desire to do right, may have judged others with some measure of undue harshness, and condemned them in tones of needless severity. He has never had the

ONE OF CANADA'S MOST USEFUL CITIZENS,

CONCILIATORY BEARING AND PERSONAL MAGNETISM

of his great rival. Men have followed him more from respect for his honesty, from confidence in the soundness of his judgment and from sympathy with the general tone of his political opinions, than from anything like personal regard for the man, to say nothing of positive affection for the friend. It cannot be said that he has ever awakened great enthusiasm among the rank and file of his party, and when at last his great defeat came, he might perhaps think he had reason to complain of the indifference of some and the positive coldness of others. He is not a man however to allow himself to be greatly or permanently discouraged, nor is he either so vain or so self-sufficient as to refuse to do any thing unless he be permitted to mould the policy and head the movement. Now that he has ceased to be leader of his party. We have no doubt that he will show he has no hard feelings about all that has come and gone, and that, as he made a resolute and reliable occupant of the first place, so he can accommodate himself wisely and modestly to a second, and that in loyalty to his party, as well as to his new chief, he both can and will give an example which all will be constrained to admire, and many will be led to imitate. Some have, indeed, hinted that he will henceforth take no part in political movements, except as a "full private" in the Reform ranks, and that because he thinks he has been badly used, and

HAS THEREFORE HAD GOOD REASON TO BE OFFENDED.

All this will be found eventually to have no foundation. Mr. Mackenzie has too much good sense, and is too loyal to his principles, to allow any merely personal considerations or supposed slights to turn him from his duty, or make him indifferent to the cause with which, through all his public life he has been so thoroughly identified. He is too big a man to go off in a pet, and too conscientious to sacrifice important public interests to something like personal annoyance. He knows well, that if he is not nominally first in his party, he will always be a very important and quite indispensable second; and with that conviction, he can afford to forget all individual grievances, and disregard what he might be easily be look upon as UNJUSTIFIABLE SLIGHTS.

That the Reform party is at present considerably demoralized is beyond all reasonable question, but that it is fatally and finally broken up, is not at all so evident. Mr. Mackenzie has still before him the possibility of a good many years of earnest and efficient work, and that he will perform that work to the best of his ability, whatever return he may receive for it, is fully believed by his friends, and scarcely doubted even by his enemies. Nobody would ever think of speaking of him as a great man in the ordinary sense of that phrase. Still, few in Canada have had a more remarkable, or a more honoured career. He has had and when the time comes to make the final award, and fix the permanent estimate, we have no doubt that his name will be unanimously enrolled among Canada's worthies, and that, with all his shortcomings and imperfections, he will be regarded as one who did the State some service, and himself and his country not a little honour. The humble mechanic, who so raised himself that, for five years, he usefully, honourably, and with success, occupied the place of First Minister of the Crown in this great Dominion, can never be spoken of, but with honour and respect. Whatever may be in store for him, his past record is before his country, and he can well leave that record to speak for him both before his contemporaries and to those who may come after. Even personal spite and party hatred have never breathed a word against the purity and honour of his private life. He has for many years made public profession of being a follower of Christ, and his general conduct has been such, that, watched as it has been by not a few who were personal and political antagonists, nothing has ever been adduced which might fairly make the sincerity of that profession to be questioned or cast a doubt upon the genuineness of that which has given a colour and character to his life, and purified and enabled his whole history. Apart then altogether from the passing politics of the day, Canadians of every name and of every party may well be proud of such a man, and of such a career. Such a course was possible only in a free country and amid free institutions, and it is infinitely to the credit of both the country and the man, that he who landed in this Western world a poor unfriended mechanic, should, within a quarter of a century, have made his way so unmistakeably to the front that few names in all the land were ever more household words than his has now become, and that few have occupied a position more honoured and influential than that which he has achieved. TRUTH honours him while it seeks no favour at his hand, and expects no benefit from his patronage. In the shade as he is now, there is the less temptation to flattery, perhaps the more to fault-finding. But should his star be ever again in the ascendant, as very possibly it may be, not a few may then be ready to endorse what now may be regarded as excessive an quite uncalled-for eulogy, as only the honest truth spoken in kindness, yet with undoubted impartiality.

FEW HELPS, AND MANY HINDRANCES,

Municipal Matters

(From the Toronto Truth.)

Canada has hitherto been free to a very great extent, from those disagreeables which largely compose the Municipal politics of the United States. Not only have we been able to keep corruption in the smaller elections at a minimum, but we have almost always, (in Ontario at least), elected the best man who offered himself for any civic position, without regard to his creed, political or religious. And that this is a feather in our national cap, even Americans do not deny: in fact on the several occasions when Aldermen and Town Councillors from the bordering States of the Union have had an opportunity of expressing their views at Canadian banquets and municipal gatherings this point has been dwelt upon time and again.

We have been proud of it! They have been anxious to emulate our example! And just when we were placidly congratulating ourselves that "we were not as other men are" there came a bomb-shell into the camp in the form of the Mail's manifesto.

That the Conservatives have as good a right to use their "political machine" in municipal matters as their opponents, no one can for a moment deny: and that Mr. Blake's speech before a Reform ward meeting, and his announcement that he intended to be present and speak at others, was a strong aggravation to the Tory Press, is equally indubitable. At the same time we feel that the "Mail" was scarcely justified in the course it chose to adopt. Two wrongs can never make a right, and if Mr. Blake was wrong in lowering his dignity as the leader of a great party, the Mail cannot surely expect to make him go right, by going wrong itself. As an independent journal we feel it our duty to protest against the American principle of electing a man to a civic position, solely on account of his party stripe, which we grieve to say is as often a badge of dishonour as of honour. Extreme men are sometimes honest but rarely so. In fact their very political existence obliges them to swallow many a nauseous dose, in order to retain their influence in the "Ward." A politician is not made in a day, he has very many stages to pass through and very many rungs to rise on the political ladder, before he can aspire to either of the two positions, which as a rule bound his ambition, viz., a good Government situation or a seat in the Legislature or Parliament. Now we hold that it is almost impossible for an extreme Party man to deal justly with, and for the benefit of, his fellow citizens, because the very natural feeling of gratitude to the men who had placed him in his position would compel him to reward them with such patronage as fell within his power to bestow, if they clamoured for it and if he had been elected by the two great parties he would of necessity bestow all he had to give on the supporters of his party, i. e., his own supporters.

Would this not be a pretty state of things? We will suppose that St. James' Ward has elected three Reformers to serve in the Council; the Committee on Works almost equally divided between both parties, has decided to lay down some (quite unneeded?) new pavements, now the patronage, by custom, falls largely to the three aforesaid aldermen, and they accordingly appoint, through their Reform foreman, Reform labourers. "But," say the Tory aldermen on the committee, "we will not stand this, we have a majority of one, and we will, even at this stage, use our influence with the Council and Mayor" (also a Tory) "to stop this work on one pretext or another. And thus a lively "dog fight" commences which probably continues until next election, and in the meantime the streets of the "loyal, noble and independent Ward of St. James" have to go unpaved, much to the discomfort and annoyance of those highly respectable citizens who pay their taxes without a murmur, (so long as they are not too high), do not care the toss of a copper which party rules, so long as they are left in peace, and moderately governed. "This state of things ought not to be allowed to make any more headway in Toronto than it has done so far. We have already seen the time of both Committee and Council frittered away for what? Well for anything rather than the good of the citizens at large, and though we have had but a very mild attack of partyism, sufficient there has been to warn us against allowing the insidious reptile to warm itself in our bosom.

We deprecate most earnestly, any further Americanizing of our home-made and homely Canadian institutions which have, up to this time, stood us in good stead, and which have called forth from at least one American deputation such words of commendation as these—: "Toronto stands ahead of us in everything excepting street pavements."

Let us then vote for the best man, irrespective of what party he may support, let us undo the mischief which has already been done, by this miserable Ward tinkering, let us countenance only the men who will spend our money on the streets instead of wasting it on banquets and other extravagances, who will spend their fellow-citizens' money, as if it were their own, and then, we may reasonably hope for a good honest civic administration such as will be at once the pride and envy of every city, town, and village, throughout Fair Canada.

They get all kinds of men into Congress. Arkansas has returned a coloured barber, and Tennessee a man who lost his citizenship under a conviction for incest. Of course he is disqualified. This is worse than the appointment in our own country of ex-convicts to act on the commission of the peace, and is somewhat of a contrast to the action of the British Parliament when, some years ago, a convict was returned and summarily refused admittance to the House. The line should be drawn somewhere, and Britons draw it at Bradlaugh.

Monstrous Hides.

HOW THE SKINS OF THE RHINOCEROS AND BOA-CONSTRICTOR ARE UTILIZED.

The hides of the bull, bear, sheep, goat, kid, and even the [illegible] years past, have been sold in [illegible] markets, and are considered the [illegible] able for the manufacture of [illegible] saddlery, harness and other articles [illegible] general use and wear of both [illegible] But the ingenuity of this latter [illegible] can recruit to have no limit. [illegible] jungles of the sunny Eastern [illegible] have been penetrated in order to [illegible] wants of fashion and of trade. [illegible] the ponderous, clumsy and ugly [illegible] and the treacherous, venomous [illegible] strictor are now being turned into [illegible] account by manufacturers.

The hide of the rhinoceros, [illegible] heaviest and thickest description, [illegible] pear to many to be more serviceable [illegible] manufacture of saddlery and [illegible] this is not the case. Manufacturers [illegible] ers in these articles have [illegible] most endurable leather to be of [illegible] their trade, because, owing to [illegible] and thickness, a needle of any [illegible] sharpness can hardly be made [illegible] it. Some two months ago a [illegible] firm tested the durability and [illegible] rhinoceros hide in the made [illegible] carriage spring. It was [illegible] rhinoceros leather was in to [illegible] to satisfy the supply of these [illegible] only by slow work could orders be [illegible] then the result of this innovation [illegible] itself, and the hide of the mighty [illegible] was discovered, could not [illegible] much of wear and tear as the [illegible] made in the same thickness [illegible] the same uses.

The skin was tanned and [illegible] by foreign concerns, and [illegible] brought very high prices. Its [illegible] was not known to a very great [illegible] lately. At present the hide of the [illegible] is chiefly adapted to the manufacture [illegible] ellers' buffing wheels, which are [illegible] making a polish on gold jewellery, [illegible] brought out in burnishing brass [illegible] many and England there are about [illegible] tanneries where the skin of the rhino [illegible] prepared for the market.

The skins are sent to the tanneries from Africa, in some cases by regular hunting expedition parties. It requires [illegible] to three years' time to prepare the [illegible] these huge monsters for the leather [illegible] When the time and cost required are [illegible] into consideration, the cost of [illegible] leather after importation is considerable.

From one whole rhinoceros skin [illegible] mated that at least 250 pounds can be secured for utilization from the tanner, when assorted will, when sold, bring $300 to $400. Although it takes nearly [illegible] years to prepare one of these hides for market, at least 100 could be run [illegible] the process at the same time.

The skins of the boa-constrictor [illegible] plied through the European market [illegible] directly brought from the deep [illegible] both Asia and Africa. The serpents [illegible] trapped and secured by the slaves [illegible] tal, Turkish and Egyptian tradespeople [illegible] have long been supplying the demand [illegible] snake charmer, showmen and stylish [illegible] and damsels of foreign countries [illegible] snakes are often worn around the [illegible] arms of these people while alive [illegible] are made harmless by the skill [illegible] necromancer or serpent-doctor, [illegible] honoured for his wonderful power [illegible] successfully tearing out the fangs [illegible] drawing the deadly poison from the serpents.

Ladies, waist belts and chatelaines [illegible] worn made of the serpents' skins [illegible] streets daily. Such appliances create [illegible] sity wherever seen, looking so wild and [illegible] barous in their design as to cause [illegible] to their genuineness. They bring good [illegible] Card, cigarette and cigar cases and [illegible] monnaies are made to order from the [illegible] material, as well as small satchels and [illegible] ping bags. In securing these kings [illegible] of the forest and jungle, the great [illegible] dangers are encountered.

The manner of preparing the skins [illegible] tannery is of a delicate nature. After [illegible] serpent has been put to death by a [illegible] that will preserve the skin from any [illegible] the body is passed over to a tanner [illegible] who strips the hide as he would the [illegible] from an eel. The tanner doctors the [illegible] hide so that it becomes perfectly pliable [illegible] retains all its natural appearance and [illegible] as in life. Boa-constrictors, though [illegible] ferocious and dangerous species of [illegible] are also of a very costly order to obtain [illegible] this country they have heretofore been [illegible] sidered only in the light of an attractive [illegible] feature among many curiosities attached [illegible] a circus, side show, or private [illegible] museum.

Hunting for Submarine Treasure.

A schooner, owned by a Connecticut [illegible] marine Company," is being used [illegible] a sunken wreck off Round Island, [illegible] skill, on the Hudson. The wreck [illegible] there many years, and is reputed [illegible] been the ship of the famous pirate [illegible] Kidd. A visitor found among the [illegible] ances of the schooner a great [illegible] machines, chains, pumps, rubber tubes [illegible] other contrivances, for bringing treasure [illegible] of deep water. Chief among these [illegible] large diving bell, of boiler iron, with [illegible] round windows on every side, so that [illegible] man inside can see out in every direction, [illegible] up, down, and across. It is kept in [illegible] the hold, and when it is to be used, [illegible] the top are unfastened, the top being [illegible] so tight that the affair is both air and [illegible] proof. The sensation of being [illegible] this narrow iron prison for the first [illegible] said to be terrible, though the experienced [illegible] divers do not mind it. There are two [illegible] tubes attached to the top, one to carry [illegible] the exhausted air, the other to supply [illegible] air. When the man is fastened in, [illegible] pump is started, and the bell is hoisted [illegible] with an immense derrick and lowered [illegible] the side. This bell can operate in [illegible] hundred feet of water, and is [illegible] raised or lowered by steam. When [illegible] ready it is lowered to the bottom. The [illegible] inside looks through his windows, and [illegible] termines what must be done first. He [illegible] wires to pull to signal the men above, [illegible] can tell them to hoist, lower, give him [illegible] or less air, or any other signals that [illegible] have been agreed upon. Attached to [illegible] side of the diving bell, and [illegible] steam, from above, is what is called [illegible] arm"—a heavy attachment, provided [illegible] so many joints and swivels that it is [illegible] of making all the many motions of the [illegible] arm, with much greater strength than [illegible] human arm ever had. This arm has [illegible] with fingers, that hold a saw, an [illegible] crowbar, or any instrument desired. [illegible] man in the bell desires to saw, he is [illegible] up, a saw is put in the steam hand, [illegible] goes back and begins work. When [illegible] wants an axe or a hammer he is drawn [illegible] again, and the tool is changed. The [illegible] bell is almost human in its capacity [illegible] work, and, with the brains of a man [illegible] it is a valuable labourer. When the [illegible] is in very deep or dark water, or at [illegible] an electric light is attached to the bell [illegible] the bottom for many yards around is [illegible] as bright as if the sun shone upon it. [illegible] effect upon the surface of the water [illegible] bright light underneath is said to be [illegible] and beautiful, and some of the Rip [illegible] Winklites who live up yonder on the [illegible] may well begin to wonder when they see [illegible] bottom of the Hudson bright with electric [illegible] light and a steam man digging for a pirate's [illegible] treasures.

There seems to be about as [illegible] difficulty in settling affairs in South Africa [illegible] as in satisfying the claims of the [illegible] leaguers. Notwithstanding all the [illegible] against Sir Bartle Frere, it is becoming [illegible] clear that it will be a very difficult [illegible] to make the Basutos and other tribes [illegible] ciently peaceful to render them [illegible] pleasant neighbours to our colonists or [illegible] able subjects of the Cape Government [illegible] is more than probable that the colonists [illegible] be overmatched in the struggle with them, [illegible] for they will be frightfully outnumbered [illegible] one thing, and our experience in Zululand [illegible] showed plainly that those "niggers" [illegible] South Africa are by no means [illegible] foes. The end will be in [illegible] further expenditure of the money of [illegible] British taxpayer, and of the blood of [illegible] British soldier.

IT is said of Darmstadt that it is [illegible] healthiest spot on the globe. Nearly all [illegible] inhabitants die of old age, or when they [illegible] tired of life move to Munich, where they [illegible] sure to drop off in a very short time. [illegible] it is all a mistake," said a poor and [illegible] peasant to his doctor: "Darmstadt has [illegible] a healthy climate, for I had a cousin [illegible] resided there, and he suddenly took sick [illegible] died." "And what was his disease, [illegible] friend?" asked the astonished doctor, [illegible] ing over his gold bowed spectacles. [illegible] peasant thought he proved his assertion [illegible] the climate was unhealthy by replying: "Why, he died of delirium tremens."

THE sale of "gold" bricks, made principally of brass, is brisk in the West. [illegible] corner is pure gold, and from it is clipped [illegible] ample to be assayed.

[illegible] FRIDAY MORNING.

[illegible] time to meet the early mails, [illegible] the latest Foreign and Provincial [illegible] Intelligence, County Business, [illegible] Matters and an Instructive [illegible]

[illegible] in advance, $1.50 in three months, [illegible] paid till end of the year. No pa[illegible] discontinued until all arrearages are [illegible] except at the option of the publisher, [illegible] parties refusing papers without paying [illegible] be held responsible for the subscrip[illegible] until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

One column, one year		$50 00
Half do	do	30 00
Quarter do	do	18 00
Eight do	do	10 00
Cards	do	4 60
[illegible] under, first insertion		50
[illegible] subsequent insertion		15
[illegible] to ten lines, first insertion		75
[illegible] subsequent insertion		25
[illegible] ten lines, first insertion per line		8
Each subsequent insertion		2

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid brevier. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 11 o'clock on the Thursday preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

DR. PURDY,
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR, EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
Physicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
OFFICE—Medical Hall; residence at [illegible] House.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
Barrister at Law, - Owen Sound.
OFFICE.—Millers's building, over [illegible] store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost.
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have re-[illegible] [illegible] Office open every Thurs[illegible]
[illegible] FROST. J. W. FROST, LL.B.
County Crown Attorney.

James Masson,
BARRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Master in Chancery, Owen Sound.
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1

James Lamon.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN Chancery, Notary Public, &c.
Money loaned at lowest rates on personal [illegible] real estate. Lands bought and sold [illegible] and seller introduced free of commission.
DUNDALK.
September 21st, 1880. 1

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, Commissioner in B. R. &c.
Conveyancing in all its branches [illegible] to and carefully executed.
[illegible]—Money to Lend on Real Estate [illegible]
Markdale. Sept. 17, 1880. 1

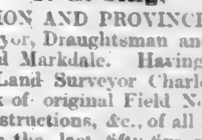
W. L. Smith.
GENERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN Jersey Stock, William-ford Station.
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [illegible] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [illegible] B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [illegible] ants, and Land Sales. Punctually at[illegible] to and charges made very moderate.
[illegible]ceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1

George Corbet, Jr.
LAND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low [illegible] of interest. Principal payable at the [illegible] of a term of years, and interest half year[illegible] yearly, or principal and interest repay[illegible] in instalments.
A number of desirable Improved Farms [illegible] sale. 1-y

J. G. Sing.
DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator [illegible] and Markdale. Having purchased [illegible] Provincial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [illegible] stock of original Field Notes, Plans, [illegible] Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [illegible] within the last fifty-five years, I am [illegible] prepared to make Surveys in strict accordance therewith. Profiles and Estimates [illegible] Grading Hills, Plans and Specifications [illegible] Building Bridges, furnished on application. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [illegible] by letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [illegible] Markdale, will be promptly attended to.
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White.
Assistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound.
WILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday of [illegible] month, when he will be prepared to perform all operations required upon the mouth [illegible] a most satisfactory manner, and upon reasonable terms. 1

Hotels.

MANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
Having leased the above hotel and thoroughly refurnished and refitted it, the travelling public will find every accommodation. [illegible] the best of liquors and cigars kept. [illegible] stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1-y

ROYAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.
J. McGIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.
[illegible] accommodation for the travelling [illegible] is well stocked with the [illegible] and Liquors and the [illegible] brands of Cigars.
[illegible] 'bus to and from all trains.
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms [illegible] Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [illegible] supplied with the best the market [illegible] good Stabling and attentive Hostlers.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
[illegible]ber 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSON,

BUTCHER
[illegible] Markdale, next door to Expositor [illegible]
Meat delivered at any house in town [illegible]
[illegible] 1880. 1-y

Sheep and Cattle.

[illegible] having good fat Sheep or [illegible] to sell, will find it to their advantage [illegible] there names and address at Mc[illegible] Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, [illegible] signed are still on the war path, [illegible] positively pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEERS.
[illegible], 1880. 1-y

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 12. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 1, 1880. WHOLE NO. 2

Mo[illegible]

HOW THE SKINS OF THE [illegible] CONSTRICTOR [illegible]

The hi[d]es of the b[illegible] sheep, goat, kid, and [illegible] years p[a]st, have been sold [illegible] markets, and are considered [illegible] able for the manufacture of [illegible] saddlery, harness and other [illegible] general use and wear of both [illegible] But the ingenuity of this [illegible] can seems to have no limit. [illegible] jungles of the sunny [illegible] have been penetrated in order to [illegible] wants of fashion and of trade. [illegible] the ponderous, clumsy and [illegible] and the treacherous, [illegible] strictor are now being turned [illegible] account by manufacturers.

The hide of the rhinoceros [illegible] heaviest and thickest description [illegible] pear to many to be more servi[illegible] manufacture of saddlery and [illegible] this is not the case. Manuf[illegible] ers in these articles have [illegible] most endurable leather to be [illegible] their trade, because, owing [illegible] and thickness, a needle of [illegible] sharpness can hardly be ma[illegible] it. Some two months ago a [illegible] firm tested the durability and [illegible] rhinoceros hide in the ma[illegible] carriage spring. It was [illegible] rhinoceros leather was in too great [illegible] to satisfy the supply of these [illegible] [o]n'y by slow work could orders be [illegible] then the result of this innovation [illegible] itself, and the hide of the mighty [illegible] was discovered, could not [illegible] much of wear and tear as the [illegible] made in the same thickness [illegible] the same uses.

The skin was tanned and [illegible] by foreign concerns, a[illegible] brought very high price. Its [illegible] was not known to a very great [illegible] lately. At present the hide of the [illegible] is chiefly adapted to the manufacture [illegible] [je]llers' butling wheels, which are [illegible] making a polish on gold jewellery [illegible] brought out in burnishing brass. [illegible] many and England there are about [illegible] tanneries where the skin of the [illegible] prepared for the market.

The skins are sent to the tanneries from Africa, in some cases by regular [illegible] ing expedition parties. It require[s] [illegible] to three years' time to prepare the [illegible] these huge monsters for the leather [illegible] When the time and cost required are [illegible] into consideration, the cost of [illegible] leather after importation is considerable.

From one whole rhinoceros skin it [illegible] mated that at least 250 pounds can be [illegible] secured for utilization from the tannery [illegible] wh[e]n assorted will, when sold, bring [illegible] $300 to $400. Although it takes nearly [illegible] years to prepare one of these hides [illegible] market, at least 100 could be run [illegible] the process at the same time.

The skins of the boa-constrictor [illegible] p[asse]d through the European market [illegible] directly brought from the deep [illegible] both Asia and Africa. The [illegible] trapped and secured by the slaves [illegible] tal, Turk[s] and Egyptian trade[rs] [illegible] have long been supplying the [illegible] snake charmer, showmen and styl[illegible] and damsels of foreign countries [illegible] snakes are often worn around the [illegible] arms of these people while alive [illegible] are made harmless by the skill [illegible]

[illegible]

Hunting for Submarine Trea[sure]

[illegible]

[The] Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

[EVE]RY FRIDAY MORNING

In time to meet the early mails. [Con]tains the latest Foreign and Provincial [News], Local Intelligence, County Business, [Comm]ercial Matters and an Instructive [Misce]llany.

[$1.]25 in advance, $1 50 in three months, [if] not paid till end of the year. No pa[per d]iscontinued until all arrearages are [paid, e]xcept at the option of the publisher, [P]arties refusing papers without paying [wi]ll be held responsible for the subscrip[tion u]ntil they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

[One co]lumn, one year			$50 00
[Half]	do	do	30 00
[Quarte]r	do	do	18 00
[Eighth]	do	do	10 00
	do	do	4 60
		do	50
[Six line]s and under, first insertion			15
[Ea]ch subsequent insertion			75
[Six] to ten lines, first insertion			25
[Ea]ch subsequent insertion			8
[Over te]n lines, first insertion per line			2
[Ea]ch subsequent insertion

[The] number of lines to be reckoned by [the spa]ce occupied measured by a scale of [solid b]revier. Advertisements without [specific] directions will be published till for[bid and] charged accordingly. All transitory [advertis]ements must be in the office of pub[lication] by 11 o'clock on the Thursday [mornin]g preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[PRO]FESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

DR. PURDY,

[PH]YSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[EUR], EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,

[Phys]icians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.

[OFF]ICE.—Medical Hall; residence at [...]ale House.

[Markd]ale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,

[Barri]ster at Law, - Owen Sound.

[OFF]ICE.—Millers's building, over Robin[son's s]tore, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,

[BA]RRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT [L]aw, Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[ancers, &]c., Owen Sound, have resumed at [Flesher]ton, Office open every Thursday, as [befo]re.

[...] Frost. J. W. Frost, LL. B.

[Cou]nty Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson,

[BAR]RISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, [Ma]ster in Chancery, Owen Sound.

[...] 17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,

[ATT]ORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN [Ch]ancery, Notary Public, &c.

[Money] loaned at lowest rates on personal [or real] estate. Lands bought and sold, [and] seller introduced free of commis[sion].

DUNDALK.

[...]ember 21st, 1880. 1

[Con]veyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,

[ISSUER] OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., [Co]mmissioner in B. R. &c.

[Conve]yancing in all its branches promptly [attended] to and carefully executed.

Money to Lend on Real Estate se[curity].

[...], Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. L. Smith,

[GEN]ERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN [...]ey Stock, Williamsford Station.

[...] 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,

[ISSUE]R of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [Life] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [in B. R.] &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [Auction]eer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [Sale No]tes, and Land Sales, Punctually at[tended to] and charges made very moderate.

[...]lle, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,

LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, [Owe]n Sound. Money to Loan at low [rates of in]terest. Principal payable at the [end of te]rm of years, and interest half year[l]y, or principal and interest repay[able in in]stalments.

[A n]umber of desirable Improved Farms [for sale]. 1-y

J. G. Sing,

[DOM]INION AND PROVINCIAL LAND [Sur]veyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, [Dundalk] and Markdale. Having purchased [the] Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [bo]ok of original Field Notes, Plans, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [with]in the last fifty-five years, I am [prepared] to make Surveys in strict accord[ance t]herewith. Profiles and Estimates [for Gra]ding Hills, Plans and Specifications [for Bui]lding Bridges, furnished on applica[tion. M]oney to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [Apply b]y letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [...], will be promptly attended to.

[...] 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.

[M]r. James J. White,

[Assista]nt to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, [WIL]L BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, [M]arkdale, on the last Wednesday in [each mon]th, when he will be prepared to per[form o]perations required upon the mouth [in the m]ost satisfactory manner, and upon [reasonab]le terms. 1-y

Hotels.

[MA]NSION HOUSE MARKDALE.

[Having] leased the above hotel and thor[oughly] furnished and refitted it, the trav[elling pub]lic will find every accommodation. [T]he best of liquors and cigars kept. [Good sta]bling. Careful hostler.

JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.

[...]7, 1880. 1-y

[RO]YAL HOTEL, MEAFORD, Ont.

[...] McGIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.

[Acco]mmodation for the travelling [public. Bar] is well stocked with the [best Wines] and Liquors and the best Cigars.

[Bu]s to and from all trains.

[...], 1880. 1-y

[COM]MERCIAL HOTEL. PRICEVILLE, Ont.

[Large a]nd commodious Sample Rooms: [...] Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [sup]plied with the best the market af[fords. Goo]d Stabling and attentive Hostler's.

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.

[...] 31st, 1880. 8

[GE]ORGE WILSON,

[BU]TCHER

Markdale, next door to Expositor

[Mea]t delivered at any house in town.

[...], 1880. 1-y

[Sh]eep and Cattle.

[FARM]ERS having good fat Sheep or [Cattle] to sell, will find it to their advant[age to leav]e there names and address at Mc[...] Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, [The und]ersigned are still on the war path, [and will p]ositively pay the highest prices.

C. W, & A, SPEER S.

[...]th, 1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S Indian Blood Syrup.

DYSPEPSIA — LIVER DISEASES

LABORATORY, 77 W. 3d St., New York City

LATE OF JERSEY CITY.

CURES FEVER AND AGUE. CURES SCROFULA AND SKIN DISEASES. CURES BILIOUSNESS. CURES HEART DISEASE. CURES RHEUMATISM AND DROPSY. CURES NERVOUS DEBILITY.

[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9.000.000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Ptyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Ptyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certifiy that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont,, Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

NURSE (to protessional friend making a call)—"'Well, nuss', sez he, 'igh and 'orty like, he sez, 'Wot do you think?' says he, 'Doctor,'" I sez, quite differenshal, I sez. 'And I'm the same way of thinking, nuss,' sez he. And so we settles it." Professional friend (much interested.) "Lor'! And wot was his opinion now?" Nurse—"Bless yer 'art, my dear creetur, in course he never hadn't given none!"

The Pope's Change of Policy.

(From the London News.

Our correspondent in Rome telegraphs an account of the speech which the Pope delivered on the occasion of his reception of some of the holders of office in the Papal Court. The speech seems to have been precisely in keeping with the character of the reception. It was just the sort of address to deliver to the official representatives of a past day. It was an anachronism like the uniform of the Papal Guards. Pope Leo talked exactly as his predecessor, Pope Pius, might have done. He described the celebration of the 20th of September, the anniversary of the entrance of the Italian troops into Rome, as "an accursed day." Burke spoke of one of the festivals of revolution in France as the celebration of "a day that seemed to blot the sun out of heaven." Pope Leo's denunciation is less eloquent, but even more intense. The Pope reasserted all the title of the Vatican to the temporal power, and declared that he and his successors would never cease "to reclaim what by fraud and by deceit has been stripped from the Roman See." Apparently, Pope Leo is following in the path of his predecessor, not merely in denunciation, but in the sudden passing from Liberalism to reaction. The present Pontiff was understood to be a liberal, wise, and practical man of the world, and a courtier whose mind was open to the recognition of realities, and under whose rule the Church and the State might possibly become reconciled in Italy. The speech just delivered seems to show that there is now as little desire for such a reconciliation in the mind of the present Pope as there was in that of Pius IX. We presume we can hardly take it as possible that Pope Leo was only making a speech "in character" to the ancient officials, with the kindly object of keeping up their spirits and reviving the memory of past and fading days.

Plan for Catching the Express Trains.

M. Hanrez, of Paris, is the author of a method of taking up carriages by a train en route, in order to avoid stopping trains at stations to take passengers up. A "waiting carriage", fitted with a steam engine with special gear and space for passengers and luggage, is placed on a siding at the station, and picked up by the train as it goes past. The latter, by means of a hook on its last carriage, catches a ring supported on a post, and connected with a cable wound on a drum in the waiting carriage. Thereupon the drum begins to unwind, and in doing so compresses a system of springs, while the carriage is moved at a rate gradually increasing to that of the train. The engine of the carriage then winds in the cable, the train andcarriage are connected, passengers are transferred from the joined carriages to the train, and vice versa, then the two are disconnected, and the engine of the carriage working on the wheels brings it back to the station whence it was taken.

"On the Ground Floor."

A speculator who has involved his faithful shareholders is no end of disasters summons them to a meeting at which he reveals to them his intention of letting them in—on the ground floor—to a scheme in which there are millions.

This lucrative speculation, he explains, is a silver mine of unexampled richness situated in an unexplored country.

A shareholder (timidly)—"But, I say, we want to know if it really exists?"

Speculator (indignantly)— "What really exists. The mine sir?"

Shareholder (apologetically)—"No, the country."

A Funeral on the Czar's Yacht.

(From the New York Truth.

Brief and calm as was the voyage, it sufficed for a death and a sea burial. At 6 on Saturday night as Admiral Popoff and his guests sat down to an early dinner, a message that turned gladness to gloom was delivered to him. A stoker, asked to hold an electric lamp for a moment, in taking it into his hands, happened to grasp the electric wires as well as the frame, and in an instant was struck dead. The surgeon, in order to lessen the shock of the incident to those who heard of it, pretended to believe that the man might not be dead; but in the course of an hour the truth was known, and before night the death service of the Greek church was chanted over the body of one who was himself chanting a few hours before at a morning service. On Sunday morning his funeral service was gone through; the body was carried on deck. Admiral Popoff and one or two of his officers assisting the seamen who bore it, and launched with solemnity and with gunfire into the sea. Admiral Popoff has the reputation of being a great courtier. His humility at fitting seasons among the seamen may possibly spring from the like cause with his courtliness, but it is certainly a notable quality. At the close of the funeral service he knelt upon the deck bowed his forehead three times to the ground, and then kissed the rudely-carved image of the Savior which had belonged to the deceased, and the silver cross of the priest, both of which was laid upon the hammock shroud. This ceremony, in an abbreviated form, was gone through by all the officers and men present, excepting, of course, the English passengers.

The Czar's yacht carries no less than seventy-six electric lights, and when her splendid saloons, her marble-laid corridors, and her deck promenades are lighted up with them she is a wonder to see. The finest sight of all, though, is her engine-room at night, when the vast mass of moving machinery is everywhere seen to far greater advantage than by day, daylight failing to reach in any force, so to speak, parts which are brilliantly lighted by the artificial "noon of night."

Intrigues Against Bismarck.

(From the London Telegraph.)

Our Berlin correspondent makes an important communication respecting the probability of Prince Bismarck's proximate resignation of office and retirement into private life. It would appear that certain occult influences at the Prussian Court have recently been at work with the object of undermining his position, and that their machinations, of which he has become cognizant, have vexed hisfiery nature so keenly that he is actually meditating that which would fulfil the heart's desire of his enemies. The Prince, ever since he incurred the animosity of the wealthy and influential Catholic nobles by taking the initiative in the conflict between Stateand Church has, upon several occasions exhibited a peculiar, almost morbid susceptibility to attacks emanating from the quarter to which, as we are informed, this latest intrigue has been tracked. Already, owing to his excessivesensitiveness in this regard, he has, upon more than oneoccasion placed his resignation in the hands of the Emperor, who has, however, persistently declined to accept it, laying his positive commands upon the irritated statesman to retain office under the assurance of his sovereign's unalterable confidence and affection.

IN 1830 the wool clip of the world was estimated at 320,000,000 pounds; in 1878 at 1,586,000,000.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 77,

Uxbridge, Ont.

8

WOMAN GOSSIP.

Fashion Notes.

ALL cuffs are narrow.

TRAINS are greatly shortened.

MATADORA is the newest shade of red.

HIGH cuffs of both black and white lace are worn.

DRIVING cloaks are long, loose ulsters of cheviot.

THE "Abbe" is the new hat worn by ladies returning from abroad.

THE latest handkerchief is of deep brown with a gold-colored border.

BLUSH roses are the favorite decorations of many lovely evening dresses.

A NEW bonnet is made entirely of chenille, and is becoming, light and pretty.

VELVET brocade dresses are made perfectly plain, without any looping or draperies.

THE new green shades are impyan green, willow, moss, sorrel, grass and serpentine.

SOME of the new chemisettes are made of rows of lace with the edge pointing upward.

IRISH lace appears in the same old patterns of wheels, and in the same shapes for ties, cuffs and collars.

THE current collars, fichus and perlines are of the time of Robespierre, and so are the reticules and new cabriolet hats.

WHITE plush bonnets, with the crowns or brims dotted with medium-sized pearl beads, are the favorite dress bonnets.

VEILS of lace and grenadine have dots of chenille the shade of the veil, or are dotted gold, silver, black, white or red.

ON all toilets is worn a profusion of lace. Cascades of it run and ripple all over the costumes, and it heightens even the plainest dress.

FRENCH dressmakers substitute a shirred satin yoke pointed at the back and in front for the plainness of the round waist used by American dressmakers.

THE latest cloak is the Continental. It has a deep yoke, and into it are gathered several breadths of silk, full enough to reach nearly to the hem of the dress.

A CORSAGE cluster of bowers is now furnished by Parisian modistes with all dresses except the plainest suits. Sometimes a mall bird is perched in these clusters.

IT is the fashion abroad for ladies to part off the entire front hair, cut it off short enough to be manageable, and arrange it in thick, close curls upon the head and forehead.

MANY habit basques are embroidered with chenille, or even with extremely narrow ribbons, and trimmed with ancient buttons, or else of painted enamel, representing flowers, landscape or faces.

A HEAVY Capuchin cord is worn around the waist either of gold, silver or of a color to match the rest of the toilet. It was first introduced by Mrs. Cornwallis West, one of the professional beauties.

A STRIKING novelty in trimming materials is uncut velvet woven in heavy cords and reversible, showing a different color on each side. Worth uses this for trimmings in spirals, showing the two shades alternately, and the effect is particularly good.

THE amount of jet used in fabulous. Soft chenille fringes, with hollow jet beads, rosettes of silken jetted cords, wonderful bead embroideries and ornaments which are one mass of sparkling jet. These are the leading trimmings for the new cloaks in addition to fur.

The Princess of Wales, it is reported, means to set the London fashions during the coming season, and the Duchess of Edinburgh and the Duchess of Connaught have agreed to obey her. For one thing, the Jersey is to be abolished: and for another, the Tam O'Shanter cap.

Waifs.

THE bride and bridegroom at a Nashville wedding had only one leg apiece.

THE Empress of Austria goes to Ireland for hunting in February, after her son's marriage.

ONE hundred and twenty-seven persons have shoes of Maud S. in which she made her fastest trot.

HYMEN is the only torch-bearer whose campaign never ends.—[Boston Globe.] But the procession is growing shorter every year.

MISTRESS.—"Bridget, did you hear me call?" "Yis mum," said Bridget, "but you tould me the other day never to answer ye back and I didn't."

THE greatest fisherwoman in England is Lady Caroline Lennox, a daughter of the Duke of Richmond, who is a wonderful hand at landing salmon.

HE was informed that a lady had called to see him in his absence. "A lady," he mused, aloud—"a lady." Upon an accurate description, he suddenly brightened up, and added: "Oh, dot vas no lady; dot vas my vife."

THERE are a great many skilful engineers on our railways, but we never knew one yet who could kick his train around a curve with the grace and success with which a first-class actress can perform the operation.

THE Marquis of Stafford, eldest son of the Duke of Sutherland, is to marry Miss Harford, one of the new beauties, whose name, however, was kept out of the newspapers last season.

IN breaking the ground for a Methodist church, in St. Louis, a hundred women took part in the ceremony, each tossing some earth into a cart with a polished brass shovel.

A MARRIAGE license was returned to the County Clerk at Onawa, Iowa, with a request that the fee paid for it be sent back. The writer explained that the girl had eloped with another fellow.

OLIVE LOGAN, speaking of women in journalism, and the prevalent opinion that the stockings of the blue-stocking are of doubtful integrity, says she is not acquainted with any ladies of the pen whose apparel might force the joke that they were ladies of the pig-pen.

IT is said that the Duchess of Edinburgh feels badly on account of her unpopularity in England. She herself is genial, kindly, accomplished, and very finely educated, but the English like neither her devotion to her father's ideas nor her religion.

LADY HARBERTON has published a letter advocating the adoption of a sort of Turkish trousers for women, on account of the awkwardness of the lower portion of the tight short skirt, and proposing to slash the skirt so that it may fall open from the knees in front.

THE daughter of Marshall Serrano, Conchita, a Spanish belle and beauty, is about to marry Count Santovenia, while her brother Francisco, not yet twenty, is to marry Mercedes Castellflorite, the sister of the count. Conchita's wedding dress is of white satin, with ornaments of orange flowers made of diamonds. The Countess of San Fernando gives her a parure of black pearls and brilliants; among the other gifts is a wonderful jewelled fan of the sixteenth century, and a gold pen, adorned with rubies and diamonds, for signing the wedding contract.

He Put His Arm Around Her.

The other day several men were standing on a street corner, talking, when a handsomely dressed lady passed.

"You may not believe me," said a man named Spriggins, "but I have had my arm around that lady."

"You are a vile slanderer, sir," exclaimed young Mr. Paperage, and, drawing off, he struck Mr. Spriggins a heavy blow between the eyes. Both parties were instantly arrested, and when Mr. Spriggins requested that the lady be summoned, a policeman caught up with her and requested her presence in court, which had just convened in afternoon session.

"Judge," said Paperage, "while several acquaintances and myself were standing on the street talking, this lady passed. Then this man," pointing to Spriggins, "remarked that he had put his arm around her. The lady is nothing to me, Judge, but my mother was a lady, and my sisters are ladies, and I have always made it a point to chastise a man who speaks ill of a lady."

"Mr. Spriggins," remarked the Judge, "did you say that you had put your arm around the lady?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then the gentleman did right in striking you. Ladies are not safe in Little Rock so long as such ruffians are allowed to insult them."

"Judge, allow the lady to speak," requested Spriggins.

"Certainly. You will please make your statements."

"I didn't hear the man when he said that he had put his arm around me, and as I passed on I do not know what occurred."

"Excuse me for being blunt, but—but—"

"Do you mean to ask if the man ever put his arm around me?"

"Yes."

"Then, I must say that he has."

For a few moments there was a deep silence, only disturbed by a boy who picked at the plastering with a horseshoe nail.

"What right had he to put his arm around you?" stammered the Judge.

"Because," answered the woman, "he is my husband."

When the court adjourned, the men took beer, and "the court adjourned."

Ruddolph and Stephanie.

Concerning the marriage of Prince Rudolph of Austria, a correspondent writes: "Although more than three months must elapse before the arrival of the marriage day (Feb. 18), the official programme has not only been fixed, but numerous meetings have been held by corporations and clubs to consider what had best be done worthily to show their loyalty and enthusiasm. The costly and elegant gifts which will be offered to the young couple by these different societies will present a gorgeous array of native art and industry. Nearly every big town in the Austrian monarchy will offer its souvenir—from one a dinner service in crystal, set with precious stones, a masterpiece of Bohemian art; from another a stand of firearms, calculated to bring down any known quarry; from a third, a monster leather portfolio, cunningly adorned with filigree of gold and steel and containing views of Austrian scenery by the first artists of the land. There will be goblets, caskets, vases, and cups innumerable, jewels and furs, wonderful pieces of furniture, and carpets, and lace enough to set up a palace. The good people of Prague, whatever may be their political crotchets, are determined to show that their loyalty to the house of Hapsburg is real and lasting. The hradchin of Prague is to be one of the chief residences of the crown prince and his wife, and thither the young couple will betake themselves after they have "honeymooned" in Schonbrunn. The czechians are accordingly making ready to wish their future king and queen a fitting welcome, and 60,000 florins have been voted by the town council of Prague to do the thing handsomely. The flags and banners which will decorate all the public buildings of the picturesque old city will be of unusual splendour and richness, and are, moreover, to be painted in oils, so that in case of rain their colours will not "run." They will afterward be hung in one of the great halls of the palace and preserved as memorials of the wedding. With regard to the arrangements made in Vienna for the wedding itself, the following programme has been fixed upon: On the 10th of February the bride will arrive with her parents, King Leopold of Belgium and his queen, Maria Henrietta, at the Austrian frontier, where they will be greeted at Salsburg by the bridegroom, who will, however, return to Vienna the same evening, etiquette not sanctioning his accompanying his "future" on her travels. The future empress of Austria will follow next day with her royal parents, and will be received at the Penzing-Heitzing railway station by the bridegroom and his imperial father and mother, who will conduct the visitors to the Schonbrunn palace. Princess Stephanie will thus remain in Austria for seven days before her marriage, during which time, we may conclude, she will be often visited by her future husband, who will, however, reside in the Burg at Vienna. The gala carriage in which the bride will be taken to church is the same as that in which the present empress of Austria went to her wedding twenty-seven years ago. Without it is a mass of gold and crystal, and the two-headed eagle of Austria, clutching the sword and sphere, stretches his wings over the roof, while within all is black and gold—the imperial colours. Eight "creams," with white plumes on their heads, their manes plaited with red and gold silk, and each attended by a lackey in full gala livery, will be harnessed to a state carriage, while an unspeakably grand coachman, holding the broad gold reins, will occupy the hammercloth; but his office, like many others, will be quite a sinecure.

Queen Christina and Her Baby.

The queen of Spain, says a recent Madrid letter to The Pall Gazette, made her first appearance in public to-day after the birth of her daughter, the Infanta Mercedes. The functions began yesterday by a capilla publica at the private chapel of the palace. The king and queen walked there in state through the corridors, which were decorated with the fine tapestries woven with silks and gold by Barbalunga, representing the victories of the Emperor Charles V. Every available place had been occupied from 8 in the morning by an eager crowd, chiefly composed of the fair sex. The royal party, attended by the high officials, heard a low mass, and before the gospel was read presented the usual offerings of a regal cake of almond marchpane and a basket of flowers and doves. In the afternoon the nuncio brought the papal offerings in great state to the palace. They were presented in the throne room, and consisted of a faja, or swaddling-clothes, costly relics, and papal briefs, addressed to different members of the royal family, exhorting them to bring up the young princess in the purest principles of the Catholic faith, and make her a fit heiress for the Spanish crown. The troops lined each side of the route taken by the royal cortege. The balconies were draped all along the road with coloured hangings and draped with graceful figures, mostly in black, with mantillas. The procession came along the Calle Mayor, Carrera de San Geronimo, Prado, and Museum to the Church of Atocha, in the same state as at the royal weddings, the most striking thing being the twenty-four fine Spanish and Arab horses, with richly embroidered saddles, led by the grooms of the household, in the brilliant blue, red, and white liveries of the house of Bourbon. After these came the eight old state coaches, drawn by six horses, in which the different members of the royal family were rocked backward and forward, I should say in the most unpleasant manner. Just as it was at one time the fashion to dress pages or train-bearers in richer stuffs than those worn by the mistress herself, so were the empty carriages de respeto which followed the different royalties grander than the vehicles occupied by them. The streets were crowded and the peaple enjoyed the fine show.

Theugly Atochachurch thescene of so many interesting contemporary events, was very gay, and the entrance court was grouped with creeping plants. Inside the effect was striking—the rich dress of the clergy and the gay uniforms and the dark heads of the priests reminding one at every moment of El Greco's picture at Toledo of the burial of Count Orgaz. Punctually at 1 o'clock Cardinal Moreno, the archbishop of Toledo, arrived, accompanied by his familiars, and was seated with some difficulty, owing to his portly figure. The religious ceremony was intrusted to the patriarchs of the Indies, Cardinal Becavides, a gentlemanly-looking man. He and the priests of Atocha were splendidly attired in white and gold vestments of the seventeenth century, embroidered with with religious subjects in coloured silks. The virgin of Atocha was gotten up for the occasion in a fine white and gold mantle, made in the traditional unartistic triangular Spanish fashion, with nothing visible but her tiny black face. The blue ribbon of the Spanish order of Charles III. was hung round her. The dresses belonging to poor Queen Mercedes were given to this virgin, and this mantle looked very much as if it had been made out of one of them. At 2 o'clock the clergy, preceded by the cross and lighted candles, went out to meet the royal party. The first to enter was the Archduchess Isabel, the queen's mother, a most beautiful and regal-looking woman. Her behaviour, and that of the two young good-looking Bavarian princes the king's cousins, who are now here on a visit, during the whole of the ceremony was admirrble. The queen came next with her daughter in her arms, her husband by her side, and surrounded by her brilliantly-attired sisters and ladies-in-waiting. I regret to say that a more uncomely set of women than those chosen for those high posts could hardly be found anywhere. Blue blood certainly does not insure beauty or distinction. The queen was dressed in white satin, the front breadth being covered with tiny gathers, and cut in large flaps at the bottom; round the back part of the dress a wide band of blue velet, gathered and held down by gold dots; the high body and train, also of dark blue velvet, lined with white satin, and trimmed like the under dress; on her head a diamond crown, holding back a white Brussels lace small-pointed mantilla. The baby had its eyes open, and was very good; the duchess of Medina, from evident exces de sele, rocked the poor little thing incessantly during the whole ceremony. This charming bit of nature among all these courtiers, bowing and courtesying, was refreshing to behold. The "Te Deum," "Tantum Ergo," and other parts of the service, were creditably sung by the choir, and then the infant princess was offered on the altar by the cardinal with his mitre on.

Balloon Accident.

A frightful balloon accident at P[aris is] reported by cable. August Navarre was performing on a trapeze suspended from the Montgolfier balloon Videmvillaise, when, at the height of 1,000 yards, or over half a mile, he missed his hold. The shocked spectators, it is said, could clearly follow the poor fellow's body in the descent, and when at length it struck the earth it made a hole two feet deep, and rebounded twice the height of a man's head. Freed from his weight, the balloon shot upward until it burst, and then it, too, fell. Deaths from balloon accidents are frequent enough, but a sheer fall from such a height has, perhaps, never before been recorded. Thus in 1876 a balloon took fire, when 2,000 feet high in the air, and its occupant was killed, but, as is usually the case, he stuck to his air-ship till grounded. A fearful dive is, however, far from being the only danger "Balloonists" have to dread. That it is quite as dangerous to go too high as to come down too fast is shown by the voyage of Tissandier, Sivel, and Croce-Spinelli, which is, perhaps, the most remarkable on record. They started on April 15, 1875, to rival the highest altitude ever reached by man. At 8,000 yards Tissandier fell in a faint just as his companions, who were in a scarcely better condition, tossed out some ballast in a last desperate effort to surpass Glaisher's record of 11,000 yards. The balloon flew up, how high it is impossible to say, but when Tissandier came to himself his companions lay dead beside him with black faces and bloody nostrils. They had been suffocated by the rarifaction of the atmosphere. Glaisher's record is, therefore, discredited, for it seems beyond dispute that human life cannot be sustained much above 8,000 yards. M. Godard's perilous experience in 1878—which happily resulted rather amusingly than otherwise—illustrates another danger which should not be forgotten by those who take passengers sailing in the air. At 1,000, at 2,000, at 3,000 feet he successively asked his companion how he felt, and was as often amazed that the amateur declared his feelings to be quite as usual. Finally Godard declared that he would go no higher, when suddenly his companion grasped his throat and demanded at least one emotion in return for his 1,000f. fare. The man was clearly a lunatic. At that fearful height he clambered out of the basket and around the swaying globe with the skill and carelessness of a monkey. Then he clasped Godard by the body and declared he would throw him over. Finally, he drew a knife and said he would seek his "emotions" by a fall, say of half a mile. But Godard did not lose his head. He declared himself charmed with the idea, and wondered that it had never before occurred to him. But he pointed out that, however pleasing the fall might be, it would be disagreeable to be multilated, and he suggested going 2,000 or 3,000 feet higher in order that when his companion cut the gas-bag their deaths might be certain. They were then both of a mind, and as Godard threw out the ballast the balloon darted still further above the clouds. His cheerful companion's spirits rose with the balloon, and once more he climbed out on the bellying sphere, but this time with a rope about him, in order, as Godard explained, that he might not tumble before he was high enough for a thoroughly good fall. At length he perched himself just over the escape-valve, then Godard pulled the cord which opened it, the escaping gas stupefied the madman, and—the crisis was over. Lest any one should doubt the story we hasten to add that it comes from France.

K. D. B.

SOME VERY USEFUL ADVICE TO A YOUNG LADY JUST ENGAGED.

(Philadelphia Times.)

She is one of the sweetest little bodies in all the world, is K. D. B., and it is no wonder that she has gone and got engaged; and we desire to pause here, for a moment, before entering upon K. D. B.'s perplexity—for she has a perplexity, poor dear—while we congratulate her with all our heart. Heaven bless you K. D. B., we do hope that everything will go along nicely and that your marriage will be as pleasant as possible. And now for the perplexity. "When a young lady becomes engaged," writes K. D. B.—and we can see the pretty thing blushing like a gazelle as she makes this timid, indirect confession that she is engaged—"when a young lady becomes engaged and receives letters of congratulation from his relatives (ah! what a world of native tenderness there is in this simple use of the pronoun), is she bound according to etiquette to reply? And if she is bound, in what form ought she to reply?" And then she winds up by telling us that "by answering" we will "confer a favor on 'K. D. B.'" It is proud and happy that we are, "K. D. B.," to be in a position to confer a favour upon you; and we fully appreciate the honour that you are doing us in asking our advice instead of "his." But an answer, dear child, must depend just a little on some of the circumstances which—in your pretty, careless way—you have neglected to mention. The general rule may be easily enough laid down that letters of this nature do not demand answers; but the very minute that the rule is stated the necessity for making exceptions to it is evident. A congratulatory letter from, for instance, the foreman of the fire company with which "he" has been connected in "his" wayward youth certainly does not require an answer; while on the contrary a congratulatory letter from "his" maiden aunt, from whom "he" has expectations, demands an answer of the most instantaneous and effusive sort that can be known or mentioned. To ignore the kind utterances of "his" rich bachelor uncle would be a sinful rudeness of which no right-minded K. D. B. should even dream of being guilty; but to answer the letter of the other uncle—the clerical uncle up in the country who has a doubtful salary of $500 a year and eleven children—would be a serious indiscretion. As to the peppery letter from the young woman to whom "he" was previonsly engaged, it is probable that your own fine natural instincts will advise you and so reader advice from us is unnecessary. But you see, dear K. D. B., that our advice upon any part of the perplexity is not of much value because you have only partially taken us into your confidence. After all, little one, perhaps the best thing that you can do is to consult "him."

Things still continue troubled in France, but a revolution is not imminent. Republicanism is too strong, and the people in general are too prosperous to make that likely.

A PASSING event: "I make it next"

The Morals of the Stage.

We have already, we think, clearly shown that there is necessarily no evil in the drama and the stage, in themselves, and we have never seen an argument advanced that has in the least availed to show the contrary. It is an utter begging of the question, although at first sight it looks like clinching the argument, to say that the stage has always been associated with immorality and the grossest vice, and that the modern stage is no exception to the rule. We take leave to doubt the accuracy of the former sweeping statement, and while we are prepared to admit that there is something suspiciously like truth in the latter assertion we insist that, despite of all, there is the possibility of much good in the stage and that what "offences" do come in connection with "plays, and play-actors" are to be laid at the door of the vitiated taste and evil inclinations of the age.

But let us see whether there is really ground for the charges that are brought with such confidence against the tendencies of the modern stage and the morals of those—especially the females—that "fret their little hour" upon it.

It must be admitted that, there, the weight of argument is against the purity of the morals of the heroes and heroines of the sock and buskin. Indeed he would be a bold man who would champion them in the face of facts but too well and widely known among those who are acquainted with the manners and customs of the habitues of the greenroom. It is quite evident that in spite of the exceptional favour shown to distinguished actors and actresses in the present day, the individual who chooses the player's part lays himself or herself open to certain social disabilities, and ipso facto enrols himself or herself in the list of Bohemians on whom "the reign of law" is, at best, but lax and whose ideas (as a class) are far from being straight-laced on all questions either social or moral. This is the inheritance of the profession, and it is not to be denied that the traditions of the stage are, as a whole, much more in the direction of laxness and even dissoluteness than of purity and moral cleanliness. Indeed it is hard to convince the ordinary mind that a woman who is willing to face an audience composed of all kinds and conditions of men, and appear before a crowd of many hundreds, facing them without shrinking, has to a certain very marked degree forfeited her claims to be the possessor of the great charm of all in woman—modesty. We therefore are not at all surprised or, at least, ought not to be, when we hear rumours of liaisons on the part of stage ladies, but on the contrary, are both astonished, and (if we must own it) disappointed when in that vitiated atmosphere there is found one who keeps an unspotted reputation and a pure life. There have been, we are glad to say, many examples of the latter class—many who have carried "the flower of a blameless life," and done honour to their profession. But it must be confessed, and we do it with regret, that there are far too many whose reputation has been anything but pure, whose open and undisguised profligacy has done more than anything else to lower and dishonour the stage and make it, what it most certainly is, a matter of loathing and disgust to all who have regard to purity. Poor Adelaide Neilson, whose beauty was of so rare a type, and whose powers of application to her profession were so remarkable as to stand to her in the stead of genius, had unfortunately anything but a pure reputation; the great Patti may have been much sinned against, but she has certainly sinned in this respect, while "the Bernhardt" makes no secret, but rather indeed an unblushing boast of her "little lapses" represented by four (is it not four?) pledges of her illicit amours, and yet the popularity of either actress has been so far from being injured by this fact that her reputation was rather enhanced thereby, and it has become rather chic than disgraceful for an actress to be known to have had her "zone unbound." This is much to be regretted not only for the sake of the stage, but for that of the general moral tone of society, and the impression it must make on the world at large. We are not purists, and we do not admire prudes, but, we do say, that the eternal principles of morality should be recognized and acknowledged in the convenances of society, for, alike by Scripture and common sense, they are approved as lying at the very foundation of the happiness and well-being, not of the individual only, but of the nation as well. And yet that it is not the fault of stage, we again maintain. It is a life surrounded with much temptation, a life in which there is much to excite and suggest passion, but inasmuch as there have been many brilliant instances of pure lives spent within its influences, we say that this is sufficient to clear it of blame, and to fix the reproach on weak humanity, and the lax moral tone of society. Let the preacher and the evangelist, and the reformer do their part—"break up," to use a very significant expression "the fallow ground" which they cannot yet be said, to have done, and they will find that when they have made an appreciable change in the general feeling on matters of decency and morality, they will find in the stage a powerful coadjutor in their work, rather than a stumbling-block and a hindrance.

People We Often Hear of, But Very Seldom See.

The boy who obtained a situation in an office through picking up a pin on the pavement.

The woman who had so little vanity that she never took a "last" look in the mirror before going out for a walk.

The doctor who refused to call again when he knew medicine would do his patient no good.

The lawyer who refused to carry on a case for a client because he was aware that he (the client) would only be wasting his money.

The mother who does not consider you might walk a long way before you could find a "finer, cleverer, more forward, and more beautiful" baby than her own.

Two married ladies who coincide in all points upon domestic economy.

A perfect general servant.

A lady who after passing a pretty woman can not remember every article of dress she had on, and can not find fault with her taste.

A man who after passing a pretty woman can remember any article of dress that she wore, and can find any fault at all, except that she passed too quickly.

The young man who does not think that he could write a better tale and play than half "those scribbling fellows."

The young lady who objects to being told that she is the prettiest girl in the room.

Boston Founded on a Gold Bed.

An artesian well is now being sunk in Boston, which, according to the American Architect, seems to have at least one peculiar feature. The well has been driven rather more than fifteen hundred feet without reaching any considerable spring, although there is a constant moderate flow of water into it, but it seems that at a distance of fourteen hundred feet from the surface a stratum of gold-bearing quartz, twenty feet thick was reached and pierced. As the city is itself situated on a mass of diluvial clay and gravel, although surrounded on all sides, at a distance of a few miles, by granite and porphyry formation, it might naturally be inferred that the auriferous vein would crop out somewhere about the edge of the basin, and as "bonanzas" twenty feet thick are not only rare but valuable, possibly further attempts may be made to trace the course of the deposit. We are not informed, adds the editor, whether the material brought up by the auger proved to be very rich in the precious metal; probably it was not, but no surprising results could be expected from a random incision into the rock. Whether any one succeeds in making any profit out of it or not, the thought that Boston, alone of large cities, rests upon a plateau of gold ore may at least serve to gratify the vanity of its inhabitants.

IT is the flat who loves to have others flatter him.

"I WOULD rather vote for a long-eared donkey than for you," said an independent voter to a Galveston candidate. "O, come, now! you ought not to allow yourself to be so influenced by family ties," responded the candidate. The voter has been puzzling his head ever since to find out why the crowd laughed.

THE Corean Government have forbidden the sale of any native maps of the country to Europeans, and even to Japanese. The latter, however, have for some time past been very active in surveying the coasts, and, when opportunity offered, the interior of Corea and their map, when published, will no doubt prove very useful, as they have a deservedly good reputation for accuracy in their cartographical work.

THE killing of the devil may soon be expected. It's an impending event.

Toronto, Grey & Bruce R'y.

Change of Time.

On and after MONDAY, 3rd NOV. trains will run as follows:—

GOING NORTH.

Toronto,—Union Station,
Dep.	7:30 a. m.	12:20 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
Carlton	7.52 a.m.	12.45 p.m.	5.20 p.m.
Weston	8.05 a.m.	1.00 p.m.	5.30 p.m.
Humber Sum't	8.30 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	5.50 p.m.
Woodbridge	8.45 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	6.05 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	2.13 p.m.	6.24 p.m.
Bolton	9 25 a.m.	2.37 p.m.	6.43 p.m.
Mono Road	9.50 a.m.	3.05 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Charleston	10 35 a.m.	3.50 p.m.	7.50 p.m.
Alton	10.50 a.m.	4.05 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
Orangeville—
Arrive	11.10 a.m.	4.25. p.m.	8.20 p.m.
Depart	11.30 a.m.	4.45. p.m.
Orangevil'e Junction	11.45 a.m.	5.05 p.m.
Laurel	11.59 a.m.	5.20 p.m.
Shelburne	12.30 p.m.	6.00 p.m.
Dundalk	1.15 p.m.	6.50 p.m.
Proton	1.35 p.m.	7.11 p.m.
Flesherton & Pricev'e	1.55 p.m.	7.35 p.m.
Markdale	2.15 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
Berkly	2.35 p.m.	8.28 p.m.
Williamsford	2 50 p.m.	8.46 p.m.
Arnott	3.05 p.m.	9.06 p.m.
Chatsworth	3.15 p.m.	9 16 p.m.
Rockford	3.38 p.m.	9.36 p.m.
Owen Sound	4.00 p.m.	10.10 p.m.

GOING SOUTH.

Owen Sound, depart	6.30 a.m.	12.00 noon.
Rockford	7.00 a.m.	12.30 p.m.
Chatsworth	7.20 a.m.	12.55 p.m.
Arnott	7.30 a.m.	1.06 p.m.
Williamsford	7.48 a.m.	1.28 p.m.
Berkly	8.05 a.m.	1.48 p.m.
Markdale	8.30 a.m.	2.15 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville	8.55 a.m.	2.45 p.m.
Proton	9.15 a.m.	3 10 p.m.
Dundalk	9.35 a.m.	3.30 p.m.
Shelburne	10 15 a.m.	4.15 p.m.
Laurel	10.47 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Orangeville Junction	11.00 a.m.	5.05 p.m.
Orangeville—
Arr.	11:15 a. m.	5:20 p. m.
Dep.	7.15 a.m.	11.35 a. m.	5.40 p. m.
Alton	7.35 a.m.	11.55 a.m.	6.00 p.m.
Charleston	7.50 a.m.	12.10 p.m.	6.18 p.m.
Mono Road	8.25 a.m.	12.47 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Bolton	8.45 a.m.	1.10 p.m.	7.33 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	7.55 p.m.
Woodbridge	9.25 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	8.17 p.m.
Humber Smt	9.40 a.m.	2.05 p.m.	8.33 p.m.
Weston	10.00 a.m.	2.27 p.m.	9.00 p.m.
Carlton	10.10 a.m.	2.39 p.m.	9.15 p.m.
Toronto,—Union Station,
Arrive	10.30 a.m.	3.00 p.m.	9.40 p.m.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 3rd, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

We have decided to print a supplement in connection with the STANDARD a week before the Holidays, as there is an extra amount of advertising done at that season of the year, and we do not want to decrease the reading matter, we will give those who wish extra space, liberal terms, by means of a half sheet supplement, parties wishing to take advantage of the arrangement will please let us know in good time.

THE Reeve Artemesia, from present appearances, is determined to tree that coon. Keep at it, Doctor; patience and perseverence, you know, overcome all obstacles.

DR. Christoe says this week he thinks he could whittle off an Editor before breakfast. Unless the Doctor is more expert at whittling Editors than he is at treeing coons, his fast would be of longer duration than was that of Dr. Tanner.

The Reeve of Artemesia is out with another excuse for throwing out that petition. He says that a large number never signed the petition. We ask is it likely if such means were adopted by those interested to secure the requisite number of signatures, would they have permitted the list to be published, thereby affording an opportunity of being detected.

SUCCESS CERTAIN.

It is said that Baron Rothschild had the following maxims framed on his bank walls:

Attend carefully to details of your business. Be prompt in all things. Consider well, then decide positively. Dare to do right. Fear to do wrong. Endure trials patiently. Fight life's battle bravely, manfully. Go not in the society of the vicious. Hold integrity sacred. Injure not another's reputation or business. Join hands only with the virtuous. Keep your minds from evil thoughts. Lie not for any consideration. Make few acquaintances. Never try to appear what you are not. Observe good manners. Pay your debts promptly. Question not the veracity of a friend. Respect the council of your parents. Sacrifice money rather than principle. Touch not, taste not, handle not intoxicating drinks. Use your leisure time for improvement. Venture not upon the threshold of wrong. Watch carefully over your passions. 'Xtend to every one a kindly salutation. Yield not to discouragement. Zealously labor for the right, & success is certain.

CURE FOR DIPHTHERIA.

We have been requested to publish the following. The party sending it assures us it was found out by much research and experience.

"Take of hemlock and birch bark, of each an equal quantity. Remove the rough out side. Green osier, half the quantity, boil slowly, each in a seperate vessel, (iron will do,) until the strength is extracted. Strain and settle, then evaporate slowly until like syrup, mix altogether, gargle the throat often no matter if a little is swallowed. If there is haste, may commence gargling before boiling it down. May add a small quantity of burnt alum, and between times dust a little brimstone in the throat.

IMPROVEMENT IN PRICEVILLE

It is not our intention to attribute to the N. P., or any other extraneous cause, the marked improvement in the development of Priceville during the past Summer. We would be more inclined to give the praise to the inherent energy of its citizens, and the development of the natural resources of the country.

A very large number of the better class of private dwellings have been erected and completed. The Methodist Church, although commenced last year, is now completed, and forms an attractive feature in the picturesque beauty of the village, commanding, as it does, a prominent site, as seen from the approach from Flesherton Station. Additions have been made to several of the merchantile stores; and their closely packed shelves and crowded warehouses betoken a healthy prospect for trade during the winter. The most prominent of the improvements during the past summer is the Brick Block erected by Alex. Brown, Esq., which is not surpassed for symmetry of design or architectural beauty by any country village in the County of Grey, and has been leased for a term of years by Mr. Geo. Tuck, as an hotel. Priceville has long suffered for the want of a first-class hotel, more especially in the lack of proper accommodation in connection with the monthly Fairs held there. The Bar is ample and commodious, while the parlors are fitted up in magnificent style. The sample rooms for the accommodation of Commercial men are spacious and well lighted. The house is capable of entertaining over one hundred guests. The dining room is finished al frescoe, and is in proportion to the rest of the building, and complete in all its appointments; while the culinary abilities of Mrs. Tuck form by no means the least attractive feature of the bounteous table it was our pleasure to regale the inner man at a short time ago. A large yard for the keeping of cattle, brought for sale on Fair days, in rear of the hotel, will be found most acceptable, especially in stormy weather, the cattle being enclosed so that they cannot stray away, thus avoiding the unpleasant duty of "herding."

The Grist Mill, now under the control of Mr. H Somerville, is doing an excellent business, turning out a quality of flour unsurpassed in the country; and the farmers aver, a good yield. The Saw Mill is conducted by Mr. John McLeod, where lumber, lath and shingle are turned out by the million. Two new saws have been added in order to meet the increased demand.

A Brick Yard is in contemplation, and from the business character of Messrs. Webster (merchant of this Village) and Vert, (of Flesherton) there is little doubt but that it will be pushed forward with energy.

Mr. C. C. James has made extensive additions to his tannery and harness-making establishment, and could give him employment to additional men in both branches. This speaks volumes for the industrial resources of both town and country.

There are many minor branches of business which could be extended, or additional branches in the same line successfully commenced.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

ELDER HAWKINS.—Elder Hawkins will preach in the Methodist Church at 11 a. m., and 6.30 p. m., on Sabbath the 5th inst. A special collection will be taken up at the close of each service.

ANNIVERSARY — The Presbyterian Congregation of Flesherton intend holding their Sabbath School Anniversary in the Town Hall, on the evening of Christmas, the 25th inst. Large posters announcing the above will appear in a few days.

SKATING RINK.—The Flesherton Skating Rink is now in first-class order. The ice is all that could be desired. Mr. F. Sarjeant, has spared no pains or expense in making it comfortable. He has secured the services of a first-class band to be in attendance. This will be a great acquisition to the evening's enjoyments.

Good beech and maple stove wood (two feet) is selling at 80 cents per cord.

BREVITIES.—The Council meets on 6th inst., in the Town Hall......The Public Schools of Flesherton have a large attendance......Two ladies "lost their heels" at the rink on the 24th ult.......Mr. Doll has his jewelry shop filled with a very costly stock of Christmas goods......Mr. M. Richardson has his stock of winter goods opened out......Messrs. Sproule and Trimble are buying a large amount of grain......Mr. Damude has a new sign on his harness shop......Very cold weather......Mr. Hooper has bought the furniture show-rooms and dwelling house of the late Mr. M. E. Merriam..... Coal Oil is 40c a gallon in Flesherton.

From another Correspondent.

The grain market has been unsually lively during the past week, consequently all kinds of business is brisk.

As the holidays draw near the customary programme of Socials, Concerts, &c., are the order of the day. The season is to be opened on Monday next by the Elder Hawkins Troup in the Methodist Church, when it is expected we will hear something to superceed "One More River."

The Skating Rink is now in full blast, and under the management of Mr. F. Serjeant promises to become very popular. The tickets have been placed very low, and withing the reach of all. A number of our musical young men have formed a quartette band, and are practicing for the purpose of playing on the Rink one night in the week; also at masquerades, which will, no doubt, be quite an attraction.

The railway bonus is the subject of discussion at present. The farming class appear pretty unanimous against it, while the majority of business men are for the by-law.

EUGENIA.

From a Correspondent.

The mail carrier on his route from Meaford to Flesherton, reports to-day, that while delivering the mail at a post office in the Township of Euphrasia, he left his whip in the cutter, when he came out with the mail bag to resume his journey he discovered that the whip had [illegible] [illegible] been [illegible] a few minutes. He offers a reward of $2.00 for the recovery of it. Sharp practice in broad day light.

Strong gales. Heavy squalls. Lots of snow. Every appearance of plenty of sleighing. Vennor could not give you any better idea of the weather than that.

We are sorry to have to report the death of the old and respected mail carrier Mr. John Benson, who was burried yesterday, Sunday, and was followed to his last resting place by a large number of orange brethren, he being a prominet member of the orders having been district master for a number of years. Eleven lodges of the district attended the funeral. Mr. Benson's familiar face will be missed on this route. He was noted for his quiet and retireing manner by all who knew him.

Cupid that sly young imp has been at work among the bachelor fraternity again. Mr. Adam Smith has at last succumbed to his influence, and has taken Miss. Kate Williams for better or worse, no doubt the late cold snap had something to do with it, as keeping bach hall is not the thing in such weather. We wish them many happy days.

A few days ago the school children of this place were given a rather practical lesson, little calculated, however, to impress on their tender minds the sentiment embodied in the celebrated lines written by Dr. Watts, commencing "Let dogs delight to bark and bite, &c. It appears that two neighbors children fell out at school. The mother of one of them, a matron of middle age, on seeing the other child, made a dash for it, weapon in hand, which she plied in a truly gymnastic style, which indicated anything but the longevity of the assailed, while the organ of articulation became clogged from excessive use; not sufficient, however, to prevent her from giving utterance to the high estimation in which she held the child and at its parents in language more emphatic than polite. Such occurrences, we are happy to say, are very rare in our midst. No proceedings have as yet been taken.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

T. G. & B. R.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—I should feel highly honored, to find myself in company with so distinguished a gentleman, who has discussed public questions, with men of intellect and morals. The old adage is, "like begets like"—and I have been viewing Robertson in spectacles and every other possible form—to find as, the doctor would say, the sequences—alas! They are "non est."—Robert Robinson's pretences to intellectual affiances and moral perfection, must fall flatly, in the face of the facility, motives are impugned and information to the Assessor withheld. You see, the difference is, as to whose ox is gored. My friend's self adulation and sympathetic wails, to his friends—is really pitiable. I am sure Artemesia should pay heed henceforth and grant my friend the boon he coveted some time ago. She has hitherto overlooked this prodige of high intellectual and moral associations. There Robert, let that do. I was going into that assessment again, but I hadn't the heart, to be too severe on an old friend. Come now to the point at issue, this R. R. question. We accord, in so far as, the desirability to have the improvements sought—but we differ, as to whose duty, it is to do it. The history of the past is known and need not be repeated. The By-law was defeated six months ago. Mr. R. says, "a very general desire was expressed, for it to go into the hands of the G. T." This is only true in part. The prevalent idea was to urge it into the hands of a new company as bona fide owners—not by lease—hence the conditions as then expressed, do not exist. The bonus is not asked, for the Grand Trunk, but for the old Company, against whom there were so many complaints; true or not, I could not say. There is therefore a very great difference between a mere lease-holder and a real proprietor. A R. R. might pass through the most carefully drawn lease, Mr. R. views the matter from two stand-points. 1st "Whether, in common justice, we are called upon to help those men who run the road out of their difficulties." 2nd "Will it pay us to help them?" Friend Robertson is great on this principle of common justice. This principle is based upon the supposition that the road is ours. It is ours in the sence, that Flesherton mills are ours and that it is advantage to us—but their is no proprietorship, no control—and as it now stands, you cannot make any sort of condition—and then, the road can help itself—please put a pin in there; there is where the whole thing hinges—and it is mere bosh to talk about injustice—what pledge has been broken—injustice is it to refuse to grant a gift to one of the best paying institutions in Canada? And who have made or are about to make ample provisions, to do the work required themselves, I will not repeat the figures, this has been done again and again and even, my intellectual friend has not controverted them nor can he—it is well enough to make side issues, to divert the attention but the sober facts are as stated. His second question has no force whatever—for if the conclusions above be correct, the pay comes all the same—in every particular. "The money he says would be spent among ourselves, and our young men instead of having to flock to the States in search of work, would find it at home for one season. Of course a person whose heart is overflowing towards the company, don't stay to weigh facts. Pray friend! "How much work is to be done on the railway? How many boys would it employ? And how long? Yet such is paraded for argument. I am asked to prick them look at the estimate, revised by Messrs. Gzowski & Shanly. "Sundry deviations and changes of grade." $7,000 over a track of 200 miles. Seven thousand dollars to keep our young men from the States! Bosh—I don't suppose $100 would be spent in Artemesia. The greater part of the expenditure will be for rails, ties, bridges, engines and the like, to be performed by skilled R. R. hands. His [illegible] are like [illegible] [illegible] they are gone. I [illegible] in the STANDARD, that [illegible] to be made, to the [illegible], to confirm certain [illegible] to be passed. It will be [illegible] that some time ago I forewarned what Parliament might do—and if Artemesia had granted $20,000 then you see she could not back down—if no other township had given one cent. The council of Artemesia feels proud to know that the vast majority of the ratepayers support them in their action on this R. R. question. I admit, that I am under an obligation to you for the use of your columns—but sir, a great many of your readers are opposed to a bonus, and I am sollicted on every hand, to answer, from the surrounding six townships, at least two to one are opposed to this bonus, many of whom are your subscribers, who wish to hear both sides. I have been urged all around, to keep up the correspondence and congratulated on the effert. The mal-treatment I have received however is not so very pleasant. I can assure you, your couse is very suicidal to your interests—to be found out too late, but it is your own business. I regret any personal collisions, for altough I might be able to whittle an editor, easily, before breakfast, you would not permit it—you are master of your own castle. But I have no disposition—fair play is all I ask. How is it, that every statement of mine is false, and I am a person of such and such characteristics? What necessity is there for such accusations? If the generally supposed amiable and quiet minded proprietor and the editor be identical—then I certainly was "barking up the wrong tree." I could then account for the calibre of the aricles—but perfectly dumbfounded at their morality. Just one word of explanation regarding, my wilful mis-statement. I said after "necessay reductions" there were about 100 remaining—I suppose it did not strike you, that besides the 12 or 15 non-property owners—some sheets might have been bogus—as it would appear—one list in particular containing a large number of names with one or two exceptions not signed at all, by the parties therein named—what would any council do with such a list? Why throw it out. Where then does the false statement come in? I certainly did not intend to charge you with anything false in reference to "Howland & Co's. letter. Your comments were quite natural; but I saw this letter weeks ago in the "Owen Sound Times." It was an hackneyed thing, before you printed it. My criticism was on the letter, not on you—no reader of intelligence, I think, could construe my remarks otherwise. Write up the railroad weekly sir, there is plenty of room without personal wrangles. I finish by stating, that I am neither an enemy to Markdale or the road I have such unbounded confidence in its ability to fix itself that my effort has been and is, to compel it to do so.

DR. CHRISTOE.

BIRTHS.

In Markdale, on the 18th ult., the wife of Thos. Hill, merchant, of a son.

In Markdale, on the 28th ult., the wife of J. J. Graham, Shoemaker, of a son.

In Glenelg, on the 14th ult., the wife of R. H. Boyce, of a son.

In Dundalk on the 15th ult., the wife of John Hanbury, of a daughter.

In Synghampton, on the 6th ult., the wife of Edward Blackstock, of a son.

MARRIED

At the residence of the brides parents, on 1st inst., by Rev. N. A. McDiarmid, Mr. George Lyons Logan, to Miss Annie Elliott, eldest daughter of Mr. Robert Elliott, Euphrasia.

At Priceville, on 1st inst., by the Rev. D. McLeod, Mr. James Parks of Cookstown, to Miss Maggie Moffat of Osprey.

THE MARKETS.

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Dec. 3rd, 1880.

Flour	5.0o	to	5.5o
Spring Wheat per bush., new	1.12	tc	1.16
Fall do. do. do.	1.08	to	1.12
Barley	0.60	"	0.92
Oats	0.00	"	0.29
Peas	0.60	"	0.63
Potatoes.	0.25	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.18	"	0.20
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.50	"	5 70
Beef	5.00	"	5.00
Geese. per lb.	0.05	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb.	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.00
Hides	5.00	"	8.50
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.25
Hay,	6.50	"	0.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.3o
Green Apples, per. bushel.	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	1.75	"	1.75

FLESHERTON.

(Corrected weekly for the Standard by R. J. Sproule, Flesherton.)

THURSDAY, Dec. 2nd. 1880.

Flour, per bbl.	$5.00	to	$5.50
Spring Wheat per bush.,	1.12	to	1.15
Fall do. do. do.	1.08	"	1.18
Barley	0.60	"	0.92
Oats	0.00	"	0.29
Peas	0.50	"	0.60
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.20
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed.	5.50	"	5.70
Beef	5 00	"	0.00
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.25
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Hay	6.00	"	7.00
Timothy seed,	2.00	"	2.50
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Lard	0.10	"	0.12
Tallow	0.05	"	0.07

TORONTO.

(Special to the Standard.)

TORONTO, Dec. 2, 1880.

Wheat, fall, per bush.	$1 16	to	$1 24
Wheat, spring, do.	1 12	to	1 16
Barley, do.	0 8o	to	1 06
Oats, do.	0 34	to	0 35
Peas, do.	0 65	to	0 70
Rye, do.	0 87	to	0 88
Clover Seed do.	0 00	to	0 00
Dressed hogs, per 100 lbs.	5 75	to	6 00
Beef, hind quarters	5 50	to	7 00
Beef, fore quarters	3 00	to	4 00
Chickens, per pair	3o	to	0 45
Fowls, do.	40	to	0 40
Ducks, per brace	50	to	0 6o
Geese, each	50	to	0 6o
Turkeys	75	to	1 25
Butter, large rolls	12	to	0 15
Butter, tub dairy	2o	to	0 22
Butter, store-packed	18	to	0 20
Eggs, fresh, per doz	o 18	to	0 00
Eggs, packed	0 00	to	0 00
Apples, per brl	1 oo	to	1 1o
Potatoes, per bag	0 50	to	0 25
Onions, per bag	0 00	to	1 65
Hay	8 50	to	12 25

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 135, Con. 2 West Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, about the 1st October, a Spring Heifer Calf, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

ROBERT BLAIR.
Artemesia, Nov. 24, 1880. 12-3i

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Apprentice Wanted.

WANTED, a Boy to learn the Blacksmithing. He must be a good active boy. Apply to R. HOWELL, Kimberly P. O., Ont.
Kimberly, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-2i

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

☞ LOAN AND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.
Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.

Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, Lot 11, Con. 15, Township of Glenelg, on the 20th October, two yearling Heifers, one spoted red and white, one dark red with top off one horn. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses and take them away.

R. E. ENGLISH.
Glenelg, Nov. 19, 1880. 11 3i

STRAYED.

CAME into the enclosure of the subscriber Lot 72, East Toronto and Sydenham Road, Township of Holland, some time in September, one Ewe. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.

WM. JACKSON.
Holland, Nov. 17, 188o. 1o-3i*

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 2o, Con. 12 township of Holland, in July, a red Steer, 2 years old. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him away,

J. S. LYONS.
Holland, Nov. 12, 188o. 1o-3i*

THE BEST PAPER! TRY IT!

BEAUTIFULLY ILLUSTRATED.

36th YEAR.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.

THE SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN is a large First-Class Weekly Newspaper of Sixteen Pages, printed in the most beautiful style, profusely illustrated with splendid engravings, representing the newest Inventions and the most recent Advances in the Arts and Sciences; including New and Interesting Facts in Agriculture, Horticulture, the Home, Health, Medical Progress, Social Science, Natural History, Geology, Astronomy. The most valuable practical papers, by eminent writers in all departments of Science, will be found in the Scientific American.

Terms, $3.20 per year, $1.60 half year, which includes postage. Discounts to Agents. Single coppies, 10c. Sold by all Newsdealers. Remit by postal order, to MUNN & CO., Publishers, 37 Park Row, New York.

PATENTS. In connection with the Scientific American, Messrs. MUNN & Co. are Solicitors of American and Foreign Patents, have had 35 years experience, and have the largest establishment in the world. Parents are obtained on the best terms. A special notice is made in the Scientific American of all inventions patented through this Agency, with the name and residence of the Patentee. By the immense circulation thus given, public attention is directed to the merits of the new patent, and sales or introduction often easily effected.

Any person who has made a new discovery or invention, can ascertain, free of charge, whether a patent can probably be obtained by writing to MUNN & Co. We also send free our Hand Book about the Patent Laws, Patents, Caveats, Trade Marks, their costs, and how procured, with hints how to procure andvances on inventions. Address for the paper, or concerning patents,

MUNN & CO.,
37 Park Row, New York.
Branch Office cor. F and 7th sts., Washington D. C.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services—Sept. 26, 10:30 a. m.; Oct. 3rd, 6:30 p. m.; 10th, 10:30 a. m.; 17th, 10:30 a. m.; 24th, 6:30 p. m.; 31st, 6:30 p. m.; Nov. 7th, 10:30 a. m.; 14th, 10:30 a. m.; 21st, 1o:3o a. m.; 28th, 6.3o p. m.; Dec. 5th, 6:3o p. m.; 12th, 1o:3o a. m.; 19th, 1o:3o a. m.; 27th, 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School, 2:3o p. m. Rev. James Ward, Incumbent.

CANADA METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 1o:3o a.m., and 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School at 2:3o p. m. G. S. Bowes, Superintendent. Prayer Meeting, Thursday Evenings at 7:3o. Rev. N.A. McDiarmid, Pastor.

PRIMATIVE METHODIST.

Services every 1st and 3rd Sabbath at 3 o'clock p. m. Every 2nd & 4th Sabbath at 1o:3o a. m., in the Orange Hall. C. C. [illegible], Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Services in Dufferin Hall every alternate Sabbath at 11 a. m., and intervening Sabbaths at 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School at 2:3o p. m. Bible Class and Prayer Meeting on Fridays at 7:3o p. m.

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

MONTHLY CATTLE FAIRS.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.
Priceville—Monday before Durham.
[illegible]—Monday before Durham.
[illegible]—First [illegible] Wednesday [illegible] month.
[illegible]—First [illegible] month.
Harriston—Friday before the Guelph Fair.
Drayton—Saturday before Guelph.
Elora—The day before Guelph.
Douglas—Monday before Elora Fair.
Hamilton—Crystal Palace Grounds, the day after Guelph.
Berlin—First Thursday in each month.
Brampton—First Thursday in each month.
Listowel—First Friday in each month.
Fergus—Thursday following Mount Forest.
Rosemont—Fifteenth of February, April, June, August, October and December.
Primrose—Wednesday preceding the Orangeville Fair.
Orangeville—The 2nd Thursday in each month.
Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.
Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.
Shelburne—Wednesday befor Orangeville.
Marshville—Second Wednesday in each month.
Walkerton—The last Wednesday in each month.
Mildmay—Last Wednesday of each month.

NOTICE.

PARTIES delivering logs at the Steam Saw Mill, Markdale, will please call and leave their names, and get a number to stamp on their logs, otherwise the proprietor will not hold himself responsible for logs which may be delivered.

Lumber, after being sawed three days and not piled, the "Mill Proprietor" will proceed to pile out of his way, and charge owner for time for doing so, and for space occupied.

The Highest Price in Cash
Paid for
Butternut, Cherry and Large Birch.

A Plainer and Matcher

is being put into his Mill and will be in running order by 1st April.

JAMES CHAPMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Markdale, Nov. 18, 188o. 1o-2i

J. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is now prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description. from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.
Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorize them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or with any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, and to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: ana for other purposes,

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.
Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS

Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 23, 1880. 11-tf

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 8, Con. 14, township of Glenelg, on or about the 1st of September, a Heifer, one year old, spotted red and white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take her away.

GEORGE LAMB.
Glenelg, Nov. 18, 1880. 1o-3i*

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, ETC.

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be passed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR $

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAND

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN CHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SON

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880.

MEDICAL HALL.

Pure Drugs and Chemical

PATENT MEDICINES!

Dye Stuffs, Fancy Soaps, Perfumery, Combs, Tooth and Hair Brushes, Trusses and Surgical Appliance and general Druggists sundries.

Stationery and School Books

IN GREAT VARIETY.

FRESH TEAS AND TOBACCOS
TOGETHER WITH

PAINTS AND OILS.

Physicians' Prescription
AND
VETERINARY PREPERATIONS
CAREFULLY COMPOUNDED.

Montreal Telegraph Office.

T. S. SPROULE, M.

MILL STREET, MARKDALE, Sep. 17, 1880.

GO TO McINTYRE'S

For all kinds of

Groceries, Provisions, Liquors, Canned Go

CONFECTIONERY, SPICES, TOBACCOS, BUISCUITS
AND ALL GOODS

Generally kept in a First-Class Grocery, Provision and Liquor St

TEAS, SUGARS, COFF

And all Groceries, the very Cleanest and Freshest. I sell for Cash [illegible] customer that gives me a call is sure to come back, as I sell good [illegible] I never pay more than the Goods are worth, and give my customers [illegible] fit of the bargains I get. You will always find me in the same place, always [illegible] upon you None but the Best Brands of

RYE, MALT, BRANDY, ALE, PORTER, & OTHER LIQUORS &

Kept in stock. ☞ Be sure you call.

A. McINTYRE

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880,

ESTABLISHED 35 YEARS.

WEEKLY SPECTATOR

A LARGE
EIGHT-PAGE PAPER
—ONLY—

Per Year. ($1) Per Year.

One of the Largest and best Weeklies in Canada.

BALLANCE OF 1880 FREE.

Agents receive 25 Cents for every yearly subscriber. Any party sending us three subscribers will receive a copy, post-paid, of the Farmer's Account Book, worth one dollar, in place of the usual commission. Send a post card for Sample Copy of our Weekly, which is sent free. The only paper in Canada that publishes a Draught Column. Address

SPECTATOR PRINTING COMPANY,
Hamilton, Ont.
Nov. 11, 1880.

THOS. MATHEWS,

WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS
HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.
☞None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov, 18, 188o 1o

VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD,
Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Subscribe for the Standard.
We will give it from now till the First, of January, 1882, for one year's subscription

OYSTERS, OYST

JUST RECEIVED

AT THE

"BELFAST HOU

I have fitted up a room over my S[illegible]
I can supply

OYSTER

—IN—

Every Sty

By the Plate or Ca

CHEAPER THAN AN

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Gro

To the [illegible]

Wines and Liq

ARE VERY CHEAP

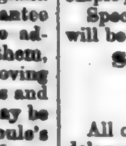
ANY AMOUNT of

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing [illegible] Public to give me a call and [illegible] what bargains I am giving, [illegible] chase elsewhere.

WILSON BE
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880.

DONALD McLE



MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very [illegible] in the past, and hopes by honest First-Class Work, and close business, to merit a continuance

THE BEST OF MATE

Used, and none but First-Class employed.

Special attention paid to Repa will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Spec

NOTICE.

All over due accounts must [illegible] delay or I shall have to resort [illegible] ly means for collection.

D. McLE
Corner of Queen and
Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880

THE STANDARD.

Dec. 3rd, 1880.

OTHER NOTICES.

[illegible] are good now.

[illegible] wood coming in now.

[illegible] bring in your grain while [illegible] good.

[illegible] cheap and reliable watch go [illegible] F. Doll's, Flesherton.

Call and see our 25 cent packages [illegible] stationery, &c. The cheapest in town.

See [illegible] F. Doll's advertisement, [illegible] large and beautiful stock of [illegible]

[illegible] shipped in November, [illegible] lbs. of poultry, nearly four and [illegible] tons.

DAVIS, the auctioneer, is taking the [illegible] him. Good prices guaranteed, charges low.

[illegible] amount of beef, pork, and poultry coming in, and changing [illegible] fair prices.

[illegible] PER CENT.—Any amount of [illegible] to lend by John Lyous, Markdale, [illegible] good farm security.

[illegible] desiring a change in [illegible] please hand it in not [illegible] than noon on Wednesday's.

[illegible] has some of the best value [illegible] stocks in this section of the country. [illegible] inspection of his stock will well [illegible]

[illegible] DAVIS, Flesherton, has any amount of money to lend at 7 per [illegible] simple interest get his speci[illegible] before borrowing.

[illegible] you have lost, found, or want anything announce it through the columns of the STANDARD. It is [illegible] best medium in the county.

Why sit slivering over an old broken stove when you can get a new one at Haskett Bros at such a [illegible] price. Call and see for your[illegible]

A FARMER in Wallace purchas[illegible] travelling agent, a drug which [illegible] recommended for killing [illegible] calves. The first application [illegible] three of the calves.

[illegible] business man should [illegible] the business he follows [illegible] his envelopes and note paper. [illegible] can furnish you with both [illegible] neatly printed, at city prices [illegible]

IMPORTANT TO T[illegible].—[illegible] should not forget when entering [illegible] their contracts with rural school [illegible] to agree on the length of [illegible] 1881. [illegible] the contract [illegible] trustees can [illegible] weeks.

[illegible]

SOME of our subscribers [illegible] are complaining that [illegible] the paper until the [illegible] published. It is mailed [illegible] Friday morning and should be [illegible] ed the next day. We shall [illegible] the matter and if we can find [illegible] linquent, we shall bring the [illegible] to the notice of the Post Inspector.

THE [illegible] announced by posters that [illegible] kins and band give a series of [illegible] at school house, 4th line, Art[illegible] Eugenia, and Kimberley, on [illegible] 16th and 17th Dec., the proceeds which are to be applied [illegible] Fund. [illegible] to attend, as we can say from [illegible] ence the [illegible] worth hearing.

We have just [illegible] store of W. J. McFarland, [illegible] 5,000 and 6,000 pounds of [illegible] tea which we are informed [illegible] seasons growth, [illegible] W. J. McFarland, and [illegible] is the largest lot of [illegible] into Markdale, or, indeed, [illegible] County of Grey. [illegible] it at a small advance [illegible] effect a speedy sale. [illegible] the success his enterprise [illegible]

MR. ROBERT DAVIS, [illegible] has a large amount of money [illegible] at 7 per cent simple interest [illegible] in advance either. Persons [illegible] to see him personally [illegible] well to remember that from [illegible] of other business he will only [illegible] at his office 2 days in each [illegible] Wednesday and Saturday [illegible] however, may be left at [illegible] day, and will receive prompt [illegible] ful attention.

[illegible] League [illegible] St. Lawrence Hall, Toronto [illegible] Dec. 8th [illegible]

[illegible] A. W. W[illegible] other pr[illegible]

We have [illegible] the following [illegible] to parties who wish to [illegible] connection with the S[illegible] greatly reduced rates. [illegible] Agricultural $1.60; [illegible] 75c.; Scientific [illegible] ronto Weekly Globe $1.[illegible] to be able to give the [illegible] several others next [illegible] prices are only [illegible] the papers are taken [illegible] with the STANDARD.

LORNE LODGE.—This [illegible] Association give their [illegible] on Friday 17th Dec., [illegible] school house on the corner [illegible] road and 10th line. The [illegible] ment will consist of Read[illegible] tions, addresses by prom[illegible] ers, and instrumental [illegible] by the Markdale C. [illegible] several well known [illegible] admission is put at the [illegible] 15 cents so as to permit [illegible] and we hope they will [illegible] association deserve to [illegible] as it has done consider[illegible] quiet way. For partic[illegible] ers.

ASH STOR

ds & Son

t with a complete stock of s, Groceries,

AND SHOES,

ERY, GLASSWARE, ETC.

LOW PRICES cannot be call and try some of our

APAN TEA, 3lb. FOR $1

UP ALWAYS ON HAND.

efore purchasing elsewhere.

AND EGGS TAKEN IN EX

NOLDS & SON,

9

AL HALL.

and Chemicals

MEDICINES!

Perfumery, Combs, Tooth,
sses and Surgical Appliances,

d School Books!

AT VARIETY

COS

AND OILS.

lons,

IONS

LE, M.

TYRE'S

Liquor, Canned Goo

BISCUITS

or Store,

Cash, and Goods Ch tomers the always ready

TER, & OTHER LIQUORS & W

A. McINTYRE

OYSTERS, OYSTE

EIVER

BELFAST HOUS

over my Store

ERS

Sty

the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY

IN TOWN

stock of

Provisions and Groc

Together with

Wines and Liqu

ARE VERY CHEAP

ANY AMOUNT of P

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I
Public to give me a call and be before

WILSON BE

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880.

DONALD McLE

MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal in the past, and hopes by honest
First-Class Work, and close business, to merit a continuance of

THE BEST OF MATE

Used, and none but First-Class employed.

Special attention paid to Repair will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Spec

NOTICE.

All over due accounts must delay or I shall have to resort any means for collection.

D. McLEO

Corner of Queen and

Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880.

THE STANDARD.

day, Dec. 3rd, 1880.

& OTHER NOTICES.

ers are good now.

of wood coming in now.

rs bring in your grain while are good.

a cheap and reliable watch go F. Doll's, Flesherton.

and see our 25 cent packages ionery, &c. The cheapest in vis, the auctioneer, is taking the try him. Good prices guaran- charges low.

W. F. Doll's advertisement, a large and beautiful stock of are.

FARLAND shipped in November, lbs. of poultry, nearly four and tons.

amount of beef, pork, and ry coming in, and changing at fair prices.

VEN PER CENT.—Any amount of y to lend by John Lyons, Mark- on good farm security.

RSONS desiring a change in ad- nt will please hand it in not n noon on Wednesday's.

has some of the best value this section of the country. on of his stock will well

. DAVIS, Flesherton, has any of money to lend at 7 per simple interest get his special before borrowing.

have lost, found, or want announce it through the of the STANDARD. It is the medium in the county.

sit shivering over an old stove when you can get a new at Hackett Bros at such a low Call and see for yourselves.

A farmer in Wallace purchased from travelling agent a drug which was mended for killing vermin on The first application killed business man should fail to the business he follows printed his envelopes and note paper. We furnish you with both articles printed, at city prices, at the TEACHERS.—Teachers not forget when entering into eir contracts with rural school trus- on the length of the holi- ys If there is no provision in defining the point the shorten the holidays two be an extensive auction buggies, and farm the show rooms of W. by John W. on Dec. 9th. cash; implements month's credit on ap-who took a horse the Inspector of Weights at R. J. Sproule's shed, Tuesday night, Nov. 23rd, will re- rn the same and leave it at R. J. Sproule's, Flesherton, will save him- some trouble; and oblidge the owner. The party is known.

[illegible]

Some of our subscribers at Kimberley are that they do not get the paper until the week after it is published. It is mailed here early on Friday morning and should be receiv- ed the next day. We shall look into the matter and if we can find the de- linquent, we shall bring the matter to the notice of the Post Office Inspector.

THE JUBILEE SINGERS.—It is an- nounced by posters that Elder Haw- kins and band give a series of concerts at school house, 4th line, Artemesia, Eugenia, and Kimberley, on the 15th, 16th and 17th Dec., the proceeds of which are to be applied on the Mission Fund. We would advise all who can to attend, as we can say from experi- ence the Elder and his band are well worth hearing.

WE have just seen piled up in the store of W. J. McFarland, between 5,000 and 6,000 pounds of fine Japan tea which we are informed is of this season's growth, imported direct by W. J. McFarland, and we must say it is the largest lot of tea ever brought into Markdale, or, indeed, into the County He intends selling it at a small advance upon cost, to effect a ready sale. We wish him the success his enterprise deserves.

MR. ROBERT DAVIS, of Flesherton, has a large amount of money to lend, at 7 per cent simple interest, and not in advance either. Persons wishing to see him personally will do well to remember that from pressure of other business he will only be found at his office 2 days in each week viz. Wednesday's and Saturday's. Orders, however, may be left at his office any day, and will receive prompt and care- ful attention.

CURRENCY REFORM LEAGUE.—A meeting of this League takes place in St. Lawrence Hall, Toronto, on Wed- nesday, Dec. 8th, at 2 o'clock, all persons friendly to the cause are re quested to be present. Members of the press of all shades of politics are cordially invited. There is to be a mass meeting in the evening, at which addresses will be delivered by A. W. Wright, Geo. B. Brooks, and other prominent Currency Reformers.

WE have made arrangements with the following papers to furnish them to parties who wish to take them in connection with the STANDARD, at greatly reduced rates. The American Agriculturist $1.00; Canadian Farmer 75c.; Scientific American $2.60; To- ronto Weekly Globe $1.25. We hope to be able to give the price of Mail and several others next week. The above prices are only adhered to when the papers are taken in connection with the STANDARD.

LORNE LODGE.—This Temperance Association give there annual soiree on Friday 17th Dec., at Hannah's school house on the corner of 40 side road and 10th line. The entertain- ment will consist of Readings, Recita- tions, addresses by prominent speak- ers, and instrumental and vocal music by the Markdale C. M. Choir, and several well known amateurs. The admission is put at the low figure of 15 cents so as to permit all to attend, and we hope they will do so, as the association deserve to be encouraged as it has done considerable good in a quiet way. For particulars see post- ers.

SLEIGHING is good.

SEVERAL communications are crowded out this week but will appear in our next.

WE will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the STANDARD to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

THE Daily Mail during the session of Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

AN Orange Soiree will be held in the Orange Hall, Markdale, on the 17th inst. "See posters."

THERE is from two to three thousand dollars per day paid for farm produce in Markdale lately.

THE Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

THE ANNUAL Tea Meeting of the C. M. Church, Markdale, will be held on Christmas. Look out for posters for particulars.

WM. McLOUGHRY, Collector for Ward No. 2, Artemesia will be at the Markdale House, on Thursday 9th Dec., at 2 o'clock p. m., to receive taxes.

TEACHER, if he wishes his communication published, must send us his name, not for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. Anonimous communications will receive no attention at our hands.

SHOVELING snow off the sidewalks is the whole go from seven to eight o'clock in the morning. Jimmie Munshaw has made a wooden shovel which beats anything yet for cleaning the sidewalks of snow. "Patent applied for."

RAILWAY MATTERS.—The by-law to grant a bonus of $7,000 to the T., G. & B. Railway in the Township of Derby, was defeated by a majority of 116. In Proton the by-law was also defeated by 49 votes. Melancthon, we believe has carried the by-law, by a small majority.

WE are printing this week some two hundred copies of the STANDARD for sample copies. Those to whom they are sent will kindly receive them as such, and if not inclined to subscribe themselves, would they kindly hand them to their neighbors. Remember the STANDARD from now until 1st Jan. 1882 for $1.25.

SCIENTIFIC AMERICAN.—We would call the attention of our mechanical friends to the advertisement of the Scientific American in another column. The STANDARD and the above paper can be had until the end of 1881 for $3.85 in advance. The Scientific American, alone for $3.20 subscriptions taken at this office.

MUNICIPAL MATTERS.—In Glenelg things are very quiet. Artemesia, about the same. Euphrasia, Robert Myles Esq. is out for Reeve, it is said his chances are good for being elected. From Osprey we have nothing definite. Proton, the present Reeve—J. J. Middleton and Mr. Nelson are in the field both confident of success.

MARINE DISASTER.—The propeller Simcoe, of the Chicago and Collingwood line, was lost Wednesday last and twelve of her crew drowned, among whom were two women. The vessel labored in the trough of the sea for nine hours after the fires were put out before finally going down and the survivors say their sufferings were fearful as the sea made a clean sweep over her the whole time.

COUNTY ITEMS.

FIRE IN GLENELG.—On Thursday morning last Mr. Patrick Neil, of the Township of Glenelg, was suddenly awakened by an unusual noise, and on jumping out of bed he discovered that his woodshed and the back kitchen were all in flames, but nothing daunted he immediately went to work, being only partially dressed and in his bare feet, to put the fire out, being ably assisted by Mrs. Neil, who helped to carry water, and between them by their heroic exertions, they succeeded in saving their house from the devouring element, but not before Mr. Neil's feet were frozen, and his hands burnt by the flames. The kitchen and woodshed were destroyed but the house which is a good log one was saved without being much damaged. Mr. Neil's feet were sore, but not seriously blistered with the frost. It is a remarkable circumstance that Mr. and Mrs. Neil were able to subdue the fire themselves after it had gained such headway as it had, as they had to carry the water quite a distance. But pluck and perseverance works wonders some times. —Review.

THE T., G. & B. BONUSES.—The by-law submitted to the ratepayers of Howick for a bonus of $12,500 to the Toronto, Grey, and Bruce Railway, to be expended widening the gauge, was carried by a majority of 65 votes. The by-laws in the municipalities of Culross and Teeswater having been defeated, new by-laws will be prepared and submitted without delay.—Review.

WINGHAM carried a by-law for the Toronto, Grey and Bruce extension by a majority of 116 on Friday last.—Review.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.

THE Undersigned will be at Lot 6, 2nd 3rd Concession, N. D. R., Glenelg- on Saturday, Nov. 20, 1880, at 2 o'clock p. m., for the purpose of letting contract of building New Bridge across Saugeen River. Plans and Specifications to be seen at the house of Thomas Davis, Lot 2, 3rd Concession, N. D. R.

F. MACRAE,
G. BINNIE,
T. DAVIS,

Glenelg, Nov. 5, 1880.

Money Lost!

By those who buy stoves before going to

J. GARDINER'S

Dundalk.

Best and Cheapest stock of

STOVES and TINWARE

North of Toronto. 6

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, on the 15th inst., a Steer rising three years The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges and take him away,

SAMUEL MILLER.

Markdale, Nov. 19, 1880. 10-3

XMASS

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have
Tea sets, Fruit Dishes,
Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes,
Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers,
Card Receivers,
Ladies' Companions,
Cruets, Cups,
Napkin Rings,
Knives, Forks, Spoons,
Chains, Lockets, Earrings, &c., &

In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best) Swiss, English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated Sth Thomas and other Clocks, from 75c up. In Jewelry,—I have colored and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, Pins, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pens, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty.

Nov. 25, 1880. (6)

W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Flesherton and Dundalk.

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 148 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING

PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-tf

MARKDALE.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

WM. FOX,

Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

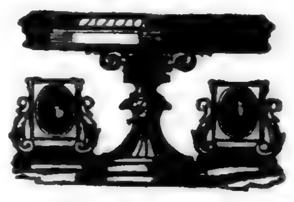
Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queer Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Selling Off. Selling Off.

GREAT

Clearing Out Sale!



GRANT & CHELLEW

will offer for the

NEXT 60 DAYS!

Bargains unprecedented in the County of Grey.

SIDEBOARDS,
BUREAUS,
CUPBOARDS,
WASHSTANDS, open and enclosed,
BEADSTEADS,
SPRING BEDS,
MATTRASSES,
CRADLES,
CENTRE TABLES,
EXTENSION TABLES,

Fall-Leaf Tables, and Chairs of every variety to be in all its branches.

SOLD AT COST!

—o—

Pictures and Picture Framing!

Upholstering and Repairing!

promptly attended to.

☞ Produce and Dry Lumber taken at market price.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Sept., 1880. 1

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,

HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,

HARROWS AND

All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compass with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY McRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf

A Choice Farm of 150 Acres

FOR SALE,

One Mile from the Village of Markdale.

There are about 100 acres cleared, the most of which is in a high state of cultivation and fit for a Reaper or Mower to work on. There are on the premises a Frame House bricked inside; a Milk House bricked inside; a Frame Stable and Driving House, and Log Barn; a Young Orchard commencing to bear; a good Well, beside the house; a never-failing Stream runs across the farm; Cedar sufficient for fencing, balance of bush hardwood. (a First-class Maple Sugar Bush of some 400 trees). The farm is well fenced, in a good state of repair, and in a choice locality, being within a mile of good market, churches, school houses, and all necessary conveniences.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
Proprietor.

Maple Leaf Farm, Markdale P.O.

Meat for All

AT

W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.

At the New Tinshop

MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX

STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!

A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!

made to order on the shortest notice,

EAVETROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all patterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Bloch opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880. 1

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Countyat

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit,
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND'S. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

BOOTS and SHOES!

FOR THE MILLION.

A NOVELTY in these Goods!

The Indestructible Riveted and Cemented and Water-proof Seam.

Call and Examine Stock and Prices!

before purchasing "slop" goods elsewhere.

FULL LINES IN

Groceries, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing,

(Ready-made,) Crockery and Glassware!

AT THE

"TORONTO HOUSE,"

MARKDALE.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880.

Cash! Cash! Cash!

People may Puff and Blow, but if you want real value for

Your Money or Produce

GO TO THE

Toronto House,

DUNDALK,

The following is a list of prices of a few of the many leading lines offered.

Men's Overcoats $5.50 and upwards.		Boy's Ulster Overcoats $4.75 and upwards.
Men's Tweed suits $4.00	do	Men's undershirts and Drawers 50c	do
" Overalls (Duck) 75c	do	" heavy Pants $1.25	do
" Winter Caps 45c	do	Ladies' all wool shawls, $1.25	do
Ladies' Clouds, 50c	do	Beautiful patterned dress Goods 15c	do
Beautiful Lustres, 15c	do	Factory Cotton, 7c	do
Ladies' Fur Caps $1.75	do	Children's Fur Caps 95c	do
Men's long Boots, $2.00	do	Men's seamless whole stock Boots $0.55	do
Boys long Boots, $1.25	do	Women's strong shoes, $1.10,	do
Children's strong shoes 45c	do

Together with a full stock of First-Class Groceries. Teas, Sugars, choice Brands of Tobacco, Soaps, Syrups, Vinegar, Dried Apples. Biscuits, Confectionery. Spices of all kinds, Patent Medicines, Castor Oil, Castorine, Machine Oils, Coal Oil. Also Hardware, Spoons Table Knives, Nails, Screws, Hinges, latches, &c., and a full stock of all the leading lines in Dry Goods, Millinery, Furs of all kinds, and all other Goods such as are kept in a First Class General Store.

Farm Produce taken as cash. A call is solicited and you will be convinced that this is the place to get good value for your money.

Highest Cash Price paid for all kinks of Grain, Pork, &c.

GEORGE NIXON.

Dundalk, Nov 25, 1880. 11 4t

H. & R. HOOPER

RESPECTFULLY invite every Man and Woman in the country to visit their Factory and Warerooms and inspect their stock of furniture, manufactured during the summer, for fall trade. Our stock is now the largest and most complete yet held by us, and we have been successful in introducing a great many

NEW AND TASTY DESIGNS!

IN

BED-ROOM SETS, COUCHES,

SIDEBOARDS, EXTENSION TABLES, CENTRE TABLES, DRESSING BUREAUS, BEDSTEADS, SOFAS, WHATNOTS, HAT-RACKS, HALL TABLES, &c., &c., &c.

WE ARE MAKING A SPECIALTY IN

New Styles of WOOD SEAT CHAIRS!

CHEAP AND DURABLE.

—OUR—

UNDERTAKING DEPARTM'NT

Fully supplied with COFFINS, SHROUDS, &c., and special sizes made on the very shortest notice.

ALL KINDS OF

Fancy Turning, Scroll Work, Fence Pickets & Mouldings

made to order. Also SASH, DOORS, PLANING, &c.

With our present experience we feel justified in asking a continuance of the patrons so liberally bestowed on us in the past. Our prices will be found as low as any, and much so as is consistent with good work and finish. If you are in need of anything in our line we feel confident we can suit you in quantity and quality to select from and also in terms.

H. & R. HOOPER,

1 Flesherton Steam Furniture Factory and Planing Mill

Remved!

Removed.

HILL BROTHERS,

Would intimate to their numerous friends and the public generally, that they have removed to their new premises, and will be pleased to receive a call from our many friends and customers. Call and see us. We will GIVE YOU BARGAINS. WE MEAN BUSINESS.

SEE OUR

Cheap Dress Goods,

Lustres,

Wincies,

Laces,

And Fringes.

Gents, see our CLOTHING. They are Stylish, Good CHEAP.

SEE OUR TWEEDS!

You will find them right in Price and Quality.

Boots and Shoes a Specialty.

Call and get a sample of our Splendid TEAS.

Gentlemen we have a splendid SMOKING TOBACCO, at 40c per lb. Try it.

We again give a general invitation to inspect our Stock. Have not time to write long advertisements. Don't believe in them. Would rather have the Goods speak for themselves.

Thanking you for past favors, and trust to have a continuance of the same.

HILL BROS.

Markdale, Nov. 4, 1880. 1-ly

"Hew to the Line."

A LUMBERMAN'S SONG.

Going through the woods my lads
The ringing axe we swing,
And as we ply our merry toil
This cheery stave we sing:
"Let true eye guide each sturdy stroke
True heart and hand combine;"
And "wheresoe'er the chips may fall,
Hew to the line!"

Life's a bush of varied woods
And cross is oft their grain,
But axe and wedge will cleave the knots
And part the log in twain.
The line of duty, fairly traced
By Nature's own design,
Will keep us straight, my lads if we
Hew to the line.

Hard our lot as lot may be,
Spare our fare at best is,
Yet our slumber's sounder far
Than his, who wears a crest is.
This one honest rule we seek,
In shadow or in shine,
"Aye, wheresoe'er the chips may fall
Hew to the line."

He who wields the trusty steel,
To hew a path through life,
Must bear a single heart to guide
His action in the strife.
Then let us pray that, come what may,
This law be yours and mine,
['Tis His, who bosses all the gang].
"Hew to the line."

CHORUS, Hew to the line, my lads
Hew to the line!
Wheresoe'er the chips may fall
Hew to the line!

ONLY A WOMAN'S HAIR.

By the Author of "A Strange Friendship," &c.

CHAPTER VII.—CONTINUED.

I was dreadfully hungry by this time, and I went to a confectioner's which I knew; but I dared not stop to eat anything, lest some acquaintance dropping in should recognize me. I drank off a cup of coffee, and I bought a parcel of cakes and buns, and returned once more to the railway station.

I had carefully avoided going to any hotel, as I knew that Cyril would inquire for me at every hotel to which he thought I was at all likely to go. Therefore I changed my dress in the ladies' waiting-room at the railway station, and in a few minutes my appearance was completely changed. I packed up the costume of cinnamon-brown silk, with a hat to match, which I had hitherto worn, in my little portmanteau.

I was now wearing a princess dress of navy blue, a long dark paletot, and a sealskin hat, as different in shape as possible from the one I had worn before. No description which Cyril could give of me would now suit me in the least.

When I had completed all my arrangements I found that I had still about an hour to wait until the train started which would deposit me at the nearest station to Ravelston, the place I was so anxious to reach. During that long hour of waiting I read Mrs. Holland's letter again and again; striving to make out all I could concerning the house and its inmates; but I could gather nothing from her few buried lines, save that she felt confident that she would be happy in her new home. She did not tell me the name of the people with whom she was going to live.

I had formed no plans, save that once at Ravelston, I should consult with her what I had better next proceed to do. Sooner than return to Cyril's roof I was determined, if it proved necessary, to follow my father to England.

At last I found myself once more in the train and speeding away along a newly opened line of railway. I had been extremely fortunate; and, from first to last, I had not encountered a single acquaintance.

The nearest station to Ravelston proved to be merely a small platform, and there was only a few houses on the outskirts of the bush. I asked the postmaster how far I was from Ravelston, and I was dismayed to find that I had a walk of twelve miles before me.

I had not counted upon this; I had fancied that the place would certainly lie close to the railway.

But, after a moment's reflection, I was rejoiced at the intelligence rather than otherwise; for the more out of the way Mrs. Holland's home proved to be, the less likely was I to be discovered when I had once taken refuge there.

Carrying my little portmanteau in my hand I set off bravely on my twelve miles' walk through the bush. The people from whom I had made inquiries had told me that there was a good road all the way, and then had given me a few directions, which made it almost impossible for me to go astray.

Still it was a long and weary walk, and many times my heart died within me, and I felt as if I could drag myself no further.

Once I sat down on the trunk of a fallen tree and cried bitterly with misery and fatigue combined. The excitement which had hitherto buoyed me up and braced my nerves had all passed away, and here amongst the quiet trees I felt perfectly safe from pursuit, but also unspeakably lonely and desolate.

Then I became aware that I was exceeding hungry, and I fortunately recollected that I had still some cakes left in my bag. Now that it is all over and done with long since I can laugh to think of myself sitting by the wayside crying like a child—certainly I was only just twenty—and eating cherry-tarts and Maderia cake, and drinking water in the hollow of my hand from a little spring. Then I dried my eyes and bathed my face, and set forth once more upon my lonely way.

A little further on I came to a couple of tents, and some men cutting firewood in the bush.

I stopped a moment and asked them how far I was from Ravelston. They told me about six miles. After I had walked on again I heard one man say to another.—

"Sure and she is a pretty lady! Heaven bless her beautiful eyes!"

I felt as if the benediction had in some way done me good.

The sun was just setting when I at last caught a glimpse of Ravelston through the trees, and then I felt bright and strong once more. I remember my first sight of the place most vividly. I grew to love that house as I never loved any other in my life.

It was a long, low irregularly-built house, with all the rooms on the ground-floor—not in the least a pretty house to look at; but the garden and the trees and the bush round about it were all exceedingly beautiful.

I managed somehow to find my way round to the back of the house instead of the front. I came out upon a beautiful drying-ground. A woman with her back turned to me was hanging clothes upon the lines.

I gave a little cry at the sight of her. She turned round, and I saw again the familiar face of my dear nurse and friend Caroline Holland.

I cannot describe her astonishment and joy at beholding me. When she could bring herself at last to believe that this tired, dusty, footsore woman was indeed her own Miss Cathie, the girl she had taken charge of from the day that she was a month old, she was too glad to see me at first to ask me why or how I had come to seek her out.

We sat down side by side on a smooth bank of emerald-green turf in the shade of the poplars and blue gums, and I told her as well as I could all that had happened to send me thus flying like a fugitive to her for help and protection.

She believed with me that I had in truth discovered the murderer of her dear Miss Rose; and we both shed tears together over the long golden ringlet as it lay smoothed out upon her knee.

"But what shall I do with you dear Miss Cathie?" she asked, when the first excitement of our meeting and of our conversation was over. "How shall I manage to let you stop here?"

Then, with a slight change of tone and not looking at me as she spoke, she added—

"Do you know to whom this house belongs, and who my master is? Why it is Mr. Noel Beresford's!"

I almost started to my feet in my surprise.

"Oh, I am so glad!" I said. "Who would have thought of such a thing? Now we shall be able to consult with him what I had better do; for he knows all about the circumstances of Rose's death."

"Well," returned Mrs. Holland, with some doubt in her tone, "we must consult him, of course; but what advice he will be able to give us I am sure I do not know. He is not at home just now; but I expect him back to-night."

CHAPTER VIII.

The same evening, after Mrs. Holland had served me with a cup of tea in her own room, and when I had washed away the dust of my long walk and generally freshened myself up a little, we heard Mr. Beresford's step in the varandah.

It was a strong, firm, masterful tread. How well I learned to know that step in after-days! And how glad I always was to hear it!

Mrs. Holland went at once to meet him and to prepare him for the unexpected and, I may add, uninvited guest he was to receive. After a time she came back and asked me to go and see Mr. Beresford in the dining-room. She could scarcely persuade him to believe, that I was really there, she said.

I wondered why my heart began to beat quickly as I crossed the hall and opened the dining-room door.

Then the next moment I saw again before me the same broad-shouldered, brown-bearded man who had first made my acquaintance on the night my sister died.

Mr. Beresford came forward at once, took my hand and led me to a seat, using some cordial expresion of welcome, which lifted a weight off my mind, for it showed me that he was really glad to see me. Very soon I found myself telling him my whole story with perfect unreserve; I made no secret to him of how I had been forced into my marriage.

He listened to all that I said with grave intentness. I could see that he made mental notes as I proceeded, and sifted the evidence before him. I told him of Cyril's frequent allusions to my sifter Rose, of his assumed coldness in speaking of her changing suddenly to an outburst of almost fierce admiration, of the jealousy which was the black spot upon his character, and lastly of my discovery in his private room upon my wedding-day.

"I have always thought that jealousy must have been the motive that prompted that dastardly action," remarked Noel Beresford. "What enemy could a creature so young and so fair as she was have had, save one driven mad by her beauty and her disdain?"

He agreed with me that Cyril Vane must have been her murderer

"But, even if you wished to prove it against him, you could do nothing now," he said. "The wife's evidence is worthless. He has tied your hands."

"Oh," I exclaimed involuntarily, "I see it now! That was why he determined to marry me!"

There was a short silence after this. I was recalling my dream the night before my wedding, and how Rose had used the same words, "Your hands, Cathie, are tied."

Something in the idea suggested by the last few words was evidently distasteful to Mr. Beresford. He was looking down, his straight dark eyebrows were contracted into a frown, and he was crushing an unoffending rose-leaf on the floor under the heel of his boot.

This only lasted a moment or two. Mr. Beresford looked up, caught my eye, and smiled. He had an exceedingly sweet smile; it lighted up his strongly-marked features, and made his dark gray eyes beautiful in expression while it lasted.

"What am I to do with you?" he said. "I ought to return you at once to your friends."

"I have no friends," I answered. "My sister is dead, my father is out of sight of land, and I count Cyril Vane as my enemy."

He made no reply to this; he was silent a few minutes, evidently weighing something in his mind.

Whatever the subject of his meditations might be, it was evidently an engrossing one, and one which caused him no little perplexity. He began to pace up and down the room, his arms folded, lost in some train of thought, the nature of which I did not comprehend.

I sat quietly watching him as he marched to and fro, He did not notice me; his eyes had grown dark and dreamy, his straight dark eyebrows had contracted as he pondered some critical point, and hesitated on the eve of some important decision. At last, as he passed me, I caught the muttered words—

"If I let her go away perhaps he will put an end to her life as he did to her sister's." And again, a moment afterwards, he said in a low tone, "So young and so beautiful to go out into the world alone! It would never do."

Mr. Beresford's meditations were becoming somewhat embarrassing. I caught up a newspaper that was lying on the table, and held it before my face, under the pretence of shading myself from the red glow of the fire. At last his brows suddenly cleared, and his dark eyes brightened.

He stopped in front of me, and stood looking down at me, with his arms still folded.

"I have it at last," he said. "This plan will do. Although I may not keep you here as my guest, I can offer you a home as a tenant. I will let Ravelston to you and your maid, Mrs. Holland; and we will have a written agreement to put everything on a business footing."

The abruptness and originality of this proposal almost took away my breath, so strange and startling did it seem to me at the first moment.

"But you!" I exclaimed. "What will become of you then?"

"There is another smaller house on the property," he replied. "I will go and live there for a time and take one of my men to wait upon me."

"But I have no money," I said, still feeling utterly bewildered. "I cannot pay you any rent for this house."

Mr. Beresford laughed outright, with an intense enjoyment of the situation which I could scarcely understand.

"Never mind about that now," he replied. "We will talk about that later on." Then, with a sudden change to gravity in his manner, he added, "I should like Ravelston to be a harbour of refuge for you at present, until your father can be communicated with; and this is the only way in which I can make it so."

As he stood before me, looking down at me, with his arms folded and his head a little thrown back, I noticed for the first time what I thought was a shade of sadness in his eyes; he had very handsome eyes, judging them by their power of expression as well as by their shape and colour. Presently he called Mrs. Holland into the room and explained his plan to her, and, somewhat to my astonishment, she quite agreed with him, and fell in entirely with all his views at once.

The other house was to be got ready for him the next day, and he was to leave Ravelston and take possession of his new abode before dark the next evening. Mrs. Holland and Mr. Beresford entered into a good deal of discussion concerning minor details; and I sat by quietly and listened.

At last he went out and left her alone with me; and then she said to me confidentially and in a low tone—

"It is the very thing for him to do. He is so clever; I knew that he would hit upon some plan. You see, dear Miss Cathie, you could not possibly live here with Mr. Beresford; either he must go or you. I think it is so good of him to take himself off in this way!"

For my part I thought it a height of chivalry quite unprecedented. Here was I about to turn a man out of his home and take possession of it almost at a day's notice!

I could only feel that I did not understand Noel Beresford; I had not so far got the clue to his actions which I should have liked to possess; yet I felt that I respected him and looked to him as I had never before done to any living man.

My sleep that night was deep, dreamless, and delightful. I believe that I was thoroughly wearied out with all the terror and anxiety I had gone through in the last two days. I did not wake till long after the house was astir the next morning; and my recollection of my first night in Ravelston is one of unspeakable repose. Mrs. Holland was standing by my side when I awoke.

"I will take breakfast into the dining-room for you now, Miss Cathie," she said, if you are quite rested. Mr. Beresford has been gone hours; you are the only one I have to wait upon at present."

Noel Beresford had kept his word; he had taken possession of the other house upon his property, and I did not see him at all that day. He took with him to his new abode two of his men to wait upon him, and his great St. Bernard dog "Nero" for a companion.

I hope he was comfortable; if he was not he certainly never uttered a word of complaint.

As the days went by, he was of course often over to Ravelston, giving orders and looking after the management of the place generally; and I frequently saw him, but usually only for a few moments at a time. Short as these interviews were however, I gradually grew to know Noel Beresford well and to estimate his character at its true value. I learned his faults as well as his best qualities during the next few weeks. He was rather dictatorial, very obstinate, and somewhat opinionated; but he was one in a thousand for all that. Brave, courteous, true to his word, sincere and loyal to his friends to the very core; such was Noel Beresford as time revealed his character to me; and gradually I grew to trust him and rely upon him as upon a very tower of strength.

I had written a letter to my father, which I hoped he would receive almost immediately after he landed in England; and it was understood thing between Mr. Beresford and myself that I was to follow him as soon as ever I could obtain his address.

One day I happened to remark to Mrs. Holland that I hoped Mr. Beresford did not miss the comforts of Ravelston in the smaller rougher house he had now made his home.

"I do not even now understand, Carrie," I said, "why he took himself off in such a desperate hurry. His conduct seems to me Quixotic and romantic in the extreme."

She looked up from her sewing and said quietly—

"But then you know, Miss Cathie"—she always calls me this still—"I don't think he regards you quite as an ordinary young lady. I don't think he has ever forgotten you. When I first came here and told him you were just going to be married, he grew quite white for a few moments, though he did not wish me to notice it."

The instant she had said this I saw that she repented of her words, and that she bitterly regretted her ill-advised speech. But then it was too late. I had grown scarlet in a moment; I drew myself up with dignity and told her coldly not to talk such nonsense for the future. Then I shook out my dark blue train, and, "with level fronted eyelids, swept out stately from the room."

After this I avoided Noel Beresford. The sound of his voice or of his clear musical whistle outside the window would send me fleeing like a fugitive to my own room. I think he felt puzzled as to what strange whim had come over me.

But I was exceedingly happy at Ravelston. If I could have forgotten Cyril Vane and my terror lest he should find me out, I think that winter would have been a time of unspeakably bright sunshine. In the midst of the cold and the frost, and the bleak biting winds, of which we had an abundance, I felt as if it were

"May with me from head to heel."

I read a great deal; Mr. Beresford had a number of books. Sometimes I sketched; there were lovely "bits" about Ravelston. Once I could not resist putting a certain bearded, broad-shouldered figure into the foreground of my picture; but that sketch I hid away when it was finished, and no one saw it for a long time afterwards.

It was almost two months since Gladiator and I fled away in the night.

The time had slipped by so quietly and delightfully that I was fast losing all anxiety as to the future in the peace and serenity of the life I was leading, when something happened which woke me sharply and abruptedly from my foolish and delusive dreams.

One evening I was seated on the hearthrug in the dining-room at Ravelston, reading by the red glow of the wood fire. It was a favourite attitude of mine—half sitting, half kneeling on the soft white rug; for, in spite of my twenty years, I was very childish still.

I remember that I had on a warm gray homespun dress, with a scarlet tie at the throat. It was lucky for me that it was a warm dress, as things afterwards turned out.

The book in my hand was a book of Mrs Browning's poems; and, I was reading for the first time, with intense delight, the "Rhyme of the Duchess May"—

"'I had rather died with thee than lived on the wife of Leigh,'
Were the first words she did speak."

I was passionately fond of poetry, and I was reciting the lines softly to myself as I read them, and feeling as if I myself were the Duchess May, and as if the horse in that poem were my own dear Gladiator.

All at once as I read, and without raising my eyes from the book, I felt that a shadow had darkened the failing light in the window opposite to me. I looked up and saw Noel Beresford standing just without. He made me a sign to open the window at once; I did so, and he stepped swiftly and noiselessly into the room.

He paused a moment in the recess of the window and stood looking down at me with something anxious and wistful in his gaze.

I noted, as I had often done before, the easy grace of his powerful commanding figure, the noble outline of his head, and the rugged steadfast face; but this was only for a moment. I had a few words of greeting on my lips; but he stopped me by laying his hand hastily for one instant over my mouth.

Then he took hold of my wrist, and whispering, "Follow me, and make no sound," he led me out of the open window to the lawn without. The was something so eager and urgent in his manner that I felt convinced he had a powerful reason for this conduct and I followed him at once without one word of remonstrance.

That hand of iron hurried me across the lawn and across the drive into the deep shadow of the trees beyond. Here the soft gloom was thick enough to conceal any one who wished to avoid observation; and here Mr. Beresford paused.

He had not yet spoken to me, save the few words I have recorded; but his strong grasp on my wrist had not relaxed, and I knew that there must be hovering near a danger of some kind from which he was endeavouring to preserve me.

In the shadow of the trees, for the first time, he stopped, looked at me, and released my hand.

"Hush!" he said, speaking in a hurried whisper. "Make no sound, Cyril Vane is here. He says he has come to see me on business; but I suspect that he has quite other reasons for his visit. I think he is looking for you. Now do you understand why I have brought you here?"

His words threw me into a fit of cold deadly terror. I clung to his arm for a moment in an almost childish panic.

"Oh," I said, looking up into his face pitiously, "Don't let Cyril get me! Don't give me up to him!"

Noel Beresford drew a long breath; his gray eyes darkened as they always did in moments of emotion with him.

"No," he said, almost fiercely between his teeth; "Not I. I'll never give you up. Have no fear of that!" Then with another hard breath, and an intensity of passion in his voice, he added, "When a man gets a glimpse of the sunlight for the first time in his life, is he likely to be ready to part with it again in a hurry? I should think not indeed!"

His straight eyebrows were contracted, and his deep gray eyes were flashing; but then he noticed that I was shivering, and he took off his own coat and wrapped it round me.

"Kneel down," he said, in his masterful way. "You will be quite safe here. I will come and fetch you as soon as it is safe for you to return to the house."

I knelt down as he desired me, and suffered him to wrap me up. I knew that he could easy get another coat from the hall at Ravelston, where two or three of his were hanging.

A moment after he was gone, leaving me stunned and bewildered, and shivering with terror, among the ferns and the long grass of the plantation, where he had hidden me; yet through it all ran an undertone of rapture; for had not Noel Beresford spoken of me as his "sunlight," and said that he would never give me up?

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Ireland is, of course, still continuing the observed of all observers. A crusade has been proclaimed against all landlords, good bad and indifferent, and a general movement is on foot for making all tenants of farms owners in chief. A grand movement, and distinctly Irish. Why should a man who rents a farm in the country get it for his own, and the man in the town who occupies a house be not equally fortunate? It would be only decent at any rate, if these would-be land owners should propose to purchase their holdings, yet, why should they if they can get them for nothing? Why, indeed? It is all very well to talk of the wrongs of Ireland, but would it not vary the exercises somewhat, if those who cry out so much on the subject, would set about and show what those wrongs are, as they are suffered at the present moment. Is it not a fact that a man who can't pay the rent of a house has to go out of it? And that he, who has not the price of a pound of tobacco handy, has to go without it? And if all that is reasonable and right, would somebody rise and explain why it is not reasonable that a man, who occupies a farm, and either can't or won't pay the stipulated rent, should take up his traps and move out. We in Canada have all got so accustomed to that sort of thing, that we can't get it into our wool, why, it should be so unnatural and harsh in Ireland.

MAMMA—"Why, my dear Willie, what in the world is the matter with little Oscar's head?" Willie—"Well, we're playin' William Tell,' an' somehow my arrow won't hit the apple, but keeps pluggin' his eyes an' nose."

"You have always had the reputation of being an honest man; how does it happen that you have been guilty of theft?" "It's the fault of the age in which we live. The man who wants to make an honest living now-a-days can't do it unless he steals."

Hon. Wm. McMaster.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

Among the merchant princes of Canada, the Hon. William McMaster occupies a foremost place, and the simple record of his life may well read a lesson to all young men and encourage them in a course of well-doing. There has been nothing very extraordinary in Mr. McMaster's history, just as there is nothing overshadowingly great in his original powers of mind, or anything out of the common in his very successful and honourable career. No young man need say that the circumstances of Mr. McMaster's lot were so exceptionally favourable, or that his abilities were so entirely above the ordinary that few could hope to follow in his steps, or to look for anything like his splendid commercial success. On the contrary, there is nothing about the Honourable Senator's character, acquirements and prosperity which might discourage the young and aspiring; but something very much the reverse. Mr. McMaster with few advantages. No extraordinary help and no exceptionally lucky turns of fortune. It could not be said that he owed anything to what some would call a mere fortunate chance, or that he took advantage of some special opportunity which, if once neglected would never again have presented itself. The secret of his success has been in steady, energetic work, prudent management and skilful attention to all the minute details of business. He has left nothing to chance, has never depended on something turning up, or reckoned upon others going out of their way to help him when he knew that he could help himself. Prudence, tact, energy and skilful management account for all that he has accomplished.

HAD TO PUSH HIS WAY

NOT FORGETTING THE BLESSING OF GOD, which he would himself be the first to acknowledge, and to which he would be the readiest to ascribe all he is and all he has achieved.

A native of Ireland, where he was born in 1811, Mr. McMaster came to Canada when twenty-two years of age, and immediately set himself to the work which he has ever since so successfully prosecuted. His educational advantages had not been very many or very great, but he had made the best and most of them, and, full of youthful energy and hopefulness he entered upon commercial work,

RESOLVED TO SUCCEED,

but only by legitimate means, and in regular honourable undertakings. He was at first engaged as clerk in a dry goods store on King, nearly opposite Toronto street, but he could not long remain in that position. Within a year after his settling in Toronto he had become and very shortly after, had started as a wholesale merchant on his own account. At first, of course, he had very considerable difficulties to contend with. Montreal was the great distributing centre for Canada, and continued to be so for many years after. The merchants there had all the advantage arising from an established trade and settled business facilities, and it is not saying too much to add that they looked with no favourable eye upon any such attempts as that of Mr. McMaster which aimed at making Toronto, not Montreal, the great wholesale centre for the West of Canada. The covert jealousy and keen competition of Montreal, however, only stimulated a man like Mr. McMaster to greater exertion and made him the more

A PARTNER IN THE CONCERN,

DETERMINED TO SUCCEED AT ALL HAZARDS.

He turned the peculiar advantages of Toronto to the best account; made it worth while for the merchants of the West to deal with him, and soon established a large and even growing connection, which for many years, first under himself and thereafter under his nephews, whom he had taken into partnership and who have carried on the business since he retired, has been among the largest and best known in all the Province of Ontario if not in the whole of Canada.

Very homely yet not so very common instrumentalities have been employed to build up and maintain the large and lucrative business. They may be all summed up in fair dealing, prudent management, untiring energy, courteous conduct and watchful attention to the smallest details. Mr. McMaster has never had any faith in sharp practice, questionable pretences or more than questionable make-believes. He established a character for fair, honourable dealing, kept the best of goods, gave the best terms which were prudently possible, and watched every opportunity for honourably pushing his business and profiting by the changing chances of the market. His customers learned to rely upon him. His name rose for and, within a comparatively short time his transactions extended over the whole country, and were, as such transactions ought always to be, mutually advantageous to all concerned. What the firm was, in the days when Mr. McMaster was at its head, it still continues to be, occupying to this day a foremost place among the many establishments of this kind now to be found in Toronto, and is, we believe doing if not the very largest business in its particular department, one of the safest and most lucrative.

UPRIGHT AND HONORABLE DEALING,

A man of Mr. McMaster's energy could not remain idle, even after he had no special call to exertion. It is now many years since he entirely retired from the Dry Goods business and found himself so far, a gentleman at large. Instead, however, of his business life closing when a respectable competency had been secured, it may be said that it only then really commenced. He has since made himself a still greater name and power in the realm of Finance, than ever he was in that of Commerce. As director of various banks and other monetary institutions he has shown and caution, combined with enterprise, which gave him success in his original occupation. No undertaking with which he has been connected, has failed to reap large and satisfactory benefits from his wise and careful administration. But it has been in connection with the Bank of Commerce that his peculiar abilities have had chief scope, and have achieved their greatest success. That large and flourishing enterprise, may be said to owe almost all its prosperity to the untiring attention, admirable business habits, enlarged experience, and keen discernment of its President. It has been his favourite work, and he has reaped special celebrity and profit from his connection with it from the beginning. Indeed, there is no institution in Canada,—we had almost said but be very great, and such as, if that were allowable in any case, onlookers might well regard with something like envy. What a contrast in every respect his career and his reward, even in mere personal pleasure, compared with what those can have who give themselves up to mere selfish accumulation, and who give way to that kind of pride, which one has said, "raises the loudest laugh in hell," the pride of dying rich. Mr. McMaster is a modest as well as a wealthy man, and can ill stand to have his good deeds blazoned before the public. He is one, however, whom his fellow citizens delight to honour, and whom young men may safely copy. He is not a man of genius, and cannot even be said to be a man of any very distinguished abilities. But he has great good sense, large practical wisdom, indomitable perseverance, shrewd discernment of character, unswerving integrity and genuine,

THE SAME SOUNDNESS OF JUDGMENT

UNOSTENTATIOUS PIETY.

No one envies him his success for he bears himself with modesty and uses his wealth for high and honourable purposes. That he may be long spared in a green old age to enjoy the fruit of his labours, to devise liberal things for the good of the race, and to still further help forward the cause of truth and —or on the Continent, whose history and success are so intimately connected with one man's name, and which are known so generally as having become what they are through the skilful management and undomitable energy of a solitary individual.

The Bank of Commerce will not go down when Mr. McMaster dies, but it is safe to say, that, but for him, it would never have occupied the position of prominence and power which it holds at present.

But it is not merely—we had almost said not chiefly—upon his success as a business man, that Mr. McMaster's wide spread reputation throughout the Dominion, rests. He has never been a very ardent or prominent politician, though, in the course he has followed as such, he has always displayed the same sound judgment, and unimpeachable integrity. As a public spirited citizen, however, an ardent christian, and an enlightened philanthropist, Mr. McMaster is most widely and most favourably known.

He has in many different ways sought the good of the land in which he lives, and in which he has achieved his great success. Toronto has benefited in many respects from his labours, and the religious denomination of which he is a member has long received from him munificent and and sustained assistance in all its varied enterprises for the advancement of the cause of Christ. What he did in connection with the building of

JARVIS STREET BAPTIST CHURCH

is well known. We should suppose that forty or fifty thousand dollars would not fully represent all he gave in money alone, besides the trouble and personal effort he cheerfully expended in the course of the work. His efforts for the upbuilding of the Literary Institute at Woodstock have been on a similar scale of enlightened munificence, while his last undertaking in erecting the splendid buildings in the Queen's Park for the Baptist Theological Seminary, and, in so far endowing it, also will likely throw all his previous efforts into the shade. It is well that Canada has such men,—men who have abundance of means and at the same time hearts to use them for men who do not hold on to their gold with death-like tenacity till the great king of terrors makes them unloose their grasp, but who take pleasure in so far being their own executors and in having the joy of seeing in their life time the blessed fruits of their wise arrangements and unstinted liberality. The amount of happiness which Mr. McMaster must derive from such undertakings cannot righteousness on the earth, is the cordial wish not only of TRUTH, but of all to whom the interests of the truth are dear. The accumulation of a very large amount of property in the hands of single individuals is not at all a desirable thing, though it is not easy to see how it is to be prevented so long as some are industrious and shrewd, and others are improvident and wasteful, as well as idle and foolish. But if there were more of those generally spoken of as successful, who would follow a course somewhat similar to that of Mr. McMaster, their prosperity would be less envied, and their meaner characteristics less remarked upon. We have in this new country not many who could, if they were willing, expend their means on such a scale of princely munificence as Mr. McMaster has done, and is doing. We have still fewer who are willing to do this, even though they could. That the number of such will increase we sincerely hope, and that all of them will receive as much honour and derive as much unalloyed pleasure as Mr. McMaster has done we most fully believe. The great heart of the people is after all not very far from being just. It is true now, as it always has been, that if a man will only persist in doing what is right and air and true, right will continually be done to him in return.

HIGH AND PERMANENTLY USEFUL PURPOSES,

HAVE A SMILE.

How to shine in society—get polished up.

"SWANS sing before they die." They have to, if they sing at all.

LOVIN' a cottage is more common than lovin' the cottage mistress.

THE telegraph tells us "the Kurds have fallen back," which, perhaps, indicates that the whey is clear.

THE P. I. Man evolves the following: "Evolutionists may talk, but Adam was the prime evil man."

THE man who makes light of everything is not necessarily very brilliant himself.

NATURE should mend her ways. English tourists think American autumnal tints entirely too loud.

THE Signal Service always tells a young man when it is time to take his ulster out of pawn.

You can tell when a reporter is going to make a point by the way he sharpens his pencil.

THE man who is too polite to contradict a lady won't make anything by it when she says she isn't good-looking.

JONES has just visited a deaf mute school. He says the exercises were quite interesting, but not a pronounced success.

THE London Law Journal advertises a "Law Coach." We suppose this has something to do with conveyancing.

A LITTLE girl who was much petted said: "I like sitting on gentlemen's knees better than on ladies'; don't you, ma?"

DON'T pick a pocket until it is ripe. 'Twill be a green hand that picks our pocket under that rule.

THE book agent knows he is solid when he wipes his feet on a door mat in which the word "Welcome" is woven.

"I DECLARE," exclaimed a slovenly writer, "I wish I could find a pen that would just suit me." And instantly came the chorus, "Try a pig pen."

A cross-eyed man who said he was going to "vote as he shot," had his ballot carefully put among the "scattering" by the judicious inspector.

MR. FROUDE is reported to have said that a residence in Ireland for a few years is enough to deprive even an Englishman of common sense.

WHAT a relief it is to turn from the political editorials in exchanges, to the calm, dignified statements to be found in the local notices of patent medicines. There is no lying in patent medicine advertisements.

THE Lowell Courier isn't printed on the sea-coast, but it knows something about light-houses, just the same. It says: "Light-houses are of great benefit to the sailor, in preventing him from getting wrecked; but a succession of light houses is sure to wreck the theatrical manager."

Two young men out riding were passing a farm-house, where a farmer was trying to harness an obstinate mule. "Won't he draw?" said one of the men. "Of course," said the farmer; "he'll draw the attention of every fool that passes this way." The young men drove on.

A SERVICE was recently announced at St. Matthew's Sydenham, London "for children of the upper classes." Whereupon the following amendment to the well-known saying was promptly offered by a newspaper commentator: "Suffer little children of the upper classes to come unto me."

RELIGIOUS GOSSIP.

IT is authoritively denied that the Archbishop of Canterbury is about to marry.

THE Evangelical Synod of North America, which represents the United or State Church of Prussia, has 408 Pastors, 510 congregations, and 80,610 communicants.

WHEN money is to be raised in heathen lands, and the converted heathen have no money they often sell their furniture or trinkets, and give the proceeds to the Church.

AN old Carmelite convent in Lisbon now bears over its gateway the inscription "Presbyterian Church," the building having been purchased of the Portuguese Government.

SIR RICHARD TEMPLE, Governor of India, after thirty years' observation, bears enthusiastic testimony to the great good missionaries have done and are doing among the people of India.

THE Rev. David McKee, the successor of Dr. John Hall in the Pastorate of Rutland Square Presbyterian Church, Dublin, died recently in New-Zealand, whither he had gone for his health.

THE Roman Catholic Society for the propagation of the faith reports receipts of only 6,031,648f., against 6,591,741f. in 1878, showing a falling off of over 5500,000f. The missions are said to be suffering for want of funds.

MGR. DUMONT has sued the Belgian Minister of Justice and Mr. Rousseaux for the salary of the Bishop of Tournai. Dumont was set aside and Rousseaux was appointed Administrator of the Diocese by order of the Pope.

Journalistic Enterprise.

There is nothing so encouraging to the proprietor of a great modern journal as to be able to make improvements on his organ. Artemus Ward tells a good story about a visit he made to the sanctum of the Bungtown Bugle, and the interesting interview he had with the editor. The editor was preparing his leading editorial which he read over to Artemus. It was to the effect that "we have just had some extensive repairs made to our sink. A new bottom has been placed in it at an immense expense, in which two holes have been bored, through which the water passes into the entirely new bucket below. What has the hell-hound of the Gazette to say to this? We shall continue to make improvements as great and exhaustive as our rapidly increasing circulation will justify. We have also about closed a contract for the purchase of a new paste pot."

It was the same editor of the Bugle who got out an extra with big headlines announcing:

"The course of the Bugle indorsed by the people. One more subscriber yesterday,"

The same paper also claimed that it had trebled its circulation, which was a fact, for at the time it had three subscribers instead of one, the number it started out with.

Our Man About Town.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

Of course we have all had a sensation this week. Everybody has been on the edge of his foot and has looked in Vapotheat and acted as if it were no small pumpkins. I was carried away with the enthusiasm and I'm afraid was sometimes not so mindful of my dignity as I ought to have been. I rubbed my hands even in the street, had a strange, jerky sort of step in walking along King, and might, in short, have been mistaken for Malvolio, had I been cross gartered and otherwise rigged out like that unhappy and fantastic gentleman. I had, in fact,

HANLAN ON THE BRAIN,

like the great majority of my fellow citizens. It was very sharp while it lasted, but, as was to be expected, it was soon over. I gradually got back to my usual state of quiet soundness of judgment, and was able to wonder at the strange experience through which I had passed, and under which the great majority were still suffering. For a short time the star of Hanlan had been rather obscured, but it had blazed forth with more than all its former grandeur, and all men rejoiced in the great light. Even the Globe, good, dear, virtuous old lady, forgave all the past, took back all her harsh sayings and rash judgments and folded the brave youth, if not to her maternal bosom, at least to one which is understood to be the appropriate refuge of grand children, and in the fulness of her heart cried,

"BLESS YOU, MY BELOVED,"

with more than the fervour of a Pecksniff. The Mail said, in a dignified way, that it was a matter of national importance and a first-class advertisement for Canada, while the Telegram and World rejoiced as those who had found great spoils and spread themselves accordingly. The huge betting, which was the chief feature of the whole, as if the spirit of gambling had been let loose and had called all nations to a sacrifice, was recorded not only without one word of condemnation but with a positive chuckle of satisfaction, as if the mighty torrent of feeling and opinion would sweep away all about such proceedings and let all people bet in peace and feel the whole thing to be all respectable, decent and religious. It was positively awful. School boys and the girls at Ladies' Institutions planked their coppers and "jubilated" with their seniors over the great race, the great "hauls," the great losses and the enormous gains. I heard a poor little chit tell, with evident satisfaction, how a gentleman, not a professional, had gained ten thousand dollars, and, of course, all 'clean' money, how many apprentices robbed their masters' tills in order to satisfy their debts of honour, will never be known, except piecemeal, as the truth comes out in other years, or as criminals of the future, tell their experiences either as penitents or as funny and clever incorrigibles. Calm, and sane as I am now, I wonder what possessed me; and thousands in due time will be as astonished, and wonder even as did the Queen of the Fairies as she recovered from a certain love-sick delusion, which had no very attractive object for all the affection, and all the fervour. But I won't try to row against the tide. True however, to the honesty by which he claims to be animated, Jacob will not, at the sound of any kind of any music, or of any kind of command fall down and worship any transitory divinity, or applaud any proceeding, which impplies and produces far more harm than even it does good. There is NOTHING SO SUCCESSFUL AS SUCCESS.

PURITANICAL SQUEAMISHNESS

And so Hanlan remains the greatest man whom Canada has yet produced, and we are all proud of him, and of the country to which he belongs.

It would be a stroke of bathos to go off on any meaner theme, when Hanlan is the cry. Better let one's pen rest, and let oneself go off and revel in health-drinking, always remembering to take no liquor but what is "really good," or at least lager that has been duly certified. There was a good deal drunk in honour of the "boy" and for Canada's glory, and, of course, I did my share, with as much conscientiousness and enthusiasm as I could stir up. I can't say I was drunk. Oh, no! only just happy and exhilarated. Yet I would not have liked to have started either a letter to TRUTH or a short metre tune at public worship, when I was at the highest stage of delighted elevation. The effects are not quite over yet. Still, no great fault can be found with my writing, though my hand shakes a little.

So, though I get nobody to listen to me, I wish it to be generally understood that some folks believe very curious things about and his will as well. Some say there is a will. Others say Nay. Some put the amount at four millions. Others are as certain that it is twice that sum. My impression is that, large as the actual amount is, it will be found to be lower than the lowest quantity mentioned. Not that there is any impossibility in the old man accumulating all that, and more. Why not? He thought of nothing else. He lived on less than the interest of the interest. His charities were, to say the least of it, very "select," for in spite of all Mr. Wortz has said, not only did the right hand not know what the left was doing, but it was sorely perplexed in trying to make out what were the charities it was about itself. The chief end of man according to the gospel chiefly held in that quarter was to accumulate money and invest it properly. How could it be expected a man could help a good cause when at the very time he might have a hundred thousand dollars lying perfectly unproductive, going utterly to waste, because a proper and remunerative investment could not be secured just at the moment? For my part I hope there is a will, and that the Judge in the Probate Court will get the expected twenty thousand dollars of lawful percentage, so that one way or other the whole will be so distributed as to make many comfortable and almost everybody well pleased. I for one don't believe in these vast accumulations of money, and practically to show that I am in earnest in the matter, I was going to state that I had not a farthing laid out in mortgages, and as little either in the bank or in stocks. But then I remembered that would not be true. My means are not large, but they are safely "put out," where and how I shan't say. It will all come out in due time, for I have already made my will. While the Hanlan excitement has kept me on the qui vive, I have at the same time been pretty busy with the present and prospective

OLD CAWTHRA'S FORTUNE,

CANDIDATES FOR THE MAYORALTY.

TRUTH I see goes for Manning and that ought to make Jacob very careful, but liberty of speech—oh! that is a glorious privilege and I would not forego it. No not for—I don't know what. Is Alexander Manning then such an awfully great man? In some respects he is. Physically, he beats the crowd. Then in intelligence I am not sure if he could be called second to any, while as to acquaintance with city business, he is, I acknowledge, superior to all his rivals. He did well in the Mayor's chair before, and, upon the whole, fairly

DESERVES A SECOND REIGN.

Yet I am inclined to think he will not be elected. Yet after all, why not? His opponents are no great affairs, and if I were really put to it to say which of his competitors had a better claim, or would make a better official, I would be puzzled to say. Certainly McMurrich would not, and as little would Close, while Beaty ought to be contented with his M. P.-ship, and its appropriate emoluments. All the other papers fight shy of committing themselves. I am, therefore, the more pleased that TRUTH has taken its side, and goes strongly for the self-made man of Wellington Street. It pleases me awfully to know how much TRUTH IS SPOKEN OF AND QUOTED.

Even the little rascals of newsboy's seem to appreciate the situation and make the most of it. Let anybody go down to the Union or Yonge Street station when trains are going, and they will hear the strange cry, as if it were implied that if the one were taken the other would have no place. Yes, and he will see that the stock of TRUTHS is first disposed of in spite of all jokes and assertions to the contrary. I know Sir John takes it regularly and even Gordon Brown cannot help giving it a quiet peep to relieve the dull monotony of his ordinary occupation, though, of course, he protests that he knows nothing on the subject. When I am on this, at any rate, I cannot but add that everything tells how rapidly the Globe is losing its hold on the community. It has commenced its downward course just as the Leader did a few years ago. The news boys on the cars find it difficult to run off their stock in the great Grit. Long after all the Mails have disappeared, and far on into the afternoon, they will bring out the straggling numbers with candy, oranges, and Mark Twain, in order to catch some belated traveller, who may have missed the Monday news, or wishes to study the advertisements. Lots of people are threatening to give it up at New Year's, and whoever lives to see, will find that that is not mere idle talk. But its none of my funeral, and TRUTH does not stand by running down others.

"THE GLOBE OR THE TRUTH,"

Some kind friend took care to send a copy of last week's TRUTH, and wasn't he hopping? He well might, and yet I don't think he meant any ill. It was sheer forgetfulness about the blind, combined with a certain amount of unwarrantable contempt for the opinions, to say nothing of the feelings of the community in general, or of the neighbours in particular. Blunders are greatly more in demand, not only in that, but in many other cases, and well they might. Have some of these people studied the laws of light, and have they sounded the depths of human curiosity? It is to be feared scarcely. Otherwise, at any rate, it would be to be expected that, as the learned judge of whom everybody has heard used to say, they would be 'more careful.'

THE RUDE CLERGYMAN

What do all these people that seek for a reduction in their income assessments live on? They live well, and yet their means of living are scarcely worth mentioning. How is that?

DO THEY LIE?

or are they the victims of appearances? They really ought not to make such poor mouths. I am inclined to think, however, in spite of all their pretentions, that they are rather poor beggars, for generally one would rather pay a little more, for the very glory of getting credit for a larger income than facts would justify. That rage for appearances, how it tortures and humbugs people! I'am pleased to think that the disease has no power in many quarters. It has none down here with

JACOB FAITHFUL.

From Private to Captain.

It was not once a year, but almost once a week, that the soldier who had anything of the heroic in his nature was offered a chance to develop it. Men stepped from the ranks into shoulder-straps at one stride, and the case to be related was only one in a hundred.

We were the rear guard. We had fought the enemy at Malvern Hill and checked him, but the army dare not halt. Under the cover of darkness the long trains and the battered and disheartened lines resumed the march towards White House Landing and the cover of the gunboats. Dead and wounded were left on the field, and over the swamp-roads deep with mire and mud, plunged wagon and gun and caisson and ambulance, followed by men whose eyes closed in sleep even as they walked.

The rear guard had work on hand. Close on our heels came fresh troops who had orders to ride us down—cut us to pieces—trample us in the mire—get rid of us that they might reach the army beyond. They followed us on the road, and they followed us on both sides of it in the woods. There was hardly a minute during that long night that the guns were silent. Men fell dead in the mire and were left to sink out of sight. Men fell wounded in the bushes and were not given a second look. When one file of men had been shot away in the rear guard another took its place, and so the long and murderous night wore away and the blessed daylight came. Daylight was not to end the pursuit or make wounds less horrible or rob death of its ghastliness. Yet it was a relief.

Just at sunrise we had a respite. The enemy was closing up to push us with a determined onslaught. Our men were marching at will, dejected, despondent, sullen and ferocious. I could not see an officer anywhere up the road. I could look over a thousand men, but not so much as the bar of a second lieutenant was among them. Where had all the officers gone to? Some were dead in the road and bushes miles away, but death had not claimed all. Here was an entire regiment without an officer to command. We had made a dozen stands since midnight, but no one remembered to have seen an officer. Men had halted, 'bout faced and dressed lines like machines, and when the pursuit was checked we had toiled on again.

We struck a terrible slough extending across the road. Five pieces out of six in a battery had been abandoned there with everything belonging to them except the horses. Scores of men surrounded each gun and caisson, lifted them out of mire and dragged them along to a clay hill beyond. On the crest of this hill the five guns planted, and 800 men deployed right and left in support. Fresh cartridges were served out, a supply of hard tack came down the line, and we were resting and eating and wondering what general was in command, when a private soldier, his face black with powder, his uniform covered with mud, and his left arm in a sling and covered with blood, mounted a gun before us and said: "Boys, we are going to stop right here and give 'em h—ll! They can't flank us, and they can't ride over us as long as we have a shot left. Let's show Little Mack how we can fight without shoulder-straps to boss us!"

He was only a private soldier—a man from the ranks whom no one would suspect of having anything heroic in his composition—yet it was under his orders we had saved the battery—he had planted it, he had deployed us in support—he had picked up ammunition and provisions to serve us.

We had rested for twenty minutes when the head of the pursuing columns appeared. We had the key of the road for three miles. They came on with a yell, the road packed with them, and our battery opened. Men were never cooler. Almost like clock-work were the guns served, and in ten minutes we had cleared the road. Then they brought up two batteries; and for half an hour five guns fought twelve. When our fire slackened by order of that same private soldier, the enemy came on with a rush. When they had reached the slough 800 muskets blazed into them, and the battery opened with grape, and no man lived to cross it. We were cheering and yelling when an aide came galloping up behind us and shouted:

"Where is the General in command?"

"Here I am," replied the private as he stepped out.

"You are directed to fall back beyond the Hickory road, where we are massing for battle," shouted the aide as he dashed away.

We could have held that position against 20,000 men, but our "General" obeyed orders. It was a better road now, and as we retreated we dragged the guns with us. We had not reached the Hickory road when a dozen officers were with us, coming from no one could say where, but they could not rob our brave private of his glory. Before we had passed the battle line Gen. McClellan had taken him by the hand, given him all due praise, and made him a captain. We were not jealous. We cheered him and wished that he had been made a Colonel.

The Seven Bibles of the World.

The seven bibles of the world are the Koran of the Mahommedans, the Eddas of the Scandanavians, the Try Pitikes of the Buddhists, the Five Kings of the Chinese, the three Vedas of the Hindoos, the Zendavesta, and the Scriptures of the Christians. The Koran is the most recent of these seven bibles, and not older than the seventh century of our era. It is a compound of quotations from the Old and New Testaments, the Talmud, and the Gospel of St. Barnabas. The Eddas of the Scandanavians were first published in the fourteenth century. The Pieikes of the Buddhists contain sublime and pure aspirations, but their author lived and died in the sixth century before Christ. There is nothing of excellence in these sacred books not found in the Bible. The sacred writings of the Chinese are called the Five Kings, "king" meaning web of cloth or the warp that keeps the thread in their place. They contain the best sayings of the best sages on the ethico-political duties of life. These sayings cannot be traced to a period higher than the eleventh century B. C. The three Vedas are the most ancient books of the Hindoos, and it is the opinion of Max Muller, Wilson, Johnson and Whitney that they are not older than eleven centuries B. C. The Zendavesta of the Persians is the grandest of all the sacred books next to our Bible. Zoroaster, whose sayings it contains, was born in the twelfth century B. C. Moses lived and wrote his Pentateuch fifteen centuries B. C., and therefore has a clear margin of three hundred years over the most ancient of the other sacred writings.

SARA BERNHARDT'S charming hat, of bird-of-paradise and ostrich plumes, with miniature wolves' heads, is described by male critics as looking as though "she had rested her head upon a bed of moss, and upon lifting her head had raised her pillow with it."

Sara Bernhardt still goes the pace. The stilted pedants and posturing nincompoops that do the asthetic criticism for the papers are beginning to be half ashamed of themselves, and well they may. The world is pretty free and easy, but still the line must be drawn some where, and Sara is after all a little de trop even for those who are not particularly nice. Besides, it is coming out, that when all is done, she is but a second-rate actress after all, and her impudent immorality is really the chief claim she has to anything like notoriety.

Sara Bernhardt.

No dramatic incident has ever excited the same amount of interest in America as the arrival of the foremost actress of [illegible] Sara Bernhardt. The nearest [illegible] it has been the appearance of Rachel and Salvini. But that the whole [illegible] one of the largest theatres in the [illegible] be bought in advance, even before [illegible] of the actress, is entirely phenomenal. Bernhardt long since achieved in Paris [illegible] house of Moliere, a position as an artist [illegible] placed her almost beyond the pale of [illegible]ism. It was generously acknowledged [illegible] the critics of France that in many [illegible] eclipsed all who had gone before [illegible] long time the leading actress at the Comedie Francais, where she compelled the [illegible] and admiration of all the notable [illegible] reside in, or resort to, Paris; [illegible] in London a year ago, meeting with the same brilliant success. As America has given Patti, and Kellogg, and [illegible] Booth, and many others to Europe, [illegible] New York ranks third in the [illegible] cities of the world, it was to be [illegible] that in due time the great, [illegible] wonderful Bernhardt would seek [illegible] new worlds to conquer.

Not alone as a great actress [illegible] Bernhardt excite interest. She has been the admiration of poets, [illegible] painters, and play-wrights in France [illegible] been the subject of so many newspaper [illegible] magazine sketches, the heroine of [illegible] stories, the butt of so much wit; [illegible] many strange adventures and has won [illegible] social and artistic success in London [illegible] she is to-day the most prominent [illegible] the eyes of the public. Much of her [illegible] shrouded in mystery, as is frequently the case with the early days of great actors [illegible] she has a social and domestic repute which does not altogether square with Puritan notions of such things. This [illegible] a sauce piquante to her personal history, [illegible] even causes good orthodox clergymen to warn their congregations against her from the pulpit.

Besides being the undisputed queen of dramatic art, Mlle. Bernhardt is a [illegible] genius. Within her slender physique [illegible] concentrates a fire of nervous energy [illegible] is simply marvelous in its manifestation, enabling her to accomplish in many [illegible] more than other celebrated women can. Through and through, in thought, [illegible] and action, she is an artist. She is [illegible] a sculptor, a painter, a clever [illegible] black and white, a critic, a good [illegible] writer, a brilliant conversationalist, [illegible] without being a wife, as well as a [illegible] and tragedian. Walking up the [illegible] Avenue de Villiers, in Paris, [illegible] studios of the most famous French [illegible] little private house is found at the corner [illegible] the Rue Fortuny, so named for the [illegible] painter, and here is the Bernhardt [illegible] sculpture and painting. One who [illegible] this room says: "We are in the presence [illegible] Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt in her student's costume, * * do not recognize anything [illegible] before me than a charming statue and a perfectly graceful attitude." The room is [illegible] and high, and on the walls are hung [illegible] limbs, hands molded in plaster, [illegible] long sabres. Here is a bust of [illegible] Cavid, the great musician and St. [illegible] It is said this "most precocious art[illegible] of the age," began modelling in 1869 [illegible] she made a study of her aunt, [illegible] sleeping. In 1873 and 1875 she exhibited several busts at the Salon. In [illegible] statue, "Apres la Tempete," won a [illegible] questionable success. This is a large [illegible] in bronze—a drowned fisher boy on his mother's knees—said by the London [illegible] to be "an innocent plagiarism from Michael Angelo's 'Pieta'." The group shows great technical dexterity in its modelling. [illegible] in London Mlle. Bernhardt opened a gallery of her sculptures and paintings, exhibiting sixteen canvasses in oil and nine or ten [illegible] and groups in statuary, and it is intimated that she will do the same thing in New [illegible] Besides the sculpture already mentioned [illegible] exhibits busts of Emile de Girardin, [illegible] Wm. Busnach; a fancy bust of "[illegible] Enfant," and "Le Buffoon," a statue in marble of a jester of the "[illegible]" type.

At her house on the Rue Fortuny [illegible] also her studio of painting, a [illegible] room, with an arched vault like [illegible] of a church. On the great chimney piece is hung the oil portrait of the actress by V. Clairin, exhibited at the Salon in 18[illegible] and widely known through [illegible] exquisite etching in L'Art. Here [illegible] represented in a glow of colours and [illegible] a long robed edged with fur, half reclining on a sumptuous divan, a greyhound curled up at her feet. Here, also, is a portrait of Sarah by Mlle. Louis Abema, a sketch [illegible] Gavarni, another by Gustave Dore, and many others. Having succeeded so [illegible] a sculptor she took up painting, proving herself something more than a scholar in [illegible] art. Her colouring is very brilliant [illegible] harmonious. Among her most noted works are "Medea Cutting the Throats of her Children;" the "Death of Ophelia," and "Betrothal of Death." At the time [illegible] rupture with the Comedie Francaise, she was receiving 30,000 francs a year from the chisel.

It is chiefly as a great actress that [illegible] American public will be interested in Sara Bernhardt, and to that end a brief biographical sketch cannot be uninteresting. She was born in Paris, at about 1855, the daughter of an attorney of Havre, and a Dutch [illegible] of Amsterdam, most of the early years of her life being spent in the latter city at the [illegible] of her grandfather. She was brought up a Catholic, and sent to the convent of Grand-champ, at Versailles, where she remained until she was fifteen years old. Wishing to become an actress, she entered the Conservatory of Paris, presided over by the [illegible] Auber. At the end of a year's study under those excellent masters, Provost and [illegible]son, two famous comedians, she gained first prize for poetry, which entitled her to an engagement at the Comedie Francaise. On the 11th of August, 1862, she made her debut as Iphigenie in Racine's "Iphigenie in Aulide." On the 24th she appeared in the title role of Eugene Scribe's "Valerie." Like the great Patti, who made her debut at Niblo's Garden in this city, she was unsuccessful. The critics declared that she was awkward in her bearing and ineffective in her delivery. For a while she sank into obscurity, playing in minor parts at the Gymnase, singing in the chorus at Porte St. Martin, and playing on Jan. 14, 18[illegible] the first time at the Odeon, in "Fr[illegible] Savante." Here she won her first [illegible] in "Athalie," and at last came her triumph in January, 1869, when she created the role of Zanette in "Passant," by E. Coppee. [illegible] played in many things at this theatre, [illegible] ing a really great reputation and proving herself a clever, if unequal, artist. On the 2[illegible] of February, '1872, she made a [illegible] success in the Marie de Neuberg of "Ruy Blas," by Victor Hugo. It was the part of the Queen of Spain, in this play, which decided the dramatic fortune of Sara Bernhardt. She showed herself to be a great artist, and it was at once seen that her place was at the Comedie Francaise. There she appeared on Nov. 6, 1872, after the war, as Mlle. de Belle-Isle. She followed with Junie of "Britannicus," Cherubin in "Marriage de Figaro," and Berthe in "Sphynx." In each of those parts she developed incomparable qualities and won [illegible] triumph. After she had played Zaire [illegible] Phedre the critics ceased to find fault, [illegible] the public accepted her as an actress of genius. As Berthe, in de Bornier's tragedy, "La Fille de Roland" (February 1876), and as Posthumia, the blind old [illegible] mother of Parodis "Rome Vaincue" [illegible]tember, 1876) she was simple admirable. When Hugo's "Hernani" was so memorably revived, Mlle. Bernhardt took the part of Donna Sol, eclipsing all former representations, realizing, as admitted by the critics, the creation of the celebrated poet. [illegible] the same way as Nilsson," says a dramatic writer, "is the incarnation of Ophelia in 'Hamlet,' as Marguerite in 'Faust,' but in a still more decided manner, Mlle. Bernhardt is Donna Sol herself—alive and resuscitated." At the termination of that memorable performance, Victor Hugo wrote to Sara the following note:

"I wept. Accept the homage of that [illegible] of the old poet, Victor Hugo." Of Mlle. Bernhardt's visit to London last year, with the Comedie Francaise, and the immense success she won in the English capital, both artistic and social, the American public is familiar. So too, her quarrel with the Comedie, in Paris, and her withdrawal from the Maison de Moliere last April, is an event of such recent occurrence as to call for no comment. During her connection with that theatre she appeared nine hundred and [illegible] times, and upon leaving it was condemned to pay $20,000 damages, with costs. Since this event she has made a visit to England, a succesful touch of the French provinces, and a visit to Denmark, where she aroused the enthusiasm of the Danes. She arrived in New York on Oct. 27. The play "Adrienne Lecouvreur," in which she makes her debut, will be followed by "Frou-Frou," "Antony," "L'Etrangers," "La Dame aux Camelias," "Le Sphinx," "Hernani," and "Phedre." Thus. Racine, Victor Hugo, Dumas, Scribe and Octave Feuillet will succeed each other at Booth's.

[illegible] Standard [illegible]

FRIDAY MORNING [illegible]

to meet the early mails [illegible] latest Foreign and Provincial [illegible] Intelligence, County Business, [illegible] and an Instructive [illegible]

[illegible]ance, $1.50 in three months [illegible] till end of the year. No paper [illegible] until all arrearages are [illegible] the option of the publisher. [illegible] refusing papers without paying [illegible] held responsible for the subscription [illegible] they comply with the rules.

[illegible] OF ADVERTISING:

[illegible] year		$50 00
do	do	27 00
do	do	15 00
do	do	8 00
do	do	4 00
[illegible]	do	50
[illegible] first insertion		15
[illegible]sequent insertion		75
[illegible] lines, first insertion		25
[illegible]quent insertion		8
[illegible] first insertion per line		2
[illegible]sequent insertion

[illegible] number of lines to be reckoned by [illegible] space occupied measured by a scale of brevier. Advertisements without [illegible] directions will be published till forbid [illegible] charged accordingly. All transitory [illegible] must be in the office of publication [illegible] o'clock on the Thursday [illegible] their publication.

[illegible] RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[illegible]SIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

[illegible] Sproule & Carter, [illegible] Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c. [illegible] Medical Hall; residence at [illegible] House. [illegible] Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY, [illegible]AN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[illegible] [illegible] EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

[illegible] H. Wilkes, [illegible] at Law, - Owen Sound. [illegible]—Millers building, over Robinson [illegible] Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost. [illegible]TERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[illegible] Owen Sound, have resumed at [illegible] Office open every Thursday, as [illegible] J. W. FROST, LL. B. [illegible] Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson, [illegible]TER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW. [illegible] in Chancery, Owen Sound. [illegible] 1880. 1-y

James Lamon, [illegible]NEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN [illegible]ncery, Notary Public, &c. [illegible] loaned at lowest rates on personal [illegible] estate. Lands bought and sold. [illegible] seller introduced free of commis[illegible] DUNDALK. [illegible]ber 21st, 1880. 1

[illegible]ancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown, [illegible]ER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c. Commissioner in B. R. &c. [illegible]veyancing in all its branches promptly [illegible] and carefully executed. [illegible] Money to Lend on Real Estate [illegible] Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

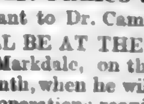
W. L. Smith. [illegible]NERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN [illegible] Stock, Williamsford Station. [illegible] 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown. [illegible]ER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [illegible] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [illegible] R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [illegible] for the County of Grey. Farmers [illegible]ants, and Land Sales, Punctually at[illegible] to and charges made very moderate [illegible]ville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1

George Corbet, Jr. [illegible]ND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT [illegible] Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low [illegible] of interest. Principal payable at the [illegible] a term of years, and interest half yearly, or principal and interest repay[illegible] in instalments. A number of desirable Improved Farms [illegible] 1-y

J. G. Sing. [illegible]MINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator [illegible]rd and Markdale. Having purchased [illegible] ial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin [illegible] stock of original Field Notes, Plans [illegible], Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys within the last fifty-five years, I am [illegible] to make Surveys in strict accord[illegible] therewith. Profiles and Estimates [illegible] ading Hills, Plans and Specifications [illegible] ilding Bridges, furnished on application. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest [illegible] by letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH [illegible] will be promptly attended to. [illegible] 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White, [illegible]istant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound. [illegible]ILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE [illegible] Markdale, on the last Wednesday [illegible] month, when he will be prepared to [illegible] all operations required upon the mouth [illegible] most satisfactory manner, and upon [illegible] able terms. 1

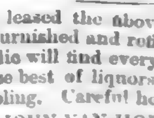
Hotels.

[illegible]ANSION HOUSE MARKDALE. [illegible]ving leased the above hotel and the [illegible] refurnished and refitted it, the tr[illegible] public will find every accommodation [illegible] the best of liquors and cigars kept [illegible] stabling. Careful hostler. JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor. [illegible] 17, 1880. 1-y

[illegible]OYAL HOTEL MEAFORD, Ont. J. McGIRR, - - PROPRIETOR. [illegible] accommodation for the travelling [illegible]. The bar is well stocked with the [illegible] Wines and Liquors and the [illegible] [illegible] of Cigars. Free 'bus to and from all trains. [illegible] 17, 1880. 1

[illegible]OMMERCIAL HOTEL PRICEVILLE, Ont. [illegible] and commodious Sample Rooms, &c. The Bar and [illegible] supplied with the best the market [illegible] good Stabling and attentive Hostler. —THOS. ATKINSON. Proprietor. [illegible]ber 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSON,



[illegible]UTCHER [illegible] St., Markdale, next door to Exp[illegible] [illegible] Meat delivered at any house in [illegible] [illegible] 1880.

[illegible]eep and Cattle

[illegible]RS having good fat Sheep [illegible] to sell, will find it to their ad[illegible] [illegible] their names and address at [illegible] Hotel, Revere House, Mar[illegible] [illegible] undersigned are still on the war [illegible] positively pay the highest price. C. W. & A. SPE[illegible] [illegible], 1880.

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 13. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1880. WHOLE NO. 13.

Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY FRIDAY MORNING

in time to meet the early mails. Contains the latest Foreign and Provincial General Intelligence, County Business, Local Matters and an Instructive ...

In advance, $1.50 in three months, ... paid till end of the year. No papers discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher, ... refusing papers without paying ... held responsible for the subscription until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

...n, one year	$50 00
do	27 00
do	15 00
do	8 00
do	4 00
...	50
...and under, first insertion..	15
subsequent insertion........	75
...ten lines, first insertion..	25
subsequent insertion......	8
...lines, first insertion per line	2
subsequent insertion......	2

Number of lines to be reckoned by ... occupied measured by a scale of ...evier. Advertisements without directions will be published till forbidden and charged accordingly. All transitory ...ments must be in the office of publication ... o'clock on the Thursday preceding their publication.

W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

...Sproule & Carter,
...ians Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
... Medical Hall; residence at ...
Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
...IAN SURGEON, ACCOUCH...
... P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
...at Law. - Owen Sound.
... Miller's building, over Robin... Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,
...ISTERS AND ATTORNEYS-AT ... Solicitors in Chancery, Convey... Owen Sound, have resumed at ... Office open every Thursday, as ...
... J. W. Frost, LL. B.
... Attorney. 1

James Masson,
...TER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, ... in Chancery, Owen Sound.
... 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,
...RNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN ...ery, Notary Public, &c.
...oaned at lowest rates on personal ... Lands bought and sold. ... introduced free of commis...
DUNDALK.
... 21st, 1880. 1

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,
... OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., ...missioner in B. R. &c.
...yancing in all its branches promptly ... and carefully executed.
... Money to Lend on Real Estate se...
... 17, 1880. 1-y

W.M. Smith,
...EAL AGENT AND DEALER IN ...ey Stock, Williamsford Station.
... 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,
...R of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Insurance Agent. Commissioner ... Conveyancer and Licensed ... for the County of Grey. Farmers, ... and Land Sales, Punctually at... and charges made very moderate.
...lle, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,
... LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, ... Sound. Money to Loan at low ...terest. Principal payable at the ...term of years and interest half year... or principal and interest repay...stalments.
...umber of desirable Improved Farms ... 1-y

J. G. Sing,
...NION AND PROVINCIAL LAND ...veyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, ...l Markdale. Having purchased ... Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's ...k of original Field Notes, Plans, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys ... the last fifty-five years, I am ... to make Surveys in strict accord...rewith. Profiles and Estimates ...ing Hills, Plans and Specifications ...ing Bridges, furnished on applica... Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. ... letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, ... will be promptly attended to.
...7, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.

Mr. James J. White,
...ant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, ...LL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in ...nth, when he will be prepared to perform operations required upon the mouth ...most satisfactory manner, and upon ...ble terms. 1-y

Hotels.

...NSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.

...g leased the above hotel and thoroughly furnished and refitted it, the travelling public will find every accommodation. ...the best of liquors and cigars kept. ...bling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
...17, 1880. 1-y

...YAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.

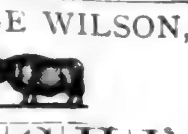
...McGIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.

...accommodation for the travelling ... The bar is well stocked with the ... Wines and Liquors and the best ...of Cigars.
... to and from all trains.
...17, 1880. 1-y

...MMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.

... commodious Sample Rooms: ...ed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder ...pplied with the best the market af... ...ood Stabling and attentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
...31st, 1880. 8

GEORGE WILSON,



BUTCHER

... Markdale, next door to Expositor

...eat delivered at any house in town.
... 17, 1880. 1-y

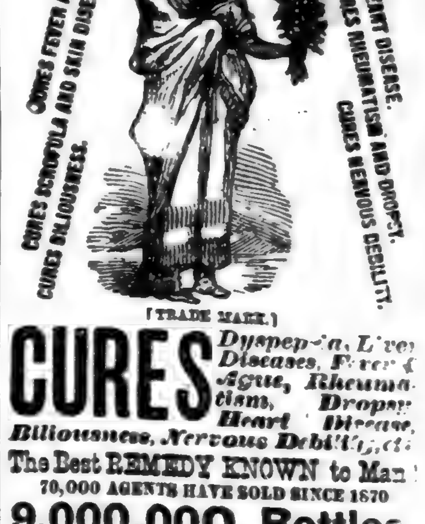
Sheep and Cattle.

...ERS having good fat Sheep or ...le to sell, will find it to their advantage ...ve there names and address at Me...on's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale. ...ndersigned are still on the war path, ...positively pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEER S.
... 17th, 1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY,
77 W. 3d St., New York City
LATE OF JERSEY CITY.



[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!
70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870
9.000.000 Bottles
This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Ptyaline in the saliva which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Ptyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - .50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial.

W. H. RORISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

By the revised code of Mississippi, wives and husbands inherit the whole of each other's property if there are no children, and a child's portion if there are, and a wife can will her own property as freely as an unmarried woman can.

MR. FRENCH, the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, has a son who is rising into prominence as a sculptor.

LIFE IN THE ANIMAL WORLD.

A CHURCH GOING DOG—INTELLIGENT TURTLES—HORSES THAT CALCULATE—KNOWING ELEPHANTS.

BEARS are destroying the orchards in Maine. In Kingfield, in a single young orchard, twenty-three trees were broken down in their efforts to get the apples.

Two flocks of semi-domesticated quail are regularly found on the farm of Dr. Porter, who lives near Harrisburg, Pa. He feeds them regularly and protects them from hunters.

A VERY intelligent and gentlemanly dog is the property of a gentleman of Napa street, San Francisco. When on the street in company with other dogs, upon arriving at their destination, he trots in advance to the gate, which he opens, and waits until the other dog has gone through, then passing in himself, closes the gate behind him.

IN a seine, caught by a fisherman at Monterey, Cal., was a fish, the first half of which was a mountain brook trout, having the eye, head, scales, spots, and shape of the fish. It had a pair of fins at the usual place behind the gills; an inch or two back of this it suddenly changed into a silver eel, the shape, color, and absence of scales being perfect.

WATER moccasins use their body as a sort of seive for catching small fish. In a Texas pond one was briskly turning and twisting in all directions, forcing minnows into spaces between him and the bank. The fish endeavoured to escape by leaping over the snake's body into the water beyond, while the moccasin, with elevated head, caught the fish in his mouth as they passed through the air.

JUST outside the prison walls at Agra is a tank of water in which are a large number of fresh water turtles. This prison is also the roosting place of a great number of blue pigeons. These pigeons must drink at the tank, but every attempt incurs the risk of losing their head, for the turtles lie in wait just under the surface of the water, and at its edge. Many headless bodies have been picked up near the water, showing the fate of some of them.

ANIMATED shotguns are a favourite pet fish of the Chinese. They look very much like perch, only more beautiful. They are of a greenish colour above and silver-gray below. Across the back are four short dark-brown stripes shaded with green. As they flash through the water they are a series of lovely and ever changing hues. The Chinese keep them in jars as we do gold fish. It is said that their aim is so accurate that they can bring down an insect from the height of three or four feet above the water.

A DRIVER on one of the Fourteenth street, Washington, cars is strongly of the opinion that horses count. Each car, he says, makes nineteen trips a day. There are four horses used, three making five trips and one four trips. After these stated trips, if for any reason it is necessary to send the car back, it is almost impossible to get the horse out of the stable. With the drivers and stablemen, who frequently witness such exhibitions, there is a firm belief of the mathematical abilities of the horse.

A DOG'S idea of value was exhibited in Rapid City, Dakota. At a dinner at the Building ranch last Sunday, Joe Piper was there with a fine pointer dog. All hands were seated at the table when the dog went to his master and commenced whining. The master asked what he wanted. The dog reached up and dropped a gold badge in his hand that he had picked up somewhere. Dr. Meyer recognized it as one that he had dropped from his vest, but knew nothing of the loss until the dog found it.

RALPH was a raven belonging to the Red Lion Inn, Hungerford. A Newfoundland dog that had received severe bruises by being run over was daily visited by Ralph, who brought him bones and attended him with particular marks of kindness. One night, by accident, the stable door had been shut, and Ralph had been deprived of his friend's company all night; but the hostler found, in the morning, the door so pecked away that, had it not been opened, in another hour Ralph would have made his own entrance. The landlord not only confirmed the hostler's account, but mentioned many other acts of kindness shown by this bird to all dogs in general, but more particularly to maimed or wounded ones.

PERSONAL.

MR. HUGHES says that Dean Stanley was the original of Tom Brown.

THE Prince of Wales won some fifteen thousand pounds lately on the turf.

SIR EDWARD THORNTON and his family return to Washington this month.

MR. MILLAIS returns his income to the Commissioner at seven thousand pounds.

THE Dean of Windsor is the confidential adviser of the Queen in all matters belonging to Church patronage.

GEROME, the artist, is now not far from sixty years old, and is said to be one of the handsomest men in France.

MR. WILLIAM BLACK and Mr. Bret Harte have been journeying in each other's company among the Western Islands.

LORD HOUGHTON'S tenants lately presented to his new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Milnes, a fine bracelet of pearls, diamonds, and rubies as a wedding gift.

THE Empress Eugenie telegraphed to a gentleman on the staff of Figaro who recently lost his daughter, a message begging leave to associate herself with his grief.

JOHN BRIGHT, despite all of his Quaker antecedents, was beheld a fortnight ago moved to tears by Modjeska's impersonation of Mary Stuart at the Court theatre, London.

THE marriage of Prince William of Prussia will take place in Berlin on the 28th of February. The prince and princess of Wales will represent Queen Victoria on the occasion.

MRS. CHARLES CROCKETT, the wife of the president of the Southern Pacific Railway, has expended three thousand dollars in bringing the young actress Miss Calhoun before the public.

MR. TENNYSON has spent the autumn at his place on the Hampshire Downs, but he passes the coming winter in London, and does not leave for the Isle of Wight until summer.

BISHOP COLENSO is a man nearly seven feet tall, and of a massive frame. He is sixty-six years old, and is regarded by the natives with awe and reverence, and they salute him as a great chief.

MR. GLADSTONE having been asked, some little time ago, if he did not consider Tennyson the greatest genius of the age, replied in the negative, and added that without a doubt Disraeli merited that title.

OLIVE LOGAN has a friend who lived in Cuba, and used to observe some grand ladies driving out every afternoon with flowers in their hair, diamonds on their necks, and the volante full of the flounces of their gay silks. One day the carriage upset and spilled out the high-mightinesses, and it was seen that they had on neither shoes nor stockings.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 73,

Uxbridge, Ont.

8

WOMAN GOSSIP.

—A pout and a parting of lips as they touch—
That's a kiss in the abstract. It does not seem much;
But where is the language can rightly express it?
What simile suggest, or what fancy reveal,
The mysterious bliss it can cause you to feel?
Here nature assuredly won a diploma
For fragrance of flavor and perfect aroma.
A kiss is electrical—comes with a start
That tingles a delicate shock to the heart,
And sets the eyes twinkling with rapturous delight,
Like stars in the sky of a clear frosty night.
When 'tis over the ecstasy clings to you yet;
'Tis joy to remember and never forget,
All pleasure condensed in an instant of bliss.
Can but partly describe what's contained in a kiss.

Fashion Notes.

BONNET strings are immensely wide.

ULSTERS of seal are shown by furriers.

BEADED bonnet crowns are all the rage.

LEOPARD sets are worn by young ladies.

PLUSH flowers grow more and more popular.

OLD-FASHIONED mink-tail sacques are revived.

SEALSKIN sacques remain the popular fur wrap.

QUILTED satin muffs edged with fur will be used.

WHITE toilets are in best taste for evening dress.

FUR collars and capes have taken the place of boas.

RUSSIAN and Lapland furs are to be worn this winter.

SILVER and blue fox are amongst the favourite fancy furs.

HEAVY satin de Lyon is the best material for a fur-lined circular.

A HANDSOME "millinery set" consists of a bonnet and muff to match.

LONG gloves, reaching above the elbow, are de rigueur, with short sleeves.

HUNGARIAN plush is the name given to that with the longest, richest pile.

BLACK fox and black Russian hare pelerines and collars are worn in mourning.

THE Olga is a pretty new muff of plush or silk or satin, with reticule attachment.

THE Princess sacque form for children's dresses remains the preferred style.

THE fashionable sealskin sacque is shorter by two inches all around than that of last year.

LARGE fur pelerines, covering the shoulders and reaching almost to the waist, have been revived.

THE Albani is a long cloak with dolman sleeves, set in far back, so as to give a narrow effect in the back.

GRECIAN lynx and chinchilla remain the fashionable furs for young ladies and misses in their teens.

NEW English driving coats, with capes and hoods, are long, loose, comfortable garments, intended to take the place of ulsters and waterproofs.

THE Young Ladies' Journal for December, with handsome Christmas part, supplementary charade and juvenile tableaux for Christmas is just out.

THE "American frock" is the favourite dress of little London girls. It is a one-piece garment in sacque style, trimmed to simulate a kilt skirt and jacket.

THE "Mother Hubbard" is a new English cloak, much shirred about the neck, back, and front, and with elbow sleeves, also shirred, the skirt long, plain, and close.

CIRCULAR fur-lined cloaks continue in vogue, but are not in as high fashion as the fancy fur visites sold under the new names of the Mandarin, Richelieu, Mother Hubbard, Lahore, Rajah, and Medici.

ARTIFICIAL flower house decorations in the form of rare leaf plants, ferns, and flowers, placed in jardinieres, baskets, vases, pots, and fancy receivers, will be much used for the holiday season festivities.

FURNITURE tidies are things of fine art at the present time. They are of silk, satin, plush, and lace, and enriched with hand-printed designs, embroideries of chenille and tinsel, and trimmed with ribbons, laces, balls, and tassels.

ONE of the prettiest "millinery sets" seen this winter is a bonnet or tocque of maroon plush with a garnet satin quilled border in place of a brim, and a long ostrich plume fastened on one side and waving down the back; on the opposite side of the toque are some red plush rosebuds. The muff of maroon plush is trimmed at the ends with garnet satin quilling and red silk lace. On the front of the muff instead of a bow a red paroquet is placed flat, its head covering the steel clasp of a concealed portmonnaie. The cord which suspends the muff is of heavy garnet chenille.

Waifs.

OLD maids are described as "embers from which the sparks have fled."

IT is said that it is about as hard to hide your love as it is to hide a sneeze; neither of them can be repressed.

"Grate seize her!" was the exclamation of an unkind husband on seeing his wife's new silk dress entangled in the fire-place.

WHEN the doctor tells you to take care, why take air.

IT is said that Clara Louise Kellogg never appears without diamonds. Undoubtedly her popularity is due to her precious tones.

"DARLING, this potato is only half done." "Then eat the half done, love."

AN old farmer who has an over gallant boy, says that it is his lot to make hay while the son shines—around the girls.

AT the Social Science Congress in Edinburgh, "Mrs. Duncan McLaren protested against the custody of children being considered a minor matter." Pray, what is it then?

ÆSTHETIC bridegroom (scrutinizing a "six-mark" teapot shown him by his wife) —It is quite consummate, is it not? Intense bride—It is indeed! Oh, Algernon, let us live up to it!

Two mothers were boasting of the smartness of their babies. "Why," said one, "when my baby cries it puts the telephone to his mouth, and I can hear it away down in the parlor."

A GEORGIA young man asked his sweetheart whether she had ever read "Romeo and Juliet?" She replied that she had read Romeo, but she did not think she had ever read Juliet.

GENTLY the stars—those beacons that declare when morning is and night—their beamlets fair dropped down; and, as he chewed her dolman fringe, the gate fell in and lost its leather hinge.

"BY JOVE!" exclaimed Harry; "look at that girl! What colour! She's the picture of health." Said Dick, who has learned to discriminate between nature and art: "A picture of health! A painting, you mean."

There was a young man in Elmira
Who courted the lovely Elvira;
But her father was rash,
And out through the sash
The youth made a certain hegira.

NECESSITY is the mother of invention, and a newly-married Philadelphia man is experimenting with an electrical apparatus by which a party on an upper floor can light the fire in the kitchen without coming down stairs or getting out of bed.

THE older of two sisters, admiring a bonnet she saw in a shop window, expressed a wish she were able to purchase it, whereat the younger (13 years old) cried: "Well, send round a hat to your friends, and say its for a new roof to a lunatic asylum."

"WHAT do you eat those horrid mushrooms for, Matilda?" asked the dainty Augustus: "They're nothing but a nasty fungus, anyway." "That's just it," replied the fair Matilda, balancing a bit of the libeled food on the end of her fork; "I eat them for fun, Gus."

YOUNG lady—"Very changeable weather, Mrs. Wiggins, isn't it?" Mrs. Wiggins—"'Ees, miss, it be. Fust 'ot, yer see; then cold, then 'ot ag'in; but it's a bleesin', 'cos if the weather was n't a little wariable there would n't be no variety in some folk's conversation."

A DANBURY man has a Boston lady visiting him. Sunday evening, on coming out of church with her, he extended his arm, and, with a delicate deference to her prejudices, said: "Will you accept my upper limb?" With a grateful look from her glassy eyes she accepted.

A YOUNG lady artist married a young gentleman artist. The uncle of the bride made a call upon them and found them sitting in opposite corners of their joint studio, in the sulks, the husband saying that his wife's waist was out of proportion, and the wife saying that her husband's nose was too small.

AND now doth the amateur fever beset the young of both sexes, and Claude Melnottes and Paulines are as plenty as huckleberries in July. A great deal of histrionic talent that has lain fallow appears before the footlights, and personal friends are positively sure that somebody made a great mistake in not being a "star" of the first magnitude.

WHEN a young man at a West End boarding-house found the girl he adored was flirting with another man he didn't try to make either believe the other false. He hired the waiter to bawl out in the kitchen, loud enough to be heard in the dining-room: "Second plate o' pork, an' another helping o' onions, an' some more pertaters, an' a fresh plate o' bread for Miss Blank." And the other fellow, of course, heard it and dropped her.

HE stood twirling his hat in his hand in the hallway. It was about time for the morning-stars to begin their song together. "Well," and he moved one step nearer the door. "Well," she replied, as she stepped to the door also. "Well, I—I must be going. If——" "That's right, John, if," and she leaned her head on his shoulder. "If—you—have—any—conundrums—to—ask—ask—them—now." He was measured for a new hat and a pair of kid gloves on that same day.

A FRISKY old widow, by the name of Butler, who had been married several times, usually with disastrous results to her husbands, having obtained a divorce from her last husband, who was a Republican, immediately married a new husband, who was a rising young man and a Democrat. The friends of the widow congratulated her upon the acquisition of a new husband. The widow blushed violently, and, chewing the seam of her apron, replied: "Why, he is not a new husband at all. He is the same one I used to have before the war."

IT is absolutely necessary to look carefully after the education of your boys. They are apt to get wrong notions into their heads, and unless watched to make use of them to their detriment. A Sunday school teacher was examining her class on the parable of the wheat and tares. "And what is a tare?" she asked impressively. "I know," said a little fellow, who had watched his parent's course to some purpose, "it is a high old time; that's what it is." When asked by the astonished teacher to explain himself he said, "Last week father was gone three days, and I know just where he went and what he did, and the mother told me that the guv'nor was off on an old-fashioned tear."

The Story of the Shoe.

The modern shoe has been evolved by a succession of slight modifications and enlargements out of a very simple primitive covering. In the ages of stone and bronze, man appears to have protected his foot by a piece of bark or leather laid under the sole and fastened in a very simple manner about the foot with straps. Out of this grew the sandal with its broader and more elaborate bands, reaching above the ankles, such as we see it represented in the art of ancient Egypt and later. From the sandal, again, was developed, by the addition of a fine leather below the straps, as well as the broadening of the straps, the germ of the shoe proper, an arrangement illustrated by the Greek half-boot. The completion of this process of development was the doing away with the band, and the making of the upper leather firmer.

A Half Tahitian Beauty.

The half-caste women are lovely—brunettes, of course; but such eyes, such teeth, such hair, such figures, such complexions! They are indefatigable as dancers. A 20-minutes' spin of galop or waltz without stopping is nothing to them, and this with the thermometer at 90°! They dance very well, but after an exaggerated Valentino or Mabille manner, evidently learned from the French officers. No flattery is too plainly expressed for them. One young lady, the daughter of an American trader and a Tahitian chiefess, I particularly remember. She was very tall, with a figure absolutely perfect, and a face that would just fit a dream of Semiramis. A young English officer was "trotting her out" for the amusement of his comrades. When he told her that she should go to Paris, where her beauty would create a furore, she was greatly delighted; but she replied with a laugh: "But you know I am a Tahitian, and very proud of it. If I went to Paris I should want to eat raw fish, as we do here." This was quite untrue, but the answer was very characteristic of Tahitian half-castes.

Household Adornments.

These pleasing preparations for household adornment may be made as follows: There is a slow and quick method; the former is by procuring the natural decomposition of the pulpy substance of the leaf by exposure to light in a dish of water, the quick method is by the use of a weak alkaline destructive solution, of which soda and lime are the active agents. By the slow method one may proceed as follows: The leaves are laid out smoothly in a pan or dish, and covered with rain-water to or three inches deep, and are held down by means of sheets of glass resting on small stones at the corners by which they are prevented from pressing too closely on the leaves. They are exposed to the sunlight in a warm window. In two or three weeks they are examined, and all those that have become soft and pulpy are removed to another dish to be cleaned. The rest are left until they, too, become soft. The softened leaves are carefully removed one by one by being floated on to a small sheet of glass; the pulp is pressed out by means of a small stiff painter's brush or a tooth-brush, used by tapping up and down and not by a sweeping motion. This breaks up the pulp only, which is washed away by pouring water upon it from a small pitcher. To make this convenient, the glass may be placed on two wooden bars resting on the edges of a deep dish with a towel under it to catch the splashings. The quick method is as follows: Four ounces of sal-soda are dissolved in a quart of hot water, two ounces of quicklime are added, and the whole boiled for 20 minutes. The solution is cooled and strained. The leaves are then boiled in this for one hour, or until the pulp is easily removed, when it is washed off as already mentioned. The fibres remain, leaving a perfect skeleton or frame-work of the leaf. This is bleached by exposure to a solution of one tablespoonful of chloride of lime in a quart of water, strained clear from sediment. The skeletons are placed in a dish, covered with this solution, and kept in a dark closet for two days, watching in the meantime that the fibres are not softened too much and thus injured. After bleaching, the leaves are steeped in clear soft water for a day, and then floated off upon a card and placed between soft napkins until dry. They are then ready to be finally pressed, bent, curled, or arranged in bouquets or groups. Crystalized grasses and sprays are made as follows: The bunches are first arranged in a suitable manner, tied and secured; a solution of four ounces of alum to a quart of boiling water is made, and when this has cooled to about 90°, or blood heat, the bunch of grass and leaves is suspended in it, in a deep jar, from a rod placed across the mouth of it; as the liquid cools crystals of alum are deposited upon every spray, the finer and smaller the weaker the solution is made. This deposit of crystals occurs in the cooling liquid, because hot water dissolves more alum than cold water, and as the water cools the excess of alum forms crystals which attach themselves to any fibrous matter in contact with it more readily than to anything else. These crystals enlarge by accretion constantly, so long as there is an excess of alum in the solution. When the supply is exhausted the solution is warmed and more alum is dissolved in it; it is returned to the jar and the bunch of grasses is replaced. When sufficiently covered with crystals it is taken out and dried and is finished.

Mistakes in Teaching Music.

At a recent social science in Edinburgh Sig. Alberto Bach read a paper on improvements in musical education. In the teaching of singing, he said, the first injury to the taste of the people is done in the elementary classes. The "unisons" screaming in schools is ruinous to the delicate instincts of the young. Individual treatment and correct classification of voices ought to be adopted, with the compass of exercises and songs confined to one octave. Afterward a gradual development of the sense of harmony will be requisite. In so-called choral unisons the ordinary abuses were the receiving of all comers without regard to fitness or experience, the endeavour of the weaker voices to cope with the stronger ones, and the consequent ruin of valuable voices. In former times, when there were not so many associations, there were more good singers, because voices were then thoroughly trained for the services of the church and by accomplished singers. Only artists can educate artists, as the history of music abundantly proves. Singers who have a high reputation as opera and concert singers would be well qualified to teach, even though their voices were failing, provided they were cultivated in the æsthetics and philosophy of their art. The imperfect taste of the public is the result of mediocre and bad, inartistic compositions and performances, for which both executants and professors of the art are to blame. The art itself is losing by the superficiality of this general music-making. To the artists themselves the most modern so-called "dramatic" style of singing the high keys with overpowering instrumentation is doing the greatest harm. The art of singing is liable to be injured by this modern tendency to extravagant instrumentation, physical power being substituted for artistic refinement. In seeking for remedies against the deterioration of the art, these must be found in the mode of teaching. The true teacher must make special study of the formation of the voice, and for this and other ends of musical culture the establishment of conservatories or academies of music is a desideratum. The freedom with which any one is allowed to teach, irrespective of qualification, might be counteracted by some provision by the state or otherwise for the appointment of competent professors of art.

A Natural-born Financier.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

An oldish man who was on his way west took a lunch at the eating stand in the Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee depot yesterday, and in payment tendered a $20 confederate note.

"We don't take this sort of money here," said the attendant, as he scanned the bill.

"Don't, eh? Very well. Customs differ in localities. They take it in some places and refuse it in others. No particular harm done to offer it. How's this bill?"

It was an old wildcat bill of 1840, and it was handed back with the remark that it wouldn't pass.

"Won't eh?" Well, no great harm to offer it. Are you willing to take my note of hand for sixty days for this sum?"

"No Sir."

"Won't, eh? There are places where they will and some places where they won't. No crime, though, to propose it. Do you think I would have any success in standing you off?"

"No Sir."

"I presume not, but the inquiry seemed pertinent. Does it appear to you as if I would have to pay this bill in cash?"

"It does."

"Strikes me the same way, too. There are times when it seems impossible to wriggle out of cash payments. I have a proposition which I have saved as a last resort. Are you willing to look upon me as an object of charity and donate me this thirty cents' worth of luncheon?"

"No, Sir, I am not."

"That's what I expected, but I thought it no harm to make it. I see no other way except to pay my cash. Please take your change out of this fifty cents."

The right change having been handed him he heaved a sign of relief and sat down to pick his teeth with a splinter from the broom.

ART AND DRAMATIC NOTES.

AT the Leeds festival Barnett's music to Longfellow's "Building of the ship" aroused the wildest enthusiasm.

MRS. BOUCICAULT says that Henry Irving has taken Shakspeare off the pedestal and that is, made him comprehended.

Mr. Benson married the mother of Dudu Fletcher, the young author of Kismet, who was so badly treated by Lord Wentworth, the grandson of Byron.

PETERBOROUGH is anxious for the establishment of a school of Art and Design. There is a large number of students attending the one in Toronto. London as also a school of Art.

THE Society of Arts in London has put commemorative tablets on houses once occupied by Dryden, Reynolds, Dr. Johnson, Nelson, Byron, and Faraday, and is to put up others, among them one on the house of Dickens.

In the exhibition at the Art Museum, Boston, in a painting by Mr. Eugene Benson, representing a group of figures, with pleasing composition and rich color, called a "Distinguished Company at Titian's House."

MRS. RITCHIE, Thackeray's daughter, still occupies a house in Young street, Kensington, near the one which was Thackeray's home from 1827 to 1853, and in which he completed "Vanity Fair," besides writing "Pendennis" and "Esmond."

OFFENBACH'S last opera, "Belle Lurette," is so full of bright, sparkful music, that it seems difficult to realize that the airs were penned in the intervals of a death agony. All present sympathised with the actor who, when naming the composer on the fall of the curtain at the first representation, was overcome by emotion.

MISS EVA SOTHERN, the young and pretty daughter of the well-known actor, who is soon to make her debut at the Gaiety Theatre in London, is a ward of the Court of Chancery, and an application is now pending before the Master of the Rolls for his sanction to allow the young lady, who is scarcely eighteen, to follow the profession of an actress. Her guardians offer no opposition to her strongly expressed desire to do so.

As usual, Ireland has been the great centre of attraction during the week, for quidnuncs and professionals. Actual war has not as yet broken out and will not, but the bother is tremendous and some people say that it will end the Gladstone ministry just as it helped Beaconsfield to his political grave. It is bad in the meantime, but good will eventually come out of the whole affair. If it teach the landlords that property has its duties as well as its rights, and teach the tenants that property has its rights as well as its duties, it will do something. Meantime Gladstone has promised that his best efforts will be given to the amendment of the land laws as soon as Parliament re assembles, and if the fools don't force him into a policy of coercion—for of course peace must be maintained at all hazards—he is likely to make good his promises.

THE Princess of Montenegro has dark eyes and hair and regular features. She is dignified and gentle, and speaks French readily. Her eldest son is a wonderfully handsome boy, and inherits, thanks to the decrees of the Congress of Berlin, a larger patrimony than his ancestors the Vladikas ever dreamed of ruling.

Celebrated Book Stealers.

THE PRIEST WHO COMMITTED MANY MURDERS BECAUSE OF HIS PASSION FOR BOOKS.

(From the London Spectator.)

Many eminent characters have been biblioklepts. When Innocent X. was still Monsignor Pamphilio he stole a book—so says Tallemant des Reaux—from Du Monstier, the painter. The amusing thing is that Du Monstier himself was a book thief. He used to tell how he prigged a book, of which he had long been in search, from a stall on the Pont Neuf; "but," says Tallemant (whom Janin does not seem to have consulted), "there are many people who don't think it stealing to steal a book, unless you sell it afterward."

But Du Monstier inclined to a less liberal view where his own books were concerned. The Cardinal Barberini came to Paris as Legate, and brought in his suite Monsignor Pamphilio, who afterward became Innocent X. The Cardinal paid a visit to Du Monstier in his studio, where Monsignor Pamphilio spied, on a table, "L'Historie du Concile de Trente"—the good edition, the London one. "What a pity," thought the young ecclesiastic, "that such a man should be, by some accident, the possessor of so valuable a book." With these sentiments Monsignor Pamphilio slipped the work under his soutane. But little Du Monstier observed him, and said furiously to the Cardinal that a holy man should not bring thieves and robbers in his company. With these words, and with others of a violent and libelous character, he recovered the History of the Council of Trent, and kicked out the future Pope. Amelot de la Houssaie traces to this incident the hatred borne by Innocent X. to France.

Another Pope while only a Cardinal, stole a book from Menage—so M. Janin reports—but we have not been able to discover Menage's own account of the larceny. The anecdotist is not so truthful that Cardinal need flush a deeper scarlet, like the roses in Bion's "Lament for Adonis," on account of a scandal resting on the authority of Menage. Among royal persons, Catherine de Medici, according to Brantome, was a biblioklept. "The Marshal Strozzi had a very fine library, and after his death the Queen-Mother seized it, promising some day to pay the value to his son, who never got a farthing of the money." The Ptolemies, too, were thieves on a large scale. A department of the Alexandrian Library was called "The Books from the Ships," and was filled with rare volumes stolen from passengers in vessels that touched that port. True, the owners were given copies of their ancient MSS., but the exchange, as Aristotle says, was an "involuntary" one, and not distinct from robbery.

The great pattern of biblioklepts, a man who carried his passion to the most regrettable excesses, was a Spanish priest, Don Vincente of the Convent of Pobla in Arragon. When the Spanish revolution despoiled the convent libraries, Don Vincente established himself at Barcelona, under the pillars of Los Encantes, where are the stalls of the merchants of bric-a-brac and the seats of them that sell books. In a gloomy den the Don stored up treasures that he hated to sell. Once he was present at an auction where he was outbid in the competition for a rare, perhaps a unique, volume. Three nights after that the people of Barcelona were awakened by cries of "Fire!" The house and shop of the man who had bought "Ordinacions per los Gloriosos Reys de Arago," were blazing. When the fire was extinguished the body of the owner of the house was found with a pipe in his blackened hand and some money beside him. Every one said: "He must have set the house on fire with a spark from his pipe." Time went on, and week by week the police found the bodies of slain men, now in the street, now in a ditch, now in the river. There were young men and old, all had been harmless and inoffensive citizens in their lives, and—all had been biblioklepts. A dagger in an invisible hand had reached their hearts; but the assassin had spared their purses, money, and rings. An organized search was made in the city, and the shop of Don Vincente was examined. There, in a recess, the police discovered the copy of "Ordinacions por los Gloriosos Reys de Arago," which ought by rights to have been burned with the house of its purchaser. Don Vincente was asked how he got the book. He replied in a quiet voice, demanded that his collection should be made over to the Barcelona Library, and then confessed a long array of crimes. He had strangled his rival, stolen the "Ordinacions," and burned the house. The slain men were people who had bought from him books which he really could not bear to part with. At his trial his counsel tried to prove that his confession was false, and that he might have got his books by honest means. It was objected that there was in the world only one book printed by Lambert Palmart in 1482, and that the prisoner must have stolen this, the only copy from the library where it was treasured. The defendant's counsel proved that there was another copy, in the Louvre; that, therefore, there might be more, and that the defendant's might have been honestly procured. Here Don Vincente, previously callous, uttered an hysterical cry. Said the Alcalde: "At last, Vincente, you begin to understand the enormity of your offence?" "Ah, Signor Alcalde, my error was clumsy, indeed. If you only knew how miserable I am!" "If human justice prove inflexible, there is another justice whose pity is inexhaustible. Repentance is never too late." "Ah, Signor Alcalde, my copy was not unique!" With the story of this impenitent thief, we may close the roll of biblioklepts.

Marrying a Tenor.

The following is an extract from a letter from the wife of a tenor to her friend:

Yes, Jenny, we have 30,000 dollars a year; the praises of my husband are sounded every day in the newspapers; he is applauded every night; he sings and is a very king in his art. But you don't know what it is to be the wife of a tenor. Those who flatter my husband, and they are numerous, are incessantly telling himself: "M. Michael, you have a mine of diamonds in your throat." That may be true; I don't say it is not, but if you could understand what consequences it entails—a mine of diamonds in a man's throat! Michael is always as cross as a bear because of the state of the temperature. A barometer is less variable. He is continually opening and shutting the windows; when they are open he wants them shut; when they are shut he says he stifles. You have no idea of the trouble we have at hotels to prevent his taking cold. Even the style of carpet becomes a study. And the cart-loads of furs we carry about with us! And the difficulty we have with the fires! There is also a long chapter as to what he may and may not eat; this is too strong and that is too weak. And the night he sings there is a syrup which he must drink five times during an act and a wash of brandy and camphor with which to rub his throat. From morning till night a tenor thinks of nothing but himself; he listens to himself sing; he studies poses before a looking-glass; he calls after the servants, "Jean, muffle the door-bell, its noise affects my nerves. Brigette, don't pass before me again; you make a draught." He interrogates his throat every ten minutes, "la, la, lo." Never a sensible word, always "la, la, la; at table he does not talk for fear of destroying his "la, la, la." If I ask him to take me out on a fine day, he runs to the piano-forte and exercises his "la, la, la!"

It was only natural that the States should subside into quietness when their great struggle was over. They have accordingly subsided for the time being into speculations, betting over boat races and making themselves comfortable for the winter. The people over there are at present being busy and very prosperous, and when that is the case, they have neither time nor inclination for much else, but to look after the coppers and enjoy themselves.

THE fall poets should chip in and erect a monument to the man who invented the names of the months. Where would they be if he had not put in September to rhyme with remember?

THE Queen of Wurtemberg's life is regulated with conventual exactness. She is the Colonel of a Russian regiment, and frequently appears at review in her uniform. Her Majesty inherits her father the late Czar's mania for drill and pipeclay. The fat, beer-drinking, pipe-smoking King Cole to whom she is mated used to dispute with her about it, but at length gave in and allowed her to have her head. All he now asks is to be left undisturbed in dens in his palaces, in which he can enjoy a little untidiness.

A WICKED Connecticut man being recently taken ill, and believing he was about to die, told a neighbour that he felt the need of preparation for the next world and would like to see some proper person in regard to it. Immediately the friend sent for a fire insurance agent.

THE STANDADR.

Friday, Dec. 10th, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto.
W. W. BUTCHER, Manager,
Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

We have decided to print a supplement in connection with the STANDARD a week before the Holidays, as there is an extra amount of advertising done at that season of the year, and we do not want to decrease the reading matter, we will give those who wish extra space, liberal terms, by means of a half sheet supplement, parties wishing to take advantage of the arrangement will please let us know in good time.

In another column will be found a communication from Mr. Robertson touching the propriety of sending children to school at too early an age, and also regarding the wisdom of keeping the little ones for six weary hours in closely packed and ill-ventilated school houses. The question has been receiving considerable attention of late in all the large cities in Canada and the United States. Many of our most eminent medical men have both written and spoken strongly against it. It is the general opinion of these men that a child should never be sent to school before reaching the age of seven years nor should they be kept at study for a longer period than three hours each day, until they are ten or twelve years of age. The present system of sending children to school at the early age of five years, and not unfrequently at an earlier age is, in our opinion a down right cruelty, when the mental faculties are advanced too rapidly it is always done at the expense of the physical powers, if the bodily health is not affected the mind is, and what promised, in early youth to be a bright and shining light will, in nine cases out of ten, turn out to be little better than a fool before arriving at the age of maturity. We would strongly urge upon all concerned to think of this matter seriously and see if some method cannot be adopted, whereby our little ones can be educated without the sacrifice of their bodily health, or sent to untimely graves. Let the growth of the body keep pace with the growth of the mind, and take our word for it, it will be better for the children, better for the parents, and give the at present over-taxed teacher a better chance of doing his duty to his pupils.

FROM pressure of other matters and rush of job work we have been compelled to omit a full notice of the farewell supper given to Messrs C. W. and A. Speers previous to their departure for Manitoba. The supper took place on the 24th ult, when between 30 and 40 sat down to an excellent spread, prepared by the new proprietor of the Revere Hotel, Mr. T. Sproule. This being his first effort in catering to the public, of course he put forth his best efforts to please, and the rapid manner in which the eatables disappeared was a sufficient guarantee that he succeeded. A pleasing feature in in the affair was the total absence of intoxicating drinks, nothing stronger than ginger ale was on the table. The chair was occupied by Dr Sproule M. P. and the vice chair by Geo. J. Blyth Esq. After ample justice had been done to the viands the Chairman gave 'The Queen' God save the Queen by the Company. The Vice then gave The Governer General and Princess Louise The Chair—Army & Navy. Responded to by Dr Sproule. The Vice —The Dominion Parliment and Provincial Legislature. Dr Sproule responded. The Chair—Health and prosperity of our Guests. Responded to by C. W. and A. Speers in loyal and grateful terms.

Mr. Blyth spoke in high terms of the Messrs. Speers, and considered their departure from among us was a serious loss to the community. Mr. Walker also spoke in glowing terms of them and said he had sold them nearly $1.700 worth of cattle, and although he (Walker) was a hard case, he had only good to say of the boys. Mr. Joseph McCutcheon stated that the Messrs. Speers, had shipped from Markdale alone about $100.000 worth of cattle during the past season. The learned professions, coupled with the names of Dr. Sproule, Wm. Lucas and John Lyons. Responded to by all three Commercial Interest of the Dominion, coupled with the names of Messrs. Butter, Rae, Askin, Sarjeant, McIntyre and McDougall who all responded in fitting terms. Agricultural Interests—responded to by Walker, McCoy and Armstrong, who spoke in flattering terms of the prosperity and progress of our country. The Press —coupled with the names of C. W. Rutledge and G. J. Blyth who responded. Manufacturers—Kyle, Hanbury, Byers and Welsh responded. The Ladies—God Bless them. To this toast quite a number responded, and all vied with each other in trying to say the best word for the dear creatures who rule our destinies. Mr. McDougall gave the dutchman in love —"Katrina likes me bretty vell." A very pleasant evening was brought to close by drinking the health of the Host and Hostess, which was duly responded to.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. Kingborn, who lives a few miles from this, was suddenly killed, on the 7th inst., by the limb of a tree falling on him, while chopping wood at a bee at Mr. Richardson's.

CONCERT.—Elder Hawkins and his company gave a concert in the Methodist Church, of this village, on Wednesday evening last. The house was well filled. The proceeds amounted to about $40.

BRASS BAND.—The band appeared in full regalia on the skating rink, on Saturday night. The music for the occasion was very good. A number of performers on the ice appeared to appreciate any tune played on the key of "b flat."

BREVITIES.—Very cold weather... The monthly cattle fair was very poorly attended, on Monday 6th inst., very few cattle on the market ..People are beginning to talk about who is going to sit round the "green table" in the town hall during 1881....The quarterly examination of the Flesherton public school (senior department will be held on the 17th inst....The annual school meeting is on the 29th inst....Who pays the 'guard of honor,' who waits at church doors on Sabbath euening until the congregation passes out? They are generally drawn up in two lines.

EUPHRASIA COUNCIL.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment on the 27th Nov. 1880. Members all present. Minutes of last two meetings of council read and confirmed. The clerk was ordered to notify the Holland Council, that this Council intends to detach lots 11 & 12, in concessions 12 of this township, from union S. S. No. 2, and add, said lots to union S. S. No. 8, and that John Boyd Esq., is appointed referee in behalf of Euphrasia, George Dickson and Thomas Quinton having stated before Council, that Holland Council has made alterations in union S. S. No. 1, Euphrasia and Holland, the clerk was ordered to obtain further information from Holland Council in this affair so that the matter may be properly adjusted. The Reeve and Mr. Ellis were appointed a committee to examine the collectors roll for 1879, and ascertain if any changes be required, or any errors found before handing it over to the Treasurer. The Reeve was authorized to let a job at Griffith's hill 24 and 25 side line, con. 3, the amount not to exceed $100. The Township Treasurer was authorized to receive from Robert Mathers $4.90 being taxes for the current year against the southerly 32 acres of E. ½ of lot 15, con. 9. Moved by Mr. Fawcett, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that as it is made to appear G. Bath this year performed the statute labor for S. ½ of lot 11 in the 3rd con. of this Township (6 days) that he now be permitted to pay the taxes against said land amounting to $16.08 to the Township Treasurer, and that the Clerk be ordered to request the County Treasurer to strike off his books, all taxes against said land for the current year.—Carried. Taxes am't'ing to $15.40 charged in error against John Ward for N. W. ¼ of lot 10, con. 4, ordered to be struck off the collectors roll for 1880. The resignation of Robert Myles Esq. as assessor was laid before Council and a resolution passed accepting said resignation. The resignation of James Kerr Esq., as auditor was laid before Council and a resolution passed accepting said resignation. A petition signed by Alex. Murdock, and others in reference to H. McKinnon, S. S. No. 8, regarding attendence at union S. S. No. 8, laid aside at present. A satement of Wm. Blackwell, regarding injury done to a horse on 4th line laid aside. The Treasurer ordered to pay J. Farewell Esq., $8.98, being amount of his account for printing up to date. And to A. H. Watson & Co., the sum of $15.75, amount of their account for printing up to date. The Reeves orders were issued on the Treasurer to pay several other accounts. On motion being made and seconded the Council adjourned until Friday the 24th day of December next.

ROBERT DUNLOP,
Tp. Clerk.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—We have had a good deal of bonus for some weeks back and although the discussion of the question is far from being exhausted, we have to thank an intelligent and far seeing council with affording us plenty of time in the future to lay line upon line, and precept upon precept in regard to its advisability. In the meantime, a little variety may not be out of place. Unnecessary taxation is not a desirable thing, and is by all means to be avoided, while at the same time a "penny wise and pound foolish," policy may be equally obnoxious. Occasions will arise when an extra tax will pay all parties concerned. At other times, the necessity of extra taxation may be incurred which proves of no general benefit, and is only so much public money wasted. This may be the case at times in some of our school sections under our present system. A school house gets too small for the children attending, and while the school may be sufficient every other way but that of size, yet a new school room must be built so that all the childdren, large and small, must be accommodated for six hours daily. While we have compulsory education thus far, that children arrived at a certain age must be sent to school for at least a stated period, we have nothing to compel parents to keep their children at home until they arrive at years sufficient to know how to behave themselves, and to learn their little lessons with some measure of intelligence. On the contrary, we have parents, especially about villages, so keen to get their little ones out of their way that they pack them off to school at an age when they are only a nuisance to their teacher and school mates, without benefitting themselves The long suffering teacher being made a sort of nursery maid to those precocious infants, and their worse than selfish parents. This is one way in which school room accomodation may be and often is unnecessarily impaired. Another and more effectual way is the foolish system of six hours daily attendance for children of all ages. Will any one who knows anything about the matter say that it is either requisite or advisable for children of six eight or ten years to spend six hours daily in school? Is it to be supposed that they can apply, or need to apply their young minds to six hours of an almost continuous strain daily? They cannot do it, and it is a barbarism to attempt to make them There is little doubt but three hours at most of daily attendance would yield better results educationally, physically, and pecuniarily, to all parties concerned. Let us take a school that is say over crowded with seventy, eighty or ninety children, for six mortal hours every day. We may suppose the trustees are politely commanded to furnish a new school.—In view of the prospective taxation they hesitate to do so; but the threat of with drawal of Govenment support is a very effective weapon when properly handled. Trustees may wriggle for a time, but in due course they succumb, and the taxpayer is saddled with the expense of a new building, which in reality may not be required. If it was allowable, or if it was the law that children of tender years should only attend school for three hours daily, then one half, as might be arranged, could attend in the forenoon; the other half in the afternoon—much to the comfort of the teacher—much to the benefit of children, and much to the relief of the taxpayer. I understand that in some towns and cities, certain schools, by special permission, have their younger pupils on half time something in this way—one half attending from 9 to 10:30 o'clock a.m.; and from 1 to 2:30 o'clock p.m. The other half from 10:30 to 12 o'clock a. m.; and 2:30 to 4 p. m. This, of course, necessitates the attendance of all the pupils part of the forenoon and part of the afternoon, and may suit very well in cities or towns; but in rural sections such as we have for the most part in this quarter, it will be easily seen that the half time system arranged so, that one half the younger children attend three hours in the forenoon, and the other half three hours in the afternoon, would suit best, from the fact that many of the pupils have to walk to school say one, two, or even three miles. In this way the school that would be over crowded with 70, 80, or 90 pupils, would have abundant accomodation for half that number. The new building would not be required, the teacher could teach much more effectualy, and the tax-payer would rejoice. There is much to be said in every way in favor of the scheme, but I will not at present seek to trespass further on your space.

Yours truly,
ROBERT ROBERTSON.

Dec. 1, 1880.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—I am a farmer, a resident near Fleshertton for the past nineteen years; and have hewed out a home for myself from the woods. I claim we farmers know, or ought to know, the benefits arising from the introduction of the railroad. The wealth and improvements of this part must, in a measure, be attributed to the industry of the people, but at least one half must be credited to the railroad. When we visit Flesherton and Markdale, and see the amount of money daily paid out for sheep, cattle and farm produce, certainly we must say the railroad has brought in industry, wealth and civilization. Sir, we know the iron rails on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce are getting pretty well worn out, and the cattle guards, bridges and other structures are becoming rotten. These things require to be renewed with more substantial material. The Directors say they have not the means to make these improvements, neither are they willing to do so without assistance from the municipalities interested.—The amount asked from Artemesia is not large, and many of us farmers think by helping to improve the road we are really helping ourselves. Sir, allusion was made a week or two since to the 70 who signed the petition to submit the By-law, and that they lived in the upper Ward towards Markdale. I should say the farmers in that Ward view things in their true light, viz.: by helping to improve the road, that while it takes four cents out of one pocket it will put eight cents in the other. Some of the knowing men about Flesherton advise the farmers to vote down the By-law, telling them that if carried it will double their taxes; and also further state they have no faith in the Company, hence their opposition to the measure.—Your correspondent of two weeks ago stated that he had not lived in Canada for forty years and not know when a coon was treed, yet he cannot see the advantage arrising from the change of gauge. I should say such men ought to get a free ride to-morrow to Toronto, and see the cars at the Great Western and Grand Trunk depots, and see the number of American cars that are there. They can easily be detected from the Canadian cars by their color and the large lettering on them. These roads are of the standard gauge, hence the interchange of cars. Sir, I am of the opinion that, were our road of the standard gauge at the present moment, we would have seen, for some weeks past, empty cars come all the way from Albany and Oswego to Flesherton and Markdale stations, to be loaded with barley and forwarded to its destination. We should also have cars belonging to the Grand Trunk to be loaded with wheat and peas and sent right through to Montreal, where peas realize 90 cents per bushel. To say that the farmers would not be benefitted by competition and through freight, is simply utter bosh. Not wishing to trespass to much on your space I will close, but will return to the subject again. With thanks for your kindness, I am yours, &c., A FARMER.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—The great Chemical Labratory at Flesherton is once more in full blast. Drastic doses of Paregoric are being compounded. Somehow or other they don't produce the effect desired. Perhaps the reason is that they are not properly administered. The Doctor has got doctored lately, and the best of it is the thing has been done entirely with his own physic—material furnished solely in his own letters. There has been no need to follow his example to go outside of this correspondence, and rake in the mud for stuff to make a concoction, He wines and grimaces like a whipped cur, howls about maltreatment, and don't seem to enjoy the working of of his own physic at all, when it happens to be applied in propria persona. Bye-the-bye, what is really the name of this Reeve of ours? I have been inquiring, and nobody seems to know. Perhaps he [illegible] own himself. If he [illegible] he appears to be ashamed of [illegible] under the undignified [illegible] modest man like [illegible] of signing himself Dr. Christoe. [illegible] that in the modern [illegible] changes in names and words of the English language, the old and time honored designation of Crusoe has got transformed into that of Christoe. In this way crusoe is very likely the proper term after all, and it is probable that for the purpose of perpetuating the name and fame of his immortal ancestor, he, when christened, would receive the appellation of Robinson. Thus his full designation would be Robinson Crusoe, and as he appears to have a weakness for a handle nobody will much object to his affixing the Dr., especially seeing that he himself is evidently self-conscious that a little meretricious dignity is necessary in his own case. The only drawback to this happy coincidence of names is, that we always associate the idea of Crusoe with his man Friday. But there is time enough yet.—Crusoe lived quie a while before he found Friday, and doubtless Dr. Robinson Crusoe will, in due time, produce the requisite shadow. Some people thought that Friday had appeared a few weeks ago, but it must have been a mistake, as the bellows appears to have burst. The puerilities of the Doctor are amusing, if they are not edifying. Last week he is at his old school-boy business of making bubles of his own concoction. He pricks them, and lo! they burst. We can imagine him in the depths of his great Labratory shouting, "Hurrah! for Dr. Crusoe." I never referred specially to grading, knowing that the road was already graded. My reference was to the general work required to complete the line as a broad gauge road. He says "the greater part of the expenditure will be performed by skilled railroad hands," and he "don't suppose that $100 would be spent in Artemesia." I convicted the Doctor some time ago of wilful misleading the farmers in the matter of the box cars. I charge him now with either wilful misrepresentation or gross ignorance in the matter of the expenditure. Considerable over two thousand ties are required to each mile of road. There are some ten miles within Artemesia. It is a well known fact, that a large part of the country through which the line runs cannot supply timber for ties, consequently Artemesia, or any other township possessed of the requisite timber, would have the opportunity of supplying three times the amount of ties than that required for local use. Allowing for say a fourth of the ties being lately renewed, here is at once more than half the bonus. Again, there are cedar posts required in large quantities for snow and other fences. Then, if the road is to be widened and completed, there is the proper ballasting of the road to be done. Altogether the work required would comprehend at least a full winter and summer's work for a large number of hands, and fully bears out my contention, that employment could be afforded to all the young men who have been recently flocking to the States from this quarter. The Dr. says; "a R. R. might pass through the most carefully drawn lease." Does it not strike him that a R. R. as owner as well as a leaseholder, might, on the same grounds, as easily pass through the most carefully drawn conditions.—Just as I said at the outset of this correspondence, the Reeve of Artemesia seems to have no faith in anything or anybody. Then he says, "the road can help itself." Some weeks ago I controverted some of the Doctor's figures as to the Company being able to do the work themselves, and proved his contentions to be (in his own euphonious language) a baseless vision. But what is the use so far as he is concerned, of overturning anything he says or does? That the road is not able to help itself to at once widen the guage without assistance, is what is generally believed. That it is even able to help itself to keep the road running in its present condition, seems doubtful. But allowing, for argument sake, that it is able of itself to do the latter; admitting that it can carry on at all it may ultimately, after a considerable lapse of time and after much struggling, patching and fixing, emerge as a broad gauge; still I contend, on reasons previously given, and others equally sound, that it would pay us now, and pay us well, to assist the Company to at once put the road in thorough order, and have done with the discredit, inconvenience and loss pertaining all round to the present state of matters. The Doctor seems to be quite puzzled about principle of common justice. Notwithstanding that he has been viewing me and it in "spectacles an every other possible form," he has not yet aarived at its proper understanding. A spur to Flesherton, or a deflection of the road to somewhere near the renowned Labratory, would no doubt be common justice in his estimation. A bonus for this purpose would have a great many sound reasons to support it no doubt! and although ordinary people like myself might venture to think it uncommon justice, the spectacles would be turned upon us, and we would be told that everything besides the spur or deflection was merely "a side issue to divert attention." Just imagine the duck in spectacles! What a diverting spectacle! Quack! Quack!! He congratulates himself on his notable device of covering up the box cars, and having now got a large quantity of ties, posts and ballast alongside the cars, he leisurely dons the spectacles, and takes a squint through "every possible form" of mud at the great principle of common justice. Ye gods! what a spectacle!

Yours truly,
ROBERT ROBERTSON.

Dec. 6, 1880.

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Dec. 10th, 1880.

Flour	5.0o	to	5.5o
Spring Wheat per bush., new	1.08	to	1.12
Fall do. do. do.	0.60	to	0.80
Barley	0.60	"	0.92
Oats	0.[illegible]	"	0.29
Peas	0.60	"	0.63
Potatoes.	0.50	"	0.56
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.18
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.60	"	5.80
Beef	4.00	"	5.00
Geese, per lb.	0.05	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb.	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.00
Hides	5.00	"	5.50
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.25
Hay	5.50	"	0.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Green Apples, per, bushel	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	1.75	"	1.75

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—[illegible] council [illegible] township printing from the STANDARD, [illegible] that without [illegible] 'small piece of business' I should say. [illegible] they had [illegible] tender, I would have thought [illegible] been an act of economy, but as it is, we can see nothing in it but spite on the part of the council.

I am &c.,
A Ratepayer in Flesherton Ward.
Flesherton, Dec. 8th, 1880.

BIRTHS.

In Markdale, on the 1st inst., the wife of S. Hill, Merchant, of a son.

In Glenelg, on the 25th ult., the wife of Robert McBride of a daughter.

MARRIED

By the Rev. C. C. Garnett, at the Markdale House, Markdale, on Dec 1st 1880, Mr. John Villar of Artemesia, to Miss Hannah Hopps, of Eugenia.

On the 8th inst., by the Rev. W. T. Hicks, at the Parsonage, Mr. Thos. Abbott, to Emily, daughter of Mark Abbey Esq., all of Holland.

DIED.

In Glenelg, on the 19th ult., Hughie, son of Donald McDonald, aged 1 year, 9 months and 20 days.

In Glenelg, on the 27th ult., Duncan, son of Donald McDonald, aged 4 yrs., 6 months.

In Glenelg, on the 29th ult., Duncan, son of Neil Campbell, aged 3 years.

TO THE Independent Electors!

OF THE

Township of Euphrasia.

GENTLEMEN:—

I again offer myself as a Candidate for the office of Councillor for the Township Should you again honor me with your confidence, I shall endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability. Come to the nomination where I shall give my views on Municipal matters.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
D. R. ELLIS.

NOTICE.

THE Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and vicinity for their liberal support and patronage in the past, and to say that he has now turned over the Drug and Stationery business, with all other lines in connection therewith, to Messrs A. Turner & Co., for whom he wishes to bespeak a continuance of the patronage of his old customers and the public at large. Also, that the Account Books will remain at the Drugg Store in the hands of A. Turner, who is authorized to receive all moneys due, and to give receipts for the same, or Robert Davis of Flesherton, in whose posession the accounts are for collection. An early settlement will much oblige.

T. S. SPROULE.
Markdale, Dec. 8, 1880. 18-2i

AUCTION SALE!

OF VALUABLE

FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by Virtue of Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of Sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE

MARKDALE HOUSE,

IN THE

Village of Markdale, in the County of Grey, on

Monday, the 10th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at THREE O'CLOCK in the Afternoon, the following land and premises, viz.:

Lot Number Forty, in the Fourteenth Concession of the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, containing One Hundred and Ten Acres more or less.

The following improvements are said to be on the premises, viz., A Log Dwelling and Frame Barn and Stable.

TERMS.—One Tenth of the purchase money must be paid down at time of sale. For balance, terms liberal, and will be made known at the sale.

For further particulars apply to
LEYS, PEARSON & KINGSFORD,
13 5 in Solicitors, Toronto.

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD,

ANY AMOUNT of PORK

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

STRAYED

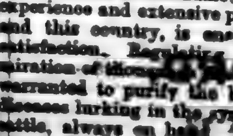
INTO the premises of the undersigned, Lot 11, Con. 15, Township of Glenelg, on the 20th October, two yearling Heifers, one spoted red and white, one dark red with top off one horn. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses and take them away.

R. E. ENGLISH,
Glenelg, Nov, 19, 1880. 11-3i

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 125, Con. 2 West Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, about the 1st October, a Spring Heifer Calf, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

ROBERT BLAIR.
Artemesia, Nov. 26, 1880. 12-3i



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD,
Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders [illegible] warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. [illegible] procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.
SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

NOTICE.

PARTIES delivering logs at the Steam Saw Mill, Markdale, will please call and leave their names, and get a number to stamp on their logs, otherwise the proprietor will not hold himself responsible for logs which may be delivered.

Lumber, after being sawed three days and not piled, the "Mill Proprietor" will proceed to pile out of his way, and charge owner for time for doing so, and for space occupied.

The Highest Price in Cash

Paid for

Butternut, Cherry and Large Birch.

A Plainer and Matcher

is being put into his Mill and will be in running order by 1st April.

JAMES CHAPMAN, PROPRIETOR.
Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-2i

J. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is how prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also

BISCUIT!

of every description. from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.
Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 10-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS

Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place,
Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-M

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorize them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway [illegible] of [illegible] any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, and to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: and for other purposes.

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES,

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, [illegible]

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be passed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR [illegible]

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAND

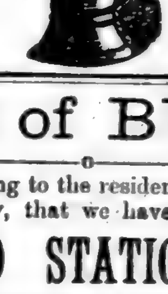
Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880.

MEDICAL HALL.



CHANGE of BUSINESS

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTUORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY,

Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, [illegible] and Tobaccos,

ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agent for Montreal Telegraph and Vicеker's Express

☞ Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880.

GO TO

McINTYRE'S

For all kinds of

Groceries, Provisions, Liquors, Canned Goods

CONFECTIONERY, SPICES, TOBACCOS, BUISCUITS

AND ALL GOODS

Generally kept in a First-Class Grocery, Provision and Liquor Store

TEAS, SUGARS, COFFEE

And all Groceries, the very Cleanest and Freshest. I sell for Cash, and customer that gives me a call is sure to come back, as I sell good Goods Cheap. I never pay more than the Goods are worth, and give my customers the benefit of the bargains I get. You will always find me in the same place, always ready to wait upon you. None but the Best Brands of

RYE, MALT, BRANDY, ALE, PORTER, & OTHER LIQUORS & W[illegible]

Kept in stock. ☞ Be sure you call.

A. McINTYRE

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880,

Get Money at 7 per Cent

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent. to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment

OFFERED BY THE

BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES

AGENCY OF THE

LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

AND

British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED

Wanzer Family Machine

Organs at Reduced Rates

AUCTION SALES

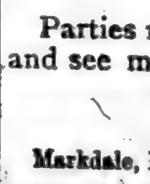
—ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3i

DONALD McLEOD,



[illegible] MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal patronage in the past, and hopes by honorable dealing, FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same.

THE BEST OF MATERIAL

Used, and none but First-Class Mechanics employed.

Special attention paid to Repairing, which will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Specialty.

NOTICE.

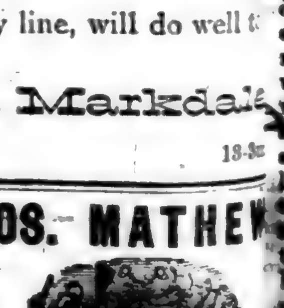
All over due accounts must be paid without delay or I shall have to resort to more costly means for collection.

D. McLEOD,
Corner of Queen and Mill Streets.
Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880. 7-3i

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

THOS. MATHEWS



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeing confident he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS

HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT

always on hand, and sold at moderate [illegible]

☞ None but good workmen employed, the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov, 18, 1880.

Subscribe for the STANDARD. We will give it from now till the First January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 10th, 1880.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

[illegible] were 18.618 bushels of Grain [illegible] in Markdale last week.

[illegible] will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the STANDARD to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

THE Daily Mail during the session of Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

ANNIVERSARY and Tea Meeting in Ebenezer P. M. Church, town line, Artemesia and Euphrasia, on Sabbath and Monday next. See posters.

[illegible] "leading citizen" will soon be[illegible] to make himself more than ordinarily agreable. Municipal elections in the near future

COUNTY COURT.—The County Court [of] the County of Grey is to be held at the Court House, Owen Sound on Tuesday [the] 14th inst.

THE Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

DR. CHRISTOE has been carrying on a war of words with the the Markdale paper anent the new railway bonuses and he signs his letters "Dr. Christoe." "Dr." is not his christian name, is it.—Monitor.

BALL AND SUPPER.—The Orange Young Britons, of Dundalk, intend having a ball and supper on the 28th inst. They promise a good time to all who may favor them with their company. Tickets $1 per couple.

MR. ALEX. SINCLAIR, brother of [illegible] Donald Sinclair, M. P. P. died at Southampton on Sunday last. [illegible] deceased was a man of excellent business qualities, and for many years carried on a very extensive mercantile business in Southampton.

A MEETING of the Euphrasia Agricultural Society was held at Rock[illegible] on Wedenesday to open the tenders [illegible] for the erection of an Agricultural Hall. That of Mr. G[illegible] Crabtree was accepted, being $3[illegible] The Hall is to be 36x80.

TORONTO City Council passed a re[solution] on Tuesday night to confer [the] freedom of the city upon Hanlan up[on his] return to Toronto and also to exempt his property at the Island from rent and taxation for the rest of [his] natural life

IT is said to be the intention of [the] managers of the Northern Railway [to] change the gague of the road during the present winter, and thus remove the necessity for a change of cars [at] Toronto, It is a wise measure on [the] part of the company, and one [that] should have been adopted long [illegible]

SAYS the Guelph Herald: V[ennor] is bound to get even with us in [some] way. For December 22nd he pr[edicts] a snow storm that will last for [seven]teen hours. The depth of snow [that] is to fall is eleven and one half f[eet.] At least, so Vennor says.

TEA MEETING.—There is to be [a] tea meeting at Williamsford, on 1[illegible] inst., in aid of the church fu[nd.] Several Rev. gentlemen and oth[ers] are to address the meeting. [Tea] served at 6:30. Admission 25c, chil[d]ren 15c. We hope members of [the] congregation will see to it that it [is a] success.

THERE is to be a tea mee[ting] in Eugenia, on Christmas Eve, w[ith] a very attractive programm[e] promised, with the addition [of a] Christmas tree. The proceeds a[re to] be applied in paying the minis[ter's] salary. As ministers are unable [to] live on faith alone any more [than] other people, we hope there will [be a] bumper house.

RUMOUR says a breach of pro[mise] case is looming up that is likely [to] afford considerable amusement [to] those who take interest in such [mat]ters. The [illegible] is a well known [illegible] south ward, and the amount of [dam]age he has caused is roughly esti[mat]ed to be about $5,000.—[illegible] Advertiser.

MAXWELL.—The members of [St. M]ary's Church, Maxwell, pu[rpose] having a social and musical eve[ning] on the 14th inst., at the school h[ouse] in that village. Several ama[teurs] from Markdale, are to assist, an[d no] doubt a pleasant evening wi[ll be] passed. The proceeds to be ap[plied] to the improvement of the ch[urch.] As the object is a worthy one w[e hope] it will be well patronized. Admi[ssion] 25c.

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian Hai[r Re]newer has the hearty commend[ation] of thousands whose "turning [locks] have been restored by it to the[ir for]mer beauty of color and growth [It] is, in fact, a miracle in its way, [even] in the age of wondrous improv[ement] —a fact to which every one [who] has given its virtues a test will c[ertify.] The proprietors, R. P. Hall & [Co.] are men of liberality and enter[prise] who give the benefit of their disc[overy] to the world at large, and have p[ut] it in the hands of every drugg[ist in] the country, that its benefits m[ay be] extended alike to all. If there [is the] least suspicion of grey hair showi[ng it]self upon your head, go at once [and] procure a bottle of this celeb[rated] Hair Renewer.—Carthage, N. [Y.] Republican.

CAPTURE OF TWO BURGULAR[S.—A] desperate affray between the [police] and three burgulars took place M[onday] morning at the Great Western [Rail]way Station, London. The bu[rglars] were arrested after a deter[mined] struggle, when one of them [ran] away. Detective Murphy ca[lled on] him to stop, and as he did not [the] officer fired two shots at [the re]treating robber. The latter [fell] then as Murphy turned to [his] brother officers, he rose up an[d ran] off. At the time of the arrest [it was] not known definitely what offe[nce had] been committed but in the co[urse of] the day it was discovered th[at they had] broken into the office of F. S[illegible] broker, next to the Advertiser [office] and there forced the safe, taki[ng every]thing in the neighborhood [illegible] nearly all of which was re[covered from] the parties arrested. The[y were] also thoroughly provided with [burglars'] tools. They are all middl[e aged, one] being 42 and the other [illegible] their names as Harry W[illegible] [Mat]thew Allen, labourers, of M[illegible] It is beleived that they are the [mem]bers of an expert gang of ba[nk robbers.] The police are on the t[rack of the] escaped robber, but have [not cap]tured him.

ASH STOR

ls & So with a complete stock of , Groceries

ND SHOES,

Y, GLASSWARE,

LOW PRICES cannot be call and try some of our

PAN TEA, 3lb. FOR

UP ALWAYS ON HAND.
fore purchasing elsewhere,
ND EGGS TAKEN IN

NOLDS & SON.

AL HALL.

f BUSINESS

the residents of Markdale and t we have purchased

STATIONERY BUSINE

E, and trust by strict personal atte ssortment of the BEST MATERIAL e support of the general public.

ching, we have purchased [a LA HED Stock of ods, Toys

Useful and Ornamental
S PRESENTS.

Trees at Reduced Rates.

ZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONE
Teas, Tobaccos,
ON HAN

raph and Stecker's Expre
Family ... dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

TO YRE'S

Liquors, Canned Good
S TOBACCO BUISCUITS GOODS
and Liquor Store,
COFFEE
Freshest. I sell for Cash, and good Goods Che
my customers the always ready to Best Brands of TER, & OTHER LIQUORS & WIN

A. McINTYRE.

t 7 per Cen
ring 5.9 or 10 per cent.: to rove your buildings.

es of Repayment
BY THE CANADIAN TMENT COMPAN
SPECIAL SECURITIES
OF THE NSURANCE COMPAN
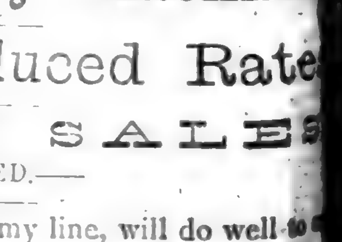
a Assurance Co.
QUALLED
ily Machine
educed Rate
N SALES
NDED.—
n my line, will do well to
L. Markdale
13-3m

THOS. MATHEW



WISHES to tender to his customers his sincere thanks for very liberal patronage during the 15 has been in the Harness Business dale, an would respectfully solicit a ance of the same, feeling confident can give Entire Satisfaction. Every usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS
HARNESS ESTABLISHME always on hand, and sold at moderate None but good workmen employed the best of materials used.
Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880

Subscribe for the Standard
We will give it from now till the First January, 1882, for one year's subscription

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 10th, 1880.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

There were 13,618 bushels of Grain bought in Markdale last week.

We will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the Standard to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

The Daily Mail during the session of the Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

Anniversary and Tea Meeting in Ebenezer P. M. Church, town line, Artemesia and Euphrasia, on Sabbath and Monday next. See posters.

The "leading citizen" will soon begin to make himself more than ordinarily agreable. Municipal elections in the near future

County Court.—The County Court of the County of Grey is to be held at the Court House, Owen Sound on Tuesday the 14th inst.

The Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

Dr. Christoe has been carrying on a war of words with the the Markdale Standard anent the new railway bonuses and he signs his letters "Dr. Christoe." "Dr." is not his christian name, is it.—Monitor.

Ball and Supper.—The Orange Young Britons, of Dundalk, intend giving a ball and supper on the 28th inst. They promise a good time to all who may favor them with their company. Tickets $1 per couple.

Mr. Alex. Sinclair, brother of Mr. Donald Sinclair, M. P. P. died at Southampton on Sunday last. The deceased was a man of excellent business qualities, and for many years carried on a very extensive mercantile business in Southampton.

A meeting of the Euphrasia Agricultural Society was held at Rocklyn on Wedensday to open the tenders received for the erection of an Agricultural Hall. That of Mr. Geo. Crabtree was accepted, being $333. The Hall is to be 36x80.

Toronto City Council passed a resolution on Tuesday night to confer the freedom of the city upon Hanlan upon his return to Toronto and also to exempt his property at the Island from rent and taxation for the rest of his natural life

It is said to be the intention of the managers of the Northern Railway to change the gague of the road during the present winter, and thus remove the necessity for a change of cars at Toronto. It is a wise measure on the part of the company, and one that should have been adopted long since.

Says the Guelph Herald: Vennor is bound to get even with us in some way. For December 22nd he predicts a snow storm that will last for seventeen hours. The depth of snow that is to fall is eleven and one half feet. At least, so Vennor says.

Tea Meeting.—There is to be a tea meeting at Williamsford, on 16th inst., in aid of the church funds. Several Rev. gentlemen and others are to address the meeting. Tea served at 6:30. Admission 25c, children 15c. We hope members of the congregation will see to it that it is a success.

There is to be a tea meeting at Eugenia, on Christmas Eve, when a very attractive programme is promised, with the addition of a Christmas tree. The proceeds are to be applied in paying the minister's salary. As ministers are unable to live on faith alone any more than other people, we hope there will be a bumper house.

Rumour says a breach of promise case is looming up that is likely to afford considerable amusement to those who take interest in such matters. The defendant in the case is a well known retired farmer living in the South ward, and the amount of damage he has caused is roughly estimated to be about $5,000.—Orangeville Advertiser.

Maxwell.—The members of St. Mary's Church, Maxwell, purpose giving a social and musical evening, on the 14th inst., at the school house, in that village. Several amateurs from Markdale, are to assist, and no doubt a pleasant evening will be passed. The proceeds to be applied to the improvement of the church. As the object is a worthy one we trust it will be well patronized. Admission 25c.

Hall's Vegetable Sicilian Hair Renewer has the hearty commendation of thousands whose "turning locks" have been restored by it to their former beauty of color and growth. It is, in fact, a miracle in its way, even in the age of wondrous improvement —a fact to which every one who has given its virtues a test will certify. The proprietors, R. P. Hall & Co., are men of liberality and enterprise, who give the benefit of their discovery to the world at large, and have placed it in the hands of every druggist in the country, that its benefits may be extended alike to all. If there is the least suspicionof grey hair showing itself upon your head, go at once and procure a bottle of this celebrated Hair Renewer.—Carthage, N. Y., Republican.

Capture of Two Burgulars.—A desperate affray between the police and three burgulars took place Monday morning at the Great Western Railway Station, London. The burglars were arrested after a determined struggle, when one of them broke away. Detective Murphy called on him to stop, and as he did not do so the officer fired two shots at the retreating robber. The latter fell and then as Murphy turned to help his brother officers, he rose up and made off. At the time of the arrest it was not known definitely what offence had been committed but in the course of the day it was discovered they had broken into the office of F. S. Clark broker, next to the Advertiser office, and there forced the safe, taking away something in the neighborhood of $1-,500, nearly all of which was recovered from the parties arrested. They were also thoroughly provided with burglars' tools. They are all middle aged, one being 42 and the other 50; and gave their names as Harry White and Matthew Allen, labourers, of Montreal It is beleived that they are the ringleaders of an expert gang of bank robbers. The police are on the track of the escaped robber, but have not yet secured him.

Sleighing is excellent.

Readers—see T. Hall's adv. in another column, something very important.

For cheap and valuable goods go to W. F. Doll, Flesherton.

It will pay you to see Mr. Doll's stock before purchasing elsewhere.

Look out for McIntyre's new advertisement next week.

Grand Masquerade Carnival, on the Flesherton Rink, on Tuesday 21st inst. A splendid prize list. See posters.

Ladies' solid gold, 18k hunting case watches, from $20, at Doll's, Flesherton.

The weather is cold generally, the thermometer is in the neighborhood of ten above Zero.

John Dodds, a young man of this place has returned, a few days ago, from Colorado, He looks well.

All lovers of children should call and inspect Miss Burch's new stock of Xmas goods, fancy boxes, vases, toys, and dolls' in all sizes and quality, also babies hoods and bonnets.

War in Markdale.—Business men fighting McIntyre pulling up fast, and will soon win the day—you all know his line of business—Groceries, liquors, provisions, confectionery, fruits, pure wines, &c. Come one, come all, and supply yourselves in time. Goods cheap for cash.—A. McIntyre.

We direct the attention of our Euphrasia readers to the card of D. R. Ellis Esq., with reference to municipal matters. We hold Mr. Ellis in very high esteem either as a public man, or a private citizen.

Music hath charms to seothe the Savage—to rend a rock or boil a cabbage. Of course we don't mean that any of our readers are either. But no matter who or what you are—you should see Wilcox's stock of Concertinas, Violins and Accordians.

The Pupils of the Presbyterian Sabbath School, of Flesherton intend having a grand entertainment in the town hall, on the evening of Christmas day. A first-class programme is promised. Refreshments will be served at 8 o'clock p. m.; tickets 25c, children 15c. All should go.

The annual missionary serevics of the C. M. Church will be held in Markdale, on Sunday, the 12th inst., when Rev. Mr. Philp jr., of Flesherton will preach at 10:30 a. m. & 6:30 p. m. The missionary meeting will be held in the same place on the Wednesday following commencing at 7:30 p. m.

Change of Business.—Messrs. Turner have purchased the Drug and Stationery business from Dr. Sproule. We bespeak for the new proprietors the patronage of the public. They are now busy opening out a large quantity of Christmas goods. Call on them and you will find them both ready and willing to wait on you. See adv. in another column.

Send in the News.—A local newspaper man is generally expected to be everywhere, see everything and catch every item afloat, simply because it is his profession. But he can't do it. His friends can help him through by sending or bringing such items as are of interest All manner of legitimate local news go to make up an interesting paper, and will be received with thanks.

From present indications Vennor's prophecy of eleven and one half feet fall of snow has every appearance of being verified. There has been a steady downfall of snow for the past three or four days and there is every prospect of it keeping the thing up. Six feet people and over are in demand just now and little folks (men and women) are at a discount.

Soiree.—The Members of L. O. L No 1045 intend having a soiree on the 17th inst. Rev Mr. Reid, of Chatsworth, D Creighton, Esq., M. P. P., of Owen Sound and others are to address the meeting. Music will be furnished during the evening by some well known amateurs, and a good time generally is promised. Admission 25cts. Proceeds to be applied on debt on Hall.

The circulation of the Standard is fast increasing, and we are having words of encouragement from all quarters,for the independent stand we have taken. If the subscription keeps on growing as it now is, we will have close on one thousand subscribers in three months more. Our job work has given such general satisfaction, that we have been compelled to put on another hand, and have had to work nights, so fast is work coming in.

Municipal Matters.—In Artemesia, it would be hard to get a more economical council on the whole than they have. We have heard nothing definite from Osprey. In Proton, the canvas is going on between J. J. Middleton Esq., and Mr. Nelson. In Euphrasia, there is already considerable interest, we understand Mr. Myles and Mr. Patterson are out for the office of Reeve. D. R. Ellis and a host of others for councillors. In Holland we hear of no opposition to Mr. Howie. In Glenelg, things are very quiet, the Reeve will no doubt be elected by aclimation.

Runaway.—About half past eight on Thursday evening Mr. Chisholm, Merchant & Grain Buyer, and J. J. Johnston both of Meaford, were driving in to this village, as they turned the corner of Brown & Toronto streets, driving too close to the ditch, the cutter capsized leaving the occupants in the ditch, the horse started off on a lively run in the directionof Owen Sound. He (the horse) however turned into Thos. Campbell's barnyard about half a milefrom Markdale, cut some figures in his yard and finally came to a standstill. Nobody hurt, the cutter slightly damaged.

The united circulations of the Montreal Witness publications is by far larger than those of any other publishing house in Canada. They are as follows:—Daily Witness, 13,300; Weekly Witness, 28,300; Northern Messenger, 59,000; Aurore, 900—in all 101,500. Now estimating the population of Canada at 4,500,000: and five souls to a family, there are 900,000 families in the Dominion, from which it will be seen that one of those Witness publications—if not two were taken in the same family—would be sent one out of every nine families in the Dominion, including all races and religions and, besides, leave a good fraction over to cover foreign circulation. The publishers of the Witness are not satisfied with this wonderful success and are endeavoring to increase their proportion of subscribers by some certainly very attractive inducements, which can be explained to those interested by every subscriber of the Montreal Weekly Witness or Northern Messenger.

—XMASS—

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS, AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have Tea sets, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Bradish Compartments, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &.

AT DOLL'S

In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting, and Open-Faced key and stem winders including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best). Swiss, English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated St. Thomas and other Clocks, from 75c up. In Jewelry,—I have colored and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, Pins, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pens, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty.

W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Flesherton and Dundalk.

Nov. 25, 1880. (6)

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 142 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING
PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-tf

MARKDALE.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKERS,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.
Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

WM. FOX,
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Selling Off. Selling Off.

GREAT
Clearing Out Sale!

GRANT & CHELLEW
will offer for the
NEXT 60 DAYS!

Bargains unprecedented in the County of Grey.

SIDEBOARDS,
BUREAUS,
CUPBOARDS,
WASHSTANDS, open and enclosed,
BEADSTEADS,
SPRING BEDS,
MATTRASSES,
CRADLES,
CENTRE TABLES,
EXTENSION TABLES,

Fall-Leaf Tables, and Chairs of every variety to be

SOLD AT COST!

Pictures and Picture Framing!
in all its branches.

Upholstering and Repairing!
promptly attended to.

Produce and Dry Lumber taken at market price.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Sept., 1880. 1

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,
WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROWS AND
All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

To my Patrons.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 5tf.

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

LOAN AND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.

Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.

Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP
as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept, 17th 1880. 1

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,
AND WILL
Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.

At the New Tinshop
MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX
STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings;

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.
No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!
A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.
ALL KINDS OF
Tin & Copperwork!
made to order on the shortest notice.

JOB ROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public Every article sold on its own Merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880. 1

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Countyat

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

BOOTS and SHOES!

FOR THE MILLION.

A NOVELTY in these Goods!

The Indestructible Riveted and Cemented and Water-proof Seam.

Call and Examine Stock and Prices!
before purchasing "slop" goods elsewhere.

FULL LINES IN

Groceries, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing, (Ready-made,) Crockery and Glassware!

—AT THE—

"TORONTO HOUSE,"
MARKDALE.

WM. BROWN.

Markdale, Sept. 17th, 1880.

Cash! Cash! Cash!

People may Puff and Blow, but if you want real value for

Your Money or Produce
GO TO THE

Toronto House,
DUNDALK,

The following is a list of prices of a few of the many leading lines offered.

Men's Overcoats $5.50 and upwards		Boy's Ulster Overcoats $4.75 and upwards
Men's Tweed suits $4.00	do	Men's undershirts and Drawers, 50c	do
" Overalls (Duck) 75c	do	" heavy Pants, $1.75	do
" Winter Caps 45c	do	Ladies' all wool shawls, $1.25	do
Ladies' Clouds, 50c	do	Beautiful patterned dress Goods 15c	do
Beautiful Lustres, 15c	do	Factory Cotton, 7c	do
Ladies' Fur Caps $1.75	do	Children's Fur Caps 35c	do
Men's long Boots, $2.00	do	Men's seamless whole stock Boots $1.05	do
Boys long Boots, $1.25	do	Women's strong shoes, $1.10,	do
Children's strong shoes 45c	do

Together with a full stock of First-Class Groceries. Teas, Sugars, choice Brands of Tobaccos, Soaps, Syrups, Vinegar, Dried Apples, Buiscuits, Confectionery, Spices of all kinds, Patent Medicines, Castor Oil, Castorine, Machine Oils, Coal Oil. Also Hardware, Spoons Table Knives, Nails, Screws, Hinges, latches, &c., and a full stock of all the leading lines in Dry Goods, Millinery, Furs of all kinds, and all other Goods such as are kept in a First Class General Store.

Farm Produce taken as cash. A call is solicited and you will be convinced that this is the place to get good value for your money.

Highest Cash Price paid for all kinks of Grain, Pork, &c.

GEORGE NIXON.

Dundalk, Nov 25, 1880. 11 4i

H. & R. HOOPER

RESPECTFULLY invite every Man and Woman in the country to visit their Factory and Warerooms and inspect their stock of furniture, manufactured during the summer, for fall trade. Our stock is now the largest and most complete yet held by us, and we have been successful in introducing a great many

NEW AND TASTY DESIGNS!

—IN—

BED-ROOM SETS, COUCHES,
SIDEBOARDS, EXTENSION TABLES, CENTRE TABLES,
DRESSING BUREAUS, BEDSTEADS, SOFAS,
WHATNOTS, HAT-RACKS, HALL TABLES,
&c., &c., &c.

WE ARE MAKING A SPECIALTY IN

New Styles of WOOD SEAT CHAIRS!
CHEAP AND DURABLE.

—OUR—
UNDERTAKING DEPARTM'NT

Fully supplied with COFFINS, SHROUDS, &c., and special sizes made on the very shortest notice.

ALL KINDS OF

Fancy Turning, Scroll Work, Fence Pickets & Mouldings
made to order. Also SASH, DOORS, PLANING, &c.

With our present experience we feel justified in asking a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on us in the past. Our prices will be found as low as any, and much so as is consistant with good work and finish. If you are in need of anything in our line we feel confident we can suit you in quantity and quality to select from and also in terms.

H. & R. HOOPER.

1 Flesherton Steam Furniture Factory and Planing Mill.

Removed! Removed.

HILL BROTHERS,

Would intimate to their numerous friends and the public generally, that they have removed to their new premises, and will be pleased to receive a call from our many friends and customers. Call and see us. We will give you Bargains. WE MEAN BUSINESS.

SEE OUR

Cheap Dress Goods,
Lustres,
Wincies,
Laces,
And Fringes,

Gents, see our CLOTHING. They are Stylish, Good CHEAP.

SEE OUR TWEEDS!

You will find them right in Price and Quality.

Boots and Shoes a Specialty.

Call and get a sample of our Splendid TEAS.

Gentlemen we have a splendid SMOKING TOBACCO, at 40c per lb. Try it.

We again give a general invitation to inspect our Stock. Have not time to write long advertisements. Don't believe in them. Would rather have the Goods speak for themselves.

Thanking you for past favors, and trust to have a continuance of the same.

HILL BROS.

Markdale, Nov. 4, 1880. 1-ly

Fugitive Fancies.

I.

THE IDEAL.

In mid-ocean sails a vessel
With a golden freightage laden:
Poets set to matchless measures,
And a most delightful maiden.

But upon its spotless pennant
In this sad inscription, "Never;"
And though countless ports it passes,
It sails on forever, ever!

II.

A PAIR.

All silent her needle and thread;
On the tips of her delicate fingers
She musingly poses her head,
And thinks of the days that are dead.

She's with her first fond lover now,
By the moon-varnished river she lingers,
And listens again to his vow;
See! pity steals over her brow!

III.

FOR A CYNIC.

Near dark and stagnant pool
Where the air is deathly cool;

There his coffin hewn shall be
From the poison upas tree.

Snakes and lizards shall surround
His foul weed-encompassed mound.

And a shaft of greenish tint,
Chiselled from the hardest flint,

Shall above that mound appear,
Fashioned like a stony sneer.

IV.

DEFINITION.

What is the soul, my learned love?
Indeed, I cannot say,
Perhaps 'tis like the fragment of
The distant milky Way.

Or something like a perfect tune,
Or sweetly scented air,
The pale beam of the Northern moon,
Or breath of virgin fair.

But what is it? Alas, my dear,
I am not over wise;
I cannot make the matter clear
As your pellucid eyes.

But many a grave philosopher,
Filling his solemn scroll
With dusty lore of varnished years,
Says that the soul's—the soul.

ONLY A WOMAN'S HAIR.

By the Author of "A Strange Friendship," &c.

CHAPTER IX.

How long I remained hidden there I never knew. As the time glided by, all my terror gradually passed away, and I felt calm and confident once more. My conviction grew and strengthened that Cyril would not succeed in discovering my hiding-place.

The moon rose; but her light did not penetrate the deep obscurity of the refuge Mr. Beresford had selected for me; and, though I could see the house perfectly well, and the lights in its windows, no one could have discerned me, even if standing within a few yards of me, so deep was the shadow in which I lay concealed. The long ferns almost closed over my head; the branches of the trees hung low and deepened the obscurity.

Everything was very still and peaceful on that cold clear winter's night, with the stars sparkling down from their lofty heights above me.

"Yon orbed maiden,
With white fire laden,
Whom mortals call the moon," looked down upon me with calm serenity as I lay hidden.

At last I heard voices on the carriage drive quite close to me, and I discerned two figures approaching through the gloom. Cyril—how well I knew his voice!—said—

"Then you'll meet me this day week in town, Beresford, and we'll square up re the sheep?"

To this Noel answered

"All right. I will not fail. Cold, isn't it?" he added. And Cyril said

"Rather."

Then one of them struck a match, and they lighted their pipes. Presently I heard Cyril say

"What was that? Something moved over there."

I could discern the dark outline of his figure from where I lay, scarcely daring to breathe; and I felt sure that he was looking full at my hiding-place as he spoke.

"Probably a rabbit or a pheasant. I have both in my plantations," Noel answered.

I waited anxiously for Cyril's next words; but they did not come. The two men had walked on together towards the stables. I hoped that Cyril was about to get his horse; and by-and-by the dull thud of a horse's hoof on the drive led me to believe that he was at last riding away; and, when once more Noel Beresford's step crushed the fern and dead leaves near me, I knew that I was not mistaken.

Mr. Beresford did not touch me this time; he only beckoned to me to follow him; and in silence we crossed the lawn and re-entered the house by the large dining-room window, in the same manner that we had left it.

I ran at once to the fire, and, crouching down by it, began to warm my hands. Noel followed me to the fireplace, and stood looking down at me as I knelt there. Everything in the room was just the same; the tea-things still stood on the table.

"You do not ask me any questions," said Mr. Beresford. "I suppose you heard him ride past you, and you know that he has gone at last. He asked me no questions about you, as I had expected that he would; but he noticed your slippers; you had left them lying by the fire."

Sure enough there they lay—little blue slippers, with bright steel buckles and blue satin bows.

"I saw him looking at them," continued Noel, "And he had a sneer on his face; so I said—'Perhaps you are not aware that this house is let. I have only the use of this room occasionally for business purposes, as to-night.'

"'Your tenant is a lady then,'" he said, with his eyes still on the slippers.

"'Yes,' I answered; for I was not going to lie to him if I could help it.

"'She has very pretty little feet,'" he said, with another sneer."

There was a pause after this. I could not have spoken to save my life; something in Mr. Beresford's manner had set my heart beating fast. He took up one of the little slippers and laid it for a moment on his large strong brown hand.

"Such pretty little things!" he said. "I wonder who could have helped noticing them! I know I couldn't."

He laid the slipper down again, and I felt as if I dared not look at him. I fixed my eyes upon the glowing wood embers on the hearth instead.

When I at last ventured to glance up to him he was speaking rapidly, with his gray eyes dark and deep, looking down into mine.

"I see it all now," he was saying. "This will not do any longer. I must go away. I ought to have known better from the first. You are not to blame in the least. You are only a girl; but I am a man, ten years older than you, with all that knowledge of the world which you have not, and I ought to have seen from the first that it would not do."

His voice broke for a moment; but he mastered himself by a strong effort and went on.

"I admired you when I saw you first; but I fancied I was not rich enough to marry. I am only a younger son; and I let you slip through my fingers. Oh, fool that I was! And now it is too late!"

There was a whole world of passion, regret, and tenderness in his voice and in his words. I was standing before him by this time; but I could not have spoken, however hard I had tried.

Quite suddenly, and when I was not expecting it in the least, Noel caught me in his arms. He held me so for one moment, tightly clasped, with a strength that made me feel as powerless as a child. Then just as suddenly he released me again.

"No," he said; I won't soil your whiteness even for a moment Cathie—my little white snowdrop!"

He turned away and dropped down upon a chair by the table; his crossed arms were resting upon it, and his face was hidden; for a moment or two I heard nothing but his hard breathing. Then, without raising his head, he said in a whisper—

"Oh Cathie, remember me sometimes in your prayers!"

The pathetic appeal of those words almost broke my heart. There was despair in his whole attitude. I could bear it no longer; I stepped up to him, and I laid my hand upon his shoulder.

"You may go away for one week," I said. "When you come back I shall not be here any longer. I see it all now, and that I ought never to have come here, even for a day. Hush!"—for he had raised his head and seemed about to speak. "Don't try to defend me. I must do all I can now to repair the mischief I have caused. You must come back here, for you have to manage your property, and you cannot stay away; it is I who ought to go. Don't try to prevent me, and do not fancy that I can ever forget all that you have done for me, and"—here a sob nearly choked my voice—"Heaven be with you always!"

With the last words I fairly ran out of the room; and, before dawn next morning, Noel Beresford had left Ravelston.

How well I remember my miserable awakening to all my troubles in the morning!

During the early part of the night I slept from sheer exhaustion after all I had gone through during the last few hours; but in the gray dawn I awoke, and my first recollection was that Noel Beresford had gone, and that I should never, never see him any more! I hid my face in the pillow and cried many bitter tears. I felt as if I had come at last to the very darkest hour of all my life. If I had only known it, I might have taken courage; the darkest hour was the one before the dawn.

In the course of the day which followed, I made such plans as I was able for the future which lay before me.

I meant to leave Ravelston at once; on this point my mind was perfectly clear and resolved; all other projects still remained vague and half formed in my mind.

I had determined that I would be driven to the railway station the next morning, and that I would leave by the first train for town, where I meant to take lodgings for the present. I had still a little money left, and I hoped before that was finished to have procured a situation as governess. I think I had grown very reckless and very indifferent as to what further became of me.

It happened on this same day that Mrs. Holland received a letter from a friend of hers who lived in the neighbourhood of my old home; and I found, from a casual mention of myself in this letter, that people knew as yet absolutely nothing of my disappearance from my husband's roof. It was supposed that Cyril and I were still absent upon our wedding tour; we had originally intended to be away for two or three months.

From this I inferred that Cyril had not been living on his own estate since my departure. Probably he had been trying every means he could think of to seek me out without bringing his family affairs too prominently before the public.

The same evening I was alone in the dining room at Ravelston. I was feeling unspeakably lonely; I had packed up the few possessions I had with me, and there was nothing to prevent me leaving Ravelston the next morning. Had I not fully determined upon going away at once? But I loved the place so much, I had been so happy there, that it half broke my heart to leave it and to give up all hope of seeing it or its master again.

I had thrown myself down upon the couch at one side of the fireplace, and was crying bitterly, with my face buried in the cushions, when suddenly, through a pause in my sobs, I felt instinctively that I was no longer alone in the room.

I brushed away my tears, and raised my head sharply, and the next moment I started to my feet, for I saw, standing in the recess of the large window, my husband Cyril Vane.

The window was not fastened, and he had entered quite noiselessly while I had been too much absorbed in my own thoughts to notice his approach. Probably he had found out the day before that I was in the house, and his pretended departure had been only a blind in order to throw me off my guard. However this may have been, there he certainly was. He was intensely pale, and his eyes were very bright and fierce. As they met mine, I recoiled a step or two, and glanced involuntarily towards the door. He laughed—a little cruel laugh.

"Don't try to go," he said; "it would be of no use. You see, Cathie, you are hunted down at last!"

CHAPTER X.

A feeling of deadly terror crept over me, and, for a few moments, I quailed before him. I cannot tell if he knew how frightened I was.

We were now standing opposite to each other on the rug before the fire, and we eyed each other steadily, each waiting for the other to make the first move. Frightened as I was, I think I could scarcely have looked as pale as Cyril; the pallor of his face struck me as exceedingly ghastly and terrible.

The silence between us lasted unbroken for many minutes. It became unnatural, awful, and oppressive.

At last I said, very slowly, each word clear and sharp in the utter stillness of the room—

"You—murdered—my sister!"

"Yes," he said coolly, "I did. You knew that long ago."

I made no answer. The boldness of his confession and the cold cruel glance with which it was accomplished deprived me of all words. After a moment, he went on—

"You found me out from the first—I felt sure of it. I saw you watching me in the mirror one day when you thought I did not observe you, and I determined from that moment to marry you and to get you in my power." After a moment he added with another sneering laugh, "How do you know I have not come here to murder you as well?"

My terror had now reached its climax. I was shivering and trembling from head to foot.

I felt persuaded that he had really come to do as he threatened, to put an end to my life, as he had done to my sister's; yet I still managed to confront him steadily.

Some instinct taught me that the least sign of fear would be fatal, and I contrived to show none; yet, in my secret heart, I had given myself up for lost.

In that most terrible moment however a door slammed in the distance, and immediately afterwards came a step in the hall without that I knew—a firm, strong, steady tread, which brought hope and comfort with it to my sinking heart.

"Do you think I am afraid?" I cried bravely now. "Not I! You are only wasting your time if you have come here to threaten me!"

Almost as I uttered the words the door of the dining-room opened, and Noel Beresford made a third at our interview.

Noel came in quietly and closed the door behind him. He must already have learned who was there, for he expressed no surprise at the sight of his unexpected visitor. I remember that he had in one hand a large square envelope with a deep black border.

Noel put the letter into the breast-pocket of his coat as he came forward; but he did not offer to shake hands with Cyril; he did not wish him "good evening."

The two men stood and eyed each other with an intense deadly aversion in their glances. Instinctively I moved forward a few steps, so as to place myself between them.

Cyril was the first to speak. He took no notice of Mr. Beresford; he did not even look towards him. He addressed himself pointedly at me.

"Yes, it is quite true that I murdered Rose Belham," he said, with a second ostentatious confession of his guilt; "but she deserved her fate. She led me on and encouraged me all the time I was staying in town, till I was half mad about her. She asked me to come down and see her in the country, and, when I came, she laughed in my face; and she told me she was going to be married in a month. She turned away, and left me lying face downwards amongst the fern in the plantation, a broken-hearted man; but I had my gun in my hand, for I had been shooting; and, before she had gone twenty yards, I sprang up and shot her down like a dog. Strange that no one saw me there that day."

He was gradually working himself up, as he uttered his confession, into a fierce fit of passion.

Looking at him as he stood there, with his black eyes wild and savage as a wolf's and his lips compressed, I could quite realise how it all happened, and how Rose's foolish trick of flirting had come that summer afternoon to so terrible and tragic a conclusion.

I stood and looked at Cyril in mute horror while he spoke, wondering what new form this strange audacity of guilt would assume, and what fresh crime he would next confess to. Noel too was silent; he was watching intently every look and movement of the man before him. His eyes never wavered for a moment; his straight brows were contracted with the keeness of his gaze.

Suddenly Cyril put one hand to the breast-pocket of his coat, and Noel's scrutiny of his every gesture became, if possible, even more intense and vigilant.

"When I came here to-day," Cyril resumed, speaking somewhat dreamily now, and in a softer tone than he had used before, "I said to myself that I would send Cathie after her sister; but I have changed my mind. Cathie does not deserve such a fate; she would never have treated me as Rose did, she is a girl of a different sort; but instead of that, I will—"

The sentence was never finished. In that same moment Noel sprang forward, with one movement of his strong arm, had flung him behind him. There was a loud report, and Cyril dropped upon the rug before us, the revolver he had taken from his pockets slipping from his fingers as he sank down prone at Noel Beresford's feet.

The first thing I was conscious of was that Noel was trying to lead me from the room; but I resisted, with a great resolution, to which he gave way.

"Oh, no!" I said. "I must do all I can for him now. Do you think that he is dead?"

"I am not sure," he answered; "I must see."

Cyril was not dead; and one of Mr. Beresford's men was despatched at once on the fleetest horse in the stables to fetch the nearest doctor.

Mrs. Holland, who was an excellent nurse, was summoned to assist in this emergency.

We lifted him on to the couch by the fire, and Noel examined his injuries. Cyril was quite unconscious, and was bleeding from a wound in the chest.

"I thought it would have been you, Cathie," Noel said, looking up suddenly, with a sigh of intense relief. "That was why I put you behind me. I knew he had that thing in his pocket all the time: I saw the muzzle of it quite plainly, and he had his hand upon it; I was watching for the right moment to get in front of you; if I had asked you to leave the room, he would have shot you down at once, next to the door; I could see it in his eyes."

At last Cyril recovered consciousness; the remedies we had tried brought him slowly back to life. He opened his eyes and looked at him, at first vaguely, then with some anxiety in his eyes.

"Is it you that he wants, Cathie?" said Noel, drawing back a step or two.

I came close to Cyril's side, and he made an effort to speak.

"Kneel down," he said at last.

I did so, and he appeared satisfied. All through the long hours of that terrible night I knelt by his side; he would not let me leave him for a moment.

If I moved ever so slightly, the feeble pressure of his hand brought me back again to my old position. Noel fetched a warm cloak lined with fur and wrapped me in it, for I became very cold as the hours crept by slowly.

"Put 'mea culpa' over my grave," he said, "and nothing else, save my name; mine has been a wasted life."

A little after he asked, speaking slowly and with difficulty—

"I have taken the greatest care of your horse, Cathie; he is eating his head off in my stables; and all your little possessions are quite safe. I have looked after them all for your sake."

His face was growing very pale, and the shadows deepened about his mouth.

"Cyril," I said, with sorrowful earnestness, trying to rouse his attention, "I am praying for you."

A faint flicker of a smile passed over his face.

"No one save you, would do that for me, Cathie," he said.

"Oh, Cyril," I said once more, "try to follow what I am saying; try to pray for yourself."

But he did not respond to my appeal; he lay quite still, with his eyes closed.

The room seemed to have grown very chilly. Noel heaped more logs on the fire, and Mrs. Holland made some hot coffee and brought a cup of it to me. But I could not raise my head to drink it; the dying man's hand still held me firmly to my place. At last he opened his eyes once more.

"Kiss me, Cathie," he whispered, "as a proof that you forgive me all the injury I have done you."

All through the days of his courtship I had never given Cyril one kiss; now, in the presence of Noel and Mrs. Holland, I pressed my lips for the first and last time on his forehead.

When I raised my head, I saw that the look of pain had passed from his face, and there was now no expression of peace. Very slowly, very reluctantly his hand relaxed its grasp on mine; his eyes seemed to seek for me [illegible] not see me now. Then Noel lifted me up and placed me in an easy chair by the fire. I knew that the guilty soul of Cyril Vane had passed away.

CHAPTER XI, AND LAST.

I was obliged to remain at Ravelston until after Cyril's funeral had taken place.

It was [illegible] that we had [illegible] Beresford's [illegible] wedding tour, and that Cyril in a fit of depression, had [illegible]. He was known to have led a very wild and unsteady life for years past, and no one was surprised.

"Do you know what I came here for, Cathie?" Noel said to me [illegible] Cyril's death. "I suddenly remembered that perhaps you might want money, and I came to give you this cheque. Was it not a lucky thing that I came?"

It was indeed, for me, at any rate; but for Noel's return I truly believe that I should not have lived to write this story.

I have mentioned before that when Noel came into the room on that most memorable evening he held in one hand a letter with a black-bordered envelope.

He had heard, he told me afterwards, by the English mail that his elder brother was just dead, and that he was now in possession of one of the handsomest estates and largest fortunes in Blankshire.

"I beg that you will remain my tenant, Mrs. Vane," said Mr. Beresford to me with extreme formality, "for a year, of course. I see in the paper that your father's estate is to be put up for sale next week; I intend to secure it if possible, and I trust that you will consent to return again to your old home."

I gladly agreed to this arrangement; but, shocking to relate, I have never paid my landlord one farthing of rent to this day.

After I had been for some little time in the house where Rose and I had lived ever since we were children, I received a letter from Mr. Beresford.

"I must go back to England soon," he wrote. "The property at home wants looking after. May I come and see you before I go?"

I wrote back at once—

"No, no, no; you are not to come at present."

He waited a little while; then he wrote again—

"Don't you think this has now gone on long enough? My patience is getting worn out. Don't send me away; let me come."

To this letter I vouchsafed no reply. Of course after this I was not very much surprised when, a few days afterwards, on coming in from a long ride on Gladiator, I found Noel standing waiting for me before the fire. I took off my gauntlet glove, and we shook hands with extreme formality and decorum.

"You have come about the rent?" I said, with a saucy toss of my head. "It is of no use. I haven't got it, and I can't pay you."

Whereupon he first laughed, and then suddenly caught me in his arms and covered my face with kisses.

"I have missed you dreadfully, Cathie," he whispered. "And now I can't have enough of you. Of course you know what I came for?"

He wanted me to marry him and go home to England with him at once; but I stipulated for another month's delay, and at last I carried my point.

He had brought me a present, and he made me take it out of the breast-pocket of his coat with my own hands.

I found a jeweller's case, containing a brooch and locket to match of gold, with a snowdrop on each of pearls and emeralds.

"Do you remember that evening," asked Noel, still holding me as if he would never let me go, [illegible] How I admired you for your innocence and fearlessness of all evil! [illegible] little white snowdrop, Cathie; and, when I saw these in a shop window, I took a fancy to them at once for your sake."

I have not mentioned that Cyril Vane had made a will just before I married him, and had left all his possessions to me. I could not bear to touch his money, nor would Noel have allowed me to do so.

We found [illegible] with a [illegible] in poor circumstances, [illegible] her. It was [illegible] nearly all [illegible] supposed; [illegible] in a more comfortable position for the rest of her life.

Once before I wrote that never was there a more forlorn and miserable bride than the one who went through the ceremony of marriage with Cyril Vane; so now I add that the sun never shone upon a happier girl than the one who is at last Noel Beresford's wife.

We are living on his beautiful estate in Blankshire, and we are both exceedingly happy.

The long lovely lock of Rose's golden hair lies before me on the table as I write. In the days to come, when I too have followed my sister to the grave, it will be found among my papers, and then I hope that those who discover it will say to one another—

"The eyes that loved it once no longer wake.
So lay it by with reverent care;
Touching it tenderly for sorrow's sake,
Only a woman's hair."

THE END.

"Stolen Waters."

There is an old proverb of which the above are the opening words. They are familiar to all, for they have their raison d'être, deep down in the nature of our common humanity, and [illegible] as true. Indeed this is the ultimate test of all truth, the acceptance of a statement [illegible]

It can hardly have failed to strike most of us [illegible]

"Stolen waters are sweet." Not waters, but stolen waters. There is a charm that we cannot define, but which is nevertheless there in "forbidden fruit." [illegible]

[illegible]

The Gymnasium at Athens.

I had heard much of the national institution, and was glad to get an opportunity to visit [illegible] We turned our steps toward the Lyceum [illegible]

[illegible]

A Night in the Sun Office.

THE SYSTEM THAT STRUCK AN OUTSIDE NEWSPAPER MAN AS VERY INTERESTING.

(From the Louisville Post.)

The Sun newspaper is a small affair in square inches, but every inch is an institution. The sheet is not as large as the Louisville Post, but a comparison of the paper on any day with either of its great New York contemporaries will prove that it contains every item of valuable current news, local, national, or foreign, and hardly a line of padding. Notwithstanding the condensation necessary to secure such results, the paper is written with singular clearness, and is deservedly noted for literary grace. And further, along with all the news, it finds room for pointed editorials—pebbles of hard English well flung—and as much of miscellaneous and interesting matter as any reasonable reader would care to have. In short, the Sun is the most complete newspaper in America, supplying everything in such a shape that everything can be read.

With such characteristics it is no wonder that it is the most widely read paper in New York, where nearly everybody is busy; and so long as it is conducted with the present liberality, energy, and care, its continued growth is assured; 127,000 copies are now sold daily, which is one paper to every ten people in New York city, a proportion that is likely to hold in the future, if, indeed, it is not improved with the increase of the proportion of busy people.

A majority of the newspaper men who are familiar with the Sun as an exchange, and who know of its great prosperity, have long ago resolved that, if they ever start a paper of their own, the Sun shall be their model. Many such attempts have been made and have failed. The Cincinnati Sun, a mechanical imitation, a perfect counterfeit, but too far off to read, was the most notable instance. The trouble with all such attempts was that the projectors did not know the New York Sun and its system. They imagined that by imitating its size and outward appearance they would save white paper and type setting and still make a bright and successful journal, when in fact the size of the Sun is fixed, not to save white paper and type setting, though it does that incidentally, but because it is the smallest size into which all the news can be put and still preserve a clear and pleasant shape. The Sun is really run on very expensive principles. The cost of its news, coming through men who are able to condense, is as great as that of any of the monster papers which employ diffuse, ill-paid writers, and meet their heaviest expense in telegraph bills, paper bills, and the wages of able-bodied compositors. The Sun pays as much for editors to cut out words and leave tangible facts and ideas as the blunderbuss papers pay for writers to coin sentences.

It is only after some study that one can realize what an enormous amount of news a great metropolitan paper must handle before it can be said to "have it all," and it is a matter of real wonder that a little paper like the Sun contrives to hold so much. It is a case of the learned man's small head; it is the result of a complete system carried out under able management, by the hard work of many bright minds. Just think of the materials that come to the office every day. Though the hundreds of men who gather the news know that their positions depend on their being as brief as is consistent with completeness, they still furnish, at a small estimate, more than ten times as much copy as can possibly be printed. The daily amount of reading matter averages about forty-two columns; it contains all of value of two hundred columns of copy sent in, from which it has to be extracted and set within the short space of eleven hours, the greater portion within half that time. I spent yesterday and last night in the Sun office to observe the process.

Outside of the editoral work of condensation, the capacity of the paper is enhanced by several mechanical devices. For instance: The type, while clear, is compact and small, being mostly nonpareil and agate; and the headlines, while nicely guaged to suggest the importance of the matter to follow, will be found on measurement, in any case, to occupy very small room. There are other ways in which the types are compressed, but I will proceed now to give an outline sketch of what I saw of the work of the editors and reporters.

Mr. Dana maintains the closest personal supervision of the whose establishment. In the editorial department, which comes personally from his hands, he is assisted by able writers. When he goes home, Mr. John Swinton is left in charge.

The city editor has immediate command of forty-two reporters, and his territory embraces New York and the surrounding cities, and a half day's journey into the country in any direction. All the reporters and many of the other writers come to the editoral rooms (a small suite for Mr. Dana and a large hall for all the rest) at 11 o'clock in the morning. Mr. Dana learns the plans of the others for the day, and makes his suggestions and gives his orders, writes a leader and a paragraph or two and assigns specified subjects to be discussed by members of his staff. Before he leaves he reads a revised proof of the chief editorials.

Distant correspondents are at liberty to send at first only a short message by telegraph, stating the character of the news they have and asking instructions, which are promptly returned to them by telegraph, unless the news comes late at night and is of great importance, when the matter if left to their discretion. The selection and control of correspondents is a vital matter in the Sun's system.

The city editor and his four assistants keep a very complete assignment book, in which are entered memoranda of every point that is likely to be worked on each day, entries being frequently made three months in advance. Besides this book, reporters are kept on duty constantly at the police headquarters in New York, Brooklyn, Jersey City, and neighbouring towns, and immediately on the receipt of a piece of news from any police station it is telephoned to the city editor. Using the book of assignments, the papers of the day, and any hints he may have had from other sources, the city editor directs each reporter as to what he must do, exercising his best care in selecting the men with reference to their peculiar talents for the particular style or kind of work he desires.

About 5 o'clock Mr. Dana steps from his desk to go home, first stopping to consult with Mr. Swinton and to leave with him a schedule of the editorial matter he wishes to have appear. A calculation is now made to determine how much space Mr. Dana has used, and then the managing and city editors make up their schedules. On a comparison of these it is generally found that each has been too liberal with himself, and both schedules have to be cut to leave a sufficient margin for the certain and probable news, local and telegraphic, that is to come. When the schedule matter is finally made up, it is given to the compositors, who are now all at work. Once on the printers' hooks the schedules, in their outline of space, not in their contents, are absolute. They represent all the paper will hold, and on the receipt of any unexpected matter, either the articles embraced in the schedules or the later news, or both, must suffer condensation or slaughter. It happens occasionally that, piece by piece, the whole of the schedule lists is set aside to make room for more important news, and sometimes a hundred columns of copy very late is reduced to two columns before it reaches the printers. A few weeks ago fifty columns of Washington matter was boiled down to one, and not an important fact was lost.

Before the conference as to the schedules, the city editor has received returns from most of the morning assignments, and has started many of the reporters on new errands. At 6 o'clock the night city editor arrives, who, assisted by the three other night editors, from this time forward directs the reporters and edits their copy, the managing editor keeping him informed as to the necessary condensation.

It matters not how great the rush of matter and the consequent condensation may have been, nor how much of type may have been set aside. The Sun forms are locked up at the stroke of a certain hour every morning, and at 3 o'clock the paper may be bought anywhere in New York city. This is an hour ahead of any other New York morning daily, and a second editon is rarely needed to maintain the Sun's reputation for having all the news.

It will be seen, I think, that while the Sun is extremely economical of space, and therefore of the time of its busy readers, and though it pays as seldom as possible for redundant words, it is exceedingly liberal in getting the absolute news. Ambitious newspaper men with small capital should not undertake to run a paper on the Sun's system, but such a paper is needed in all our large, busy cities, and the day is not far distant, probably, when the Sun will no longer stand unique and alone.

The cultured way to speak of a burlesque actress' dress is to say that the skirts are very decollete at the bottom.

A Russian Explorer in Thibet.

THE SUCCESSFUL PROGRESS OF THE INTREPID PREJEVALSKY AND HIS COMPANIONS.

(From the London Academy.)

Important news has just been received from Col. Prejevalsky, who, having finished his business at Sining-fu, at the end of March started for the Hwang-Ho, which he struck at the small valley of Gomi, the farthest inhabited district on the river. The Hwang-Ho, which there has a breadth of about 150 yards and a rapid current, at this point makes a sudden bend from northeast to east, flowing at an elevation of 8,000 feet between fairly well wooded banks. After spending ten days in the Gomi valley, the expedition proceeded up the river, but found its progress much impeded by ravines, running down to the river bank, which, from the precipitous nature of their sides, were crossed with difficulty.

In one of these vast crevasses, some eighty-seven miles beyond Gomi, there were forests abounding with birds, among which were numerous blue pheasants. Of these Col Prejevalsky secured several specimens for his collections. Rhubarb was also met with here in large quantities, and it was noted that the old roots were extraordinarily large. After crossing a number of the ravines and a sandy plain beside, the party arrived at the confluence of the Churmysh, there about a hundred yards broad. This proved to be the farthest limit to which they could push their explorations. For having no means of constructing a raft, they found it impossible to cross the Churmysh, and, had they been able to do so, Col. Prejevalsky, after careful and extended reconnoissance, reluctantly came to the conclusion that he would be unable to get his camels, mules, and horses over the huge mountain range which stretches along the course of the Hwang Ho. He therefore returned to the Gomi valley, from which, after a march of forty miles, he reached a place on the Hwang-Ho called in his letter Hui-de. Here he intended to spend part of July and August in natural history investigations, and then to go northward to Cheibsen to finish his former explorations there Col. Prejevalsky is of the opinion that the sources of the Hwang-Ho can only be reached through Thibetan territory. He expresses strong doubt whether the river makes such a decided curve in its upper course as has commonly been assigned to it by cartographers. He is able, however, to affirm positively that such a curved line does not exist in the 170 miles which he has lately explored. At the end of his letter he announces his intention of reaching Alashan about Sept. 1.

The Empress' New House.

SHE AND THE QUEEN TO BE NEIGHBOURS—WHY SHE REMAINS IN ENGLAND.

I hear that it was the Queen who prevailed upon the Empress Eugenie to give up her intention of going to Arenenberg and taking with her the mortal remains of the late Emperor and of the Prince Imperial. One of the chief reasons for leaving Chislehurst, but not the only one, was the impossibility of erecting a mausoleum there to those whom the Empress had loved and lost. The prime difficulty was getting a site. There is, it is true, to the westward of the little Church of St. Mary a field which would have done; but it is the property of a rich city firm, who, for some reason or another, would not, or could not, listen to any terms of purchase. It was then suggested that the Memorial Chapel might be built on the north side of the church, but here a difficulty of another kind arose. It is a superstition among the Roman Catholics of some countries that the sun never shines upon graves placed to the north of a church. The plan had, therefore, to be abandoned, and it was then that the Empress' solicitor bethought himself of Farnborough Hill, the estate of the late Mr. Longman. One of the great attractions of the place for the Empress is naturally its proximity to Windsor, of which it is within an easy drive. It is a cross between a French chateau and an English country house, picturesque and comfortable. The gardens are extensive, with graperies, fernery, greenhouse and orchidhouses. The ornamental grounds, which cover about eighty acres, have artificial lakes, with small, wooded islands. The estate comprises, besides, nine cottages and a farm, which is at present unlet—a hint to those who wish to have an Empress for the landlady. The Empress will take possession in the early part of next year, the tenancy of Camden House expiring in March. I hear the owner will not be sorry to return to his home again. When he let it to the fugitive Emperor ten years ago, he certainly did not think that he would have been kept out of it so long.

The Music of Ireland.

Moore, in his essay on the music of Ireland, says: "It has often been remarked and oftener felt, that our music is the truest of all comments upon our history. The tone of defiance, succeeded by the languor of despondency (a burst of turbulence dying away into softness) the sorrows of one moment lost in the levity of the next, and all that romantic mixture of mirth and sadness which is naturally produced by the efforts of a lively temperament to shake off or forget the wrongs which lie upon it. Such are the features and character, which we find strongly and faithfully reflected in our music; and there are many airs which I think it is difficult to listen to without recalling some period or event to which their expression seems peculiarly applicable. The plaintive melodies of Carolan take us back to the times in which he lived, when our poor countrymen were driven to worship their God in caves, or to quit for ever the land of their birth (like the bird that abandons the nest which human touch has violated); and in many a song do we hear the last farewell of the exile mingling regrets for the ties he leaves at home."

After all, those two men that at present lead the people of England, are though of very different types, tough and tried old fellows both. The world will very likely go crazy over this new novel of Beaconsfield's, and if Gladstone does not get in its pages a good many digs in the ribs, or wherever his tenderest parts are supposed to be, it will be a wonder. Ten thousand pounds for a novel,—fifty thousand dollars—and 20,000 copies sold before the book is published! Is that not something for a man of 75? And he'll be as biting and spiteful as ever, of course. What would the whole thing be worth, if it had neither the wormwood nor the gall? It will be fun if that man is again Prime Minister of England. But why not? He is the most magnificent charlatan that this century has produced, and, after all the average Englishman dearly loves fanfarade and cheap jewellery to say nothing of sounding periods, bitter invective and unadulterated Jingoism. It was not with Jingoism in itself, that they were disgusted and scandalized, but at Jingoism unsuccessful, with Jingoism in a peck of troubles, with Jingoism next door to being ridiculous, with, in short, Jingoism awfully expensive, and nothing, not even a poor little bit of glory and success to show, as a set off against all the treasure wasted and all the blood shed. But disgusts are soon got over, and the magnificent Cheap John is not long discredited. And so it may be, that the old stuff, near about octogenarian, may be the figure head of another ministry, and go off to Westminister Abbey, amid a shower of rockets, blue lights and Roman candles. So dear is humbug to the average human heart.

A STRANGE kitten was given a home, on the steamship Illinois, which was then in her dock in Philadelphia. When the steamer left Liverpool recently for home, it was found that the kitten had been left behind. The captain and sailors were much grieved, because they never expected to see her again. When the British Crown, the next steamer of the American line to sail from Liverpool, arrived in Philadelphia, the first passenger to creep ashore was pussy. With tail and mane erected she flew on board the Illinois, and began to race about the decks, showing in every way her dumb nature would allow the joy that was in her heart at getting back to her old home.

THE suit instituted to administer the property of the late Miss Adelaide Neilson, in the English Court of Chancery, will be heard this week. Legal questions as to the right of Miss Neilson to will away her property have arisen, and with a view to a final determination of the whole matter, it has been thought best to take the opinion of the Court. A very handsome monument will shortly be erected in memory of Miss Neilson in Brompton Cemetery, at a cost of £800.

To the truth of the saying that the size of the soul has nothing to do with the size of the body, no stronger testimony is needed than the small physical stature of such men as Holmes, Howells, Cable, Whipple, Aldrich, Stedman, and a host of others.

THIS drawback on tobacco must refer to pipe-smoking.

Our Man About Town.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

I never thought there was so much gossip going till I laid myself to gather it. But, bless your hearts, there are lots and lots of it that cannot be touched without the most unpleasant consequences following. With the greatest ease in the world I could saddle TRUTH with as many libel suits as ever Charlie Barr of the Lindsay Post rejoiced in, and that not from any malice or imagination, but simply by repeating

WHAT I HEAR AT STREET CORNERS, and what is often whispered at counting houses and at lunch tables. I should hope there are a good many lies going, and that a good deal of what is said is more from thoughtless love of news, than from any deliberate intention to hurt either character or credit. And yet the effect is the same. An uncomfortable feeling is excited. One gets into the idea that there is something wrong, though a shrug of the shoulder or a wink of the eye is about the whole, and what actionable matter is there in that? It is strange, besides, how speedily unpleasant news and suspicions get abroad. Now it is a man's pecuniary affairs, now his personal habits, now his domestic relations, now one thing, now another. But it is all as a usual thing on the shady side, all tending to make the object of remark less, to lower his position and disquiet his friends. You will hear that one man, who has been making a great ado, and filling quite a prominent place in the world of fashion or politics, or both, is in difficulties, whence the rumour came. No one can say. But there is very speedily seen method in the

MADNESS, IF NOT MALICE, IN THE STORY,

"Wants to sell his house?" "You don't say! That fine house he has so lately finished!" Just so. "Oh, I don't believe it. The story has nothing to stand upon!" "Why man alive the house is not even mortgaged!" "Isn't it? That is all you know." "Mortgaged? Aye, up to nearly full value. It would not bring more were the mortgage foreclosed to-day." "Oh! I thought so. It does not surprise me, not one bit." And so the thing goes on, and that which started with, "I shouldn't wonder if," ends with the most solemn assertion that such is the fact.

My! But won't things go lively when the Municipal elections come off? Politics are getting more and more into them, and both sides are equally guilty and equally hypocritical. The Globe always deprecates the introduction of politics into such contests, but some how or other it always discovers the superior merits of good sound Grits. The Mail is not a whit better. The great safeguard of the World and the Telegram is that they know little or nothing about the local men and their past histories, and can't manage to be partizan even though they were trying. They would like though, all the same.

JOHNNIE HALLAM HAD A LITTLE BLOW OFF

the other night at the Council against the coal tax, though how that lay in the way of these civic dignitaries except as citizens, it would be difficult to see or say. A gentleman of the name of Swan is out bright and early, and others will follow in due course, though, upon the whole, most of people are not anxious about the honour, except they have some axes to grind.

The Mayoralty is different; for to it there is its duties are not burdensome, and there is always coming up the opportunity of spreading one's self in speech or hospitality.

A VERY FAIR SALARY ATTACHED,

Wm.B.'s card is out, and it is grand. I am not sure that I make out the grounds upon which he bases his claim, but it is all written and every one can judge for himself. Some folks are saying that W. P. Howland, the late Lieut.-Governor, is going to be brought out. If so, a few will need to retire. He is not a great man is not Wm. P. But he is highly respectable, and in my estimation worth half a dozen of his son. If he come out I incline to the idea that he will win, though I would not be too sure, for he has his draw-backs, and these are easily laid hold of and made the most of. In any case he will be the strongest man with whom Mr. Manning will have to contend. I often wonder how I should do supposing the city should delegate all its enacting power to your humble servant. I have no doubt I should choose the best man, but there would be a puzzle sometimes about how he was to be found out. The fact is things are not very pleasant municipally with Toronto, but the difficulty is about making them better. Again and again in days gone by, new blood was thought indispensable, new blood was tried and it did make much difference. Everybody remembers what was expected when and others got into the Council. Things were to be all serene and affairs were to be managed in quite a tip-top fashion. Was there really such an awful difference? Scarcely, and even during the present year has the tone very much improved? Perhaps some, but it could stand a good deal of improvement yet. My own notion would be to get Mr. Goldwin Smith into the Council. He would do first rate, and if he was made mayor that would be all the better. What a blow in the face that would be to Gordon Brown, if his great bete noire, in spite of all his annexation views, were to be chosen chief official of the Queen City! It would be enough to make every Grit stone in the corporation rise and mutiny! If Goldwin would but "think on" to it, it might be managed. Then from the Council after, he had put it all right and superintended it for a year or so to see how it worked, he could go into the local parliament to coach Crooks, mentor, (if one might venture on a carriage) Mowat, and win Wood to better and more economical ways. After that, he could go to Ottawa, and repeat the operation there. It would be fine. I shall take an early opportunity of suggesting the course to Mr. Smith personally, and I have no doubt it can be managed.

WILLIE THOMSON AND JOHN TURNER AND WARRING KENNEDY

The hard weather has brought out the curlers and skaters. The new granite rink is something "immense," and it is having distinguished patronage. The Mutual will be sure to suffer.

IT IS NOT 'TONEY' ENOUGH.

Besides, it is an undoubted fact that discipline and good behaviour are not what they ought to be there. Our rinks should be so conducted that ladies both old and young could frequent them with the greatest confidence. As things stand they can't do this There is far too much coarse horse play and crowding and unnecessary jostling. It may be very jolly for vulgar half-growns or whole grown lads, but it does not pay, for it draws away the very persons it is all important to retain. A skating rink ought to have as good and as gentlemanly behaviour as a drawing-room, and if the Granite can secure this, it will be a success. I hear of quite a number going in for ice sports this winter, staid men of business, and even those reckoned firmly pious. Why not? A man might both read his bible and pray all the better after an hour or two at the stones, if betting and whiskey were strictly tabooed.

By the way what does the

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY DO WITH ALL THE CHAPLAINS?

Think of four to keep these drouthy church Scots in order. They must need a good deal of looking after and no mistake. What about the whiskey at their meetings? Is it the duty of the Chaplains to taste and testify that it is good? O course the meetings of good true Scots without the "mountain dew" is not to be thought of. Would it not be nice to count up all the cost of these "refreshments" and give it to the poor in addition to the other benefaction? It is an awfully fine thing however, to get credit for benevolence and patriotism, and have a regularly good jollification at the same time. I know right well who says,

"Freedom and whisky gang the gither, Tak aff yer dram."

And I would be sorry to do anything to induce Scotchmen to stop their drinking, when I am so well aware as I am, of the extent of their drouth. And whole on a tass o' whiskey! Oh it's fine! Nothing can be done without the liquor, and everybody knows, that to drink moderately, is far more meritorious than to abstain steady! Scotchmen all, obey your pastors and masters, and time your drinking so that you may get all you want, and yet go home, if not as sober as judges, yet, quite able to follow in the footsteps of divines.

FOUR CHAPLAINS TO ASK A BLESSING

Stimulated to enterprise by the energy of the Telegram and its graphic descriptions, I went to see the lady superintendent of the Haven. I tell you, it is a mighty ticklish business to go to such places. But I went, and found that Jack's agent had upon the whole been faithful. There must be in Toronto, but surely it can't be true, that some who fuss about religion, taking up coppers of a Sunday, and even speaking at "meeting," are rather "rummy" [illegible] may though, for woman nature is a [illegible] mixture. If I were the lady [illegible] such places, I would keep a ledger of [illegible] and histories, and, by all that is holy, I [illegible] make it pretty hot for those [illegible] scamps, whether they play pious or [illegible] verse. It is perfectly awful. But [illegible] again.

SOME AWFUL "RIPS" AMONG THE BETTER CLASSES

WHY ARE GIRLS SUCH FOOLS?

Oh poor things, many of them have only a chance. And a raw ignorant [illegible] is easily led away by the plausible [illegible] es of those in higher stations who flatter by talking of love, when they mean [illegible] less. Is it always to be thus? [illegible] weak always to be pushed to the wall on the side of the oppressor and [illegible] there always to be power? It would [illegible] so, at least such is the case at [illegible] Toronto, though I don't believe things a bit worse here than in country [illegible] The high toned sinners with their [illegible] tions of benevolence and propriety! [illegible] long to crucify some of them, and I [illegible] I shall some of these days, if they [illegible] turn over a new leaf and be to [illegible] what they are anxious to have it [illegible] they are.

There now! A whole column, [illegible] word about Sara, or on the stage, [illegible] admirable school for morals and [illegible] ing! So it is, as true as that I am

JACOB FAITH[illegible]

ALL SORTS.

I saw some cateup on a string,
A fence rail at a shed,
A man who shot upon the wing,
A hat stand on its head.

A Practical Question

Darkly the humorist
Muses on fate;
Ghastly experiment
Life seems to him,
Subject for merriment
Sombre and grim;
Is it his doom or is it
Something he ate?

The William Goat

Mary had a William goat,
And he was black as jet;
He followed Mary round all day,
And liked her! you ju[illegible]

He went with her to school one day,
The teacher kicked him out;
It made the children grin, [illegible]
To have the goat about.

But though old Whackem kicked him,
Yet still he lingered near;
He waited just outside the door
Till Whackem did appear.

Then William ran to meet the [illegible]
He ran his level best;
And met him just behind, you [illegible]
Down just below the vest.

Old Whacken turned a somersault,
The goat stood on his head,
And Mary laughed herself so sick
She had to go to bed.

Poker.

To draw, or not to draw, that is the question.
Whether 'tis safer in the player to [illegible]
The awful risk of skinning for a straight,
Or, standing pat, to raise 'em all the [illegible]
And thus, by building, get it. To draw, to skin:
No more—and by that skin to get a full,
Or two pair, or the fattest bounce [illegible]
That luck is heir to—'tis a consummation
Devoutly to be wished. To draw, [illegible]
To skin! perchance to bust—aye, there's the rub!
For in that draw of three what cards may come
When we have shuffled off the [illegible] pack,
Must give us pause. There's the respect
Which makes calamity of bob-tailed [illegible]
For who would bear the overwhelming [illegible]
The reckless straddle, the weight on the [illegible]
The insolence of pat hands, and the [illegible]
That patient merit of the bluff takes,
When he himself might be much better
By simply passing? What would [illegible] hold,
And go out on a small progressive raise
But that the dread of something after,
The undiscovered ace full, to whose [illegible]
Such hands must bow, puzzles the [illegible]
And makes us rather keep the chips [illegible]
Than be curious about hands we know [illegible]
Thus bluffing doth make cowards [illegible]
And thus the native hue of a four-[illegible]
Is sickened with some dark and [illegible]
And speculators in a jack-pot [illegible]
With this regard, their interest [illegible]
And lose the right to open.

AN arms house—the arsenal.

THE Widow Olive has adjourned.

IT is a poor speller who does not [illegible] to business.

THE man who missed his fo[illegible] had his boots stolen.

MRS. LANGTRY is so beautiful that [illegible] more than head and shoulders [illegible] adornments of dress.

TRADERS interested in the tariff [illegible] are reminded that the duty on coal [illegible] full weight to the ton.

IT'S probably true that the church [illegible] pew-rest place on earth, since so [illegible] the congregation sleep.

EVERY maiden can have a feller if [illegible] money enough to buy a sewing-m[illegible] with all the modern attachments.

"THERE is no place like home," [illegible] Mr. Henpeck, looking at a motto, [illegible] heartily added: "I'm glad there isn't."

THE ancient maiden who defers her [illegible] sition of marriage much longer will [illegible] Mr. chances for this leap year.

I HAVE no knowledge of monetary [illegible] save in the abstract, as the thief [illegible] while depleting the money-drawer.

OLD Lady (to modest Curate)—"[illegible] I do not like to 'ear you preach ext[illegible] Your language is that won'erful [illegible]

THE Dean of Carlisle is about to [illegible] the widow of the late David Ho[illegible] Liverpool. The dean is eighty-th[illegible] old.

WOMEN don't take to telegraph[illegible] much. Lots of dispatches have to [illegible] on manifold, and the sex don't care [illegible] if old.

If a madman bitten be
By a bittern bitterly,
Better had that bittern bee[illegible]
Bitten than the man, I ween

SARAH BERNHARDT'S first wor[illegible] landing in America were: "If Hen[illegible] Beecher or Roscoe Conkling [illegible] I'll scream."

A DULL old lady, being told that a lawyer was lying at the point of de[illegible] claimed: "My gracious! won't eve[illegible] stop that man's lying?"

TIME, 2 a. m.: "My dear," said [illegible] all right. I've been down getting [illegible] turns. There's no use raisin' a row. [illegible] my fault. What you want'[illegible] turns?"

AT Bullong—Mr. Belleville (who [illegible] air his French before his friends). "[illegible] Parfume du—er—du Jockey club" [illegible] Perfumer—"O yes, sare! We ha[illegible] English smells"

A CHILD of 5 was being taken to [illegible] in a close carriage, and while passing [illegible] a plantation he suddenly exclaimed [illegible] great satisfaction: "Look! look! [illegible] out to tea; but all the trees are home!"

THE richest men in Germany [illegible] Rothschilds of Frankfort, Krupp of [illegible] and Bleichbloder of Berlin: the [illegible] mark is also reckoned among the [illegible] aires. The number of Prussian mil[illegible] is only 1,195.

SPEAKING of Mr. Forbes' lecture [illegible] I Have Met," a western newsp[illegible] says some day he will come across three [illegible] and a pair of sevens, and then he w[illegible] something about the really great [illegible] of this country.

KING LUDWIG, of Bavaria, who [illegible] sits and makes his ministers stand, wakes his old chamberlain at 3 o'clock [illegible] morning to play billards, and if he [illegible] yawn he is soon made to feel the [illegible] the royal displeasure.

"MY case is just here," said a citizen [illegible] lawyer the other day, "the plaintiff [illegible] swear that I hit him. I will swear [illegible] did not. Now what can your lawyer [illegible] out of that if we go to trial?" [illegible] dollars apiece," was the prompt reply.

THE other day a mild little man, [illegible] invalid wife and seven children, won [illegible] black bear at a raffle in Memphis. [illegible] bear was raffled off because it ate up [illegible] owner, and the little man who [illegible] lucky throw is just wild to know wh[illegible]

[illegible] Standard IS PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING in time to meet the early mails. [illegible] the latest Foreign and Provincial [illegible] Local Intelligence, County Business [illegible] Commercial Matters and an Instructive [illegible] any.

[illegible] in advance, $1.50 in three months. [illegible] not paid till end of the year. No pa[illegible] discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher. [illegible] parties refusing papers without paying [illegible] be held responsible for the subscrip[illegible] until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

One column, one year	....	$50 0[illegible]
Half do	do	27 0[illegible]
Quarter do	do	15 0[illegible]
Eight do	do	8 0[illegible]
Cards [illegible] under, first insertion		4 0[illegible]
Six [illegible] subsequent insertion		5[illegible]
[illegible] to ten lines, first insertion		1[illegible]
[illegible] subsequent insertion		7[illegible]
[illegible] ten lines, first insertion per line		2[illegible]
Each subsequent insertion

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid brevier. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 11 o'clock on the Thursday preceding their publication.

[illegible] W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
Physicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs, &c.
OFFICE—Medical Hall; residence [illegible] Markdale House.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR, EUGENIA P. O.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
Barrister at Law, - Owen Sound
OFFICE.—Millers's building, over [illegible] sen's store, Poulet Street.

Frost & Frost.
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS [illegible] Law, Solicitors in Chancery, [illegible] ancers, &c., Owen Sound, have [illegible] Flesherton, Office open every Th[illegible] heretofore.
ALFRED FROST. J. W. FR[illegible]
County Crown Attorney.

James Masson.
BARRISTER and ATTORNEY AT LAW, Master in Chancery, Owen S[illegible]
Sept. 17, 1880.

James Lamon.
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR [illegible] Chancery, Notary Public, &c. Money loaned at lowest rates on [illegible] real estate. Land bought and [illegible] buyer and seller introduced [illegible] ion.
DUNDALK
September 21st, 1880.

Conveyancers & Land Agents

Wm. Brown.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancing in all its branches attended to and carefully executed. N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate [illegible] rity.
Markdale. Sept. 17, 1880.

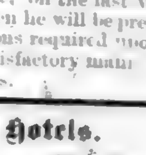
W. L. Smith.
GENERAL AGENT AND DEALER [illegible] Nursery Stock, William-ford Stat[illegible]
Sept. 17, 1880.

Alexander Brown.
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, [illegible] Life Insurance Agent, Commis[illegible] B. R. &c. Conveyancer and La[illegible] ctioner for the County of Grey [illegible] rchants, and Land Sales, [illegible] nded to and charges mod[illegible]
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880.

George Corbet, Jr.
LAND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, Owen Sound. Money to Loan at [illegible] es of interest. Principal payable at [illegible] d of a term of years, and interest half [illegible] or yearly, or principal and interest [illegible] e in instalments.
[illegible] A number of desirable Impr[illegible] sale.

J. G. Sing.
DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draught-man and V[illegible] [illegible] ford and Markdale. Having [illegible] Provincial Land Surveyor Charle[illegible] tire stock of original Field Notes [illegible] ports, Instructions, &c., of all [illegible] ne within the last fifty [illegible] years, [illegible] pared to make Surveys [illegible] e therewith. Profiles and Estim[illegible] Grading Hills, Plans and Spe[illegible] Building Bridges, furnished on app[illegible] Money to Loan at [illegible] per cent inter[illegible] by letter or left with [illegible] BLYT[illegible] [illegible] dale, will be promptly attended to.
Sept. 17, 1880. 1

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White.
Assistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen S[illegible]
WILL BE AT THE REVERE H[illegible] Markdale, on the last Wed[illegible] h month, when he will be prepared [illegible] all operations required upon the [illegible] the most satisfactory mann[illegible] sonable terms.

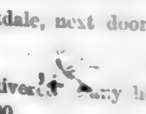
Hotels.

MANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
Having leased the above hotel and th[illegible] ghly refurnished and refitted it, the [illegible] ng public will find every accommodation. Only the best of liquors and [illegible] od stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor
Sept. 17, 1880.

ROYAL HOTEL
MEAFORD, Ont
& J. McGIRR, [illegible]
Every accommodation [illegible] blic. The bar [illegible] oicest Wines and L[illegible] ands of Cigars. Free 'bus to and from all [illegible]
Sept. 17, 1880.

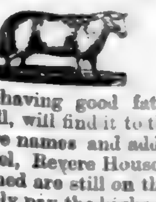
COMMERCIAL HOTEL
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample [illegible] od Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and [illegible] l supplied with the best the ma[illegible] ls; good Stabling and attentive Host[illegible]
THOS. ATKINSON, Propri[illegible]
October 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSON,



BUTCHER
[illegible] St., Markdale, next door to Expo[illegible]
Meat delivered to any house in to[illegible]
Sept. 17, 1880.

Sheep and Cattle



FARMERS having good fat Sheep [illegible] to sell, will find it to their adv[illegible] to leave there names and address at [illegible] Hotel, Revere House, Markd[illegible] undersigned are still on the war p[illegible] positively pay the highest prices [illegible]
C. W. & A. SPEE[illegible]
[illegible] th, 1880.

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 14. MARKDALE, ONT, FRIDAY, DECEMBER 17, 1880. WHOLE NO 4

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

[EV]ERY FRIDAY MORNING

In time to meet the early mails.

[C]ontains the latest Foreign and Provincial [New]s, Local Intelligence, County Business, [Com]mercial Matters and an Instructive [Misc]ellany.

[$1] 25 in advance, $1 50 in three months, [if] not paid till end of the year. No pa[per] discontinued until all arrearages are [paid], except at the option of the publisher, [and] parties refusing papers without paying [the sub]scription will be held responsible for the subscrip[tion] until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

[One] column, one year		$50 00
[Half] do	do	27 00
[Quar]ter do	do	15 00
[Eigh]t do	do	8 00
	do	4 00
[Six li]nes and under, first insertion		50
[Each] subsequent insertion		15
[Seve]n to ten lines, first insertion		75
Each subsequent insertion		25
[Over] ten lines, first insertion per line		8
Each subsequent insertion		2

[T]he number of lines to be reckoned by [the s]pace occupied measured by a scale of [soli]d brevier. Advertisements without [spec]ific directions will be published till for[bid a]nd charged accordingly. All transitory [adver]tisements must be in the office of pub[lication] by 11 o'clock on the Thursday preceding their publication.

[J]. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[P]ROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
[Phy]sicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
[O]FFICE—Medical Hall; residence at [...] House.
[Mar]kdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
[PH]YSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[EUR], [...] EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
[Ba]rrister at Law, - Owen Sound.
[O]FFICE.—Miller's building, over Robin[son's] Store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost.
[B]ARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT [LAW], Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[ancers], &c. Owen Sound, have resumed at [Mark]dale, Office open every Thursday, as [be]fore.
[...] FROST. J. W. FROST, LL. B. [Cou]nty Crown Attorney. 1-

James Masson,
[BA]RRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, [...] Master in Chancery, Owen Sound.
[Sep]t. 17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,
[A]TTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN Chancery, Notary Public, &c.
[Mo]ney loaned at lowest rates on personal [or r]eal estate. Lands bought and sold. [Buyer] and seller introduced free of commis[sion].
DUNDALK.
[Sep]tember 21st, 1880. 1

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,
[IS]SUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., Commissioner in B. R. &c.
[Co]nveyancing in all its branches promptly [atten]ded to and carefully executed.
[N.] B. Money to Lend on Real Estate se[curity].
[Mar]kdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

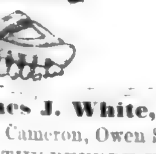
W. L. Smith,
[GE]NERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN Nursey Stock, Williamsford Station.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,
[IS]SUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [Life] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [in B.] R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [Auct]ioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [...]ants, and Land Sales, Punctually at[tended] to and charges made very moderate.
[...]ville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,
[LA]ND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, [O]wen Sound. Money to Loan at low [rates] of interest. Principal payable at the [end of] a term of years, and interest half year[ly or y]early, or principal and interest repay[able i]n instalments.
A number of desirable Improved Farms [for sale]. 1-y

J. G. Sing,
[D]OMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, [Dun]dalk and Markdale. Having purchased [from the l]ocal Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [entire] stock of original Field Notes, Plans, [Diaries], Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [made w]ithin the last fifty-five years, I am [prepare]d to make Surveys in strict accord[ance t]herewith. Profiles and Estimates [for gra]ding Hills, Plans and Specifications [for bu]ilding Bridges, furnished on applica[tion]. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [Orders] by letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [Markda]le, will be promptly attended to.
[Sept]. 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White,
[As]sistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound; [W]ILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in [each m]onth, when he will be prepared to per[form a]ll operations required upon the mouth [in the] most satisfactory manner, and upon [reason]able terms. 1-y

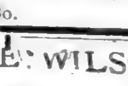
Hotels.

[M]ANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
[Hav]ing leased the above hotel and thor[ough]ly refurnished and refitted it, the trav[elling] public will find every accommodation. [Only] the best of liquors and cigars kept. [Good s]tabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
[Sept]. 17, 1880. 1-y

[R]OYAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.
[...] McGIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.
[Ever]y accommodation for the travelling [public]. The bar is well stocked with the [bes]t Wines and Liquors and the best [brands] of Cigars.
[Free] bus to and from all trains.
[Sept]. 17, 1880. 1-y

[CO]MMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
[Large] and commodious Sample Rooms: Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [are su]pplied with the best the market af[fords]. Good Stabling and attentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
[...] 31st, 1880. 8

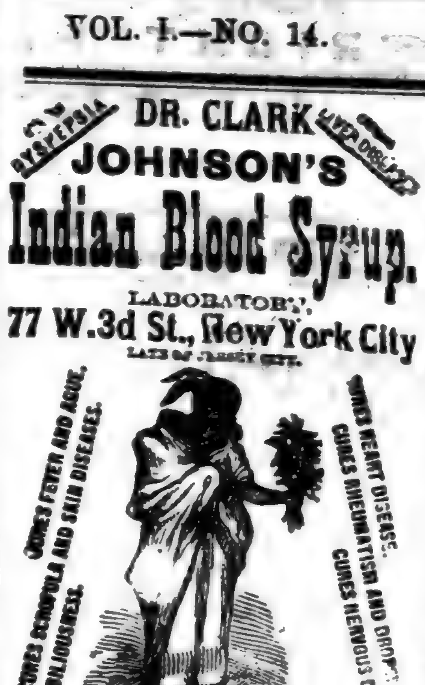
[GEO]RGE WILSON,



[B]UTCHER
[...], Markdale, next door to Expositor [...]
[M]eat delivered to any house in town.
[Sept]. 17, 1880. 1-y

[Sh]eep and Cattle.

[FAR]MERS having good fat Sheep or [Cat]tle to sell, will find it to their advan[tage to l]eave there names and address at Mo[...]n's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, [as the u]ndersigned are still on the war path, [and will] positively pay the highest prices.
[...] 17th, 1880. C. W. & A. SPEER S. 1-y



CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever, Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, &c.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9,000,000 Bottles

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Ptyaline in the saliva which converts the starch and sugar of food into glucose. A deficiency in Ptyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES,
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES,

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of [...]

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed any physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest,
Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me.

MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves.

NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy.

MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial.

W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

THERE have been several serious railroad accidents in Germany lately. It is estimated that since the Government has been running the railroads it has, for economy, so reduced the staff that the employees cannot exercise the needful supervision under the new regime. Switchmen get from 37 to 43 cents a day.

A BOOK on "Domestic Economy" has been published which costs nine dollars.

She Came out Ahead.

The court and jury, as well as the spectators, generally enjoy the scene when a lawyer, in an attempt to badger or browbeat a witness, comes off second best in the encounter. An amusing instance of this sort happened a few years ago in an Albany court room. The plaintiff, who was a lady, was called to testify. She got on very well, and made a favourable impression upon the jury under the guidance of her counsel, Hon. Lyman Tremaine, until the opposing counsel, Hon. Henry Smith, subjected her to a sharp cross-examination. This so confused her that she became faint, and fell to the floor in a swoon. Of course this excited general sympathy in the audience, and Mr. Smith saw that his case looked badly. An expedient suggested itself by which to make the swooning appear like a piece of stage trickery, and thus destroy sympathy for her. The lady's face in swooning had turned purple-red, and this fact suggested the new line of attack. The next witness was a middle-aged lady. The counsel asked: "Did you see the plaintiff faint a short time ago?" "Yes, sir." "People turn pale when they faint, don't they?" A great sensation in the court, and an evident confusion of witness. But in a moment she answered, "No, not always." "Did you ever hear of a case of fainting where the party did not turn pale?" "Yes, sir." "Did you ever see such a case?" "Yes, sir." "When?" "About a year ago." "Where was it?" "In this city." "Who was it?" By this time the excitement was so intense that everybody listened anxiously for the reply. It came promptly, with a twinkle in the witness's eye, and a quiver on her lip, as if from suppressed humour. "'Twas a negro, sir." Peal after peal of laughter shook the courtroom, in which the venerable judge joined. Mr. Smith lost his case, not to say his temper.

PROMINENT FOLKS.

THE Prince of Orange, like his brother "Citron," makes Paris his headquarters.

THE Duke of Portland is so pleased with Lord Bute's beaver colonies that he is going to establish several on his estates.

THE Queen has given Lady Mountmorres, whose husband was shot by his tenantry in Ireland, a suite of apartments in the Hampton Court Palace.

LORD ODO RUSSELL, English Ambassador at Berlin, and Lord Dufferin, Ambassador at St. Petersburg, lately visited Mr. Gladstone at Hawarden Castle.

IT is said that the reading of Uncle Tom's Cabin fired the heart of the Emperor of Russia with the resolve to destroy slavery and serfdom in his empire.

THE Duke of Buccleuch, whose son was defeated by Mr. Gladstone, has closed his collieries, which throws many persons at Dalkeith out of work.

THE King of Portugal has sent copies of his translation of Shakespeare to several Mayors of cities in Spain and Italy. Each volume bears the royal autograph of Ferdinand.

M. DE LA LONDE is acting in conjunction with Sir John Macdonald in relation to the settlement of immigrants from Alsace and Lorraine upon a tract of land in the northwest of the Canadian Dominion.

BARON ROTHSCHILD, the head of the French branch of the family, is usually at the bank before his clerks are. His wife wears but little jewelry, and his daughter Bettina has passed a successful examination as a teacher.

"Music Hath Charms."

The tenor Duchesne was the hero of an interesting incident during the fighting of Chateaudun, the anniversary of the defence of which place has just been celebrated. It was 10 o'clock at night; the Paris Franc-tireurs, who had been fighting all day against odds of twenty to one, were retreating. The Prussians were masters of the town, which was lighted up by the burning houses. Eleven wounded Franc-tireurs, abandoned in the Hotel de Ville, had fallen into the hands of the enemy, and were in danger of being executed. Among them was Duchesne, the lyric artist. They were all searched and their papers examined carefully by a Prussian captain, who, in looking through Duchesne's portfolio, came across a paper containing the names of a number of operas. "What is this?" he asked. "It is the list of the operas I sing." Among others was the name of Weber's great work. "Ah," returned the captain, who was a musician, "You are an opera singer, and have sung in 'Der Freischutz.' Where was that?" "In Paris, at the Theatre Lyrique." "Then I must have heard you. You sang with one of our country-women, Mlle Schroeder, did you not?" "That is so." The captain appeared to reflect; He drew Duchesne aside, and then, while passing through a dark street, said, "Run for your life." Duchesne did not wait to be told a second time; although wounded, he was not disabled, and succeeded in escaping from the town during the night, and was thus enabled to create the part of Romeo to Mme. Carvalho's Juliette in Gounod's work, at the Paris Opera Comique.

A Semi-Famine in Russia.

A condition of affairs similar to that which existed in Ireland last winter exists in Russia at the present day. Bad weather, joined with the peculiar methods of cultivating the ground that holds in Russia, has resulted in the almost entire failing of the crops. The disaster to the crops is confined not to one portion of the country alone, but widely separated provinces report an alarming falling off in the yield of the cereals. The cost of rye and wheat has greatly increased, while the wages of the laboring classes are very poor. The requirements of a Russian peasant family in the way of cheap bread almost equal their earnings, and the sum left for clothing and other necessary expenses is very small—this in times of plenty. But in the present condition of affairs the people will suffer great privation. The Russian Government has contracted for a large quantity of American grain, and this will be used in relieving the distress of the people in the suffering districts. The granting of assistance by the government will stay the famine for the present, but a radical reform in the method of land cultivation is needed to place the Russian peasantry beyond the danger that exists in the present method.

What is all this about the Queen and the Princess Louise? Whether is it the mother who has "cut" the daughter or vice versa? There is some trouble apparently, but really after all, who cares? The best thing they can do, whatever the outs and ins of it, is to "kiss and be friends."

Ireland is still in an awful mess, but the brag and the bluster will come to nothing. Gladstone and his associates are very considerate, very anxious to do right and to hold the balances fairly. But it will be seen, before the world is very much older, that they can lay the heavy hand of force upon those who bluster and swear and assassinate and won't listen to reason.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 72,

Uxbridge, Ont.

8

WOMAN GOSSIP.

On a Certain Girl.

Her eyes are very dark and bright,
And ever is her face arrayed in Sweet smiles, electrically light,
This most bewitching maiden.

Search all the world of fashion o'er,
Its rarest devotee displayed in
Her silks and laces is not more
Delightful than this maiden.

I always chose her from the ring
That in our childish joy we played in,
She was my queen, and I her king,
This royal little maiden.

When in the village church she prays
(Oh, dearest church e'er mortal prayed in),
A dainty little prayer she says
For me, this gentle maiden.

If I were dead, and in as deep
A grave as man was ever laid in,
Her voice would make me upward leap,
So potent is this maiden!

Fashion Notes.

BEADED bonnet crowns are all the rage.

LEOPARD sets are worn by young ladies.

SEALSKIN sacques remain the popular fur wrap.

OLD-FASHIONED mink-tail sacques are revived.

PLUSH flowers grow more and more popular.

FUR collars and capes have taken the place of boas.

WHITE toilets are in best taste for evening dress.

RUSSIAN and Lapland furs are to be worn this winter.

SILVER and blue fox are among the favourite fancy furs.

HEAVY satin de Lyon is the best material for a fur-lined circular.

BEAD passementeries are the handsomest trimmings of the season.

GOLDEN fawn and the new pigeon-dov colours are favourites in Paris.

A HANDSOME "millinery set" consists of a bonnet and muff to match.

HUNGARIAN plush is the name given to that with the longest, richest pile.

LONG gloves, reaching above the elbow, are de rigeuer, with short sleeves.

REGAL dress fabrics, fit for a princess, are displayed by our leading importers.

BLACK fox and black Russian hare pelerines and collars are worn in mourning.

BROCADED velvet cloaks, lined with coloured plush, are very elegant and stylish.

THE princess sacque form, for children's dresses, remains the preferred style.

THE Olga is a pretty new muff of plush or silk or satin, with reticule attachment.

THE fashionable sealskin sacque is shorter by two inches all around than that of last year.

LARGE fur pelerines, covering the shoulders and reaching almost to the waist, have been revived.

GRECIAN lynx and Arica chinchilla remain the fashionable furs for young ladies and misses in their teens.

THE Albani is a long cloak with dolman sleeves, set in far back, so as to give a narrow effect in the back.

THE latest thing in after-dinner coffee-cups are square in shape, with square saucers, exquisitely hand-painted on dainty French porcelain.

LIGHT-COLOURED, rough-surfaced cloths make handsome jackets when finished with cuffs, collar, and pockets of fur or of seal-brown plush.

Beauty in Dress.

Mr. Haweis, in a volume entitled, "The Art of Beauty," makes the following points with regard to beauty of dress:

"The reason that an ordinary low neck with short sleeves looks worse in black than in any other color is because the hard line round the bust and arms is too great a contrast to the skin. A low neck always lessens the height, and a dark dress made thus lessens it still more, and it strikes the artistic eye as cutting the body in pieces, in this way; if you see a fair person dressed in a low dark dress standing against a light background some way off, the effect will be that of an empty dress hung up, the face, neck, and arms being scarcely discernible. On the other hand, against a dark background the head and bust will be thrown up sharply, and the whole dress and body will disappear. The effect, common enough, is execrably bad. If you must wear a low black bodice, let it be cut square, giving the height of the shoulders, (or, better, with the right angles rounded, for corners are very trying), and have plenty of white or pale gauze or thin black net to soften the harsh line between the skin and the dress. White gauze or lace soften down the blackness of the dress at the edge of the bodice, and thin black stuff has an equally good effect, as it shades the whiteness of the skin into the dark color of the gown. Only under these conditions does the sudden contrast enhance, as some persons suppose, the fairness of the complexion.

"Short women should never wear double skirts or tunics—they decrease the height so much—unless, indeed, the tunic is very short and the skirt very long. So also do large, sprawling patterns used for trimmings; let these be left to women tall enough to carry them off. Neither let a very little woman wear her hair half down her back; let her lift it clean up as high as possible.

"Large feet should never be cased in kid—least of all white kid slippers—for kid reveals so clearly the form and movements of the feet, and stretches so easily that few feet have a chance in them.

"Those who are very stout should wear nothing but black; those who are very thin should put a little padding in their gowns; and neither should be in the least decollete. Perpendicular stripes in dresses give height and increase fullness, and are therefore particularly suited to very slight, small people, and particularly unfitted for stout figures."

Waifs.

THE friendship of two women is never anything but a plot against a third.

WOMEN in general know that when a man pleads his passions eloquently, he is only half in love.

A LITTLE girl who was much petted said: "I like sitting on gentleman's knees better than on ladies'! don't you, ma?"

"Now, how many years would you give me, sir?" "Why should I give you any, madame? Have you not enough already?"

AN old woman confessed that when she was young she had many lovers. "Ah," she said, "the sweet girls I knew in those days!"

"RESPECT my honor or tremble for your life," she said. He thought of her husband and he ran away. "And there goes," she murmured, "a coward who is afraid of death."

"What a church, and how everybody stares at one!" said a handsome girl at a ball. "Do not complain," replied Mme. de G., "for all that proves that you are what I am no longer."

WHEN two men fight a duel about a woman there is almost always, somewhere, a third man, who laughs heartily at them, and while risking nothing, gains, perhaps, everything.

CLOAKS with extremely costly linings will not be worn this season. It is found that the wearers suffer from the cold too much, as the garments will fly open and expose the lining.

"MY darling," he intensely whispers, vainly attempting to seize her hand, "do you know that I love you madly?" "Oh, yes," she says; "almost any fool could tell me that."

A LADY was praising the amiability of her friend's husband, and asked how in the world she had ever brought him to such perfection, whereupon the friend sweetly answered that she did it chiefly with a croquet mallet. The hatchet was borrowed.

A LADY having learned that her husband was in the habit of visiting Mlle. D. called upon that actress and said, with freezing dignity: "Mademoiselle, you should not have trouble for nothing. Here are five francs for the visit my husband made you this morning." "Madame," replied the sprightly soubrette, "give me ten, for he is coming back this evening."

ONE of the latest freaks of fashion in Paris is to have one's coat of arms—provided a lady has one—painted on her bonnet and strings. If she does not possess such a treasure, she should have her bonnet ornamented with flowers and butterflies and tiny humming-birds painted by the "best artists."

HE was saying, as he scratched a lucifer on the side of a house, "I like these houses with sanded paint; nice when you want to strike a match, you know." "Is that so?" she asked demurely. "I wish I lived in a house with sanded paint;" and then she looked things unutterable. If he had asked "What for?" she would have hated him. But he didn't; he took the hint, and the match was struck then and there.

HE had refused her a new bonnet that day, and they were sitting at opposite ends of the tea table as stiff and silent as the mahogany itself. Their sole offspring, perceiving that something is wrong, and anxious to smooth the way to reconciliation by opening a conversation, asks: "Mamma, do dogs go to heaven?" She sees her chance, and, without raising her head, observes: "I'm sure they ought to, my child—they have none of your father's vices."

What it Costs to be a Bridesmaid.

It is no trifling expense to be a bridesmaid at a fashionable wedding. Lately a lady hearing another ask her daughter if she was to be an attendant at a certain wedding, promptly answered 'No; I am tired of paying at least a $100 for the dress she wears whenever she is a bridesmaid. She has bought dresses for that purpose seven times, and that is enough.' Of course a handsome present is always given by a bridesmaid to the bride, which adds considerably to the cost of her attendance on her friend. The 'best man' at some weddings is forced to pay over a good round sum for bouquets for the bridesmaids. I know of one instance where a young gentleman, who could ill afford it, was told that he would be expected to present each of twelve bridesmaids with a bouquet of rosebuds. There were no groomsmen at that wedding, and only six ushers, so the unfortunate best man, after he had accepted the post, was coolly told that he would be required to provide the round dozen of bouquets.

The Bernhardt Elbow-Angle.

Sings and writes a New York correspondent:

The Grecian bend has quite gone out,
The Roman fall as well.

But I will tell you what is coming in next It is the Sarah Bernhardt elbow angle. It was observed, Saturday night, in its full perfection at the Bernhardt reception, and then and there many ladies were seen to make an essay at it. The arms are braced backward and crooked like the wings of the trussed fowl. They project so far behind the back that a mop-handle might be run through them without in the least disturbing the action of the fan, which gives little gusts of air that may refresh the under chin, but cannot be of much avail higher up. As a military pose the Bernhardt elbow-angle would meet the approval of the authorities at West Point, while hygienists, who are always insisting that we should throw our shoulders back, must be delighted with it, for the shoulders cannot be thrown any farther back than this, unless we fling them away altogether.

Burmah's Baby.

There is joy in Burmah just now, for one of King Theebaw's graceful consorts has quite recently presented that amiable monarch with a son and heir. It is gratifying to our national vanity to learn that British professional skill was specially summoned to Mandalay for the purpose of bringing this illustrious little stranger into the world. A Burmese baby royal, born not in the purple, but Buddhist yellow, involves strange associations with white elephants, golden umbrellas, and royal domestic dramas of thrilling interest. Mother and child, according to the latest accounts, are doing well. The happy father is so elated by the achievement of his spouse, Su Hpayah Lat that he has announced his intention to wed her younger sister forthwith. This eagerness on his part to extend his connection with her family will probably be regarded by the youthful wife as a delicate attention from a Burmese point of view. In other countries it might be interpreted differently. Hitherto Theebaw has shone as a monogamist; but, as the laws of Burmah justify the sovereign in taking to himself four queens—one for each principal point of the compass, among whom she of the south takes precedence over the eastern, northern, and western royal consorts—there can be no objection of any moment raised to the affectionate impulse which now prompts him to marry his sister-in-law. As he has put to death nearly all his relatives having any claim to the succession, his majesty can not be too fervently congratulated upon the acquisition of an heir, from cutting whose throat he will probably be deterred by the feelings of a father and the interests of a dynasty.

Trading Lovers.

Not far from Lackawaxen, Pa., says an exchange, is the home of two young ladies, sisters, aged respectively 18 and 20 years. They were each receiving the addresses of lovers, who were brothers, and both couples were engaged to be married. It was their intention to celebrate a double wedding about their holidays, but now matters have changed. A few days ago the four were sitting together in the parlor at the girls' home when the elder lady expressed a desire to go to a political meeting then being held in a near-by village. She asked her lover to accompany her, but he refused point blank, giving as his reason that he was not a democrat. The young lady insisted, but still he refused. Finally she turned to his brother, who, it seems, was a democrat, and asked him to accompany her. To the surprise of all he at once consented and they went to the meeting. The two that remained at home were quite indignant, the one at the conduct of her lover, the other at the way his sweetheart had acted. The more they discussed it the angrier they became. They discovered that they—the ones at home—were both republicans, while the two who had gone were of democratic proclivities. They talked on, discovering little by little similarities of tastes and habits, and finally resolved each to break with the old love and form a new alliance. No sooner resolved than the compact was ratified by a kiss, when by chance the others entered. The gentleman told his brother at once what they had decided to do. To his great surprise no sorrow was shown, no anger manifested, and his wonder was increased when he was informed that the other couple, while on their walk home, had resolved to do just the same thing. The hugging, therefore, now goes on as usual, and the weddings will take place about New Year's.

A Trousseau.

At a recent private display of costumes in New York, designed for a trousseau, was a ruby-coloured brocaded velvet with an elegant mixture of pale pink satin. The trimming consisted of alternate shirrings of the satin and broad panels of the brocade. The bottom of each panel was cut in squares and filled in with tiny plaitings of the brocade, which had previously been edged with narrow lace. The trimming formed the entire front of the dress, and continued in narrower lengths around the whole skirt. The bodice was cut in deep points, front and back, and attached to the side forms were long panels which reached the foot of the train at the sides of the skirt. These panels were arranged to match the trimming on the dress. A panier drapery of the combined fabrics fell in a scarf train at the back. The bodice opened square in the neck under a revers of the brocade, and was filled in with well-shaped plaitings of Duchess lace. The sleeves were of the brocade, and just reached the elbow, where they were cut in squares and filled in with plaitings of wide Duchess lace. Dark-red tulips and clusters of pink roses garnished the bodice. Another superb dress was in olive-green satin, cut princess behind and falling in a long full train. This dress formed a cuirass in front, and the corsage and sleeves were trimmed with an elegant bead passementerie in green, gold, sapphire, and ruby beads. The skirt front was of antique gold satin, but was almost hidden by a wide scarf drapery of Oriental brocade. This scarf was laid flat across the skirt front, just meeting the edge of the corsage, and was caught up at one side, from which one long, wide end fell to the edge of the skirt. It was finished with a rich Persian fringe of cashmere beads.

Jerseys.

With cold weather, Jerseys are more worn than ever. Trim, compact, and wear defying, they are increasing in popularity as the weather grows more chill and wintry. The dark self-coloured Jerseys benefits any occasion where no extra amount of dress is required. The skirt attached to this bodice are invariably kilted, and a wide scarf sash of the same material, or of silk or plush, is draped over that part of the dress where the bodice joins the skirt. A hood lined with contrasting colours quite alters the appearance of the Jersey, and coloured bands to border the lower edge, throat, and wrist again transforms this popular garment. Under the new name of "[...]" waists, Jerseys are hand-knitted in mottled wool, stripes of color being also introduced. They will be found to be very comfortable over-jackets, to wear underneath the cloak during the severe weather. Ladies with a very moderate amount of skill in sewing can also make the "Jersey set" of collars and cuffs for half the price of these articles when ready-made. The collar is cut square across the chest and shoulders; the depth and width of it must be determined by the wearer's figure. Those who have the muslin and lace sets, so fashionable during the last season, will find them excellent guides when cutting out a set of plush or velvet. A very pretty set was lately made of wine-coloured velvet, which fitted the shoulders like a yoke bodice. The edges were trimmed with cream lace; then there were two rows placed one over the other, which made a thick frill around the throat. This collar fastened under the left ear; a bunch of small pink rosebuds being fastened there, probably to hide the joining. Another pretty collarette of black velvet was embroidered with gold and trimmed with gold lace, and another was of pale blue plush trimmed with Languedoc frills. The cuffs are very deep and close-fitting, some of them reaching to the elbow. Ladies who wear caps frequently have one made of the same material. The complete set thoroughly changes the character of the plainest dress. Large round collars of satin and lace are also worn.

A Female Gambler.

In the meanwhile, says a Monaco correspondent of The London News, Monte Carlo, like the mosquitos, is having a high good time. Night and day the tables are crowded, beginning briskly at 11 in the morning, and closing wearily on the stroke of midnight. There are a good many English here, but they do not contribute largely to the funds of the amiable and enterprising administration. English girls, favoured by an indulgent father or a good-natured brother, put down their five-franc piece, and, having lost it, go away smiling. Sometimes the father or the brother may be discovered seated at the tables later in the day, looking a little flushed, and poorer by some sovereigns. But Great Britain and Ireland chiefly contribute spectators to the melancholy and monotonous scene. As usual, women are among the reckless players. Looking in at 2 o'clock this afternoon I saw at one of the tables a well-dressed lady of about 30, with a purse full of gold before her and a bundle of notes under her elbow. She was playing furiously, disdaining the mild excitement of the five-franc piece, and always staking gold. She was winning, and boldly playing on with an apparent composure belied by her flushed cheeks and flashing eyes. I saw her again at 10 o'clock in the evening. She was playing at another table, having probably tried to retrieve her luck at each in succession. The bank notes were gone, and she had put away her purse, for it was easy to hold in her prettily gloved hand her remaining store of gold. It was only eight hours since I had last seen her, but in the meantime she had aged by at least ten years. She sat looking fixedly on the table, from time to time moistening her hot, dry lips with her scarcely less dry tongue. Her face wore a look of infinite sadness, which might have been relieved by a burst of tears. But her eyes were as dry as her lips, and she stared stonily on, staking her Napoleons till the last one was gone. This accomplished, she rose with evident intent to leave the room, but catching sight of a friend at another table she borrowed a handful of Napoleons, and finding another table played on as recklessly as before. In ten minutes she had lost all but a single gold piece. Leaving the table again she held this up between her finger and thumb and showed it to her friend with a hysterical little laugh. It was her last coin, and she evidently devised it for some such matter-of-fact purpose as paying her hotel bill. If she had turned her back to the table and walked straight out she might have kept her purpose; but the ball was still rolling and there remained a chance. She threw down the Napoleon, and the croupier raked it in amid a heap of coin that might be better or even worse spared.

At last, one evening at the Tuileries, the empress Eugenie told the Princess Clotilde that she must request her to procure a new dress on the next occasion that she dined at the palace. This brought the previous coolness to a climax, and the princess never entered the Tuileries again. She was often to be seen with her two little boys walking early in the morning in the gardens of the Palais Royal; but as these were almost her only appearances in public, it began to be whispered that she was not on speaking terms with the empress, an awkward state of things, which naturally ended in the princess being requested to return to her native land. She was here when the Franco-German war broke out, and has never since visited Paris; but by arrangement she has the care of her youngest child, a daughter, and Prince Napoleon brings her two sons to stay with her a month every year. They accompanied their father to their cousin's funeral at Chiselhurst, since which event he has made some overtures of conciliation to the clerical party in France. His early republican opinions, joined as they generally are in France, with anti-Catholic views, his marriage with the daughter of the excommunicated king of Italy and the fact of his children being unbaptized for years because he refused to present any other sponsor for them than Victor Eumanuel, who was ineligible, his celebrated dinner party on Good Friday—all combined to place him in a most hateful light in the eyes of every religious Parisian.

Eugenie and Clotilde.

Prince Napoleon, says The London World, affected republican manners, and sent his son at 4 years old to one of the ordinary elementary schools. When the school mistress gave the boy a piece of chocolate for his luncheon in addition to the dry bread which was the usual school regimen, Prince Napoleon sternly rebuked her, and desired that such undue partiality should never be shown to the child again. The Empress Eugenie aspired to be the leader of dress and fashion, and many a middle-class family in England was sorely embarrassed by the long dress-makers bills which an imitation of her innumerable and always expensive costumes entailed; but the Princess Clotilde was just as conspicuous for the rarity with which she appeared in a new dress. In this, however, she was not alone, as several crowned heads in Europe seemed determined not to accept the parvenu empress as their guide. The late empress of Russia passed through Dijon and Lyons with her husband in 1865 on her way to Nice, and The Courrier de Lyon recorded that her attire would have been despised by a shop-keeper's wife; "but then," the courtly journal added, "when a lady has the honor of being the wife of the emperor of all the Russians, such simplicity is only an additional charm." The late queen of Holland appeared at Fontainebleau about the same time in a hat and pelisse which had done duty on many occasions at the Hague; and the Princess Clotilde, [illegible] herself in no small degree on her royal descent, chose to follow these illustrious examples rather than that of the [illegible] daughter of the people."

A Tough Deer.

A HUNTER'S EXCITING STRUGGLE WITH A WOUNDED BUCK.

A Stroudsburg, Pa., dispatch to the New York Times tells the following:

An Irishman named "Mike" Callighan owns a small and almost valueless farm in the mountains, a few miles north of Porter's lake, in Pike county, Pennsylvania. The land being too stony to produce paying crops, Callighan is obliged to turn his hand to anything at which he can earn a little money. He is quite expert with the rifle, and during the few years that he has lived in the wilds of Pike county he has shot a large number of deer, several bears, and a few wildcats. He has become so accustomed to seeing bears in the woods that he says he has no more fear of meeting them than he has of a cow. He has had many hair-breadth escapes with bears and catamounts within the past five years, but always came out victorious. He had an encounter—which, had it not been for the timely arrival of his daughter, might have been his last—a few mornings ago.

Callighan arose earlier than usual, as he desired to start early for Bushkill, about thirteen miles distant. While hitching his horse to the waggon he discovered a large, four-pronged buck deer grazing in a small clearing a few rods from the house. He ran to the house, seized his rifle, and crawled on his hands and knees through the woods behind a stone fence, until he got within shooting distance. Then to make sure of hitting the deer, he placed the barrel of his rifle in the crotch of a small chestnut, and taking deliberate aim, fired. The deer gave an upward plunge and fell to the ground, apparently lifeless. The ball had penetrated the animal's breast from which the blood flowed freely. Callighan laid down his gun, and, climbing the fence, walked up to the wounded deer with the intention of cutting its throat. As he was about to draw his hunting-knife from his belt, the deer gave a sudden and desperate lunge, catching the hunter with its antlers and throwing him several feet in the air. When he landed he struck upon his head and shoulders, stunning him so that he lay several seconds partially insensible. When he fully recovered, the deer was still lying on the ground a few feet distant. Callighan thought the animal had lost enough blood to warrant him in making a second attack without danger of being further injured. He seized the dying buck by the antlers with his left hand, and with his right drew the blade of the knife across the animal's throat with the intention of severing the windpipe, but in this he only partially succeeded.

This seemed to add to the fury of the wounded animal, for it gave another powerful lunge, throwing the hunter with great violence to the ground. The deer then began pawing him with its front feet and goring him with its horns. In the struggle the hunter lost his knife, and, fearing that the deer would kill him, he shouted to his daughter, who hastened to her father's rescue. She picked up the knife, seized the deer by the antlers, and with one thrust of the knife nearly severed the head from the body. It gave one or two kicks and died. Although Callighan's injuries are not dangerous, he will be laid up for some time. His body was literally covered with scratches, and his clothes were torn into shreds. The deer was a very large one, weighing nearly two hundred pounds, and was the third one the brave young woman has helped to kill during the past few years.

Diamond Mines of India.

A member of the Indian Geological Survey, Mr. V. Ball, says in a recent paper that there are in India three extensive tracts, widely separated from one another, in which the diamond has been found. The most southern of these has long borne a familiar name, which is, however, to a certain extent, a misnomer. There are no diamond mines in Golconda. This name, originally applied to a capital town, now represented by a deserted fort in the neighbourhood of Hyderabad, seems to have been used for a whole kingdom; but the town itself was many miles distant from the nearest of the diamond mines, and it was only the mart where the precious stones were bought and sold. The second great tract occupies an immense area between the Mahanuddy and the Godavery river; and the third great tract is situated in Bundelcund, near the capital of which, Punnah, some of the principal mines are to be found.

The work of the Geological Survey has demonstrated that the diamonds occur in the Vindhyan rocks of Northern India. In the upper division of this formation there is a group of clay slate (Rewah), and in the lower a group of sandstones (S[...]), in both of which diamond-bearing beds are met with. It is still very doubtful, however, if a diamond has yet been found in India in its original matrix. Mr. Ball gives an account of the chief mines, describing in detail, from personal observation, that of Sambalpur, which has now for some time ceased to be productive. The Punnah mines are still productive, yielding a mean annual produce of between $200,000 and $300,000 a year. Europeans have attempted diamond mining in each of these three tracts, but in no instance have their operations been attended with success, and yet there does not appear to be the least ground for supposing that there has been any real exhaustion of the localities where mining is possible.

The Christian Sabbath.

China is older than any other existing empire; is rich with the accumulations and the ceaseless productiveness of peaceful industry; boasts of its heroes and sages, its schools, its libraries, its most voluminous literature, its art of printing practised long before Faust or Gutenberg had dreamed of such an invention; includes within its limits almost a third part of the earth's population; has had from immemorial ages a highly developed system of government—yet China is only the oldest and the richest of the semi-civilized nations. When China shall have learned to measure time by weeks, and to recognize the Christian Sabbath, the greatest of empires will no longer be classed with the semi-civilized. Turkey and Egypt are semi-civilized; but when Sunday instead of Friday shall be the Sabbath at Constantinople and Brusa, at Cairo and Alexandria, those two countries will have been advanced from the semi-civilized class to the civilized. Japan, having become the most earnestly progressive nation outside of Christendom, is now just learning to date in years of the Christian era, to number the days of the week, and in some sort to mark the Christian Sabbath as a day of rest; and simultaneously with the new ways of thinking and living which these changes imply Japan is coming into coordination and position with the powers of the civilized world. France, in the early frenzy of that revolution which "the whirligig of time," after whirling almost a hundred years, is now bringing to a sane and settled conclusion before the admiring gaze of Christendom, attempted to abolish the Christian Sabbath with its division of time into weeks; but the attempt was ludicrously unsuccessful.

THE Duke of Hamilton signalized his arrival in Paris by feting nine hundred poor families—there being none at home—giving them all clothes, food, and money. Just before leaving Scotland the Duchess of Hamilton with her own gun shot two stags and several brace of birds.

THE principle of treating lunatics long since in vogue at Gheel, in Belgium, has been extensively adopted in Scotland. They are boarded out among sane people in the village, treated with great gentleness, and subjected to as little restraint as possible. The plan should be tried here. Had it been in practice at St. Peters, Minn., the unfortunate victims of the fire would not have been locked up, and, consequently, burned.

THE Empress Eugenie aspired to be the leader of dress and fashion, and many a middle-class family in England was sorely embarrassed by the long dressmakers' bills which an enumeration of her innumerable and always expensive costumes entailed. Several crowned heads in Europe, however, determined not to accept the parvenu Empress as their guide. The late Empress of Russia passed through Dijon and Lyons with her husband in 1865 on her way to Nice, and the Courrier de Lyon recorded that her attire would have been despised by a shopkeeper's wife, but then the courtly journal added: "When a lady has the honour of being the wife of the Emperor of all the Russias, such simplicity is only an additional charm." The late Queen of Holland appeared at Fontainebleau about the same time in a hat and pelisse which had done long duty at the Hague.

Toronto, Grey & Bruce R'y.

Change of Time.

On and after MONDAY, 3rd NOV. trains will run as follows:—

GOING NORTH.

Toronto,—Union Station,

Dep.	7:30 a. m.	12:20 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
Carlton	7.52 a.m.	12.45 p.m.	5.20 p.m.
Weston	8.05 a.m.	1.00 p.m.	5.30 p.m.
Humber Sum't	8.30 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	5.50 p.m.
Woodbridge	8.45 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	6.05 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	2.13 p.m.	6.24 p.m.
Bolton	9.25 a.m.	2.37 p.m.	6.43 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	3.07 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	7.50 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	8.05 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible] a.m.	5.05 p.m.
Laurel	11.59 a.m.	5.20 p.m.
Shelburne	12.30 p.m.	6.00 p.m.
Dundalk	1.15 p.m.	6.50 p.m.
Proton	1.35 p.m.	7.11 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville	1.55 p.m.	7.35 p.m.
Markdale	2.15 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
Berkly	2.35 p.m.	8.28 p.m.
Williamsford	2.50 p.m.	8.46 p.m.
Arnott	3.05 p.m.	9.06 p.m.
Chatsworth	3.15 p.m.	9.16 p.m.
Rockford	3.38 p.m.	9.36 p.m.
Owen Sound	4.00 p.m.	10.10 p.m.

GOING SOUTH.

Owen Sound, depart	6.30 a.m.	12.00 noon.
Rockford	7.00 a.m.	12.30 p.m.
Chatsworth	7.20 a.m.	12.55 p.m.
Arnott	7.30 a.m.	1.06 p.m.
Williamsford	7.48 a.m.	1.28 p.m.
Berkly	8.05 a.m.	1.48 p.m.
Markdale	8.30 a.m.	2.15 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville	8.55 a.m.	2.45 p.m.
Proton	9.15 a.m.	3.10 p.m.
Dundalk	9.35 a.m.	3.30 p.m.
Shelburne	10.15 a.m.	4.15 p.m.
Laurel	10.47 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Orangeville Junction	12.00 a.m.	5.05 p.m.

ORANGEVILLE —

Arr.	11:15 a. m.	5:20 p. m.
Dep.	7.15 a.m.	11.35 a. m.	5.40 p. m.
Alton	7.35 a.m.	11.55 a.m.	6.00 p.m.
Charleston	7.50 a.m.	12.10 p.m.	6.18 p.m.
Mono Road	8.25 a.m.	12.47 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Bolton	8.45 a.m.	1.10 p.m.	7.33 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	7.55 p.m.
Woodbridge	9.25 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	8.17 p.m.
Humber Sum't	9.40 a.m.	2.05 p.m.	8.33 p.m.
Weston	10.00 a.m.	2.27 p.m.	9.00 p.m.
Carlton	10.10 a.m.	2.39 p.m.	9.15 p.m.

Toronto,—Union Station,

Arrive	10.30 a.m.	3.00 p.m.	9.40 p.m.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 17th, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

TO ADVERTISERS.

We have decided to print a supplement in connection with the STANDARD a week before the Holidays, as there is an extra amount of advertising done at that season of the year, and we do not want to decrease the reading matter, we will give those who wish extra space, liberal terms, by means of a half sheet supplement, parties wishing to take advantage of the arrangement will please let us know in good time.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

This Council met at Owen Sound on Monday the 13th inst. At the time of going to press we have only been able to procure the Warden's Address. We will give a synopsis of the proceedings next week.

WARDEN'S ADDRESS.

Gentlemen of the Council.—We are now met in session to complete the business of the year, and it is of some satisfaction that there is nothing of a special nature, so far as I am aware, to engage your attention at this session.

On the other hand there is great reason for congratulation on account of the abundant harvest which has crowned the labors of the husbandman, and also because of the improved financial position of the county.

I have much pleasure in observing that the defaulting municipalities have paid up a considerable amount of their indebtedness to this county since last session. It is to be hoped that the good work thus begun will be continued, and finished before the end of our financial year.

The agents of the Merchants and Molsons Banks of this Town notified the County Treasurer that the rate of interest on County deposits would be reduced to 3 per cent on the minimum monthly balance, after which the County Treasurer placed himself in communication with other Monetary institutions, and the correspondence on the subject will be laid before you.

I would call your attention to the fact that there is $50,000 from the sinking fund of by-law No. 174 for investment which will require your careful consideration.

The presentment of the Grand Jury under the direction of the Hon. Justice Cameron at the last settings of the Fall Assizes will be laid before you. I would direct your special attention to the paragraph in which reference is made to the deficient supply of water to the gaol. As plenty of water can now be obtained at a reasonable rate from the Water Works now in operation in this town, there need be no unnecessary delay in remedying the evil complained of.

Since the last session of this Council I have learned with extreme regret of the death of Mr. Wm. White, First Deputy Reeve of the Township, of Collingwood, one of the oldest and most respected members of this Council. I take this opportunity, and I am sure, gentlemen, that you will join me in expressing our deep regret at the loss from our midst of a man so highly esteemed for honor, probity and intelligence, as the late Mr. Wm. White.

Gentlemen, as this is the last session of the Council for the current year, I desire to express my sincere thanks for your forbearance, for your kind support, and the respect you have shown me in the discharge of my duties as Warden of this County.

I have the honor, Gentlemen, to be your obedient servant,

FINLAY MACRAE.

Council Chamber, O. S., Dec. 13th, 1880.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

Your readers are doubtless all more or less interested in the accounts of the disturbances in Ireland, and the subject gives rise to many an animated discussion, public and private. Our young men's Literary Club have had the subject under consideration for some time, and had a very lively and spirited debate on Tuesday evening. There was some very good speaking talent developed, and it is a pity they keep it so close without occasionally giving the public an opportunity of being present.

Mr. H. Hooper has bought out his brother in the Cabinet, Sash and Door Factory, and is moving into the new brick warerooms recently erected.

Mr. Damude has sold out his harness business to a party from Mount Forest.

A courageous limb of the law undertook to look after some boys at the concert on Monday evening, the result being that he made himself more conspicuous than necessary. We believe of the two the boys had the most sense.

With coal oil at 40c, young men should curtail their hours for paying respects to their sweethearts.

Mr. Thorp Wright is building a hay press, and is going to try the experiment of shipping hay to the American market. If it pays, farmers will find a market for their surplus stock.

The band plays at the Rink Thursday evenings. (The above was crowded out last week.)

From another Correspondent.

DIPHTHERIA.—Diphtheria has made its appearance at Mr. Dales, who lives two and one-half miles from this village. Two of the family have been suffering severely from the disease.—

CHANGED HANDS.—Mr. Damude has sold out his stock of harness to Mr. Gordon of Elora. Mr. Gordon will carry on the business in this village.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL.—A grand Masquerade Carnival will be held on the Flesherton Skating Rink, on the evening of the 21st inst. Mr. F. Sarjeant, the proprietor, has secured a large stock of costly prizes for distribution that evening.

HOLLAND CENTRE.

Township Council met in Vogan's Hall, for the transaction of business. Members all present. Reeve in the Chair. Minutes of former meeting read and approved. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the by-law for the purpose of granting ten thousand dollars to the T., G. & B. Railway Company, be read a first time. Moved by the Deputy Reeve, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the above named by-law be read a second time. At this stage of the proceedings, a telegram was received from Mr. Wragge, the manager of the road, stating that they did not intend to push the by-law at present. Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Merriam, that Thomas Troughton be refunded 90c, also Benj. Wright 69c, on account of error in assessment. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Shute, that Robert Bradley receive an order for $9.00 as road work performed by him. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Shute, that B. Buchannan get an order for $5.21 on account of error in assessment on park lot 7, Williamsford, and the Clerk notify the County Treasurer to erase all taxes against park lot 7, Williamsford, for 79. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Shute, that Samuel Carson get an order for $2.25 being error in assessment. Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by the Deputy Reeve, that an order be issued in favor of Robert Bradley for $20.54 on account of over assessment. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Merriam, that the petition of Alexander McClelland and others, with respect to building sidewalks in Walter's Falls be supplemented by granting the sum of $25.

Mr. Shute Moved, seconded by Mr. Merriam, that east ½ 123, con. 8, E. T. S. road, be assessed to Jas. Burchill, and be extended on the Collector's Roll. Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Norton, that James Grant get an order for $4.00 on account of back taxes. The Deputy Reeve moved, seconded by Mr. Merriam, the report of Messrs. Norton and Shute, with regard to be adopted. Mr. Norton moved, seconded by Mr. Shute, that Mrs. Graham receive an order for $6, to buy provisions for her family, in accordance with a petition signed by Thomas Anderson and others. Mr. Merriam moved, seconded by Mr. Shute, that James Dugeon receive the sum of $2.50 on account of Gravel bought by him to repair the road. Mr. Norton moved, seconded by the Deputy Reeve, that by-law No. 8 be signed sealed and engrossed on the minutes. Mr. Shute moved, seconded by Mr. Norton, that the Clerk be instructed to notify the Township Treasurer to withold out of the fund depositted with him by the railway Company the sum of $12, to defray the expenses of a special meeting held on their account.

Mr. Norton moved, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the Road Inspector be instructed to build a bridge over the Sauble on the tenth line. Mr. Shute moved, seconded by Mr. Merriam, that the clerk furnish the Treasurer with the amount of school moneys coming to each Section, and to pay the amount to the order of the Trustees interested. Mr. Norton moved, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the Clerk write to the different printing offices with regard to the ballot printing. Mr. Norton moved, seconded by Mr, Shute, that this council adjourn sine die.

CARSON PRICE, Clerk.

OSPREY COUNCIL.

The Council met at the orange hall, Maxwell, on Tuesday, the 3rd inst., pursuant to adjournment from 1st October. Members present:—Messrs. Gamey Reeve; Douglas Dep. Reeve; Inkster, Sing, and Winters Councillors. The Reeve in the chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. Communications:—From Co. Treas., re lots 64 and 65, in the 1st con., N., and lot 33, in con. 13, withdrawn from sale and taxes erased. Do. do., re lot 29, con 14, sale to C. R. Sing, on the 27th of May, 1854, cancelled by Crown Land Dep. From Trustees of school section No. 8, asking levy to be reduced to one half the amount asked for. From A. Cameron, Trustee, S. S. No. 10 refusing to grant special school privelages to A. Sinclair and G. Miller. From W. Hutchinson, re statute labor. From W. Milne and Neil McKinnon, accounts. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Winters, that the Collector be instructed to accept J. Stinsons' taxes less $2, Wm. Hutchinsons' less $3, for statute labor performed and returned undone.—Carried. J. Gillis appeared before Council requesting aid for A. McDougall, an indigent person. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that J. Gillis be instructed to procure lodgings for Widow McDougall, for the remainder of this year, and send in his account to this Council at the first meeting in January next.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Inkster, that the account of J. Gillis, $5, for taking care of Widow McDougall, be paid, and that the Reeve issue his order for the same.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Douglas seconded by Mr. Sing, that the sum of 42 cents be refunded to Ann Robinson, overcharge in assessment and that the Reeve issue his order for the same.—Carried. Mr. Douglas introduced by-laws No. 191, 192, 193 and 194, to appoint a Collector, provide polling places, appoint Dep. Returning Officers, and places for nominations, pay Officers and instruct the Treasurer to pay school moneys, to order of Trustees respectively. These by-laws were read a first, second and third time, signed, sealed and engrossed in the minutes. Moved by Mr. Sing seconded by Mr. Winters, that the accounts of Wm. Milne for goods supplied to O. Miller and Widow McQueen, amounting respectively to $18.12 and $7.00; for adding statistical columns of assessment rolls for 1879 and 1880, $2.00; for compiling and preparing abstract statement of the receipts and expenditures and of assets and liabilities of this municipality, $2.00; for preparing report for agricultural commission, $4.00; for putting up notices re road allowance, on the 13th con., $2.00, be paid, and that the Reeve issue his orders for the same.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Winters, seconded by Mr. Sing, that James Winters be paid $1 for superintending erection of a culvert and clearing water course at lot 28, con. 2, N.; and that Agustus Robinson, be paid 75 cents for planking culvert at lot 19, con. 1, S., Reeve to issue orders.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that the account of Neil McKinnon for repairing road scrapers, $4.50; the Reeve 40 cents for telegram; the Clerk 40 cents, express, $6.00 postage, and 15 cents, nails, for F. Winter's coffin, be paid, and the Reeve issue his orders for the same.—Carried. On motion, the Council adjourned, sine die.

WM. MILNE,
Tp. Clerk.

ARTEMESIA COUNCIL.

This Council met in the Town Hall, Flesherton, on Monday, December 6, 1880. Members all present. The Reeve in the Chair. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved.—Communication from A. Webster, Esq., re Mrs. Martin's Taxes, read. Accoount of J. Rutherford, for stationery for 1880, and of W. Watson for repairing scraper, were presented.—By-law No. 319, appointing Deputy returning officers, and places for holding elections for 1881; and by-law No. 320, amending by-law 318, introduced by Mr. Elliott, and passed in the usualway. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. McLeod, that John Blain be paid $50.00, being on account of Nelson Hill Contract, on town line Artemesia and Euphrasia; and that the time for completing said contract be extended until the 15th of June, 1881, it being nearly completed; and that the mover represent this township in the matter of Arbitration ordered by previous resolution.—Carried. Mr. McLeod moved, seconded by Mr. Wright, that the following sums be paid the following school sections, according to their trustees orders. No 1. $413.45, less debenture and interest $138.40; No. 2, $381.50; No. 3, $446.40, less debenture and interest, $130.00; No. 4, $331.80; No. 5, $685.58, less debenture and interest, $76.68; No. 6, $246.00; No. 7, $300.95; No. 8, $236.40; No. 9, $390.70; No. 11, $325.00; No. 12, $409.01; No. 13, $156.15; Separate School of No. 6, $201.60, less debenture and interest, $65.00; Union School Section No. 1, Euphrasia and Artemesia, $222.61; Police Trustees, Markdale, $45.95.—Carried; Mr. Wright moved, seconded by Mr. Pedler, that the following parties be refunded the following sums, viz.:—I Parks, $9.37; Mrs. Martin, $6.32, the same being arrears charged in error. Carried. Mr. McLeod moved seconded by Mr. Wright, that Wm. Meads be refunded $10.50, being arrears of taxes charged in error against W. part of lot 30, 1 N. D. R.—Carried. Mr. Wright moved, seconded by Mr. McLeod, that the Clerk notify the T., G. & Bruce Railway Company that the amount to cover the expenses of submitting the by-law must be advanced, before this Council will proceed to submit the same.—Carried. Mr. Wright moved, seconded by Mr. McLeod, that the Clerk correct the Roll so far as the Police Village of Markdale is concerned, and request the Collector for Ward No. 2 to collect the sums omitted.—Carried. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. McLeod, that John Webster be allowed to perform statute labor for lot 22, con. 14, for 1880, under pathmaster for 1881, and that he be refunded $2,50 on furnishing pathmasters certificate that said work has been performed, and Charles Bellamy on same grounds.—Carried. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. McLeod, that the Reeve issue his order for following am'ts, Rutherford $10.40; W. Watson 50c, and indigent monthly allowance $14.00. Mr. Wright moved, seconded by Mr. Podlar, That the Township Printing be given to the Owen Sound Times and J. Rutherford, and that the motion giving it to the STANDARD be and is hereby rescinded. Yeas—Messrs. McLeod, Wright; Podlar and Christoe. Nays—Mr. Elliott. Council adjourned.

W. J. BELLAMY, Clerk.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

ANNUAL SCHOOL MEETING.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR—Please allow me through the columns of your valuable Journal to remind the people of Markdale and vicinty, that the annual school meeting will this year be held on the last Wednesday of the present month, the 29th inst. It is desirable that all those who wish to see a reign of good and economic government matured and perpetuated in our schools, should turn out in full force to the annual meeting, so that nothing may be lacking on their part to give effect to such measures as are calculated to maintain and increase the efficiency of the schools. Let it be borne in mind, that in school matters, as in civil government, "eternal vigilance" is not only the "price of freedom," but it is the price of prudent management, economy, efficiency [illegible]

Now that the second union of the sections has been [illegible] accomplished, that all strife and dissension [illegible] and that territorial distinctions and geographical lines have been obliterated, we must not forget, that in order to insure permanancy and durability of these amiable relations, the greatest care and caution is necessary on the part of the trustees, to prevent a recurrence of the troubles which severed the first union. It will be remembered that at the time the first union was dissolved, the then trustees, regardless of the interest of the school, and contrary to the wishes of a majority of the people, persisted in a course which eventuated in that disaster. Let us, then, profit by their example, and avoid the errors into which they fell; let us by the exercise of mutual forbearance, mutual confidence and self-respect endeavor to avoid every occasion of offence, so that distrust and jealousy may give place to harmony and goodfeeling throughout the entire section.

We remark in this connexion, that the choice of a trustee is of the very first importance; great care and circumspection should be exercised in the choice; no person shoulp be chosen to that important trust whose personal or private interests would be likely to interfere with his freedom of action or warp his judgement, for you know

"Mankind are unco weak, and little to be trusted,
"Where self the wavering balance shakes,
"Its' rarely right adjusted."

True, while the constitution of the Board remains as at present, the introduction of one "black sheep" would not materially affect the management; still it is well to guard against even the "appearance of evil," lest the battles of two years' ago might, ere long, have to be fought over again. Again, we say to every ratepayer, remember Wednesday, the 29th inst.; come to the annual meeting and see and hear for yourselves what account the trustees can give of their "stewardship" in the past. Be on hand early, and if there are any grievances to complain of, make them known publicly and manfully, so that all parties interested may have an apportunity of hearing such explanations and replies as may be given in reference thereto.

W. BROWN.

Markdale, Dec. 14, 1880.

COUNTY ITEMS.

SUDDEN DEATH OF ANGUS MCCORMICK, OF GLENELG.—Died suddenly, on the 19th ult., at the town of Burt, Cheboygan, Michigan, Angus McCormick. Few, if any, were better known throughout Glenelg and the adjoining townships than Mr. McCormick. About six weeks ago he went to Michigan to work in the lumber woods, and was in excellent health up to 10 o'clock a. m., of the 19th, when he asked some of his companions to help him to the camp, when, on looking at him they noticed that he was very pale, and immediately helped him to the camp, which was only a short distance from where they were working. On asking him where he felt the pain, he answered that it was between the shoulders, which were the only words they could get out of him. He expired in fifteen minutes. An inquest was held on the following day, before Justice J. P. Sutton and a jury, when the following verdict was rendered:—"That the said Angus McCormick, on the 19th day of November, 1880, at the lumber camp of Wm. Grant, in the town of Burt, in the County of Cheboygan, Michigan, then and there died by the visitation of God in the natural way and not otherwise. The remains arrived in Priceville on Saturday evening by express, and were on Monday, the 29th, followed to the R. C. burying-ground by the largest funeral procession ever seen in Glenelg. Deceased was 49 years of age, and leaves a wife and seven children.—Grey Review.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services—Sept. 26, 10:30 a. m.; Oct. 3rd, 6:30 p. m.; 10th, 10:30 a. m.; 17th, 10:30 a. m.; 24th, 6:30 p. m.; 31st, 6:30 p. m.; Nov. 7th 10:30 a. m.; 14th, 10:30 a. m.; 21st, 10;30 a. m.; 28th, 6.30 p. m.; Dec. 5th, 6:30 p. m.; 12th, 10:30 a. m.; 19th, 10:30 a. m.; 27th, 6:30 p. m. Sabbath School, 2:30 p. m. Rev. James Ward, Incumbent.

CANADA METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a.m., and 6:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 2:30 p. m. G. S. Bowes, Superintendent. Prayer Meeting, Thursday Evenings at 7:30. Rev. N. A. McDiarmid, Pastor.

PRIMATIVE METHODIST.

Services every 1st and 3rd Sabbath at 3 o'clock p. m. Every 2nd & 4th Sabbath at 10:30 a. m., in the Orange Hall. C. C. Garnett, Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Services in Dufferin Hall every alternate Sabbath at 11 a. m., and intervening Sabbaths at 6:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 2:30 p. m. Bible Class and Prayer Meeting on Fridays at 7:30 p. m.

Auction Sale
OF VALUABLE
FARM PROPERTY.

Under and by virtue of a Power of Sale, contained in a mortgage which will be then and there produced, there will be offered for sale by public auction, by J. M. Webster, Auctioneer, at Rutledge's Hotel in the Village of Markdale,

ON TUESDAY, 21ST DAY OF DEC.

A. D., 1880, at three o'clock in the afternoon the following freehold property, in one parcel, viz: the south half of lot number five, in the eighth concession of the township of Euphrasia, in the county of Grey.

The above farm consists of 100 acres, more or less, and is situated about four miles from Markdale Post Office and Station. The uncleared portion is timbered chiefly with Beech and Maple.

Terms of Sale—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent. additional in one month and the remainder to be secured by a first mortgage.

For further particulars apply to the undersigned at Toronto.

WILLIAM MULOCK,
Venders' Solicitor.
17 Toronto Street, Toronto.

Dated 25th November, A.D., 1880. 14-1

OWEN SOUND HIGH SCHOOL.

RE-OPENS JAN. 7th, 1881.

THE New School Building containing accommodation for 400 pupils, has been completed. The Staff consists of experienced Teachers, each of whom is a Specialist in his own department.

Students prepared for Senior and Junior Matriculation. First-class Certificates. Intermediate and Professional Examinations.

Address—

WM. O'CONNOR, B.A.,
Head Master.

Owen Sound, Dec. 13th, 1880. 14-2

MONTHLY CATTLE FAIRS.

Durham—Third Tuesday of each month.
Priceville—Monday before Durham.
Hanover—Monday before Durham.
Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.
Guelph—First Wednesday in each month.
Harriston—Friday before the Guelph Fair.
Drayton—Saturday before Guelph.
Elora—The day before Guelph.
Douglas—Monday before Elora Fair.
Hamilton—Crystal Palace Grounds, the day after Guelph.
Berlin—First Thursday in each month.
Brampton—First Thursday in each month.
Listowel—First Friday in each month.
Fergus—Thursday following Mount Forest.
Rosemont—Fifteenth of February, April, June, August, October and December.
Primrose—Wednesday preceding the Orangeville Fair.
Orangeville—The 2nd Thursday in each month.
Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.
Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.
Shelburne—Wednesday befor Orangeville.
Marshville—Second Wednesday in each month.
Walkerton—The last Wednesday in each month.
Mildmay—Last Wednesday of each month.

TO THE Independent Electors!

OF THE

Township of Euphrasia.

GENTLEMEN:—

I again offer myself as a Candidate for the office of Councillor for the Township Should you again honer me with your confidence, I shall endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability. Come to the nomination where I shall give my views on Municipal matters.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
D. R. ELLIS.

NOTICE.

THE Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and vicinity for their liberal support and patronage in the past, and to say that he has now turned over the Drug and Stationery business, with all other lines in connection therewith, to Messers A. Turner & Co., for whom he wishes to bespeak a continuance of the patronage of his old customers and the public at large. Also, that the Account Books will remain at the Drugg Store in the hands of A. Turner, who is authorized to receive all moneys due, and to give receipts for the same, or Robert Davis of Flesherton, in whose posession the accounts are for collection. An early settlement will much oblige.

T. S. SPROULE.

Markdale, Dec. 8, 1880. 13-2i

AUCTION SALE!
OF VALUABLE
FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by Virtue of Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of Sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE

RUTLEDGE HOUSE,

IN THE

Village of Markdale, in the County of Grey, on

Monday, the 10th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at THREE O'CLOCK in the Afternoon, the following land and premises, viz.:

Lot Number Forty, in the Fourteenth Concession of the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, containing One Hundred and Ten Acres more or less.

The following improvements are said to be on the premises, viz., A Log Dwelling and Frame Barn and Stable.

TERMS.—One Tenth of the purchase money must be paid down at time of sale. For balance, terms liberal, and will be made known at the sale.

For further particulars apply to

LEYS, PEARSON & KINGSFORD,
Solicitors, Toronto.

13-5 in

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blewing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.

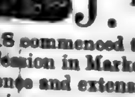
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the subscriber, Lot 135, Con. 2 West Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, about the 1st October, a Spring Heifer Calf, red and white. The owner is requested to prove property, pay charges, and take her away.

ROBERT BLAIR.

Artemesia, Nov. 26, 1880. 12-3i*



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD,
Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing disease lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

FOR Cheap Stationery, Beautiful Christmas and New Year's Cards call at the Standard Office.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

NOTICE.

PARTIES delivering logs at the Steam Saw Mill, Markdale, will please call and leave their names, and get a number to stamp on their logs, otherwise the proprietor will not hold himself responsible for logs which may be delivered.

Lumber, after being sawed three days and not piled, the "Mill Proprietor" will proceed to pile out of his way, and charge owner for time for doing so, and for space occupied.

The Highest Price in Cash

Paid for

Butternut, Cherry and Large Birch.

A Plainer and Matcher

is being put into his Mill and will be in running order by 1st April.

JAMES CHAPMAN, PROPRIETOR.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-2i

J. MONTGOMERY,
BAKER.

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is now prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 10-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS

Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorize them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or with any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, [illegible] to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: and for other purposes.

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

Now that the season of Good Cheer is at hand, I wish to call public attention to my stock of

CHOICE GROCERIES,

FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY

AND

LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at

☞ RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, the purest; MALT, the best; PORTER, equal to Ginness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in this section. Gold Crown Imperial Champagne.

☞ Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods.

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 2-ly

CHEAP CASH STORE.

Reynolds & Son,

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Groceries,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, ETC.,

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be surpassed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR $1.

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAND.

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880. 9

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY,

Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes,

ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

☞ Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment

OFFERED BY THE

BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE

LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

AND

British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED

Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES

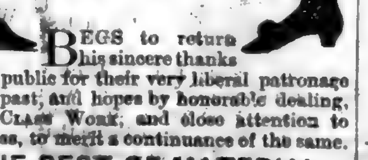
—ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3m

DONALD McLEOD,



MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal patronage in the past, and hopes by honorable dealing, FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same.

THE BEST OF MATERIAL

Used, and none but First-Class Mechanics employed.

Special attention paid to Repairing, which will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Specialty.

NOTICE.

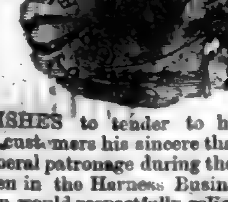
All over due accounts must be paid without delay or I shall have to resort to more costly means for collection.

D. McLEOD,
Corner of Queen and Mill Streets.

Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880. 7-6i

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, and would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS

HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.

☞ None but good workmen employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov, 18, 1880. 10

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

Subscribe for the Standard. We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

Merry Christmas to All!

...king my friends for the very liberal patronage they have given me during the past six years, I would remind all that I have now on hand

...A FAR SUPERIOR STOCK

than I have ever before handled and at LOWER PRICES. Having bought largely, I claim that

...CAN SELL AS CHEAP AS ANY MAN

or set of men doing a Retail Trade, and a look through my Stock will convince you of that fact.

...IN WATCHES

I have all grades and prices, from the best American manufacture, down to the cheapest grade of Swiss manufacture, and at prices that I am sure will suit all.

IN CLOCKS

I have all STYLES and PRICES from ONE Dollar up.

...Y STOCK OF JEWELLERY!

...u will find very complete---in Sets, Eardrops, Broaches, Friendship, Engagement and Wedding Rings, (no ...use for ANY MAN not getting married when he can get a suitable Ring for $1), Lockets, Chains, Necklets, ...ards, Silver Thimbles, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Scarf Pins, Cuff Pins, and in fact any thing in the Jewellery line. ...ave also a full line of CONCERTINAS, ACCORDIANS and VIOLINS, at the right prices. For instance, a good Violin for $1.50, or as much higher as you wish. Also, Violin Strings and findings.

LAZARUS, MORRIS & CO.'S SPECTACLES.

...r a number of years I have tried to secure the Agency for these very necessary articles, and at last I have succ...ded. I am now Sole Agent for Markdale, and have a full line of both Lazarus & Morris' and all cheaper grades of Spectacles, &c. Don't let ...er dealers mislead you in regard to these goods, as you cannot get them from Peddlers or in fact from any one else here but myself. They ... without doubt the best Glasses manufactured, there being about one million pairs now in use, giving general satisfaction. When in Mark...e don't fail to see my stock. Remember the place, Dominion Telegraph Office, next door to the "Standard" Office, Hill's Block.

...atches, Clocks & Jewellery Repaired on short notice.

E. D. WILCOX, Jeweller, &c.

...y New Year to All
...h to call Public attention to ...
...CERIES,
CONFECTIONERY
...ORS!
...ass, and at
...RICES!
...the purest; MALT, the best; FOR... Draft and Bottled Ale in this McINTYRE.
...STORE.
...& Son,
...nplete stock of
...roceries,
...HOES.
...SSWARE, ETC.,
...cannot be sur-... some of our
...A, 3lb. FOR $1.
...AYS ON HAND.
...asing elsewhere.
...S TAKEN IN EX-
...J & SON.
...HALL.
...SINESS.
...surround-
...ERY BUSINESS
...nal attention ...MATERIALS in
...a LARGE
..., Toys,
...rnamental, for
...Reduced Rates.
...STATIONERY,
...Express.
...& CO.
...per Cent.
...to buy
...Repayment
...COMPANY.
...IES.
...MPANY,
...ce Co.
...Machines.
...Rates.
...to call
...Markdale.
...MATHEWS,
...numerous ...thanks for their ...15 years he ...business in Mark... at ...that he ... Everything ...ually kept in a
...RST-CLASS
ESTABLISHMENT,
...sold at moderate rates. ...workman employed ...
...be for the Standard ...from now till the First of ...year's subscription

AN ENGLISH WAR CORRESPONDENT.

"Archibald Forbes once a private soldier? Then his origin must have been very humble and his education self-acquired." Not so fast, good readers. There are those who have poverty thrust upon them, and others who thrust poverty upon themselves. I am afraid Archibald Forbes belonged to the latter class. His father, Louis Forbes, was a Presbyterian Doctor of Divinity, while his mother belonged to the old family of Leslie. Living in the north of Scotland, Forbes studied first at school, then with a tutor, and finally at the Aberdeen university. Though excelling in classics, he had such an aversion to mathematics that when the senatus academicus recently proposed to confer upon him the degree of LL. D., an irate professor exclaimed:

"I can never consent to such a mockery. As a student Mr. Forbes was 'ploughed' in mathematics. I shall never consent that a man should receive an honorary degree from this university who has failed to pass his examinations."

Fortunately for Forbes, success on the battle field does not depend upon the appendix of LL. D.

During Forbes' second collegiate year, his father dropped dead in his pulpit. There being nine children, and little fortune, Archibald left Aberdeen for Edinburgh, with designs first upon the law, and secondly upon the church. While endeavouring to decide upon a career, he spent all his money, and fell in love with a young lady, with whom he arranged to elope in a gig on a certain Sunday when the obdurate father was to be at church. Alas, "the best-laid schemes o' mice and men gang aft a-gley!" The obdurate father waylaid our hero, remonstrated with practical determination, and turned the love-lorn youth into a ditch, whence he arose sadder and wetter.

Attaining his majority in 1850, Forbes became possessed of £2,500, and determined to join a cousin in Canada who owned a large tract of land near Lake Huron. On reaching Quebec, he lingered in the old town, held by the beaming eyes of his landlord's daughter. At the end of three months, the wild Scotchman had exhausted his resources, confessed his poverty to the landlord's daughter, and abandoned the idea of joining his cousin. With eight shillings in his pocket, he shipped for home as a sailor, and steered twelve hours a day for weeks, when his vessel became water-logged. No timber-ship can sink, otherwise Forbes would have gone to the bottom. There was no cooking for a week, life being maintained on biscuits and salt meat. After several sailors had been washed overboard, the crew took to the boat, which was picked up by the cotton ship Moses Taylor, from New Orleans. Finding that the crew were sadly diseased, Forbes, who had studied medicine en amateur, got out the medicine-chest, killed one patient and cured the rest. Of course his susceptible heart fell a prey to the captain's daughter, upon whom, when bidding her farewell in Liverpool, after three month's taste of salt water, he squandered his last eight shillings in grapes.

What was to be done? Never without resource, Forbes sold a fine field-glass, and, with the money, went to London, where he was recruited in the Royal Dragoons. Despite his tendency to "larks," he made rapid headway. In addition to his appointment as school-teacher to his company, Forbes was made acting-quartermaster-sergeant, without the rank of sergeant, as he happened to be the only man of his company who could solve the following stupendous problem in mental arithmetic,—"If one man is allowed the thirty-seventh part of an ounce of pepper per day, what is the amount to be drawn for two hundred men per week." Having compassed this, Forbes was let off from punishment drills, and became an object of admiration to his companions. Already articles by him had been accepted for "Household Words" and the "Cornhill Magazine." Shortly after, he competed for a prize essay of fifteen guineas, to be written by a working-man, "On the advantages to the mother country derived from her colonies." He was then stationed at Weedon, where libraries are conspicuously absent, and as he knew nothing about the colonies, how could he obtain dates? Discovering an old encyclopedia, he collected his material from it, wrote his essay, and secured the prize!

Owing to literary earnings, Forbes had more money than his fellows, and consequently got into frequent trouble. His colonel—now General Wardlaw—was a strict disciplinarian, and meted out punishment accordingly. Toward the end of his military career, which lasted five years, Forbes bore a very good character—a happy change, which would probably have led to promotion had not his health given way and caused him to be invalided. After enduring ignorant army hospital treatment for eighteen months, he went to London, got well in six weeks, and was then sent to Aldershot to show the military surgeons how easy had been his case.

In losing an obstreperous soldier, England gained a new species of correspondence. Forbes's first contribution to journalism was published in 1865, in the "Evening Star." He became a casual writer on the "Morning Advertiser," and once received eight shillings for a paragraph accepted by the "Daily News." On this promising income he married; after publishing an article in the "Cornhill" on "Army Reform," and another in "St. Paul," entitled "Soldiers' Wives," both of which were well received, Forbes started a paper called the "London Scotsman," intended like every other newspaper, to fill an aching void. It provided Scotchmen with condensed news from their own country, but as they either failed to see its necessity, or expected to get it for nothing, the editor did not amass a fortune. He eked out a precarious existence by occasional dramatic and musical criticism contributed to the "Morning Advertiser."

Unfortunately for art, Forbes is not the only example of the wrong man in the wrong place. When sent to pronounce upon the merits of a performer on the pedal pianoforte, the ex-soldier regarded the artist from a gymnastic point of view and praised him as an acrobat!

On the breaking-out of the Franco-German war, Forbes was engaged in writing a novel for his paper, while cherishing the idea that nature had designed him for war correspondence, an idea he communicated to James Grant, editor of the "Morning Advertiser," who soon after said to him:

"I've concluded to offer you a position as war correspondent. Choose whichever side you prefer."

Having studied German tactics, acquired a slight knowledge of the German language, and feeling sure that the German eagle would win, the ex-soldier-editor went direct to Saarbruck, and witnessed the "baptism by fire," on August 2, 1870. It is strange that he should have beheld the defeat at Sedan, seen Louis Napoleon dead at Chiselhurst, and his son dead in Africa.

At Saarbruck, Forbes helped to save the life of Major Battye, who belonged to the celebrated Indian Guides, and has since been killed in Afghanistan. Following the Germans as a spectator, Major Battye lost his temper on seeing a soldier killed beside him. Seizing the dead man's needle-gun, he opened upon the French, and promptly received a chassepot bullet in the ribs. Forbes picked up the impetuous major, carried him to a place of safety, and temporarily repaired him by encasing him in brown paper plastered over with paste.

Present at the battles of Courcelles, Vionville, and Gravelotte, Forbes advanced with the Germans to Paris. He and his companions were so far forward as to be ignorant of the flank movement to the right which ended in the battle of Sedan, and held on their way alone through Chalons until actually warned by the French in the street to be careful or they would fall into the hands of the Germans, who had been seen in the neighbourhood. Recovering touch of the Germans, Forbes was under fire the entire day, and the next morning witnessed Napoleon's surrender to Bismarck. He and his young Dutch companion, De Liefde, were the only civilians who witnessed the historic event.

On the night of the day Napoleon left for Wilhelmshoho, Forbes and De Liefde, being unable to find quarters elsewhere, asked for lodging in the Chateau Bellevue, which had been the ex-emperor's temporary residence. Their request was granted, but without food. While Forbes was writing his despatch on the table on which the capitulation had been signed, De Liefde sat gnawing a ham-bone taken from their own stores. Failing by this means to appease a ravenous appetite, he threw the bone in disgust upon the table, and upset Forbes's ink. On returning to the Chateau, three months later, Forbes was gravely shown the stain of his own ink as a souvenir of the capitulation! The French commander had upset the bottle in his rage at Moltke's exorbitant demands! It was then that De Liefde and Forbes tossed for the right to sleep in the ex-Emperor's bed. The ever lucky Forbes won. On a little table by the bed, with leaf turned down, was the book which Napoleon had read before going to sleep,—Bulwer's "Last of the Barons!"

Forbes was the first non-combatant to ride round Paris before the city was entirely invested, and while waiting at Meaux for the progress of the environment, he received orders to return home. The "Morning Advertiser" no longer required his services, for the quaint reason that this journal already had a correspondent inside of a city which was about to be besieged! Forbes reached London in three days, sole possessor of information concerning French plans. As his essay in war correspondence had abruptly ended in recall, he concluded to return to his miserable "London Scotsman." However, he determined, if possible, to sell his knowledge. As "The Times" turned a deaf ear to his application, Forbes stood in Fleet street, and tossed "odd man out," to which of three papers—"Daily News," "Standard," and "Telegraph"—he should go with his copy. The "Daily News" won the toss. He found favour at last, and was told to write three columns. On returning to the office to state that the subject was not yet exhausted, the editor replied:

"Write on, then, until it is. We'll take as much as you like of this kind of copy."

Forbes wrote six columns and arranged for another article to appear the day after, but when he presented his second manuscript the manager said:

"I don't think we want it."

The tone greatly irritated the already jaundiced Forbes, who politely requested Mr. Robinson "to go to the devil," and then proceeded to go elsewhere himself. Chasing the correspondent up the street, the manager finally overtook and calmed him by the magic announcement:

"I want you to go to Metz to-night for us."

It was four o'clock in the afternoon: Forbes left three hours later. This was his first engagement upon a journal with which he has been connected ever since."

At Metz Forbes began to revolutionize war correspondence by living on foreposts, witnessing every fight, and substituting for curt telegrams of bare facts, long descriptive letters telegraphed in full. According to Forbes, successful war correspondence depends upon three attributes:—faculty of organization, capacity of physical endurance, and the gift of lucid writing, resulting from studiously acquired military knowledge. From a journalistic as well as from a military point of view, the base of a campaign must be secure; open communication and presence in the right place are indispensable. Forbes seems to snuff a battle afar off, and is ready to live in squalor, as he did for six weeks within easy range of French cannon before Metz capitulated. It was the wettest autumn on record, and typhoid fever and dysentery were his constant companions. During a sortie, Forbes received a flesh wound in the leg which continued open for months, but which did not force him to leave the front. For these six weeks he did not sleep in a bed except on occasional visits to the telegraphic base at Saarbruck. Before the capitulation was effected, he was the first to enter Metz, and informally joining the sanitary volunteers, he devoted himself to the removal of sick and wounded, 2000 of whom were in a state of semi-putrefaction. As the most infectious disorders reigned, including the rare type of fiery typhus, Forbes's leg was attacked with gangrene, which had to be burned out with nitric acid. By constant smoking, never removing his boots, and carrying in his mouth a sponge saturated with vinegar, he managed to keep on his legs, but was finally ordered to England, lest, by a longer stay in so foul an atmosphere, amputation should become necessary.

On reaching London, Forbes showed his disabled leg to Mr. Robinson, who remarked with a shudder:

"As a fellow-man, I say you ought to lay up for six months; as a newspaper manager, I wish you would start for the seige of Paris to-night."

Forbes started immediately, and his leg got well, probably owing partly to his rule of being a teetotaler seven days out of twenty-one. Attached to the head-quarters of the army commanded by the Crown Prince of Saxony, Forbes witnessed the hardest fighting of the siege. After the final bombardment of St. Denis, he contrived to get inside the walls, which had been reduced to a most dilapidated condition, and was offered food by a Protestant pastor. The meat consisted of part of a young gray horse that had been killed by a shell.

During the siege, Forbes wrote letters in full, which were sent to an agent on the frontier, who telegraphed them to London. This feat excited great surprise among the Germans, who knew that Forbes had permission from the Crown Prince to telegraph only short messages from the offices within his army. One day a Forbes telegram appeared dated at a place where there was no telegraph office. It was reported to Prince George of Saxony's staff by a jealous correspondent.

That same night, Forbes dined with this staff, and was asked to explain the incomprehensible.

"Why," he replied, jestingly, "I have my own private wire, and shall telegraph from here directly."

Knowing that orders had been given at Prince George's office to receive no telegram that night from him, Forbes quietly wrote a letter directed to his frontier agent, and put it in the post. The next day, it was telegraphed to London, and copies of the "Daily News" were sent to Prince George with Mr. Forbes' compliments.

Pending the capitulation of Paris in February, 1871, some fifty journalists waited hungrily to enter on the side of Versailles. Forbes arranged to enter by the north, through St. Denis, and accomplished his purpose on horseback, dressed as a Prussian, and was, in consequence, very nearly killed by a drunken National Guard. Having little knowledge of French and no knowledge whatever of Paris, he had great difficulty in finding Mr. Washburne's bureau, where sat Colonel Hoffman, who gazed with surprise upon the first man he had seen from the exterior world. He sent the stranger to Uthank's English Hotel, in the Faubourg St. Honore, the only hotel open during the siege. Forbes brought forth from his wallet five pounds of sliced ham, which Uthank's people put on a large covered plate and exhibited in the Faubourg at ten centimes a peep, as the first outside marketing to enter Paris.

After walking about dark streets all night, Forbes, who had stabled his horse without leave, rode to Vincennes, where he passed the Prussian lines. He then galloped fifteen miles to Lagny, the terminus of the German railroad system, which he reached in time to catch the train for Germany, but killed his poor horse in the effort. On went the war correspondent for twenty-two hours, without stopping. Reaching Carlsrhue at two o'clock in the morning, he made his way to the telegraph-office, where the two girls in charge refused to take a long telegram until day set in. Coaxing and bribery, however, accomplished their purpose. At eight o'clock the despatch was finished which gave the first details of the interior of Paris that had reached England for a week. Taking the next train to Paris, Forbes entered the Hotel Chatham on the morning of the third day after his departure, and was roundly chaffed for his delay by two journalists who had just got in. Fancy their feelings on reading the "Daily News"! Couriers were so untrustworthy that it was not unusual for Forbes to carry news to England twice a week. He was often the only passenger, and nearly died from fatigue.

After witnessing the great parade at Longchamps, Forbes on the same day accompanied the German troops into Paris. Leaving the German cordon and entering that part of the town still in French hands, he was assailed by the mob as a German spy. A fight ensued, in which Forbes's clothes were torn off. "Let us drown him!" shouted the mob, who threw him on the ground and proceeded to drag him over the stone streets. Rescued by a National Guard picket, the supposed spy was taken to a police-station, and brought before a magistrate whose sister spoke English, and who testified her belief in Forbes's representations. On being released, Forbes borrowed apparel from the brother of his benefactor, who accompanied him to his hotel. "How can I repay you for all that you have done for me?" asked the correspondent. "More easily than you think," replied the Frenchwoman. "My brother and I are literally starving. He has received no salary for six months, and, as gentlefolk, we cannot stand in the queue with the populace to receive alms. Doubtless you know persons connected with the distribution of England's gift. Any food will be a godsend." As one of the English Almoners happened to be staying at Forbes' hotel, a hamper was dispatched to the Frenchwoman, who went away sobbing like a child. That same night, Forbes started for England, and wrote his account of the entrance into Paris before he had washed the blood-stains from his head and hands. This account appeared in a special edition of the "Daily News," and the next morning Mr. Robinson found his correspondent asleep on the floor with the London Directory for a pillow.

On returning to Paris, just as the Commune was collapsing, Forbes entered by La Chappelle gate, and the same afternoon reached Dombrowski in Chateau La Muette. While dining, the report came that the Versaillists had forced the Porte de la Muette. Desperate fighting ensued, during which Dombrowski, who had mounted a wall, was wounded, and fell into Forbes's arms. All then ran away. The next morning, Forbes was "requisitioned" by the Communists to aid in erecting a barricade across the Rue Rivoli, and again, later in the day, to defend an indefensible position, the defenders of which promptly disappeared. Some hours after, Forbes stood behind shelter in Rue La Fayette and watched the Versaillists take the Grand Opera House. There followed a pandemonium of indiscriminate slaughter. Unable to communicate with England, Forbes got out of Paris with great difficulty, and brought to London the news that Paris was in flames. He returned to the distracted city in time to witness the final downfall of the Communards in the slums of Bellevue and in Pere la Chaise.

On the abdication of King Amadeus, Forbes visited Spain to watch the new republic, the difficulty of directing which was materially enhanced by the purity of its leaders. They would neither bribe nor be bribed, and without bribery no government can live in Spain. Castelar is a dreamer whose aspirations are too good for this work-a-day world. Figueras resigned because, by his own confession, he had not iron enough in his system to be a leader of men. Finding the republic a myth, Forbes, in 1872, went in search of the civil war in Catalonia, and found Contreras in command of the Republican troops at Barcelona. This fat scoundrel, who in a carriage looked as broad as he was long, afterward conducted the communistic insurrection in Carthagena, when a penny post-man and a shoe-maker were joint presidents. Forbes tried to induce Contreras to march against the Carlists, and finally the fat commander succeeded in getting his army one day's march out of Barcelona, on the conclusion of which feat the army triumphantly mutinied, and were gloriously marched back. Disgusted with Contreras, Forbes underwent four months of bushwhacking with the Carlists, whom he found personally pleasanter than the royalists. They had little fighting capacity, but died like gentlemen.

Returning to England, Forbes suggested the Ashantee war in a letter to the "Daily News," his propositions being carried out immediately, and their utility being unofficially acknowledged by military magnates. Bad health prevented the inventor of this war from reporting it.

In the beginning of 1874, a famine desolated Tirhoot, a densely populated district of Bengal, where the people swarm like flies. Forbes passed the summer among these miserable people, numbers of whom died, though $15,000,000 were expended in mitigating the horrors of the situation. One great difficulty in preventing starvation arose from the existence of caste. No food cooked by one caste could be eaten by another. Forbes saw a woman come to a trough for food who, on observing that the people handling this food were of inferior caste to herself, lay down and died with her infant in her arms!

After receiving a sunstroke from which he lay insensible for two days, Forbes returned home after eight months' absence. He became cognizant of the intrigue for the restoration of Prince Alfonso of Spain, who was then a boy, a fine fellow, and a fine rider, with a certain dignity, and a certain amount of ready brains. Accompanying Alfonso to Madrid, Forbes assisted at the coronation and followed the king to Navarre in pursuit of Carlists, who were finally paid to give up a lost cause.

Gladly leaving the land of hidalgos, in August, 1875, Forbes went with the Prince of Wales through India, where life was made up of pageants that unrolled themselves like gorgeous panoramas, and displayed the jealousies of native princes who quarrelled about precedence, scowled, sulked, and even went away altogether. But, though these princes hated each other, they learned to esteem the Prince of Wales, whose manners toward them were irreproachable. He combined tact with dignity, and always did the right thing at the right time. According to Forbes, England's hold on India would not be worth a month's purchase but for military rule. All save traders, detest the English, and they are only friendly through interest. British military rule is a semi-despotism, not always wisely directed.

April, 1876, found Forbes again in England, but the breaking out of the Servian war caused him to join General Tchernayeff, a Russian Schlavophil who undertook to organize the Servian militia, and accomplished wonders. By presenting a bold front and throwing up earth-works, he so impressed the Turks with a belief in Servian strength that a war which should have ended in a fortnight was prolonged four months. More than one narrow escape from capture and death served to keep Forbes on the alert, while life in camp was curious enough. On the approach of winter, officers and men were quartered in holes excavated in the ground and covered over with sod. Piled up in the centre of each subterranean camp was a huge fire round which all slept. Mice that nibbled hair and whiskers were frequent companions,—not to mention less agreeable vermin. Forbes brought to Belgrade the tidings of the Servian collapse, having on this occasion seen a battle that lasted nine hours, travelled by post 150 miles, and telegraphed four columns to the "Daily News" in thirty-four hours.

In the spring of 1877, Forbes joined the Russian army in the campaign against the Turks, and, owing to Russian secretiveness, was sorely puzzled to learn where the Danube would be crossed. Thanks to Prince Mirski, who gave him a hint, he was the only English correspondent who solved the problem, and hurrying to Bucharest with the news, again did his journal great credit. Sole English correspondent present at the murderous and disastrous Russian assault on Plevna, in July, 1877, Forbes was decorated with the order of St. Stanislaus for personal intrepidity in rescuing the Russian wounded. By desperately riding his horse to death, Forbes reached Bucharest—a distance of 100 miles—the day after the battle, and telegraphed eight columns of description, which appeared in the "Daily News" of the following morning. For sixty hours he underwent continuous physical and mental exertion, almost without food and entirely without sleep. The narrative telegraphed to London bore so hard on the Russians that all anticipated the writer's expulsion from the Muscovite army. Recognizing the truth, however, of the English account, the Russian military leaders instructed their press to accept it as accurate.

Again, having witnessed the fight at Shipka Pass, and being convinced that the Russians could hold their position, Forbes quitted the scene of combat at six o'clock in the evening, on the return journey to Bucharest, and riding all night reached the imperial head-quarters the next morning, having outstripped the Russian couriers. Taken before the Emperor, who was anxious and careworn, and very shabbily dressed, Forbes gave him all the information at his command, and was warmly thanked for his promptitude. Radetsky had exclaimed at Shipka Pass: "I've got this place, and, please God, I'll keep it as long as I'm alive." Forbes assured the Emperor that the Pass would be held; but as reports of a different nature reached head-quarters during the day, Forbes passed more than one mauvais quart d'heure, the German military attache of the imperial staff assuring the Emperor that Forbes had led them astray. At last news came that corroborated his statements, whereupon the Emperor turned upon Major Lignitz, exclaiming:

"You were wrong. I believe Ignatieff's Englishman is the only man among you who knows anything about war."

Forbes and MacGahan shared between them the descriptions of the September attacks on Plevna, which lasted five days. At their conclusion, Forbes, shattered by exposure, fatigue, and fever, abandoned the field and nearly died at Bucharest. He left the interest of the "Daily News" in charge of those two masters of war correspondence, H. A. MacGahan and F. D. Millet, both Americans and both peers of their English confreres. MacGahan died at his post, beloved by Bulgaria, whose wrongs he published to the world, and thereby righted; his death was deplored by friends and employers, as an irreparable loss to journalism. Millet accomplished wonderful feats, and lives to tell the tale in his American studio, where historic painting claims time once given to picturesque writing.

In the summer of 1878, Forbes went with Sir Garnet Wolseley to take possession of that pestiferous island, Cyprus, and, like everybody else, fell a victim to fever. Nevertheless, he contrived to be at Simla, in the Himalayas, shortly before the outbreak of the Afghan war, and at his own peril carried the first dispatches announcing success. The short telegram sent to the "Daily News" bore the date of ten o'clock, a.m. Ten minutes before ten, papers containing his dispatch were sold in Fleet street. The curious fact was due, of course, to the five hours' difference [illegible] between India and England.

Having eaten his Christmas dinner at Jelalabad, Forbes departed for Burmah, intending to interview young Theebaw, the noble Lord of the White Elephant, Monarch of the Golden Umbrella, etc., etc., who had then just ascended the throne. He accomplished his mission one week before the young monarch massacred all his relatives. Accordingly, Forbes was accused by the Calcutta press of having gone to Mandalay for the purpose of bringing about this Christian catastrophe, and thus scoring a sensation! On his way down the Irrawaddy, Forbes read the telegram which recounted the disaster of Isandula, and in an hour later received the curt order, "Go and do the Zulu war." He had a vague notion that the Zulus lived in South Africa, and a geographical friend in Rangoon told him that Durban was the seaport to make for. So for Durban he headed—away across India, from Calcutta to Lahore, from Lahore down the Indus to Kurrachee, from Kurrachee by steam to Aden, from Aden by steam to Zanzibar, and from Zanzibar again by steam down the south-eastern coast to Port Durban. Discovering at Ulandi that Lord Chelmsford was dispatching no immediate courier, the war correspondent started at sundown from the frontier, rode alone through a trackless country swarming with Zulus, and reached the telegraph-wire, a distance of 110 miles, in fifteen hours, whence he sent the earliest account of the victory to England, as well as to Sir Garnet Wolseley and Sir Bartle Frere. His report in the "Daily News" was read aloud in both Houses of Parliament, amid clamourous applause. Anxious to give details to Sir Garnet Wolseley, Forbes continued his ride to Pietermaritzburg, 170 miles farther on, which he accomplished in thirty hours. The entire ride occupied ninety-six hours, three of which were given to sleep. All this was done by a man with a contusion on his leg, caused by a spent bullet received at Ulandi, which afterward suppurated, and compelled his return to England.

During his enforced vacations, Forbes has lectured on the Franco-German war and the Zulu campaign, and has by special invitation addressed the United Service Club, the highest military institution in England, on "Russian military operations in Bulgaria." On this occasion the Duke of Cambridge paid him the compliment of offering to take the chair. While thanking the commander-in-chief, Forbes said that he would be more appropriate if his old colonel, now General Wardlaw, should preside. The General did so, and when the lecturer stated that he was proud to see in the chair a gallant officer who, in times long past, had more than once issued the stern edict, "Let that man have ten days' pack drill," the confession was greeted with shouts of laughter, in which General Wardlaw heartily joined, declaring, on rising to propose a vote of thanks, that he had no recollection of the little occurrences referred to, but if ever he did give Mr. Forbes punishment drill, it was doubtless most richly deserved.

Such is the outline of Archibald Forbes's career—a true war correspondent, who thinks a fight the most exquisite delight in the world, and considers a complicated technical battle the most elevated enjoyment of which the human mind is capable.

ITEMS OF INTEREST.

CYRUS W. FIELD, with his wife, son, and daughter-in-law, are going around the world. They will not go in eighty days—but in a steamboat.

ASTRONOMICALLY speaking, the orbits of the lordly turkey and cranberry sauce soon cross each other, and these two will then be in conjunction.

THE daughters of the Duke of Richmond are persistent and successful fisherwomen, and as catchers of salmon are said to be rivaling their countrymen.

THE estate of an English miser named Rhodes was lately wound up. It realized $390,000. The sale of his effects in his residence resulted in $28.75.

VERA SASSULITCH, the accomplished assassin of the Nihilists, should come to this country and lecture on "Kings I Have Tried to Shoot." We believe such a lecture would go off well.

AN Englishwoman who wrote to the London Queen to know what would be a suitable outfit for Nile travelling, was bidden to get a small riding whip, as the natives are sometimes very importunate, and nothing else would keep them off.

MALTA must be a paradise for habitual topers. In Valetta, the capital of the island, there is now a grog shop for every seventy-five inhabitants, including women and children. In addition to these there are, of course, the soldiers and sailors, who are the principal frequenters of many of these establishments.

LORD HENRY GORDON, brother of the Marquis of Huntly, and formerly of the firm of Newton, Gordon & Co., tobacco and general brokers, is a bankrupt. Lord Henry's grandfather, Lord Huntly, had the same sad fate, and the sheriffs occupied his house. The present peer, an able man of high character, repaired the fortunes of his family by marrying a Manchester millionaire's daughter.

Two sisters at Lackawaxen, P., were engaged to marry two brothers, and the double wedding was to take place about the holidays. Just before the election, one of the girls asked her lover to take her to a Republican meeting, but he, being a Democrat, refused. She appealed to his brother, a Republican, and he accompanied her. The sister who remained at home and the Democrat brother, finding their political sympathies in accord, agreed to break up the previous arrangement and become man and wife. The idea met with favour all round, and the wedding will take place accordingly, each of the four taking a different mate.

SOLOMON JONES of Bloomburg, Mi., was 70 when, after many years of poverty, he received $2,000 in pension money. He had no relatives to leave it to when he died, and therefore made up his mind to spend it all himself. In view of the probably short time remaining to him in this world, he felt that he must be fast and furious in his pleasures, if he would spend the whole $2,000. He married a young wife, and gratified her love and dress; he got in a large stock of beverages, and drank them recklessly; he bought a fast horse, and bet on him. At the end of three months the last dollar was gone, his wife deserted him, his horse died, and he is still without any immediate prospect of dying.

A Benovelent Man.

"Any chestnuts around here?" asked one of three city boys who met an aged benevolent-looking farmer out in Montgomery county. The old man hesitated. "You don't want to steal 'em?" he asked. "Oh, no; we just wanted to find out." "Well, there's a few trees back there, but if I thought you wanted to steal them I wouldn't have told you, for the owner's gone to town; but you're bright honest looking boys." The boys blushed with the pride of conscious goodness. "When will the owner be back?" "Well, not before dark, I reckon." The boys respectfully thanked the old man, waited till he got out of sight, jumped the fence, and were soon shaking down the burrs. The shaking was easy, but the opening of the chestnut-burrs was more difficult and unpleasant. At last the boys had a splendid pile of handsome, brown nuts on the ground, and they prepared to put them in the bags they brought with them.

Please don't take any more trouble," said the benevolent old man who stood by the fence beaming kindly on the startled boys. "I'm not so strong as I once was, and I fear I can't hold this dog much longer. If you'll hurry, though, I guess I can keep him here till you get to the railroad track. Down, Tiger, sir!" As the boys looked back from the railroad fence they could see the stooping figure of the old man scooping the rich, brown chestnuts into a two-bushel bag.

A LITTLE boy, named Johnny, from the interior of the State, who had been raised on a stock ranche, and had heard a good deal about the consequences of stockmen killing yearlings that did not belong to them, came to Galveston to live. The other day Johnny's Sunday school teacher asked him: "Why did not Abraham offer up Isaac?" "Perhaps Isaac didn't belong to the old man's mark and brand."

SARA BERNHARDT is taking lessons in English. Exercise I. Who has the shekels of the American? Mr. Abbey has the shekels of the American. What shekels have I? I have French, Dutch, Swiss, and English shekels. Have you American shekels? Yes, sir, I have some American shekels; but you may bet your boots they are nothing to what I am going to rake in before I get through.

An Artist in Crime.

SHERWOOD, THE AMERICAN FORGER, TELLING THE TRICKS OF HIS TRADE TO A LONDON [illegible]

[From the London Standard.]

An American artist in crime, named Charles Sherwood, gave an interesting account recently in the central criminal court, of the manner in which circular notes stolen from tourists could be cashed. It appeared from the evidence that a Mr. Young, a Middlesex magistrate, was in August, 1877, robbed of certain circular notes — his pocket-book being purloined when he was crossing from Folkstone to Boulogne. Associated with each circular note is a "letter of indication," the object of which is to prove the identity of the person attempting to cash the instrument, and, as it is carried separately from the notes, it was a mystery how money could be got for the stolen paper. In February, 1877, however, the notes all came back to the bank of issue. They had been cashed abroad, letters of indication having been obtained to cover them. How, it will be asked, had these documents been got? From the testimony of Sherwood, who gave evidence against John Watson, the man accused of being the forger, it appears that the latter opened a sham account with the Southwark branch of the London Joint Stock bank—a branch of the bank that issued the letters of credit in the first instance. He there got circular notes equal in number to the stolen instruments, and with them, of course, "letters of indication." These notes he cashed, promptly. He next handed the "letters of indication" to Sherwood, who, by chemical means, soon altered them so as to do duty for the stolen notes. Although the jury found Watson guilty, it is probable that Sherwood is the more dangerous adventurer of the two. He is evidently a man of some scientific attainments, and he unblushingly admitted that he acted as a kind of chemical adviser to "professional" forgers. Nay, he pretends to be in possession of a plan which would render forgeries wrought by chemical agents impossible. This valuable secret, however, he has not been able to sell in New York, owing, he thinks to the fact the transatlantic detectives, who, he insinuates, are in collusion with the forgers, prejudice the minds of the authorities against him. Let us hope that if there be any efficiency in his device his attempt to benefit society by disposing of it here will not be met with the chilling neglect that has caused him to withhold so valuable a secret from his own countrymen.

British Columbia and Confederation.

TRUTH, in common with other papers here and elsewhere, has received a growl from British Columbia in the shape of a large circular in which the grievances and manifold wrongs of that province are set forth. The great trouble is in the non-fulfilment on the part of the Dominion Government of its engagement to build the line of railway between Esquimalt and Nanaimo, although "the Dominion tariff," comes in for a sly side-assault. In this matter, indeed, the circular is somewhat illogical, for we cannot for the life of us see how the building of the line in question would affect the tariff or the trade with the United States. This, however, may pass. The circular may be summed up as containing three distinct statements. First, it says to the Dominion, in effect, "You promised to build this line of railway within a specified time, when we of British Columbia did you the great favour of joining you in Confederation. Secondly, you have not begun to do it further than getting rails for the line. Thirdly, if you don't set to work at once and get it done we will separate from you and leave you out in the cold."

Now to all this there is just one answer. It is hard to see how British Columbia would get her railway built if she did separate, for the day is past when provincial Governments could find financiers ready to lend their money for schemes of local improvement that could only be remunerative to the lenders in the course of a couple of generations or so, if at all. This much also is very clear that it is only through sheer inability that the Dominion Government has failed, so far, to implement its promise. It was easy for Earl Dufferin to gush and give taffy when he wanted to ingratiate himself with the British Columbians, but his note would change considerably if he had to settle the details of the financial matters of the country. In fine, British Columbia must await its turn, and need not expect that, for its sake, the whole of Dominion interests must "take a back seat." When it is possible for the Dominion Government to fulfil its promise to that province it will most assuredly do so, but until that time comes, it is worse than useless for the Mayor of Victoria or any other Columbian to threaten us with separation, and its train of attendant pains and penalties.

Over a Century Old.

A reporter for the Indianapolis Journal has bagged rare newspaper game in the person of a coloured girl reputed to be 115 years old. The reporter found her at No. 176 Yandes street, and was soon convinced that she was more than a century old. The old lady was sitting by the fire sewing, and the reporter was introduced and proceeded to interview her. She is quite deaf, but by drawing largely on his reserve lung power the reporter succeeded in making himself understood. She said that she was born in North Carolina, and was brought to Kentucky when she was a child, by her first master, Joseph Bryant. She did not remember what year it was. She was on the site of Louisville when there was but two or three log cabins there, and she described the place as a big swamp, and that when she was there it was filled with wild geese and ducks. She afterwards became the slave of Judge Doak, now dead, who lived in Shelby county, and from whom she takes her name. She is known as Amy Doak. She is the mother of ten children, the youngest of whom is 58 years of age. Their youngest child is the mother of Mrs. Cooper, and has grandchildren 12 years of age. Amy's other children were sold from her long ago; and if living are scattered over the southern states. She knows of the whereabouts of but two or three. She has seen her children's children down to the fourth generation. The reporter asked the daughter, Mrs. Whitton, how she knew her mother's age. She said that just before leaving Kentucky she asked Mr. Doak, a son of Judge Doak, about it, and that he looked in his father's books and found the record of the purchase of Amy, and that this shows that she is 115 years old. The old lady is quite feeble, and wears all the marks of extreme old age. Her eyes are unusually bright, however, and light up wonderfully when she talks about the occurrences of one hundred years ago. Her memory is very good of the events of her early life, but is almost a blank in regard to the happenings of the past ten years.

Our Girls.

"The chief end" of woman is to be married. This will be acknowledged to be at least ostensibly the main object and purpose of the average woman's existence. Naturally then we should expect her to prepare herself and be so educated and trained that she may efficiently and satisfactorily fill the sphere she will then be called on to occupy. But, as a matter of fact, we find that the very opposite course is being pursued, and so-called 'accomplishments' are acquired by girls that may more or less successfully qualify them for shining at parties and balls, but which are utterly useless, or nearly so, in the home circle. Why is this? Probably, (we might almost say certainly) the reason is to be found among young men. They evince a very foolish preference for the butterfly order of girls, not considering that, for marriage and management of a home, more solid qualities are indispensable. In consequence of this preference, mothers who have daughters to get "off their hands" take pains to give them the taking qualities and they turn out wives who know nothing of domestic management and are as much at sea with regard to the very first elements that go to make home happy as a South Sea savage is in regard to Herbert Spencer's philosophy. Here is a case in point. A young man in London recently got married to the object of his adoration and only discovered when too late, that not only did she not know the first thing about household matters, but absolutely gloried in her ignorance and boasted of it to her female friends. Naturally enough he got savage as a bear over the matter, but she only laughed in his face and plainly gave him to understand that he could not help himself. What developments may further arise we do not know, but we venture to say they will be little for edification. We are sorry for that young man, but who can help him? There is only one way out of the fix that we know of and we would not like to suggest that to him, viz.—a change of air "across the lines."

MATTERS DRAMATIC.

At the debut of Mlle. De Brunois, in La Somnambula, the Princess of Wales was dressed in black, with the single addition to [illegible] of brown gloves.

THERE should be a difference between a musician and a donkey. The donkey cannot kick over five bars at a time. A musician will kick if there are no more than five bars in a strain.

OLE BULL bequeathed the greater portion of the jewelled decorations and medals, which were given to him by kings and emperors, to the museum of Bergen, Norway. Among them is the golden crown, ornamented with diamonds and pearls, given him at San Francisco.

MR. THOMAS GOULD, the sculptor of the beautiful statue of the West Wind, and the bas-relief of Hamlet's Ghost, has just finished a heroic statue in bronze of King Kamehameha I. of the Sandwich Islands, which is to be erected at Honolulu.

CLARA MORRIS will, when on the stage, speak to the people about her, and give directions to the leader of the orchestra, all in full possession of herself, and in the next moment will throw herself into her part, shed real tears, and thrill the hearer, as if "possessed" by quite another person.

A GOOD many excellent and graceful actresses come from the ballet. Carlotta Leclercq was a danseuse, so was Mme. Celeste, so was Polly Marshall, so was Lydia Thompson, so was Mary Gannon. Charlotte Cushman was originally a singer; so was Mrs. Keeley, who sang in "Oberon" and many English operas.

ALBERT WOLFF tells how, once upon a time, he and some of his chums, hearing that Offenbach was coming to Etretat, organized a triumphal reception in his honour. A collection of arms and costumes was procured from a friend's house, and half a dozen halberdiers, worthy of a place in the forces of the Grand Duchess of Gerolstein, were drawn up in military array in front of the hotel. A boy, attired as a herald, was mounted on a jackass, and two toy cannon thundered a salute, while the halberdiers presented arms. Wolff himself came forward, and presented the keys of the hotel on a plated salver to the maestro, who accepted the whole thing with effusion, didn't see through it a bit, and, as the tears stood in his eyes, exclaimed, "Oh, but this is too much, too much!" The same sort of joke was carried out many years ago, with equal success, at Pencarrow, Lady Molesworth's seat in Cornwall, when Lady E., famous for the tremendous airs she gave herself, came on a visit. Some wags in the house got up triumphal arches, with "Welcome, noble Charlotte!" "Hail, Queen of Society!" and other tomfoolery. "Noble Charlotte" gulped it all down with infinite gusto; but, when her husband, a sensible man, came to hear of it, he was greatly mortified.

Stage Legs.

A London correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: Mr. Sothern is excessively anxious that his brother artist Edwin Booth should succeed in London.

The only question about the matter is this, will the London public carry its horror of the old school of acting so far as to overlook the American "Hamlet's" great ability on account of his personation being built-up somewhat on the traditional lines?

"One thing about Edwin Booth should have great success here," said Mr. Sothern, "and that's his legs?"

"His legs?"

"Legs are never those of the ordinary human type when attached to a tragedian, except in Booth's case. Now, take Forrest's legs. You remember Forrest's legs?"

"O, yes."

"Simply the trunks of giant trees which he was engaged in dragging on every stage, splitting the ears of the groundlings with them. Then the antipode of Forrest's legs are Irving's legs, almost invisible—the minus of algebra. Then Macready's legs—remember Macready?"

"I never saw Macready."

"He was heavily handicapped by legs. He walked in this way," and Sothern rose from his easy-chair and strode about his dining-room, dragging first one leg and then the other after him to the toe-point. "Regular 'Crushed' walk, don't you know? Now, Edwin Booth's legs are the legs of common life, and as such I think will meet with general favour."

A Prima Donna Lost and Found.

For several days not a little anxiety has been felt here by the friends of Mlle. Marie Litta regarding her welfare. She was to have been at her home in Bloomington last Sunday, and, according to her agreement with her Chicago managers, she was due in this city last Monday, having to appear here next week. Not appearing at the appointed time, it was feared she was sick somewhere, or foul play suspected, and on Tuesday telegraphic communication was opened with the opera company in which she and Tagliapietra had been giving opera throughout the South. This company was traced into Texas, en route to Mexico, and, although many despatches were sent, nothing could be heard of Litta's whereabouts. At last her friends enlisted the influence and authority of the Superintendent of the Western Union, and yesterday it was brought to light that all the despatches forwarded to the lost prima donna had been quietly and remorselessly intercepted by Tagliapietra, whose plot it was to keep Litta in ignorance of the exact date of her engagement here, in order that he might continue the large business which the opera company was doing, and carry Litta with him into Mexico. As soon as Litta was made personally aware of the situation of things, she telegraphed at once to Chicago and Bloomington, and relieved the suspense of her friends and managers. The despatch to Managers Slayton and Carpenter was as follows: "I have just discovered the difficulty. Will leave at 8 o'clock for Chicago."

The Brothers Offenbach.

Jacques Offenbach was followed to Paris in 1813, says the Vienna Neue Freie Presse, by his elder brother Jules. Jacques was then 23 and Jules 27. Jacques was restless and ambitious, and remained a young man to the end. Jules was sober, meditative, indifferent to fame, and an old man at 20. Jacques played the cello, and soon found himself in the current of Parisian life. Jules played the violin, and kept to his cheap lodgings. Jacques died unexpectedly, in the exact tempo of his character. Three days afterward Jules followed him into eternity, and the newspapers mentioned his name for almost the first time.

In 1847 Jacques became leader of the orchestra in the Theatre Francais, and appointed Jules his first violin and vice regent. And when Jacques founded the Bouffes Parisiens in 1855 the elder brother was appointed leader of the orchestra, but proved too obstinate and too little appreciative of Jacques' wicked music to long remain in the position. Such interchanges of sentiment as this would happen at rehearsal:

"Too slow, Jules; much too slow." "The time ought to be twice as fast!"

"On the contrary, much slower, if anything!"

"But I have composed it, and ought to know!"

"And I have to direct it, and therefore must know better than you!"

Jules wasn't to be managed. If he had been allowed to have his own way, "La Belle Helene" would have become a lady of deportment, the operetta an oratorio, and the can-can a dance suitable to a young ladies' seminary. One day, after an unusually hot dispute through one act of opera-bouffes, the brothers separated. Jules returned to the study of German masters, and became chorister of the mænnerchor "Teutonia." He had talent which in Germany would have developed itself. But for Paris he was wanting in the quality of the jumping-jack, and could only dream.

MANY years ago, when it was the fashion in England for ladies to wear enormous Leghorn straw hats, on which there was very heavy duty, a cunning importer hired a number of poor women to cross with him frequently from Dover to Calias, who used to return with splendid hats on, while their own old hoods were tucked away in their pockets. There was no duty on Leghorns actually being worn.

THE daughter of the ex-Khedive was recently married to Daoud Pasha, a brave but savage soldier who paid off debts to the amount of half a million dollars before his wedding, which he could well afford, as the bride brought him, besides ready money, seven palaces and forty thousand acres of land.

THIEVERY in Yankeedom has reached a high grade. For several days a fellow in Boston has been stripping the copper roof from an occupied business building and carting it away to junk shops.

GENERAL.

AN Austrian has challenged Dr. Tanner to a forty-four days fast, maintaining himself on [illegible].

A [illegible] at Venice complains that gondolas are painfully suggestive in their general get up of floating hearses.

A RUSSIAN official in China recently wrote that fifty-three thousand pounds of willow leaves were being made ready to be mixed with teas at one port alone.

THE King of Spain paid $1,400 for his baby's cradle. We assure his Majesty he has been imposed upon. A good cradle can be purchased in Detroit for $3.50.

A YOUNG thief, on being arrested at Reading, Pa., said he hoped God would paralyze him if he was not innocent. Within a few days he was stricken with paralysis, and he is now firm in the belief that it was in consequence of his impious prayer.

AT the gillies' ball given by the Queen at Balmoral lately, the Grand Duke of Hesse, the Prince and Princess of Wales, Lord Fife, Sir Bartle Frere, and others of distinction were among the guests, and the Queen danced several reels, the first for many years.

A PROVIDENCE expressman failed to deliver a woman's trunk at the railroad station with in the stipulated time. The delay caused her to miss a train, and she was very angry. When the culprit appeared she deliberately doubled her fist and struck straight out from the shoulder, knocking him down.

THEY have a new way of curing women's hysterics in India. They tie the patients hands and feet together and then thrust cotton wicks steeped in oil up their nostrils and into her ears. A woman who has had hysterical dumbness will recover her speech in a very short time under this treatment.

IN excavating for the St. Gothard Railway near Amsteg a magnificent glacier garden a series of so-called giants' kettles, or enormous holes torn in the rock by the action of glacier millstones, has been laid bare. One half of of the garden lay across the railway track and had to be blasted away, but the other half has been walled around, and will be carefully preserved.

AT Linares, Spain, lately, three miners were sinking a shaft, and after charging the bore holes with dynamite, two climbed to the gallery above, while the third remained to light the fuses attached to the charges. Having done so he signalled to his comrades and was being hoisted up, when, on nearing the top, he lost his hold, and fell a distance of fifty feet to the bottom, where he lay, stunned and disabled, close to the lighted fuses. One of his comrades instantly put his knife between his teeth and, descending by a chain ladder, severed the fuses as they were about igniting.

EVEN the wealthy Hindoos cannot find good domestic servants. One of them writes: "The good servants are gone who used to know how to hold your umbrella over your head, pour the water over your hands after meals, and exaggerate your resources before your friends. This fine class of men has disappeared, and a degenerate species of epidemic-stricken, untrained young barbarians have taken their place. They plunder you when sent to the bazaar; they steal your clothes, your rice; and they are so greedy that they lick off the very syrup from the surface of your sweetmeats."

THE Grand Duke Constantine of Russia is said to be a very agreeable man in society, having pleasant words and compliments for all sorts of persons; but in private he is curt in speech, and uses words not found even in the Apocrypha. He was married young to the handsomest princess in Germany, but they are only on "terms of respectful tenderness," as Toodles was with his wife, he travelling abroad by himself and she by herself. In his private affairs he is orderly, thrifty, and makes good investments. He is thought to be ambitious, perhaps too much so, and looks as though he felt himself watched by spies, and glances about without turning his head.

THE terror of Peoria street, Chicago, is a miniature fire insurance patrol, composed of recklessly zealous small boys. Six of their number act as horses, drawing the rest in a small wagon, which was unwisely presented to them by the superintendent of the adult patrol. They usually operate on bonfires, over which they spread wet blankets in the ordinary manner, and they run on the sidewalks because, as we are informed, "they can knock more people down there than they could in the middle of the street." They recently conceived the idea that a house was on fire, and with wild whoops proceeded to subjugate the imaginary flames. They chopped holes in the roof, broke the windows and smashed the upholstered furniture. That was going a little too far. They are to be suppressed.

IN 1765 Lazot calculated that there were in France 79,000 monks and 80,000 nuns. The number of monks is now far behind what it was a century ago, but the number of nuns is considerably above it. Eighty-six different orders of monks are represented in France, and they have 2,026 establishments; 281 different orders of nuns are represented, and they have 12,004 establishments. Seventy-two per cent. of the monks and sixty five per cent. of the nuns are engaged in education; two per cent. of the monks and twenty-two per cent. of the nuns are engaged in attending on the sick, and twenty-two per cent. of the monks and eight per cent. of the nuns are devoted to a purely contemplative life. The Barnabites who have just been expelled, are one of the smallest of the religious orders in France, they have only three establishments, with twenty-five members between them. The largest order is that of the Christain Brothers, who number 9 900, and have even increased largely since 1861, when they were only 6,398.

QUEEN VICTORIA has been getting into hot water with the German court. Her daughter, the Crown Princess, during her last visit to England, had a serious quarrel with her mother about some private matters, and this quarrel has not yet been made up, despite a visit of the Empress of Germany to Windsor Castle in the capacity of mediator. The Crown Princess, since her marriage, has gained the reputation of being a regular spitfire, and it is generally believed that, when her husband succeeds to the throne, both he and Bismarck will have rather a hard time of it to retain the reins of government in their own hands. Another cause of domestic grievance between the courts of London and Berlin is that the Queen has encouraged young Prince William of Prussia to marry the girl he loves. This has given great offence to the Empress, who thinks Prince William is marrying beneath him. Still another offence, in the eyes of the Empress, has been the Queen's active interest in promoting the marriage of the Princess Frederika of Hanover with one of her father's orderlies. In the midst of this storm in a teapot the Queen is enjoying herself after her fashion at Balmoral, although winter has set in. Her amusements are not of an expensive character: they consist mainly in walks to the village to visit her pet poor. She likes Balmoral for the bracing air, which has an excellent effect on her health and spirits.

A Big Find.

Ezelot, the French soldier who found the £26,000 which M. Pages lost in the Northern railway station in Paris, has communicated to the Courrier de l'Aisne, says The London News, the particulars attendant on his good fortune. They are very interesting, and show how some men are born to fortune, some achieve fortune, and some have fortune thrust upon them. Ezelot was walking through the railway station with two comrades, when they noticed on the floor a packet wrapped in a newspaper. They kicked it along before them for some distance, and when Ezelot was getting into the train, going home on short leave, one of his comrades, picking up the packet, thrust it into the canvas forage bag slung at his side, Ezelot going on his way without having perceived the little pleasantry.

Arrived at Neuilly, where his parents live, his mother, emptying the forage bag, discovered the bundle, and, thinking it was a packet of newspapers, put it on a table in the kitchen. There it remained for four or five days, till a married sister, calling in and seeing the packet, was moved by unwonted curiosity. Opening it, she discovered documents representing the £26,000, the loss of which Mr. Pages had advertised throughout Europe. The European papers are not, however, read at Neuilly, where the Courier de l'Aisne doubtless has it all its own way. The soldier and his parents, not knowing what else to do, followed the provincial Frenchman's instinct and had recourse to the maire. That functionary, communicating with Paris, speedily brought down M. Pages, who, gratefully paying the promised reward, of £1,000, went off with his oddly recovered treasure. It would be an interesting supplement to the narrative if we could have a record of the feelings of the soldier who thrust the packet upon Ezelot when he heard the sequel to the little joke.

IT is said that Prince Napoleon is about to become a newspaper proprietor.

Our Mon[illegible] Al[illegible]

[illegible]

When a city is [illegible] Good certainly is [illegible] the stranger who [illegible] of bricks. The snow [illegible] consequently a good deal [illegible] poor and the best way [illegible] know very well that I [illegible] heartless. I pity the poor [illegible] with my whole heart and [illegible] upon my word when one [illegible] ter closely, he is inclined [illegible] angry, sometimes, as well [illegible] You would not believe

THE AMOUNT OF [illegible]

even in our good city of [illegible] ties, aye, and let me add [illegible] not unopen hands. It is [illegible] of the quantity of this [illegible] Why is this, [illegible] are? You can give no reason [illegible] were wasteful of [illegible] perfectly indifferent [illegible] was not certainly with [illegible] by," for they wrought [illegible] got, but it was certainly [illegible] doubt all that they earned [illegible] to make a very comfortable [illegible] plentifully supplied table [illegible] gone a great deal farther [illegible] there only been some [illegible] management. I meet a ma[illegible] almost every day, and he [illegible] the little black pipe [illegible] steams along like a [illegible] told me in the most lu[illegible] very long ago, that [illegible] has little besides turnips [illegible] his children won't help [illegible] not keep them at school [illegible] all what, and yet he will [illegible] knowledgment, spend twenty [illegible] whiskey, and at least five [illegible] 25 cents a day to be sure [illegible] what might not that 25 cents [illegible] it better spent all these [illegible] is easily counted up. It [illegible] seventy-five cents a week [illegible] see that that is nearly a hun[illegible] year. That man will be [illegible] as sure as fate whenever it [illegible] a very exceptional character [illegible] Where you get one better [illegible] worse. I could count a dozen [illegible] not yet quite paupers, but

ON THE ROAD, AND [illegible]

A poor boy was lately [illegible] tentiary for stealing. The [illegible] to keep him for two years [illegible] that boy puffing and smoking [illegible] was thirteen years old, and [illegible] unlicensed shebeens of Lombard [illegible] hold of him and finished the [illegible] old hag that kept the grog[illegible] whiskey, encouraged him to steal [illegible] he is. Now he was [illegible] almost to foolishness, but [illegible] around him were doing [illegible] of it. Did any of the readers [illegible] see pretty broken down speci[illegible] and girls going about with [illegible] for broken victuals for the [illegible] protesting that they were [illegible] were the little ones at home! [illegible] watch them, kind good Samar[illegible] will see. Do they eat what [illegible] They know a trick worth two [illegible] feed their pigs or they sell [illegible] keep pigs, aye, or they sell to [illegible] honest who will not beg, and [illegible] they go at the whiskey with the [illegible]

YOU BET!

If the kind and foolishly charit[illegible] not help at the door without [illegible] enquiry, it would be a great bless[illegible] is to be done? There is no doubt [illegible] deal of destitution, and whate[illegible] cause, the poor wretches can't [illegible] lowed to starve; but I am quite [illegible] after all is done, the worth[illegible] clamorers and the drunken will get [illegible] share, as they have gotten in the [illegible] by. What about the "walking [illegible] alias "tramp" kidney? It is [illegible] but it is certain, at any rate, that [illegible] grows in numbers and impudence [illegible] ception, of course, they drink, [illegible] and they are generally strong [illegible] Would it not be well to try [illegible] prescription, "Root hog or die"?

'RAH FOR HANLAN

and our City Council! The scul[illegible] the freedom of the city conferred [illegible] and that relieves him from taxes [illegible] if not all eternity. Isn't it gra[illegible] men who call themselves de[illegible] spectable, like McMurrich, [illegible] actually vote for such a thing [illegible] will it take to get into an Alderm[illegible] the idea, that the really respectable [illegible] ers of this city don't care a [illegible] Hanlan, and all his ways and [illegible] that has been done by him, has [illegible] couraged a large amount of gam[illegible] dissipation, and as a tavern keep[illegible] do his best to debauch the visi[illegible] Island, and sit tax free all the [illegible] ing it. It is grand to see how fo[illegible] themselves respectable, will pan[illegible] very lowest classes of the commu[illegible] election time comes on!

ALL "EXEMPTIONS" ARE [illegible]

incurably bad, but to add an[illegible] municipal paupers is quite too [illegible] nable, and of all the little [illegible] world, to think of fussy little [illegible] champion assailant of all "exempt[illegible] ing in for it. Now if we are to ha[illegible] ptions because of the good done [illegible] exempted, I would ten times rather [illegible] ministers and doctors of the city [illegible] commoners for ever, than this po[illegible] young man, who has done [illegible] thing for Toronto, except enabling [illegible] many gambling "sports" to make [illegible] money on his head. Isn't this awful [illegible] body to say about Canada's darling? [illegible] true, however, all the same, let [illegible] out against it as loudly as they like.

I did mean to tell

WHAT I SAW ON KING STREET

the other day, and about my visit [illegible] sylum, for I changed my mind [illegible] that dreary, yet bright and cheerful [illegible] ing, but you see, I have had so much [illegible] about the poor, that I have neither [illegible] space. I'll be up with the arrears [illegible] am much older, and, in the mean[illegible] my word be marked, and let those [illegible] say how it has been fulfilled, when [illegible] that the city Council of next year [illegible] be a whit better than the present [illegible] all the members be Conservative [illegible] think they will be.

But really now, how could I think [illegible] speaking of the St. Andrew's supper [illegible] Street Railway? On how eloquent [illegible] can be, when inspiring "bauld John [illegible] corn" supplies the necessary steam [illegible] a caution to hear Alderman McMur[illegible] Scotland and the Scotch, and how [illegible] ther Scots" applauded, and drank [illegible] tune of who knows how many [illegible] though the funds of the society are [illegible] low, as everybody knows. Vive [illegible] That's aye in order; and "Scots wha [illegible] will always bring down the house.

As to the street Railway supplying [illegible] room to its passengers. Oh! Jona[illegible] lam, how could you expect it? The [illegible] ager of that railway can manage better [illegible] that comes to, or my name is not

JACOB FA[illegible]

Parnell and His Tenants

(From the Manchester Examiner.)

At the last meeting of the Bal[illegible] (Ireland) Union the Chairman expr[illegible] desire that Mr. Parnell would visit [illegible] of the country, so that he might tell [illegible] was an impostor. Many people ha[illegible] believed this of the redoubtable cham[illegible] the league; but now the facts seem [illegible] coming out. Mr. Dennis declared [illegible] that the greatest cases of hardship [illegible] come before him as a magistrate occur[illegible] Mr. Parnell's property. "Some years [illegible] proceeded the Chairman, "[illegible] Parnell [illegible] to eject on a summons [illegible] had a man before [illegible] looking for com[illegible] tion for malicious injuries [illegible] is one whom Mr. Parnell [illegible] from which he ejected anot[illegible] was not all he has to tell Mr. Parnell [illegible] face when he can get the opportunity [illegible] has to remind the distinguished mem[illegible] Cork that the rental of one [illegible] ownland [illegible] is treble the poor-law valuation. [illegible] back he boasted to Mr. Dennis that [illegible] sold the County Carlow property, [illegible] not pay the interest on the money [illegible] boy it, so well that he [illegible] off the [illegible] had money left, with which he bought [illegible] property elsewhere." How will he manage [illegible] Mr. Dennis explains: "He forced [illegible] ants to take out leases at an increased [illegible] And this is the story related in public [illegible] magistrate and Chairman of Guardians [illegible] man whom Irishmen are asked to [illegible] martyr, and toward whose help [illegible] ed to subscribe their hard-earned [illegible]

A FAVOURITE paragraph with [illegible] Mott, when her autograph was [illegible] albums, was, "In the true marriage [illegible] tion the independence of the hus[illegible] the wife is equal, their dependence [illegible] and their obligations are reciprocal."

THE STANDARD

Friday, Dec. 17th, 188[illegible]

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

NOMINATION on the last Mond[illegible] the year.

FOR Xmas goods that are su[illegible] please, go to W. E. Doll, Fleshe[illegible]

THE annual school meeting [illegible] on the last Wednesday of the y[illegible]

LUNCH and Hot Coffee at all [illegible] Montgomery's Bakery.

CHEAP and reliable watches at [illegible] the Jeweler's Flesherton.

WE will give the Weekly M[illegible] connection with the STANDARD [illegible] end of 1881 for $2.25.

THE Daily Mail during the [illegible] of Dominion Parliament for [illegible] Subscriptions taken here.

YOU can walk 1,000 miles [illegible] you can see a store crowded w[illegible] customers and cheap goods like [illegible] land's.

QUERY.—How is it that M. R[illegible] son, sells that Tea for 50 cent[illegible] keeps it up he has got the Tea [illegible] sure.

SEE Mr. Doll's advertiseme[illegible] week. He has the largest [illegible] silverware, watches, &c., ever [illegible] in this section of country.

GET all your writing done [illegible] Davis, Flesherton. He does [illegible] neatly and correctly, and lo[illegible] your interests promptly—cha[illegible]

THE Daily Globe from the [illegible] to the close of the Dominion [illegible] ment for only one dollar. S[illegible] tions taken at this office.

TO ENJOY Xmas properly, w[illegible] advise you to get 5 or 10 p[illegible] McFarland's 40 cent tea. [illegible] and rich flavored, and witho[illegible] the cheapest tea north of To[illegible]

INSURE with R. Davis [illegible] sents the THE BEST Companies [illegible] da. Dont throw your [illegible] by inuring with unrel[illegible] nies and Agents.

MCFARLAND has just rec[illegible] Raisins, Xmas Currants, [illegible] ars, Xmas Spices, Lemon, O[illegible] Citron peels, and is sel[illegible] cheap.

IF you want to dispose of [illegible] or other property, send y[illegible] and address, No. of lot, &c., [illegible] tion in R. Davis' next catal[illegible] largest ever issued in the C[illegible]

THE annual meeting of [illegible] Agricultural Societies is th[illegible] Thursday in the new [illegible] annual meeting of E[illegible] societies, comes on the [illegible] day of the year.

MR. J. H. Heard, of F[illegible] has a lot of very fine hone[illegible] duction of his own Bees, w[illegible] our teeth water while he [illegible] showed us through his hon[illegible] ment.

ADVERTISE your stray catt[illegible] have lost any, they may [illegible] you a bill of damage in so[illegible] barn yard; If you have any [illegible] possession, you may have [illegible] ble with them for nothing [illegible] ble to prosecution as well [illegible] vertising them.

JUST think of it, McFar[illegible] ling lovely Brocade Satin [illegible] 15 cents per yard, cheap a[illegible] Ladies' wove Clouds 75 c[illegible] worth $1. Ladies' Kid [illegible] cents, usual price $1, [illegible] Mitts, 60 cents, usual p[illegible] They are selling fast.

The Editor of the Thor[illegible] dard says —"Markdale ha[illegible] the best buildings in Grey [illegible] of them would do no d[illegible] Toronto." Your head is [illegible] Farewell, the Monitor to t[illegible] notwithstanding.

A CONCERT in aid of t[illegible] Church fund, at Maxwell, [illegible] the school of the village [illegible] evening, 14th inst. The [illegible] was large, and evinced the [illegible] tion of the entertainment [illegible] repeated applause. A ma[illegible] performers were from Mar[illegible]

THE best present you c[illegible] friends would be one of [illegible] $5 Over-Coats; or set of [illegible] or handsome Shawl; or [illegible] Gloves; or set of Dishes; [illegible] Mantle; or suit of Clot[illegible] McFarland will give you [illegible] above, or 1,000 more [illegible] choose from, much un[illegible] prices,

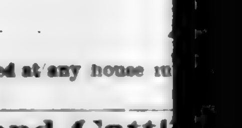
AT a meeting of L. O. [illegible] held in the Orange Hall [illegible] the following officers wer[illegible] the ensuing year:—Bro[illegible] Elliott, W. M.; Wm. Wa[illegible] John McFadden, Chaplai[illegible] Walker, Secretary; Ja[illegible] Treasurer; Committee, [illegible] W. J. Walker, William [illegible] Walker, Thos. Wyvell.

AS THE holiday season [illegible] people naturally begin t[illegible] they can purchase the [illegible] the annual plum pudding [illegible] vantage. We would [illegible] them to try McIntyre. [illegible] think it no harm to "tal[illegible] the stomach sake," shou[illegible] him, as he says he has [illegible] town, and the best is alw[illegible] est. Don't fail to call o[illegible]

WILCOX is decidedly [illegible] that there is nothing [illegible] Ink for pushing busin[illegible] fore is not satisfied wit[illegible] than a whole page of t[illegible] inform his friends and t[illegible] rally, where to buy th[illegible] and New Year's present[illegible] says it is not good for [illegible] and Wilcox, wishing to [illegible] low mortals to be guid[illegible] Book, is offering weddi[illegible] $1 upwards. Be sure [illegible] advertisement.

[illegible] delivered at any house [illegible] 17, 1880.

Sheep and Cattl[illegible]



[illegible] having good fat She[illegible] [illegible] to sell, will find it to their a[illegible] [illegible] there names and addres[illegible] [illegible] Hotel, Revere House, Ma[illegible] undersigned are still on the wa[illegible] positively pay the highest [illegible]

C. W. & A. SPE[illegible]

[illegible] 17th, 1880.

NOMINATION on the last Monday of the year.

FOR Xmas goods that are sure to please, go to W. F. Doll, Flesherton.

THE annual school meeting comes on the last Wednesday of the year.

LUNCH and Hot Coffee at all hours, at Montgomery's Bakery.

CHEAP and reliable watches at Doll's, the Jeweler's Flesherton.

WE will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the STANDARD to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

THE Daily Mail during the session of Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

YOU can walk 1,000 miles before you can see a store crowded with customers and cheap goods like McFarland's.

QUERY.—How is it that M. Richardson. sells that Tea for 50 cents, if he keeps it up he has got the Tea trade sure.

SEE Mr. Doll's advertisement this week. He has the largest stock of silverware, watches, &c., ever shown in this section of country.

GET all your writing done by R. Davis, Flesherton. He does his work neatly and correctly, and looks after your interests promptly—charges low.

THE Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

TO ENJOY Xmas properly, we would advise you to get 5 or 10 pounds of McFarland's 40 cent tea. It is strong and rich flavored, and without doubt the cheapest tea north of Toronto.

INSURE with R. Davis—he represents the THE BEST Companies in Canada. Dont throw your money away by insuring with unreliable Companies and Agents.

MCFARLAND has just received Xmas Raisins, Xmas Currants, Xmas Sugars, Xmas Spices, Lemon, Orange and Citron peels, and is selling them cheap,

IF you want to dispose of your farm or other property, send your name and address, No· of lot, &c., for insertion in R. Davis' next catalogue, the largest ever issued in the County.

THE annual meeting of Township Agricultural Societies is the second Thursday in the new year. The annual meeting of Electoral District societies, comes on the third Wednesday of the year.

MR. J. H. Heard, of Flesherton, has a lot of very fine honey, the production of his own Bees, which made our teeth water while he (Mr. H.) showed us through his honey appartment.

ADVERTISE your stray cattle. If you have lost any, they may be causing you a bill of damage in some body's barn yard; If you have any in your possession, you may have your trouble with them for nothing, and be liable to prosecution as well, for not advertising them.

JUST think of it, McFarland is selling lovely Brocade Satin Dress Goods 15 cents per yard, cheap at 25 cents. Ladies' wove Clouds 75 cents, well worth $1. Ladies' Kid Mitts, 60 cents, usual price $1, Gents' Kid Mitts, 60 cents, usual price $1.25. They are selling fast.

The Editor of the Thorbury Standard says —"Markdale has some of the best buildings in Grey, and many of them would do no discredit to Toronto," Your head is level, friend Farewell, the Monitor to the contrary notwithstanding.

A CONCERT in aid of the English Church fund, at Maxwell, was held in the school of the village on Tuesday evening, 14th inst. The attendance was large, and evinced their appreciation of the entertainment by loud and repeated applause. A majority of the performers were from Markdale.

THE best present you can give your friends would be one of McFarland's $5 Over-Coats; or set of Furs, $3.75; or handsome Shawl; or pair of Kid Gloves; or set of Dishes; or stylish Mantle; or suit of Clothes, $12.—McFarland will give you any of the above, or 1,000 more articles to choose from, much under regular prices,

AT a meeting of L. O. L. No. 1045, held in the Orange Hall, Markdale, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Brother James Elliott, W. M.; Wm. Walker, D. M.; John McFadden, Chaplain; James D. Walker, Secretary; James Lackey, Treasurer; Committee, Wm. Brady, W. J. Walker, William Blakely, C. Walker, Thos. Wyvell.

AS THE holiday season approaches, people naturally begin to think where they can purchase the requisites for the annual plum pudding to best advantage. We would recommend them to try McIntyre. Those who think it no harm to "take a little for the stomach sake," should also visit him, as he says he has the best in town, and the best is always the cheapest. Don't fail to call on him.

WILCOX is decidedly of the opinion that there is nothing like Printers' Ink for pushing business, and therefore is not satisfied with anything less than a whole page of the STANDARD to inform his friends and the public generally, where to buy their Christmas and New Year's presents. The Bible says it is not good for man to be alone, and Wilcox, wishing to assist his fellow mortals to be guided by the good Book, is offering wedding rings from $1 upwards. Be sure and read his advertisement.

[illegible] erton, is doing a good business in enlarging Photo's and Ambrotypes.

GREAT clearing sale at R. E. Hall's, Priceville, for sixty days. Mr. H. means business, give him a call.

WEAVING done very promptly at Campbell's woolen factory, and other work in his line. See advertisement.

HOLLAND Centre, Dramatic Club, will give their first entertainment in that place on Christmas Eve. See posters.

MR. H. HOOPER, of Flesherton, has the entire control of the Furniture, Sash and Door Factory of that village, and has removed into the new brick wareroom recently erected. Advertisement next week.

SEVERAL communications and change of advertisements will have to lie over until next week. The rush of Job Work has been so great, coupled with getting out a Supplement to supply the demand on our advertising columns, we were compelled to omit them.

WE notice J. F. Sproule, has removed to his new brick shop, on Mill street, and we must say his stock of dry goods, Millinery, Groceries, &c., looks very tempting to those who need anything in his line, he appears to be busy and taking in his share of the needful. Success to you J. F.

WE wish to draw particular attention to the advertisement of the re-opening of the Owen Sound High School, which takes place on the 7th of January, 1881. It is the only High School in the County, and as the Board have been to considerable trouble to procure first class teachers, should be patronized by the people of Grey in preference to outside institutions.

AMONGST the various features of improvements noticeable in the village of Dundalk, none is there, perhaps more remarkable than the drug business lately established in that village than that of Mr. R. Philips. It is only justice to Mr. P. to say that, while it is almost impossible to enquire for any medicine which he has not on hand, his book and stationery department is amply supplied. His line and stock of fancy goods are not surpassed in beauty by any similar establishment in the province.

THE election of Markdale Grange, Patrons of Husbandry, No. 384, took place on the 14th inst., when the following officers were duly elected:—Brother Thomas Mann, Master; Geo. Richardson, Overseer; James Lackey, Lecturer; Adam Shiel, Assistant Steward; A. Elliott, Chaplain; Sam'l Lackey, Treas.; Thomas Elliott jr., Secretary; B. Coleman, Gate Keeper; Sister Alice Drew, Ceres; M. E. Richardson, Pomona; Elizabeth Drew, Flora; Jane Waker, Lady Assistant Steward. Delegates to Div. Grange, the W. M, and J. Elliott.

THE Anniversary Services in the Ebenezer P. M. Church, held on last Sabbath and Monday were a grand success. The Rev. L. Hall, of Osprey, preached [illegible] crowded houses on Sabbath. On Monday evening, a densely packed audience assembled to do justice to the good things provided by the ladies of the neighborhood, and notwithstanding the large crowd there was abundance for all. After tea had been served, and several speeches given, under the leadership of Rev, Mr. Hall, an effort was made to obliterate the balance of the debt, which we are happy to say was successful, and now the people of that neighborhood rejoice in a church free from debt.

A MEETING of the Directors of the Proton Agricultural Society was held at McCullough's Hotel, in the village of Dundalk, on Tuesday the 14th inst., to wind up the affairs of the society for the past year. From the Secretary's report the society seems to be in a very flourishing condition, showin an increase of one hundred per cent in membership over last year, and a prospect of even a larger increase for the coming year. The Treasurer has fully met all demands made upon him for prize money, &c., and has still a handsome surplus to carry over to next year. To the untiring energy of the President, Mr. T. Hanbury, the efficient services of the Secretary Mr. A. G. Hunter, and a Board of Directors, who sacrificed their own interests for the good of the society, is due the great success which it has attained. It is therefore to be hoped that the same lively interest will be taken by the future Board, and that the society will soon stand second to no other Township Society in this part of Western Canada.

WE have been requested to publish the following resolution, which speaks for itself:—At the last regular communication of Prince Arthur Lodge, No. 333, of A., F. and A. M., held at Flesherton, the following resolution was unanimously passed:—Moved by Bro. J. W. Armstrong, and seconded by Bro. Thos Gamey, that the heart felt sympathy of this lodge be and is hereby tendered W. Bro. W. J. McFarland and his esteemed lady, in the very severe affection through which they have recently passed in their very sore bereavement of three dear children, an affliction which could not be properly understood or entered into excepting by those whose lot it was to pass through a similar ordeal. We can assure Bro McFarland that this resolution is not only expressive of heart felt sympathy of this lodge, but of a large community; at every corner and in every house utterances of sorrow and sympathy were constantly heard. As a community we felt deeply grateful to our Father in Heaven for his kindness towards us in leaving us our families unbroken, and our

A REMARKABLE PICTURE.—Probably the most remarkable picture of the age is "Christ leaving the Pretorium," now on exhibition at the Dore Gallery, London, England. It was begun immediately before the opening of the Franco-Prussian war, and during the horrors of the siege and Commune was kept folded up and buried in a place of security, uninjured by shot or shell. For several years it has been on exhibition in London, and has attracted universal attention, being considered the principal feature of the wonderful Dore Gallery. The canvas measures 40 feet by 30, on which are painted some one hundred and seventy [illegible] figures, the central one being Jesus leaving Pilate's Judgement Hall for the place of crucifixion. The scene as depicted by the renowned artist is one that can never be forgotten. The publishers of the Montreal WITNESS have had this picture faithfully reproduced for the benefit of their subscribers. Every subscriber to that paper who, in renewing his own subscription, sends that of another person not now a subscriber, is entitled to a copy of the picture, and the new subscriber gets one as well—each paying [illegible] $1.10, the usual price of this excellent paper. The picture is only supplied to subscribers to the WITNESS, who, if they do not get the second subscriber, may have the picture by sending 25 cents in addition to the ordinary subscription of $1.10.

A GRAND TRUNK RAILWAY TRAIN IN DURHAM.—For several days past great interest has been taken by the residents of this town and neighborhood in the progress of the G. B. & W. R'y. Last Saturday the rails were laid across the Garafraxa road, at Varney, a little over two miles south of Durham, and the progress of the work since then has been viewed by a large number of people each day. Yesterday the rails were laid inside the corporation, and within half a mile of the station building, and this evening or early to-morrow the track will be laid up to the station, and in a few days it is expected regular trains will be running between here and Stratford. The road will not be fully ballasted until next spring. The station house was completed by Mr. Bringham, of Mount Forest, on Friday last. A quantity of ship timber is already on the station ground, and there are reports of several granaries being erected immediately, and yesterday a large quantity of grain was delivered in town. W. E. McAllister, Esq., treated the tack-layers of the road to a first-class dinner yesterday, at his hotel, and in various ways has earned the good opinion of those working on the road. No doubt the successful completion of the railway will be the beginning of a new era for Durham and the neighboring townships, and afford more than satisfaction to those who have been labouring for years to get a railway to this section, and the Directors of the Company, together with the authorities of the Grand Trunk Railway, are to be congratulated on their success in bringing this scheme so for towards completion of the first section, and we believe that the road will fully earn its name in a short time.—Review.

DUNDALK ITEMS.

As the iron tongue of time reverbrates through the surrounding air, proclaiming the approaching demise of the departing year, and ushering in that philanthrophic period, when aspirants for municipal renown feel their hearts redundant with high regard for the personal health and happiness of the Ratepayer and his wife and "bairns," two of our most respected citizens have unsheathed the sword for battle, and, entering into the arena of conflict, have signified their intention of contesting the Reeveship of Proton. In plain language, Messrs. Middleton and Nelson are now in the field, as candidates for the office of Chief Municipal officer of Proton, and opinion is varied, so far, as to which of the two will eventually prove the favorite. One feature in the struggle is that, neither of the candidates endeavor to bespatter the reputation of the other—a characteristic which it would be well for others to imitate.

Apropos this subject, some witless creature has attempted a wordy caracature of the contest, comparing it to a race, and bestowing nonseusical cognomens on the candidates. This, of course, is the emanation of some shallow-pated would be punster; but it is somewhat strange that any person with a proper regard for social amenities would permit such tomfoolery to be exhibited in their establishment.

The new Episcopal church was opened with considerable eclact on Sunday last. The Rev. Mr. Henderson of Orangeville officiated in the the forenoon, the Rev. Mr. Rooney of Horning's Mills in the evening,—"Comparisons are odious" it is said, therefore I must content myself by saying that the Rev. gentleman from your village preached and impressive sermon on the occasion, while both Messrs Henderson and Rooney were in their happiest moods, and highly thought of by the assemblages present, The building on each occasion was intensely crowded, many people having to go away without being able to obtain admission. The Shelburne Choir was present, and gave some choice sacred selections, the rendition of which must be classed as very good.

The Rev. Mr. Aikins having received a call from the Dundalk Presbyterian Congregation, has, with his family, become a resident of this Village, and entered upon the duties of his calling. Doubtless the fact of a [illegible] restitution, so long as the administrators of statutory law are in such a state that, low groggeries crop up, whose proprietors set at defiance all the provisions enacted for the suppression of such social anomalies.

LINES.

Sing a song of Sixpence,
Half a peck of Rye,
Four and Twenty [illegible],
Being [illegible].

When the pie was opened,
They all began to sing;
With clothing, oh! so dainty,
'Twas fit for any King.

They went out to a party,
In all their nice new clothes;
As blythe as any black bird,
That sings where e're he goes.

Their friends began to ask them,
Where ever they had been,
To get rigged out in garments neat,
[illegible] ever had been seen.

At Durham or in Collingwood,
Or away in Owen Sound,
Or nearer still in Markdale stores,
Could such nice clothes be found.

Oh! no, but at M. RICHARDSON'S,
Where every body goes,
Who want to spend their money well,
And lay it out in clothes.

MARRIED

On the 8th inst., at the residence of the brides parents, Euphrasia, by the Rev. D. Perry Mr. Richard Steer, to Miss Rebecca Wiley, all of Euphrasia.

BIRTHS.

In Glenelg, on the 9th inst., the wife of Mr. Richard Douglas, of a daughter.

SAVE YOUR COMBINGS.

Mrs. T. G. Morgan, begs to announce to the Ladies of Markdale and vicinity that she is prepared to work up hair combings into switches, puffs and curls, terms moderate—A call is solicited. Residence corner of Mark and Queen streets, opposite Mr. Bowes' residence.

Markdale, Dec. 16th, 1880. 14m1

In Chancery.

THE FARMERS' LOAN AND SAVINGS COMPANY,
VS.
LECKIE,

PURSUANT to the Decree made in this cause, there will be sold with the approbation of T. W. Taylor, Esquire, Master in Ordinary of this Court by J. M. Webster, Auctioneer,

At the FLESHERTON Hotel,
IN THE VILLAGE OF FLESHERTON,
at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon of the following lands and premises in one parcel, viz: Lot number twenty-one in the fourteenth concession of the township of Artemesia, in the county of Grey, excepting thereout three acres off the north west corner of said lot. The said lot consists of about 160 acres of land, of which about 60 acres are cleared and the remainder well timbered with beech and maple, basswood and some hemlock. The land cleared is of a very loamy and in a fair state of cultivation. The said lot is situate on the Meaford Road, about five miles from Markdale Station on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. About six and a-half miles from Flesherton, and is readily accessible to said villages by good roads, and the said villages afford good markets for the sale of produce. The said lot is also well watered by a creek, and there is no swampy land on said lot. The said lot has erected thereon farm buildings consisting of a frame house, and log barn.

Thursday, the Thirteenth day of January, 1881,

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. is to be paid the vendors or their solicitors at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent. within thirty days thereafter, without interest, and the balance to be secured by first mortgage on said premises payable in three or five years, with interest at seven per cent. per annum.

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery. For further particulars apply at the Law Offices of W. Mulock, Esq., vendor's solicitor, Messrs. Crooks, Kingsmill and Cattanach, and Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskins, Plumb and Creelman, solicitors, Toronto.

Dated December 8, 1880.
14-8 (Signed) T. W. TAYLOR.

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice, As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.
Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

RATEPAYERS, WARD NO. 3, GLENELG.

WILL please take notice, that the Collector will be at the Revere House, Markdale on the 20th of December, 1880, for the Last Time. to receive all unpaid taxes. After that date measures to enforce payment will be resorted to.

S. DONNELLY,
Dated Dec. 9th, 1880. 14-1

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the winter.

N. CAMPBELL.
Flesherton, December 15, 1880. 14

FLESHERTON.

(Corrected weekly for the Standard by R. J. Sproule, Flesherton.)

[illegible], Dec. 15th, 1880.

Flour, per bbl.	[illegible]	to	[illegible]
Spring Wheat per bush.	1.05	to	1.08
Fall do. do. do.	1.03	"	1.05
Barley	0.60	"	0.85
Oats	0.00	"	0.33
Peas	0.60	"	0.62
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.20
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed.	5.50	"	5.70
Beef	4.00	"	5.00
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.25
Hides	7.00	"	8.00
Hay	6.00	"	7.00
Timothy seed.	2.00	"	2.50
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Lard	0.10	"	0.12
Tallow	0.05	"	0.07

TORONTO.

(Special to the Standard.)

TORONTO, Dec. 9, 1880.

Wheat, fall, per bush	$1 10	to	$1 15
Wheat, spring, do.	1 10	to	1 14
Barley, do.	0 70	to	0 95
Oats, do.	0 34	to	0 35
Peas, do.	0 65	to	0 70
Rye, do.	0 87	to	0 88
Clover Seed do.	o oo	to	o oo
Dressed hogs, per 100 lbs.	6 00	to	6 25
Beef, hind quarters	4 50	to	5 oo
Beef, fore quarters	3 00	to	4 oo
Chickens, per pair	30	to	0 45
Fowls, do.	40	to	0 4o
Ducks, per brace	5o	to	0 6o
Geese, each	50	to	0 6o
Turkeys	75	to	1 25
Butter, large rolls	12	to	0 15
Butter, tub dairy	2o	to	0 21
Butter, store-packed	18	to	0 20
Eggs, fresh, per doz.	o 18	to	0 00
Eggs, packed	o oo	to	0 00
Apples, per brl	1 oo	to	1 1o
Potatoes, per bag	0 50	to	0 25
Onions, per bag	o o0	to	1 55
Hay	8 50	to	12 95

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

THE partnership heretofore existing between H. & R. Hooper, Cabinet and Sash & Door manufacturers, of the Village of Flesherton, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The business as formerly will be carried on by H. Hooper, to whom all notes and accounts must be paid, and by whom all liabilities will be discharged.

(Signed) HENRY HOOPER,
RICHARD HOOPER.

Witness—ROBERT DAVIS.
Flesherton, Dec. 6th, 1880. 14-4

ESTABLISHED 35 YEARS

WEEKLY SPECTATOR

A LARGE
EIGHT-PAGE PAPER
—ONLY—
Per Year. ($1) Per Year.

One of the Largest and best Weeklies in Canada.

BALLANCE OF 1880 FREE.

Agents receive 25 Cents for every yearly subscriber. Any party sending us three subscribers will receive a copy, post-paid, of the Farmer's Account Book, worth one dollar, in place of the usual commission. Send a post card for Sample Copy of our Weekly, which is sent free. The only paper in Canada that publishes a Draught Column. Address

SPECTATOR PRINTING COMPANY,
Hamilton, Ont.
Nov. 11, 1880.

A Choice Farm of 150 Acres FOR SALE,

One Mile from the Village of Markdale.

There are about 100 acres cleared, the most of which is in a high state of cultivation and fit for a Reaper or Mower to work on. There are on the premises a Frame House bricked inside; a Milk House bricked inside; a Frame Stable and Driving House, and Log Barn; a Young Orchard commencing to bear; a good Well, beside the house; a never-failing Stream runs across the farm; Cedar sufficient for fencing, balance of bush hardwood, (a First-class Maple Sugar Bush of some 400 trees). The farm is well fenced, in a good state of repair, and in a choice locality, being within a mile of good market, churches, school houses, and all necessary conveniences.

C. W. RUTLEDGE,
Proprietor.
Maple Leaf Farm, Markdale P.O.

Whilst wishing all

A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business generally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season

THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Crockery and Glassware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE,

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R J. SPROULE'S,
FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

OUR dealers in poultry have received the following:—Meat Inspector's Office, Toronto, November 22nd, 1880. Sir,—You are hereby cautioned against receiving, buying, selling, or otherwise trading Poultry, the crops or craws of which are full, or partly so, whether such crops or craws have been stuffed, or otherwise filled with proper food, or with hay, straw, grass, leaves, stones, sand, wood, or any other substance, or inflated with the human breath, or by any wind instrument; all such fraudulently dressed and unwholesome poultry being liable to confiscation and the owners and dealers therein prosecuted according to law. By order. Robert Awde, Inspector of Meat, &c.

WE are a day late with the paper this week, caused by the extra work getting up the supplement.

MARKDALE.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKERS,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.
Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

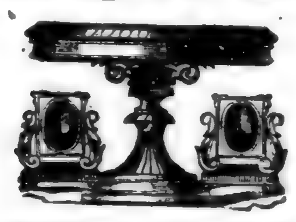
WM. FOX,
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queer Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Selling Off. Selling Off.

GREAT
Clearing Out Sale!



GRANT & CHELLEW
will offer for the
NEXT 60 DAYS!
Bargains unprecedented in the County of Grey.

SIDEBOARDS,
BUREAUS,
CUPBOARDS,
WASHSTANDS, open and enclosed,
BEADSTEADS,
SPRING BEDS,
MATTRASSES,
CRADLES,
CENTRE TABLES,
EXTENSION TABLES,
Fall-Leaf Tables, and Chairs of every variety to be

SOLD AT COST!

Pictures and Picture Framing!
in all its branches.
Upholstering and Repairing!
promptly attended to.
☞ Produce and Dry Lumber taken at market price.

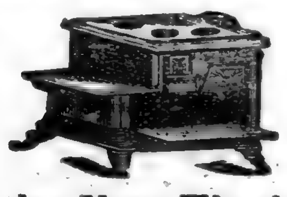
GRANT & CHELLEW.
Markdale, Sept., 1880. 1

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.



At the New Tinshop
MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX
STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.
If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.
No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!
A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.
ALL KINDS OF
Tin & Copperwork!
made to order on the shartest notice.
AV ROUGHING A PCIALITY.
Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.
You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exc ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

Cash! Cash! Cash!

People may Puff and Blow, but if you want real value for
Your Money or Produce
GO TO THE Toronto House,
DUNDALK,

The following is a list of prices of a few of the many leading lines offered.

Men's Overcoats $5.50 and upwards.		Boy's Ulster Overcoats $4.75 and upwards.
Men's Tweed suits $4.00	do	Men's undershirts and Drawers, 50c	do
" Overalls (Duck) 75c	do	" heavy Pants, $2.75	do
" Winter Caps 45c	do	Ladies' all wool shawls, $1.25	do
Ladies' Clouds, 50c	do	Beautiful patterned dress Goods 15c	do
Beautiful Lustres, 15c	do	Factory Cotton, 7c	do
Ladies' Fur Caps $1.75	do	Children's Fur Caps 35c	do
Men's long Boots, $2.00	do	Men's seamless whole stock Boots $3.65	do
Toys long Boots, $1.25	do	Women's strong shoes, $1.10,	do
Children's strong shoes45c	do

Together with a full stock of First-Class Groceries, Teas, Sugars, choice Brands of Tobaccos, Soaps, Syrups, Vinegar, Dried Apples, Buiscuits, Confectionery, Spices of all kinds, Patent Medicines, Castor Oil, Castorine, Machine Oils, Coal Oil. Also Hardware, Spoons Table Knives, Nails, Screws, Hinges, latches, &c., and a full stock of all the leading lines in Dry Goods, Millinery, Furs of all kinds, and all other Goods such as are kept in a First Class General Store.

Farm Produce taken as cash. A call is solicited and you will be convinced that this is the place to get good value for your money.

Highest Cash Price paid for all kinks of Grain, Pork, &c.

GEORGE NIXON.

Dundalk, Nov 25, 1880. 11-41

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!
WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.
Douglas' Brick Bloch opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.
September 21st, 1880. 1

John H. Heard,
Manufacturer and dealer in
Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements
Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,
FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.
Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.
Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store
R. ASKIN
General dealer in
GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,
Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.
He would draw special attention to his
Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,
Which for quality and Lowness of Price
CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that
I MEAN BUSINESS,
AND WILL
Sell Lower than the Lowest,
as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.
☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.
Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

J. M. Webster,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
☞ LOAN ND LAND AGENT,
Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.
EUGENIA P. O.
Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.
Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.
Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.
The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of
MARKDALE
and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as
CHEAP
as any one north of Toronto.
Fresh and Corned Meats
delivered promptly on receipt of orders.
SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.
Special inducements to large Purchasers
☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."
☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep
Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.
W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept, 17th 1880. 1

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.
The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.
JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MACRAE, Reeve.
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

LUMBER AND [illegible]

The subscriber begs to intimate [illegible]
Saw Mill at Little Falls
On Lot 142 in the Range E. T. Toronto and Sydenham Road, [illegible] and is prepared to furnish LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.
CUSTOM SAWING
PROMPTLY DONE.
By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill [illegible]
ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.
Wm. HOGG.
P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles [illegible] satisfactory.
Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. [illegible]

—XMAS—
[illegible], WATCHES, JEWELRY, [illegible]
AND FANCY GOODS.
The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in the [illegible]
In Silverware I have [illegible] Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, [illegible] Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &c.
In Watches, I have—Gold [illegible] Hunting, and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated [illegible] Watches (they are the best) [illegible] glish and American key and stem [illegible] from $4 up. The celebrated Thomas and other Clocks, [illegible] In Jewelry,—I have colored and [illegible] Gold sets, Chains, [illegible] Cuff Buttons, Studs, [illegible]
DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.
My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at [illegible]
Watch Repairing a Specialty.
W. E. DOLL, [illegible]
Nov. 25, 1880. (6) Flesherton [illegible]

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!
In the Countyat
McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots
To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

BOOTS and SHOES!
FOR THE MILLION.
A NOVELTY in these Goods!
The Indestructible Riveted and Cemented and Waterproof Seam.
Call and Examine Stock and Prices!
before purchasing "slop" goods elsewhere.
FULL LINES IN
Groceries, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing, (Ready-made,) Crockery and Glassware!
—AT THE—
"TORONTO HOUSE,"
MARKDALE.
WM. BROWN.
Markdale, Sept. 17th, 1880.

H. & R. HOOPER

RESPECTFULLY invite every Man and Woman in the county to visit their [illegible] and Warerooms and inspect their stock of furniture, manufactured during the [illegible] for fall trade. Our stock is now the largest and most complete yet held by [illegible] we have been successful in introducing a great many

NEW AND TASTY DESIGNS!
IN BED-ROOM SETS, COUCHES
SIDEBOARDS, EXTENSION TABLES, CENTRE TABLES, DRESSING BUREAUS, BEDSTEADS, SOFAS, WHATNOTS, HAT-RACKS, HALL TABLES, &c., &c., &c.

WE ARE MAKING A SPECIALTY IN
New Styles of WOOD SEAT CHAIRS
CHEAP AND DURABLE.

—OUR—
UNDERTAKING DEPARTM'NT
Fully supplied with COFFINS, SHROUDS, &c., and special sizes made on [illegible] shortest notice.

ALL KINDS OF
Fancy Turning, Scroll Work, Fence Pickets & Mouldin[gs]
made to order. Also SASH, DOORS, PLANING, &c.

With our present experience we feel justified in asking a continuance of the patr[onage] so liberally bestowed on us in the past. Our prices will be found as low as any, [as] much so as is consistent with good work and finish. If you are in need of anything [in our] line we feel confident we can suit you in quantity and quality to select from and [our] terms.

H. & R. HOOPER.
1 Flesherton Steam Furniture Factory and Planing [Mill]

Removed! Removed.
HILL BROTHERS,
Would intimate to their numerous friends and the public generally, that they have removed to their new premises and will be pleased to receive a call from our many friends and customers. Call and see us. We will GIVE YOU BARGAINS. WE MEAN BUSINESS.

SEE OUR
Cheap Dress Goods,
Lustres,
Wincies,
Laces,
And Fringes,

Gents, see our CLOTHING. They are Stylish, Good CHEAP.

SEE OUR TWEEDS!
You will find them right in Price and Quality.

Boots and Shoes a Specialty
Call and get a sample of our Splendid TEAS.
Gentlemen we have a splendid SMOKING TOBACCO, at 40c per lb. Try it.

We again give a general invitation to inspect our Stock. Have not time to write long advertisements. Don't believe in them. Would rather have the Goods speak for themselves.
Thanking you for past favors, and trust to have a continuance of the same.

HILL BROS.
Markdale, Nov. 4, 1880.

[illegible] insertion......
The number of lines to be reckoned [illegible] measured by a scale [illegible] Advertisements with[out] [illegible] will be published till [illegible] All trans[ient] [illegible] must be in the office of [illegible] 11 o'clock on the Thurs[day] preceding their publication.
C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprieto[r]

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter, [Physi]cians, Surgeons, Accouche[urs] &c.
OFFICE.—Medical Hall; residen[ce] Markdale House.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880.

DR. PURDY,
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOU[CHEUR] [illegible] EUGENIA P. O.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
Barrister at Law, - Owen So[und]
OFFICE.—Millers's building, over [illegible] Poulet Street.

Frost & Frost.
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEY[S] [at] Law, Solicitors in Chancery, [illegible] Owen Sound, have resum[ed] [illegible] Office open every Thursd[ay] [illegible]
J. W. Frost [illegible] County Crown Attorney.

James Masson,
BARRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-[LAW] Master in Chancery, Owen Sound. Sept, 17, 1880.

James Lamon,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITO[R] Chancery, Notary Public, &c. Money loaned at lowest rates on pe[rsonal] and real estate. Lands bought and [sold] buyer and seller introduced free of co[st].
DUNDALK.
September 21st, 1880.

Conveyancers & Land Ag[ents]

Wm. Brown.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSE[S] Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancing in all its branches pr[omptly] attended to and carefully executed. N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Esta[te] [secu]rity.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880.

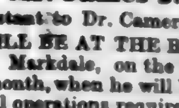
W. L. Smith,
GENERAL AGENT AND DEAL[ER] [in] Nursey Stock, Williamsford Stat[ion] Sept. 17, 1880.

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fir[e] [and] Life Insurance Agent. Commis[sioner] in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and La[nd] [Au]ctioneer for the County of Grey. Fa[rmers,] Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctua[lly] attended to and charges made very mod[erate.] Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880.

George Corbet, Jr.,
[L]AND, LOAN AND GENERAL A[GENT] Owen Sound. Money to Loan [at] [r]ates of interest. Principal payable [at the en]d of a term of years, and interest ha[lf] [yearly] or yearly, or principal and interest [payab]le in instalments.
☞ A number of desirable Improved [farms fo]r sale.

J. G. Sing,
DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL [Land] Surveyor, Draughtsman and V[aluator] [Dun]dalk and Markdale. Having pu[rchased] [P]rovincial Land Surveyor Charles R[ankin's] [en]tire stock of original Field Notes, [Re]ports, Instructions, &c., of all his [surveys] [ma]de within the last fifty-five years, [is pr]epared to make Surveys in strict [accordan]ce therewith. Profiles and Es[timates] [fo]r Grading Hills, Plans and Specif[ications] [fo]r Building Bridges, furnished on [short notice]. Money to Loan at 8 per cent [illegible] [Or]ders by letter, or left with G. J. B[illegible] [Ma]rkdale, will be promptly attended [to.] Sept. 17, 1880.

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White,
Assistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen [Sound,]
WILL BE AT THE REVERE H[OUSE,] Markdale, on the last Wedn[esday of e]ach month, when he will be prepare[d to perf]orm all operations required upon th[e teeth i]n the most satisfactory manner, a[nd on r]easonable terms.

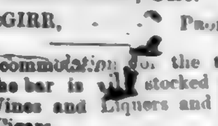
Hotels.

MANSION HOU[SE,]
MARKDALE.
Having leased the above hotel a[nd thor]oughly refurnished and refitted it, t[he trave]lling public will find every accomm[odation.] Only the best of liquors and ciga[rs.] Good stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Prop[rietor.]
Sept. 17, 1880.

ROYAL HOT[EL,]
MEAFORD, Ont.
[illegible] McGIRR, Prop[rietor.]
[E]very accommodation for the tr[avelling] public. The bar is well stocked w[ith the] choicest Wines and Liquors and [the best br]ands of Cigars.
Free 'bus to and from all trains.
Sept. 17, 1880.

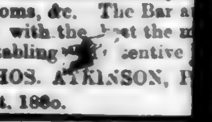
COMMERCIAL HO[TEL,]
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample [Rooms,] Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar a[lways] well supplied with the best the m[arket] [affords] Good Stabling [and at]tentive [hostler.]
THOS. ATKINSON, P[roprietor.]
October 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSO[N]



[B]UTCH[ER]
[illegible], Markdale, next door to [illegible]
[Me]at delivered at any hous[e] [illegible] 17, 1880.

[Sh]eep and Cat[tle]



[FARM]ERS having good fat [cattle] [to] sell, will find it to th[eir advantage] [to lea]ve there names and addr[esses at] [illegible] Hotel, Revere House, [illegible] [The u]ndersigned are still on the [market and will] positively pay the highest [illegible]
C. W. & A. [illegible]
[illegible] 17th, 1880.

OUR dealers in poultry have received the following:—Meat Inspector's Office, Toronto, November 22nd, 1880. Sir,—You are hereby cautioned against receiving, buying, selling, or otherwise trading Poultry, the crops or craws of which are full, or partly so, whether such crops or craws have been stuffed, or otherwise filled with proper food, or with hay, straw, grass, leaves, stones, sand, wood, or any other substance, or inflated with the human breath, or by any wind instrument; all such fraudulently dressed and unwholesome poultry being liable to confiscation and the owners and dealers therein prosecuted according to law. By order. Robert Awde, Inspector of Meat, &c.

WE are a day late with the paper this week, caused by the extra work getting up the supplement.

MARKDALE.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKERS,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.
Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

WM. FOX.
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Selling Off. Selling Off.

GREAT

Clearing Out Sale!

GRANT & CHELLEW

will offer for the

NEXT 60 DAYS!

Bargains unprecedented in the County of Grey.

SIDEBOARDS,
BUREAUS,
CUPBOARDS,
WASHSTANDS, open and enclosed,
BEADSTEADS,
SPRING BEDS,
MATTRASSES,
CRADLES,
CENTRE TABLES,
EXTENSION TABLES,
Fall-Leaf Tables, and Chairs of every variety to be

SOLD AT COST!

Pictures and Picture Framing!
in all its branches.

Upholstering and Repairing!
promptly attended to.

☞ Produce and Dry Lumber taken at market price.

GRANT & CHELLEW.
Markdale, Sept., 1880. 1

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.

At the New Tinshop
MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX
STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.
If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.
No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!
A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.
ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!
made to order on the shartest notice.

AV ROUGHING A PCIALITY.
Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

Cash! Cash! Cash!

People may Puff and Blow, but if you want real value for

Your Money or Produce
GO TO THE

Toronto House,
DUNDALK,

The following is a list of prices of a few of the many leading lines offered.

Men's Overcoats $5.50 and upwards.		Boy's Ulster Overcoats $4.75 and upwards.
Men's Tweed suits $4.00	do	Men's undershirts and Drawers, 50c	do
" Overalls)Duck) 75c	do	" heavy Pants, $2.75	do
" Winter Caps 45c	do	Ladies' all wool shawls, $1.25	do
Ladies' Clouds, 50c	do	Beautiful patterned dress Goods 15c	do
Beautiful Lustres, 15c	do	Factory Cotton, 7c	do
Ladies' Fur Caps $1.76	do	Children's Fur Caps 35c	do
Men's long Boots, $2.00	do	Men's seamless whole stock Boots $3.65	do
Toys long Boots, $1.25	do	Women's strong shoes, $1.10,	do
Children's strong shoes 45c	do

Together with a full stock of First-Class Groceries. Teas, Sugars, choice Brands of Tobaccos, Soaps, Syrups, Vinegar, Dried Apples, Buiscuits, Confectionery, Spices of all kinds Patent Medicines, Castor Oil, Castorine, Machine Oils, Coal Oil. Also Hardware, Spoons Table Knives, Nails, Screws, Hinges, latches, &c., and a full stock of all the leading lines in Dry Goods, Millinery, Furs of all kinds, and all other Goods such as are kept in a First Class General Store.

Farm Produce taken as cash. A call is solicited and you will be convinced that this is the place to get good value for your money.

Highest Cash Price paid for all kinks of Grain, Pork, &c.

GEORGE NIXON.

Dundalk, Nov 25, 1880. 11-4i

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

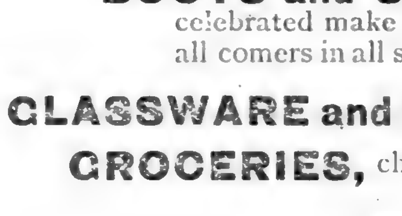
DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!
WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.
Douglas' Brick Bloch opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.
September 21st, 1880. 1

John H. Heard,
Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,



WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets.

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every description in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN
General dealer in
GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.
Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.
He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price
CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,
AND WILL
Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
☞ LOAN AND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.
Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.
Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.
Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP
as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats
delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MACRAE, Reeve.
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 143 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING
PROMPTLY DONE.

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.
Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 3-ft

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Countyat

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND's. These $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

BOOTS and SHOES!

FOR THE MILLION.

A NOVELTY in these Goods!

The Indestructible Riveted and Cemented and Waterproof Seam.

Call and Examine Stock and Prices!
before purchasing "slop" goods elsewhere.

FULL LINES IN

Groceries, Staple and Fancy Dry Goods, Clothing,

(Ready-made,) Crockery and Glassware!

—AT THE—

"TORONTO HOUSE,"
MARKDALE.

Markdale, Sept. 17th, 1880. WM. BROWN.

—XMAS—

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS
AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have Tea-sets, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &c.

AT DOLLS

In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best) Swiss, English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated Thomas and other Clocks, from Three ... In Jewelry,—I have colored and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Bells, Lockets, ... Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pens, &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty. W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Flesherton and D...
Nov. 25, 1880. (6)

H. & R. HOOPER

RESPECTFULLY invite every Man and Woman in the county to visit their Factory and Warerooms and inspect their stock of furniture, manufactured during the summer, for fall trade. Our stock is now the largest and most complete yet held by us, we have been successful in introducing a great many

NEW AND TASTY DESIGNS!
—IN—

BED-ROOM SETS, COUCHES
SIDEBOARDS, EXTENSION TABLES, CENTRE TABLES,
DRESSING BUREAUS, BEDSTEADS, SOFAS,
WHATNOTS, HAT-RACKS, HALL TABLES,
&c., &c., &c.

WE ARE MAKING A SPECIALTY IN

New Styles of WOOD SEAT CHAIRS
CHEAP AND DURABLE.

—OUR—

UNDERTAKING DEPARTMENT
Fully supplied with COFFINS, SHROUDS, &c., and special sizes made on the shortest notice.

ALL KINDS OF

Fancy Turning, Scroll Work, Fence Pickets & Mouldings
made to order. Also SASH, DOORS, PLANING, &c.

With our present experience we feel justified in asking a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed on us in the past. Our prices will be found as low as any, as much so as is consistent with good work and finish. If you are in need of anything in our line we feel confident we can suit you in quantity and quality to select from and also terms.

H. & R. HOOPER,
Flesherton Steam Furniture Factory and Planing Mill.

Removed! Removed.

HILL BROTHERS,

Would intimate to their numerous friends and the public generally, that they have removed to their new premises and will be pleased to receive a call from our many friends and customers. Call and see us. We will GIVE YOU BARGAINS. WE MEAN BUSINESS.

SEE OUR

Cheap Dress Goods,
Lustres,
Wincies,
Laces,
And Fringes,

Gents, see our CLOTHING. They are Stylish, Good CHEAP.

SEE OUR TWEEDS!
You will find them right in Price and Quality.

Boots and Shoes a Specialty

Call and get a sample of our Splendid TEAS.

Gentlemen we have a splendid SMOKING TOBACCO, at 40c per lb. Try it.

We again give a general invitation to inspect our Stock. Have not time to write long advertisements. Don't believe in them. Would rather have the Goods speak for themselves.

Thanking you for past favors, and trust to have a continuance of the same.

HILL BROS.

Markdale, Nov. 4, 1880.

Markdale Standard
IS PUBLISHED
FRIDAY MORNING
... time to meet the early mails. ... the latest Foreign and Provincial ... Intelligence, County Business, ... Matters and an Instructive ...
... in advance, $1 50 in three months, ... paid till end of the year. No paper discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher, ... parties refusing papers without paying ... will be held responsible for the subscription until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

One column, one year	....	$50 00
Half do	do	27 00
Quarter do	do	15 00
Eight do	do	8 00
Cards	do	4 00
... under, first insertion		50
... subsequent insertion		15
... to ten lines, first insertion		75
Each subsequent insertion		25
Over ten lines, first insertion per line		8
Each subsequent insertion		2

The number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of solid brevier. Advertisements without specific directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 11 o'clock on the Thursday morning preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
Physicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs, &c.
OFFICE—Medical Hall; residence Markdale House.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR, EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
Barrister at Law, - Owen Sound. OFFICE.—Millers's building, over R...son's store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS at Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed Flesherton. Office open every Thursday heretofore.
ALBERT FROST, J. W. FROST, County Crown Attorney.

James Masson,
BARRISTER and ATTORNEY AT-LAW, Master in Chancery, Owen Sound.
Sept, 17, 1880. 1

James Lamon,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR in Chancery, Notary Public, &c.
Money loaned at lowest rates on personal and real estate. Lands bought and sold. Buyer and seller introduced free of commission.
DUNDALK.
September 21st, 1880.

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
N. B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1

W. L. Smith,
GENERAL AGENT AND DEALER in Nursey Stock, Williamsford Station.
Sept. 17, 1880.

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, Merchants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
Priceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1

George Corbet, Jr.,
LAND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT, Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low rates of interest. Principal payable at the end of a term of years, and interest half yearly or yearly, or principal and interest repayable in instalments.
☞ A number of desirable Improved Farms for sale. 1

J. G. Sing,
DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, Meaford and Markdale. Having purchased Provincial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's entire stock of original Field Notes, Plans, Reports, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys done within the last fifty-five years, is prepared to make Surveys in strict accordance therewith. Profiles and Estimates for Grading Hills, Plans and Specifications for Building Bridges, furnished on application. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. Orders by letter, or left with G. J. BL... Markdale, will be promptly attended to.
Sept. 17, 1880.

Dentistry.

Mr. James J. White,
Assistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound,
WILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday of each month, when he will be prepared to perform all operations required upon the teeth in the most satisfactory manner, and on reasonable terms.

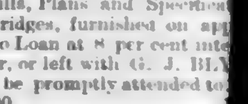
Hotels.

MANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
Having leased the above hotel and thoroughly refurnished and refitted it, the travelling public will find every accommodation. Only the best of liquors and cigars. Good stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
Sept. 17, 1880.

ROYAL HOTEL
MEAFORD, Ont.
J. McGIRR, Proprietor.
Every accommodation to the travelling public. The bar is well stocked with the choicest Wines and Liquors and the best brands of Cigars.
Free 'bus to and from all trains.
Sept. 17, 1880.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms, Good Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and ... well supplied with the best the market affords; good Stabling ... attentive Hostler.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
October 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSON

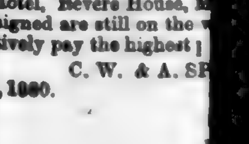


BUTCHER

... St., Markdale, next door to Ex...

Meat delivered at any house ...
Sept. 17, 1880.

Sheep and Cattle



FARMERS having good fat Sheep or Cattle to sell, will find it to their advantage to leave there names and address at ... Hotel, Revere House, Markdale ... the undersigned are still on the ... and will positively pay the highest ...
C. W. & A. SP...
Sept. 17th, 1880.

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 15. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1880. WHOLE NO. 5.

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

[EVE]RY FRIDAY MORNING

In time to meet the early mails.

[Con]tains the latest Foreign and Provincial [News], Local Intelligence, County Business, [Com]mercial Matters and an Instructive [Misce]llany.

[$1].25 in advance, $1.50 in three months, [if] not paid till end of the year. No pa[per] discontinued until all arrearages are [paid] except at the option of the publisher, [and] parties refusing papers without paying [w]ill be held responsible for the subscrip[tion] until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

[One c]olumn, one year	....	$50 00
do	do	27 00
[Quart]er do	do	15 00
do	do	8 00
	do	4 00
[Two l]ines and under, first insertion	..	50
Each subsequent insertion	.....	15
[Two] to ten lines, first insertion	.....	75
Each subsequent insertion	.....	25
[Over] ten lines, first insertion per line		8
Each subsequent insertion	.....	2

[The n]umber of lines to be reckoned by [the sp]ace occupied measured by a scale of brevier. Advertisements without [spe]cific directions will be published till for[bid] and charged accordingly. All transitory [adver]tisements must be in the office of pub[licati]on by 11 o'clock on the Thursday [preced]ing their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[PR]OFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
[Phy]sicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
[O]FFICE—Medical Hall; residence at [Mark]dale House.
[Ma]rkdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
[P]HYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[EUR], Eugenia P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
[Ba]rrister at Law, - Owen Sound.
[O]FFICE—Millers's building, over Robin[son]'s store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,
[B]ARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT [Law], Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[ance]rs, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at [Fle]sherton. Office open every Thursday, as [be]fore.
[A. Fre]d Frost, J. W. Frost, LL. B.
County Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson,
[B]ARRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Master in Chancery, Owen Sound.
[Se]pt, 17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,
[A]TTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN Chancery, Notary Public, &c.
[M]oney loaned at lowest rates on personal [and] real estate. Lands bought and sold [Buye]r and seller introduced free of commis[sion].
DUNDALK.
[Se]ptember 21st, 1880. 1

[Co]nveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,
[IS]SUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., Commissioner in B. R. &c.
[Co]nveyancing in all its branches promptly [atten]ded to and carefully executed.
[N.] B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate se[curit]y.
[Ma]rkdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

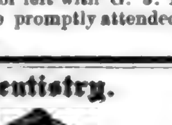
W. L. Smith,
[G]ENERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN Nursery Stock, Williamsford Station.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,
[IS]SUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner [in] B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [Auct]ioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [Merc]hants, and Land Sales, Punctually at[tende]d to and charges made very moderate.
[Pri]ceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,
[LA]ND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low [rates] of interest. Principal payable at the [end of] a term of years, and interest half year[ly, or] yearly, or principal and interest repay[able i]n instalments.
A number of desirable Improved Farms [for sa]le. 1-y

J. G. Sing,
[D]OMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, [Mea]ford and Markdale. Having purchased [Prov]incial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [entir]e stock of original Field Notes, Plans, [Rep]orts, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [made] within the last fifty-five years, I am [prep]ared to make Surveys in strict accord[ance] therewith. Profiles and Estimates [for] Grading Hills, Plans and Specifications [for] Building Bridges, furnished on applica[tion]. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [Ord]ers by letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [Mar]kdale, will be promptly attended to.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White,
[As]sistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, [W]ILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in [each] month, when he will be prepared to per[form] all operations required upon the mouth [in th]e most satisfactory manner, and upon [reaso]nable terms. 1-y

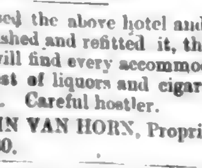
Hotels.

[M]ANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
[Ha]ving leased the above hotel and thor[oughl]y refurnished and refitted it, the trav[elling] public will find every accommodation. [Onl]y the best of liquors and cigars kept. [Good] stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

[R]OYAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.
J. McGIRR, Proprietors.
[Ev]ery accommodation for the travelling [publi]c. The bar is stocked with the [choic]est Wines and Liquors and the best [bran]ds of Cigars.
[F]ree 'bus to and from all trains.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

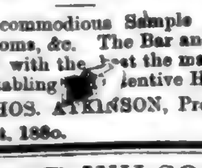
[C]OMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
[La]rge and commodious Sample Rooms: [Goo]d Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [are] supplied with the best the market af[fords]; good Stabling [and at]tentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
[O]ctober 31st, 1880. 8

GEORGE WILSON,



[B]UTCHER
[Main] St., Markdale, next door to Expositor [Offic]e.
Meat delivered at any house in town.
[Se]pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

Sheep and Cattle.

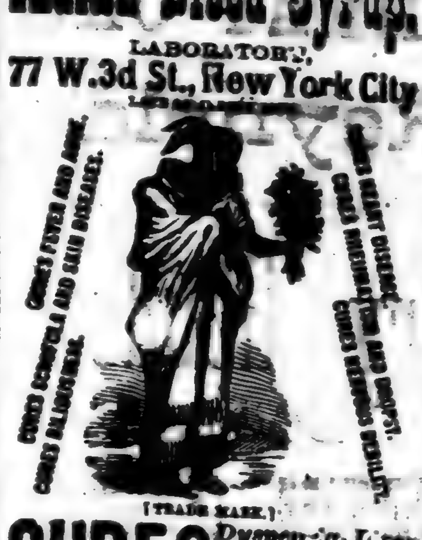


[F]ARMERS having good fat Sheep or Cattle to sell, will find it to their advant[age] to leave there names and address at Mc[Cr]ackeon's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, [as] the undersigned are still on the war path, [and] will positively pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEERS.
[Se]pt. 17th, 1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

Indian Blood Syrup,

LABORATORY,
77 W. 3d St., New York City



[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

10,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9,000,000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Pytyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pytyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest,
Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont,

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

Ohio, now the second coal State in the country, will mine over 7,000,000 tons this year, against 6,427,379 in the year ending the 31st of last May. Four new fields have been opened this year—Coalton in Jackson county, Corning, in which Governor Foster is interested, in the Sunday creek valley, Del Rey in Carroll county, and Wheeling Back, along the extension of the Cleveland, Tuscarawas Valley, and Wheeling road.

MATTERS DRAMATIC.

SALVINI smokes only Italian cigars—long "stogas," made of a straw and a splint of broom corn covered with the strong leaf tobacco is wrapped.

THE advertisers of Sarah Bernhardt in Boston seem to have gone too far in announcing that the poet Longfellow would sit for the actress to model a bust. Longfellow makes a denial.

A LIVE baby is used in a play now on the road, and this fact is turned to profitable account by the manager of the company, which appears in the play. In every city he advertises for a baby, and hundreds are offered. This makes a novel baby show, the reporters describe it, and much attention is thereby drawn to the performance.

THE London journals account for what they call "the Sarah Bernhardt craze" by saying that the New Yorkers are more than half Parisian. They like England's old world relics and antiquities, cathedrals, rivers, and Stratford-on-Avon; but Paris has their heart. They visit the tomb of Shakespeare and wander about the haunts of Dickens and Thackeray, but it is from Paris the American lady gets her dresses, and the millionaire his furniture, decorations, and pictures.

MISS MARY ANDERSON purchased recently at St. Louis a diamond necklace and pendant for $5,000. The necklace is composed of nineteen very large and beautiful diamonds, all first-quality gems. From the necklace is suspended a pendant of exquisite beauty and workmanship, which is one mass of diamonds. In the centre, and directly above it, are two very large solitaire diamonds of five carats each, surrounded by seventy-seven smaller diamonds, so arranged as to give the appearance of one immense solitaire of great value.

IT is a mistake to suppose that the histrionic profession is treated in England or France, with more social honor than here. Rachel was in 1841, when she came first, received in London with great distinction, but on her second visit, when stories got abroad about her, the drawing rooms were no longer open to her. She was not again the guest of the sovereign; the royal duchesses held aloof. Sarah Bernhardt had to repeat the same experiences, and London followed the example of Paris, where the stateliest ladies of the Faubourg first sought her then turned coldly from her. The Theatrical profession, with rare exceptions, is not received in fashionable society in England or France.

SALVINI believes that Shakespeare intended Othello to be a Moor of Barbary, or some other part of northern Africa. "I have met several," the tragedian says, "and think I imitate their ways and manners pretty well. You are aware, however, that the historical Othello was not a black at all. He was a white man, and a Venetian General named Mora. His history resembles that of Shakespeare's hero in many particulars, Giraldo Cinthro, probably for better effect, made out of the name Mora, moro, a blackamoor, and Shakespeare, unacquainted with the true story, followed this old novelist's lead, and it was well he did so; for have we not in consequence the most perfect delineation of the peculiarities of Moorish temperament ever conceived?"

Sarah Bernhardt and Abbey Striking a Bonanza.

Sarah Barnhardt has brought her wonderful engagement to a close. The united efforts of herself and Mr. Henry E. Abbey have made it the most remarkable ever known in the annals of theatrical entertainment. For his share of the four weeks' business, Mr. Abbey has netted $40,000 (about $15,000 of which have gone in the Passion Play), and Sarah Bernhardt has made about the same amount. The extent of her receipts, compared with those she has abroad, may be gauged in the simple statement that in three weeks here she made as much as she ever made in a year and a half of her previous career. During the last week of her engagement, the sum she received was more than her salary in one year at the Theatre Français. It is not necessary, here, to descant on the fact that more meritorious attractions, taken as a whole, have not attained to a tenth part of this wonderful result, and there is little to say also, that whatever we may think of Mr. Abbey in this course regarding the Passion Play, he has shown consummate skill regarding Sarah Bernhardt. With a less able man she would have made much less money, but the tact and shrewdness that have directed this whole affair reflect the highest credit on the management. Now, Mr. Abbey takes his star elsewhere to coin money. The "take" in Boston even surpasses that of New York. The advance sale here was about $40,000 before she opened and that was for four weeks. In Boston the advance sale is about $45,000, and it is for twelve performances only. Two extra performances will be given there and will add materially to the receipts. The whole engagement in America will net Bernhardt about $150,000, and Mr. Abbey the same.

PEARLS OF TRUTH.

ALL who have meditated on the art of governing mankind have been convinced that the fate of empires depends on the education of youth.

IF men would spend in doing good to others a quarter of the time and money they spend in doing harm to themselves, misery would vanish from the earth.

IT takes four things to be a gentleman—you must be a gentleman in your principles, a gentleman in your tastes, a gentleman in your manners, and a gentleman in your person.

NOTHING is so good or wholesome as the simple truth; and he who helps us to find out a single real thing about ourselves does us a far greater service than he could by indiscriminately undervaluing us.

THERE is only now and then an opportunity for displaying great courage, or even great wisdom; but every hour in the day offers a chance to show our good nature, charity, and kindness of heart.

SYMPATHY.—He that sympathises in all the happiness of others, perhaps himself enjoys the safest happiness; and he that is warned by all the folly of others, has perhaps attained the soundest wisdom.

ONE of the lessons which young people have to learn by experience is the power, as well as the enduring quality, of deeds and words, and that they cannot talk idly as the wind whistles, or do carelessly as the reeds float, with no effect produced and no impress made.

THE truly hospitable host sets his guest at ease by being at ease himself; he gives him the best he has without fuss or flurry, or undue expense, always remembering that the best thing he can offer him is himself, unfretted by care, unwearied by labour, fresh and free for social converse, or sympathy, or counsel, as the case may be.

CHEERFULNESS.—It is a great misfortune to have a fretful disposition. It takes the fragrance out of one's life, and leaves only weeds where a cheerful disposition would cause flowers to bloom. The habit of fretting is one that grows rapidly unless it be sternly repressed; and the best way to overcome it is to try always to look on the cheerful side of things.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 75,

Uxbridge, Ont.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

The Coquette.

After birth an blooming roses I was lain,
Mother's petting, nursing me, was not in vain;
[illegible] to woo me never ceased.
And I only flirted with them,
[illegible]
As I pleased.

[illegible] Baby.

Rock-a-by baby upon the tree top,
When the wind blows—confound it, do stop.
When the wind blows the cradle will rock,
Jerusalem crickets! what a temper you've got;
When the bough breaks the cradle will fall,
By thunder! you young 'uns do nothing but squall
Now, baby, go by-by; go hush-i-ty—hush;
Shoo, shoo, shooy, sh-ooy, hush, hush-i-ty—hush;
If you ain't asleep this minute, now, now, rock-a-by.
Well, hang such a young one, that does nothing but cry.

The Wax Doll.

Boxed up so carefully,
Banged flaxen hair,
A new-fangled foundling,
Just left in our care;
Like Flora McFlimsey—
With nothing to wear.

We'll robe her in silks,
In laces straightway,
Then pin a big price on her
For some Crœsus to pay.

The feet, so frigid like,
And those limbs rigid like—
Bronze slippers and hose for them.
But her eyes? Close them,
Staring so blindly, so dreadfully staring,
With blue-eyed impunity.

Hear her say "Papa," Hear her say "Mamma;"
Has she a sister?
Has she a brother?
Why didn't they teach her
To cry for her lover!

Take her up gingerly,
"Handle with care;"
Constructed thus fearfully,
She's wax, so beware!

Fashion Notes.

WORTH continues to make basques.

BAYADERE striped silks are revived in Paris.

CLARET-coloured kid gloves are among the novelties.

MASCULINE styles for ladies' street costumes are still popular.

SHIRRED waists are very much in favour with young ladies.

OLIVE is the rare shade to find in plush, as in hose or gloves.

WIDE velvet collars bordered with fur are very stylishly worn.

QUILTED satin, lined with flannel or chamois skin, are the latest luxury in petticoats.

PINK jackets are very stylish for wear with any handsome skirt to the opera, theatre, or for full-dress visit.

NEW cloak clasps are of passementeries, to match the new cloak trimmings—jet, jet and gold, steel and jet, pearl, etc.

LARGE bouquets of flowers are now placed in the centre of the bodice, somewhere about the sixth button from the top. This is the very newest caprice.

BRILLIANT beetles decorate one stylish bonnet and another has gold-headed pins half buried in the plush. Whole sets—muff collar and bonnet—in cream plush are very stylish.

THE Rob Roy or baker's caps are now dignified by the name of Leonard da Vinci turbans, being similar in shape to the head-dress worn by the renowned painter while at work.

A SUPERB evening dress for a young lady is a combination of gold brocade on ground of satin in cream-white, and plain lilac satin of a delightful pale shade.

AMONG the many fancy feathers are butterflies; some formed of brilliant tropical plumage and others of tiny cock's feathers tipped with gold, the bodies in both cases being formed of tinsel beads.

"SHRIMP" pink is a colour in satin much used in Paris, in combination with the brilliant shade of light blue; the garnet velvet is much employed for trimming white evening dresses, either of satin and brocade or of the new striped gauze.

A VERY elegant opera cloak was of antique silk, lined throughout with turquoise silk and trimmed with wide bands of white fox. The cloak was in long coat shape, with angel sleeves and a round cape of white fox completed the wrap.

OPERA bonnets are of plush in the cream shade so becoming to all complexions. Pokes, capotes, Clarissa Harlowes and Spanish caps are the shapes, while the trimmings are long white plumes, heavy ostrich tips, pearl beaded lace and ornaments.

SOME very pretty toilet sets are of satin in various colors, hand-painted and trimmed with lace—a long mat for the dressing-case, an elegant pin-cushion, and a pair of perfume bottles covered with satin and having a plaiting of satin around the base, which answers the purpose of a mat.

A SUPERB black satin de Lyon is heavily trimmed with with wide bands of cocks' feathers tipped with gold, a pink satin is decorated with rich embroidery in beads and chenille, while the plush walking suit has the collar, cuffs, pockets, and border of leopard skin selected with especial care for the purpose.

EMBROIDERY of the most exquisite workmanship is seen upon white evening dresses. It is also worked upon silk, satin, and velvet. Jets and beads of all kinds, gold, silver, cashmere, pearl, and chrystal are also employed. The patterns are very beautiful, and are in copy of Grecian, Byzantine, Renaissance, or purely fanciful designs.

GLOVES are now worn with short sleeves, to come up a good deal higher than the elbow. Portebonheur bracelets in plain or open-work bands, are worn upon the wrist over the glove, and also the serpent-like gold and silver bracelets coiled around the arm. To these it is now fashionable to add at least one massive bracelet at the top of the arm.

SILK plush has conspicuous places in all dresses intended for ceremonious wear; wedding robes are even relieved in some manner by appliances of plush, or show plush in combination; and plush gives distinctiveness of style to a great many of the most elegant of the dinner and reception robes.

Two young Philadelphians recently appeared in gowns which looked as if woven from sunlight and moonlight. One was of cream brocade wrought with gold thread, and was made with a box-plaited train and a baby front embroidered in gold and pearls; and the other was of silver cloth with front and side breadths of white satin, embroidered in white chenille and pearls.

Waifs.

[S]OME men are called waifs because they are used to keep a flirt's hand in.

WHEN the baby cries for "bread" it is the most natural thing in the world for the mother to give it a rock.

FASHION says: "Gathered waists are very much in favour with young ladies." They are with the young gentlemen.

"ALL seems to hinge on this," remarked the lover when he proposed to his sweetheart while swinging on the gate in front of her house.

JONES thinks a man is fortunate who has [h]is will contested after death only. He says his will has been contested ever since he married Mrs. Jones.

AT the ball: Grace (whispering)—"What lovely boots your partner's got, Mary!" Mary (ditto)—"Yes, unfortunately he shines at the wrong end."

THE census shows something like twenty per centum more females than males in the country's population. Well, we can't have too much of a good thing.

DEAF Lady—What's his name? Young lady—Augustus Tyler. Deaf lady—Bless me, what a name! Bustis Biler, Eh! you must be making fun of me.

SHE—"Mr. Slow, are those two men that have just passed brothers?" He—"I—aw—know that one of them is; but I—aw—not quite sure of the other."

MISTRESS: "Mary, this venerable goose is tough enough to break one's teeth." Maid: "Yes'm; didn't you tell me, ma'am, that you wanted it for piece de resistance."

A MURRAY HILL, New York, girl has had one of her shapely feet modeled in marble, and has presented it as a birthday present to her affianced husband for a paper-weight.

"How shall I have my bonnet trimmed," asked Miria, "so that it shall agree with my complexion?" "If you want it to match your face, have it plain," replied hateful Hattie.

A RETURNED Australian found the baby he left at home a miss of five summers. One day he offended her, and she fretfully exclaimed: "I wish you had never married into the family."

BOY (to a lady visitor): "Teacher, there's a gal over there a winkin' at me." Teacher: "Well, then, don't look at her." Boy: "But if I don't wink at her she'll wink at somebody else."

MISS Made-up Old Girl: "Yes, I love the old oak; it is associated with so many hours spent beneath its shade. It carries me back to my childhood, when—when——" Young Foodle—"When you—er—planted it."

DRAWING-ROOM episode: Affable duchess (to amateur tenor, who has just been warbling M. Gounod's last)—"Charming! charming! You must really get somebody to introduce you to me!"

A SLIGHT misunderstanding: "Do you ever wink, Miss Evangeline?" "Do I ever what, Mr. Smythe?" "Wink?" "What do you mean, sir?" "Well, skate, if you pwefer the expression!"

"EUGENIE, Eugenie, will you still insist on wearing the hair of another woman upon your head?" "Alphonso, Alphonso, do you still insist upon wearing the skin of another calf upon your feet?"

"KISS," said young Charles, "is a noun, we allow; but tell me, me, my dear, is it proper or common?" Lovely Mary blushed deep, and exclaimed: "Why, I vow, I think that a kiss is both proper and common."

SCENE—A trysting-place. Roger (who was kept waiting some time)—What came ower ye? Dae ye ken ye've kept me waiting mair nor half an hour? Peggy (whom he has courted for more than eight years)—I couldna help it. (After a pause)—Look at the time ye've kept me waiting, and I'm shure ye never heard me once compleenin'.

CIRCUMSTANTIAL evidence: "Who's that frizzy, black-haired woman talking to my husband on the ottoman?" "She's a Mrs. Cadogan Smythe." "Indeed! She's good at flattering people, I should say, and knows how to lay is on pretty thick." "Ah! you infer that, no doubt, from her attitude and expression?" "Oh, dear, no, from my husband's."

SHE was a big, buxom lass, and when her small beau called one evening she said: "Good evening, Lily." "I'm no lily," he replied, surprised at the idea; "you're the lily; men are never lilies." "Yes, sometimes they are, and you especially are a lily." "How's that?" "Lilliputian." He then looked as if he wished he were an elephant.

A GENIAL mistake: New Beauty (unversed as yet in the mysteries of high life)—"Who's that wonderful old gentleman?" The Captain—"Sir Digby de Rigby, a Hampshire baronet, one of the oldest in England; James the First's creation, you know." New Beauty (determined to be surprised at nothing)—"Indeed! How well preserved he is! I shouldn't have thought him more than seventy or eighty!"

"THE Young Lady's Friend" is the title of a work on behaviour. It tells the young ladies that they must not stand on their heads in company; that it is highly improper to put your hand toward your face in spread eagle fashion; and gives various other valuable hints, all of which should be heeded by our young ladies.

FASHIONABLE emulation; Lady (speaking with difficulty)—What have you made it round the waist, Mrs. Price? Dressmaker—Twenty-one inches, ma'am; you couldn't breathe with less. Lady—What's Lady Jemima Jones' waist! Dressmaker—Nineteen and a half just now, ma'am; but her ladyship's a head shorter than you are, and she's got over so much thinner since her illness last autumn, Lady—Then make it nineteen, Mrs. Price, and I'll engage to get into it?

Children's Quaint Sayings

A CHILD seeing a bill on a telegraph post: "Oh, mamma, look! A message has fallen down."

TOTTIE—I wonder why dolls are always girls, Tom? Tom—Because boys hate to be made babies of.

LITTLE boy, learning his catechism from his mother: Q. What is a man's chief end? A. His head!

A LITTLE girl, aged five, going to bed one night, and kneeling down to say her prayers, said: "O, mamma, may I only say amen to-night? I am so tired."

SMALL boy, watching his sister iron a piece of work with a bird's nest of eggs done in crewels on it—I say, sister, if you keep the iron so long on those eggs you'll hatch 'em.

JACK (aged four, taking a walk)—What becomes of people when they die? Mamma—They turn in to dust, dear. Jack—What a lot of people there must be on the road, then.

MAMMA—And David was able to kill that great big man Goliath because God helped him. Harry (aged six)—Well, I I don't call that fair, mamma; that's two on one.

A LITTLE girl had a penny given her to put in the collection box at church. When she dropped in the coin she exclaimed: "That's the way the money goes, pop goes the weasel."

GIRL (yawning over lessons)—I'm so tired; I should like to go to sleep. Boy—I'll tell you what to do, then; get up early to-morrow and have a good sleep before breakfast.

A LITTLE girl, seeing two love birds billing and cooing, was told that they were making love. "Why don't they marry?" she asked; "then they would not make love any more."

THE clever paper, London Truth, advertised recently to give a prize of £2 2s. for the quaintest saying of a child. Several hundred contributions were sent in, of which the following are the most pointed:

"LITTLE baby is very ill, Charley; I am afraid he will die. "Well, if he does die, mamma, he won't go to the bad place." "Why, Charley, how can you know that?" "Oh, I know he can't mamma; he's got no teeth to gnash."

A FOND mother said to her little son: "Tommy, my dear, I am going to give you a little companion soon; which would you prefer, a little boy or a little girl?" "Well, mother," replied Tommy, "if it is all the same to you, I would rather have a little donkey."

The Garland Toilet.

This is the kind of gown in which one entirely anonymous Frenchwoman goes to a dinner. It is made of heliotrope satin merveilleux, but these simple words convey no idea of its appearance. The material is drawn together in such a way that it looks like a garland of violets. How it is done French dressmakers only know, but it is done and is placed in a deep band around the lower part of the skirt. The front of the petticoat is slightly puffed and trimmed with Alencon lace. The waist opens like a kerchief in front and has large plaits behind. The sleeves are trimmed with three rows of lace and fastened up with bows of satin, and a dog collar of violet velvet and a Russian chain of chased silver are worn about the neck.

An Indian Ball.

Monday, says The Yellowstone Journal, a novel and interesting performance in the shape of a dance was enacted on Main street, by over one hundred Sioux and Cheyennes, who were accompanied by about twice as many squaws and papooses. The warriors were grotesquely dressed in styles which would have been decidedly cool even in summer; as it was, the day was quite chilly, and the dusky braves had to keep up a vigorous dance to feel at all comfortable. The ceremony commenced by their all squatting on the ground in a large circle, when Hump, who seemed to be the leader, struck the drum a few taps; they all jumped up, and commenced circling around, shaking the sleigh-bells with which they were all ornamented in a very lively manner, making a pleasing accompaniment to the thumping of the drum, which by this time was beat by over a dozen Indians, all, however, keeping a monotonous time to which the dancers kept step. All of the participants in the dance, had their bodies painted various hideous colours, some being green, red, blue, black, and many parti-coloured, with their faces painted in many colours, and looking very ugly. Most prominent among them all was painted a number of horseshoes, which represent the number of horses owned by each individual. At each of the stores above mentioned barrels of crackers, caddies of tobacco, and large quantities of sugar, and gay printed calico were given, which pleased them greatly. The dancing was kept up for several hours, and was witnessed by many ladies and citizens to whom it was very interesting. After getting all they could from the stores, they disbanded and dispersed to their camp, the other side of Fort Keogh.

Three Wives.

Three men of wealth meeting not long since, says an exchange, the conversation turned upon their wives. Instead of finding fault with women in general, and their wives in particular, each one obeyed the wise man's advice, and "gave honour unto his wife."

"I tell you what it is," said one of the men, "they may say what they please about the uselessness of modern women, but my wife has done her share in securing our success in life. Everybody knows that her family was aristocratic, and exclusive, and all that, and when I married her she had never done a day's work in her life: but when W. & Co. failed, and I had to commence at the foot of the hill again, she discharged the servant and chose but a neat little cottage, and did her own housekeeping until I was better off."

"And my wife," said a second; "was an only daughter, caressed and petted to death; and everybody said: 'Well, if he will marry a doll like that, he'll make the greatest mistake of his life;' but when I came home the first year of marriage, sick with the fever, she nursed me back to health, and I never knew her to murmur because I thought we couldn't afford any better style or more luxurious."

"Well, gentlemen," chimed in a third, "I married a smart, healthy, pretty girl, but she was a regular blue-stocking. She adored Tennyson, doted on Byron, read Emerson, and named the first baby Ralph Waldo Emerson, and the second Maud; but I tell you what 'tis," and the speaker's eyes grew suspiciously moist, "when we laid little Maud in her last bed at Auburn my poor wife had no remembrance of neglect or stinted motherly care, and the little dresses that still lie in the locked drawer were all made by her own hands."

Singular Manifestations.

A Madame Blavatsky has been exhibiting extraordinary manifestations in India. At the time of the arrival of the Theosophist party in India from America an extraordinary story was told about a globe which was said to have been sent by some new parcel-post system from Bombay to London. Now the following remarkable statement appears in the Pioneer:—"On Sunday the 3rd of October, at Mr. Hume's house at Simla, there were present at dinner Mr. and Mrs. Hume, Mr. and Mrs. Sinnett, Mrs. Gordon, Mr. F. Hogg, Captain P. J. Maitland, Mr. Beatson, Mr. Davison, Colonel Olcott, and Madame Blavatsky. Most of the persons present having recently seen many remarkable occurrences in Madame Blavatsky's presence, conversation turned on occult phenomena, and in the course of this Madame Blavatsky asked Mrs. Hume if there was anything she particularly wished for. Mrs. Hume at first hesitated, but in a short time said that there was something she would particularly like to have brought to her—namely, a small article of jewellery that she had formerly possessed, but had given away to persons who had allowed it to pass out of their possession. Madame Blavatsky then said if she would fix the image of the article in question very definitely in her mind she (Madame Blavatsky) would endeavour to procure it. Mrs. Hume then said that she vividly remembered the article, and described it as an old-fashioned breast brooch set round with pearls, with glass at the front and the back made to contain hair. She then, on being asked, drew a rough sketch of the brooch. Madame Blavatsky then wrapped a coin attached to her watch chain in two cigarette papers and put it in her dress, and said that she hoped the brooch might be obtained in the course of the evening. At the close of dinner she said to Mrs. Hume that the paper in which the coin had been wrapped was gone. A little later, in the drawing-room, she said that the brooch would not be brought into the house, but that it must be looked for in the garden, and then, as the party went out accompanying her, she said she had clairvoyantly seen the brooch fall into a star-shaped bed of flowers. Mrs. Hume led the way to such a bed in a distant part of the garden. A prolonged and careful search was made with lanterns, and eventually a small paper packet, consisting of two cigarette papers, was found amongst the leaves by Mrs. Sinnett. This being opened on the spot, was found to contain a brooch exactly corresponding to the previous description, and which Mrs. Hume identified as that which she had originally lost. None of the party, except Mr. and Mrs. Hume, had ever seen or heard of the brooch. Mr. Hume had not thought of it for years. Mrs. Hume had never spoken of it to any one since she parted with it, nor had she for long even thought of it. She herself stated, after it was found, that it was only when Madame asked her whether there was anything she would like to have that the remembrance of this brooch, the gift of her mother, flashed across her mind. Mrs. Hume is not a spiritualist, and up to the time of the occurrence described was no believer in occult phenomena or in Madame Blavatsky's powers. The conviction of all present was that the occurrence was of an absolutely unimpeachable character as an evidence of the truth of the possibility of occult phenomena. The brooch is unquestionably the one which Mrs. Hume lost. Even supposing, which is practically impossible, that the article, lost months before Mrs. Hume ever heard of Madame Blavatsky, and bearing no letters or other indication of original ownership, could have passed in a natural way into Madame Blavatsky's possession, even then she could not have foreseen that it would be asked for, as Mrs. Hume herself had not given it a thought for months. The narrative, read over to the party, is signed by A. O. Hume, M. A. Hume, Fred. R. Hogg, A. P. Sinnett, Patience Sinnett, Alice Gordon, P. J. Maitland, W. Davison, and Stuart Beatson."

THE Vienna Tagblatt asserts that the Czar has placed $1,500,000 in Mendelssohn's bank in Berlin to the credit of his new wife.

Highly Interesting Reading.

SOMETHING ABOUT THE LATEST FASHIONABLE DANCES.

What masks, what dances
To wear away this long age of three hours.

There are about ten teachers of dancing in Toronto and some three or four schools and academies where the science of rythmetic motion is expressed in chalked circles and heel and toe movements, and where awkward youths go through agonies of bashfulness with their eyes glued to their feet and their elbows balanced at right angles like the wings of a trussed fowl, for dancing is no longer a mild and swaying motion to the sound of slow music or rapid whirl about, in which the dancer spins like a top. The new dances demand an immense amount of energy, hard work, and dislocation of all the members, so that a good dancer of modern dances has all the accomplishments of a contortionist and the grace and flexibility of a Græco-Roman wrestler. Indeed, it is only those who are sleg at dancers of the round dances who can acquire with any degree of proficiency the new glide steps of the ripple, raquet, Sallie Waters, Rockaway, cradle Knickerbocker, and new glide. There is a peculiar swaying to one side, which is caused by extending one foot sideways and balancing in that direction, then recovering by bringing the truant foot back with a step that is very hard to acquire, but when once acquired is the very poetry of motion. The much talked of raquet is a society dance that among round dance takes the lead. It is very attractive eye, and those who dance it well form the best picture ever seen on a ball room floor. The movement, which is only to be described by the rocking motion of a cradle, is the ideal of grace, but, naturally, cannot be acquired easily by persons who are unable to bend sideways. The swaying motion is continued through the entire figure, and the further the couple can lean over and the quicker they gain their equilibrium, the more expert and accomplished they are.

The Sallie Waters is a hop, skip, and jump step, with a jig attachment, and a clog dance combination in the heel tap. It derives its name from a recent song called "The Babies in Our Block." The expression of the music is in 2-4 time, and it is very pretty with a waltz movement and a spring step, and is slow or fast. The song runs like this:

Little Sallie Waters Sitting in the sun,
Crying and weeping
For a young man,
Oh! rise, Sallie, rise,
Wipe your eyes with your frock,
That's sung by all the babies
That are living in our block.

The cradle is one figure of the raquet, the swaying motion like the rocking of the cradle—and is a pretty and poetic as a picture. The Knickerbocker is in 1-2-3-4 step from side to side, and is too tiresome to last long.

A new quadrille is called "The Polo," and will be popular this winter. There is more balancing in quadrilles than has been the fashion of late years and less stately walking about, after the style of the old minuets of Washington's day, but whether it is an improvement or not would be hard to say. The practice which some young people seem to patronize of clasping each other round the waist or shoulders with a vigorous grip in which the hands looks muscular and obtrusive, does not seem to be quite necessary, any more than it is to clutch the fabric of the dress as if holding on for dear life. It is noticeable among neophytes that the gentlemen are more embarrassed than the ladies, and what they lose in self-possession they make up in vigor; but it is the inelegant dancers who pound the hardest and are tired out the soonest.

The Rockaway is a long slide step heel and toe, the old polka step with variations and the conventional slide steps. The ripple calls for special music. It is a very pretty dance, and less tiresome than any of the others; but it requires a graceful, slender figure and flying feet.

The old polka has gone out, by name, at least; so has the redowa, and the mazurka, and the Highland schottische, and the waltz as it used to be. The walking step is much faster in the glide than formerly. Dancing to be anything now, is fast and furious, and not the slow promenade it has been for some years. The side motion is decided innovation. Dancers do not hop up and down with the springy motion of the knee, as in the old waltzes, when people went bobbing and courtesying about like Dutch dolls, and the gentleman held his partner discreetly at a distance with his extended arm. Now he and his partner are one and indivisible as they whirl like teetotums to the music.

The prairie queen is left of the old quadrilles, and the lancers are as popular as ever, and so also is the german. It is the fashion now for influential ladies to get up a class of young people who are all acquainted, and have them attend a dancing school under the name of "Mrs. ——'s class," where they learn to dance the german. The great objection to teaching this elegant dance is that only persons known to each other can enjoy it. For the benefit of the non-dancing community we will give a description of some of the figures, there being at least a thousand different ones. One of the prettiest is the Looking Glass. A lady seats herself in the dance, and her maid hands her a mirror in which she sees, one by one, the faces of the gentlemen who come and lean over her chair—when she sees the right one she turns the glass down. He leads her out and dances with her, presenting her with a "favor," which may be a fan, bouquet, or anything he has selected—candy or ornament, "Faith, Hope, and Charity" stars and pyramids are all beautiful and attractive figures in this medley of beauty and grace.

It is not the young people only who are learning to dance, but grandames and grandsires, who like the amusement and think it is not too late to learn. Occasionally some old widower, who is going to marry a society miss, takes private lessons, but one turn at raquet usually gives his rheumatic old limbs such a jolting that, with many an "oh" and an "ah," he is forced to acknowledge with Solomon that "there is a time to dance," and also that he has outlived it. But for the supple limbed girls and boys who can spin round on their toes, laughing defiance in the face of time, that season seems a long way off. Their motto is:

On with the dance, let joy be unconfined.

Lumbermen's Shanty.

A writer referring to the lumber trade on the Ottawa describes the winter dwelling of hardy lumbermen as follows:—"Having selected a desirable, convenient spot, with a good supply of water, a shanty is constructed of the simplest description, being generally built of rough logs with a raised hearth in the centre for a fireplace, and an opening in the roof for a chimney. A double row of berths all round serves for sleeping accommodation, while from a wooden crane over the perpetual fire swings the huge kettle which, with the accompanying pot, serves all the purposes of cookery. The domestic economy is conducted upon strict temperance principles; tea is the constant beverage of the lumbermen, and they consume it in quantities, and of a strength which would effectually destroy their nerves if they possessed those delicate organs. In point of fact the beverage of the woodman ought to be called tea soup it being an infusion entirely different from that of our city drawing rooms. They place a couple of handfuls of tea in a kettle of cold water and hang it over the fire till it boils and attains a strength and fulness of flavour only palatable to throats which admire body in the fluids they imbibe. Many of these hardy men drink a pound of tea per week, and some of them double that quantity of the Chinese shrub, and without feeling any ill effects either from that or the salt pork which is the other staple article of diet. Perhaps the strong tea counteracts the fat pork, and vice versa. The stores of the lumbermen are usually carried up to their forest shanty late in the autumn, and all preparations are made to commence the work of felling the giants of the forest."

THE Princess of Wales is said to be so deeply grieved by the death of the little Grecian princess, her niece, that the festivities at Sandringham will be much abridged.

ONE of the best abused of Englishmen is Sir Bartle Frere, late Governor of South Africa, yet it is his great comfort to be a personal favourite of the Queen; and notwithstanding the persistent opposition of the Prime Minister, this has chiefly conduced to his appointment as a member of the Indian Council in London, with the consolatory salary of $30,000 a year.

THERE is no better place for shirts, and gents' furnishings generally than Cooper's, corner of Adelaide east and Yonge. His goods are at once cheap and good, giving every satisfaction to purchasers. When in the Queen City it will well repay you to call there. A specialty in Mr. Cooper's shirts is that they fit literally "like a glove," and we all know what an effect it has on one's appearance to be well fitted in this respect.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 24th, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

The County Court being in session at the Court House, the Council met in the new High School Building.

Treasurer's statements and presentment of the Grand Jury were presented.

Mr. Cleland presented the report of committee on Warden's address, which was adopted.

Mr. Christoe paid a warm tribute to the memory of the late Wm. White, Esq., Dep. Reeve of Collingwood, and moved the following resolution:

Moved by Mr. Christoe, seconded by Mr. Murdoch that this County Council of Grey do feel it their bounden duty to express their condolence with the friends of the late Wm. White, Esq., first Deputy Reeve of Collingwood. The Council feel that in him they have lost a member of ripe municipal experience, sound in his judgment on points which engaged his attention; a gentleman who always stood for the dignity and impartial legislation for the county's prosperity, identified as he was for a quarter of a century therewith. In him the Council feel they have lost a member who was scarcely equalled in urbanity, virtue and unstained reputation. His removal should teach us, as well as his relatives and friends, how transient and uncertain human life is—and that it is our duty as well as theirs to bow meekly to that inscrutable providence, which directs everything to our ultimate good. Finally, the Council fondly hope that a remembrance of his excellent and spotless life will be as an ointment poured forth, for years to come.

DUNDALK.

Correspondence to the STANDARD.

The election campaign has commenced. Our present Reeve, Mr. J. S. Middleton, who is again a candidate for Reeve for the comming year, is holding a series of meetings throughout the Township this week. The first meeting was held in the Orange Hall here on Monday, 20th inst.—There was a large attendance of ratepayers. Mr. Robert Russell was appointed chairman. Messrs. Wm. Nelson and Duncan McMillan, also candidates for the Reeveship, were present. Mr. Middleton went over the doings of the Council for the year up to the present, and then gave his opponents a chance to speak for themselves. Mr. McMillan then took the platform, and gave a history of what he had done in years past when Proton was in its teens; how he had got the price of Government lands reduced about one-half. He found fault with the Reeve's action in regard to the railway bonus, and in appointing scrutineers at polling places, and gravelling roads in winter to catch a few votes. He gave him credit, however, for some of his actions, such as bursting the Doyle wood ring &c. He would not say that he would come out as a candidate for Reeve; he would decide at the nomination. His wish was to see justice done to all parties, and all parts of the Township.

Mr. Middleton replied, stating he had known Mr. McMillan for a number of years, and always knew him to be a straightforward and honest man, and had got some good advice from him in the past, if he was a Heslan'-man, and no doubt if he and Mr. McMillan were welded together they would make an A 1 Reeve. He explained his actions in regard to the railway bonus, showing the legality of it; how he had gone according to legal advice. He carried McMillan down, pulled a little wool, and took his seat.

Mr. Nelson then came forward. He said he had not much to say. He would have his say at the nomination. He had a few remarks to make now, however, but would be brief. Mr. Middleton, in his opening remarks had taken great credit to himself in finding a surplus to the credit of townships grouped in railway bonus. It had been running for years, and he was the only man to discover it; but he did not tell how that surplus came there. He (Mr. Nelson) would tell them how. Valuators were appointed; townships valued higher, therefore higher assessments and higher taxes. We were paying off the railway debt sooner than agreed; therefore we were paying more railway tax yearly than we ought, and what we overpaid was lying to our credit. Mr. Middleton sat in the County Council at the time the Valuators brought in their report. He saw the townships that the Valuators were chosen from lowered in value, whilst all the others were raised, and he could not show one instance where he spoke against it. Other Reeves had spoken against it and had the Valuators' rates lowered. He failed to see where he was entitled to any credit. He also brought up some note transaction of lending school moneys some years ago, which had never been paid in yet to his knowledge, if it had he would like to know. It was $60 on the start, and now it was $102, there being $42 interest. It should have been paid long ago. He declined to say anything further until nomination day, as he had some grave charges to bring against Mr. Middleton at that time, and would be prepared to prove them where there would be a representation from all parts of the township. He intended to be a candidate for the Reeveship for the coming year. He left it with the people; if they elected him for their representative at County Council, he would do all in his power to the best of his judgement for all parties.

Mr. Middleton would just say in reply, that Mr. Nelson had gone over what he had said in the matter of railway assessment in the same manner as any man in the hall could have done. He could see that Mr. Nelson was not possessed of much learning, but made up for lack of it in conceit. As to the note affair, he would say that he was aware that it was illegal to lend school moneys on notes; but there were two good backers to the note in question, and it would be all right. He would further add, that he did not canvas at religious meetings as he heard Mr. Nelson and his foreign help had done.

This brought Mr. Nelson to his feet, who denied the soft impeachment.—Some excitement ensued, intermingled with some slang phrases and jeers. He not being used to this sort of thing became rather uneasy, but got cooled down again.

Mr. Middleton made the remark, that he would be a nice man to be in the County Council, as he would be liable to be called to order.

Mr. Nelson reminded his opponent that he was the only man called to order at the present meeting. No reply. Further discord.

Mr. R. J. Doyle, being present, asked to say a few words. In his opinion the Township of Sarawak, which he had represented in the County Council was spoken of in a detrimental manner. He gave the proceedings of the County Council and his actions while there, and the actions of Mr. Middleton, and spoke strongly against the use of such language as had been used to-night by the representative of a township.

Mr. Middleton here ordered him to stop. A little cross-firing took place, after which Mr. Doyle took his leave, as did also Messrs. Nelson and McMillan, and a majority of the ratepayers, with cheers. Mr. Middleton rose to reply, but as the audience had thined out considerably he only made a few brief remarks. Next meeting is to be held at Reid's School House, on the 22nd.

A tea meeting and concert was given by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church in the Fraser settlement. They had a large audience, and a good entertainment—proceeds about $80. A few of the boys from town went out and acted their part, but forgot part of their dress—their ears.

The English Church people had a tea in Orange Hall, here, on Tuesday evening, 21st inst. Hall crowded; plenty to eat and to spare; a pleasant evening spent. Have not heard what proceeds were.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—The approaching annual school meeting to which attention was called last week by Mr. Brown, is certainly an occasion of vital importance, both financially and otherwise, to every ratepayer of the section. I too, am of opinion that this matter cannot be pressed too closely upon our attention; therefore as a ratepayer, I would like to impress my fellow ratepayers with the gravity of the situation at the present time. As it is of the utmost importance to the well-being of the school, and for the interests of the ratepayers generally, that the office of Trustee should be vested only in those of tried integrity and honor; we should exercise great caution in the choice of that official. We have in our school section several ratepayers who have sons and daughters in the teaching profession, some of these may very likely seek election at the approaching annual meeting, but if we expect to preserve our school from the clutches of an odious "family compact" we must be on the alert. No person whose personal or private interests would likely clash with his duty to the public, should be elected, lest the temptation to subordinate personal preferences to public duty might prove too strong for him. I close, therefore, by repeating, fellow electors, be on your guard, be watchful and vigilent.

RATEPAYER.

Markdale, Dec. 22, 1880.

DIED, on Monday, Dec. 20th, Elizabeth Wakely, wife of Samuel Wakely, of Proton, aged 32 years and 9 months.

Mrs. Wakely was the daughter of Mr. Richard Ludlow, of Artemesia, and was born in this Township in 1847. Her lively, cheerful and kindly disposition gained her many friends in youth, whose attachment continued through life. Some ten years ago she was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel Wakely, and settled in the township of Proton, where by united industry they made a home which gave promise of comfort and ease should they live to enjoy it in advanced years. Some 12 years ago she united with the Methodist church, and has ever since continued her connection with it; for many years a member of Mr. McQuay's class, her kindly greetings will there be missed. In April last she caught cold, the effects of which settled on her lungs, and soon developed the dread symptoms of pulmonary disease. Doctors Christoe, of Flesherton, Robinson, of Beel, and Wright, sen., of Toronto, were severally consulted, and tried what medical science could devise or suggest to stay the disease, but without avail. She gradually grew worse during the summer, and it became apparent that she would not be able to bear the severe climatic changes of our northern winter; death had marked her for his prey and she prepared to meet her change with that thoughtful, yet calm demeanour which distinguishes true Christian character. On Sunday night she was attacked with a fit of severe coughing, after which she sank to rest.

And when the morn broke dim and sad,
And grey with snowy showers,
Her quiet eyelids closed she had,
Another morn than ours.

ORANGE NOTES.

The following are the officers elected in Eugenia L. O. L. No. 1118, for the ensuing year:—Samuel Pedlar, W.M., David Wright, D.M., Henry Williams, Chap., John J. Graham, Sec., Robert Campbell, Tres., Joseph Fenwic, D. of Ceremonies, Michael Skitt, Henry Weber, Wm. Cameron, James Hamley and T. Linforce, Committeemen, Thomas Crow, Tyler. The regular nights of meeting of this lodge are on the Wednesday on or before the full of moon in each month.

The members of the Meaford Road L. O. L. No. 1388, held their annual meeting for the election of officers on Thursday evening, the 16th inst., with the following result:—W. M. James Brodie, D. M. John Boland, Chaplin Thomas Kells, Secretary James C. Buchanan, Treasurer Robert Kells, D. of Ceremonies Richard Smith, Comitteemen, 1st A Elliott, 2nd Tho. Boland, 3rd John Buchanan, 4th Rich. Shears, 5th Henry Wyvill, Tyler John Corey. Nights of meeting, Thursday on or before full of moon in each month.—Com

WE will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the STANDARD to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

Mortgage Sale

OF VALUABLE

FARM PROPERTIES,

In the Townships of Glenelg, Bentinck and Egremont, in the County of Grey.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by John McMillan, jr., Martin Dunn, John Macpherson, James Smith, Alexander MacRae, James Hastie, Dougald Macfarlane, John Wilson, Charles Coutts, and Alexander Ferguson, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in payment of the moneys secured by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, at McAllister's Hotel, in the Town of Durham, on

Tuesday, the 11th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at one o'clock p. m., the following parcels of land:

I. Lot No. 35, in the 2nd concession North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 40 acres are cleared, and the residue free from stumps. On the lands are said to be a log barn, two log stables, and log house; the soil is a good clay loam, and the property is situate about 4½ miles from Durham.

II. Lot No. 9, in the 8th concession of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 50 acres are cleared, and about 40 acres under hardwood. The soil is generally clay loam, and the farm is only about 10 miles from Markdale and 10 from Durham. On the premises are a log house, barn and stable.

III. Lot No. 20, in the 4th concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 60 acres are cleared, and nearly all the remainder covered by hardwood. This property is situate only 7 miles from Flesherton, and is in a fair state of cultivation.

IIII. Lot No. 15, in the 2nd concession, East of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 80 acres are cleared, and the balance mostly hardwood. On the premises are said to be a frame barn, and the premises are only 10 miles from Durham.

V. The West half of lot No. 16, in the 5th concession, North of the Durham Road, of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 30 acres are cleared, and 10 free from stumps. This farm is situate about 10 miles from Flesherton and 7 miles from Durham.

VI. The West half of lot No. 19, in the 12th concession of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 50 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared, and situate only 12 miles from Durham.

VII. Lot No. 17, in the 2rd concession; West of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containing 100 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared. This farm is situate about 8 miles from Durham on good road.

VIII. Lot No. 22, in the 3rd concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containg 50 acres, more or less, about 30 of which are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. This farm is only about 4 miles from Durham.

IX. Lot No. 20, in the 11th concession, of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 85 acres, more or less, of which about 12 acres are cleared, and nearly all the residue under hardwood. On the premises are said to be a log house, and the lands are only about 10 miles from Durham.

X. Lot No. Eleven, in the 22nd concession of the said township of Egremont, containing 119 acres, more or less, of which 50 are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. The lands are only about 8 miles from Durham.

TERMS—10 per cent. at the time of sale, 15 per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at 7 per cent. yearly; or if additional satisfactory security be given, no cash need be paid; or terms may be varied in any reasonable way to suit purchasers. For further particulars, apply to Robert Davis, Flesherton, H. Mckay, Auctioneer, Durham, or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLES, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec. 1880. 15-3i

FOR SALE.

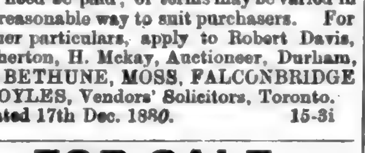
A HANDSOME Young Mare, sired by "Extra;" will be 4 years old next Spring, well broke to double and single harness; will be sold cheap for cash, as the present owner has no use for her.

Apply to A. TURNER, Medical Hall, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 15-in

GRANT & CHELLEW,

MARKDALE,



CABINET MAKERS,

—AND—

UPHOLSTERERS

A FULL STOCK OF

Furniture !

ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

AUCTION SALE!

OF VALUABLE

FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by Virtue of Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of Sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE

RUTLEDGE HOUSE,

IN THE

Village of Markdale, in the County of Grey, on

Monday, the 10th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at THREE O'CLOCK in the Afternoon, the following land and premises, viz.:

Lot Number Forty, in the Fourteenth Concession of the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, containing One Hundred and Ten Acres more or less.

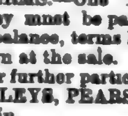
The following improvements are said to be on the premises, viz., A Log Dwelling and Frame Barn and Stable.

TERMS.—One Tenth of the purchase money must be paid down at time of sale. For balance, terms liberal, and will be made known at the sale.

For further particulars apply to

LEYS, PEARSON & KINGSFORD, Solicitors, Toronto.

18-5 in



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing disease lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

The undersigned wishes to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased the entire control of the

FLESHERTON STEAM

FURNITURE, AND SASH AND DOOR FACTORY

AND REMOVED TO THE

Furniture Warerooms

TO THE

NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUIDING ADJOING THE FACTORY,

Where my numerous customers will always find me, or a competent salesman to look after and attend to their wants. My facilities are now superior to any time since commencing business, and I trust by honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of

Furniture in all the Latest Styles,

and during the Winter I require

100,000 FEET OF GOOD

Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and Ash LUMBER!

for which

THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAID.

Also a Quantity of Good Pine.

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ETC., AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Application.

☞ Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durham street.

H. HOOPER.

Flesherton, December 23, 1880. 1-ly

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTER!

AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Days.

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEAP.

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEAP.

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing, CHEAP.

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT

ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES.

BOOTS AND SHOES,

In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRICES at the

"TORONTO HOUSE."

Wm. BROWN.

Markdale, December 20, 1880. 1-ly

WE WISH YOU

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that it has been a year of prosperity with the people of our County, and as others have prospered, we have been enabled to participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially since removing into our new premises, and we solicit a share of your patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Goods!

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and Saucers,

and a large variety of

CHILDREN'S TOYS.

OUR GROCERIES!

For the season are, as usual,

Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,
NEW PRUNES,
NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.
The People are all asking for our
TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING

WINTER DRY GOODS!

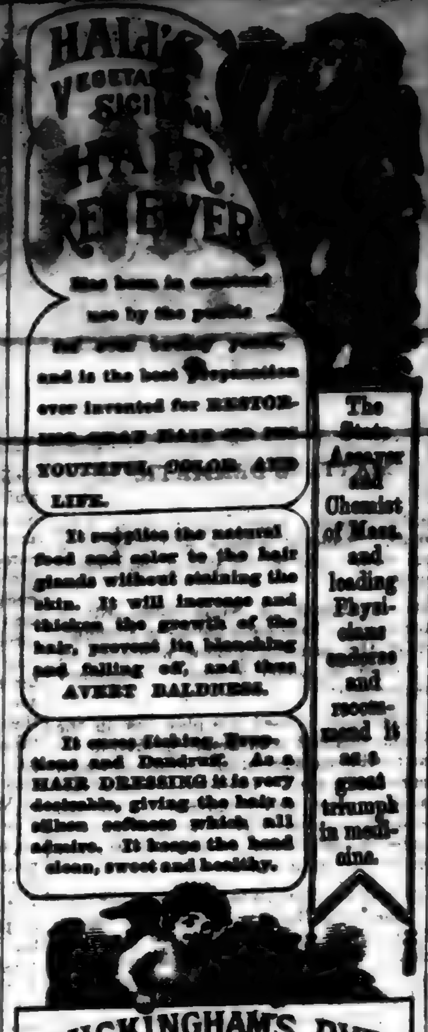
At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties,
" 5,000 Telegraph Poles,
" Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHERS,

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.



HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

... and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING ... YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS

will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

PREPARED BY R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

J. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is how prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 18, st, 1880. 10-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to FILL ALL ORDERS Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

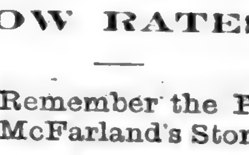
—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, and would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS

HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.

☞ None but good workman employed and the best of material used.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10

DONALD McLEOD,

MAKER

BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal patronage in the past, and hopes by honorable dealing, FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same.

THE BEST OF MATERIAL Used, and none but First-Class Mechanics employed.

Special attention paid to Repairing, which ... Sewed work a Specialty.

NOTICE.

All over due accounts must be paid without delay or I shall have to resort to more costly means for collection.

D. McLEOD. Queen and Mill Streets.

Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880. 7-ft

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All

Now that the season of Good Cheer is at hand, I wish to call Public attention to my stock of

FRESH GROCERIES,

FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY

AND

LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at

☞ RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, the purest; MALT, the best; Pure T&B, equal to Ginness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in the section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

☞ Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880.

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son,

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Groceries,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE, ETC.,

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be surpassed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR $1.

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAND.

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880. 9

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by Dr. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY,

Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes,

ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express

☞ Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-t

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment

OFFERED BY THE

BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE

LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY

AND

British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED

Wanzer Family Machines

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES

—ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3m

SAVE YOUR COMBINGS.

Mrs. T. G. Morgan, begs to announce to the Ladies of Markdale and vicinity that she is prepared to work up hair combings into switches, puffs and curls, terms moderate—A call is solicited. Residence corner of Mark and Queen streets, opposite Mr. Bowes' residence.

Markdale, Dec. 16th, 1880. 14m1

OWEN SOUND HIGH SCHOOL.

RE-OPENS JAN. 7th, 1881.

THE New School Building containing accommodation for 400 pupils, has been completed. The Staff consists of experienced Teachers, each of whom is a Specialist in his own department.

Students prepared for Senior and Junior Matriculation, First-class Certificates, Intermediate and Professional Examinations.

Address

WM. O'CONNOR, B.A., Head Master.

Owen Sound, Dec. 15th, 1880. 14-3

TO THE

Independent Electors

OF THE

Township of [illegible]

GENTLEMEN:—

I again offer myself as a Candidate for the office of Councillor for the Township. Should you again honor me with your confidence, I shall endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability. Come to the nomination where I shall give my views on Municipal matters.

I am, gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
D. B. ELLIS.

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

For Cheap Stationery, Beautiful Christmas and New Year' Cards call at the Standard Office.

24th, 1880.

OTHER NOTICES.

STANDARD,

Dec. 24th, 1880.

OTHER NOTICES.

... the paper, so as to make its usefulness ... and any very special inducement to new subscribers is made through their old ones, so that the old subscriber gets equal advantage. The special offer this year is the presentation of the celebrated picture, "Christ leaving the Pretorium," to every old subscriber to the Weekly Witness who sends a new subscription with his own, and the new subscriber gets a copy as well. If the names are sent independently of each other, 25 cents in addition to the price of the paper is charged for the picture, or $1.35 in all. By such means as these, benefiting both old and new subscribers, the Weekly Witness and Northern Messenger have enjoyed a constantly increasing subscription list, until together with the Daily Witness it numbers over one hundred thousand.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL.—The first skating carnival of the season was held on the Flesherton skating rink, on Tuesday evening the 21st inst., which was a grand success. The masqueraders began to assemble a few minutes after 7 o'clock, and before 8, the rink was alive with airy like beings gliding around as if on wings, to the infinite delight of a large crowd of spectators. It was a fairy like scene and one of which everybody would like to see repeated. The following are the names of the prize takers:—Best costume for lady and gentleman, 1st, Wm. Keefer and Miss J. B. Blain, Highland lad and lassie; 2nd, J. C. Addison and Miss A. Wright; 3rd, Herbert Strain and Miss M. E. Wright. Best comic costume for lady and gentleman, 1st, William Haskett; 2nd, Chas. Richards; 3rd, C. Wright. Best gentleman skater, 1st, R. J. Reid; 2nd, Wm. Keefer. Best lady skater, 1st, Miss J. B. Blain; 2nd, Miss A. Wright; 3rd, Miss M. E. Wright. The judges were Messrs Vandusen, Haskett and Ferguson, and the manner in which these gentlemen filled the office gave general satisfaction. Mr. F. Sarjeant, the proprietor of the rink deserves great praise for the manner in which the whole night's amusement was performed. A sumptuous repast was furnished after the prizes were awarded. The Flesherton brass band was in attendance, and entertained the company with choice selections of music. Even the coldness of the ice was softened by the sweetness of the notes.

MEAFORD ROAD.

From a Correspondent.

CONCERT.—Elder Hawkins and his Jubilee singers gave a concert in the C. Methodist Church on Tuesday evening, the 6th inst. There was a goodly number present, who seemed to be well pleased with the performances.

GRANGE At the last regular meeting of Artemesia Grange No. 259, the following brethren and sisters were elected officers for the ensuing year, viz.:—Master, John Weber; Overseer, Wm. Buchanan, sr.; Lecturer, Thos. Boland; Steward, John Boland; Assistant Steward, John Graham; Chaplain, Robert Buchanan; Treasurer, Thomas Kells; Secretary, Jas. Brodie; Gate-Keeper, Joseph Buchanan; Ceres, Mrs. C. Carson; Pomona, Mrs. R. Smith; Flora, Mrs. J. Rowe; Lady Assistant Steward, Miss M. Buchanan; Auditors, John Graham and Robert Buchanan; Executive Committee, Robert Warling, John Rowe, and Adam Holly; Delegate to Division Grange, Robert Buchanan. This Grange is in a very prosperous condition, and is still increasing in membership, so there is not the least likelyhood of the prophesy about the Grange comming to naught being fulfilled.—The business of this Grange during the past year was about $1.000, and was very satisfactory to all the members. The regular day of meeting is the Friday on or before the full of the moon in each month.

SABBATH SCHOOL.—The annual meeting of the United Sabbath School held in the Wesley Church, the following were elected officers and teacher for 1881, viz.:—Thos. Boland, Superintendent; Philip Sparling Assistant Superintenent; Secretary, John Graham; Treasurer, James Brodie; Librarian, Robt. Kells; Assistant Secretary, George Shannon; Assistant Librarian, Joseph Buchanan; Teachers of Bible Class (males), R. Buchanan, Assistant, P. Sparling; 1st Test., Wm. Buchanan, Assistant, John Boland; 2nd Test., A Johnson, Assistant, A Shannon. Junior Class, J. C. Buchanan, Assistant, J. Brodie. Bible Class, (females). 1st Mr. T. Boland, Assistant, Mrs. J. C. Buchanan, 2nd Miss C. Bowland, Assistant, Mrs. J. Rowe. 1st Test.. Miss M. Buchanan, Assistant, Mrs. W. Buchanan, jr.; 2nd Test., Miss A. Kells, Assistant, Mrs. D. Graham. Juvenile Class, Miss C. Bowland, Assistant, Miss S. Sparling. The Anniversary in connection with the School will be held in the Wesley Church on the 8th of February, when the usual programme consisting of tea, dialogues, recitations, speeches, &c., will be carried out.

EUGENIA.

From a Correspondent.

THE colored ministrels had their usual success, yesterday, a full house.

AN HONEST MAN.—At the last cattle fair in Flesherton, Mr. W. Cameron, Con. 8, Artemesia, sold some cattle to a stranger, who gave him $4 too much, he has tried in vain until a few days since, he discovered his man and returned him his money. As the Scotch bard says:—

"A King can make a belted Knight,
A Marquis, Duke and a' that,
But an honest man's above his might,
A man's a man for a' that.

THE BOOM.—Since Mr. Akitt purchased the Eugenia mill property you would imagine, to see the quantity of saw logs going in, that a city was in contempelation of being built, near hand next spring.

ALLOW me to return thanks to those of the members of Eugenia grange, who turned out and gave me a handsome days sawing of wood. Who would not feel pleased to have a good pile of wood about Christmas time.

BIRTHS.

In Flesherton, on the 19th inst., the wife of E. O. Gjerdrum, of a son.

In Walter's Falls, on the 20th inst., the wife of John M. Bonnell, of a son.

MARRIED

At the residence of the brides father, on the 23rd inst., by the Rev. S. C. Philip, Mr. Jacob Thompson, to Miss Sarah Irwin, all of Artemesia.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,

BANKERS,

MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorise them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or with any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, and to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: and for other purposes.

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

In Chancery.

THE FARMERS' LOAN AND SAVINGS COMPANY,

VS.

LECKIE,

PURSUANT to the Decree made in this cause, there will be sold with the approbation of T. W. Taylor, Esquire, Master in Ordinary of this Court by J. M. Webster, Auctioneer,

At the FLESHERTON Hotel,

IN THE VILLAGE OF FLESHERTON,

at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon of

Thursday, the Thirteenth day of January, 1881.

the following lands and premises in one parcel., viz: Lot number twenty-one in the fourteenth concession of the township of Artemesia, in the county of, Grey, excepting thereout three acres off the north west corner of said lot. The said lot consists of about 160 acres of land, of which about 60 acres are cleared and the remainder well timbered with beech and maple, baswood and some hemlock. The land cleared is of a clay loam and in a fair state of cultivation. The said lot is situate on the Meaford Road, about five miles from Markdale Station on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. About six and a-half miles from Flesherton, and is readily accessible to said villages by good roads, and the said villages afford good markets for the sale of produce. The said lot is also well watered by a creek, and there is no swampy land on said lot. The said lot has erected thereon farm buildings consisting of a frame house, and log barn

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. is to be paid the vendors or their solicitors at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent. within thirty days thereafter, without interest, and the balance to be secured by first mortgage on said premises payable in three or five years, with interest at seven per cent. per annum

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery. For further particulars apply at the Law Offices of W. Mulock, Esq., vendor's solicitor, Messrs. Crooks, Kingsmill and Cattanach, and Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskins, Plumb and Creelman, solicitors, Toronto.

Dated December 8, 1880.

14-3 (Signed) T. W TAYLOR.

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice, As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOBLE.

Markdale. Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

RATEPAYERS, WARD NO. 3, GLENELG.

WILL please take notice, that the Collector will be at the Revere House, Markdale on the 20th of December, 1880, for the Last Time, to receive all unpaid taxes. After that date measures to enforce payment will be resorted to.

S. DONNELLY,

Dated Dec. 9th, 1880. 11-1

DISSOLUTION OF PARTNERSHIP

THE partnership heretofore existing between H. & R. Hooper, Cabinet and Sash & Door manufacturers, of the Village of Flesherton, is hereby dissolved by mutual consent. The business as formerly will be carried on by H. Hooper, to whom all notes and accounts must be paid, and by whom all liabilities will be discharged.

(Signed) HENRY HOOPER,
RICHARD HOOPER.

Witness—ROBERT DAVIS.

Flesherton, Dec. 6th, 1880. 14-4

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

Subscribe for the Standard. We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

WM. FOX,

Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 5

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves

At the New Tinshop

MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX

STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!

A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!

made to order on the shortest notice.

EAVETROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,

HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,

HARROW AND

All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

Mat for All

AT

W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to announce that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 141 in 3rd Range S. R., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING

PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood-turner wanted to make broom handles on a good lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 9-y

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the County at

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER. Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglis' Brick Bloch opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880. 1

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

☞ LOAN AND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.

Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.

Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

NOTICE

THE Subscriber wishes to return thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and vicinity for their liberal support and patronage in the past, and to say that he has now turned over the Drug and Stationery business, with all other lines in connection therewith, to Messrs A. Turner & Co., for whom he wishes to bespeak a continuance of the patronage of his old customers and the public at large. Also, that the Account Books will remain at the Drug Store in the hands of A. Turner, who is authorized to receive all moneys due, and to give receipts for the same, or Robert Davis of Flesherton, in whose possession the accounts are for collection. An early settlement will much oblige.

T. S. SPROULE.

Markdale, Dec. 6, 1880. 13-3t

XMAS

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have Tea sets, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &c.	AT DOLL'S	In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting, and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best). Swiss, English and American lever and verge watches, from $4 up. The celebrated Seth Thomas and other Clocks, from ... In Jewelry,—I have colored ... Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, ... Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pins, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty. W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.

Nov. 25, 1880. (6) Flesherton and Dundalk.

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the witer.

N. CAMPBELL.

Flesherton, December 15, 1880 14

R. J. SPROULE,

FLESHERTON

Wishes

A Merry Christmas and ...

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of hard times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by ... Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and ... rally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR TH...

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season

THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

Crockery and Glassware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE.

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R J. SPROULE'S,

FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

Throwing Stones.

"I love my child," the actress wrote;
"My duty is to guide
The child I love; and in my arms
The child I love shall hide—
Shall hide from missiles cast at me,
Because I have so odd
A conscience that I choose to rear
The child I took from God."

There is a sin from which us all
May gracious Heaven guard,
That is its own worst punishment,
Itself its sole reward;
And of it social law has said
To man: "If sin you must,
Go, then! and come again; but leave
The woman in the dust!"

Ah! who can know, save Him Allwise,
Who watches from above
The awful hazard women dare
To run for men they love,
Or tell how many a craven heart,
To shield his own bad name,
Has caused a woman's trustful love
To bring her lasting shame?

To her who, when the dream has passed,
Finds herself left alone,
And in her crushed, repentant heart
A yearning to atone,
Heaven, more pitiful than man
Who once upon her smiled,
By love to win her to itself
May send a little child.

Then if the lonely mother's heart
Accepts the gracious gift;
If all the charge she dared to take
She does not dare to shift;
Shall we, untempted and untried,
[illegible]
[illegible]
Visit upon her shrinking head
Our unrelenting scorn?

We, who have all our lives been taught
Truths other men have learned,
And walked by what celestial light
In other bosoms burned;
We, whose sublimest duty is
To do as we are bid;
How shall we judge a soul from which
The face of God is hid?

Know you the loneliness of heart
That courts release from death?
That makes it burdensome to draw
Each slow, successive breath?
That longs for human sympathy,
Until, when hope is lost,
A respite from its agony
It buys at any cost?

Of erring human nature, we
Are born, each with his share;
We all are vain; we all are weak,
And quick to fly from care.
And if we keep our footing,
Or seem to rise at all
'Twere well for us with charity
To look on those who fall.

And if our hands are strengthened,
And if our lips can speak,
There well if with them we might help
Our brothers who are weak.
And well if we remember
God's love is never grudged,
And never sit in judgment,
If we would not be judged.

OUR HERO IN BLACK.

We always spoke of ourselves as a "garrison town;" we good folks of Donjonville, and why should we not? Had we not barracks and a company of Foot, and, more than all, a Government chapel and a Government chaplain? What more would you have to constitute a garrison town? It is true no fortifications, it is true—nothing, in fact, that strictly speaking, could be designated as a fortress; but we had—but then we had our noble and massive old castle, with its walls nine feet thick, which had stood a siege of six months by Robert Bruce, and a bombardment of six hours by one of Cromwell's generals. We swore by that castle, we swelled with conscious pride [illegible] a "gray squat building," narrowly escaped being lynched upon the spot. This ancient fortress had, indeed, degenerated into a common gaol, a fact which somewhat detracted from the romance of its associations; but, despite the puzzled penitentiary cleanliness and order of its interior, there was still a fine old feudal look about portions of its exterior, and we Donjonvillites could, at any rate, boast that [illegible] castle of its age in such perfect preservation.

We were a trifle dull, perhaps, at Donjonville—prejudiced persons from neighbouring towns, envious of our historical prestige, sometimes pronounced us stagnant; indeed a distinguished novelist, who once honoured us with a flying visit, afterwards described Donjonville as "probably the dullest spot on the habitable globe." But, then, how could he possibly be able to judge from seeing Donjonville for a few hours on a miserably wet day; and what weight, after all, does any sensible person attach to the flippant utterances of a shallow scribbler? [illegible] of Donjonville with singular unanimity and forcibleness of expression. [illegible] On the whole, a pretty wide experience of English provincial towns inclines me to think that Donjonville was, after all, not so dull as many places which make far greater pretensions to liveliness.

We rejoiced of course in a plethora of gossip, for you will generally find that the smaller the town the bigger the gossip; and we had an admirable assortment of gossip-mongers [illegible]. We had an American "colonel," a retired sea-captain, and a militia major, whom I would have backed both as narrators and inventors of scandal against any three in the world. But rich as we were in accomplished gadabouts, we were even richer in original "characters," whose eccentricities kept us constantly provided with entertainment. Foremost among these, by right of his social position, stood our Government chaplain, who was also practically the vicar of Donjonville, there being no other "Established" place of worship within a mile of the town. The Rev. Joseph Stickler—"the last of the Sticklers," as he used, half-proudly, half-pathetically, to style himself, for he was a widower, and his sole son had died young—was in his way a remarkable man in many ways. In height he was [illegible] five feet three inches, but in girth his proportions were gigantic. [illegible] He had a leg—or I should say two legs, for he possessed the normal complement—of perfect shape. If Mr. Stickler had any mundane vanity, [illegible] his legs were the object of that vanity. [illegible] that he clung to the good old fashion of knee-breeches, black-silk stockings, and buckled shoes long after the rest of the civilized world had discarded those integuments, though probably, if all the leaders of fashion had possessed such [illegible] unknown. In deportment the Rev. Joseph Stickler would have given Mr. Turveydrop a lesson. He carried himself with such dignity, that when he stood talking on the parade with "Canada" Hiram B. Falton, a lanky "Down-Easter" of six foot three, the parson struck you as being by far the bigger man of the two. His florid clean-shaven face would have been handsome had it been a trifle less fleshy; and, at any rate, no one who looked upon it could have doubted that it was an honest, kindly, resolute English face, full of courage and sense.

So much for the Rev. Joseph Stickler's physique. But his manners were even more remarkable than his figure. He had a blunt forcible way of calling a spade a spade, both in the pulpit and in private life, which often shocked persons burdened with a particularly squeamish sense of propriety. I heard him once [illegible] and foolish lady, who was expatiating on the virtues of her son [illegible] to school, by blurting out gruffly and brusquely,

"Humbug, madam, humbug! There never was a boy yet who wasn't a thief and a liar. [illegible]"

So far you will say that there was not much that was heroic about Joseph Stickler; and I must own that the first time that I listened to his pulpit utterance, the [illegible] common sense of which was constantly marred by his [illegible] in the homeliest fashion imaginable, with the drowsy or restless members of his congregation, you would have [illegible] thought it still harder to see anything heroic about him. [illegible] For, whatever Ouida and "Guy Livingstone" may try to persuade you to the contrary, a hero need not by any means be a giant in height and a Hercules in strength, with Norman brow and Grecian nose; [illegible] However, to come back to our muttons, you shall hear why and how Joseph Stickler came to be considered a hero. [illegible]

I have already mentioned our parson's propensity to administer homely, but [illegible] impressive, rebukes to those of his congregation whose conduct seemed to him indecorous during divine service. The most frequent recipients of this verbal chastisement were the unhappy Sunday-school children, [illegible] were immediately facing the pulpit. But the punishment of these unfortunates was not confined to words. The Rev. Joseph Stickler had a sturdy henchman who was as vigorous a disciplinarian as his master, and this was our original and eccentric character. Billy Marks—for such was the henchman's name—[illegible] Heaven help the hapless boy or girl who dared to doze or exhibit the slightest symptoms of inattention during the preacher's discourse! [illegible] It was on one of these occasions, when Billy was guilty of a dereliction of duty, that the first memorable exploit of our hero in black was achieved. The circumstances were these.

The officers of the "garrison," four in number, occupied a pew in the gallery [illegible] It was a warm day in summer, and what with the heat and the sonorous eloquence of the preacher, there was a general disposition to drowsiness among the congregation [illegible] Suddenly the preacher paused, and, in a voice that had more of sorrow than of anger in it, called "Billy Marks!"

Up to his feet in an instant sprang Billy, [illegible]

[illegible]

Political Æsthetics.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

TRUTH wishes to argue this matter fairly, [illegible]

[illegible] brakes on a railway train. There must be restraints as well as locomotive agencies in all systems of progress, so long as the route is not all as level as a parlour floor, and until we reach that purely imaginative state of perfection, we must be content to bear the existence of the "brakes," and tolerate the more or less imperfect state of the morals in the ranks of our politicians.

What is going on in Europe.

By one of the protocols to the Treaty of Berlin the European Powers which were parties to that treaty recommended that Turkey should appoint an International Commission to examine into the claims of the Turkish bondholders, and to report on the best method of satisfying them. The Porte has as yet taken no steps in that direction, and the bondholders are showing signs of dissatisfaction. Of course these bondholders are deeply interested in any inquiry that may bring to light the means, which certainly exist, of at least paying them their interest; but a still larger class are more deeply interested in a thorough examination into the finances of the Porte. The British Foreign Minister recognised this fact, and specially instructed his envoy to Constantinople to urge that the Commission, if appointed, should be ordered to examine not only the complaints of the bondholders but also and primarily the general financial situation of the empire.

It is believed that a thorough search into Turkish ways and means would reveal a state of affairs which would astonish those who believe that Turkey is hopelessly involved and bankrupt. The example of Egypt is cited. If in that country the effect of a financial commission, empowered to inquire into and rectify the abuses of the revenue system, was so remarkable, it may reasonably be supposed that in Turkey, where the same abuses exist to a still greater degree, a similar commission would arrive at equally satisfactory results. The Sultan naturally opposes any inquiry into his private affairs for the same reason that the Khedive did, and probably the Khedive's fate will intensify the Sultan's opposition. There is no reason to believe, however, that the greater portion of the Turks would not welcome any measures of reform which might result from the report of the Commissioners. At any rate they could not be in a worse plight than at present. The salaries of the Government officials are greatly in arrears.

THE LANDOWNERS ARE SO TAXED

that they can barely make a living out of their property, and the holders of Government securities get no interest on their money. The only thriving Turks are those to whom the duty of collecting the revenue is intrusted. To these rascals the appointment of a commission would mean ruin, the bastinado, and probably death; for to their venality would most of the difficulties of the Turkish finances be traced. It is impossible to estimate the amount of their peculations, but it is certain that the country is a prolific one, that the people are fairly industrious, and that all the results of their labour are gobbled up by the tax collector. It has been recently discovered that in one district only about half the money collected is paid over to the treasury, and that is said to be a favourable instance.

The present state of affairs is not to be wholly laid at the door of the present Government, since for decades and perhaps centuries the system of fraud has been increasing; but the present Government is clearly responsible for permitting it to continue. The resources of Turkey are very large, and might be made enormous by ordinary business management. The result of a commission would partially restore the credit of the Porte in a few years. Then would follow the building of railways and country roads, to the absence of which so much of Turkey's poverty is due. The opening of means of communication would release the mineral wealth with which the country abounds. Asia Minor is PARTIALLY RICH IN MINES OF SILVER LEAD, OF CHROMO, AND OF COAL.

At present these products are brought to the seacoast on the backs of camels, and even then hardly pay for their transportation. The work of the Commissioners would not be so difficult as might be supposed. Already there exists a private commission appointed by the Turkish bankers who have supplied the government with funds as a security for which the revenues arising from various imports have been hypothecated. These men have naturally become acquainted with the way in which the collections of revenue have heretofore been made, and of course they have made arrangements for preventing the money from sticking to the fingers of the Government collectors. An examination of their methods would go far to solve the difficulties. The Turkish bondholders could hardly do better than to place their interests in the hands of these men, who are already in a position to give them information about the safest course to be pursued.

GREECE'S MONEY MATTERS.

It is refreshing to turn from a consideration of the money matters of Turkey to those of Greece. It is a mistake to suppose that King George's small domain is in a chronic state of impecuniosity. Yet such is the prevalent opinion, and the astute Greeks like to encourage it. The difference in the credit of the two countries is sufficient to exemplify the erroneousness of looking upon Greece as a land of beggars. The paper money of the Turkish Government is worth only about 8½ per cent of its face value, while that of Greece is worth 67 per cent, which is rather more than the value of the paper of Italy. The pay of the Greek official, though meagre, is not in arrears. Since 2830, when Epirus, Thessaly, and Crete were given to the Turks, those provinces have steadily declined in prosperity, while the rest of Greece has trebled its revenues and more than doubled its population. The national debt of Greece is about $60,000 000, the interest on which amounts to $2,750,000, and her annual revenue is about $,300,000. When Greece again gets possession of her lost provinces, her revenue will quickly increase to nearly treble what it is now.

This gain to Greece will prove detrimental to the interests of the creditors of Turkey, for the loss of the three provinces will perceptibly lessen their security. Had the Governments of Europe assisted King George in regaining his lost provinces, they might reasonably have saddled him with part of the payment of the interest on the Turkish bonds. Greece will now, in all probability, have and will be under no moral obligation to burden herself with Turkey's liabilities; besides, she will have to increase her own national debt in order to meet the expenses of the war. Further than this, the Turks will devastate the provinces before evacuating them, and years will pass before they recover from the Moslem vengeance. It would be to the manifest advantage of all parties, except Turkey, if the latter could be induced to quietly give up to her plucky little neighbour the territory in question. But there seems to be no chance of this, and even if the much-talked-of concert of Europe were as harmonious as it is at present discordant, it is doubtful whether its music would "have charms to soothe the savage breast" of the Turk. Possibly England may feel called upon to interfere after thousands of lives have been sacrificed and atrocities committed which will throw into the shade those in Bulgaria.

TO FIGHT FOR HER OWN,

Closed for the Season.

The Lumberman Gazette, Bay City, remarking on the sudden change to winter weather, says:—"Notwithstanding the premature closing of the sawing season, by which the the cut has been curtailed some 20,000,000 feet, the lumber product of the Saginaw valley for the season of 1880 will be found exceedingly large. The estimates made by some of the mills which have shut down show that there has been a large increase over 1879. The product of 1880, in this district, will not be far from 775,000,000 feet, an increase over last year of 50,000,000 feet. It seems probable that notwithstanding the large shipments of the season there will be left over unsold a larger amount of lumber than at the close of the season of 1879. It will be of the coarser grades which have been slow of sale. Should it be as much of a drug next year as this the accumulation may have a depressing effect on the market. The proper way to prevent such an outcome is to exercise greater care in the selection of timber this winter, to the end that a better quality of stock may be secured for next season's cutting. Taken all in all, however, the season of 1880 will be regarded by the manufacturers of lumber as one of unvarying success. The average price realized has been nearly two dollars per thousand feet greater than that of last year, while the additional cost of manufacture has not been to exceed fifty cents. Of course the increasing value of stumpage must be considered when profits are being counted. The season closes prematurely, but not much fault will be found therewith, as the result will be to merely transfer operations in the woods.

LUMBER NOTES.

The shipments of lumber from Minneapolis from Jan. 1st, and including Nov. 6th, 1880, was 144,[illegible] feet; same time last year 12[illegible] feet; same time in 1878, 10[illegible],730,000.

The Alpena pioneer says: The late storm made the lumbermen look blue. Many of them had their yards full of lumber to ship, and their booms full of logs to cut, and it looked as if thousands of dollars needed in their winter's work would lie in the booms and on the piles.

The N. Ladington company's mill at Marinette, Wis., has run 183 days this season, cutting 25,000,000 feet of lumber, 6,250,000 shingles, 4,500,000 lath and 1,000,000 pickets. The company has seven camps, employing 175 men, in the woods.

During the past season the Tittabawassee boom company has rafted 3,994,397 pieces against 3 217.660 pieces for 1879. It is estimated that the number of feet will reach 575,000,000. The footings are not completed. For the season of '79, 445,000,000 feet were rafted.

Business in the district (says the Albany Argus) has closed for the season of 1880. Many of the trade have already left the District and taken up their winter quarters in their city offices. It is estimated that of pine lumber there is at least 15,000,000 feet sold which will be wintered over here, of which about 5,000,000 is afloat. Of hard wood from 300,000 to 350,000 feet have been sold, but not delivered; some of it will go forward during the winter. It is estimated that between Albany and Whitehall there are thirty-five boat loads of coarse lumber frozen in on the Champlain Canal bound to Albany. Shipments are being made by rail to New York and South.

The Northwestern Lumberman says:—"We are not alone in our suprise at the outcome of the log crop of Michigan for the winter of 1879-80, which was legitimately supposed to have been much curtailed in consequence of the unfavourable character of the winter for logging purposes. A less favourable winter for getting in logs than was the last could scarcely have been imagined by the lumbermen who were engaged in the business. Logs cut as long ago as ten years have been received in quantities, while those cut six or eight years ago, and with marks long since out of record, have come equally free in quantity. The amount of rain which has fallen during the summer has kept the rivers of Michigan during nearly the entire season at a driving stage of water, and the opportunity has been improved to sack the shores of the rivers of the logs which year after year have accumulated.

The Kennebec, (Me.) lumbermen are very active now in preparing for their winter operations. Some have already sent in small crews, S. A. Nye having a crew on No. 3 about three weeks. Messrs. N. Torman & Sons, E. Totman & Co., and A. H. & C. E. Duren, will start a portion of their crews this week, the remainder to follow later in the season. The total amount of cuts will be about 14,000,000 feet, divided among the different firms about as follows: E. Totman & Co., 4,000,000; N. Totman & Sons, 4,500,000; S. A. Nye from 25,00,000 to 3,000,000; H. & C. E. Duren, 2,000 000. A large number of men and teams will be employed. A large number of firms had a large portion of their last year's cut left in the river, the water being so low that they were unable to drive them. These, together with their present operations, will make business lively next season.

Horrors of Kurdish Warfare.

The St. Petersburg Golos contains a letter from its correspondent at Tabriz, giving particulars of the Kurdish invasion. The correspondent comments on the curious circumstance that, at a moment when Persia was making war preparations in Khorassan, close alongside Skobeleff's expeditionary force, the Kurds should have suddenly drawn her attention away to the western frontier of her dominion. Of the excesses perpetrated by the invaders, the writer states that they burned to the ground, a few days after entry, Urmia, Mendeb, Binab, Marah, and Sovooke Boolak, perpetrating frightful excesses against the inhabitants. In many instances the people fled to the metchets to escape slaughter, believing that the common religion of invader and invaded would secure their immunity from outrage, but the Kurds piled hay, wood, and inflammables against the doors, and burned the people inside to death. The correspondent affirms the leader of the invasion, Ibnabulla, to be such a holy person in the eyes of his fellow-tribesmen that when he bathes it is considered a specific against diseases, and a meritorious religious act, to drink his bath water. He has immense influence over the Kurds. During the Turkish war 40,000 swarmed to his flag in 48 hours, when it was known that he was going to make a raid in person against Bayazid. The invasion of Persia the Golos correspondent asserts to have been exceedingly well timed, Persia having denuded Azerbijar of troops to swell her army in Khorassan, but he expresses his belief that the Kurds are not likely to repeat it, now that the Shah has appointed as Governor of the Artpataken Province the late Minister of War, Mirza Mussein Khan, famous for his energetic and active administration. The result will be that the Kurds, unable to obtain booty in Persia, will turn their swords again against the Turkish Armenians, who will suffer dearly for the failure of the raid into Azerbijar. Among the Persian troops operating against the Kurds is Col. Domontovitch and several other Russian officers. The Armenian journal Mshak, published at Tiflis, announces that several thousand people have been burned alive in their places of worship, in which they had taken refuge. The Kurds have equalled the most frightful excesses of the Tartar scourge.

Public Massacre in Dahomey.

(From the London Telegraph.)

It is more than probable that the inhabitants of Dahomey have by this time had excellent reason to mourn the decease of their eminent compatriot, the Chaka of Whydah for when the last mail left the west coast of Africa his Majesty of Dahomey was actively engaged in completing his arrangements for the celebration of a "custom" upon a great sale, in honour of the public obsequies thereabout to be given to the remains of the functionary in question. As a Dahomey "custom" involves the massacre of several hundred adult Dahomeyans of both sexes, we we cannot doubt that the Chaka's death has been a source of general and sincere regret to his sorrowing Monarch's subjects. The new Chaka, too, proposed to inaugurate his tenure of office with due pomp and solemnity by a handsome slaughter of able-bodied youths and maidens, and it was in royal contemplation to complete this sensational series of public entertainments by the decapitation, on the anniversary of the late King's demise, of 200 stalwart prisoners of war at present awaiting their permanent emancipation from captivity in strict confinement at Whydah. Invitations to these striking festivities had been issued to the foreign merchants abiding on Dahomeyan territory, as well as to the local nobility, just before the departure of the mail. Of course they were positively declined by all the resident members or representatives of English firms, who moreover indignantly protested against the proposed revival of these horrible massacres, the mere prospect of which, it seems, had caused a general panic throughout the country, and brought trade to a standstill.

THE late terrible earthquake in southern Austria, which has spread terror and devastation from Vienna to the shores of the Adriatic Sea, will alarm others besides the subjects of the Emperor Francis Joseph. There is a general but erroneous impression that earthquakes are invariably associated with volcanic eruptions. Such, however, is not the case, and geology teaches us that at least during some periods of time, scarcely a spot of the earth's surface has been free from sudden and violent upheaval. The fair county of Kent, the Garden of England, is full of evidences of awful catastrophes, in which the Titanic powers played at ball, of it were, with the huge rocks, leaving the face of the land, when their terrible game was over and done, spotted with jagged stones and boulders. An average of a dozen earthquakes occur in different parts of the globe every year. There was a terrible one in England 1318. Part of Old St. Paul's and the Temple Church succumbed to another 1580. London felt a slight shock in 1750. A distinct disturbance of a similar nature made itself manifested from Bath to Swansea eighteen years ago; and the latest recorded earthquake occurred in Yorkshire no longer than nine years since By the disaster in Austria, several persons have been killed and many injured, while the damage done to property is at present incalculable.

A black ash tree with beautifully figured grain, cut in Western Ontario, when cut up sold in New York for $8,000. The stump sold for another $100. The product was used for veneering.

The Keewatin Territory.

The following interesting particulars have been furnished by Mr. John Mather, Manager of the Keewatin Lumber Company's Mills, at Keewatin, Lake of the Woods. Mr. Mather, who was for a number of years manager of Messrs. Gilmour's mills at the Gatineau, is well qualified to form a correct opinion of the country and its resources. He arrived at Ottawa recently, where he remained on business for a short time.

ITS RAPID DEVELOPMENT.

Keewatin the site of the Keewatin Lumbering and Manufacturing Company is situate at the western outlet of the Lake of the Woods, and about three miles distant from Rat Portage. It is about 125 miles east of Winnipeg, 100 miles east of Selkirk, and 300 miles west of Thunder Bay. This new village is a rival to the older settlement of Rat Portage, which has gained its principal importance, according to Mr. Mather's statement, from having been made the district headquarters of the Pacific railroad construction staff. There is a station of the Pacific railway at Keewatin, and already it has become an important shipping point. Here, Mr. Mather says, is the greatest water-power along the whole line of the Pacific Railroad in the North-west Territories. The head of water is, on the average, twenty-one feet, and the quantity which passes is possibly slightly in excess of the volume which passes over the Chaudiere Falls at Ottawa. There are large and important water-powers in the North-west Territories, but they are all remote from the Pacific Railroad.

WHEAT FOR THE WORLD'S MARKETS.

This is the point where a large portion of the wheat grown in the North-West will be ground before shipment to the Canadian and European markets, just as American wheat is ground at Minneapolis. Already negotiations have been opened with the Hudson Bay Company for the purchase of a site and water-power at the eastern outlet of the Lake of the Woods for the erection of a large grist mill, not to carry on a mere local trade, but to grind for the world's markets, as soon as the Thunder Bay branch is open for through traffic. Keewatin has already become the centre of lumber manufacturing, and soon will obtain a more than local celebrity. The Keewatin Lumbering Company's mills have been in operation all the summer, and the Company have cut and built five large permanent trestle bridges for the Canadian Pacific Railroad. Messrs. Brandenburg & Co., who have large lumber mills at Knife Falls, on the St. Louis River, near Duluth, on the American side of the boundary line, and have entered into partnership with Mr. W. J. Macaulay, of Winnipeg, for the purpose of erecting and operating a lumber mill on the site of the old Rat Portage. The capacity of this mill, which is now in course of erection, will be five million feet per season. The capacity of the mill at Keewatin is about twenty million feet. It is rumoured that the Pacific Railway Syndicate will establish district workshops at Keewatin for the Pacific Railroad.

MANUFACTURING AND MINING.

The development of the territory around the Lake of the woods promises to be very rapid as soon as through trains are running over the Thunder Bay Branch Railroad. Already the railroad construction has given an impetus to Rat Portage, where fifteen or twenty houses are being erected at the present time; and a similar number at Keewatin village, needed for the workpeople congregating around the mills. There is no agricultural land of an extent throughout the district—it resembles very much the township of Wakefield on the Gatineau River. What land there is is fertile, but the maximum extent of each patch is two or three acres. It can never sustain an agricultural population. The future of the territory depends upon its supporting a large manufacturing and mining population.

TIMBER AND RAILROAD TIES.

A few questions relative to the rumoured want of economic timber in the territory led Mr. Mather's conversation to a subject with which he is familiar. "Whoever says that the timber in the Keewatin Territory possesses no economic value," he replied, "speaks without warrant. The supply of timber will last for a period much longer than I should like to say. The red pine is much finer than any I have ever seen on the Ottawa; the white pine is similar to that on the Coulonge and Black River tributaries of the Ottawa. There is no maple or beech in the territory, but there is a large quantity of very fine cedar and tamarac, and what is called jack pine. These last three woods are all suitable for railroad ties, which will be so much required in the North-West Territories. In fact, in a few years, this will be the only district for eight hundred miles along the Pacific Railroad where ties can be obtained. This section of the road will require two million ties at first building, and an average annual supply of four hundred thousand ties for repairs thereafter. The district producing this wood suitable for ties is all tributary to the Lake of the Woods, and the timber can easily be floated to the crossing of the railroad.

ABUNDANCE OF ECONOMICAL MINERALS.

The abundance of the economic minerals found in this district has already been made the subject of considerable observation by the Globe's special correspondent, who recently traversed that district, and Mr. Mather had little to add on the subject. The gold excitement still continues, and discoveries of gold in quartz rock are daily recorded. Capital at the present moment is the great desideratum for the development of this industry. It is not forthcoming so far. Besides gold, silver and copper are found in large quantities. A soap stone of considerable economic value is also abundant. Large deposits of this stone are found at a place on the Lake of the Woods called Pipe Stone Point, because the Indians from Minnesota and other Western States in the past resorted here to obtain stone for making pipes. Another stone, an excellent substitute for the oil stones used by carpenters to sharpen edge tools, is abundant, and will command ready sale. Lignite, too, has been found, but generally in boulders brought from a distance by glacial action. The indications are that the true bed of lignite will be found on the Minnesota side of the boundary or water-shed of the Lake of the Woods.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE RAILROAD

A large body of men are still at work upon the Section 15, and work is being prosecuted as fast as possible.

The approach of winter has necessitated the discontinuance of work in the gravel pits, and consequently the discharge of a large body of men. The rails on the road are laid, and trains will be able to run without any difficulty till next spring. There is already one "lift" of ballast on the road from Cross Lake to Keewatin, 36 miles. On a portion of this distance the line is entirely finished, as also it is from Selkirk to Cross Lake.

ERECTION OF STEEL BRIDGES.

The Toronto Bridge Company have their foreman, Mr. Danzizer at the Lake of the Woods waiting to superintend the erection of two steel bridges across the two outlets of the lake. It was, by some unaccountable means, delayed in Duluth for six weeks. The masonry has already been built, and is waiting for the superstructure.

SALE OF FORT FRANCES STORES.

Recently the Government stores at Fort Frances Lock were taken to Keewatin and sold by auction. The steamer Lady of the Lakes, used on the works, was also sold, and purchased by Mr. W. J. Macaulay, lumberman, for $1,500; she originally cost considerably over one hundred thousand dollars, and was purchased by the Macdonald-Cartier Government to ply in connection with the Dawson route. She has, since the sale, met with an accident, but will be at work again next summer, towing logs, &c. The Keewatin Lumbering Company have also built a small steamer for similar purposes.

THE BOUNDARY DISPUTE.

Much inconvenience is caused to settlers in this district by the non-settlement of the boundary question; and they are as much isolated from the exercise of their civil rights and the protection of the law as if they were residing in the heart of the "Dark" Continent. There is no Court where a man can sue or be sued, or where he can collect a debt or seek restitution for losses sustained. The only persons who obtain the benefits of the law are the whiskey smugglers, who, if captured, are introduced to the Stipendiary Magistrate appointed under the Act for the better preservation of order in the vicinity of public works. No school system can be established until this unfortunate dispute has been settled. The education of the children—and there are many in the settlement—is provided by private co-operation. The Keewatin Lumbering Company are about erecting a schoolhouse at Keewatin for the convenience of their employees' children. There is no system, and there can be none until the matter is definitely settled.

"WET GROCERIES," WHICH PAY NO DUTY.

An enterprising Yankee has cut a road through the bush from Hallock's Station on the St. Paul and Manitoba [illegible] point near the boundary [illegible] the Woods. At this place [illegible] ed a store or "whisky [illegible]" kinds of "wet groceries" [illegible] vis'tors from Rat Portage, [illegible] kinds of goods are smuggled [illegible] from this man's shanty, and [illegible] law inflicted upon the revenue [illegible] opinion. During the past [illegible] have carted along this road, [illegible] to his store, over eighty [illegible] worth of goods. An effect [illegible] to stop this illicit traffic.

A WET SEASON.

In this district, as throughout [illegible] West Territories, the season [illegible] usually wet one. The [illegible] not remember the like.

AN UNFAVOURABLE VIEW [illegible]

Mr. Mather, adverting to the [illegible] lie published of the floods [illegible] the swampy character of the [illegible] noticed them as much [illegible] "Why," he said, "about [illegible] I had occasion to go [illegible] Minneapolis. On leaving [illegible] weather was fine, and the [illegible] along the railroad high and [illegible] could be everywhere seen gr[illegible] ing. But a considerable [illegible] St. Paul and Manitoba Railw[illegible] to I noticed that long stretc[illegible] were covered completely over [illegible] if there were lakes there. [illegible] completely under water, and [illegible] work suspended. This was the [illegible] tory a few months previous [illegible] because it was so dry and high."

"The First Quarrel."

BY ALFRED TENNYSON.

Told by a labourer's wife of [illegible] Wight, who quarrels with her [illegible] some old letters of his which [illegible] curses him, and never sees him [illegible] is lost at sea.

I.

"Wait a little," you say, "you are [illegible] right,"
But the boy was born i' trouble, an' [illegible]
so while;
Wait! an' once I ha' waited—I [illegible]
long.
Now I wait, wait for Harry.—No, [illegible] me wrong!
Harry and I were married: the boy [illegible]
head.
The boy was born in wedlock, but [illegible]
dead;
I ha' worked for him fifteen years, an' [illegible]
wait to the end.
I am all alone in the world, an' you [illegible] friend.

II.

Doctor, if you can wait, I'll [illegible] life.
When Harry and I were children, he called [illegible]
little wife;
I was happy when I was with him, an' [illegible]
was away,
An' when we play'd together, I loved [illegible]
play;
"He workt me the daisy chain—[illegible]
slip ball,
He fought the boys that were rude [illegible]
better than all.
Passionate girl tho' I was, an' oft [illegible]
[illegible]
I never could quarrel with Harry—I [illegible] in his face."

Harry has to go away to work [illegible] and more than one adventure [illegible] with lassies of easy virtue. At [illegible] home and finds that his childish [illegible] faithful:

"Hard was the frost in the field, we [illegible]
Christmas day,
Married among the red berries an' all [illegible]
May,
Those were the pleasant times, my [illegible]
were my pride,
We seem'd like ships i' the Channel [illegible]
wind an' tide.

IX.

But work was scant in the Isle, tho' he [illegible]
lages round,
So Harry went over the Solent to [illegible]
be found;
An' he wrote "I ha' six weeks' work, [illegible]
far as I know;
I'll be me for an hour to-morrow, an' [illegible]
I go.'

X.

So I set to righting the house, for [illegible] that day?
An' I hit on an old deal box that was [illegible]
corner away,
It was full of old odds an' ends, an' a [illegible]
wi' the rest,
I had better ha' put my naked hand [illegible]
nest.

XI.

'Sweetheart,'—this was the letter—th[illegible]
I read—
'You promised to find me work near [illegible]
I was dead—
'Didn't you kiss me an' promise? you [illegible]
my lad,
'An' I almost died o' your going away, [illegible] that I had.'

XII.

I too wish that I had—in the [illegible]
had passed,
Before I quarrel'd with Harry—my [illegible] an' the last.

XIII.

For Harry came in, an' I flung him the [illegible] drove me wild,
An' he told it me all at once, as simple [illegible]
'What can it matter, my lass, what [illegible] single life?
'I ha' been as true to you as ever a man [illegible]
An' she wasn't one o' the worst.' 'Then, [illegible] none o' the best.'
An' he smiled at me, 'Ain't you, my [illegible] come, little wife, let it rest!
The man isn't like the woman, no need [illegible]
a stir.'
But he anger'd me all the more, an' I [illegible] were keeping with her,
'When I was a-loving you all along [illegible]
before.'
An' he didn't speak for a while, an' he [illegible] more and more.
Then he patted my hand in his gentle [illegible] goons be?'
'Bygones! you kept yours hu h'd, I [illegible] married me!
'Bygones ma' be come-agains; an' she—[illegible] and her sin—
'You'll have her to nurse my child, if I [illegible] lying in!
'You'll make her its second mother! I [illegible] an' I hate you!
'Ah, Harry, my man, you had better ha' [illegible]
black and blue
'Than ha' spoken as kind as you did wh[illegible] crazy wi' spite,
'Wait a little, my lass, I am sure it [illegible]
right.'"

A Bouncing Story.

Shoes with India-rubber [illegible] much worn this month. The [illegible] claimed for these coverings is th[illegible] imparted to the feet, a sure [illegible] dry stockings. I have, however, [illegible] story which altogether overbalanc[illegible] dule of "advantages." It was [illegible] a poor gentleman who met with [illegible] traordinary adventure, recently. [illegible] up Rathgar way, in as pretty a [illegible] story house as ever you laid your [illegible] Well, a few days ago he noticed [illegible] rivulets of wet trickling down the [illegible] ered walls of his dwelling, and he [illegible] to explore the house and find the [illegible] opened the skylight and slid out [illegible] the gutter, but missing his foot-hold [illegible] over the parapet on to the [illegible] Fortunately, he had on a pair of [illegible] dia-rubber boots with soles of unu[illegible] ness. When his feet struck the [illegible] he rebounded into the air; the [illegible] down and he bounced up again, [illegible] since he has been hopping backw[illegible] ward. Every time he ascended it [illegible] ticed that the height of his [illegible] less and less, and his relatives ca[illegible] Christmas week [illegible] him at a [illegible] I further hear that this poor [illegible] fed by a person who fills India-r[illegible] with hash and extracts of meat, [illegible] catches on the hop. It may be [illegible] the height of the poor gentleman [illegible] three stories, and the fall itself [illegible] makes a fourth.

For a wonder the Emperor of [illegible] not had any special [illegible] able for a w[illegible] is to be hoped that the poor old [illegible] joying himself, as he best may. [illegible] been worse men and worse mona[illegible] Alexander, but after all he has ma[illegible] ful mess of it.

And so the Queen and [illegible] daughter have got the little tiff [illegible] It is a pleasure to know [illegible] but why it should be thought [illegible] moment to be put in the papers [illegible] evident. In these days there are [illegible] other things so very much more [illegible] that the world could stand a [illegible] ence on such domestic matters.

DURING the siege of Candahar [illegible] water were plentiful, but beer and [illegible] whiskey were more precious than [illegible] At the sale of Gen. Brooke's eff[illegible] of the former was knocked down [illegible] lancer for eleven rupees, and the [illegible] dew fetched over fourteen rupees [illegible]

LORD WENLOCK, who has just d[illegible] denly, was a near connection and [illegible] friend of Mr. Gladstone, and exercised [illegible] influence on Yorkshire politics, being [illegible] Lieutenant of the East Riding.

THE price which England is to be [illegible] upon to pay out of the pockets of the [illegible] glish, Scotch, and Welsh taxpayers, [illegible] der to settle for ever the disquieting [illegible] land question, is, according to the [illegible] the very modest amount of $1,500,[illegible]

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

CHRIST CHURCH.

[illegible]—Sept. 26, 10:30 a. m.; Oct. 3rd, [illegible] 10th, 10:30 a. m.; 17th, 10:30 a. m.; 24th, 10:30 a. m.; 31st, 6:30 p. m.; Nov. [illegible] 6:30 p. m.; 14th, 10:30 a. m.; 21st, 10:30 a. m.; 28th, 6:30 p. m.; Dec. 5th, 6:30 p. m.; 12th, 10:30 a. m.; 19th, 10:30 a. m.; 26th, 10:30 a. m., Sabbath School, 2:30 p. m. 6:30 p. m. James Ward, Incumbent.

CANADA METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:30 a.m., and [illegible] p. m. Sabbath School at 2:30 p. m. [illegible] Bowes, Superintendent. Prayer Meeting Thursday Evenings at 7:30. Rev. N. A. [illegible], Pastor.

PRIMITIVE METHODIST.

[illegible] every 1st and 3rd Sabbath at 3 p. m. Every 2nd & 4th Sabbath at [illegible] a. m., in the Orange Hall. C. C. Gar[illegible] Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Services in Dufferin Hall every alternate Sabbath at 11 a. m., and intervening Sabbath at 6:30 p. m. Sabbath School at 2:30 [illegible] at 6:30 p. m. Bible Class and Prayer Meeting on [illegible] at 7:30 p. m.

MONTHLY CATTLE FAIRS.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.
[illegible]ceville—Monday before Durham.
Hanover—Monday before Durham.
Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.
Guelph—First Wednesday in each month.
Harriston—Friday before the Guelph Fair.
Drayton—Saturday before Guelph.
Elora—The day before Guelph.
Douglas—Monday before Elora Fair.
Hamilton—Cyrstal Palace Grounds, the day after Guelph.
Berlin—Frst Thursday in each month.
Brampton—First Thursday in each month.
Listowel—First Friday in each month.
Fergus—Thursday following Mount Forest.
[illegible]mont—Fifteenth of February, April, June, August, October and December.
Primrose—Wednesday preceding the Orangeville Fair.
Orangeville—The 2nd Thursday [illegible] each month.
Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.
Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.
Shelburne—Wednesday before Orangeville.
Marshville—Second Wednesday in each month.
Walkerton—The last Wednesday in each month.
Mildmay—Last Wednesday of each month.

ESTABLISHED 35 YEARS
WEEKLY
SPECTATOR
A LARGE
EIGHT-PAGE PAPER
—ONLY—
Per Year. ($1) Per Year.
One of the Largest and best Weeklies in Canada.
BALLANCE OF 1880 FREE.
Agents receive 25 Cents for every yearly subscriber. Any party sending [illegible] subscribers will receive a copy [illegible] Farmer's Account Book [illegible] in place of the usual commission [illegible] a post card for Sample Copy of our Weekly which is sent free. The only paper in Canada that publishes a Draught Column. Address
SPECTATOR PRINTING COMPANY,
Hamilton, Ont.
Nov. 11, 1880.

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R. in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road, through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Re[illegible]
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880.

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOEL

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOEL
Markdale, Dec. 17, 188[illegible] 14

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's
The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of
MARKDALE
and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as
CHEAP
as any one north of Toronto.
Fresh and Corned Meats
delivered promptly on receipt of orders.
SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.
Special inducements to large Purchasers
☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."
☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep
Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support.
W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

[illegible] and Cattle.
[illegible] having good fat Sheep or [illegible] will find it to their advantage [illegible] their names and address at Mc[illegible] Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, [illegible] are still on the war path, [illegible] pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEERS.
1-y

JAY GOULD, last year [illegible] in a residence and [illegible] the Hudson river. [illegible] Saturday morning [illegible] the conservatory, a [illegible] hundred and eighty [illegible] most rare and valua[illegible] cuniary loss is $150,[illegible] sured.

CHURCH DIRECTORY.

CHRIST CHURCH.

Services—Sept. 26, 10:30 a. m.; Oct. 3rd, 6:30 p. m.; 10th, 10:30 a. m.; 17th, 10:30 a. m.; 24th, 6:30 p. m.; 31st, 6:30 p. m.; Nov. 7th 10:30 a. m.; 14th, 10:30 a. m.; 21st, 10:30 a. m.; 28th, 6.3o p. m.; Dec. 5th, 6:3o p. m.; 12th, 10:3o a. m.; 19th, 10:3o a. m.; 27th, 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School, 2:3o p. m. Rev. James Ward, Incumbent.

CANADA METHODIST CHURCH.

Services every Sabbath at 10:3o a.m., and 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School at 2:3o p. m. G. S. Bowes, Superintendent. Prayer Meetings Thursday Evenings at 7:3o. Rev. N. A. McDiarmid, Pastor.

PRIMATIVE METHODIST,

Services every 1st and 3rd Sabbath at 2 o'clock p. m. Every 2nd & 4th Sabbath at 10:3o a. m., in the Orange Hall. C. C. Garbett, Pastor.

PRESBYTERIAN.

Services in Dufferin Hall every alternate Sabbath at 11 a. m., and intervening Sabbaths at 6:3o p. m. Sabbath School at 2:3o p. m. Bible Class and Prayer Meeting on Fridays at 7:3o p. m.

MONTHLY CATTLE FAIRS.

Durham—Third Tuesday in each month.
Priceville—Monday before Durham.
Hanover—Monday before Durham.
Mount Forest—Third Wednesday in each month.
Guelph—First Wednesday in each month.
Harriston—Friday before the Guelph Fair.
Drayton—Saturday before Guelph.
Elora—The day before Guelph.
Douglas—Monday before Elora Fair.
Hamilton—Cyrstal Palace Grounds, the day after Guelph.
Berlin—First Thursday in each month.
Brampton—First Thursday in each month.
Listowel—First Friday in each month.
Fergus—Thursday following Mount Forest.
Jermont—Fifteenth of February, April, June, August, October and December.
Primrose—Wednesday preceding the Orangeville Fair.
Orangeville—The 2nd Thursday in each month.
Flesherton—Monday before Orangeville.
Dundalk—Tuesday before Orangeville.
Shelburne—Wednesday before Orangeville.
Marshville—Second Wednesday in each month.
Walkerton—The last Wednesday in each month.
Mildmay—Last Wednesday of each month.

ESTABLISHED 35 YEARS

WEEKLY SPECTATOR

A LARGE
EIGHT-PAGE PAPER
—ONLY—
Per Year. ($1) Per Year.

One of the Largest and best Weeklies in Canada.

BALLANCE OF 1880 FREE.

Agents receive 25 Cents for every yearly subscriber. Any party sending us three subscribers will receive a copy, post-paid, of the Farmer's Account Book, worth one dollar, in place of the usual commission. Send a post card for Sample Copy of our Weekly, which is sent free. The only paper in Canada that publishes a Draught Column. Address

SPECTATOR PRINTING COMPANY,
Hamilton, Ont.

Nov. 11, 1880.

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880.

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice. As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOBLE.

Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Meat for All

AT

W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS, AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have Tea sets, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &.

AT DOLL'S

In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting, and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best). Swiss, English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated St. Thomas and other Clocks, from 75c up. In Jewelry,—I have colored and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, Pins, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pens, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty.

W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Flesherton and Dundalk.

Nov. 25, 1880. (8)

MARKDALE.

Wm. Lucas & Co., BANKERS,

MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, that the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company will apply to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its next session, for an Act to amend the several Acts relating to the said Company: and for power to create a preference issue of Bonds or Debenture Stock: to re-arrange their Bonded Debt: to authorize them to enter into and complete an agreement with the Grand Trunk Railway Company of Canada, or with any other Railway Company, for the working of their line of Railway: to confirm and declare valid all or any By-laws voted upon, and to be voted upon, by the Ratepayers of any Municipality, portion of a Township Municipality, or Municipalities, granting aid to the Toronto, Grey an Bruce Railway Company, provided such By-laws have been carried by a majority of the votes cast thereon: ana for other purposes.

W. SUTHERLAND TAYLOR,
SecretarysTreasurer.

Dated at Toronto this 22nd day of November, 1880. 11-6i

In Chancery.

THE FARMERS' LOAN AND SAVINGS COMPANY,

VS.

LECKIE,

PURSUANT to the Decree made in this cause, there will be sold with the approbation of T. W. Taylor, Esquire, Master in Ordinary of this Court by J. M. Webster, Auctioneer,

At the FLESHERTON Hotel,
IN THE VILLAGE OF FLESHERTON,
at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon of the following lands and premises in one parcel., viz: Lot number twenty-one in the fourteenth concession of the township of Artemesia, in the county of, Grey, excepting thereout three acres off the north west corner of said lot. The said lot consists of about [illegible] acres of land, of which about 60 acres are cleared and the remainder well timbered with beech and maple, basswood and some hemlock. The land cleared is of a clay loam and in a fair state of cultivation. The said lot is situate on the Meaford Road, about five miles from Markdale Station on the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. About six and a-half miles from Flesherton, and is readily accessible to said villages by good roads, and the said villages afford good markets for the sale of produce. The said lot is also well watered by a creek, and there is no swampy land on said lot. The said lot has erected thereon farm buildings consisting of a frame house, and log barn.

Thursday, the Thirteenth day of January, 1881.

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. is to be paid the vendors or their solicitors at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent. within thirty days thereafter, without interest, and the balance to be secured by first mortgage on said premises payable in three or five years, with interest at seven per cent. per annum

The property will be sold subject to a reserve bid fixed by the Master. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery. For further particulars apply at the Law Offices of W. Mulock, Esq., vendor's solicitor, Messrs. Crooks, Kingsmill and Cattanach, and Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskins, Plumb and Creelman, solicitors, Toronto.

Dated December 8, 1880.
14-3 (Signed) T. W. TAYLOR.

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

WM. FOX,

Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

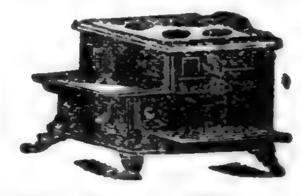
Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves.



At the New Tinshop

MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!

A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!

made to order on the shortest notice.

EAVETROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convehient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

Subscribe for the Standard. We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 158 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 9-y

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Countyat

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER. Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
CLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880. 1

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having wool to dye in the above line can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those having no wool work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to.

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the winter.

N. CAMPBELL.

Flesherton, December 15, 1880. 14

R. J. SPROULE,

FLESHERTON,

Whilst wishing all

A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taking our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business generally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season

THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Crockery and Classware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE,

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R. J. SPROULE'S,
FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 31st, 1880.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

Mount Forest has abolished the market fees.

Parties having wood for sale should read adv. in another column.

The Township of Culross has voted $8,000 to the T. G. and B. R. R.

Mr. Mark Armstrong, s'r.. has purchased the Caswell farm for $3,500.

Mr. John Lyons was re-elected School Trustee, in Markdale.

Miss Burch offers bargains in holiday presents, vases, cups and saucers, at reduced prices, call and inspect.

The Daily Mail during the session of Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

A Big Push is expected at the masquerade to-night. The ice is not a bit soft.

The Warden of Brant gave his $100 to the poor instead of entertaining the council with it.

Our thanks are due Dr. Sproule for copies of Hansard and other Parliamentary documents.

We will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the Standard to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

You cannot do better than buy one of the 90c double steel axes, at Haskett Bros.

If you want a new stove, Haskett Bros. will be glad to see you, they have a large stock and are offering them cheap.

The County Council of Bruce, at its last sitting, instructed the Warden to memoralize the Goverment to remove the registrar from his office.

We understand that Mr. Marshall Beard, one mile from Markdale, in Artemesia, has sold his farm, 100 acres, for $3,500.

The Magic Lantern entertainment on Wednesday evening, in the Hall, was very interesting, and the views were handsome and very numerous. We did not learn what the proceeds were.

We have received the first number of the Hanover Post. It is to be liberal in politics but reserves to itself the privilege of criticising wrong doing by our public men irrespective of party. We wish our cotem success.

In the case of the editor of the Grey Review, of Durham, tried before a bench of majestrates, on a charge of libelling Mr. Arch McKenzie, postmaster of that place, dicision was held until the 4th of January.

The tea meeting which came off in the C. M. Chrch, on Christmas evening, was well attended, and a very pleasant time was spent; proceeds $71.00. It being Saturday evening the proceedings were brought to an end at nine o'clock.

Christmas passed off very quietly. Places of business were closed; and those of the "boys" who could get a rig, took their girls out for a drive; others attended the tea-meeting in the C. M. Church. On the whole everybody seemed as happy as a "big sunflower."

The Toronto papers are complaining that they have had no sleighing as yet. We have no complaint to make on that score in Markdale, as we have had the best of sleighing for over a month past and there is a decided hum in all branches of business.

The January number of Our Little Folks has been received. It is, without exception, the best magazine for children we have ever seen, and parents who desire to amuse their little ones should not hesitate to subscribe. The stories contained in it are interesting and instructive, and it is also beautifully illustrated. Published by the Russell Publishing Co. 149 Tremont street Boston, Mass. Terms $1.50 per annum.

Fire.—At about 3 o'clock on Monday, 27th inst a fire was discovered in the building occupied by Joseph Lamb, Blacksmith. When first discovered it had gained considerable headway, nearly the whole inside of the roof being on fire; but by the prompt exertions of our citizens it was soon got under control. Fortunately it occurred during daylight for had it occurred during the night the results would have been most disastrous, as the house was surrounded on all sides by frame buildings. Had it once got well going there is no knowing where it would have stopped.

The Xmas Tea Meeting held in the P. M. Chruch, Townsend's Lake, on Christmas Eve last was a decided success, congregation good, night fine, and every body in good spirits so far as we could see. After partaking of a bountiful repast, W. Brown Esq., of Markdale, was introduced to the audience as chairman of the evening, by the Rev. C. C. Garnett, who with his usual courtesy and ability presided. The choir under the leadership of Mr. W. Boyle rendered excellent service during the evening, and were warmly applauded The following is the programme as regards the speakers, reading, Mr. Bliss, recitation, Miss Williams, of Markdale, speech, Rev. W. Walker, speech, Mr. Y. Morwood, speech, Rev. Mr. Wilson, Markdale, cutting affair, lead by Rev. C. C. Garnett and Mrs. C. C. Garnett, which consisted in the selling of a large cake, one of the pieces of which contained a gold wedding ring, and when it was found that Miss Edwards was the fortunate one, every person seemed to think that after all there might be some truth in the old adage, "that coming events cast their shadows before." The closing address was given by Mr. Boyle. After the usual thanks this really enjoyable entertainment was brought to a close.

Read Reynolds and sons new adv.

We draw attention to Mr. T. E. Davis' card in this issue of Standard.

Quite a talk about the tea Richardson sells at 50 cents, those who have tried it say it is unequalled.

The Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

The Anniversary of the Methodist Sunday School, will be held at Flesherton, on New Year's day. An attractive programme in preparation; tea served at 6 p. m.

Masquerade.—There is to be a Masquerade Carnival on the Markdale Skating Rink on Friday the 31st inst.; when several valuable prizes will be offered for particulars see posters.

The by-law for a bonus of $3,000 towards widening the gauge of the Toronto Grey and Bruce R. R., was voted on in Harriston, on the 28th inst., and was carried by a majority of 21.

A shooting match for turkeys, geese and ducks, takes place at Berkeley on New Year's day. The proceedings will close with a grand concert in the evening at T. Brown's Hall, admission 15c.

L. O. L. No. 797, Dundalk, give a soiree, on New Year's evening, at which addresses will be delivered, and good music in the intervals. A good time is promised. Don't forget to attend.

On Tuesday night of last week Mr. Goodie's store house near the railway, was broken into and sever hogs stolen. They were discovered by a Mr. Williams in what is known as Cardwell's swamp buried under a load of hay, which had the appearance of being upset. Will give full particulars next week.

The weather for the past week had been rather mild; but on Monday night the wind turned round to the North and the Thermometor dropped from freezing point down to zero. Snow fell during Monday night and Tuesday, which the wind drifted in every direction, making a comotion anything but pleasant.

It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that Mr. J. Gordon, has bought out the saddle and harness business lately carried on by Mr. Damude, at Flesherton. Mr. Gordon is said to be an experienced workman, and we would recommend those requiring anything in his line, to give him a call.

Serious Accident.—A day or two since, while a son of John Wilson, 10th concession, Glenelg, aged 14 years, was carelessly playing with a dynamite cartridge, it exploded taking off the top of the left thumb and about half the first finger and badly damaging the third finger. Medical aid was procured and the hand properly dressed.

The weather on Wednesday morning was extremely cold the Thermometer registering 5 degrees below zero. A noon it had risen a few degrees, but setting round the stove, was decidedly preferable to being out of doors. There has been considerable drifting and the trains have been delayed in consequence. The express from Toronto on Tuesday, did not arrive until near 6 p.m., and that from Owen Sound, on Wednesday, not arriving until after 11 a.m.

Railway Accident.—A train on the Grand Trunk ran into a team one day last week, containing six persons, killing four of them and slightly injuring the other two. The occupants of the sleigh had been on a visit to some friends to spend Christmas day, and were on their way home when the train ran into them. No blame is attatched to the trainmen. Two of those killed were important witnesses for the defence in the celebrated Bidulph cases.

We have received the Jan'y number of the American Ariculturist and as usual it is replete with information most beneficial to the farmer. It is a work that should be in every farm house as the information contained in it will pay ten fold the amount of subscription. Remember you can get this valuable magazine for only one dollar by clubbing with the Standard, or if you wish to take the Magazine without the Standard $1.50 per annum. Subscriptions received at this office.

Some time since a Mr. Hillis had a horse and set of double harness stolen from him. The horse was discovered at Paisley, but no trace of the harness. About a week ago, it was discovered that the thief was working at Mr. T. Sims' lot 19 in the 13th con. Glenelg. By some means, he heard the constable was on his trail, he suddenly took his departure, taking with him a horse, the product of a second trade but left the harness which had also been traded. It is not known with whom he made the last trade. We are informed the animal had a lump on his jaw and was about 5 years old.

We have this week to chronicle th sad intelligence of the death of Mr Wm. J. Moore, whose parents reside a short distance from this village. He left his home last fall for the purpose of taking up land near Bruce Mines. About a month since he was taken ill and after a short illness, died. His parents have the heartfelt sympathy of all their friends and neighbors. His death has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood, as the deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His parents have a great consolation in their bereavement in knowing that their son died in the the sure and certain hope of a better life in the world to come.—Com.

The Montreal "Weekly Witness" is a paper that devotes especial attention to the Farmers' needs. The Agricultural Department is edited by W. F. Clarke, Esq., Lindenbank, Guelph, who is widely known as at one time the editor of the Canada Farmer, and more recently the "Witness" lecturer on agriculture. His editorial articles and "Agricultural Letter box" are especially attractive. The Witness Markets are all perfectly reliable and very full. Hardly less valuable is the veterinary column conducted by D. McEachran, F.R.C.V.S., Principal of the Montreal Veterinary College, and the Dominion Inspector of live stock. His name stands in the front rank of Veterinary surgeons on this continent, and the prompt replies given to correspondents are valuable. A "Poultry colum" has just been added, and promises to be of great assistance to poultry farmers, who are growing in number. In the cities and towns especially the raising of fowls is increasing in popularity. While these departments are of especial value to the farmers, the cultivators of the soil in a smaller way, and the gentlemen and ladies who are fond of gardening, are not neglected. The legal department, in which all legal questions are answered by one competent to perform this work, is a valuable assistance to all men of business. And then the paper is full of information of especial interest to the family, even the little children having a column to themselves. An especial feature about this paper is that every department is carefully edited, not thrown together hap-hazard, so that those relying on any information given are not likely to be misled. Every subscriber of the "Weekly Witness" can tell of special offers whereby old and new subscribers are benefited.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Glenelg.—For Reeve, F. McRae, Esq., elected by acclamation. For Deputy Reeve, Thomas Davis, Wm. Hall, Neil McCannell. For Councillors, Jno. Black, Geo. Bennie, Nathan Dunsmoor, Wm. Glencross, John A. McMillan, Patrick Neil.

Holland.—In this Township Wm. Howey, Reeve; and John Cameron, Deputy Reeve, were re elected by acclamation. For Councillors, Anthony Shute, Wm. Norton, Justis Merrium, Robert Carson, and James Gillespie were nominated.

Artemesia.—Dr. Christoe, Reeve; and Councillors Wright and Pedlar were elected by acclamation. For Ward No. 1, Messrs R. Stone, A. Webster and D. McLeod were nominated; Ward No. 2, A. Elliott and T. Boland, were nominated.

Proton.—For Reeve, J. J. Middleton, Wm. Nelson. Depty Reeve, Messrs McMillan and Abbott. Councillors, Messrs Buckley, Black, McCardle and Peer.

Owen Sound.—Por Mayor, C. E. Barnhart, Esq., elected by acclamation. For Reeve—John Fox and Jno Chishoim. For 1st Deputy Reeve, Matthew Kennedy, elected by acclamation. For 2nd Deputy Reeve, R. Malcolm and J. W. Frost.

Derby.—Reeve—Jas. Cochrane and Robert Alexander Stark.

Sarawak.—Reeve—Robt McNaught re-elected.

St. Vincent.—Reeve—C. R. Sing, and James Doublebee. Deputy Reeve, N. Reid and J. H. Burnett.

Durham.—Mayor—Hy. Middaugh, Reeve, G. McKechnie, by acclamation.

Shelburne.—Reeve—Wm. Jelley, M.P.P., elected by acclamation.

Euphrasia.—Reeve—Patterson, Miles and Carr. Deputy Reeve, Boyd and Erskine.

EUPHRASIA.

To the Editor of the Standard.

McGlochlin, the notorious, who has been a dread to this part of the country, is we are happy to say, enjoying his Christmas festivities, in her majestys large stone mansion in Owen Sound. He was cleverly captured by John Loughead, of Meaford, after an exciting chase from Meaford to Duntroon, below Collingwood. It is expected and hoped that it will lead to the discovery of the perpetrators of the robberies in Euphrasia last fall, public opinion is, that he was the chief in these transactions, and others are now known to be implicated.

Election matters are brisk, Mr. Patterson is sure of success, as Reeve. —Com.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

Municipal Nomination.—The following gentlemen were nominated for a seat at the "Green Table" in the Town Hall, in the Township of Artemesia, for the year 1881.

Reeve, Dr. Christoe, elected by acclamation. Councillors—Ward No. 1, R. Stone, A. Webster, D. McLeod. Ward No. 2, A. Elliott, T. Boland. Ward No. 3, Thorp Wright, elected by acclamation. Ward No. 4, S. Pedlar, elected by acclamation.

Sabbath School Anniversary.—The Anniversary of the Presbyterian Sabbath School, was held in the Town Hall, on the evening of Christmas day. The attendance was large that a great number of the people could not get seated. The chair was ably filled during the evening by Mr. Meldrum. The programme was rendered with credit to all of the performers and the order mantained during the evening was excellent. The receipts at the door amounted to $65.

Serenaders.—We were agreeably surprised on Christmas morning about one o'clock, by a band of serenaders. The music rendered was the sweetest and most christian like we have ever heard in this village. We can assure this company of a kind and fitting reception the next time we are honored with its presence.

Brevities.—The public schools open on the 3rd of January.. ...J. W. Henderson and family of Toronto, are on a visit to the scenes of their childhood......Vennor can't foretell the weather worth a hen......Good ice on the rink.

DUNDALK.

From a Correspondent.

Christmas passed off quiet. A Christmas tree in the Methodist Church in the evening; an over crowded house; a good entertainment—proceeds about $40. A tea in the Presbyterian Church in aid of the Sabbath School, also a good turnout, proceeds $27.

Nomination at Hopeville.—A large number from all parts of the township; quite a number being nominated for councillors and deputy. They all withdrew but 4 for councillors, Messrs Buckley, Black, McCardle and Peer. For Deputy, Messrs McMillan and Abbott. For Reeve, J. J. Middleton, and Wm. Nelson.

Our school trustee election came off to day 29th, Mr. Geo. Nixon was elected by acclamation, in place of Mr. Geo. Middleton.—Fast Asleep.

A TRAGIC STORY.

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The traveller was infirm and old,
His withered cheek and tresses gray,
Showed he had known a better day.
His hat was bad his boots were leaky,
And with a cold his voice was squeaky,
And he vowed it was an eternal shame,
That an old man should go half clad,

Such weather, when a nice tweed suit can be bought at M. Richardson's for $7.75, and a good warm overcoat for $5. Hats and boots proportionally cheap.

HONOR ROLL.

Markdale public school promotion examination, from the fourth to the fifth classes, the following are the names of the successful candidates with the standing of each. Number of marks possible to be taken 260; Number of marks necessary to be taken 130. John Thibaudeau, 145; W. J. Douglas, 140; Lizzie Kay, 184; Wm. Irving, 132. Much credit is due to M. Bowes, K. McDuff, C. Burns, A. Might, and L. Might, and if they apply themselves faithfully to their school work they will no doubt meet with success at Easter.

PRESENTATION.

Mr. N. B. Grier, who has at present retired from the teachers profession, was made the happy recipient of a nice testimonial consisting of a gentleman's beautifully ornamented China Coffee Cup and saucer, together with a mate for it for Mrs. Grier, by the pupils of Priceville, on the last day of the school year, accompanied by the following address.

Mr. N. B. Grier, Teacher,

Sir,—We the pupils of Priceville public school, upon this the last day of your labor amongst us, wish to convey to you a small token of our gratitude. We know we have many times merited your displeasure, although you have always been kind and forbearing with us; but as we are now about to separate as teacher and pupils we wish you to fergive all past offences, and have something almost constantly before you by which you can recall a kindly rememberance of us. Hence we desire you and Mrs. Grier to accept these mementoes together with our sincere wishes that you may succeed in business as well in the future as you have done in the past as a teacher. Hoping that you may both have long life and prosperity we conclude by tendering to yourself our sincere thanks for past services, and wishing you and your family a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Signed and presented in behalf of the pupils.

Aggie Webster,
Maggie Morehead,
Ada Summerville.

The teacher having assured the pupils that he was both very much surprised and pleased, and likewise very much affected, returned thanks to his young friends, and asked to be forgiven by those (if any) who may have thought that he had at any time punished them too severely; praised the pupils for their deligence, aptitude, and general proficiency, and deleived that they could compare favorably with any village children in the county. He also promised a more suitable reply soon in the shape of a basket of nuts. Mrs. Grier also returned thanks, Mr Riley, trustee, spoke in praise of the manifest abilities displayed by the pupils, especially in mental arithmetic. Miss E. A. Wright assistant teacher also added her quota to the enterainment of pupils and friends, indeed she seemed to be thought the moving spirit of the occasion—"the wheel within the wheel," and she eventually wound up a happy time for those intercsted by leading the pupils in one of her favorite school songs, yours &c.,

Discipulus.

Dec. 23rd, 1880.

PROTON COUNCIL.

Proton Council met as per adjournment at Dundalk, at Reid's Hall, on Friday, the 3rd day of December, 1880, at 10 a. m. Members all present, J. J. Middleton, Esq., presiding. The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and adopted, Several communications were received and read; also accounts received, read and ordered to be paid. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the following grants be given for the purpose of hiring teams and drawing gravel into low places on the respective roads, viz.: side road No. 22, cons. 7 and 8, $50, Adam Boyce Overseer; side road No. 12, con 6, $50, Wm. Boyd Overseer; between lots 23 and 27, con 12, $25, including grant made last summer, James Graham Overseer; side road 280, the sum of $25, R. Irvine Overseer—authority being given to the Reeve to issue orders to Overseers.—

Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following parties be appointed deputy-returning officers for the next Municipal Elections at the following places—Division No. 1, Jas. Menzies, at his house, lot 14, con 5; Division No. 2, Jas. Cavanagh, at [illegible] Hall, Hopeville, lot 12, con. 19; Division No. 3, Peter Dow, at the house of Duncan McMillan lot 23, con. 16; Division No. 4, Jas Fraser, at the house of Joseph Elberton, lot 23, con. 12; Division No. 5, Alex. McConnell, at the Orange Hall, Dundalk.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that a By-law on Public Morals, read a first and second time, be now read a third time and signed, sealed and engrossed on the Minutes, and numbered 221.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming that a grant of $25 be given to put gravel on the 12th side road, con. 14, and a similar sum to 280 side road, with authority to the Reeve to issue orders to Overseers.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that John Cooper be allowed to perform $10 worth of gravelling on the 27th side line, between the 9th and 10th concessions, being a part of arrears of taxes against lot 25, con. 8, to be performed under the Councillor of the Division.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the assessment of Donald Campbell be reduced $50.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved seconded by Mr. Fleming, that all taxes against lots 37 and 38, con 5, up to the end of the present year, including the amounts for which said lots were sold during the current year, be expended in opening a road between said lots and on said work being performed, the Clerk is requested to have the said taxes erased.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the statute labor commuted on the Roll in taxes against Robert Ingle, lot 19, concession 18, be erased on the said Ingle performing statute labor immediately falling timber for the same.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the statute labor assessed in taxes on lots 40 and 41, Con. 7, being the sum of $6, be expended by Mr. Agnew opposite the said lots in cutting out.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that a grant of $39 be given to pay for the erection of a bridge on the 14th con., lot 16.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the Collector receive the Pathmaster's certificate in lieu of statute labor charged on the Roll against lot 24, con. 12, as the work has been performed.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Mr. Middleton be paid the sum of $5 for gravel supplied for road improvements, and that the Reeve issue an order for the same. —Carried, Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the sum of $8 be granted to improve the Town Line of Proton and Egremont, opposite the 4th con. to supplement a similar amount from Egremont, be paid. —Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the petition of Wm. Nelson, David Davidson, James Robinson, Samuel Stokes, John Abbott, John Stevenson, James Menzies, Charles McConnell, James Cavanagh and 150 other ratepayers within section of the Township of Proton described in said petition, be received, and that a By-law in aid of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company be introduced for $6,000, in accordance with the prayer of said petition, and be read a first time.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following accounts be paid out of the funds deposited with the Treasurer to cover the expenses incurred in voting on the By-law to grant a bonus of $8,000 to the T., G. & B. Ry.: J. Townsend, for printing and publishing railway By-law, $21; Stovell & Son for ballots, &c., $12; Messengers, $4; Clerk, $5; for five Deputy-Returning Officers, $20; for polling booths, $12.50; Council for one day, $10.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Samuel McLean be refunded the taxes accruing on $50 of his assessment, being difference between his schedule and the roll. Council adjourned to meet tomorrow, Saturday, Dec. 4th, at 9 o'clock, a. m.

Dec. 4.—Council met pursuant to adjournment. Members all present. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Deputy Returning officers on vote for bonus to T., G. & B. Ry. be paid $4 each, and that they be paid for each polling booth used for said purpose $2.50, said amounts being received from the Company.—Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the account of John Vert be paid, viz.: five months' services $62.50, selection of jurors $5, ink 30c, pens and holders 70c, mucilage and twine 10c, postage stamps $1.50.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that a grant of $10 be given for reparing the Saugeen bridge on side road 12, con. 18, it being in an unsafe condition for travel.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that widows Foster, Boyce and Davis each receive a grant of $5, as they are in poor circumstances.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Black, that Samuel Fleming receive the sum of $1 for one-half day's work —Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following accounts be paid: W. Kough for constable's attire $17, Stovel & Son $12, Jas. H. Little $2.16, Stovel & Son $30.25.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the Reeve issue an order in favor of A. Gillespie for $2 for reparing bridge on 12th side road, con. 6.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the Treasurer's account be paid, stationery and blank books, $3.68; postage, 50c; travelling exdencess three times to Mount Forest to pay coupons and debentures for schools, $8; Treasurer's salary, $65.25.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Council receive their pay up to date. Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the Clerk be instructed to ascertain from the County Treas. the amount of taxes turned in default against lot 19, con. 14, and when paid that the clerk have the same erased.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Clerk ascertain from [illegible], Owen Sound, the accountability of the Municipality to Thomas Sevil for having returned lot 20, con. 10, for taxes, when the same was vested in the Crown.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Clerk ascertain the arrears of taxes against lot 23, in the 12th con.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the Clerk be requested to erase all taxes against lot 20, con 8, for 1878, the same being paid to the Township Treasurer.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the nominations for Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors, be held at Hopeville. Council adjourned sine die.

John Vert, Tp. Clerk.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

The following are the details of the tragedy already reported; On Sunday Thomas Kennedy, living in Salem, Claredon county, intending to visit Charleston went to his father's house a short distance away to ask his mother to stay with his wife during his absence. Kennedy has only been married a year. He is about 20 years of age, intelligent, refined and highly respected. When her husband left she shut the door and sat by the window to write to her mother. Seeing in the yard Joe Barnes, colored, aged, 16, and employed by Kennedy the previous week, she asked him to bring an armful of wood. The boy had been induced by Vance Brandt and his sister Julia, both colored, aged 18 and 15 to notify them when Kennedy left the place. They thought Kennedy had a good deal of money in the house. When Joe turned to go for the wood he gave the signal to Vance to come into the yard; the latter went to the window and three times tried to get in each time he was shoved out by Mrs. Kennedy, who then opened the door and was running through the gate when Vance knocked her down with a hoe. She implored mercy, he cursed and said. "I,se been waiting to kill you for a long time," and struck her two more blows. Julia then arrived with another hoe and severed the victim's head. The murderers then robbed the house. Kennedy afterwards found his wife outside of the gate mutilated, cold, and stiff, with her head almost severed in twain, the entire cranium cut off from ear to ear, leaving the brain scattered around. Several colored people have been arrested on suspicion but were discharged for want of evidence. Barnes was finally arrested and confessed as above. Vance and Julia were thereupon arrested. The horrible character of the murder has created intense indignation. One hundred and fifty white men and fifty colored men assembled to punish the murderers. The negroes begged to burn prisoners. This was refused. Halters were fastened to the limb of a tree, a cart was placed under the limb and the prisoners were ordered to mount. Barnes begged to be allowed to pray, saying that he had never prayed before and never expected to again. Nothing was said by the others, a groan and "Lord have mercy," from Vance. Handkerchiefs being tied over their faces, the cart was pushed away and the trio were soon dangling in the air. Their victim was enciente with twins and was near her confinement.

MARRIED

At the residence of the brides parents, on the 30th inst., by the Rev. Y. W. Robertson, of Guelph, Rev. Paul Flint, of Toronto, to Lizzie, eldest daughter of Thos. Kells' Esq., of Artemesia.

BIRTHS.

In this village, on the morning of the 29th inst., the wife of Mr. James Philcox, of a daughter.

Executors Notice.

THE Executors of the Estate of the late John and Jane Gillon. of Artemesia, hereby give notice to all persons indebted to the said estate, to pay such debt forthwith and save costs. And all persons having any just claims against the said estate are requested to send in such claims, stating their nature, before the 15th day of January, 1881. to John Wright, Flesherton P.O.

JOHN WRIGHT, GEORGE BUSKIN, } Executors.

Artemesia, Dec. 23rd, 1880. 16 2in

8,000 Cords [illegible] WANTED.

THE undersigned is prepared to contract for cutting and [illegible] cords of wood from his farm [illegible] of Markdale, to be delivered [illegible] be let in small lots to suit [illegible]

C. E. [illegible]

Markdale, Dec. 10, 1880.

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, [illegible] Plastering and [illegible] promptly attended to. [illegible] Estimates on all work, [illegible] faction guaranteed. [illegible]

December 31, 1880.

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, 178, con. 2, west, Township of Ar[illegible] one Dark Bay Horse. The [illegible] requested to prove property, pay [illegible] and take him away.

SAMUEL WA[illegible]

Dec. 15, 1880.

FLESHERTON Harness Shop

THE Subscriber having purchased [illegible] siness lately carried on by Mr. [illegible] mude, begs to inform the public that he

REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE where he is prepared to furnish ALL KINDS of HARNESS usually found in a First-Class Establishment

And at prices to suit the times, and by THE BEST OF MATERIAL AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c. constantly on hand.

COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

Call and satisfy yourselves. [illegible] the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec., 1880.

Mortgage Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTIES IN THE TOWNSHIPS OF Artemesia and Glenelg.

UNDER and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by William John Covey and John H[illegible]itt, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in payment of the monies secured, by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale

By Public Auction AT RUTLEDGE'S HOTEL In the Village of Markdale ON Thursday, the 13th day of Jan'y, 1881, at twelve o'clock, noon, the following parcels of land:—

1. The centre portion of lot number 2[illegible] the eleventh concession of the said township of Artemesia, containing fifty acres, more or less, and being all the residue of said lot not heretofore granted to Robert Buchanan by letters patent, dated the 22nd day of Jan[illegible] 1874, and to Thomas Gilbert, by letters patent dated the 22nd day of June, 1867, [illegible] which said residue is more fully set out in the patent thereof from the Crown, to the said William John Covey, as by reference thereto will more fully appear. On the land are said to be a Frame Barn and House, [illegible] Young Orchard; 35 acres are cleared, and the soil good. This farm is on a good road about five miles from Markdale.

2. Lot number 22, in the 10th concession of the said township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about [illegible] acres are cleared and the residue free from stumps. On the premises are said to be a Log House and Barn, and the soil is a [illegible] loam. This is a very fine farm.

Terms—Ten per cent. at the time of sale, fifteen per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at seven per cent. [illegible] or if additional satisfactory security be given no cash need be paid, or terms may be varied in any reasonable way to suit purchasers.

For further particulars, apply to ROBERT DAVIS, Auctioneer, Flesherton, Or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLE, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec., 1880. 16-[illegible]

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to intimate to you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past. Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 1880.

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY

Don't Forget the Place.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 31st, 1880.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

Mount Forest has abolished the market fees.

Parties having wood for sale should read adv. in another column.

The Township of Culross has voted $8,000 to the T. G. and B. R. R.

Mr. Mark Armstrong, s'r., has purchased the Caswell farm for $8,500.

Mr. John Lyons was re-elected School Trustee, in Markdale.

Miss Burch offers bargains in holiday presents, vases, cups and saucers, at reduced prices, call and inspect.

The Daily Mail during the session of Dominion Parliament for $1.00. Subscriptions taken here.

A Big Push is expected at the masquerade to-night. The ice is not a bit soft.

The Warden of Brant gave his $100 to the poor instead of entertaining the council with it.

Our thanks are due Dr. Sproule for copies of Hansard and other Parliamentary documents.

We will give the Weekly Mail in connection with the Standard to the end of 1881 for $2.25.

You cannot do better than buy one of the 90c double steel axes, at Haskett Bros.

If you want a new stove, Haskett Bros. will be glad to see you, they have a large stock and are offering them cheap.

The County Council of Bruce, at its last sitting, instructed the Warden to memoralize the Goverment to remove the registrar from his office.

We understand that Mr. Marshall Beard, one mile from Markdale, in Artemesia, has sold his farm, 100 acres, for $3,500.

The Magic Lantern entertainment on Wednesday evening, in the Hall, was very interesting, and the views were handsome and very numerous. We did not learn what the proceeds were.

We have received the first number of the Hanover Post. It is to be liberal in politics but reserves to itself the privilege of criticising wrong doing by our public men irrespective of party. We wish our cotem success.

In the case of the editor of the Grey Review, of Durham, tried before a bench of majestrates, on a charge of libelling Mr. Arch McKenzie, postmaster of that place, dicision was held until the 4th of January.

The tea meeting which came off in the C. M. Chrch, on Christmas evening, was well attended, and a very pleasant time was spent; proceeds $71.00. It being Saturday evening the proceedings were brought to an end at nine o'clock.

Christmas passed off very quietly. Places of business were closed; and those of the "boys" who could get a rig, took their girls out for a drive; others attended the tea-meeting in the C. M. Church. On the whole everybody seemed as happy as a "big sunflower."

The Toronto papers are complaining that they have had no sleighing as yet. We have no complaint to make on that score in Markdale, as we have had the best of sleighing for over a month past and there is a decided hum in all branches of business.

The January number of Our Little Folks has been received. It is, without exception, the best magazine for children we have ever seen, and parents who desire to amuse their little ones should not hesitate to subscribe. The stories contained in it are interesting and instructive, and it is also beautifully illustrated. Published by the Russell Publishing Co. 149 Tremont street Boston, Mass. Terms $1.50 per annum.

Fire.—At about 3 o'clock on Monday, 27th inst a fire was discovered in the building occupied by Joseph Lamb, Blacksmith. When first discovered it had gained considerable headway, nearly the whole inside of the roof being on fire; but by the prompt exertions of our citizens it was soon got under control. Fortunately it occurred during daylight for had it occurred during the night the results would have been most disastrous, as the house was surrounded on all sides by frame buildings. Had it once got well going there is no knowing where it would have stopped.

The Xmas Tea Meeting held in the P. M. Chruch, Townsend's Lake, on Christmas Eve last was a decided success, congregation good, night fine, and every body in good spirits so far as we could see. After partaking of a bountiful repast, W. Brown Esq., of Markdale, was introduced to the audience as chairman of the evening, by the Rev. C. C. Garnett, who with his usual courtesy and ability presided. The choir under the leadership of Mr. W. Boyle rendered excellent service during the evening, and were warmly applauded The following is the programme as regards the speakers, reading, Mr. Bliss, recitation, Miss Williams, of Markdale, speech, Rev. W. Walker, speech, Mr. Y. Morwood, speech, Rev. Mr. Wilson, Markdale, cutting affair, lead by Rev. C. C. Garnett and Mrs. C. C. Garnett, which consisted in the selling of a large cake, one of the pieces of which contained a gold wedding ring, and when it was found that Miss Edwards was the fortunate one, every person seemed to think that after all there might be some truth in the old adage, "that coming events cast their shadows before." The closing address was given by Mr. Boyle. After the usual thanks this really enjoyable entertainment was brought to a close.

Read Reynolds and sons new adv.

We draw attention to Mr. T. E. Davis' card in this issue of Standard.

Quite a talk about the tea Richardson sells at 50 cents, those who have tried it say it is unequalled.

The Daily Globe from the opening to the close of the Dominion Parliament for only one dollar. Subscriptions taken at this office.

The Anniversary of the Methodist Sunday School, will be held at Flesherton, on New Year's day. An attractive programme in preparation; tea served at 6 p. m.

Masquerade.—There is to be a Masquerade Carnival on the Markdale Skating Rink on Friday the 31st inst.; when several valuable prizes will be offered for particulars see posters.

The by-law for a bonus of $3,000 towards widening the gauge of the Toronto Grey and Bruce R. R., was voted on in Harriston, on the 28th inst., and was carried by a majority of 21.

A shooting match for turkeys, geese and ducks, takes place at Berkeley on New Year's day. The proceedings will close with a grand concert in the evening at T. Brown's Hall, admission 15c.

L. O. L. No. 797, Dundalk, give a soiree, on New Year's evening, at which addresses will be delivered, and good music in the intervals. A good time is promised. Don't forget to attend.

On Tuesday night of last week Mr. Goodie's store house near the railway, was broken into and sever. hogs stolen. They were discovered by a Mr. Williams in what is known as Cardwell's swamp buried under a load of hay, which had the appearance of being upset. Will give full particulars next week.

The weather for the past week had been rather mild; but on Monday night the wind turned round to the North and the Thermometor dropped from freezing point down to zero. Snow fell during Monday night and Tuesday, which the wind drifted in every direction, making a comotion anything but pleasant.

It will be seen by reference to our advertising columns that Mr. J. Gordon, has bought out the saddle and harness business lately carried on by Mr. Damude, at Flesherton. Mr. Gordon is said to be an experienced workman, and we would recommend those requiring anything in his line, to give him a call.

Serious Accident.—A day or two since, while a son of John Wilson, 10th concession, Glenelg, aged 14 years, was carelessly playing with a dynamite cartridge, it exploded taking off the top of the left thumb and about half the first finger and badly damaging the third finger. Medical aid was procured and the hand properly dressed.

The weather on Wednesday morning was extremely cold the Thermometer registering 5 degrees below zero. A noon it had risen a few degrees, but setting round the stove, was decidedly preferable to being out of doors. There has been considerable drifting and the trains have been delayed in consequence. The express from Toronto on Tuesday, did not arrive until near 6 p.m., and that from Owen Sound, on Wednesday, not arriving untl after 11 a.m.

Railway Accident.—A train on the Grand Trunk ran into a team one day last week, containing six persons, killing four of them and slightly injuring the other two. The occupants of the sleigh had been on a visit to some friends to spend Christmas day, and were on their way home when the train ran into them. No blame is attached to the trainmen. Two of those killed were important witnesses for the defence in the celebrated Bidulph cases.

We have received the Jan'y number of the American Ariculturist and as usual it is replete with information most beneficial to the farmer. It is a work that should be in every farm house as the information contained in it will pay ten fold the amount of subscription. Remember you can get this valuable magazine for only one dollar by clubbing with the Standard, or if you wish to take the Magazine without the Standard $1.50 per annum. Subscriptions received at this office.

Some time since a Mr. Hillis had a horse and set of double harness stolen from him. The horse was discovered at Paisley, but no trace of the harness. About a week ago, it was discovered that the thief was working at Mr. T. Sims' lot 19 in the 18th con. Glenelg. By some means, he heard the constable was on his trail, he suddenly took his departure, taking with him a horse, the product of a second trade but left the harness which had also been traded. It is not known with whom he made the last trade. We are informed the animal had a lump on his jaw and was about 5 years old.

We have this week to chronicle th sad intelligence of the death of Mr Wm. J. Moore, whose parents reside a short distance from this village. He left his home last fall for the purpose of taking up land near Bruce Mines. About a month since he was taken ill and after a short illness, died. His parents have the heartfelt sympathy of all their friends and neighbors. His death has cast a gloom over the entire neighborhood, as the deceased was highly esteemed by all who knew him. His parents have a great consolation in their bereavement in knowing that their son died in the the sure and certain hope of a better life in the world to come.—Com.

The Montreal "Weekly Witness" is a paper that devotes especial attention to the Farmers' needs. The Agricultural Department is edited by W. F. Clarke, Esq., Lindenbank, Guelph, who is widely known as at one time the editor of the Canada Farmer, and more recently the "Witness" lecturer on agriculture. His editorial articles and "Agricultural Letter box" are especially attractive. The Witness Markets are all perfectly reliable and very full. Hardly less valuable is the veterinary colum conducted by D. McEachran, F.R.C.V.S., Principal of the Montreal Veterinary College, and the Dominion Inspector of live stock. His name stands in the front rank of Veterinary surgeons on this continent, and the prompt replies given to correspondents are valuable. A "Poultry colum" has just been added, and promises to be of great assistance to poultry farmers, who are growing in number. In the cities and towns especially the raising of fowls is increasing in popularity. While these departments are of especial value to the farmers, the cultivators of the soil in a smaller way, and the gentlemen and ladies who are fond of gardening, are not neglected. The legal department, in which all legal questions are answered by one competent to perform this work, is a valuable assistance to all men of business. And then the paper is full of information of especial interest to the family, even the little children having a column to themselves. An especial feature about this paper is that every department is carefully edited, not thrown together hap-hazard, so that those relying on any information given are not likely to be misled. Every subscriber of the "Weekly Witness" can tell of special offers whereby old and new subscribers are benefited.

THE NOMINATIONS.

Glenelg.—For Reeve, F. McRae, Esq., elected by acclamation. For Deputy Reeve, Thomas Davis, Wm. Hall, Neil McCannell. For Councillors, Jno. Black, Geo. Bennie, Nathan Dunsmoor, Wm. Glencross, John A. McMillan, Patrick Neil.

Holland.—In this Township Wm. Howey, Reeve; and John Cameron, Deputy Reeve, were re-elected by acclamation. For Councillors, Anthony Shute, Wm. Norton, Justis Merrium, Robert Carson, and James Gillespie were nominated.

Artemesia.—Dr. Christoe, Reeve; and Councillors Wright and Pedlar were elected by acclamation. For Ward No. 1, Messrs R. Stone, A. Webster and D. McLeod were nominated; Ward No. 2, A. Elliott and T. Boland, were nominated.

Proton.—For Reeve, J. J. Middleton, Wm. Nelson. Depty Reeve, Messrs McMillan and Abbott. Councillors, Messrs Buckley, Black, McCardle and Peer.

Owen Sound.—Por Mayor, C. E. Barnhart, Esq., elected by acclamation. For Reeve—John Fox and Jno Chishoim. For 1st Deputy Reeve, Matthew Kennedy, elected by acclamation. For 2nd Deputy Reeve, R. Malcolm and J. W. Frost.

Derby.—Reeve—Jas. Cochrane and Robert Alexander Stark.

Sarawak.—Reeve—Robt McNaught re-elected.

St. Vincent.—Reeve—C. R. Sing, and James Doublebee. Deputy Reeve, N. Reid and J. H. Burnett.

Durham.—Mayor—Hy. Middaugh, Reeve, G. McKechnie, by acclamation.

Shelburne.—Reeve—Wm. Jelley, M.P.P., elected by acclamation.

Euphrasia. — Reeve — Patterson, Miles and Carr. Deputy Reeve, Boyd and Erskine.

EUPHRASIA.

To the Editor of the Standard.

McGlochlin, the notorious, who has been a dread to this part of the country, is we are happy to say, enjoying his Christmas festivities, in her majestys large stone mansion in Owen Sound. He was cleverly captured by John Loughead, of Meaford, after an exciting chase from Meaford to Duntroon, below Collingwood. It is expected and hoped that it will lead to the discovery of the perpetrators of the robberies in Euphrasia last fall, public opinion is, that he was the chief in these transactions, and others are now known to be implicated.

Election matters are brisk, Mr. Patterson is sure of success, as Reeve. —Com.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

Municipal Nomination.—The following gentlemen were nominated for a seat at the "Green Table" in the Town Hall, in the Township of Artemesia, for the year 1881.

Reeve, Dr. Christoe, elected by acclamation. Councillors—Ward No. 1, R. Stone, A. Webster, D. McLeod. Ward No. 2, A. Elliott, T. Boland. Ward No. 3, Thorp Wright, elected by acclamation. Ward No. 4, S. Pedlar, elected by acclamation.

Sabbath School Anniversary.—The Anniversary of the Presbyterian Sabbath School, was held in the Town Hall, on the evening of Christmas day. The attendance was large that a great number of the people could not get seated. The chair was ably filled during the evening by Mr. Meldrum. The programme was rendered with credit to all of the performers and the order mantained during the evening was excellent. The receipts at the door amounted to $65.

Serenaders.—We were agreeably surprised on Christmas morning about one o'clock, by a band of serenaders. The music rendered was the sweetest and most christian like we have ever heard in this village. We can assure this company of a kind and fitting reception the next time we are honored with its presence.

Brevities.—The public schools open on the 3rd of January.. ...J. W. Henderson and family of Toronto, are on a visit to the scenes of their childhood......Vennor can't foretell the weather worth a hen......Good ice on the rink.

DUNDALK.

From a Correspondent.

Christmas passed off quiet. A Christmas tree in the Methodist Church in the evening; an over crowded house; a good entertainment—proceeds about $40. A tea in the Presbyterian Church in aid of the Sabbath School, also a good turnout, proceeds $27.

Nomination at Hopeville.—A large number from all parts of the township; quite a number being nominated for councillors and deputy. They all withdrew but 4 for councillors, Messrs Buckley, Black, McCardle and Peer. For Deputy, Messrs McMillan and Abbott. For Reeve, J. J. Middleton, and Wm. Nelson.

Our school trustee election came off to day 29th, Mr. Geo. Nixon was elected by acclamation, in place of Mr. Geo. Middleton.—Fast Asleep.

A TRAGIC STORY.

The way was long, the wind was cold,
The traveller was infirm and old,
His withered cheek and tresses gray,
Showed he had known a better day.
His hat was bad his boots were leaky,
And with a cold his voice was squeaky,
And he vowed it was an eternal shame,
That an old man should go half clad,

Such weather, when a nice tweed suit can be bought at M. Richardson's for $7.75, and a good warm overcoat for $5. Hats and boots proportionally cheap.

HONOR ROLL.

Markdale public school promotion examination, from the fourth to the fifth classes, the following are the names of the successful candidates with the standing of each. Number of marks possible to be taken 260; Number of marks necessary to be taken 130. John Thibaudeau, 145; W. J. Douglas, 140; Lizzie Kay, 134; Wm. Irving, 132. Much credit is due to M. Bowes, K. McDuff, C. Burns, A. Might, and L. Might, and if they apply themselves faithfully to their school work they will no doubt meet with success at Easter.

PRESENTATION.

Mr. N. B. Grier, who has at present retired from the teachers profession, was made the happy recipient of a nice testimonial consisting of a gentleman's beautifully ornamented China Coffee Cup and saucer, together with a mate for it for Mrs. Grier, by the pupils of Priceville, on the last day of the school year, accompanied by the following address.

Mr. N. B. Grier, Teacher,

Sir,—We the pupils of Priceville public school, upon this the last day of your labor amongst us, wish to convey to you a small token of our gratitude. We know we have many times merited your displeasure, although you have always been kind and forbearing with us; but as we are now about to separate as teacher and pupils we wish you to forgive all past offences, and have something almost constantly before you by which you can recall a kindly rememberance of us. Hence we desire you and Mrs. Grier to accept these mementoes together with our sincere wishes that you may succeed in business as well in the future as you have done in the past as a teacher. Hoping that you may both have long life and prosperity we conclude by tendering to yourself our sincere thanks for past services, and wishing you and your family a merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

Signed and presented in behalf of the pupils.

Aggie Webster,
Maggie Morehead,
Ada Summerville.

The teacher having assured the pupils that he was both very much surprised and pleased, and likewise very much affected, returned thanks to his young friends, and asked to be forgiven by those (if any) who may have thought that he had at any time punished them too severely; praised the pupils for their deligence, aptitude, and general proficiency, and deleived that they could compare favorably with any village children in the county. He also promised a more suitable reply soon in the shape of a basket of nuts. Mrs. Grier also returned thanks, Mr Riley, trustee, spoke in praise of the manifest abilities displayed by the pupils, especially in mental arithmetic. Miss E. A. Wright assistant teacher also added her quota to the enterainment of pupils and friends, indeed she seemed to be thought the moving spirit of the occasion—"the wheel within the wheel," and she eventually wound up a happy time for those interested by leading the pupils in one of her favorite school songs,

yours &c.,
Disciputus.

Dec. 23rd, 1880.

PROTON COUNCIL.

Proton Council met as per adjournment at Dundalk, at Reid's Hall, on Friday, the 3rd day of December, 1880, at 10 a. m. Members all present, J. J. Middleton, Esq., presiding. The minutes of the two previous meetings were read and adopted. Several communications were received and read; also accounts received, read and ordered to be paid. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the following grants be given for the purpose of hiring teams and drawing gravel into low places on the respective roads, viz.: side road No. 22, cons. 7 and 8, $50, Adam Boyce Overseer; side road No. 12, con 6, $50, Wm. Boyd Overseer; between lots 23 and 27, con 12, $25, including grant made last summer, James Graham Overseer; side road 280, the sum of $25, R. Irvine Overseer—authority being given to the Reeve to issue orders to Overseers.—Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following parties be appointed deputy-returning officers for the next Municipal Elections at the following places—Division No. 1, Jas. Menzies, at his house, lot 14, con 5; Division No. 2, Jas. Cavanagh, at Goodsen's Hall, Hopeville, lot 12, con. 10; Division No. 3, Peter Rose, at the house of Duncan McMillan lot 15, con. 16; Division No. 4, Jas. Fraser, at the house of Joseph Elverton, lot 33, con. 18; Division No. 5, Alex. McConnell, at the Orange Hall, Dundalk.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that a By-law on Public Morals, read a first and second time, be now read a third time and signed, sealed and engrossed on the Minutes, and numbered 211.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming that a grant of $25 be given to put gravel on the 12th side road, con. 14, and a similar sum to 280 side road, with authority to the Reeve to issue orders to Overseers.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that John Cooper be allowed to perform $10 worth of gravelling on the 37th side line, between the 9th and 10th concessions, being a part of arrears of taxes against lot 35, con. 8, to be performed under the Councillor of the Division.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the assessment of Donald Campbell be reduced $50.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved seconded by Mr. Fleming, that all taxes against lots 37 and 38, con 5, up to the end of the present year, including the amounts for which said lots were sold during the current year, be expended in opening a road between said lots and on said work being performed, the Clerk is requested to have the said taxes erased.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the statute labor commuted on the Roll in taxes against Robert Ingle, lot 19, concession 16, be erased on the said Ingle performing statute labor immediately falling timber for the same.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the statute labor assessed in taxes on lots 40 and 41, Con. 7, being the sum of $6, be expended by Mr. Agnew opposite the said lots in cutting out.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that a grant of $39 be given to pay for the erection of a bridge on the 14th con., lot 16.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the Collector receive the Pathmaster's certificate in lieu of statute labor charged on the Roll against lot 24, con. 12, as the work has been performed.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Mr. Middleton be paid the sum of $5 for gravel supplied for road improvements, and that the Reeve issue an order for the same.—Carried, Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the sum of $8 be granted to improve the Town Line of Proton and Egremont, opposite the 4th con. to supplement a similar amount from Egremont, be paid.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the petition of Wm. Nelson, David Davidson, James Robinson, Samuel Stokes, John Abbott, John Stevenson, James Menzies, Charles McConnell, James Cavanagh and 150 other ratepayers within section of the Township of Proton described in said petition, be received, and that a By-law in aid of the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway Company be introduced for $6,000, in accordance with the prayer of said petition, and be read a first time.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following accounts be paid out of the funds deposited with the Treasurer to cover the expenses incurred in voting on the By-law to grant a bonus of $8,000 to the T., G. & B. Ry.: J. Townsend, for printing and publishing railway By-law, $21; Stovell & Son for ballots, &c., $12; Messengers, $4; Clerk, $5; for five Deputy Returning Officers, $20; for polling booths, $12.50; Council for one day, $10.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Samuel McLean be refunded the taxes accruing on $50 of his assessment, being difference between his schedule and the roll. Council adjourned to meet tomorrow, Saturday, Dec. 4th, at 9 o'clock, a. m.

Dec. 4.—Council met pursuant to adjournment. Members all present. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that Deputy Returning officers on vote for bonus to T., G. & B. Ry. be paid $4 each, and that they be paid for each polling booth used for said purpose $2.50, said amounts being received from the Company.—Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the account of John Vert be paid, viz.: five months' services $62.50, selection of jurors $5, ink 30c, pens and holders 70c, mucilage and twine 10c, postage stamps $1 50.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that a grant of $10 be given for reparing the Saugeen bridge on side road 12, con. 18, it being in an unsafe condition for travel.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that widows Foster, Boyce and Davis each receive a grant of $5, as they are in poor circumstances.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Black, that Samuel Fleming receive the sum of $1 for one-half day's work—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Fleming, that the following accounts be paid: W. Kough for constable's attire $17, Stovel & Son $12, Jas. H. Little $2.16, Stovel & Son $30.25.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the Reeve issue an order in favor of A. Gillespie for $2 for reparing bridge on 12th side road, con. 6.—Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the Treasurer's account be paid, stationery and blank books, $3.68; postage, 50c; travelling exdences three times to Mount Forest to pay coupons and debentures for schools, $8; Treasurer's salary, $65.25.—Carried. Mr. Black moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Council receive their pay up to date. Carried. Mr. Boyd moved, seconded by Mr. Flemming, that the Clerk be instructed to ascertain from the County Treas. the amount of taxes turned in default against lot 19, con. 14, and when paid that the clerk have the same erased.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Clerk ascertain from Messrs. Creasor and Morrison, Owen Sound, the accountability of this Municipality to Thomas Sevil for having returned lot 20, con 10, for taxes, when the same was vested in the Crown.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Agnew, that the Clerk ascertain the arrears of taxes against lot 23, in the 12th con.—Carried. Mr. Agnew moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the Clerk be requested to erase all taxes against lot 29, con 9, for 1879, the same being paid to the Township Treasurer.—Carried. Mr. Fleming moved, seconded by Mr. Boyd, that the nominations for Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Councillors, be held at Hopeville. Council adjourned sine die.

John Vert, Tp. Clerk.

A TERRIBLE TRAGEDY.

The following are the details of the tragedy already reported; On Sunday Thomas Kennedy, living in Salem, Claredon county, intending to visit Charleston went to his father's house a short distance away to ask his mother to stay with his wife during his absence. Kennedy has only been married a year. He is about 20 years of age, intelligent, refined and highly respected. When her husband left she shut the door and sat by the window to write to her mother. Seeing in the yard Joe Barnes, colored, aged, 16, and employed by Kennedy the previous week, she asked him to bring an armful of wood. The boy had been induced by Vance Brandt and his sister Julia, both colored, aged 18 and 15 to notify them when Kennedy left the place. They thought Kennedy had a good deal of money in the house. When Joe turned to go for the wood he gave the signal to Vance to come into the yard; the latter went to the window and three times tried to get in each time he was shoved out by Mrs. Kennedy, who then opened the door and was running through the gate when Vance knocked her down with a hoe. She implored mercy, he cursed and said. "I,se been waiting to kill you for a long time," and struck her two more blows. Julia then arrived with another hoe and severed the victim's head. The murderers then robbed the house. Kennedy afterwards found his wife outside of the gate mutilated, cold, and stiff, with her head almost severed in twain, the entire cranium cut off from ear to ear, leaving the brain scattered around. Several colored people have been arrested on suspicion but were discharged for want of evidence. Barnes was finally arrested and confessed as above. Vance and Julia were thereupon arrested. The horrible character of the murder has created intense indignation. One hundred and fifty white men and fifty colored men assembled to punish the murderers. The negroes begged to burn prisoners. This was refused. Halters were fastened to the limb of a tree, a cart was placed under the limb and the prisoners were ordered to mount. Barnes begged to be allowed to pray, saying that he had never prayed before and never expected to again. Nothing was said by the others, a groan and "Lord have mercy," from Vance. Handkerchiefs being tied over their faces, the cart was pushed away and the trio were soon dangling in the air. Their victim was enciente with twins and was near her confinement.

MARRIED

At the residence of the brides parents, on the 30th inst., by the Rev. Y. W. Robertson, of Guelph, Rev. Paul Flint, of Toronto, to Lizzie, eldest daughter of Thos. Kells' Esq. of Artemesia.

BIRTHS.

In this village, on the morning of the 29th inst., the wife of Mr. James Philcox, of a daughter.

Executors Notice.

THE Executors of the Estate of the late John and Jane Gillon, of Artemesia, hereby give notice to all persons indebted to the said estate, to pay such debt forthwith and save costs. And all persons having any just claims against the said estate are requested to send in such claims, stating their nature, before the 15th day of January, 1881, to John Wright, Flesherton P.O.

JOHN WRIGHT, GEORGE BUSKIN, Executors.

Artemesia, Dec. 23rd, 1880.

3,000 Cords Wood WANTED.

THE undersigned is prepared to contract for cutting and hauling cords of wood from his farm 21 miles of Markdale, to be delivered at the lot in small lots to suit contractors, particulars see

C. M. GOULD, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 30, 1880.

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, Plastering and Carpentry promptly attended to. Stonework a specialty. Estimates on all work, satisfaction guaranteed. Residence on Brown and Sproule Streets, Markdale.

December 31, 1880.

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, lot 178, con. 2, west, Township of Artemesia, one Dark Bay Horse. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses and take him away.

SAMUEL WADE.

Dec. 15, 1880.

FLESHERTON Harness Shop

THE Subscriber having purchased the business lately carried on by Mr. Damude, begs to inform the public that he has

REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE, where he is prepared to furnish

ALL KINDS of HARNESS

usually found in a

First-Class Establishment

And at prices to suit the times, and by

THE BEST OF MATERIAL AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of

WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c.

constantly on hand.

COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

Call and satisfy yourselves. the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec., 1880.

Mortgage Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTIES IN THE TOWNSHIPS OF Artemesia and Glenelg.

UNDER and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by William John Covey and John Hewitt, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in default of payment of the monies secured, by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale

By Public Auction, AT RUTLEDGE'S HOTEL, In the Village of Markdale,

ON

Thursday, the 13th day of Jan'y, 1881, at twelve o'clock, noon, the following parcels of land:—

1. The centre portion of lot number 11, in the eleventh concession of the said township of Artemesia, containing fifty acres, more or less, and being all the residue of said lot not heretofore granted to Robert Buchanan by letters patent, dated the 22nd day of June, 1874, and to Thomas Gilbert, by letters patent dated the 22nd day of June, 1867, which said residue is more fully set out in the patent thereof from the Crown, to the said William John Covey, as by reference thereto will more fully appear. On the lands are said to be a Frame Barn and House, and Young Orchard; 35 acres are cleared, and the soil good. This farm is on a good road about five miles from Markdale.

2. Lot number 22, in the 10th concession of the said township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about acres are cleared and the residue free from stumps. On the premises are said to be a Log House and Barn, and the soil is a loam. This is a very fine farm.

Terms—Ten per cent. at the time of sale, fifteen per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at seven per cent. per annum, or if additional satisfactory security be given no cash need be paid, or terms may be arranged in any reasonable way to suit purchasers. For further particulars, apply to ROBERT DAVIS, Auctioneer, Flesherton. Or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLE, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec., 1880.

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to inform you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past. Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 1880.

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son.

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries

BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY.

Don't Forget the Place.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880.

VOL. I.—NO.

Johnson's Indian Blood Syrup

77 W. 3d St., New York

CURES

BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Mortgage Sale

Marriage Licenses

AT THE REVERE HOUSE

MARKDALE.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL

J. G. Sing.

James J. White,

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 16. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1880. WHOLE NO. 6

...gle Standard
...UBLISHED
...DAY MORNING
...t the early mails.
... Foreign and Provincial ...gence, County Business, ...s and an Instructive

$1.50 in three months, ...nd of the year. No pa... ...until all arrearages are ...ption of the publisher ...g papers without paying ...onsible for the subscrip... ...mply with the rules.

ADVERTISING:

...	$50 00
...	27 00
...	15 00
...	8 00
...	4 00
...	50
...first insertion..	15
...t insertion......	75
...e, first insertion..	25
...nt insertion......	8
...insertion per line	2
...t insertion...

...lines to be reckoned by ...measured by a scale of ...dvertisements without ...will be published till for... ...ordingly. All transitory ...t be in the office of pub... ...clock on the Thursday ...their publication.

...UTLEDGE, Proprietor.

...NAL & BUSINESS ...ECTORY.

Medical.

...oule & Carter, ...urgeons, Accoucheurs &c. ...ice, Hall: residence at ... 17, 1880. 1-y

...PURDY, ...SURGEON, ACCOUCH... 6-tf.

Legal.

...R. Wilkes, ...Law. - Owen Sound. ...'s building, over Robin... ...Street. 1-y

...t & Frost, ...S, AND ATTORNEYS-AT ...tors in Chancery, Convey ...n Sound, have resumed at ...ce open every Thursday, as ... J. W. FROST, LL. B. ...Attorney. 1

...es Masson, ...ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, ...hancery, Owen Sound. 1-y

...nes Lamon, ...AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN ...otary Public, &c. ...lowest rates on personal ...Lands bought and sold. ...roduced free of commis... ...UNDALK. ...1880. 1

...rs & Land Agents.

...m. Brown, ...ARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., ...in B. R. &c. ...in all its branches promptly ...arefully executed. ...Lend on Real Estate se... ...17, 1880. 1-y

...L. Smith, ...AGENT AND DEALER IN ...ck, Williamsford Station. 1

...ander Brown, ...riage Licenses, Fire and ...Agent. Commissioner ...onveyancer and Licensed ...unty of Grey. Farmers, ...Land Sales. Punctually at... ...ges made very moderate. ...17, 1880. 1-y

...e Corbet, Jr., ...AND GENERAL AGENT ...Money to Loan at low ...Principal payable at the ...years, and interest half year... ...principal and interest repay... ...of desirable Improved Farms 1-y

...G. Sing, ...AND PROVINCIAL LAND ...raughtsman and Valuator, ...dale. Having purchased ...Surveyor Charles Rankin's ...original Field Notes, Plans, ...ctions, &c., of all his Surveys ...last fifty-five years, I am ...Surveys in strict accord... ...Profiles and Estimates ...ls, Plans and Specifications ...dges, furnished on applica... ...Loan at 8 per cent interest. ...or left with G. J. BLYTH, ...be promptly attended to. 1-y

...try.

...mes J. White, ...Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, ...AT THE REVERE HOUSE, ...e, on the last Wednesday in ...en he will be prepared to per... ...ns required upon the mouth ...tisfactory manner, and upon 1-y

Hotels.

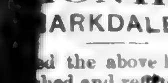
...ION HOUSE ...ARKDALE.

...d the above hotel and thor... ...hed and refitted it, the trav... ...ll find every accommodation. ...t of liquors and cigars kept. ...Careful hostler. ...Proprietor ...1-y

...AL HOTEL, ...EAFORD, Ont. ...RK, ... PROPRIETORS. ...modation for the travelling ...s well stocked with the ...nd Liquors and the best ...nd from all trains. 1-y

...ERCIAL HOTEL. ...CEVILLE, Ont. ...commodious Sample Rooms: ...ome, &c. The Bar and larder ...with the best the market af... ...nd attentive Hostler's. ...S. ATKINSON, Proprietor. 8

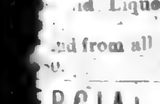
...RGE WILSON,



...TCHER

...kdale, next door to Expositor ...elivered at any house in town. ...880. 1-y

...p and Cattle.



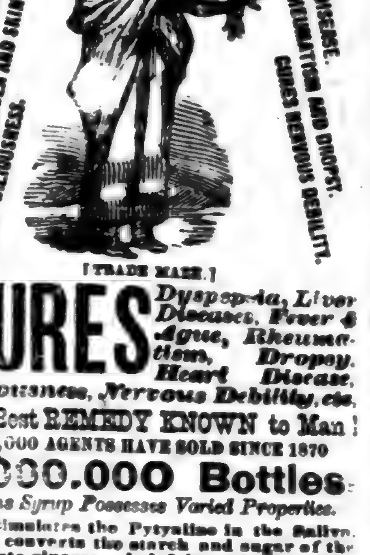
...having good fat Sheep or ...ell, will find it to their advant... ...ere names and address at Mc... ...tel, Revere House, Markdale, ...gned are still on the war path, ...vely pay the highest prices. C. W. & A. SPEERS. ...1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY, 77 W. 3d St., New York City

LATE OF JERSEY CITY.



[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9.000.000 Bottles

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Pytyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pytyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES,	$1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES,	50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. BORISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

JAY GOULD, last year, invested $150,000 in a residence and grounds at Irvington, on the Hudson river. At an early hour on Saturday morning flames utterly destroyed the conservatory, a Moorish structure, four hundred and eighty feet long, filled with the most rare and valuable plants. The pecuniary loss is $150,000, which is unusual.

GENERAL.

THE bachelor world of Paris is interested in the expected arrival of a Mexican nabob, Mr. Ichibisque, this month. He was born in the Basque country, began life as a cabin boy, and has made millions in the diamond trade. He takes with him his daughters.

THOUGH the people can believe seriously in the possibility of tunnelling under the sea for a railway from England to France, the Southeastern Railway Company in England have been boring away for several weeks at Dover. They are now tunnelling a gallery under the sea through the chalk beds, and the work is to be continued in a year.

MONS DE LESSEPS read a paper some time ago before the French Academy, stating that he believed he had discovered the actual place where the Israelites crossed the Red Sea. A French priest thinking his arguments conclusive, is appealing for funds for dredging purposes, in order to bring to light any remains of Pharaoh's army which may be under the sand.

DR. SCHWEINFURTH, the Soudan traveller, has published at Vienna a letter, just received from Cairo, which stigmatizes in strong terms the recent increase in the Egyptian slave trade. The resumption of the traffic dates from the deposition of the ex-Khedive and the retirement of Sir Samuel Baker; but it has increased more especially since Col. Gordon has left. In spite of the English and French Consulates, there is every week a wholesale importation of little negro children into Jeddah, and there is no prospect of this lucrative traffic soon coming to an end.

LIONS roar most in stormy weather. It was observed that when a large menagerie wintered two years ago at a place where about that time snow fell nearly every day, the lions were constantly roaring, for as soon as one began the rest all followed suit. Some years ago there was a large menagerie exhibiting in South Shields (England) market-place, and during evening service in a neighbouring church the lions threw out their deep sonorous tones, and this mingling with the chanting of the psalms and fine tones of the organ had a remarkable effect.

SOME bunko swindlers at Cincinnati put a green farmer through the usual process of meeting a forgotten acquaintance, who had drawn a prize in a lottery; of going with this "steerer" to the den of the rascals, and being there induced to invest $50 in the bunko game. But at the point where he was expected to retire a quiet loser he drew a revolver, and declared, with many rural oaths, that he would have his money back or take away life in the place. He got his money.

THIRTY-FIVE years ago when Capt. Stone made Moundville, W. Va., his home, he planted two seeds, informing his family that he would like to raise wood for his coffin. Only one seed sprouted, and in the course of thirty years became a fine tree. During a severe wind storm eighteen months ago the tree fell. It was sent to a Pittsburg firm to be cut into lumber, and in due time returned to the Captain in the shape of a handsome coffin; and now, to complete the story, its owner has just been buried in it.

IT is many years since either party in England has had the benefit of a political salon. The Duchess of Manchester has established herself in London for the winter, and intends to make her house the focus of politics and the place where distinguished men of all shades of politics can meet and talk over the events. She possesses all the qualities necessary for successfully carrying out this idea. The campaign was recently inaugurated by a dinner, at which Lord Beaconsfield, Lord Hartington, Lord Dufferin, and Lord Odo Russell met, and were joined in the evening by a few choice political spirits, including the Secretary for Ireland.

MATTERS DRAMATIC.

SHAKESPEARE fixed the age of Juliet at 14, but on the stage the maturity of actresses capable of playing the part makes an alteration of the text necessary. San Francisco, however, is to have a fourteen-year-old Juliet in the person of a juvenile prodigy.

"MICHEL STROGOFF," the spectacular drama recently put upon the stage at the Chatelet, in Paris, has cost over $90,000 to produce, and the nightly expenses are $1,5000. As the house only holds $2,250, it is obvious that the piece must run for over a year, if it is to be a profitable speculation.

THE Passion Play performed at Oberammergau during the past season realized $80,000. A balance of $29,000, after deducting expenses, was divided between the performers. The person who presented the Saviour got the largest share, namely, $250. Judas realized more than the thirty pieces of silver. The disciples were paid $100 each, and the women of the drama realized very little.

POOR YORICK'S SKULL.—Mr. Florence relates that the elder Booth, while playing Hamlet in a Virginia town, found himself without the important skull. A little darkey volunteered to get one. When Booth was leaving the theatre he felt some-one tugging at his coat tail. He looked around and saw the little nigger. "What will you have, sonny?" "Please, say, I want daddy's skull, say." "Daddy's skull?" "Yes, sah. Dat used to be de ole man's headpiece afore de mewel kicked him, an' mammy'll lick me to rags if I lose it."

MADAMOISELLE'S LACE.—I once saw in Paris a magnificent stage costume, made for Mme. Judic. On the skirt was the loveliest tablier of rich lace I ever beheld. The dress was displayed on account of that lace; and that lace was worth, perhaps, 25f. For it was paper, wonderfully stamped, and represented chains of fuchsias, and looked just as much a piece of real lace as a Paris diamond by night looks an old mine gem. Parisian actresses wear that paper lace a great deal; it is tough, soft, and very effective. To wear a costly lot of lace, which may be ruined in a night, when $5 worth of lace paper looks as well, is considered the height of folly by intelligent foreigners.

PUTTING OUT THE SUN.—Foote relates the following as having occurred at the Market Drayton Theatre. The company were performing the "Pizarro," when, during the hymn to the sun, the lights being placed too close to the transparency representing that luminary, it, unfortunately, took fire; the manager, who was playing the high priest, observed the occurence just after singing the words, "Oh power supreme," and, in the utmost consternation, cried out to the stage manager, "The sun's on fire," then proceeding with the hymn, "Oh power supreme," &c., "—— your eyes, put out the sun, I say." The sun, however, continued to blaze; the actors, notwithstanding their fears, were convulsed with laughter. The conflagration being at last extinguished, the play proceeded.

FIDGETY Lady—"But what am I to do! I can't ride with my back to the engine." Insolent youth—"Better speak to the conductor. He'll turn the train round to oblige you."

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 76,

Uxbridge, Ont.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

Dream Pedlary.

If there were dreams to sell,
What would you buy?
Some cost a passing bell,
Some a light sigh
That shakes from life's fresh crown
Only a rose-leaf down.
If there were dreams to sell,
Merry and sad to tell,
And the crier rang the bell,
What would you buy?

My Rights.

"Yes God has made me a woman,
And I am content to be
Just what he meant, not reaching out
For other things, since He Who knows me best and loves me most has ordered this for me.

"A woman, to live my life out
In quiet, womanly ways,
Hearing the far-off battle,
Seeing as through a haze
The crowding struggling world of men fight through their busy days.

I am not strong or valiant,
I would not join the fight,
Or jostle with crowds in the highways
To sully my garments white;
But I have rights as a woman, and here I claim my right.

"The right of a rose to bloom
In its own sweet separate way,
With none to question the perfumed pink
And none to utter a nay,
If it reaches a root or points a thorn, as even a rose-tree may.

"The right of the lady-birch to grow,
To grow as the Lord shall please,
By never a sturdy oak rebuked,
Denied nor sun nor breeze,
For all its pliant slenderness, kin to the stronger trees.

"The right to a life of my own—
Not merely a casual bit
Of somebody else's life, flung out
That, taking hold of it,
I may stand as a cipher does, after a numeral writ.

"The right to gather and glean
What food I need and can
From the garnered store of knowledge
Which man has heaped for man;
Taking with free hands freely and after an ordered plan.

"The right! ah, best and sweetest!
To stand all undismayed,
Whenever sorrow or want or sin
Call for a woman's aid;
With none to cavil or question, by never a look gainsaid.

"I do not ask for a ballot;
Though very life were at stake,
I would beg for the nobler justice
That men for manhood's sake
Should give ungrudgingly, nor withhold till I must fight and take.

"The fleet foot and the feeble foot
Both seek the self-same goal,
The weakest soldier's name is writ
On the great army-roll;
And God who made man's body strong, made too the woman's soul."

Vindictive and Jealous Character of the Czar's New Wife—Stories of Her Vengeance—Favorite and Czarina.

Says Le Voltaire: It was some time in 1865. The governor-general of the Baltic provinces, as representative of the Czar, gave a ball to the aristocracy in his superb palace at Riga. Nothing was lacking which could add to the brilliancy of the entertainment. The governor-general received the guests (among whom were the greatest nobility of the Baltic provinces), in the great Ritersaal, or Knight's Hall a d wife stood at his side.

The governor-general at that time was his high excellence, the general-in chief A——, the emperor's aide-de-camp. His wife was the eldest sister of the woman upon whose lips now hang the destinies of the empire of the czars. I speak of the celebrated Princess Dolgorouki, now the legitimate wife of Alexander II.

I was invited to that ball, and it was then that I beheld for the first time Mme. A——, who before the advent of her sister had occupied the same position at the imperial court. Tall, well-made, of very delicate complexion, with magnificent chestnut hair, she was still what is commonly termed a beautiful woman. Only, her eyes, which were of a deep blue, were nearly always half closed. She suffers from a disease of the eyes.

Maid of honor to the empress, it was at Peterhof, the magnificent imperial palace near St. Petersburg, that she had first attracted the notice of the Czar Alexander II. It is said that on one occasion the princess, feeling fatigued after a promenade, sat down upon a bench in the park. But she had forgotten her parasol, and the sun incommoded her. Then the czar, like a gallant gentleman, placed himself before her and sheltered her with the shadow of his lofty figure.

"Are you now satisfied?" he asked, smilingly. "A great empire now protects you in my person against the fire of noonday."

"No, sire," replied the princess, "for now I have two suns before me, instead of one, which is too much for any mortal to bear."

Nevertheless it was not she, but her younger sister, who was finally destined to touch the sovereign's heart.

A growing jealousy between the sisters finally took such a shape that the two consanguineous rivals finally came to blows.

The Czar himself witnessed in silence and on more than one occasion these scenes of violence in which the two Amazons fought in single combat.

In order to put an end to so serious an antagonism, which was even manifested in public, he married the elder sister to the general, whose rapid march to high fortune was assured by this union.

The new Czarina is now 34 years old. She is still one of the most beautiful women of the imperial court. She is reproached with being boundlessly ambitious, mercilessly vindictive, and devoid of all respect even for her lofty position. Many are the courtiers whose position was ruined through having incurred her displeasure.

Especially notable is the case of the Prince O——, who owes his disgrace to her. The princess had ordered a magnificent pocket-mirror, mounted in gold, and above which was fixed an imperial crown. Whenever she looked at herself in this mirror the crown appeared exactly as if encircling her brows. One day, while she was showing this mirror to the countess, who admired the magnificence of its workmanship, Prince O—— could not restrain himself from asking the princess whether the splendid object was not a present from her sister, wife of Gen. A——; for, if he were not greatly mistaken, he had seen in her possession just such a mirror when she was still a maid of honor.

Next day, by imperial order, Prince O—— was sent to Siberia to inspect the condition of the troops stationed near the Chinese frontier.

Dr. Karell, physician to the czar, also owed his disgrace to the princess.

The emperor, greatly worried and suffering, had made a voyage to Finland without the princess. He remained in that country about fifteen days. When he came back to St. Petersburg he felt much better and less nervous. He also looked a great deal better.

The emperor asked his private physician, Dr. Karell, what this remarkable amelioration was due to. Now, Karell is a [illegible] of the government of Esthonia. A rough, blunt man, and rather uneducated, he was never distinguished for the delicacy of his observations.

"Why the cause is very simple, indeed," he said to the Czar.

"Come, now: what is it?"

"Your majesty is better simply because you left your lieutenant-in-petticoats behind you!"

The czar repeated this to the princess. A few days after Karell lost his office at the court.

Count Schouvaloff himself had some disagreeable experience of the beautiful favorite's resentment.

He had the agreeable but dangerous gift of making puns. And it was generally he who furnished the imperial court with its supply of puns.

So long as the princess was not punned upon, everything went along smoothly; but one day the count dared to make, to his own cost, a biting allusion to the hands of the Princess Dolgorouki, whose name in Russian signifies Longhand.

The high spirited princess determined that he should be punished at any cost, if only by way of making an example.

He was banished from the court where he wielded an immense influence, under pretext of sending him him as ambassador to London, a post by no means to his liking.

He is now received into favor again; but he has never been able to regain the great position he formerly held.

Purchased Beauty.

A lady correspondent who has patronized the New York "bazar of beauty," an institution devoted to beautifying the female face and figure, says the result is simply this:—No woman can paint without detection. Devotees of fashion may just as well abandon the contrary opinion. I looked into the mirror on getting out of the chair, and hardly recognized myself. My face was greatly changed. My eyes shone, my cheeks glowed, and there was a brightness and piquancy that had not been there when I entered. But this, mind you, was in a somewhat dimly-lighted room, where the work was softened and shaded. Ten minutes afterward I met myself in a street-mirror, under the full glare of a noonday sun. Well, I was simply disgusted. The painted surface looked no more like human skin than it did like sole leather; the black around my eyes was like strokes of charcoal; my lips had the unnatural red of scarlet ink. I walked up to the glass and viewed my artificial countenance with a feeling of repulsion. It reminded me of some execrable portrait done in water colours. I hurried into a store and bought a veil, with which I covered the beautification. Then I went straightway home, and scrubbed my face until every trace of foreign substance was gone. My experience convinced me of the utter folly of paint as a beautifier, for by no possibility can it be put on without showing exactly what it is. Dry powder, and mighty little of that, is all that I advise any woman to put on her face. If nature has not imparted beauty of complexion, there is no use trying to make up the deficiency by artifice. It is far better to turn our ingenuity toward wearing our hair becomingly, for in that direction a great deal of comeliness may be commanded. But let pigments alone, unless you are content to be pretty in a ghastly kind of way, and at the sacrifice of all outward indications of warm flesh and blood."

A Frightful Mouse.

A short time since an elderly lady of this city startled the household with a piercing shriek and the information that there was a mouse in her pocket. Some one rushed to her rescue, hastily assisted her to divest herself of her wrapper, firmly grasping the mouth of the pocket to prevent the escape of the dangerous animal. The garment was then turned over to the man of the house, and he, armed with a club, proceeded to the back yard to dispatch the offender. The pocket was opened gradually, but no mouse appeared. Finally, gaining courage, he ventured to investigate, and found the cause of all the excitement to be a pocket tape measure, from which the spring had become detached and had unwound with a whirr.

Princess Louise's Tart.

The Princess Louise is a lady of much good taste, with a large fund of common sense. The supervision of her household affairs is upon the model characteristic of all well-appointed English households. A gentleman who has a weakness for apricot tart dined with her a short time before she left for England. To his delight, apricot tart was included in the menu, and he expressed his fondness for it.

"I am so glad you like it," replied the hostess; "because I made it myself. Let me give you the recipe," and with genial interest she detailed its ingredients. "Remember, when you get home, to tell Mrs. J——, that apricot tart should always have an upper crust."

Waifs.

SOME women are like shot-guns. They would attract no attention if it were not for their bangs.

THE new style of fall bonnet may be photographed by slamming a ripe tomato against a board fence.

AN old fellow now under the control of his fourth wife always alludes to the three departed ones as his "spare ribs."

"THAT fellow is just like a telescope," said a dashing New York girl. "You can draw him out, see through him, and shut him up again."

AN old lady who has several unmarried daughters feeds them on fish diet, because it is rich in phosphorus, and phosphorus is the essential thing in making matches.

THE young woman who had many suitors, and from the time she was 16 until she was 21 rejected them all, referred in her later life to that period as her "declining years."

A FRENCH writer translated "Frailty, thy name is woman," to read "Mlle. Frailty is the name of the lady." It is likely that he had the slender Bernhardt in his mind's eye.

DRAWING-ROOM episode: Affable Duchess, to amateur tenor, who has just been warbling M. Gounod's last—"Charming! charming! You must really get somebody to introduce you to me!"

MR. JAMES BOWEN, 71, and Miss Cassie Cassel, 68, were married in Washington the other day. Fifty years ago they were lovers, but the bride's parents broke up the engagement because they were too young.

A CERTAIN little damsel, being aggravated past endurance by her big brother, fell down upon her knees and cried: "O, Lord! bless my brother Tom. He lies, he steals, he swears. All boys do; us girls don't. Amen."

AN actress has just finished dressing herself for her part, and is going on the stage, when her mother bursts upon her in tears with an open letter in her hand. "My dear child, do you know what has happened? Your sister is dead." "Oh, my, how can you say it—how can you say it just when I have made up my face, and can't cry? Why couldn't you have waited till after the third act?"

Fashion Notes.

DRIVING gloves made of a leopard's claw are a novelty.

THE lambrequin effect is much used in winter costumes.

THE newest turban for the little ones is called the Lorne.

THE genuine India shawl is the one wrap always in fa

HANDSOME tablecloths and napkins have gay borders and fringe.

FURNITURE effects are creeping into costumes and are much admired.

BROWN plush sacques are shown which look almost as rich as seal-skin.

LONG pins of jet, shell, or gold, and tiny Japanese fans are worn in the hair.

RED, brown, and gendarme blue satin petticoats have appeared for winter wear.

THE skirts of skating-suits are made of striped goods. Jerseys are worn with them.

MICA is now used in the soles of boots and shoes. A thin layer is placed under the insole.

WHITE nun's cloth and camel's hair are made into evening dresses, trimmed with satin de Lyon.

THE fashionable bonnet is smaller than ever, without lace trimmings, and perched on the back of the head.

COLOURED diamonds, set side by side with perfectly white ones, are now the fashion for the costlier forms of jewellery.

MANY of the richest violet brocades have the flowers edged, ribbed, and veined with gold, jet, pearl, and iridescent beads.

SWANSDOWN is much used this season as a trimming for evening dresses, and for opera and ball wraps. It trims plush beautifully.

CRAPE tulle is the latest material manufactured for ball dresses. It is lighter than crape, and less transparent than tulle, and made in all colours.

THE latest style in mourning stationery consists of octavo-sized cards, scored so as to be folded in the centre, and bordered in heavy black lines.

SOME beautiful plush dresses have been seen this season, combined with faille in evening colours. They are exceedingly handsome on slight persons.

THE new style decollete is a revival of the old shape used when ladies wore what were called baby waists, the waists being cut straight across at the top.

INKSTANDS of hammered brass are superseding those of fire-gilt metal, the colour being found better and the work being much finer. The designs are usually classic.

BONNET-STRINGS are out of fashion, says a Paris correspondent. Gather ye roses while ye may, young ladies, and wear out the wide plush strings in which you look so well now.

A DRESSMAKER, who can make an exceedingly stylish dress and have the arrangements so intricate that it takes the lady who wears it about half an hour to find the pocket must needs be an artist.

THERE are twenty-two different shades in silk hosiery. Ladies who can not suit themselves out of the present assortment select black ones. The coloured cotton hosiery is as handsome in design as the silk.

ALL arrangements of lace and muslin to be worn around the neck are fashionable, and a handsome and a pretty lace fichu is all that is necessary to convert a rich street dress or afternoon costume into an evening toilet.

SMALL chemisettes of black silk lined with black wadded silk are made to be worn under jackets during the cold weather. They are fastened to the collar of the jacket by means of a ribbon and tied around the waist with a ribbon.

WHITE petticoats have been abandoned and the coloured balmorals are many pretty styles, cashmere and silk are the popular material, though plush is very popular. The silk skirts are generally lined with flannel and trimmed with lace.

SHRIMPS are now the favourite ornament of the ladies, pigs having had their day. Elephants are no longer admired. Shrimps now appear in pearl and gold, coral and ruby, as brooches, bracelets, necklaces, earrings, lockets, and shoe-buckles.

A GREAT deal of money may be spent on black dresses this season. Jet passementeries and fringes and coloured bead buttons, fringe and lace combine to make them elegant, but costly. They are trimmed more richly than coloured dresses.

The President Elect.

Of course everybody is curious about the home life of the President-elect. The Cincinnati Enquirer, which is not a Republican paper, says that "he generally rises from seven to half-past, and breakfasts en famille at about eight. After breakfast the morning mails are opened, the newspapers are hastily scanned for telegraphic news, and important matters receive attention, the General retiring with his secretary and short-hand amanuensis to his private office, or 'snuggery,' for the purpose. After that, if the morning trains from the East or Cleveland bring visitors, the General receives and entertains them. Dinner is the same as breakfast with regard to instruction and amusement, it making no difference whether the visitors who partake of it are high or low, Senators or soldiers, grand or simple. 'The afternoon," says his friend Major Swaim, 'usually brings more visitors and mails. After supper the General devotes considerable time to the thorough perusal of the New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and other leading papers. There are always telegrams and letters by the dozen to answer. General Garfield has two short-hand men as secretaries, and he dictates his replies to letters and telegrams to them. This enables him to do a great deal of corresponding work in a short time. Of course very important and particularly private letters are written by myself or the General in person. Every one is free to go to church or stay at home, to pray or to let it alone as he pleases. There is but one autocrat in this house, and that is the General's mother, and she has too much good sense to interfere in such matters. There is one thing I forgot to mention, and that is that at meals or the family reunions we sometimes get the General deeply interested in some theme, and get him to talking about it. You know he is a brilliant conversationalist, and these talks often almost take the shape of lectures. They are very interesting and wonderfully instructive, for the General's mind is a vast store-house of knowledge. He has a wonderful pigeon-hole memory. He can devour a book in an hour or so, retain the cream of its contents, and tell you all about it in the most entertaining manner years afterward. He is very fond of ruling by moral suasion, and he governs his family accordingly. His children are very fond of him, and look upon him as their bosom-friend as well as parent. His boys will come to him when home, and talk and counsel with him about their books and studies, or their plays or other occupations, just as freely as they do with each other. The result is that they are all manly and frank in their demeanor, partaking much of his character in this respect.'"

The Priest and His Umbrella.

A reporter of the New York Herald tells the story of the effective work for Sunday closing done on a certain Sunday at Bergen Point, New Jersey, by a Catholic clergyman, Father Killeran, with the aid of his umbrella. In his account of an interview the reporter represents Father Killeran as saying of the saloon which he found open in violation of the law, and in which he spilled all the beer and whiskey on the premises:—"I won't have any Sunday skulking and getting drunk. They'd better make up their minds to that at once. I heard a lot of them in Pat Dillon's place last Sunday, and I went in. They didn't expect me, and were having what they considered a fine time. I had a better one, though. You should have seen their coat-tails trying to sweep the flies off the ceiling the minute they clapped eyes on me. I only had an umbrella. I have a blackthorn at home—a beauty! It'll make four lumps on a head for every one that is on the stick. I never thought much of that umbrella before last Sunday, but I wouldn't part with it now for a horse. It served me valiantly. Well, when we got through we were thoroughly satisfied with each other—the umbrella and myself—and we went home to dinner. I made a complaint next morning, and I had Pat Dillon fined. I'll serve the others the same way. I won't make fish of one and flesh of another. They'll have to stop this business, every one of them. In the future I am going the rounds regularly, like a policeman, and the fellows I catch had better look out for themselves. Most of these lazy loafers would rather sit down and sell whisky than do an honest day's work. I'll try to keep them in mind of whose day the Sabbath is."

SIR FREDERICK ROBERTS will be the lion of London for some weeks to come. Fetes and presentations are in preparation for him without limit, and the patriotic corporation has already killed the fatted calf on his account and ordered a richly Damascened sword in a gold scabbard for presentation to him. The freedom of the city is also in preparation, and a jewelled casket of surpassing beauty to hold it is in course of manufacture.

Journalism in England.

As a factor in politics, journalism is admittedly ... [illegible]

In no country, perhaps, more than in Great Britain does the press bear a closer, equal to, if it does not exceed, that of the legislative body itself. "The Fourth Estate" as it has been called, might without exaggeration, if influence be taken as the test of precedence, rank as "the first," for neither the Sovereign nor the House of Lords, can for a moment be compared in respect to the power of swaying public opinion with the press. The House of Commons, even, owes, not its existence indeed, but most certainly its composition to a very marked extent to the influence of the press. Speechifying, such as influence to such a great degree, the politics both of this country and the United States has been led to in Great Britain, the reason being that the press has so developed, the energetic push in journalism is so marked, that there is really no room for the political oratory of the "stump" species that is adopted where the sphere of influence of the journal is more circumscribed. A greater audience, for one thing, is commanded by the man who speaks through the columns of the paper than by him who meets an assemblage in any given local place, and for another, it is far easier for a man to arrange his thoughts and array his arguments in the retirement of his study than when nervously facing a composite assemblage.

There is, however, one marked feature that characterizes the influence of journalism in the mother-country that only requires time to develop itself here, and, indeed, in every colony, and that is the power exercised in politics by the provincial press. On more than one occasion in the recent political history of England the country papers have not only shown greater judgment in forecasting the result of elections, but have contributed in a very much greater extent than the metropolitan journals to bringing about the result. We are accustomed here to think almost exclusively of the power of the great leading London dailies as giving utterance to the dicta of the two political parties, but the idea is a mistaken one. Beyond question they are ably conducted, and there is a degree of enterprise shown by them that is certainly not surpassed by any other journals in the world; but it would astonish some of our readers if we were to tell them that the provincial papers exhibit a degree of enterprise which is not one whit behind the metropolitan journals themselves. Of course the figures representing the circulation of the latter are astounding. For example; the Times has a daily circulation of 100,000, the Daily News 170,000, and the Daily Telegraph the almost incredible number of 250,000. But here is the other, the provincial side of these statements, such facts as the following:

The circulation of the Newcastle Chronicle is 40,000 a day, while the Edinburgh Scotsman, the Glasgow News, the Manchester Guardian, the Leeds Mercury, and the Dublin Freeman's Journal have a still larger circulation. It is worth noting, that seven daily newspapers are supported in Liverpool, five in Manchester, four in Birmingham, three in Glasgow, six in Belfast, and five in Dublin.

The first-rate provincial newspapers are little behind the best of the London journals in respect of enterprise. Most of these have their special wires, together with a reporting staff in London for the collection of information. It is computed that the outlay entailed by a special wire, including the pay of the special employees requisite, does not fall far short of $10,000 a year. Moreover, a daily paper cannot gain a place in the front rank of the provincial press without obtaining all of Reuter's telegrams, which, to members of the Press Association, cost $1470, and to outsiders $1617, per annum. Moreover, in a large shipping and manufacturing town, such as Liverpool, Manchester, Leeds, Birmingham, or Sheffield, it is necessary to contract for daily telegraphed reports of New York prices. Reuter's telegrams, indeed, form but a small part of the metropolitan news supplied by the leading provincial journals through the Press Association. Parliamentary news, either fully or briefly reported, and general news, summarized from the daily papers, in London, or collected in all parts of the kingdom by the agents of the association, form components of the mass of matter regularly forwarded. London correspondence is not supplied by the Press Association, but each of the chief provincial journals maintains for this specific purpose at least one member of its editorial staff in the metropolis. The London correspondence of the Manchester Guardian is an example of the best work done in this direction, and it not unfrequently anticipates much that appears in the London press. The Western Morning News, printed at Plymouth, has also been noted for its London correspondence, a great quantity of which appears every day. The Newcastle Chronicle, to take another example, maintains two London offices, one as the headquarters of its special telegraphic wire, the other as a city office for commercial intelligence. The Scotsman and Glasgow news are both printed on Walter presses, like those used in the Times office, and the second journal has two private wires to London, besides special arrangements with the railway companies.

It will thus be seen how great the energy is that has been infused into the provincial press of Great Britain, and how great must be the influence exerted by it. The day is coming, when, also, the provincial paper will rise to the exercise of a similar influence, and when the day of "organs of party" in the metropolis will be comparatively speaking, past. That day will be when, and only when, with the growing prosperity and development of the country, newspaper enterprise will grow, until it asserts itself here as in Great Britain, and other old countries, where it is not gagged, claiming to be recognized not only as a means of instructing the people, but as a very powerful element in their Government.

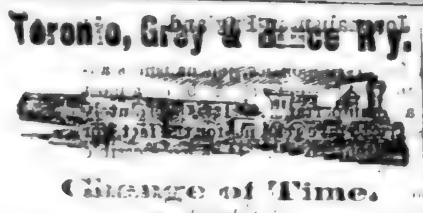
Some soft places in English Clerical Life.

The really greatest prizes of English clerical life, from a pecuniary point of view, are the head masterships of the great public schools. Those of Eton and Harrow are worth from $25,000 to $30,000 a year, and those of Westminster, Winchester, Rugby Charter House, and Merchant Taylors are worth from $12,000 to $20,000 a year, including the spacious abodes attached to them. The heads of colleges at Oxford and Cambridge do not, for the most part, receive nearly so much. The master of Trinity College, Cambridge, the "boss" college, has about $15,000 a year, and the Dean of Christ Church, who is also Dean of the Cathedral Church, over $10,000. The next most lucrative position in Oxford is President of Magdalen, which is worth about $10,000, Magdalen being a very wealthy college. The Provost of Trinity College, Dublin, has a separate estate allotted to him, estimated to be worth some $30,000 a year; but [illegible] year [illegible] of the sum. Most of the other headships at the English universities vary from $4,000 to $7,500 a year. The college property is managed by an officer called the Bursar, who has an office in college, and is one of the Fellows. The revenue is, for the most part, derived from land scattered over all parts of England. Brasenose, which, after Magdalen, is the richest college in Oxford, has a good deal of London property. Endowments since 1850 have been comparatively very slender, until Keble College, founded about seven years ago received some heavy donations. College property is entirely distinct from university property. At Oxford the university property is considerable; at Cambridge it is small.

A BOY ate a bar of soap on a wager, and then drank a lot of soda to take the taste out of his mouth, and the way he spouted ends and soap bubbles for the next half hour baffled the skill of fourteen doctors, who madly performed about him, and having been informed of the cause of the lad's suffering, [illegible] now [illegible]

AN invention which will considerably influence [illegible] has just been made by Dr. [illegible], in Bavaria. [illegible]

Toronto, Grey & Bruce R'y.



Change of Time.

On and after MONDAY, 3rd NOV. trains will run as follows:—

GOING NORTH.

Toronto,—Union Station,

Dep.	7:30 a. m.	12:20 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
Carlton	7.52 a.m.	12.45 p.m.	5.20 p.m.
Weston	8.05 a.m.	1.00 p.m.	5.30 p.m.
Humber Sum't	8.30 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	5.50 p.m.
Woodbridge	8.45 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	6.06 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	2.13 p.m.	6.24 p.m.
Bolton	9.[illegible] a.m.	2.27 p.m.	6.43 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	7.05 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible] p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]
[illegible]	[illegible] a.m.	4.25 p.m.	[illegible].20 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible] a.m.	4.45 p.m.
Orangeville Junction	11.4[illegible] a.m.	5.[illegible]5 p.m.
[illegible]	11.52 a.m.	5.2[illegible] p.m.
Shelburne	12.30 p.m.	6.00 p.m.
Dundalk	1.15 p.m.	6.50 p.m.
Proton	1.35 p.m.	7.11 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville	1.55 p.m.	7.35 p.m.
Markdale	2.15 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
Berkley	2.35 p.m.	8.28 p.m.
Williamsford	2.50 p.m.	8.46 p.m.
Arnott	3.05 p.m.	9.06 p.m.
Chatsworth	3.15 p.m.	9.16 p.m.
Rockford	3.38 p.m.	9.36 p.m.
Owen Sound	4.00 p.m.	10.10 p.m.

GOING SOUTH.

Owen Sound, depart	6.30 a.m.	12.00 noon.
Rockford	7.00 a.m.	12.30 p.m.
[illegible]	7.20 a.m.	12.55 p.m.
[illegible]	7.50 a.m.	1.06 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible]	1.28 p.m.
[illegible]	8.05 a.m.	1.48 p.m.
[illegible]	8.30 a.m.	2.15 p.m.
[illegible]	[illegible] a.m.	2.45 p.m.
[illegible]	9.15 a.m.	3.10 p.m.
[illegible]	9.25 a.m.	3.30 p.m.
Shelburne	10.15 a.m.	4.15 p.m.
Laurel	10.47 a.m.	4.50 p.m.
Orangeville Junction	11.00 a.m.	5.05 p.m.
ORANGEVILLE—
Arr.	11:15 a. m.	5:20 p. m.
Dep.	7.15 a.m.	11.35 a. m.	5.40 p. m.
Alton	7.35 a.m.	11.55 a.m.	6.00 p.m.
Charleston	7.50 a.m.	12.10 p.m.	6.18 p.m.
Mono Road	8.25 a.m.	12.47 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Bolton	8.45 a.m.	1.10 p.m.	7.33 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	7.55 p.m.
Woodbridge	9.25 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	8.17 p.m.
Humber Sum't	9.40 a.m.	2.05 p.m.	8.33 p.m.
Weston	10.00 a.m.	2.27 p.m.	9.00 p.m.
Carlton	10.10 a.m.	2.39 p.m.	9.15 p.m.
TORONTO,—Union Station.
Arrive	10.30 a.m.	3.00 p.m.	9.40 p.m.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Dec. 31st, 1880.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto. W. W. BUTCHER Manager, is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

PACIFIC RAILWAY.

Our Political contempories are busily engaged in discussing the merits and demerits of the Pacific railway bargain. The Grits on the one hand proclaiming that it will be the ruin of the country, while the Tories on the other hand as positively assert, that a better bargain could not have been made. For our part we think the bargain might have been bettered in some points; but on the whole it is far preferable to having the road built by the Government, be it Grit or Tory, and sincerely hope that it will be confirmed by Parliament as soon as it meets after the holidays. Further opposition to it, in our opinion, will be promotive of no good end, and only retard the business of the country, merely for the purpose of allowing windy members a chance of easing themselves of the heavy load of gas and buncome with which they are at present over burdened.

MUNICIPAL NOMINATION, HOLLAND.

Moved by Dr. Kennedy, seconded by Mr. McComb's, that Wm. Howey be re-elected Reeve for the year 1881. Moved by John Baird, seconded by David Callendar, that John Cameron be re-elected Deputy Reeve for 1881. Moved by Geo. Sinclair, seconded by Allen Stephenson, that Dr. McGregor be elected Reeve for the year 1881. Moved by Allan Stephenson, seconded by R Shaw, that Dr. Kennedy be Dpt. Reeve for 1881. Moved by Robert Shaw, seconded by Wm. McComb, that Anthony Shute be Councillor for 1881. Moved by Mr. McComb, seconded by Geo. Sinclair, that William Norton be Councillor for 1881. Moved by Geo. Little, seconded by Geo. Lee, that Justis Merium be Councillor for 1881. Moved by Wm. Smith, seconded by Jessie Trefford, that Robt Carson be Councillor for 1881. Moved by Samuel Young, seconded by Wm. Lyons, that James Gillespie be Councillor for 1881. At the close of the speaking Dr. McGregor and Dr. Kennedy both withdrew. Wm. Howey and John Cameron were declared elected by acclamation, as Reeve and Deputy Reeve.

The election will be held in the north electoral division at the Orange Hall, tenth line, John Sutherland, returning officer. In the west electoral division at Stephen Edmumds house, Arnott, Geo. C. Little, returning officer. In the east electoral, division, at Berkeley, Geo. Fleming, returning officer. In the south electoral division, at Moggy's school house, James C. Kennedy, returning officer.

C. PRICE,
Clerk.

BETHEL LODGE G. TEMPLERS.

New England Correspondence.

The Bethel Lodge of Good Templers 7th line Euphrasia, held open lodge on the 22nd, which was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever held by this lodge, there being several parties there from other neighborhoods. The lodge meets in the P. M. Mount Zion church, which was packed to its utmost capacity on this occasion. After a call to order by the President of the lodge, the choir sang an appropriate opening piece; after which the Rev. W. Walker lead in prayer, then the President, E. E. Hicks, Esq., gave a very neat address, in which he extended a cordial welcome to all the visiting friends. To this succeeded a reading, well executed by Miss McAurthur, then a recitation, most admirably rendered by Miss S. Clark, which was followed by music by the choir, the a speech by J. Thurston, Esq., in which he made some strong assertions as regards the use of strong drink and tobacco, he was followed by Rev. W. Walker, who principly dealt with the advance of the temperance cause in the U. S., then a recitation by Miss M. Clark, which was also well rendered; music by the choir followed by a dialogue between Mr. Patton, Misses McKinley and Mr. Clark, speech by Rev. C. C. Garnett, who dealt chiefly in local statistics, a reading by Miss McKinley, which was well received, was followed by more singing by the choir, then a very practical speech from Mr. Patterson, who dwelt chiefly upon the effect of example, a very appropriate song, well sung by Mr. Dodsworth, followed, then a reading by M. Patterson, Esq., and a recitation by Mr. Patton, both of which called forth rounds of applause, furnishing a lengthy but interesting programme. A vote of thanks, singing, doxology by the audience, and the benediction pronounced by Rev. C. C. Garnett, brought this very interesting and successful meeting to a close.

NEMO.

Euphrasia, Dec. 23, 1880.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

As the R. R, question seems to be shelved for the present, I doubt not, everything will proceed in its ordinary course—and the harsh things written or spoken, will be forgiven, if not forgotten—It is needless for me to make further remarks—excepting, that as I stated in the Mail in substance, before the convention took place in Toronto, and afterwards in your paper or perhaps the Expositor—that the absence of representation from the townships comprising the group, meant more than indifference; such it has been. It was surprising to me, that the management could be so sanguine.

If myself with the ratepayers of Artemesia—in great preponderence—are deluded in this matter, then, it must be admitted, coincidence is remarkable, that so large a number, should be like minded, on both branches of the road, whom to call ignorant, policys seekers, would be mere rant.

Artemesia's Council, with one solitary exception sought to save her from another election and the ratepayers from loss of time; until after through ventilation in other townships were had; the merit and demerit of the scheme fully discussed; and judgment passed. The wisdom of our course fully appears.

Some townships defeating their bylaws and from others, they have been withdrawn. The very persons whose names appear on the petition approbating the course pursued—excepting it is true, a few self opinionated, ones, who can see no good thing coming out of Egypt—Requiescat pace, is the desire of the writer.

I can well afford to laugh at the fulminations, of my disappointed opponents, their missiles fall harmless at my feet—Ichabod is written on all their arguments. I confess that I am eclipsed by my erudite Priceville Crusoe—of course he places the word in my mouth—I presume the quiet village of Priceville was not aware she had in her midst such a logical Tartan!! The Flesherton "Labratory" Laboratory, I suppose is meant—has no physic strong enough to resolve his monstrosities into any fair proportions—Discuss questions with men of intelligence and morals! good heavens! if his recent productions be samples, the men whom he bored with them are to be pitied—he is becoming desparate—two articles in one week! I must have been mistaken in the idea conveyed in the couplet quoted the other day.—

"He baited his hooks with tigers tails
And sat on a rock and bob'd for whales."

If zeal, pugnacity, bombast, pretentious moral and intellectual associations and newspaper scribbling, can gain for him notoriety I am sure he will accomplish it.

I must beg to be excused from further contact—there is danger of contamination—besides I profess to be a plain man of the people—to get above my level would make me feel ludicrous—now Robinson, one word of advice before parting—remember the circumstances of the Kite—it might be your lot—and because a fellow happens to be, by uncontrolable circumstances a little lower in social scale, don't look with contempt from your high pedestal of intellctual and moral greatness!!

If I were to attempt to reply in extenso—it would be in effect replying to idiotic drivelling pathognomonic of dementic it would require a fool to succeed to which I lay no claim—besides it would be like laying a silk handkerchief before a certain bird—the struttings and antics would be wonderfull.—

Thanking you again for this space—I sign myself as usual as an M. D. honorably obtained without breach of etiquette.

DR. CHRISTOE.

COUNTY ITEMS.

A serious accident took place at Horning's Mills a day or two ago. A son of Mr. Wm. Noole fell in front of the team, and one of the horses stepped on his head, fracturing the skull. The boy lies in a very precarious condition —Free Press.

On Saturday night about ten o'clock a barn on Mr. John McBride's place near Coleridge, in Amaranth, was destroyed by fire. The building, we believe was insured, but we did not learn the amount. The fire is said to have been the work of an incendiary. —Free Press

FIRE IN EGREMONT.—On Saturday night about 10 o'clock fire was discovered in Mr. Geo. MKeays barn on the Townline of Glenelg and Egremont. The fire had made such headway that nothing could be saved. The spring crop and some fowls were all destroyed. Loss about $600, covered by insurance. The barn was a new frame one. The origin of the fire is a mystery but incendiarism is supposed and the fire only adds another to the long list of fires which have occurred in a similar manner in this part of late.

HORSE STOLEN.—Mr Hillis of the 2nd con., Bentinck, had a horse and cutter and set of double harness stolen from his premises on Monday night. Telegrams were sent to all the neighboring villages, on Tuesday and we understand Mr. Hillis got tidings of his horse the same day at Paisely, where it had been traded by the thief for another horse with which he took his departure saying he was going to Chesley, which was rather unlikely however. It is to be hoped the thief will be caught and receive his desert.

Mortgage Sale

OF VALUABLE

FARM PROPERTIES,

In the Townships of Glenelg, Bentinck and Egremont, in the County of Grey.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by John McMillan, jr., Martin Dunn, John Macpherson, James Smith, Alexander [illegible], James [illegible], Dougald Macfarlane, John Wilson, Charles Coutts, and Alexander Ferguson, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in payment of the moneys secured by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, at McAllister's Hotel, in the Town of Durham, on

Tuesday, the 11th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at one o'clock p. m., the following parcels of land:

I. Lot No. 35, in the 2nd concession North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 40 acres are cleared, and the residue free from stumps. On the lands are said to be a log barn, two log stables, and log house; the soil is a good clay loam, and the property is situate about 4½ miles from Durham.

II. Lot No. 9, in the 8th concession of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 50 acres are cleared, and about 40 acres under hardwood. The soil is generally clay loam, and the farm is only about 10 miles from Markdale and 10 from Durham. On the premises are a log house, barn and stable.

III. Lot No. 20, in the 4th concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 60 acres are cleared, and nearly all the remainder covered by hardwood. This property is situate only 7 miles from Flesherton, and is in a fair state of cultivation.

IIII. Lot No. 15, in the 2nd concession, East of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 80 acres are cleared, and the balance mostly hardwood. On the premises are said to be a frame barn, and the premises are only 10 miles from Durham.

V. The West half of lot No. 16, in the 5th concession, North of the Durham Road, of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 30 acres are cleared, and 10 free from stumps. This farm is situate about 10 miles from Flesherton and 7 miles from Durham.

VI. The West half of lot No. 19, in the 12th concession of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 50 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared, and situate only 12 miles from Durham.

VII. Lot No. 14, in the 2nd concession; West of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containing 100 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared. This farm is situate about 8 miles from Durham on good road.

VIII. Lot No. 22, in the 3rd concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containg 50 acres, more or less, about 30 of which are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. This farm is only about 4 miles from Durham.

IX. Lot No. 20, in the 11th concession, of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 85 acres, more or less, of which about 12 acres are cleared, and nearly all the residue under hardwood. On the premises are said to be a log house, and the lands are only about 10 miles from Durham.

X. Lot No. Eleven, in the 22nd concession of the said township of Egremont, containing 119 acres, more or less, of which about 50 are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. The lands are only about 8 miles from Durham.

TERMS—10 per cent. at the time of sale, 15 per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at 7 per cent. yearly; or if additional satisfactory security be given, no cash need be paid; or terms may be varied in any reasonable way to suit purchasers. For further particulars, apply to Robert Davis, Flesherton, H. Mckay, Auctioneer, Durham, or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLES, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec. 1880. 15-3i

FOR SALE.

A HANDSOME Young Mare, sired by "Extra;" will be 4 years old next Spring, well broke to double and single harness; will be sold cheap for cash, as the present owner has no use for her.

Apply to A. TURNER, Medical Hall, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 15-in

GRANT & CHELLEW,

MARKDALE.

CABINET MAKERS,

—AND—

UPHOLSTERERS

A FULL STOCK OF Furniture!

ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

AUCTION SALE!

OF VALUABLE

FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by Virtue of Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of Sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE

RUTLEDGE HOUSE,

IN THE

Village of Markdale, in the County of Grey, on

Monday, the 10th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at THREE O'CLOCK in the Afternoon, the following land and premises, viz.:

Lot Number Forty, in the Fourteenth Concession of the Township of Artemesia, in the County of Grey, containing One Hundred and Ten Acres more or less.

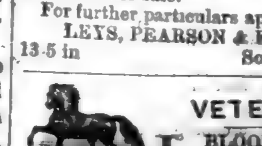
The following improvements are said to be on the premises, viz. A Log Dwelling and Frame Barn and Stable.

TERMS.—One Tenth of the purchase money must be paid down at time of sale. For balance, terms liberal, and will be made known at the sale.

For further particulars apply to

LEYS, PEARSON & KINGSFORD, Solicitors, Toronto.

13-5 in



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-ly

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

The undersigned wishes to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased the entire control of the

FLESHERTON STEAM

FURNITURE, AND SASH AND DOOR FACTORY

AND REMOVED TO THE

Furniture Warerooms

TO THE

NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUILDING ADJOINING THE FACTORY,

Where my numerous customers will always find me, or a competent salesman to look after and attend to their wants. My facilities are now Superior to any time since commencing business, and I trust by honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of

Furniture in all the Latest Styles,

and during the Winter I require

100,000 FEET OF GOOD

Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and Ash

LUMBER!

for which

THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAID.

Also a Quantity of Good Pine.

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ETC.,

AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Application.

☞ Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durham street.

H. HOOPER.

Flesherton, December 23, 1880. 1-ly

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTER!

AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Days.

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEAP.

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEAP.

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing, CHEAP.

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT

ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES.

BOOTS AND SHOES,

In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRICES at the

"TORONTO HOUSE."

Wm. BROWN.

Markdale, December 20, 1880. 1-ly

WE WISH YOU

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that it has been a year of prosperity with the people of our County, and as others have prospered, we have been enabled to participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially since removing into our new premises, and we solicit a share of your patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Goods!

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and Saucers,

and a large variety of

CHILDREN'S TOYS.

OUR GROCERIES!

For the season are, as usual,

Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,
NEW PRUNES,
NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.

The People are all asking for our TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING

WINTER DRY GOODS!

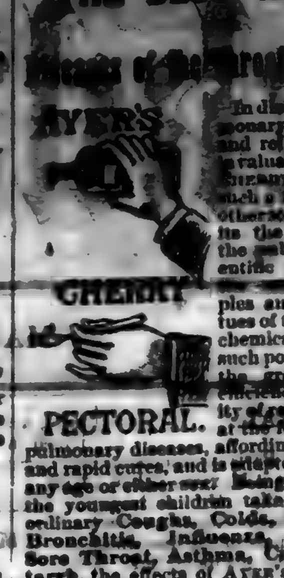
At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties,
5,000 Telegraph Poles,
Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHERS,

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly



THE BEST REMEDY

for Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

J. MONTGOMERY,

BAKER,

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is now prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS
Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

THOS. MATHEWS,

WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS

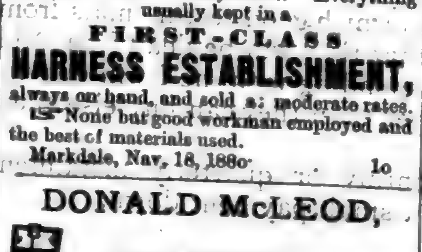
HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates. ☞ None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 10

DONALD McLEOD,

BOOT AND SHOE MAKER



BEGS to return his sincere thanks to the public for their very liberal patronage in the past, and hopes by honorable dealing, FIRST-CLASS WORK, and close attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same. NOTHING BUT THE BEST OF MATERIAL Used, and none but First-Class Mechanics employed.

Special attention paid to Repairing, which will be done promptly.

Sewed work a Specialty.

NOTICE.

Over due accounts must be paid without delay or I shall have to resort to more costly means for collection.

D. McLEOD, Corner of Queen and Mill Streets.

Markdale, Oct. 28, 1880. 7-3i

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year

Now that the season of Good Cheer is at hand, I wish to call Public attention to my stock of

FRESH GROCERIES,

FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY,

AND

LIQUORS

Everything First-Class, and at

☞ RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, the purest; MALT, the best; PORTER, equal to Ginness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Wines in this section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

☞ Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods

A. McINTY[RE]

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880.

CHEAP CASH STO[RE]

Reynolds & So[n]

Are now to the front with a complete stock of

Dry Goods, Grocer[ies]

BOOTS AND SHOES.

HARDWARE, CROCKERY, GLASSWARE,

Which for QUALITY and LOW PRICES cannot be surpassed. Give us a call and try some of our

NEW SEASONED JAPAN TEA, 3lb. FOR

PURE GOLDEN SYRUP ALWAYS ON HAN[D]

Please give us a call before purchasing elsewhere.

BUTTER, POULTRY AND EGGS TAKEN IN EXCHANGE FOR GOODS.

REYNOLDS & SO[N]

Markdale, Nov. 11, 1880.

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINE[SS]

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUS[INESS]

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a large and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, To[ys]

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced R[ates]

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STAT[IONERY]

Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccos, ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Ex[press]

☞ Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at a[ll hours]

A. TURNER &

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880.

Get Money at 7 per Ce[nt]

To discharge a Mortgage bearing a higher rate, to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repaymen[t]

OFFERED BY THE

BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMP[ANY]

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURI[TY]

AGENCY OF THE

LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COM[PANY]

AND

British America Assurance C[o.]

THE UNEQUALLED

Wanzer Family Machin[e]

Organs at Reduced Rat[es]

AUCTION SALE[S]

—ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880.

SAVE YOUR COMBINGS.

Mrs. T. G. Morgan, begs to announce to the Ladies of Markdale and vicinity that she is prepared to work up hair combings into switches, puffs and curls, terms moderate. A call is solicited. Residence corner of Mark and Queen streets, opposite Mr. Bowes' residence.

Markdale, Dec. 16th, 1880. 14m1

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

☞ LOAN AND LAND AGENT.

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.

Sept. 17th 1880. 1-tf

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate. Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 2-3m

TO THE

Independent Elec[tors]

OF THE

Township of Euphr[asia]

GENTLEMEN:—

I again offer myself as a Candidate for the office of Councillor for the [illegible] Should you again honor me with your confidence, I shall endeavor to serve you to the best of my ability. Come to the [illegible] where I shall give my views on [illegible] matters.

I am, gentlemen, Your ob[edient servant,]

D. B. [illegible]

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

For Cheap Stationery, [illegible] ful Christmas and New Year [illegible] call at the Standard Office.

A Ha[illegible]

[T]hanking my frien[ds]

A FA[illegible] than I have

CAN[illegible] or set of

IN[illegible]

I have

I have

MY

You will find ve[illegible]

excuse for ANY [illegible]

Guards, Silver Th[illegible] have also a full

good

LAZ[illegible]

for a number of y[ears]

[n]eeded. I am now So[le]

[ot]her dealers mislead

[b]e without doubt the [Ma]le don't fail to see m[e]

Watches, Clocks &

A Happy New Year to All!

hanking my friends for the very liberal patronage they have given me during the past six years, I would remind all that I have now on hand

A FAR SUPERIOR STOCK

than I have ever before handled and at LOWER PRICES. Having bought largely, I claim that

CAN SELL AS CHEAP AS ANY MAN

or set of men doing a Retail Trade, and a look through my Stock will convince you of that fact.

IN WATCHES

I have all grades and prices, from the best American manufacture, down to the cheapest grade of Swiss manufacture, and at prices that I am sure will suit all.

IN CLOCKS

I have all STYLES and PRICES from ONE Dollar up.

MY STOCK OF JEWELLERY!

You will find very complete---in Sets, Eardrops, Broaches, Friendship, Engagement and Wedding Rings, (no xcuse for ANY MAN not getting married when he acn get a suitable Ring for $1), Lockets, Chains, Necklets, uards, Silver Thimbles, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Scarf Pins, Cuff Pins, and in fact any thing in the Jewellery line. have also a full line of CONCERTINAS, ACCORDIANS and VIOLINS, at the right prices. For instance, a good Violin for $1.50, or as much higher as you wish. Also, Violin Strings and findings.

LAZARUS, MORRIS & CO.'S SPECTACLES.

or a number of years I have tried to secure the Agency for these very necessary articles, and at last I have succeeded. I am now Sole Agent for Markdale, and have a full line of both Lazarus & Morris' and all cheaper grades of Spectacles, &c. Don't let ther dealers mislead you in regard to these goods, as you cannot get them from Peddlers or in fact from any one else here but myself. They re without doubt the best Glasses manufactured, there being about one million pairs now in use, giving general satisfaction. When in Markdale don't fail to see my stock. Remember the place, Dominion Telegraph Office, next door to the "Standard" Office, Hill's Block.

Watches, Clocks & Jewellery Repaired on short notice.

E. D. WILCOX, Jeweller, &c.

Columbus.

Sir, in that flight of ages which are God's Own voice to justify the dead—perchance
Spain, once the most chivalric race on earth,
Spain, then the mightiest, wealthiest realm on earth,
So made by me, may seek to unbury me,
To lay me in some shrine of this old Spain,
Or in that vaster Spain I leave to Spain,
Then some one standing by my grave will say,
"Behold the bones of Christopher Colon"—
"Aye, but the chains, what do they mean—the chains?"
I sorrow for that kindly child of Spain
Who then will have to answer, "These same chains
Bound these same bones back thro' the Atlantic sea,
Which he unchained for all the world to come."

O, Queen of Heaven, who seest the souls in hell
And purgatory, I suffer all as much
As they do—for the moment. Stay, my son
Is here anon: my son will speak for me
Abler than I can in these spasms that grind
Bone against bone. You will not. One last word.

You move about the court, I pray you tell
King Ferdinand, who plays with me, that one Whose life has been no play with him and his Hidalgoes — shipwrecks, famines, fevers, fights,
Mutinies, treacheries—wink'd at and condoned—
That I am loyal to him till the death,
And ready, though our Holy Catholic queen,
Who fain had pledged his jewels on my first voyage,
Whose hope was mine to spread the Catholic faith,
Who wept with me when I returned in chains,
Who sits beside the Blessed Virgin now,
To whom I send my prayer by night and day—
She is gone—but you will tell the king that I,
Racked as I am with gout and wrench'd with pains
Gained in the service of his highness, yet
Am ready to sail forth on one last voyage,
Am ready, if the king would hear, to lead
One last crusade against the Saracen,
And save the Holy Sepulchre from thrall.

Going? I am old and slighted; you have dared
Somewhat perhaps in coming? my poor thanks!
I am but an alien and a Genovese.

—From Tennyson's New Volume.

THREE, SEVEN, ACE.

"What! did you bet on the red all evening?"

"Yes, I rarely change my play."

"You are the most impassive gambler I have ever seen."

"What do you think of Hermann, then, for self-control? He never in his life touched a card or made a bet, and yet he will watch us play till morning, such is his love of it."

"True," said Hermann, "it interests me, but I never play."

This conversation took place at the quarters of Naroumoff, a lieutenant of hussars. It was late. Play had been heavy, and potations deep.

"Ah, well," cried Tomski, "Hermann is in the engineer corps, and therefore economical—that is all. But, for the curiosity, just look at my grandmother, the Countess Fedorovna. She is rich; she is a woman, and she is 80 years old—yet she never plays!"

"It is indeed strange," said Naroumoff, "but what is the reason?"

"Listen and I will tell you. You must know that sixty years ago she was at Paris, and created a furore by her beauty—they called her the Muscovite Venus. Those were the good old days, just before the fall of the monarchy in '89, when every one, ladies and all, played at faro. One evening she lost a large sum to the Comte de Provence, the king's brother. On her return she took off her patches, dishevelled her hair, and thus tragically prepared, informed her husband of her ill luck. My defunct grandfather (peace to his ashes) was a species of financial secretary to his wife. He feared only her and the devil—the last the least. But when she confided to him the amount she had lost, he almost rose to the ceiling, flew into a terrible passion, and refused to pay a single franc. My grandmother acted like a woman of spirit—she slapped his face, and passed the night in another room. The next day, however, she returned to the attack. Tears this time; but it was useless. Her long-suffering husband, declared that she had already wasted half a million, and it might as well end one time as another.

"Fortunately for her, an idea occurred by which she did not fail to profit. There was at that time in Paris a certain strange individual who was known by the name of the comte de Saint-Germain. You have doubtless heard of him. He was looked upon as the wandering Jew, and was reputed to possess the secret of the philosopher's stone and the elixir of life as well. Despite the mystery surrounding him, he was much sought after and was universally liked. Well, she wrote to him requesting him to grant her an interview. The old gentleman hastened to her house, and found her plunged in despair. She related to him her misfortune, the cruelty of her husband, and begged him to assist her. After reflecting a few moments, Saint-Germain replied:

"'Madame, I can easily lend you the money you require, but I well know you will have no peace until you repay me. I do not wish to extricate you from one dilemma only to plunge you into another. There is but one course open to you—you must win the money back again.'

"'But, my dear count,' said my grandmother, 'I've already told you that I haven't a franc.'

"'You do not need money,' he replied; 'listen.' And then he confided to her a secret for which any one of you, gentlemen, would give ten years of his life."

All the young officers listened with intense interest. Tomski paused a moment, lit his cigar, and continued:

"That evening she went to the queen's game at Versailles. The count de Provence was banker, the game faro. She told him some feminine fib or other for not having yet paid her debt, and then began to play. She staked a large sum on her first card—she won; she doubled it on the next—she won; the third time again she doubled it—again she won."

"Pshaw!—pure luck!" cried one of the officers.

"A fable," said Hermann.

"But," said Naroumoff, "if you have a grandmother who possesses such secrets, my dear fellow, why don't you induce her to confide in you?"

"That is the devil of it," replied Tomski. "She had three sons beside my father—desperate gamblers all of them. Not one ever succeeded in gaining the privilege they so ardently desired. But you remember my uncle, Count Ivan Ilitch?—he was a favourite of the old lady. Well, one day he lost to Zaritch three hundred thousand roubles. He was reduced to beggary. The old countess took pity upon him, and, after exacting a pledge upon his honour that he would never play again, she told him the mystic series of cards. He sought Zaritch and demanded his revenge. His first bet was fifty thousand roubles; his second—but it is 5 o'clock, gentlemen, and time to break up. You all know how it ended; he ruined his opponent, who blew out his brains. My uncle never played again."

The old Countess Fedorovna was seated in her room before the mirror. Her maids surrounded her, holding rouge, powder and patches. The ancient belle had no longer any pretensions to beauty, but she retained the habits of her youth. Her companion was engaged in fancy work.

"Grandmother," said a young officer, as he entered the room, "I have a favour to ask," and he stooped and kissed her withered hand.

"What is it, Paul?"

"I want to present one of my brother officers, and to beg an invitation for him to your next ball."

"Bring him to the ball and present him there. Were you at the princess' last night?"

"Yes; a splendid entertainment; we danced until 5 o'clock. What a charming creature is the Countess Eletski!"

"Oh, my dear Paul, you are easily pleased. You should have seen her grandmother, the Princess Petrovna! She must be very old now."

"The Princess Petrovna!" cried Tomski, unwittingly; "why, she has been dead these seven years!"

He checked himself immediately. Lisabeta, the companion, was making signs to him. He had forgotten that it was forbidden to speak of the death of any of the countess' aged friends.

"Dead!" said she; "well, well! I did not know it. We were ladies of honour together when we were girls. I remember the first time we waited upon the empress," and the old lady sighed as she thought of her vanished youth and beauty. Then, her mood changing, "Paul," said she, "talk with Lisabeta while I am dressing. Tisanka, where is my snuff-box? Help me to get up, Lisabeta," and the old countess passed behind the screen.

"Who is this officer you wish to present to the countess?" asked Lisabeta Ivanovna.

"Is he in the engineers?"

"No, in the hussars. His name is Naroumoff. But why do you ask?"

The companion smiled, but did not answer.

"Well, I must be off. Good-by, grandmother. Good-by Lisabeta. Why did you ask if he was in the engineers?" And smiling knowingly, the young officer withdrew.

Lisabeta Ivanovna sighed, and recommenced her work.

The young girl's life was an unhappy one. To eat another's bread is always bitter, but who could paint the miseries of a companion to a lady of quality? When she made the tea, the countess abused her because the servants stole the sugar. When she read to her, the countess held her responsible for the author's dulness. When she went out with her, the countess scolded her if the weather was bad. Often she would retire, after a day of misery, to her little room and weep bitterly over the affronts she had endured.

One morning, a few days before the scene just related, she was seated at her window, working, when she perceived a handsome young officer gazing at her from the street. She averted her gaze, and applied herself with redoubled assiduity to her work. After a few moments she looked up, and he was still there. For some time she continued to gaze at her window, and disappeared. The next day he was there again. The day after, as she and the countess was about getting into the carriage, she saw him standing, muffled in a large fur cloak, watching her. His bright eyes followed her every movement. Lisabeta smiled, despite herself. From that moment a correspondence of glances was begun.

Hermann (for the reader will have guessed that it was he) had a small fortune, but, for an officer, was poor. In order to preserve himself from debt, he had resolutely determined never to play, and lived within his income. He was very ambitious, and very taciturn. Under his reserve, however, smoldered the most violent passions. He possessed great self control, and, though a born gambler, he never touched a card. He often passed feverish nights before the green table, devoured by the passion of play, but never indulging in it. The story of the Comte de Saint-Germain's three cards had made a vivid impression upon his mind. He could think of nothing else.

"Ah," he said to himself, "if the old countess would only tell me her secret—if she would but tell me the names of the three winning cards! I must be presented to her. I must gain her confidence. She is 87 years old—87! She might die this week—she might die to-morrow—and her secret with her!" And he dug his nails into the palms of his hands as he thought of it.

But he was a man of iron will, and did not falter in his determination to possess himself of the secret. He observed the pretty young girl who acted as companion to the countess, and resolved to use her as a tool to further his ends. Not for a moment did a thought of the misery he might cause her make him falter. He used every means to open a correspondence with her. He bribed the servants. He confided notes to the modistes who waited upon the countess for orders. At length his perseverance was rewarded. Lisabeta answered him. Her first letter was a somewhat cold note, chiding him for his rash persistence. But the ice was broken. His protestations of love were soon reciprocated, and at last she consented to a rendez vous. With the rashness with which timid women sometimes have she appointed the countess' house for the place. In her letter she said:

This evening there is to be a ball at the German ambassador's. We will remain there until 2 o'clock. As soon as we start for the ball, which will be about 11, the servants will immediately retire to their quarters. But one will remain, the footman at the door, and he probably will be asleep. Enter as soon as you see us leave, and go up-stairs. If you find anyone in the ante-chamber ask if the countess is at home; the answer will be that she is not, and you must resign yourself and go. It is not probable that you will meet anyone, however. When you are in the ante-chamber take the door to the left, and you will find yourself in the countess' boudoir. There, behind a tall screen, you will see two doors—one opens into a closet, the other upon a stairway, which leads to ——

Hermann's eyes glared like those of a beast of prey as he read the note. Already he saw dancing before his eyes the heaped-up gold and bank-notes, the cards, the green cloth of the gambling table. He saw himself in imagination sweeping in fantastic treasures such as he had never dreamed of. He awaited with feverish impatience the arrival of the hour.

At 11 o'clock he was waiting in front of the countess' door. The night was stormy; the wind moaned fitfully, the lamps gave forth an uncertain flicker upon the falling snow and the deserted street. From time to time the footfall of a belated passer-by sounded upon the stones. But Hermann felt neither wind nor snow. At last the carriage appeared. Two lackeys deposited the muffled form of the countess within it, and following her came the lithe figure of Lisabeta, as she sprang upon the step. The slam of the door smote his ear, and the dull sound of the wheels as they rolled over the snowy street. The footman shut the carriage gate, the windows became dark, and silence soon hung over the household.

Hermann approached a street lamp, and by its feeble glimmer examined his watch. Twenty minutes after 11; it was past the hour. He opened the gate and entered the vestibule—no footman there. With a firm step he mounted the grand stairway, and found himself in the ante-chamber. On the floor lay a snoring servant. Passing quickly by him, Hermann entered the countess' room.

Before a little altar in the corner, covered with images, burned a perfumed lamp of gold. On the walls hung portraits, attired in the fashion of fifty years before. One—that of a handsome man in uniform—seemed to follow him with his cold, gray eyes as he moved about the room. Hermann resented the look involuntarily, and then laughed at his folly. On the mantel stood porcelain vases and a marble clock. About the room were scattered countless jewels. He passed behind a screen at one side of the room; there were the doors. He opened the one to the right; it was the staircase which led to the room of the poor girl who loved him. He opened the one to the left; a closet revealed itself, into which he stepped.

The minutes crept slowly by. The house was profoundly silent. The great clock in the hall struck twelve, and its echoes died away. Hermann waited. One o'clock. His pulse beat slowly—he was calm. Two o'clock. Silence. Then came the distant rolling of carriage wheels. For the first time he felt some slight emotion. The carriage rapidly approached, and the servants, warned by the sound, hastened to receive their mistress. Three maids entered and lighted up the boudoir; a moment after the countess appeared, preceded and followed by lackeys with lights.

Hermann eagerly watched what was passing through the slightly opened door. The old lady fell into an easy-chair, and the maids began to remove her ornaments. Then Lisabeta passed immediately in front of him. He could have touched her as she went by. He heard her light footstep on the stairway; he heard her door close. For a moment he felt something which in another man would have been remorse, but he stifled it. His heart was stone.

The maids continued to remove the countess' ball-dress. When they had taken off her wig, her diamonds, her patches, and her brocaded gown, and replaced them with a wrapper and cap, she looked a little less hideous.

Like most very old people, she was troubled with sleeplessness. Therefore, instead of going to bed at once, she had her chair wheeled before the fire had the lights extinguished, and dismissed her women. The flickering fire-light fell upon her wrinkled, yellow face as her head nodded from side to side, and its vacuous look revealed the absence of thought. But suddenly the expression changed; her lips trembled, and her eyes lifted up. The figure of a man appeared between her and the fire.

"Fear nothing, madam," said the stranger in a hoarse whisper, "fear nothing; I do not wish to harm you. On the contrary, I come to beseech you to grant me a favor."

The old countess looked at him in silence, as if she did not understand. Thinking that she was deaf, he placed his lips to her ear and repeated what he he had said. Still she was silent.

"You, madam," continued he, "can assure the happiness of my life without the least trouble to yourself. You can tell me the names of the three winning cards."

He stopped. She [illegible] understood [illegible]

"It is a jest," said she; "I swear to you it is a pleasantry!"

"No, no!" cried Hermann, excitedly, "it is no jest! Think of Count Ilitch and his gains—"

He stopped again. [illegible] features seemed for a moment to betray some emotion, but only for a moment.

"Why do you wish to keep this secret? For your grandsons? They are rich already. Besides, they would not profit by it. They are born debauchees, and if the devil himself were at their orders they would die beggars. I know the value of money—the secret would not be thrown away upon me."

The countess remained dumb.

Hermann threw himself at her feet.

"If your heart is human, if you have ever loved, I implore you to tell me this secret! By all that is holy in this world or the next, I beseech you, tell it me!"

The countess remained dumb.

"Stay—perhaps some awful sin stains your soul. Perhaps you have some compact with demons to obtain this secret. If so, bethink you—you have not many years to live. I am ready to assume with the secret all its pains—ready to take upon my soul all its sins. Speak—speak, I implore you!"

The countess remained dumb.

Gnashing his teeth, Hermann leaped to his feet.

"Curse you, old hag!" he cried, drawing a pistol from his breast, "speak you shall or die!"

For the second time the features of the countess displayed some emotion. Her head trembled—she extended her hands feebly, as if to ward off the weapon—she fell back in her chair.

"Enough of this!" cried Hermann, brutally clutching her arm, "for the last time—will you speak or no?"

The arm fell stiffly. She sat limp and lifeless in his grasp. He approached and examined her face by the light of the candle. A look of haughty determination was upon the withered face, but the eyes were dim. Anna, countess of Fedorovna, was cold and dead.

Three days after this scene the obsequies of the countess were celebrated in the cathedral of Vasili Blashenoi. Hermann entered the church. Although he felt no remorse, he could not deny to himself that he was her assassin. Faith he had none—superstition had [illegible]. He fancied that the dead woman would exercise a malign influence over his life if he did not appease her spirit by assisting at the funeral.

The cathedral was crowded. The body lay upon an imposing catafalque, under a velvet canopy. Around the bier were gathered the members of her family. No one wept—tears would have been considered an affectation. The countess was so old that her death had long been regarded as probable at any moment.

After the funeral oration the relatives and friends defiled slowly around the bier to look upon the features of the dead woman. Hermann also advanced. He reached the catafalque, mounted its steps, and bent over the coffin. He recoiled with a stifled cry. He fancied he had seen a movement of the eyes of the corpse, and a mocking smile play over its cold lips.

All the rest of the day he felt a most extraordinary lassitude. At the restaurant where he took his solitary dinner he drank deeply, contrary to his habit, in the hope of shaking off the gloom that oppressed him. It was all in vain. The wine only inflamed his imagination, and gave new activity to his working brain. He walked the streets of the city until he was exhausted, and then returned to his quarters. He threw himself upon the bed, fully dressed, and in a few minutes a leaden slumber fell upon him.

When he woke, a flood of moonlight streamed from the window to his bed. He looked at his watch. It was half-past three. He could sleep no longer. He began to think of his failure to obtain the secret, and of the old countess [illegible] other world, bearing her secret with her.

Suddenly he looked up. He thought the door was moving.

No, not a breath. [illegible] The door slowly opened, and [illegible] the background of darkness a figure in white. The figure advanced toward him with a gliding motion. [illegible] moonlight. Hermann's hair rose upon his head. It was the countess.

"I come against my will," the apparition said slowly, "but by your will it is that I am forced to come. Three, seven, ace, played one after the other, are the winning cards. Farewell!"

The figure glided towards the door. As it reached the threshold it turned and Hermann fancied he could discern in the darkness its mocking smile.

"Three, seven, ace! Three, seven, ace!"

This was the secret. The words were branded on Hermann's brain; he could think of nothing else, he could dream of nothing else. The cards appeared in a myriad mystic forms. [illegible] branches wove themselves into trees. Mighty cities [illegible] whose Gothic gates were sevens. Monstrous aces dangled from the skies, like spider-webs. The clock ticked, "Three, seven, ace."

There was at Moscow a famous faro bank, frequented only by the rich. Its owner's name was Tchekalinski. His life had been passed at play, and he had amassed an immense fortune. His magnificent house, his excellent wines, his elegant manners had succeeded in drawing to him the best of fashionable youth of Moscow. They deserted the ball-room for the gambling-hell; they neglected [illegible] for the fickle goddess, Fortune.

Naroumoff [illegible] this place, and Hermann requested him to conduct him there. They passed through a number of rooms filled with obsequious servants. All were crowded. Generals and diplomatists were playing at whist. Young men were lounging about upon divans, smoking Turkish pipes. At last they entered the main room, where Tchekalinski sat in the centre of a long table, dealing faro, surrounded by a score of players. He was a man of 60, with a bald head, crowned with snow-white hair. His countenance shone with good humor and with good nature. During a pause in the play Naroumoff presented his friend. The banker greeted him with a charming smile, bade him not to stand upon ceremony, and began another deal. The bets were numerous. The deal lasted long. At its close Tchekalinski began shuffling a new pack for a fresh deal.

Hermann deposited a check upon the table.

"What!" exclaimed Naroumoff, laughingly, "at last, oh! man of iron, you have yielded to the temptation? Well, I wish you good luck."

"How much?" said the banker, peering at the check. "I beg your pardon, but I cannot see clearly."

"Fifty thousand roubles," replied Hermann.

At these words all eyes were fixed upon the young officer.

"He is a madman," thought Naroumoff.

"Allow me to observe, sir," said Tchekalinski, with his polite smile, "that your play is somewhat heavy."

"I know it," said Hermann, with a slight sneer, "you decline to play against me if you wish."

"That is not my desire," said the banker, with a still sweeter smile, "but you will pardon me when I say that it is usual in such large games [illegible] money before [illegible]. It facilitates calculation."

Hermann drew from his pocket a package of bank notes and placed it upon the table. The banker examined the notes with a glance, and began to deal. To the right came a ten, to the left a seven.

"Three wins," said Hermann.

A rumor ran round the table. For a moment the banker appeared disconcerted, but his smile soon reappeared. He placed upon Hermann's pile of notes a similar pile.

"Do you wish [illegible]?"

Without replying Hermann placed the entire sum upon a seven. The [illegible] was dealt. To the right a jack, to the left a seven.

"Seven wins," said Hermann.

The usually impassive banker was evidently ill at ease. He counted out two hundred thousand roubles in notes and placed them upon the mass of wealth.

The news had spread through the gambling-house. The generals abandoned their whist, [illegible] servants [illegible] of feverish gamblers and bedizened lackeys surrounded Hermann [illegible] hundred thousand roubles [illegible]. A profound silence fell upon the room.

Tchekalinski [illegible] trembled [illegible] see; to the [illegible]

"Ace wins," said Hermann [illegible]

[illegible]

In the Oubouchkof asylum for the insane, at Moscow, is a very old man. He is known only as "No. 17." He is harmless, but will reply to no questions put to him. He repeats incessantly, day after day, year after year, the words: "Three, seven, ace—three, seven, queen!"—From the Russian of Alexander Pushkin.

Our Toronto Letter.

Did you ever stand on a street corner, worthy reader, to watch the people as they walked, ran, slouched and slunk along? If you have not already done so, you have lost what has for a long time been one of my greatest pleasures. Gracious! what a lot of faces I know, and what a lot of people I [illegible]

ONE OF THE RUNNERS,

[illegible]

THE COUNCIL BULLDOG,

[illegible]

ONLY HALF AS BAD AS THE "GLOBE'S" WOOD-CUTS.

[illegible]

WHAT A PRETTY WALK SHE HAS!

[illegible]

SHE IS AN AWFUL FLIRT.

[illegible]

DAN DWAN THE MAYOR OF [illegible] STREET.

[illegible]

ME AN' GILHOOLY

[illegible]

A FINE OLD GENT,

[illegible]

HE WANTS TO SHAKE DOWN HIS LAST DRINK

[illegible]

PAUL PRY JR

Learned in his Business

A certain coal merchant who must, owing to the present unfortunate condition of the [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr. James Galway of [illegible] Lodge, [illegible] County Waterford, [illegible]

Dens of Vice.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

Last week I had the somewhat unpleasant task of taking you into a combined gambling and cigar selling establishment. Some people have criticised that letter in my presence, not knowing that the author was myself, and although a few were inclined to believe that such a place as I described might exist, the majority declared it to be merely sensational newspaper writing. To such people I have but one word to say—search the vicinity of York and Queen streets, and perhaps you may find what you are looking for. But beware, for I have reason to believe that the police are about to and go once more on the war-path, and unless you are found in pretty decent company, your chances in case of a raid, are exceedingly good for being "run in," as in such cases the police always do their strict duty, and are no respecters of respectable vice. As A. Ward would say, "this is wrote sarkastik."

DIG UP THE HATCHET

"This week I am going to take you into some places which, though less vicious, are still subversive of law and order, places where, by almost openly breaking the law, its majesty is brought into contempt. The Crooks act is a good one in principle, though some of its provisions and details require revision; at the same time, as long as it is the law it should be strictly administered, and such shebeens as the one on between Church and Yonge streets should be annihilated. I will again act as guide, and we pass up through a gateway and up a path through what once was a garden. Arrived at the door, which is at the side of the house, we give the signal by tapping on the shutter (which is closed) and then pass into the porch. To all appearance there is not a soul in the place, everything seems dark and quiet, as becomes a Sunday night. Now look out, or rather look in, for the old lady is opening the slide. Gracious, how the glare from that lantern hurts your eyes as she holds it up close to your face, in order to see whether you are known or not. She does not know you, of course, but I have been round before, and so, after a critical examination of our features under the softening effect of a coal oil light, she grumblingly draws back the two chain bolts and lets us in. Now we pass into a room in which the tobacco smoke is old enough to vote, strong enough to hang your hat on, and heavy enough to fell an ox. This room is full of men, drinking lager, smoking cigars, and undertones—for conversing in quietness is strictly enforced here. We pass into the next room, and are fortunate enough to get seats, it being, as a rule, almost impossible, on account of the crowd, to get more than standing room for the first fifteen or twenty minutes. After waiting a little while, a rather about nineteen years of age, and one of the daughters of the house, comes along with her tray. Of course, we have to drink lager, as that is the only beverage sold here, unless to some very particular "friends of the family." Meanwhile, the sister of the girl who has just waited on us goes round taking orders for beer and cigars, seldom vouchsafing a word to anybody, even to the oldest customers, more than is required for the transaction of business. This place is not supported by the vilest of the vile. Far from it. I have seen here sons of thoroughly respectable married men; and members of a certain church choir are in the habit of dropping in after the service to wet their throats with the seductive lager. Apart from selling liquor without license, the place is most orderly, and, in fact, would be a pattern to many regular saloons. One Sunday night last summer, a man in the house made an insulting proposal to one of the two girls. She immediately informed her father (who for a wonder was not serving a term in gaol at the time,) and he bounced the young swell with as little respect for his social position as would have rejoiced the heart of the reddest Republican. These people are very careful not to allow themselves to be caught by the whiskey spies, and on two occasions they have been convicted on evidence which was well known to "the boys" to be the grossest perjury.

RICHMOND STREET

PRETTY BLONDE,

SOME OF THE BEST FAMILIES IN TORONTO,

The picture presented in this "Dutch interior" is worthy the pencil of a Rembrandt, or a Van Cuyp; in fact, as much as I have been round, I have never seen anything so strikingly picturesque as the old woman holding up her lantern (which is used on every face), and the two daughters beside her with their trays of beer mugs and a background composed of smoke, and a vague mass of human faces, while the warm light touches up the red face of the mother and the beautiful flaxen hair of the elder daughter.

Let us now take a trip down York street. You are afraid to go, but don't be alarmed, I will not take you into any of

THE WORST PLACES.

Again we enter a cigar store, where we are waited on by an exceedingly evil-eyed young woman, who can best be described by the old London expression:—"dirty swell." She is attired in a brown dress, very greasy, and her hair though carefully banged in front, is lamentably untidy behind. As for her hands and finger nails—well the less said about them the better; to call them clean would be an evidence of moral insanity. After getting out the cigars, (which are of the telephone brand—that is if you smoke them here, they can be smelt in Montreal), I ask for a little whiskey. This is answered by a sharp look, which seems to search all round, and under your waistcoat, but she finally consents, and invites us

INTO THE "PARLOR."

On arriving here we find four or five other "young ladies," all more or less battered in appearance, while a big mulatto who sits in the corner looks so much like a "bad man," that the note-book I was instinctively drawing out of my pocket slips back scared. You notice that, one by one, three men have reappeared in the room, from their hiding place in the passage, whither they went as soon as strangers were heard in the shop. They are a tough looking crowd, drawn from the LOWEST CLASS OF THE COMMUNITY.

One would describe himself as a dock-labourer, but I am afraid that he knows more of how to dispose of stolen goods, than of how to remove a cargo. The second was apprenticed to a baker on King St., but frequented a certain Variety Theatre until he become stage struck, and commenced to learn the "business." From that he went rapidly to the bad, and now Heaven knows how he gets his living, I don't. The third is unknown to me but he has the appearance of

A CANAL STREET ROUGH FROM BUFFALO.

Of course from what you have seen you understand perfectly well where we are and think that we have been here quite long enough—don't you? Yes. Then let us move on.

Now you know there is not the slightest excuse for allowing these dens to exist. They are ruining hundreds of our youth yearly while to those who have commenced their downward course, an introduction to the forty-rod dispensers of York St., is equivalent to an introduction to

HIS SATANIC MAJESTY HIMSELF.

The point I am striving to make is this. In the first place provide some wholesome amusement for the lower classes. Let the workingman go to a respectable "free and easy" and drink his glass of beer in comfort, and sing his song or listen to some other music. Do not banish music entirely from the bar-room for that only sends a very large class to a much worse house. In the second place root out the dens. Send the men to gaol and the women to the Reformatory and as many times as they commence anew to transgress the law, pack them off again to where they rightly belong—the "stone jug." It is in such places that thieves and burglars are made and harboured. Among these people such an idea as that of doing right because it is right, is a thing unheard of, and if Jimmy gets "lagged" for "cracking" a "crib" the one question is "will he get off?"

If you don't believe me reader, the next time you get a chance get into conversation with a policeman, and maybe he will tell you a few more interesting facts than did yours truly, BIN-THERE.

A MAN who has the power of repartee carries a quiver of sharp arrows slung over his shoulder. More than half the world is able to say a biting thing, but there are very few who can catch the biting thing on the fly, give it a new point and hurl it back. Send a man to another whom he wished to deliberately insult, "Sir, I can see the rogue in your very face." Without waiting an instant the reply came, "Ah, indeed, sir; I didn't know that my face was a looking-glass."

Costly Mansions.

As a rule, says a New York correspondent, we take very kindly to all sorts of foreign things—sometimes a good deal more so than foreigners themselves. A great many of us, especially those who have plenty of money, can see very little credit in anything that does not bear a foreign trade mark. Our millionaires would not even get foreigners to finish off their fine houses. Fifth Avenue furnishes several cases in point. The new mansions going up there for the Vanderbilts, the Goelets, and some other nabobs, are to be perfect palaces, so far as elaborate finish is concerned. Outside as well as inside, nothing that art can do for them is to be spared. Even the stone fronts must be ornamented with fine carving. There are scores of good stone workers in New York, but they are not good enough it seems, for the fancy work on the Fifth Avenue fronts. "Artists" must be imported expressly to carve the figures and the intricate devices in foliage and general gingerbread. If a certain piece of work of this kind is to be done, it must wait till an "artist" can be brought over from Europe to do it. The foreign gentlemen generally take their time about coming and take plenty of time at their work when they get here, but no one must attempt to hurry them up. They would resent that either by refusing to come at all, or refusing to go on with the work after beginning. Some of these artists in brown stone are just as hard to manage as opera singers, and have to be handled with the same care, or they may kick up at any moment and leave some one in the lurch. It is not much of a compliment that our rich men, such as the Goelets, pay to our own workmen when they insist upon foreigners being brought over to finish the outside of their houses.

They demand, too, that a good deal of the material for the houses shall be brought from abroad. The completion of the Vanderbilt mansion, for instance, will probably be delayed a couple of years by the difficulty of getting orders for foreign tiling filled. Some very good tiling is made in this country, but Mr. Vanderbilt won't have it, and the workmen here must wait on the convenience of manufacturers in Europe. Marble chimney-pieces are no longer considered stylish enough for first-class houses. Elaborately carved wood is used instead, and in many cases the article is prepared in Europe and brought here complete, ready to be set in its place. The costliest chimney-piece yet ordered for a New York mansion will grace the Fifth avenue home of the rich Californian, D. O. Mills. The value of this single article, which is only a chimney-piece at best, is $4,800. The contract for decorating the walls of Mr. Mills' parlours demand $300 a square foot for the work. The houses going up for Mr. Vanderbilt's two sons will be nearly as costly as his own. Among other elegant buildings which will take some time to finish are those of Robert and Ogden Goelet, David Dows, and the millionaire H. R. Bishop. The orders in each case are to spare no expense, and as there is plenty of money behind them, they are pretty sure to be carried out. When the new mansions are finished and occupied they will cover the ownership of about $[illegible],-000.

A Disreputable Telephone.

That reservoir of female loveliness and intelligence known as Mills seminary, says the The San Francisco Post, is connected with outer darkness by a telephone, through which, in some senses inadequate instrument, all interviews between the inmates and male beings are conducted. The other morning Mrs. Mills was informed that a gentleman in San Francisco had signalled her instrument, and that excellent disseminator of crochet and Greek words repaired to the mouth-piece.

"Hello?" said the man.

"Heaven, O!" answered Mrs. M., who is very pious.

"I want 'em all in tights, with spangles onto 'em," said the voice, earnestly.

"Want what?" gasped Mrs. M., who was inexpressibly shocked.

"Why, the girls," replied the voice, "and very low necks. Have some of 'em jump through balloons. Red legs, green sash ——"

"The rules of this establishment will not allow anything of the kind," said the model preceptress, firmly.

"Very well, then" make 'em all red When can you send 'em to the theatre?"

"The young ladies are allowed to attend the matinee only in parties of six, and accompanied by a teacher," said the guardian of youthful innocence.

"Am not satisfied with twin sisters—must be made to kick higher."

How Mrs. Mills refrained from fainting she never knew herself, but when she revived a little she made the wire hum like an Æolian harp in a nor'east gale with the emphatic remark:

"I must request, sir, that you instantly remove your daughters from this institution—instantly, sir. I cannot consent to impart any such scandalous information to the young, and I desire——"

And there is no knowing how the matter would have resulted had not the Oakland office suddenly switched off the connection just then, and explained that he had by mistake hooked the seminary on to the Petaluma station, where a variety troupe agent was instructing a city theatrical-bill engraver regarding some coloured posters.

Art and Dress.

(From Good Words.)

Scarcely of less import than sex and age are the height, size, and general proportion of the figure. Tall and stumpy people cannot with impunity be dressed in one pattern, the stately lady sweeping through marble halls can gracefully carry queenly robes that would crush the pretty little lady dwelling in a cottage. The present inclination is to treat dress as drapery, and to consider the one as simply utilitarian, and the other, as if of necessity, supremely artistic. The points of the figure are used as pegs whereon to hang out decorative fabrics, and possibly Sartor Resartus might stigmatize our living ladies as lay figures and our intelligent men as stalking clothes-horses. Some dresses are for sitting or standing only, some for walking, while others reduce the free action of the figure to physical endurance. A lady making a morning call was asked to take a seat, but she begged to be excused, because having on "a walking costume," she could not sit down. Yet nature in building up the human frame-work had a more extended scheme, which fashion would do well not so relentlessly to thwart. As to the length of a dress, that will much depend on whether the feet are of a beauty deemed to be worth displaying: if inviting to cast a glimpse on, they will probably be permitted "like little mice to peep in and out," hence some ladies wear "gowns always short when other people's are long, and go about holding them up above the highest water-mark in fine weather." The shoulders, which call for at least as much anxious care as the feet, admit of varied decorations, as with scarf, shawl, mantilla, veil, robe, toga. "A black scarf carries an air of respect, which is in itself protection. A woman thus attired glides on her way like a small close-reefed vessel, tight and trim, seeking no encounter but prepared for one. Much, however, depends on the wearer; indeed, no article of dress is such a revealer of the character. Some women will drag it tight up to their shoulders, and stick out their elbows in defiance beneath. Such are of the independent class with strong opinions. Others let it hang loose and listless like an idle sail, losing all the beauty of the outline—both moral and physical. Such ladies have usually no opinions at all, but none the less a very obstinate will of their own." A real lady hits by intuition the happy mean; she does not "put on a turban to drink tea with two people, or an innocent white frock for a party of 200;" she does not appear as a milliner popped out of a band-box, or as an artist just stepped from a picture, or as an antiquary kept usually as a curiosity under a glass case; she moves at respectful distance from the extremes of fashion, and though society does not "know what she has on," she is not in danger of being mistaken for either Aspasia or Queen Anne. What she wears, though perchance homely, is always good; not a scrap of tinsel or trumpery appears upon her; "she deals in no gaudy confusion of colours, nor does she affect a studied sobriety, but she either refreshes you with a spirited contrast, or composes you with a judicious harmony." And the secret of her success simply consists in her "knowing the three grand unities of dress—her own station, her own age, and her own points. And no woman can dress well who does not."

The Czar has to go, it appears, into retirement to Livadia. "Solitude with one sweet companion," the Dolgorouki, to wit, is to be his chosen portion henceforth and the Czarewitch, aided by a council, is to assume the cares of state. Alexander Romanoff cannot be congratulated on the way he has closed a reign that opened not inauspiciously, with the close of the Crimean war, and the liberation of the serfs.

Liszt.

Liszt took minor orders in 1865, and for the last few years has passed the time between September and January as a guest of cardinal Prince Hohenlohe, in the celebrated Villa d'Este. Here he has four rooms at his disposal. His work-room has two windows, one looking to the north, the other with a western aspect. From the first one looks out on the garden, on the gigantic cypress trees, the innumerable waterfalls and fountains, the long shady laurel walks, and in the background the houses and churches of Tivoli, crowned by a gradually rising chain of mountains. From the western there is a magnificent view over the Campagna, Rome seeming to close in the horizon like a strip of white mist, the dome of St. Peter's alone being visible. Liszt seldom walks in the grounds, owing to the many hundreds of steps which must be descended before the level of the garden is reached. Every morning Liszt goes to the neighbouring Franciscan Church of Sister Maria Maggiore, and hears two masses. His prie dieu chair is placed over the vault of the three Cardinals of the House of Este. On his return from church he breakfasts, and generally is seen no more for the rest of the day; the time is spent in reading and composing, the piano being seldom heard; in fact, there are many days on which he does not play at all. If the Cardinal happens to be in Tivoli, Liszt always dines with him at six o'clock, and after dinner sometimes plays on a physharmonika. When composing he is in the habit of smoking very strong cigars; otherwise he leads a most temperate life, literally that of a hermit in his cell. The two great piano-forte manufacturers in America, Chickering and Steinway, both presented Liszt with magnificent instruments of their own manufacture, each worth $1,200. The Chickering piano is now in Liszt's house in Buda-Pesth, while the Steinway instrument remains in Weimar. Two of the first firms in Germany each sent him one of their best pianos, Bosendorf, of Vienna, and Bechstein, of Berlin. Old Spina, in Vienna, into whose hands Mozart's fortepiano had passed, made a present of it to Liszt, who has placed it in the Ducal Palace in Weimar. In intercourse with others Liszt has the most refined manner; he is perfectly courteous and amiable. He can be severe and perverse on occasions, when, for instance, he sees that he is expected, as a matter of course, to play to amuse the guests at some vulgar parvenu house. Those Italians who have the privilege of knowing him value him not only as a virtuoso, but they feel drawn to him by his mode of life and the charm of his amiable character. It is universally said of him: "E un uomo da bene, di garbo!"

The Austrian Emperor at Home.

Schloss Godollo, says the London Globe, once belonged to the Greek millionaire, Baron Sina, and was purchased from him by the Hungarian nation and presented to the royal couple. The main building is reserved for royalty and the members of the royal household—ladies and gentlemen in waiting, the chaplain, tutor, etc., whilst guests, of whom there are always many, and ministers, and attendants are accommodated in a separate wing. The brown and finely-wooded avenue, connecting the upper and lower park, is brilliantly lighted all night, for people are continually passing to and fro, guests coming and leaving by the train, telegrams being received and dispatched, arrangements for battues made, and a dozen other operations tending to lend this road an animated aspect day and night. The cooks have to be at their posts at 4 A. M., for his majesty takes an early meal at 4:30 before taking himself to his shooting. The scene of this very matutinal sport often lies several miles off, and has to be reached in a dogcart, and the battue commences at daybreak. His majesty never fires on the quarry unless it it is in movement; if the deer comes slowly towards him along the drive, and then, as often happens, remains standing, Franz Joseph does not draw the trigger till the animal has been scared and begins to bound away. Then he lets fly, and the aim is wonderfully steady, so that the game hardly ever gets away.

By 9 o'clock the emperor is back again at home and sitting at his work-table, whilst the courier is already waiting with the morning's dispatches. The formidable pile is boldly attacked by the king and his two secretaries. Then come the court, councillors, and ministers, who leave the monarch no peace till his 2 o'clock dejeuner—a bottle of beer and half bottle of red wine, with a plain cut off the joint, is the usual menu—which is followed by a Virginia cigar and more work till the clock strikes 3. Archduchess Valerie, her majesty's youngest child, receives her parents in her separate apartments every evening at 8:30. The 13-year-old little lady does the honours with all the grace and ease of the "dame du monde," and it is considered a mark of great esteem for a guest to be invited to this family circle. At 10 the emperor goes to bed, no matter who is at Godollo, or what is going on.

A Man of War.

(From the London Globe,)

The Magyars on Sunday ordered a statue to Gen. Bem, a man as well known on the other side of the Leitha as is Schwarzenberg on this. Bem was the bitterest enemy Russia ever had, for his whole life was devoted to damage the hated Muscovite. A Pole by birth, and, indeed, quite ignorant of the Magyar language, Bem came over the Carpathians and joined the Hungarian army, because at that time Hungary happened to be a more advantageous striking point than Poland from which to "have at" his old enemies. He would doubtless have become a Chinaman to-day for the same purpose, and gone to Irkutsk to help to worry the troops of the czar in the wilds of Central Asian steppes. As it was, he later on became a Moslem, and fought hard under the flag of the prophet, because peace having been signed with Russia by both Poland and Hungary, Turkey was the only land left where he could pursue his favourite occupation. Bem used to give the word of command in Polish or French, and a "doimelch" was at his side to translate the orders in the native language. The interpreters were more than once killed in the thick of the battle, thus leaving Bem in the lurch, and so, later on, the general was in the habit of keeping six or eight dragomans at his horse's side, to make sure of not running short of a supply.

Some of Bem's dry remarks have passed into sayings among the Magyars. At the battle of Medgyes the hussars suffered terribly, and their colonel sent to Bem to know if the cavalry should not retire. The message which the adjutant had to take back was: "When all the horses except two are fallen, then one of them is to come and tell me!" At another time Bem giving his orders to a Major Miltes, said: "You, major, will remain and defend that position as long as ever you can hang on to it." "And when I cannot hang on any longer, general, what then?" asked the major. "Then remain there just the same," was the laconic answer as the Russophobe galloped off to another part of the field. Bem died of wounds and a broken heart at Aleppo, for he saw that he had spent his life in a lost cause. The Muscovite was still triumphant and left Poland in the dust!

A Senator on his Muscle.

A story is told of a Texas senator who arrived here yesterday, says a Washington correspondent, which may enliven the topics of conversation among Pullman-car conductors and serve to show that brass buttons and a gilt band do not carry much weight in the mind of a senator from the regions of the Rio Grande. It appears that the senator had provided himself and family at St. Louis with a spacious compartment, and, fresh from the primitive quarters of his ranch, was taking in the luxuriousness of Pullman's palatial accommodations. The family of the senator not wishing to be intruded upon had closed the door of the compartment. The conductor, coming along, partly opened it. The senator, with considerable emphasis, closed it. The dignity of the conductor was nettled by this sort of interrogation of his authority in his own bailiwick, and he undertook to assert his individuality by forcing the door open. The senator, claiming the right of occupation, in Texas diction told the conductor to get out, whereupon the conductor became more colloquial than suited the senator. The latter, who stands over six feet, without further parley hauled off and let fly with the force of a battering-ram a single blow, which sent the conductor over several highly-upholstered pivot-chairs into a coal-box. The conductor, gathering himself up with an expression which suggested a vision of stars, soon rallied and made a dash at the senatorial Texan. The latter, striking a graceful attitude of defence, sang out: "See here, sir; don't come this way. If you come within range of these fists (shaking them significantly) I will mash your face in such a jelly that your own mother wouldn't recognize you." Profiting by the counsel of the old adage, the conductor withdrew, and the Texas senator finished his journey unmolested.

My Godly Man.

You ask me if I think a godly man
Can be built up Christ-like, on [illegible] plan.
Well, nature's plan is God's, and [illegible] not?
I knew one once [that answered [illegible] thought.

He preached to spirits buried in [illegible]
Good works, good life, and love [illegible]
monition:
Exhorted stomachs gnawed by [illegible]
tion,
Bread, meat, and drink, and joy [illegible]
tation.

He sang to naked feet, and [illegible]
limbs;
Coats, mittens, shoes, and trousers [illegible]
hymns.
He guided hearts and brains that ached [illegible]
chiding;
Example, truth, and courage were his [illegible]
ing.

In couchless homes and empty [illegible]
His ritual was wood, and quilts, [illegible]
And from the sick, the helpless [illegible]
tressed,
Responsive health and comfort [illegible]
blest.

The prayer he prayed, men pray not [illegible] much,
For Mammon doesn't deign to answer [illegible]
He prayed it in a cabin, low and [illegible]
Where forms were hungry, cold, and [illegible] nude.

Where silken saints had often been [illegible]
And prayed advice and censure through [illegible] door,
But at a pious distance, safely wide,
They prayed while passing by on the side,

Prayers solemn, wordy, faultless in [illegible]
frame;
But shivering orphans shivered all the [illegible]
In vacant stomachs, hunger's cruel [illegible]
Was still as fierce as if they'd never [illegible]

But my saint, on poor shoulders, [illegible] bare,
Prayed down a good, thick, warm, [illegible]
nel prayer.
Perhaps such prayers are vulgar, quite [illegible]
wild,
But in the sufferer's thanks [illegible]
smiled:

"When all my Father's jewels shall [illegible] named
Of such a one I will not be ashamed,
For, fighting off the fiend of [illegible]
From one poor wretch, he did [illegible]"

Had he a faith? Well, I should [illegible] had;
Such faith as empties worlds of all [illegible]
bad;
A faith that works all forms and rituals [illegible]
And not by styles or dogmas, but by [illegible]

This is my godly man, and Nature's [illegible]
And God's and Christ's. So let it be [illegible]
you,
And me, and ours, and all humanity;
Of such God's kingdom is, and is to be.

GEORGE ARN[illegible]

A Lover's Plea.

BY J. K.

O, sweetheart hear my song,
Scorn not my verse, and I
Will write with crimson'd [illegible]
The words I dare not [illegible],
Lo! At thy feet I lie.

In waking and in sleep
Thy face is haunting me,
Thy voice so sweet and low,
I hear like rippling flow
And murmur of the sea.

Unworthy, dear, am I
To ask for love and thee;
But, Sweet! be merciful,
As thou art beautiful,
And learn to care for me.

O turn not cold away
Thou sunshine of my life,
To live from Thee apart
Would desolate my heart,
Then be my own, my wife!

Thine image from my heart,
No other face can blot,
My soul, myself shall be
Possessed alone by thee,
O love forget me not.

A Big Game.

Apropos of gambling, says a Paris correspondent, some of my readers may remember the story which I told of a monster game of cards at St. Petersburg, where the [illegible] nulled Count Strogonoff's immense [illegible] of eight millions. I have just heard of another somewhat similar, of which a French lady of high standing, recently deceased [illegible] Tours, was the heroine. The Countess [illegible] X. was an inveterate card-player, whose skill at every game was proverbial; [illegible] Princess Y. is a Russian, an inveterate gambler. They met once on their travels and the princess, anxious to try the strength of this French champion, sent up her card, accompanied by a request that she would [illegible] a game at piquet. Mme. de X. assented; they began after dinner, and when the [illegible] rose next morning the Muscovite had lost more money than all her mines in the Ural had produced during a quarter of a century. "I do not think, countess," she said, after losing her last stake, which was for some fabulous sum, "that all my fortune will suffice to pay my debt, but I shall send you my overseer, who will hand over all my title deeds, and arrange as far as possible." "Very well, madame," replied the French lady; "but I will not consent to be outdone in courtesy by one of the most charming adversaries whom I have ever met. I have won, so be it! But I shall send for a priest and a notary. Before the priest you shall swear never to touch another card during your life; before the notary you will sign a deed granting me an annuity of [illegible] francs." The princess consented; she has never played since, while the countess dispensed to the poor the annuity, which she used jestingly to call the "ransom of the queen of clubs."

The Very Latest From London.

While I was chatting with the duke of Shrewsbury (owner of the Shrewsbury oyster mines), says a correspondent of the San Francisco Post, the queen slipped up behind and put her hands over my eyes.

"Guess who it is," said the duke.

I felt the pressure of a big seal ring the queen wears, against my cheek, so I said at once:

"Why, it's Vic."

"Everybody laughed, and the [illegible] said:

"How cute you Americans are. What a lovely dress you have on; I must really import one of your New York dressmakers. (Vic is a terrible dowdy). I wish you'd lend me the pattern of the basque."

"Couldn't think of [illegible]," I said, upon which she began teasing [illegible] down and spend a couple [illegible] Windsor.

"Do, now," she insisted, "and have just lots of fun. I [illegible] put up in the spare room. We'll get Wales down from the city, and make picnic parties, and have a good time generally."

"I think Wales has other fish to fry," said I, winking toward where he was [illegible] Mrs. Langtry out on the stairs.

"I declare, there he is again, with that stuck-up thing," said Victoria, getting angry. "Let's go and interrupt [illegible] Tell him you want to sell him some [illegible] chances."

"No, you don't," says I, "two's company—three's a crowd; ta-ta, queen," [illegible] I slid off to get some ice-cream [illegible] the earl of Wellington, Vic getting so mad that she slammed her crown [illegible] corner and went up-stairs to bed in a fit of the sulks.

The Le Dusenberry's, from Nob Hill, [illegible] here, and already have made a great sensation.

It becomes more and more apparent every day that the usefulness of the Turk in Europe is gone. In fact, the policy adopted and championed by Dennis Kearney in San Francisco towards "the heathen Chinee" is, in all probability, the very type of method of procedure that will have to be adopted by the European powers towards the Sultan and the nation over which he rules. There seems to be a notable revival of national vitality in Greece, while Turkey appears to be sinking deeper and deeper into the slough of sloth and stupidity. The day is certainly not far distant when the cross will again float over the towers of Stamboul, and the city of Constantine regain some of her former glory and grandeur.

VOL. I.
DR. [illegible] JOHN[illegible] Indian B[illegible]
CURES [illegible]
9,000.0[illegible]
FOR DYSPEP[illegible]
DUNDALK.
MANSION HOUSE MARKDALE.
ROYAL HOTEL, MEAFORD, Ont.
[illegible]MERCIAL HOTEL, PRICEVILLE, Ont.
GEORGE WILSON, BUTCHER
[illegible]

Markdale Standard.

MARKDALE, ONT.

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY, 77 W. 3d St., New York City

[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9,000,000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Pytyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pytyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me.

MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves.

NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy.

MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial.

W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 31, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

"You don't seem to have made much money by bringing your boys down here," ... "Well, no," said the ... "I haven't made much money, but then," brightening, "you know I had the company of the boys on the way down."

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX ...

Uxbridge, Ont.

Choosing a Bonnet.

... ered we don't know which to choose. Once more we cock our head in all positions and view that important portion of ourselves in every light. Nothing satisfies. We leave discouraged and so into the establishment next door. By this time the invisible net over our front hair is a perfect wreck, and the hair itself, which was prettily arranged when we started out, has a tendency to stand on an end. Their is a prospect, of nothing being becoming, from our looks! We are aggravatingly asked "What style we prefer to see?" We recklessly answer, "No particular shape—anything pretty." Again we remove our bonnet with an actual reluctance to part with it. Again we go through the old story. Our friend, who looks slightly fatigued, suddenly finds everything we try on becoming! We get up a smile. We are once more told our head is unusually small and that it is necessary to have a style copied. We find one, we think, does nicely. We leave our orders and turn our steps homeward, tired, dusty, disenchanted with everything in general, and bonnets particular. We are consoled about our small head, however, by the thought that it is a great beauty, though inconvenient. We bid our friend good-by and tell her we are sure we could do nothing without her. We speak of our success to the head of the house at dinner. He immediately asks how much we paid for our purchase. We take a long breath and boldly state the cost. There is a fuss about it. We say demurely we went all over town (for we feel tired enough to believe ourselves), and it is the cheapest thing we saw, which is the truth. For answer our amiable lord scornfully says, "Oh, pah!" We answer him, when he sees the article under discussion, he will feel perfectly satisfied. Just then the bell rings. We say, with a little air of triumph, now you will be able to judge for yourselves. In comes the band-box. We rush up stairs to a mirror, don the new fashion, arrange it most becomingly, assume our sweet impression and descend for criticism. Our better half eyes us in silence. We slowly whirl round for his benefit. His lack of enthusiasm alarms us. We falter out, "Well?" He leans back in his chair, takes us in once more, and turns round to go on with his dinner with the remark, "I'll give just $20 to burn that thing up. To tell you the truth, you look fifty years older in that than your are." We are literally crestfallen! We silently return the hat, we will never wear it in comfort now, to its resting place, consoling ourselves with the thought that it is prettier than anything we have seen, and perhaps our liege lord will learn to like it.

Dolgorouki.

The Empress of Russia, who recently died says the Figaro, had the most beautiful jewelery-box in the world. Her treasurers are valued at 25,000,000 francs.

Her state robes have been given by the emperor to the princess of Dagmar, the Czarine. The gifts presented by the Emperor to his wife have been reserved by the duchess of Edinburg; but the most precious of the jewels have become the property of the princess of Dolgorouki. And yet this new wife, upon whom the czar now lavishes all his affection, was so poor when she first won the ...

Cost too Much.

... amid the jeers of his neighbors, who predicted all sorts of misfortune that would befall him. Arriving in this city he made his way to a well-known intelligence office, and imparted the object of his mission to the matron in attendance. After considerable questioning to satisfy herself of the honesty of the farmer's intentions, she went into the room where were a dozen or more young women waiting for situations. She stated to them that a man was in the office who had come to Boston to get him a wife. Were there any present who were willing to marry an honest New Hampshire farmer without any courtship? He said he was willing to give her a good fit-out of wedding clothes at once. One young, plump-looking Irish girl said she'd like to see the party. After a few minutes' conversation with the widower she consented to marry him, and they left the office to buy the wedding outfit. The farmer took into his confidence one of the saleswomen, who joyfully entered into the matter. After assisting them in their selection of the various necessary articles of a minor nature, they went up to the dress department to buy the wedding gown. The variety shown the young girl quite bewildered her, but she finally set her heart on a dress that exactly suited her. Unfortunately the price was $15 more than the man was willing to pay. The girl coaxed and pleaded with him; the saleswoman used all her arguments to make the sale, but the widower was inflexible. "Thirty dollars was an all-fired lot of money to pay for a gown." Finally the girl declared that nothing else would satisfy her, and began to cry in real earnest. Matters looked serious; several other saleswomen took sides with the girl and pleaded for the coveted dress but without success. Then the girl got her spirit up and told him that he was a mean old fellow, and she wouldn't marry him if he'd give her the best dress in the store, and marched out.

English Kisses.

The women of England not only salute their relations with a kiss, but all persons promiscuously; and this ceremony they repeat, gently touching them with the lips, not only with grace, but without the least immodesty. Such, however, as are of blood-royal do not kiss their inferiors, but offer the back of the hand, as men do by way of saluting each other. Erasmus writes in raptures to one of his friends on this subject. "Did you but know, my Faustus," says he, "the pleasures which England affords, you would fly here on winged feet, and, if your gout would not allow you, you would wish yourself a Dædalus. To mention to you one among many things, here are nymphs of the loveliest looks, good humored, easy of access, and whom you would prefer even to your favorite muses. Here, also, prevails a custom never enough to be commended, that, wherever you come, everyone receives you with a kiss, and when you take your leave everyone gives you a kiss; when you return, kisses again meet you. If anyone leaves you, they leave you with a kiss; if you meet anyone, the first salutation is a kiss; in short, wherever you go, kisses everywhere abound; which, my Faustus, did you once taste how very sweet and how very fragrant they are, you would not, like Solon, wish for ten years' exile in England, but would desire there to spend the whole of your life." Antonio Perez, secretary to the embassy from Phillip II. of Spain, writes thus to the earl of Essex: "I have this day, according to the custom of your country, kissed, at an entertainment, seven females, all of them accomplished in mind and beautiful in person."

No Signs of Simplicity.

Nothwithstanding so much has been said about returning to a more simple style of dress, there is no indication of anything of the kind at present. Even for street wear, although skirts are short, they are trimmed as much as ever with flounces, plaitings, velvet, or plush bands and galloon. Tuniques are draped in most complicated ways, and confections are covered with passementerie beads and embroideries. With the exception of ladies' walking dresses being in dark shades, and principally even black, everything is of the most showy kind. There is a rumor that puffed sleeves are to be again worn. It is most likely that these sleeves will replace plain long ones for evening use. Waists of ordinary material are made like jerseys, but toning down the back, with a single on either side of the front. Sleeves with inserted tulle or lace puffings fastened down by bands of material are used for dinner or evening toilets. Among the favorite fabrics for dressy purposes are satins and silks with light or dark groundings, worked with gold, and satins with white groundings and large golden or colored flowers, the latter with gold intermixed. Red satins have Indian palm leaves, handsomely shaded and enriched with gold threads. "Velours de Genes" have large flowers in pale tints over different colored groundings. A great pecularity with regard to these velvets is their being combined with plaited gauze, tulle, or muslin. Some of these fabrics are quite heavy enough to serve for chair or cushion coverings, and are used only for full-dressed toilets. They are generally used for vests, panel-shaped trimmings, and very long court mantles; in short, all the flat parts of the suit; it would be most unsuitable to plait, gather, or shirr each magnificent material.

Sam Sara's Sister.

Mlle. Jeanne Bernhardt, accompanied only by a maid servant, arrived in this city yesterday morning, says the New York World, by the French line steamer Labrador. She was met at the pier of the Campeign Generale Transaltantique by Mme. Guemard, Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt's companion, who had come on from Boston the evening before, and with but a few moment's delay from the customs inspectors they drove at once to the Albermarle hotel, where they were found later by a reporter making ready to take the 4 o'clock train for Boston. Jeanne Bernhardt very strikingly resembes her elder sister, but is not quite as slender or quite as tall. Her complexion is clear and rather light, and her hair a yellow brown, the brown shades preponderating. Her cheeks are ful, relieving the prominence of the cheek bones, and the hectic flush and wan appearance of Mlle. Sara are entirely wanting. Indeed, Mlle. Jeanne appeared the picture of vivacity and health. Her voice is rich and strong, and her laugh hearty and irresistible. She was dressed in olive green, the trimming being Turkish red and yellow. A plush duchess of Devonshire hat sat jauntily on her head, surmounted by a large imitation cockleshell and yellow-red bird. Her dress, of dark olive green colour, was of shaggy cloth with a front of red and yellow plaid. The sleeves were short and long thread gloves covered her plump arm nearly to the elbow. Across the back of the chair hung a long olive-green cloak lined and trimmed with fur.

Society Events in Colorado.

Fashion Notes.

... popular.

VERMICELLI lace is the latest novelty in lace goods.

WHITE opera toilets are in the majority in London.

BANGLES are worn to excess by fashionable women.

FURNITURE effects are sought for in recent costumes.

THE Fanchon bonnet is called the bebe bonnet in Paris.

JAPANESE screen front dresses are of American origin.

FUR trimmed costumes begin to make an appearance.

HOODS on dresses, as well as on wraps, grow in favor.

LACE pins have completely superseded other kinds of brooches.

THE Drogan cap is shaped very much like a French pastry cook's.

DEEP yellow and coral pink China asters are the flower of the moment.

DULL red is a popular shade for young girls' and children's wool suits.

THE Drogan cap takes precedence of the Tam-o'-Shanter and the Glengarry.

SERPENT bracelets with golden scales and ruby eyes are coming into vogue.

THE latest hoods on dresses and wraps are rounded, not pointed, in the back.

DRINING gloves made to simulate a leopard's or tiger's claw are late novelties.

WADDED and quilted satin slippers are worn for comfortable home neligee toilet.

JERSEY corsages and striped woolens for skirts are leading styles in skating costumes.

MOTHER HUBBARD cloaks have gathered fulness front and back, shirred in at the neck.

THE only flowers used for winter hats and bonnets are made of plush, velvet, and satin.

MOTHER HUBBARD bonnets are shirred hats of good large size, tied down over the ears.

CHENILLE fringes, with strands of gold or silver thread are much used for ball dress trimming.

THE harmonies or symphonies of color must be well preserved in Japanese screen front dresses.

SIX bangles on each arm are not considered too many by girls who adopt the extreme of that barbaric style.

DARK-green and seal-brown cloth suits, trimmed with bands of fur, take the lead for elegant street costumes.

FICHUS, collarettes, jabots of large size, and simulated waistcoat fronts in lace are almost de rigueur in full dress.

GILT sautache is revived for trimming street suits and wraps, but it is not in good taste save for carriage or house wear.

A TRUE lady is as careful to make her toilet with care and taste for retiring to bed as for the morning, afternoon, or evening.

VERY wide muslin cravats trimmed with lace are worn around the neck again, with the large bow tied on one side a la Bernhardt.

TIN or wooden pail, hair receivers, covered with satin and banded with brass, have reticule tops drawn up with tasselled cords.

THE most wonderful embroidery, in the form of insects, birds, stems, and leaves in white silk floss, is how put on baby shawls and blankets.

WHEN the embroidered Japanese screen fronts of dresses are in bright colors, the brocades, satins, or plushes of the other parts of the costume are in colors to match the tone of the screen drapery.

PRETTY soft India mull squares, trimmed around with Breton, Languedoc, and Vermicelli laces, are used for completing the toilette au lit, worn as a muffler round the throat above the night robe collar.

Waifs.

SOME men are called muffs because they are used to keep a flirt's hand in.

DARK hair is worn smooth, or else in large, loose, natural-looking waves.

SHE sighed for the wings of a dove, but had no idea that the legs were much better eating.

COAL is so scarce in some parts of the west that young people engaged in courting have to sit in each other's laps to keep warm.

BERNHARDT dies so realistically that it is said a coroner who saw her ran around to the stage door and wanted to hold an inquest.

A CINCINNATI man says that Mamie Anderson's cherry-red lips are the prettiest in America. Bah! "we'll put our lips against her's any day."

A GERMAN lately married says: Id vas youst so easy as a needle could valk out mit a camel's eye as to get der behindt vord mit a vomans.'

THE young lady who objected to being embraced by her lover was gravely informed by him that she was putting a restraint upon the liberty of the press.

"CAN there be happiness where there is no love?" solemnly queries an author in a book on marriage. Not much happiness, perhaps, but if the girl is awfully rich there can be lots of fun.

"No marm," said the shoe dealer, "I would like to give you a smaller pair, but to sell you anything below eights would render me liable under the statutes for prevention of cruelty to animals".

John's wife and John were tete-a-tete,
She witty was, industrious he;
Says John: "I've earned the bread we ate;"
"And I," says she, "have urn'd the tea."

"KNOW all men by these presents," read an old bachelor lawyer. "Why don't they put in women, too?" asked his lady client. "Because," said the o. b., "if one woman knows it, all women know it."

THE young woman who bangs away at the piano, and sings "What is Home Without a Mother?" while her mother is bending over the washing-tub, is like a piece of cheap calico. She won't wash.

WHEN a boy walks with a girl as though he were afraid some one might see him, the ...

WISHING to pay his friend a compliment, a gentleman remarked: "I hear you have a very industrious wife." "Yes," replied the friend, with a melancholy smile, "she is never idle. She always finds something for me to do."

Two young ladies recently saw a young man trying to dodge three or four hornets, which had got into his room and seemed to come at him from all directions; and they thought he was practising the racquet, and said he was getting it down fine.

GIRLS, if there is one thing more than any other that holds young men of our day back from matrimonial ventures, it is the disheartening spectacle so often presented to them of your own dear papa and mamma walking into church glorified respectively by a $12 u star and a $30 bonnet. That is what scares the boys.

ELDEST Daughter—"I think you might let me come out, mamma! I'm 20, you know, and surely I've finished my education!" Festive Mamma (by no means prepared to act the part of chaperon and wall flower)—"not yet, my love. Society is so hollow! I really must preserve that sweet girlish freshness of yours a little longer!"

"WHY, Jennie, you foolish girl, come into the house. What are you out in the snow for without wraps?" "Oh, nothing much, ma. You see Augustus has just called, and here are the footprints in the snow. I'm measuring to get the right size for those slippers, and do you know I don't believe I've got half enough cloth for them."

A GENIAL mistake: New Beauty (unversed as yet in the mysteries of high life)—"Who's that wonderful old gentleman?" The Captain—"Sir Digby de Rigby, a Hampshire baronet, one of the oldest in England; James the First's creation, you know." New Beauty (determined to be surprised at nothing)—"Indeed, how well preserved he is! I shouldn't have thought him more than 70 or 80!"

A WOMAN complains that her sex is compelled by fashion to suffer dreadfully from cold. "Even when clad for the street," she says, "a woman is nowhere nearly so thickly covered as a man, unless it be about her chest and arms by a fur garment. Her head is usually not protected at all, and, in the other direction, her warm clothing stops at her hips, for below that her skirts are only a shield against the wind, without keeping out much cold. There is a general feminine aversion to flannel next the skin, arising from the prickliness of the one and the delicacy of the other. Below the knees the only covering is a stocking. So it is that the girl in a sealskin sacque, looking so mighty comfortable, really suffers greatly."

Caught on a Bridge.

A FAMILY OVERTAKEN BY A TRAIN—THE FATHER KILLED AND A LITTLE GIRL INJURED.

(From the New York Sun.)

On Thursday evening James Shugaro of Mill Street, Paterson, was returning home from a call upon some acquaintances up the Hackensack River, and, to make a short cut, he walked along the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railway track. His wife and his daughter, aged 6, were with him. A passenger train passed them, and then they took the track on which the train has passed, supposing that there would be no more trains on that track very soon; but immediately behind the passenger train was a gravel train running at a rapid rate, and before Mr. Shugaro and his wife were aware of it this train was right upon them, just as they were making their way over the ties of a high canal bridge east of the high bridge over the Passaic River. Mr. Shugaro was somewhat decrepit, and was unable to get out of the way. He was struck by the train and instantly killed. Mrs. Shugaro managed to jump to one side, and escaped injury. The little daughter, in her fright, fell through the beams of the bridge upon the frozen surface of the canal, over twenty feet below. Her arm was broken, and she suffered other injuries that it is feared will prove fatal. Mr. Shugaro was formerly in the employ of the railroad company, but of late he had not been able to work, and was in reduced circumstances.

On Praying.

Professor Adler lectured on "Prayer" a short time since in New York, and told his audience that the intelligent part of the community had given up praying for the simple reason that there is no one to pray to. It is well enough for little babies to pray, he said, because it stimulates the religious sentiment. One would judge from his address that a nice little prayer uttered by a nice little boy was a pretty fair substitute for a spoonful of Mrs. Winslow's soothing syrup. It eases of the child's mind and has a tendency to put him into a quiet and refreshing sleep. But for full-grown men—men of brains, you know, who have got beyond all this nonsense about a personal God—men of profound research, who wink at you with a knowing wink, when you talk to them about Providence as though they knew perfectly well that the doctrine had exploded but didn't quite like to say so—for such gifted souls as these to pray is an act of condescension which even Diety, if there is one, ought not to require. We are a little inclined to think that some men know altogether too much. It is almost a pity to know so much that you must needs abolish God and prayer and Providence and immortality, and having nothing left to worship except yourself. However, the men who have in this way become abolitionists do smile with sweet complacency at their own wonderful attainments, and do worship themselves with an ardent admiration which must be very comforting. It must be quiet satisfactory to dethrone everything and everybody, and then to look around on the work of destruction and say, with Master Jack Horner, "What a great man am I!"

Young Ireland.

So far as I can recollect, only three of the really prominent Young Irelanders, Sir Charles Duffy, Mr. Richard O'Gorman, of New York, and Mr. J. P. Smith, member of Parliament, are still alive. Thomas Davis, John Dillon, Smith O'Brien, Meagher, Mitchel, McGee, Doheny, Devin Reilly, John Martin—these and many others are gone. The movement was one of more than political importance to Ireland. It was a healthy influence upon the young men of that time. It began with something in the nature of a protest against the kind of policy into which O'Conner was allowing the national movement to drift. Young men were naturally growing impatient of O'Conner's more recent policy. They had for a long time firmly believed that his intention was to rouse the spirit and organize the manhood of the country into such a condition that he would be able to make a demand upon the English Government, and if the demand were refused, to launch a rebellion at England's head. O'Conner probably at no time had any such purpose. At the most, he only intended to get together a force with which he might threaten England, and which, if the English Government gave way, would answer all his ends. But he had not apparently prepared himself for the crisis, certain to arise at some time, when the English Government would refuse to draw back, and when, therefore, he must decide between going into rebellion or practically dissolving his organization. The time came, and O'Conner drew back. From that moment his power over the young men was gone. Besides, there had been during most of these later years something undecided, unsatisfactory, and, as many of the younger and more ardent Irishmen thought, ignoble, about his policy.—Justin McCarthy, in Nineteenth Century.

TWO SHILLINGS A WORD.—Lord Beaconsfield has amused himself with taking another rise out of the British public. The only true view to be taken of his new novel is that it is an elaborate jest; and no one will be more surprised than the noble author himself at the signal lack of all sense of the ridiculous exhibited by those who seriously criticise the book. "Endymion" is a practical joke in three volumes, and a joke of which the late Prime Minister has very much the best. According to one account, Lord ...

Toronto, Grey & Bruce R'y.

Change of Time.

On and after MONDAY, 3rd NOV. trains will run as follows:—

GOING NORTH.

Toronto,—Union Station,
Dep.	7:30 a. m.	12:20 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
Carlton	7.52 a.m.	12.45 p.m.	5.20 p.m.
Weston	8.05 a.m.	1.00 p.m.	5.30 p.m.
Humber Sum't	8.30 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	5.50 p.m.
Woodbridge	8.45 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	6.05 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	2.13 p.m.	6.24 p.m.
Bolton	9.25 a.m.	2.37 p.m.	6.43 p.m.
Mono Road	9.50 a.m.	3.05 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Charleston	10.35 a.m.	3.50 p.m.	7.50 p.m.
Alton	10.50 a.m.	4.05 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
ORANGEVILLE—
Arrive	11.10 a.m.	4.25. p.m.	8.20 p.m.
Depart	11 30 a.m.	4.45. p.m.
Orangeville Junction	11 45 a.m.	5.05 p.m.
Laurel		1 50 a.m.	5.20 p.m.
Shelburne		1 50 p.m.	6.00 p.m.
Dundalk		1 15 p.m.	6.50 p.m.
Proton		1.35 p.m.	7.11 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville		1.55 p.m.	7.35 p.m.
Markdale		2.15 p.m.	8.05 p.m.
Berkly		2.35 p.m.	8.28 p.m.
Williamsford		2 50 p.m.	8.16 p.m.
Arnott		3.05 p.m.	9.06 p.m.
Chatsworth		3.15 p.m.	9 16 p.m.
Rockford		3.38 p.m.	9.36 p.m.
Owen Sound		4.00 p.m.	10.10 p.m.

GOING SOUTH.

Owen Sound, depart	6.30 a.m.	12.00 noon.
Rockford	7.00 a.m.	12.30 p.m.
Chatsworth	7.20 a.m.	12.55 p.m.
Arnott	7.30 a.m.	1.06 p.m.
Williamsford	7.48 a.m.	1.28 p.m.
Berkly	8.05 a.m.	1.48 p.m.
Markdale	8.30 a.m.	2.15 p.m.
Flesherton & Priceville	8.55 a.m.	2.45 p.m.
Proton	9.15 a.m.	3 10 p.m.
Dundalk	9.35 a.m.	3.30 p.m.
Shelburne	10.15 a.m.	4.15 p.m.
Laurel	10.47 a.m.	4.40 p.m.
Orangeville Junction	11.00 a.m.	5.05 p.m.
ORANGEVILLE—
Arr.	11:15 a. m.	5:20 p. m.
Dep.	7.15 a.m.	11.35 a. m.	5.40 p. m.
Alton	7.35 a.m.	11.55 a.m.	6.00 p.m.
Charleston	7.50 a.m.	12.10 p.m.	6.18 p.m.
Mono Road	8.25 a.m.	12.47 p.m.	7.05 p.m.
Bolton	8.45 a.m.	1.10 p.m.	7.33 p.m.
Kleinburg	9.05 a.m.	1.30 p.m.	7.55 p.m.
Woodbridge	9.25 a.m.	1.50 p.m.	8.17 p.m.
Humber Smt	9.40 a.m.	2.05 p.m.	8.33 p.m.
Weston	10.00 a.m.	2.27 p.m.	9.00 p.m.
Carlton	10.10 a.m.	2.39 p.m.	9.15 p.m.
TORONTO,—Union Station,
Arrive	10.30 a.m.	3.00 p.m.	9.40 p.m.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 7ht, 1881.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS.

OSPREY.—A McGirr, was elected Reeve for this township by a majority of 70. Deputy Reeve, Mr. McIntyre. Councillors, Messrs. Sing Taylor and Johnston.

ARTEMESIA.—Reeve, Dr. Christoe, by acclamation, Councillors, Pedlar, Wright, (accl.) Elliott and Webster.

GLENELG.—The following is the result in this township. For Reeve, F. McRae by acclamation. Deputy Reeve, Hall 227, Davis 217, McCannell 215. Councillors, Neil 237, McMillan 236, Glencross 214, Dunsmoor 181, Bennie 175, Black 148.

MEAFORD.—Mayor, Burns; Reeve, A. Thompson; Councillors, North Ward,—David McCann, J. Stovel, T. Aris; West Ward,—D. L. Layton, R. Agnew, W. C. Jewell; East Ward, E. Thompson, Chas. Watt, James Hogg.

OWEN SOUND.—Mayor, Dr. C. E. Barnhart, (accl.); Reeve, John Fox; 1st Deputy. M. Kennedy, 2nd Deputy, R. Malcolm; Councillors, J. Pearson, J. Anderson, C. R. Wilkes, S. McClean, W. Manders, T. Frizzell, J. Tobey, D. A. Creasor, R. McLeod

HOLLAND.—Reeve, Mr. Howie; Deputy Reeve, Mr. Cameron; Councillors, Messrs. Shute, Gillespie and Norton.

EUPHRASIA.—Reeve, R. Myles; De-Deputy Reeve, James Boyd; Councillors, Wm. Fesset, Jas. Gilray and J. Loughead.

PROTON.—Reeve, J. J. Middleton; Deputy Reeve, Jno. Abbott; Councillors, Messrs. Black, Buckley and McArdle.

BENTINCK.—Reeve, D. McNichol (accl.); 1st Deputy Reeve, Messinger; 2nd Deputy Reeve, McCallum. Councillors—Dickson and Willis.

COLLINGWOOD.—Reeve, N. McColeman; 1st Deputy Reeve, A. Campbell; 2nd Deputy Reeve, W. Kerr. Councillors—J. Lunan and P. Stoutenburg.

DURHAM.—Mayor, Middaugh; Reeve, McKechnie (accl.) Councillors—North Ward, Burnett, Anderson, and Robertson; East Ward, Johhston. McKenzie, and Storrey; West Ward, Bull, Horn, and Brown.

EGREMONT.—Reeve, Jas. Murdoch; Deputy Reeve, Wm. Lawrence, Councillors—James Paul, Jas. Allan, and D. McCormick.

NORMANBY.—Reeve, John Koeing; 1st Deputy Reeve, John Blyth; 2nd Deputy Reeve, Wm. Winkler. Councillors—Conrad, Fischer, and Edward McMahon.

DERBY.—Reeve R. A. Stark; Councillors—W. Brien, John Robinson, R. Henderson.

SULLIVAN.—Reeve, W. Sparrow; Deputy Reeve, J. Vasey; Councillors—John Stewart, Joseph Pringle, John Proud.

SYDENHAM.—Wm. Lang. All the old council elected with the exception of Mr. Traynor, who gives way to Mr. McCutcheon.

KEPPEL.—Reeve, Wm. Totten; Deputy Reeve, John Clark. Old council re-elected.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—Last Monday, as the law required, between the hours of ten and twelve, the Municipal officers for the Township of Artemesia were nominated as follows:—Mr. Christoe as Reeve and was elected by acclamation.—Priceville Ward, Messrs. McLeod and Webster. Markdale Ward, Messrs. Elliott and Bowlard. Eugenia Ward, Mr. Pedlar, who was elected by acclamation Flesherton Ward, Mr. Wright, elected by acclamation. After one o'clock, speeches began. Mr. Christoe thanked the people for again returning him, then referred to Township business, talking, many people thought, stuff and trash in reference to Wm. Lackey's Reeveship. He then gave account of his own stewardship as though no person ever lived was fit to do anything but himself. Next the Reeve said he was opposed to railway bonuses, and proceeded to show that the Company were quite able to make the improvements themselves, going into the whole affair in detail, giving the figures, &c. To my mind his arguments were more suppositious than real; but it seemed to please some of the ratepayers. Next Mr. McLeod, Priceville Ward, said he voted for the first railway by-law, but was now opposed to giving any further bonus to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. Mr. Webster, of the same Ward, then came forward, and said he had voted for the first by-law, and put his name to the last petition requesting the Council to submit the second by-law, but was opposed to giving the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway any further aid. Many were surprised at Mr. Webster saying that he had signed a petition to have a by-law submitted which he had no intention of supporting. He also said a new scheme for a railway was soon to be submitted to the ratepayers for their consideration, which he approved of. The new road was to run from Kincardine, passing through Durham, Priceville, Flesherton, and thence to Collingwood, He said he was sure the municipalities along the proposed line would readily give good bonuses; Artemesia, say thirty thousand. The next speaker was Mr. Stone, from the same Ward, he was also opposed to giving any further aid to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway, and thought as he was a farmer the ratepayers should elect him. Mr. Elliott, Markdale Ward, thought it would be to the interest of the ratepayers to give the small amount asked for to improve the railway, whilst Mr. Boland, of the same ward, told the ratepayers he was opposed to granting aid to the road. Mr. Pedlar, Eugenia Ward, stated that he had worked against the road every time, and thought he was right, as he had gone with the crowd. Mr. Wright, Flesherton Ward, said he was proud of being elected by acclamation. He was opposed to granting any aid to the Toronto Grey and Bruce. Sir, it appears likely that Mr. Webster is one of the Directors appointed to aid this new railroad scheme. There are two other gentlemen named in connection with it, whose names I will not mention, which brings to light that a number of ratepayers in Flesherton are backing up Messrs. Christoe and Wright in the course they are pursuing, not withstanding the said ratepayers appear to be friends to he Toronto, Grey and Bruce by voting for the first bylaw, and putting their names to the petition asking to have the second bylaw submitted. Sir, what a pitty it is that the farmers of Artemesia should be led blindly against their best interests. Better to give the small amount asked for, it would not make our taxes burdensome, at the same time it would keep us on friendly terms with the Railway Company, who may remember us for good or evil. Wishing you, Mr. Editor, the compliments of the season, I shall, with your permission, refer to the subject again.

Respectfully yours,

A. FARMER.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 1881.

This should have appeared last week, but was crowded out.

WE always labored under the impression that the Meaford Monitor, was a non-political paper, but no one who read last week's issue would hesitate in pronouncing it a Reform journal, and ultra at that. We have no objection to a man enjoying the liberty of choosing his own side in politics; but we decidedly object to a man disseminating party principles under the guise of independence.

THE MARKETS.

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Jan. 7th, 1881.

Flour	5.0o	to	5.5o
Spring Wheat per bush., new	1.00	to	1.04
Fall do. do. do.	1.00	to	1.00
Barley	0.60	"	0.85
Oats	0.27	"	0.28
Peas	0.60	"	0.61
Potatoes.	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.18
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.50	"	5.75
Beef	4.00	"	5.00
Geese per lb.	0.05	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb.	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.00
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.25
Hay	6.50	"	0.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.3o
Green Apples, per. bushel.	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	2.00	"	2.10

FLESHERTON.

(Corrected weekly for the Standard by R. J. Sproule, Flesherton.)

THURSDAY, Jan. 6th, 1881.

Flour, per bbl.	$5.00	to	$5.50
Spring Wheat per bush.,	1.00	to	1.03
Fall do. do. do.	1.00	"	1.00
Barley	0.60	"	0.85
Oats	0.00	"	0.28
Peas	0.60	"	0.62
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.18
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed.	5.50	"	5.70
Beef	4 00	"	5.00
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.25
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Hay	6.00	"	7.00
Timothy seed,	2.00	"	2.50
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Lard	0.10	"	0.12
Tallow	0.05	"	0.07

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to intimate to you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past. Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE,

Flesherton, Dec. 29, 1880. 16-5ih

FLESHERTON Harness Shop!

THE Subscriber having purchased the business lately carried on by Mr. S. Damude, begs to inform the public that he has REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE, where he is prepared to furnish ALL KINDS of HARNESS usually found in a First-Class Establishment, And at prices to suit the times, and by using THE BEST OF MATERIAL, AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c., constantly on hand. COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

Call and satisfy yourselves. Remember the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec., 1880. 16.

Auction Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Mortgage which will be produced at time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, by J. M. WEBSTER, Auctioneer, at the VILLAGE OF MAXWELL in the County of Grey, on

Friday, January 14,

A. D. 1881, at the hour of 11 o'clock in the forenoon, the following Freehold Property, in one parcel, viz.:—

Lot No 7 in the 12th Concession of the Township of Osprey in the County of Grey.

The said Lot consists of 100 acres, more or less, of which about 60 acres are cleared and in a fair state of cultivation. Upon the premises, which are situated near the Villages of Feversham, Maxwell, and a few miles from Flesherton Village and Railway Station, are erected Farm Buildings.

TERMS OF SALE.—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent additional in one month thereafter, and the remainder to be secured by a first mortgage. For further particulars apply to the undersigned at Toronto.

WILLIAM MULOCK,

Vendors' Solicitor, 19 Toronto st., Toronto

Jan. 4th, 1881, 17-2i

AUCTION SALE OF VALUABLE PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a mortgage, which will be produced at the time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, by J. M. WEBSTER, Auctioneer, at the Flesherton Hotel, in the VILLAGE OF FLESHERTON, ON

On Thursday, January 13th,

A. D. 1881, at the hour of 3 o'clock in the afternoon, the following Freehold Property, in one parcel, viz.:—

Village Lot No. 4 in Block A in the Village of Flesherton, as shown on a plan made by Charles J. Wheelock, P. L. S., registered on the 20th day of March, 1871, of Lots Nos. 146, 147, 148, 149 and 150 in the 1st Range north east of the Toronto and Sydenham Road in the Township of Artemesia in the County of Grey.

The said Lot is situated at the corner of Beche l and Collingwood streets in the Village of Flesherton, and contains about one-quarter of an acre of land, and has erected thereon a two-story Rough-cast House and Tin Shop, with Frame Kitchen, and also a Stable.

TERMS OF SALE.—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale; Twenty-five per cent. additional in one month thereafter, and the remainder to be secured by a first mortgage. For further particulars apply to the undersigned at Toronto.

WILLIAM MULLOCK,

Vendors' Solicitor, 19. Toronto st., Toronto.

January 4, 1881. 17-1in

REVERE HOTEL, MARKDALE.

T. SPROULE, - Proprietor.

THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, and is now second to none in the county. Good stabling and attentive ostler. First-class accommodation for commercial travellers. Terms $1.00 per day. 17-ly

LAST NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned, either by book or account, will do w ll to settle with J. F. Sproule, before the 20th inst., as all unsettled accounts at that time will be placed in other hands for collection.

DR. SPROULE.

Jan. 5th, 1881. 17-2i

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, lot 25, con. 7, Township of Artemesia, about the 3rd of December, 1880, A Bay Colt. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses, and take him away. If not claimed within ten days after the date of this will be sold to defray expences.

JOSEPH FENWICK.

Jan. 7th, 1880. 17-3*

Mortgage Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTIES,

In the Townships of Glenelg, Bentinck and Egremont, in the County of Grey.

UNDER AND BY VIRTUE of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by John McMillan, jr., Martin Dunn, John Macpherson, James Smith, Alexander MacRae, James Hastie, Dougald Macfarlane, John Wilson, Charles Coutts, and Alexander Ferguson, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in payment of the moneys secured by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, at McAllister's Hotel, in the Town of Durham, on

Tuesday, the 11th day of January, A. D. 1881,

at one o'clock p. m., the following parcels of land:

I. Lot No. 35, in the 2nd concession North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 40 acres are cleared, and the residue free from stumps. On the lands are said to be a log barn, two log stables, and log house; the soil is a good clay loam, and the property is situate about 4½ miles from Durham.

II. Lot No. 9, in the 8th concession of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 50 acres are cleared, and about 40 acres under hardwood. The soil is generally clay loam, and the farm is only about 10 miles from Markdale and 10 from Durham. On the premises are a log house, barn and stable.

III. Lot No. 20, in the 4th concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 60 acres are cleared, and nearly all the remainder covered by hardwood. This property is situate only 7 miles from Flesherton, and is in a fair state of cultivation.

IIII. Lot No. 15, in the 2nd concession, East of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about 80 acres are cleared, and the balance mostly hardwood. On the premises are said to be a frame barn, and the premises are only 10 miles from Durham

V. The West half of lot No. 16, in the 5th concession, North of the Durham Road, of the said Township of Glenelg, containing 50 acres, more or less, of which about 30 acres are cleared, and 10 free from stumps. This farm is situate about 10 miles from Flesherton and 7 miles from Durham.

VI. The West half of lot No. 19, in the 12th concession of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 50 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared, and situate only 12 miles from Durham.

VII. Lot No. 14, in the 2nd concession; West of the Garafraxa Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containing 100 acres, more or less, nearly all cleared. This farm is situate about 8 miles from Durham on good road.

VIII. Lot No. 22, in the 3rd concession, North of the Durham Road, in the said Township of Bentinck, containg 50 acres, more or less, about 30 of which are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. This farm is only about 4 miles from Durham.

IX. Lot No. 20, in the 11th concession, of the said Township of Bentinck, containing 85 acres, more or less, of which about 12 acres are cleared, and nearly all the residue under hardwood. On the premises are said to be a log house, and the lands are only about 10 miles from Durham.

X. Lot No. Eleven, in the 22nd concession of the said township of Egremont, containing 119 acres, more or less, of which about 50 are cleared, and 20 under hardwood. The lands are only about 8 miles from Durham.

TERMS—10 per cent. at the time of sale, 15 per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at 7 per cent. yearly; or if additional satisfactory security be given, no cash need be paid; or terms may be varied in any reasonable way to suit purchasers. For further particulars apply to Robert Davis, Flesherton; R. McKay, Auctioneer, Durham; or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLES, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec. 1880.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative medicine known or available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced so valuable a remedy, nor one so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates and enlivens the vital functions, promotes energy and strength, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease which arises from impurity of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, of cheap materials, and without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co.,
Practical and Analytical Chemists,
Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

J. MONTGOMERY, BAKER.

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is how prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES, either plain, or Iced and Ornamented, and a large Variety of Other Cakes. always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description. from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials, AND OTHER PARTIES, supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN, Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to FILL ALL ORDERS Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

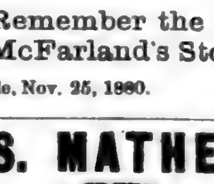
Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed —AT— LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold a. moderate rates.

☞ None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov, 18, 1880. 1o

3,000 Cords Wood WANTED.

THE undersigned is prepared to let the contract for cutting and hauling 3,000 cords of wood from his farm 2½ miles north of Markdale, to be delivered at the station. be let in small lots to suit contractor. For particulars see

C. E. GOULD, Markdale House.

Markdale, Dec. 30, 1880. 16-3in*

TENDERS

WILL be received by the undersigned, up to Feb. 1st, 1881; for building a brick house, in Flesherton; contractor to supply all material. Plans and specifications may be seen at my office.

ROBT. DAVIS,

Conveyancer, Commissioner in B. R., Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agent, Flesherton.

Jan. 5th, 1881.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All

FRUITS, CONFECTIONERY,

LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at

☞ RIGHT PRICES!

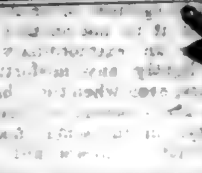
My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, ... TER, equal to Guinness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in this section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

☞ Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 3-ly

MEDICAL HALL.



CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental. for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas. and Tobaccoes, ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

☞ Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13 tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8,9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment OFFERED BY THE BRITISH CANADIAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, AND British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES —ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me. P. S.—Several improved farms for sale.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3m

GRANT & CHELLEW, MARKDALE.

CABINET MAKERS, —AND— UPHOLSTERERS

A FULL STOCK OF Furniture! ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

AUCTION SALE! OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by Virtue of Power of Sale contained in a certain Mortgage, which will be produced at the time of Sale, and upon which default in payment has been made, there will be sold by PUBLIC AUCTION, AT THE RUTLEDGE HOUSE, IN THE Village of Markdale, in the County of Grey, on Monday, the 10th day of anuary, A. D. 1881,

at THREE O'CLOCK in the Afternoon, the following land and premises, viz.:

Lot Number Forty, in the Fourteenth Concession of the Township of ... the County of Grey, containing One Hundred and Ten Acres more or less.

The following improvements are said to be on the premises, viz., A Log Dwelling and Frame Barn and Stable.

TERMS.—One Tenth of the purchase money must be paid down at time of sale. For balance, terms liberal and will be made known at the ...

For further particulars apply to LEYS, PEARSON & KINGSFORD, ... Toronto.

18-5 in

Mortgage Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTIES IN THE TOWNSHIPS OF Artemesia and Glenelg.

UNDER and by virtue of the powers of sale contained in certain Mortgages made by William John Covey and John Hewitt, respectively, to the Vendors, which will be produced at the time of sale, and in payment of the monies secured, by which default has been made, there will be offered for sale

By Public Auction, AT RUTLEDGE'S HOTEL, In the Village of Markdale, ON Thursday, the 13th day of Jan'y,

1881, at twelve o'clock, noon, the following parcels of land:—

1. The centre portion of lot number 21, in the eleventh concession of the said township of Artemesia, containing fifty acres, more or less, and being all the residue of said lot not heretofore granted to Robert Buchanan by letters patent, dated the 22nd day of June, 1874, and to Thomas Gilbert, by letters patent dated the 22nd day of June, 1867, and which said residue is more fully set out in the patent thereof from the Crown, to the said William John Covey, as by reference thereto will more fully appear. On the lands are said to be a Frame Barn and House, and Young Orchard; 35 acres are cleared, and the soil good. This farm is on a good road about five miles from Markdale.

2. Lot number 22, in the 10th concession of the said township of Glenelg, containing 100 acres, more or less, of which about sixty acres are cleared and the residue free from stumps. On the premises are said to be a Log House and Barn, and the soil is a clay loam. This is a very fine farm.

TERMS—Ten per cent. at the time of sale, fifteen per cent. within one month thereafter, and the balance to be secured by mortgage, with interest at seven per cent. yearly, or if additional satisfactory security be given no cash need be paid, or terms may be varied in any reasonable way to suit purchaser. For further particulars, apply to ROBERT DAVIS, Auctioneer, Flesherton,

Or to BETHUNE, MOSS, FALCONBRIDGE & HOYLE, Vendors' Solicitors, Toronto.

Dated 17th Dec., 1880. 16-td

Executors Notice.

THE Executors of the Estate of the late John and Jane Gillon, of Artemesia, hereby give notice to all persons indebted to the said estate, to pay such debt forthwith and save costs. And all persons having any just claims against the said estate are requested to send in such claims, stating their ... January, 1881, to John Wright, Flesherton P.O.

JOHN WRIGHT, GEORGE BUSKIN, Executors.

Artemesia, Dec. 22nd, 1880. 16 2in

FOR Cheap Stationery, Beautiful Christmas and New Year Cards at the Standard Office.

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

... to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased the ... FLESHERTON STEAM ... AND SASH AND DOOR FACTORY AND REMOVED TO THE Furniture Warerooms ... NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUIDING ADJOING THE FACTORY

... customers will always find me, or a competent salesman ... attention to their wants. My facilities are now Superior to any ... by honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of Furniture in all the Latest Styles and during the Winter I require 100,000 FEET OF GOOD Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and ... LUMBER! for which THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAID.

Also a Quantity of Good Pine ...

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ETC. AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Application

☞ Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durham ...

H. HOOPER

Flesherton, December 23, 1880.

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTER ... AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Days

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEAP

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEAP

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing CHEAP

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT

ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES

BOOTS AND SHOES In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRICES at the "TORONTO HOUSE"

Wm. BROWN

Markdale, December 20, 1880.

WE WISH YOU A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that it has been a year of prosperity with the people of our Country and as others have prospered, we have been enabled to participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially since moving into our new premises, and we solicit a share of patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Goods

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and Saucers

and a large variety of CHILDREN'S TOYS

OUR GROCERIES

For the season are, as usual,

Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,
NEW PRUNES,
NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value
The People are all asking for our TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING WINTER DRY GOODS At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties, 5,000 Telegraph Poles, Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHERS

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.

THE STANDARD.

... 1881

... NOTICES.

... keeps the largest and ... in the county. ...

... council meeting in all the ... will be held the third ...

... and cheapest machine ... go to Haskett Bros.

... company are sole ... "Castorine machine ... will be prosecuted.

... and a quarter of ... wood, or one and a ... you can have the ... year.

... orders for "Castorine" ... see that the barrel ... "Castorine," as none other ...

... meeting of the electoral ... society, takes place ... Flesherton, on Wed... 19th inst.

... annual meeting of Glen... society, will be held in ... Hall, Markdale, on ... inst.

"Castorine" Machine Oil, for ... machinery, it is also ex... harness and leather, make ... weather proof. For sale ...

... matter to be printed, ... letter or packet, Printer's ... leave the end open, and it ... one cent per ½ oz.

... of reapers, mowers ... machines, prefer "Castorine" oil to any other, it ... lard, seal, or elephant; ... warranted not to gum.

... take a cord and a quarter ... or one cord of dry two ... the Weekly Mail for ... the paper to be furnished ... of the wood.

... Births and Death no... item of news that is not ... benefit to any person, are ... The public would do ... by sending or handing in ...

... Advertiser clipped a column from our columns this ... credited them to the Expositor ... your specs on next time, ... you will see that the ... paper is THE STANDARD.

... Presbyterian sabbath school ..., came off on New Year's ... and notwithstanding the ... decided success and we ... express the opinion it ... entertainment that has ... this season.

... of our subscribers ... arrangements to pay their sub... to the STANDARD in wood, ... us by bringing it in now ... the roads are good. We are in ... of wood and a few cords now ... be just as acceptable as the ...

... weather has moderated somewhat since our last issue, and the ... are again making pretty good ... Grain, Firewood, Sawlogs, ... Ties, Telegraph Poles, &c., ... being brought into the village and ... the railway station in large quantities, and $4 bills seem as plentiful as ... in June.

PARTIES visiting Markdale and de... comfortable quarters, should ... fail to pay Mr Thos. Sproule, of ... Revere Hotel a visit. They will ... a first-class table, comfortable ..., and mine host, Tom, ready to ... anything in his power to make ... feel at home. Charges $1 per ... See card in another column.

... third annual session of the ... Ontario Branch of the Dominion Alliance, will be held in the Temperance Hall, Toronto, on the 20th and 21st ... the present month. There are ... important questions relative to ... Scott Act to be submitted to the ..., and a good turn out is re...

... Wilcox made some pret... extensive sales during the holiday ..., he has quite a large stock yet ... hand. Those contemplating marriage should drop into his shop, and ... his stock of wedding rings.—... has them at all prices. If you want to make your sweatheart a nice present, Ned can suit you to a nicety; or if your watch or clock is out of order, no better place to take it than to Wilcox.

THE Masquerade on the Markdale skating rink, which took place on the ... ult., taking the intensely cold weather into consideration, was well attended. The following are the successful competitors:—Best comic costume, Mr. W. Haskett; 2nd Mr. John Knox. Best lady and gent's costume, Mr. E. O. Gjerurum and Miss M. E. Wright; 2nd Mr. Chellew and Miss Lyons. Best gent skater, Mr. R. J. Reid; 2nd Mr. Knox. Best lady skater, Miss M. E. Wright; 2nd Miss Lyons. Best boy skater, A. Bryden; 2nd W. Lyons. Best girl skater, Miss Lyons; 2nd A Reynolds.

... BILLS.—Mr. John Mathe..., from the Lake Shore Line, says the O. S. Advertiser, was arrested on Tuesday by the Chief Constable of that town, on the charge of passing ... bills raised from ones to ... He appears to have met with a certain amount of success, as one was passed at Lloyd's Hotel, one at C. Hall's, and two at Geo. McDougall's. One was also offered at the ... Hotel, but was refused. We saw one or two $4 that had been raised from Dominion 1's this week. People should keep their eyes open these ...

MOSES OATES' WEATHER BOOK.—We have received from the Toronto News ... copy of the first weather Almanac issued by the Ontario weather ..., whose success during the ... two years, in forecasting the ... has been marvellous. The ... book, which contains ... probabilities of the weather ... interesting records of the ..., a variety of almanac matter, ..., a weather map of the con... and articles on the climate of ... and meteorology generally, ... a large number of prognostics ... day use. The book is neat..., has a very attractive cover, ... well worthy of perusal. It is ... at all the book stores. Price ...

With the new year, ... Almanac makes its appearance. It is ... in every family. ... replete with crisp ... refreshing humor, and ... tion not usually found ... Its astronomical cal... high reputation for acc... are adapted, in the ... of the almanac, to a... globe. While a large ... pages are devoted to ... vertisement of the m... tions of this house it ... feature that many ... are freely given f... of the sick, irrespe... medicines. These ... universally used and ... their valuable and r... The almanac describe... of these medicines to ... are intended to cure ... tained free of charge ... or dealer in medicine ...

DUNDALK.

Correspondence to the ...

Mr. J. J. Middlet... elected Reeve for ... Proton, although h... ted themselves to th... him. Mr. Abott ... Deputy Reeve, an... Buckley and McA... Councillors. The ... returns for each W...

REEVES	1	2
Middleton,	40	3
Nelson,	67	6
DPT. REEVE.
Abbott,	26	4
McMillan.	92	7
COUNCILLORS.
Black,	58	7
Buckley,	98	3
McArdle,	81.	6

GLENELG.

Council met p... ment from Octo... members presen... Bennie, seconded ... the amount of W... ing to $6.80, be p... ders were issued ... payment of work ... as follows:—W... Ward No. 2, $25... $258.70; Ward ... Neil moved, seco... lan, that widow ... Widow Smith, ... Widow McDonald ... R., be exempt fo... 1880, and that t... fied to that eff... by Mr. Bennie ... lan, that S. McC... for plan and sp... lot 7, con. 2 N... Bennie moved, ... paid ... $5.9; J. B... reduced $2 on ... sessment of p... ried.—Mr. Davi... Mr. Bennie, ti... paid $7 for coff... ses of Ronald ... Mr. McMillan ... Mr. Neil, that t... paid to the R... letting and ins... Davis, $14.80, ... P. Neil, $20.72 ... $12.40; and t... Davis, be paid ... $6, for services ... —Carried. M... conded by Mr. ... for 1880 again... be reduced $2... assessment.— ... moved, second... the Clerk be a... under the Sch... Reeve having ... moved by M... Mr. Bennie, th... Council are du... the able, kind... in which he p... rations of th... year that is n... Carried unan... adjourned.

OSPREY.

At this date ... call of the R... Messrs. Gam... puty Reeve; ... Councillors. ... Minutes of la... firmed. ... ceived from t... No 8, reque... the levy first ... one half. ... ward Towns... asked by J. ... pended on t... Sing, s... that the acc... planking Su... to $9 87. ... issue a s... Moved by M... Winters, th... tor S. S. N... one half. ... Sing, secon... the account ... the 11th con... paid, and ... order for t... Douglas int... amending by... Deputy Ret... passed throu... by law 195 ... name of Th... Howard A. ... division No... sine die.

In Markdale ... Mr. Lyman A...

On the 20th ... at the residence ... Mr. John W... land, to Miss ... of King, Co. ...

On the 21st ... at the residence ... B. Freeman ... daughter of ...

On the 22nd ... age, by the ... Goulding of ... Miss Eliza T...

On the 23rd ... at the Ameri... Ernest Moue... er of W. Joh...

On the 23... the residence ... Sword, to M... Owen Sound ...

MOVAL TEAM DOOR FAC rooms
JOINING THE Superior latest Styl
GOOD
Birch and
BE PAID
LDINGS, ETC.
Applicatio
HOOPE
OFF!
NTER
0 Days
uits,
CHEAP
S,
CHEAP ercloth
ry Goods
ICES
HOES
BROWN
y New Yea
ods and Sau
OYS.
RIES
Good.
ERS

STANDARD.

Jan. 7th, 1881

OTHER NOTICES.

... Bros keeps the largest and ... of stoves in the county.

... council meeting in all the ...ies, will be held the third ... January.

... best and cheapest machine ... go to Haskett Bros.

... company, are sole ...ers of "Castorine machine ...ements will be prosecuted.

... a cord and a quarter of ... foot wood, or one and a ... and you can have the ... for a year.

... dealers for "Castorine" ..., and see that the barrel ... "Castorine," as none other ...

... meeting of the electoral ...cultural society, takes place ... hall, Flesherton, on Wed- ...nuary 19th inst.

...d annual meeting of Glen- ...tural society, will be held in ...rin Hall, Markdale, on ... inst.

"Castorine" Machine Oil, for ... of machinery, it is also ex- ... harness and leather, make ...nd weather proof. For sale ...s.

...ding as matter to be printed, ... the letter or packet, Printer's ... leave the end open, and it ... cost one cent per ½ oz.

...ACTURERS of reapers, mowers ...shing machines, prefer "Cas- ... machine oil to any other, it ... wear lard, seal, or elephant, ...arranted not to gum.

...ll take a cord and a quarter ... wood, or one cord of dry two ...d for the Weekly Mail for ... The paper to be furnished ... delivery of the wood.

...ages, Births and Death no- ...ny item of news that is not ...ary benefit to any person, are ... free. The public would do ...r by sending or handing in ... news.

... S. Advertiser clipped a cou- ...tems from our columns this ...nd credited them to the Expo- ... Put your specs on next time, ... and you will see that the ... of our paper is THE STANDARD.

... Presbyterian sabbath school ...sary, came off on New Year's ... and notwithstanding the ...as a decided success and we ... many express the opinion it ... best entertainment that has ...ace this season.

... of our subscribers, who have ...rrangements to pay their sub- ...ns to the STANDARD in wood, ...lige us by bringing it in now ...he roads are good. We are in ... of wood and a few cords now ... be just as acceptable as the ...

... weather has moderated some- ...since our last issue, and the ... are again making pretty good ... Grain, Firewood, Sawlogs, ... Ties, Telegraph Poles, &c., ...ng brought into the village and ...ailway station in large quan- ...nd $4 bills seem as plentiful ... in June.

...es visiting Markdale and de- ... comfortable quarters, should ... to pay Mr Thos. Sproule, of ...vere Hotel a visit. They will ... first-class table, comfortable ..., and mine host, Tom, ready to ...ything in his power to make ...feel at home. Charges $1 per ... See card in another column.

... third annual session of the ... Branch of the Dominion Alli- ... will be held in the Temperance ... Toronto, on the 20th and 21st ... present month. There are ... important questions relative to ...cott Act to be submitted to the ...ng, and a good turn out is re- ...ed.

...n Wilcox made some pret- ...ensive sales during the holiday ..., he has quite a large stock yet .... Those contemplating mar- ... should drop into his shop, and ... his stock of wedding rings.— ... them at all prices. If you ... make your sweatheart a nice ..., Ned can suit you to a ...; or if your watch or clock is ... order, no better place to take it ...to Wilcox.

... Masquerade on the Markdale ...g rink, which took place on the ... ult., taking the intensely cold ...er into consideration, was well ...ed. The following are the ...sful competitors:—Best comic ...e, Mr. W. Haskett; 2nd Mr. ... Knox. Best lady and gent's ...e, Mr. E. O. Gjerurum and ...M. E. Wright; 2nd Mr. Chellew ... Miss Lyons. Best gent skater, ...R. J. Reid; 2nd Mr. Knox. Best ... skater, Miss M. E. Wright; 2nd ... Lyons. Best boy skater, A. ...en; 2nd W Lyons. Best girl ...r, Miss Lyons; 2nd A. Reynolds.

...ISED BILLS.—Mr. John Mathe- ... from the Lake Shore Line, says ... D. S. Advertiser, was arrested on ...day by the Chief Constable of ... town, on the charge of passing ...inion bills raised from ones to .... He appears to have met with ...rtain amount of success, as one ... passed at Lloyd's Hotel, one at ...all's, and two at Geo. McDou- .... One was also offered at the ... Hotel, but was refused. We saw ... or two $4 that had been raised ... Dominion 1's this week. Peo- ... should keep their eyes open these ...s.

...MOSES OATES' WEATHER BOOK.—We ...e received from the Toronto News ... A copy of the first weather Alma- ... issued by the Ontario weather ...phet, whose success during the ... two years, in forecasting the ...ter, has been marvellous. The ... book, which contains ... probabilities of the weather ...1881, interesting records of the ... year, a variety of almanac matter, ... gives a weather map of the con- ...nt, and articles on the climate of ...ada and meteorology generally, ...ides a large number of prognostics ... every day use. The book is neat- ...rinted, has a very attractive cover, ... is well worthy of perusal. It is ... sale at all the book stores. Price ...cents.

WITH the new year, Ayer's Ameri- can Almanac ... its customary appearance. It is a welcome visitor in every family. Its pages are re- plete with crisp medical advice, re- freshing ... and much informa- tion not usually found in such a work. Its astronomical calculations have a high reputation for accuracy, and they are adapted, in the various editions of the almanac, to all parts of the globe. While a large portion of its pages are devoted to an elaborate ad- vertisement of the medical prepara- tions of this house it is a noticeable feature that many prescriptions are freely given for the benefit of the sick, irrespective of Ayer's medicines. These preparations are universally used and appreciated for their valuable and reliable qualities. The almanac describes the application of these medicines to the diseases they are intended to cure. It can be ob- tained free of charge of any druggist or dealer in medicine.

DUNDALK ITEMS.

Correspondence to the STANDARD.

Mr. J. J. Middleton has been again elected Reeve for the Township of Proton, although his opponents exer- ted themselves to the utmost to defeat him. Mr. Abott has been elected Deputy Reeve, and Messrs. Black, Buckley and McArdle were elected Councillors. The following are the returns for each Ward:

REEVES	1	2	3	4	5	TOTAL
Middleton,	60	64	60	27	106	—287
Nelson,	67	64	50	33	50	—270
DPT. REEVE.
Abbott,	26	43	33	46	117	—265
McMillan.	92	51	81	13	24	—260
COUNCILLORS.
Black,	58	58	97	39	102	—354
Buckley,	98	33	57	39	73	—300
McArdle,	84	63	88	36	82	—352

GLENELG COUNCIL.

Council met pursuant to adjourn- ment from October 4th. All the members present. Moved by Mr. Bennie, seconded by Mr. Davis, that the account of Wm. Douglas, amount- ing to $6.80, be paid.—carried. Or- ders were issued on the Treasurer in payment of work on roads and bridges as follows:—Ward No. 1, $184.50; Ward No. 2, $254,20; Ward No. 3, $258.70; Ward No. 4, $53.60. Mr. Neil moved, seconded by Mr. McMil- lan, that widow Tuohy, lot 17, con. 8; Widow Smith, lot 22, con. 12; and Widow McDonald, lot 7, con. 3, S. D. R., be exempt from taxes for the year 1880, and that the collector be noti- fied to that effect.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Bennie, seconded by McMil- lan, that S. McCracken be paid $3, for plan and specification of bridge at lot 7, con. 2 N. D. R.—Carried. Mr. Bennie moved, seconded by Mr. Mc- Millan, that the following accounts be paid:—J. A. Johnson, printing, $2; Rowsell & Hutchison, election blanks, $5.30; J. Brown, postage and sta- tionery, $3.68; Selectors of Jurors, each, $4; T. Davis, delivering no- tices, $2.—Carried. Mr. Davis mov- ed, seconded by Mr. Bennie, that the taxes for 1880 against the 3rd division of lot 22, on 1st con. E. G. R., be reduced $2 on account of error of as- sessment of personal property.—Car- ried.—Mr. Davis moved, seconded by Mr. Bennie, that John S. Black be paid $7 for coffin and funeral expen- ses of Ronald McInness.—Carried. Mr. McMillan moved, seconded by Mr. Neil, that the following sums be paid to the Road Commissioners for letting and inspecting contract—T. Davis. $14,80; J. A. McMillan, $21; P. Neil, $20.72; and Geo. Bennie, $12.40; and that Messrs. Neil and Davis, be paid $4 each, and the Reeve $6, for services on Road Committee. —Carried. Mr. Bennie moved, se- conded by Mr. Davis, that the taxes for 1880 against lot 2, con. 4 N.D.R., be reduced $2, on account of error in assessment.—Carried. Mr. Davis moved, seconded by Mr. Bennie, that the Clerk be allowed $15 for services under the School Act.—Carried. The Reeve having left the Chair, it was moved by Mr. Davis, seconded by Mr. Bennie, that the thanks of this Council are due F. McRae, Esq., for the able, kind and impartial manner in which he presided over the delibe- rations of this Council during the year that is now drawing to a close.— Carried unanimously. The Council adjourned.

OSPREY COUNCIL.

MAXWELL, 27th Dec., 1880.

At this date the Council met at the call of the Reeve. Members present, Messrs. Gamey, Reeve; Douglas, De- puty Reeve; Sing, Inkster and Winter, Councillors. The Reeve in the Chair. Minutes of last meeting read and con- firmed. Communications were re- ceived from trustees of school section No 8, requesting Council to change the levy first asked for, by reducing it one half. From the Clerk of Colling- wood Township, respecting equivalent asked by J. R Sing, to $5.00 ex- pended on town line. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that the account of W. Pearson, for planking Singhamptonbridge, am'ting to $9.87, be paid, and that the Reeve issue his order for the same.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Winters, that school levy for 1880, for S. S. No. 8, Osprey, be reduced one half.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Sing, seconded by Mr. Douglas, that the account of F. Sykes, for work on the 11th con., amounting to $5.00, be paid, and that the Reeve issue his order for the same.—Carried. Mr. Douglas introduced by-law No. 195, amending by-law No. 192, appointing Deputy Returning Officers. By-law passed through the several stages, and by-law 195 amended, by inserting the name of Thomas Hannan in lieu of Howard A. Hay as D. R. O. for T. sub- division No. 5. Council adjourned sine die.

WM. MILNE,
Clerk.

BIRTHS.

In Markdale, on the 23rd ult., the wife of Mr. Lyman Anderson of a son.

MARRIED

On the 20th ult., by the Rev. T. R. Reid, at the residence of the bride's mother, Arnott, Mr. John Webster of the township of Hol- land, to Miss Sarah Booth of the township of King, Co. of York.

On the 21st ult., by the Rev. W. T. Hicks, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. J. B. Freeman of Chatsworth, to Hannah, daughter of R. Webster, Esq., of Holland.

On the 22nd ult., at the Methodist parson- age, by the Rev. T. R. Reid, Mr. John R. Goulding of the township of Maryboro', to Miss Eliza Turner, township of Sullivan.

On the 22nd ult., by the Rev. W. T. Hicks, at the American Hotel, Owen Sound, Capt. Ernest Monck of Brooke, to Isabella, daugh- ter of W. Johnston, Esq., of Sarawak.

On the 23rd ult., by the Rev. C. Fish, at the residence of the bride's mother, Mr. W. Sword, to Miss Maria Jane Allister, both of Owen Sound.

... Money Advanced ...

MARKDALE.

... INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT,

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 1-y

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). Plastering and Country Jobs promptly attended to. Stonecutting a Spe- cialty. Estimates on all work, free. Satis- faction guaranteed. Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Streets, MARKDALE.

December 31, 1880. 16-y

WM. FOX,

Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on ap- plication. Satisfaction Guranteed. Resi- dence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Samuel Morrow,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

Sales attended at shortest notice in town or country. Charges moderate.

Sale Bills, Notes and Stamps furnished if required. Having had long experience in the business I can guarantee satisfaction.

Markdale, Sept. 24th, 1880. 3 3m

J. M. Webster,

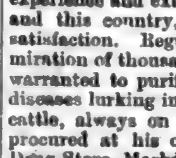
LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

LOAN AND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O,

Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf



VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his pro fession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the ad- miration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent,

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

STRAYED

Into the premises of the subscriber, lot 178, con. 2, west, Township of Artemesia, one Dark Bay Horse. The owner is requested to prove property pay charges and take him away,

SAMUEL WAUCHOB.

Dec. 15, 1880. 16-3

In Chancery.

THE FARMERS' LOAN AND SAVINGS COMPANY,

vs.

LECKIE.

PURSUANT to the Decree made in this cause, there will be sold with the appro- bation of T. W. Taylor, Esquire, Master in Ordinary of this Court by J. M. Webster, Auctioneer,

At the FLESHERTON Hotel,

IN THE VILLAGE OF FLESHERTON,

at the hour of three o'clock in the afternoon of the following lands and premises in one par- cel., viz: Lot number twenty-one in the fourteenth concession of the township of Artemesia, in the county of, Grey, excepting thereout three acres off the north west corner of said lot. The said lot consists of about 160 acres of land, of which about 60 acres are cleared and the remainder well timbered with beech and maple, baswood and some hemlock. The land cleared is of a clay loam and in a fair state of cultivation. The said lot is situate on the Meaford Road, about five miles from Markdale Station on the To- ronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. About six and a-half miles from Flesherton, and is rea- dily accessible to said villages by good roads, and the said villages afford good markets for the sale of produce. The said lot is also well watered by a creek, and there is no swampy land on said lot. The said lot has erected thereon farm buildings consisting of a frame house, and log barn.

Thursday, the Thirteenth day of January, 1881,

Terms of sale—Ten per cent. is to be paid the vendors or their solicitors at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent. within thirty days thereafter, without interest, and the balance to be secured by first mortgage on said prem- ises payable in three or five years, with in- terest at seven per cent. per annum.

The property will be sold subject to a re serve bid fixed by the Master. In all other respects the terms and conditions of sale will be the standing conditions of the Court of Chancery. For further particulars apply at the Law Offices of W. Mulock, Esq., vendor's solicitor, Messrs. Crooks, Kingsmill and Cat- anach, and Messrs. McCarthy, Hoskins, Plumb and Creelman, solicitors, Toronto.

Dated December 8, 1880.

14-3 (Signed) T. W. TAYLOR.

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVED

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you pur- chase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 3-ly

Meat for All

W. B. Sarjeant's

... thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage dur- ing the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to Large Purchasers

Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

Cash paid for Fat Cat- tle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice, As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be suf- ficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that re- ceipts are of no value unless signed by my- self personally. JOHN NOBLE.

Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly es- tablished.

The corporation of the township of Glen- elg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any ac- cident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MACRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves

At the New Tinshop

MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved des- igns, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX

STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver- plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.

No puffing here—the real "Simon Pure."

TINWARE!

A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.

ALL KINDS OF

Tin & Copperwork!

made to order on the shortest notice.

EAVETROUGHING A SPECIALITY.

Stove Ovens lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,

HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,

HARROW AND

All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets.

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any ac- cording to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experi- ence, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 1, 1880.

Subscribe for the Standard. We will give it from now till the first of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

CHEAP CASH STORE

Reynolds & Son.

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY

Don't Forget the Place.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880. 9

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the County at

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFar- land's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFar- land's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER. Markdale

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received sine commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward busines with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

CLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

XMAS

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS, AND FANCY GOODS

... cheapest ... in this ... of Country.

In Silverware I have ... Fruit Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earrings, &c., &c.

In Watches I have Gold ... Hunting, and Open-Faced ... winders, including the celebrated ... Watches (they are the best) ... glish and American key and ... ers, from $4 up. The celebrated ... Thomas and other Clocks ... In Jewelry—I have ... Gold sets, Chains, Rings, Lockets, ... Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pins, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty.

W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.,

Nov. 25, 1880. (9) Flesherton and Dundalk

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the witer.

N. CAMPBELL.

Flesherton, December 15, 1880 14

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 148 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full opera- tion, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS, ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING

PROMPTLY DONE.

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-ly

R. J. SPROULE,

FLESHETRON,

Whilst wishing all

A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thank for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business gene- rally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season

THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Crockery and Glassware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE.

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesher- ton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere.

REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R. J. SPROULE'S,

FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-y

Fantastical Bicycle.

Fanciful structure on course expeditional
Thou strikest the gaze like a form apparitional,
With strangely bewildering slide.
Thy shadowy outline is phantasmagorical;
Thou seem'st (to utter a phrase metaphorical)
A sort of personified guide.

What wondrous inventor with mind methodistical
Conceived thy idea, aerial, mystical,
Yet so mathematic'ly true?
The brain which concocted thy airy machinery—
Imagined thy spectral effect on the scenery—
Was ghostly and dreamy as you.

Philosophers tell us inventions mechanical
Are made by observing the structures organical
Which all throughout nature abound.
But were she subjected to strictest of scrutiny
By geniuses Archimedean or Newton-y,
The prototype would not be found.

Thou lusus naturæ—thou wilt, irresponsible,
Filmy objective to all that's demonstrable—
Fantastic, ridiculous word!
Thy gyrates mesmerical puzzle humanity,
Thou outcome of science, inspired by insanity,
Thou wavy, embodied absurd.

"Drew the Wrong Lever!"

ALEXANDER ANDERSON.

This was what the pointsman said,
With both hands at his throbbing head:

"I drew the wrong lever, standing here
And the danger signals stood at clear;

But before I could draw it back again
On came the fast express, and then—

Then came a roar and a crash that shook
This cabin door, but I could not look

At the wreck, for I knew the dead would peer
With strange dull eyes at their murderer here.

"Drew the wrong lever?" "Yes, I say!
Go, tell my wife, and—take me away!"

That was what the pointsman said,
With both hands at his throbbing head.

O ye of this nineteenth century time,
Who hold low dividends as a crime,

Listen. So long as a twelve-hours' strain
Rests like a load of lead on the brain,

With its ringing of bells, and rolling of wheels,
Drawing of levers until one feels

The hands grow numb with a nerveless touch,
And the handles shake and slip in the clutch,

So long will ye have pointsmen to say—
Drew the wrong lever! take me away!"

AT THE TWELFTH HOUR.

BY R. E. FRANCILLON.

CHAPTER I.

The ground was as hard as iron, the sky blue as turquoise, the sunshine yellow as gold, and the air as still and as silent as only the hardest of frosts can be. Nobody, for weeks past, had dared even so much as to dream of a fox—it was Reynard's Holiday. Had things been as they ought to be, Rupert Grayshaw would not, late in the afternoon, have been found upon only two legs instead of four. Things being as they were, he was making the best, or the worst, of them by walking briskly along a winding lane that led from the village of Combe Bassett to nowhere in particular, at the rate of something over four miles an hour.

Rupert Grayshaw was going on for three-and-thirty years old, full of strength and life, handsome and something more. Few people noticed how fine a face he really had until they came to know him well, for those who saw him for the first, second, or third time were struck exclusively by all such signs and symbols of both mental and vital force as would have made plainness forgotten. He was a man who looked both eager and able to enjoy the whole of life all round, with body, brain, and soul. And assuredly, though the foxes were safe, it was a day on which life could be most amply and actively enjoyed. I need make no mystery about Rupert Grayshaw, for there was none to be made, and though, no doubt, he had his secrets and private affairs like other men, he was known, on the whole, rather more openly than most of one's friends. He was the only son of the younger son of an old Yorkshire family; he had taken high mathematical honours at Cambridge; he was a Fellow of St. Kenneth's; he was without near relations; he had no profession, but lived on his Fellowship, and, without sacrificing any pleasures that were open to him, had, with an enduring enthusiasm, adopted scientific investigation and discovery for a career. He held himself as much above and beyond marriage as science is above the brewing of small beer. He had come to Combe Bassett on a visit to his father's old friend, Dick Derwent, for the sake of the coverts; and, so far as the coverts were concerned, had come in vain. And that is the whole history, as completely told as any man's can be—from the outside.

The lane presently led through a thick but now brown and leafless wood. Rupert vaulted over a stile to the left, and his feet were soon enjoying the never-palling delight of trampling and crunching over fallen and frozen leaves. He was glowing with health and exercise, and, it might be, with some still more peculiar joy. The wood was a maze of paths, but he either knew their clue by heart or else gave himself up to chance more decisively than most men go towards a known goal. And so, either by accident or design, he reached at last a solitary cottage standing in a small garden and nearly hidden among the trees. It was a humble place enough—a little, but not much, better than the common run of labourers' dwellings in that part of the country—low, rough-cast, and straw-thatched, with small latticed windows and immensely deep eaves. The long strip of garden was given over to vegetables, except a patch in front of the porch, where it was not hard, though in midwinter, to conjure up, in fancy, a little wilderness of full scents and strong colours. Some style was given to the place, even now, by the creeper with evergreen leaves and scarlet berries that covered the porch, and the thick ivy that darkened the lower windows. As if he knew its inmates and all their ways, Rupert went to the window at the side of the cottage and tapped thereon three times. Then he leaned against the pear-tree and waited patiently.

Or perhaps impatiently. For presently the lattice opened, and like a live portrait set in a frame of ivy leaves appeared a face that seemed to say, "Ah! he has a Secret in his life, after all—and I am She!"

Yes; when a man comes to look for Foxes and finds Frosts, he must find something wherewith to fill up his idle days—something or somebody. Of course it is unlucky when it happens to be Somebody instead of Something—when he has both publicly and privately foresworn marriage, and when, if he forswear himself, he must give up the means of study and take to bread-winning instead of working for science and glory. Perhaps it is rash for men to take long holidays until they are at least seventy years old. For if ever there was a face made to come between a student and his books, between a sportsman and his sports, between a sworn bachelor and his vow, it was the face that Rupert had called from out the ivy as if his three taps had been spells. It was a very young girl's; she could not possibly have been more than seventeen. But her number of years was to be gathered from the indefinable expression of girlhood rather than from any palpable signs. She was neither child nor woman, but blent in one face the charms of the two. The delicate glory of perfect health breathed from her; the biting air did her no wrong, but merely deepened the glow on her cheek that proved no frost to lie within. She could be called neither dark nor fair, but simply harmonious; and so quick were the changes of light and shade that Rupert seemed to hear her looks with some subtle inner sense as if they were the melody of a song. And, whatever else the words of that song may be, they were at least gentle and pure. Why need I describe her feature by feature, line by line? Enough that passing and heedless eyes would have called her lovely, while Rupert's as clearly found her a great deal more.

She was no cottager's daughter, though she was found in this out-of-the-way, almost hidden cottage. She suggested one of those lost princesses whom travellers find by chance among woodcutters and charcoal-burners in the forests of fairyland. All things favoured the fancy—the brown, dark, windless wood; the blue sky, the silence, and the loneliness everywhere. She herself had not spoken, except with a smile; and, after a moment of such greeting, shut the window again. But Rupert, having had his answer, went to the door, raised the latch, and entered. And then he seemed to turn over another page of a fairy tale. He passed through an ordinary kitchen, with an open window and brick floor, with nothing out of the common about it except that it was empty on so hard a day, when labour had nothing to do but sit and rest by its own fireside. But the room into which he passed out of it was very different indeed, in such a place it was even startling to find such a room. It might have been a boudoir of any great lady in the land, if it had not been so obviously an enchanted maiden's bower. In that country of Once upon a Time, soft carpets, fine hangings, luxurious upholstery, books, and pictures cost nothing more than a few waves of a wand, or else their presence here would have seemed something more than strange. And here she, whose face we have for a moment seen, ran forward to meet Rupert quickly and joyfully, and let him take her in his arms.

"I have good news, Bertha!" said he. "And you will never guess it. The post, this very morning, brought me the news that I am rich enough for all things—for You, and Work, and Gladness, and all life means to me: for You and Love, above all! Yes, my darling, it's true. I shall be able to give you a better bower even than the mysterious enchanter who keeps you here in his power."

"Oh, Rupert! What has happened? What is going to happen? Who do you mean?"

"Everything has happened, Bertha! A far-off cousin of my mother's, whom I never saw in my life, is dead, and has left me a fortune—an immense fortune for me and you, but not too large to be a burden—only on condition that I will change my name"——

"What!—you are not to be Rupert, my Rupert, any more?"

"Oh, I shall keep that name—that is yours! But I shall give up my Fellowship with more pleasure than I had in getting it; for I hate the least thing that has kept me from you; and there is nothing left but a form or two to keep me from my wife for another hour! When will you come to me? In two weeks?—In one? In"——

"Rupert! Is it true?"

"All true—every word! When will you come?"

"And may I tell my father—"

"Your father! Bertha, my darling, now that I can claim you I think this mystery ought to be at an end. Just think what our story has been—a story that nobody could believe. I come down to Combe Bassett with a heart as empty as life without you. I wander into a wander into a wood—I find, by chance, in a common cottage, a Fairy Queen. I win her heart, and her troth plight, and at the end of weeks I know no more of her than that her name is Bertha—Queen Bertha—and that she has no surname, but only a mysterious, nameless father, who comes to see her, like an enchanter, from far away—flying, I suppose, on a magic carpet, or a brazen horse through the air. She is attended by invisible hands—for none but her own have I seen. I am sworn to ask nothing more than if she loves me. She forbids me to enter her bower without a signal, and unless it is answered. And yet I know that she is as innocent as the lilies, and as pure as the snow. Sooner than loose you, Bertha, I would consent to know nothing but that you are lovely, and good, and true, and that you love me; but is it in man not to wish to know more? And is it not time?"

"As if I would not tell you every thought I have in me! But, oh Rupert, how can I tell you a name I never heard? As you say, my father must have some dwelling-place of his own, I suppose that is true too. And——"

"And you really do not know who you are?"

"Surely—that I am Bertha, and yours. . . . . But if it is time——"

"It is time."

"Then—my father comes to-morrow, at five o'clock in the afternoon. I have told you why you must not come to me without a signal; because he does not wish to be seen, and because I do not always know when he is coming. But I do happen to know to-day when his next visit will be—for he never fails to see me on the first day of the New Year——"

"Yes—to-morrow is New-Year's Day. Well?"

"Come, Rupert, and come openly, and tell him——"

"And if he says No?"

"Why should he say No? And—if he does—do I not love you? He cannot forbid that, Rupert——"

"My darling! I will come, Enchanter though he be."

Rupert left the cottage just in time to reach the Hall (as his host's place was popularly called) before dinner. He met nobody on the way but an old woman in a blue cloak, of whom he took no special heed—for what were all outward things to a man who loved, and before whom the future was opening out in rainbow colours? Even the mystery of his love story gave it additional charm to him, whose imagination, chronically kept in the grooves of hard study, needed now and then to take a flight into the open air.

There were not many guests at the Hall. Dick Derwent was a bachelor of five-and-forty, who did not care to fill his house for the sake of having it full. The few who were there were men who were waiting for the frost to break, and with whom Rupert—engaged as he was with his own affairs—had but little sympathy. He liked Dick, who was the best of good fellows, and had shown him much kindness; but he did not like Dick's friends. And even to Dick, good fellow as he was, he had never breathed a word of his love-story. There were many reasons for silence, of which each was all-sufficient for him. In the first place—until to-day—marriage had, from his point of view, been simply impossible. He had been merely drifting, and hardly bared to open his own eyes as to the course he had been taking. In the second place, to profane the mystery of his romance by speech would be sure to reduce it from poetry to prose. Again, how could he bear to tell such a story to open-hearted and free-tongued Dick, who had never kept a secret in his life, and would be sure to make Bertha and Rupert's love for her a matter of rough chaff, even if they did not some day, for want of better sport, ride out and draw the cottage with "Yoicks" and "Talleyho?" And who was Bertha's father, and what secret might he not have that ought not, in honour, to be betrayed? And Bertha's existence been known of at the Hall, he would himself have been the first to hear.

Dinner and billiards had lasted the evening through, when the stroke of a church bell sounded full and close through the thin air. Dick Derwent rose and filled his tumbler to the brim.

"Let all who love me, follow!" cried he, in his bluff, ringing voice. "At the first stroke of twelve, I throw open the front door with my own hands, to let the old year out and the new year in!"

Dick Derwent was a fine, stout, hearty country gentleman, with all manner of jovial ways. He was the very pink of generosity and honour. He had been Rupert's father's staunchest friend, and had, at old Mr. Grayshaw's death, transferred his affection from the father to the son. Indeed, it was more than common affection that he showed towards Rupert, on every possible occasion. Though so much the elder, he had a strong belief in the prudence and worldly wisdom of the younger man, which cannot be supposed to be altogether ill founded—at any rate, Dick Derwent was not the man to have let a hundred fellowships stand in the way of marriage had he been that way inclined. But, then, it is true he was not a man of science, but only a jolly middle-aged gentleman who kept up old customs and followed the hounds well.

The half dozen young and middle-aged men, without a woman or a child among them, gave way to their host's whim, though not without smiles and shrugs of the shoulder at taking part in such a piece of obsolete folly.

"What does it all mean?" asked West—a young man who was wiser in his own eyes even than Rupert Grayshaw was in Dick Derwent's. "Why should we trouble ourselves to let out a good time—thank's to you, Dick—and let in what nobody knows may be death, may be marriage."

"Marriage, eh?" said Dick, turning upon him suddenly. "Perhaps I know more about that than you. But that's neither here nor there—marriage won't come inside this door for many a long day. That isn't what it means. It means that the master of this house has, with his own hands let in two hundred New Years, and that I'm not going to be the first inhospitable fellow that has been surnamed Derwent and christened Richard [illegible]. Welcome, whatever you are!" he said, loudly, as he threw open the front door and let the first cold blast of the New Year rush into the Hall. "God speed the old, and God bless the new!"

"I [illegible] it's a common custom," said Rupert, "for the master of the house to open his door at the first stroke of the last midnight of the year. But I could never find out what it means, and yet every superstition must have a meaning somewhere. I wonder what people think would happen if the New Year came to a house and found the door closed?"

"Happen?" said West. "Why, that fewer people would begin the year with a sneeze. What do do you suppose?"

"I dare say," said Dick—"I dare say they knew once upon a time. Well, its done now, and after all it would never have done to have the frost break up everywhere else, and not round the Hall."

But the first day of the New Year did not bring a thaw, either round the Hall or elsewhere. To-day was yesterday's twin brother. Nor was Rubert sorry for it, for, had it thawed, he would have found it exceedingly difficult to invent an excuse for staying at home while the other men were all a-field. Of course, while the ground was hard it was natural enough for a philosopher to take solitary walks in company with problems. But problems when the scent lay—even a broken leg would hardly serve as an excuse for him then, after three long weeks of iron. Happily, the weather allowed him, with no more difficulty than usual, to be at the cottage by five in the afternoon. If he had believed in omens, he would have felt that his luck at least had not changed with the change of the year.

He was neither shy nor timid by nature, and was eager rather than anxious for the first interview with the mysterious personage who kept his daughter so strangely confined in such an unaccountable prison. Beyond all question, Bertha was nearly as ignorant as he of her own history. She scarcely knew of any other life, except after the vague and untrustworthy manner of dreams. She was fairly well educated, for she had been thrown upon her own mental resources all her life, and had been put by this same unguessable father into the right way of using them. Oddly enough, she was most familiar with the very books and branches of knowledge that Rupert himself would have chosen for her had her education been given into his hands. She had lived in this way—so he learned from her—all her life, seeing none but her father and an elderly nurse who attended to her admirably, but told her nothing. She was under a strict discipline which she had never thought of breaking through, never going out for exercise except in the early morning in the woods, or being allowed to have a friend. Short of making inquiries, Rupert had invented a thousand theories to account for the mystery, but had rejected them all. But about one thing there was no mystery at all. No wonder that a young girl, with such infinite capacity for the life that had been withheld from her for seventeen years, had snatched at life, love, and liberty as soon as they had found her out in her solitude. She was the sleeping princess who woke when the prince had forced his way to her through the thorns.

But now, at last, the whole secret was to be disclosed. Of the result, Rupert had absolutely no fear. He was rich enough to satisfy any earthly father, and in love enough to satisfy any father, man or demon, who loved his child. His high spirits of yesterday were nothing compared with to-day's. He hardly felt the ground as he walked, but seemed to tread on air.

He reached the cottage well before five. But——

The door stood wide open, and the front garden was littered with bits of broken wood, ends of cord, and straw. The kitchen was without a fire. With a strange feeling of fear in his heart, he went at once into Bertha's bower—it had four bare walls and an empty floor. The lattice was open, and the air seemed deadly cold.

Had it all been but a Fairy Dream? But it was no dream that he loved her with his whole heart—and she was gone.

CHAPTER II.

One: Two: Three:—Ten: Eleven: Twelve!

He whom bettered Fortunes and a testator's fancy had transmuted form Rupert Grayshaw into Rupert Hildreth did not rise from his chair, or throw open so much as an inch of window at the sound. He laid down his pen—but that was all. The twelve strokes came to his ears muffled through double windows and close doors.

"I am not such a fool as that," thought he, "The old year's a great deal too long to lose, and I don't want a better. I've done for six years past with wanting more than I have, since—since—No: I've done with dreams. Perhaps they might come back if I opened the door to a change. Let those open their doors who are sick, or sorry, or sinful, or poor: not I, who am rich, and content, and sound in heart and limb and brain . . . and who knows what happened once, when I let out the one sweet dream of my whole life, and when that better waking came in through the open door! Never again. I might let in sickness, or discontent, or worse—who knows? I'll be as I am, with one long, faithful old year all to myself, that I've tried and proved. Yes, it has answered. Fevers have come with the new years, and have emptied other houses, but they have passed by my doors, that had kept out the evils of the unknown like those of a wise man. Fortunes have broken: but mine stand. Others, in the new years, have married and died; I, with the old year under my roof, am as alive and free as I was six years ago. I have seen others grow grey and wrinkled: I am near middle age—and young. Life palls on others, unless they renew it in their children: I have only myself and my book—but they are as fresh as of old. . . . Why, if there be a grain of truth in old wives' tales, to bar the old year out and to bolt the new in means to stand still at one's best all one's days, to be for always as one is, and to fear no chance or change that comes to the rest or the world. . . . So knock on, New Year, as hard and as long as you like—you'll find one door bolted and barred against you and yours."

He took up his pen again, and worked on. It was true that, ever since that midnight of six years ago, he had practiced the new superstition of keeping his front door close shut, so that no new year might find a chink whereby to creep in. For on the night of long ago he had lain down with joy and hope which the new year had, with its first touch, taken away. Perhaps—so he felt in fancy—if he had kept the new year out, Bertha and the old year would have staid with him: nor was the fancy quite so unreasonable in a man of science as it may seem, or what had Bertha herself ever been to him but a fancy and a dream? And it was true that, while the new years had brought troubles enough on others, they had left Rupert Hildreth, the scholar and chemist, undisturbed in his life and labour. With him the same old year seemed for ever to abide, until it had earned by custom an undisputed right and title to a place by his hearthstone. He and his life never knew a change, from year to year, from day to day. He lived, for quiet study's sake, in the outskirts of the town of Rainham. One year a plague of cholera swept through the place, and broke up households—that would have been safe had they never let the old year go. But he never troubled himself about the matter, and just lived and worked on. Some thought he kept himself too much aloof in time of trouble: and no doubt that same sad new year, while it brought death to bodies, brought good to souls. But what has he to do with the things of new years that have never come to him? Another new year had brought among its gifts a great financial crash that had been felt in most homes, but had not given Rupert Hildreth, though a rich man, a moment's doubt or fear. He had never loved a new face, or made a new enemy. From January to December every year had been one and the same.

There were some who thought him hard, cold, and selfish. Others—women mostly—could not help believing that, early in life, his heart had been broken by some great sorrow with which a woman had had to do, and that this made his days so changeless and his life so lonely and self-contained. He would have denied such a theory, had it ever come to his ears, with scorn. His treatment of new years and its effects might be but a superstitious fancy; but he lived as if he thought it based on truth and reason. Never, since that New Year's Eve, had he seen, or even, despite of all his searching, heard of Bertha again or of anybody who had ever heard of her. And now he had shut out the threats of another new year.

He worked late, and rose late, without taking note that a new year had begun for all the rest of the world. Why should he, indeed, when it was still the old year, of years ago, for him?

It was certainly nothing particularly new, though a little unusual, that he should receive a visit from a stranger in the course of the afternoon. The card by which the visitor introduced himself was that of Mr. J. Diamond.

"Mr. Hildreth?" asked Mr. Diamond, a stiff, middle-aged man, with a professional look about him. "Then, in the first place, I have to wish you a happy new year."

"Ah—What? I beg your pardon," said Rupert, absently. "You are on business, I suppose?"

"It is odd you should expect that—very odd indeed, considering the day. It is a rare holiday that has brought me to Rainham, where I happen to have friends. But it is business, all the same; and I have taken the opportunity of doing it without wasting a day. Time has a way of flying, you see"——

"Or of standing still."

"Not with me, Mr. Hildreth; not with me. Years—landmarks—and so on. I believe you were acquainted with Mr. Richard Derwent, of Combe Bassett. I have been his legal adviser for some years. Perhaps you are not aware"——

[TO BE CONTINUED.

The Connemara Colony.

(From the Chicago Times.)

A STORY OF SUFFERING.

The Times correspondent, in company with three responsible gentlemen, visited the Connemara settlement, twenty-five miles from Morris, the other day, made a thorough investigation of each shanty in that colony, and conversed with these truly unfortunate people and their neighbours. There is no possible doubt of the reality of their misery and destitution existing, and the utter criminal heartlessness and neglect with which these poor, miserable creatures have been treated. Never has there been seen in this country such squalid poverty distress, and suffering. It is outrageous that such an indescribable state of affairs should exist in any civilized community. It is alleged that these poor, ill-treated, half-starved creatures have gone to the priest in charge, Father Ryan, for aid, reported the suffering, hunger, and want, yet in every case were

TURNED AWAY WITH ANGRY WORDS

and abuse instead of food, medicine, clothing, fuel, or even sympathy. During this trip the Times correspondent never heard his name mentioned with respect, nor one word spoken in favour of his colony. The colony is situated mainly in town 124, range 45 Big Stone county, the people being scattered over the township at distances of from five to thirteen miles from Graceville. As a rule they are more intelligent than the founders of the colony would have it appear. In almost every case they were striving to economize the little wood they had by burning hay on mild days instead, and in no single instance, although closely watched by all the party, was even an attempt made to conceal or mislead when questioned as to their SUPPLIES ON HAND.

Their shanties are about 12 by 16 feet, eight feet posts, boarded and battened on the sides and the roof. Some few have the roof shingled. All the shanties are sodded to the eaves. The shanties are cold, desolate, and dreary, some dirty, but the majority comparatively clean. Of furniture of even the rudest description there is nothing but a shelf and a bench, and occasionally a bunk and a table. All have cook stoves and a few dishes, but the families are destitute and in sad need of beds and bedding. A few of the cows are giving milk, and in some cases are in the shanties; but as a rule are in little sod stables near by. Few have more than will last for a few days. Two families had only enough to last over to-day. Some wood—from ten to thirty sticks—was distributed Thursday, and the day previous each house was supplied with a few frozen potatoes. These potatoes were sent up by the bishop last month, but owing to the priest having refused to pay the freight they were left in an unfinished depot and frozen. As they are rotten, they are unfit for any use whatever, although the poor people were trying in a few cases to eat them. The writer has seen the sick and the frozen, noted the lack of food and the scanty of fuel; has heard from reliable parties of the wretched, starving condition of these people and it was plainly written in their

FUEL

PINCHED FACES.

A three-months-old babe was in a cold shanty, with nothing but a shirt made from a flour sack to cover it, and a child warming its hands on a cow in the room. There were hands black from frost, the nails coming away with the rag, and limbs swollen and discoloured from the same cause; a father helpless and dying from exposure and suffering. It is not necessary to say more than that the actual condition of these unfortunate, wronged people has never been fully described in its gaunt, cruel awfulness, to say nothing of being exaggerated. These people are in need of immediate assistance, as the supplies of food sent from Morris will not last long. Nothing but corn meal has been furnished them by the priest. The outfit of from Morris was liberal, the first they had received since they left Ireland, and it will last for some time. Fuel and food are needed, the former especially; but both are needed, as their supply will not last any length of time, and it will be hazardous to leave them even a day on the bleak prairies in their miserable and unprotected situation without a supply to last during a period of stormy and cold weather. Their condition has been only temporarily relieved by the timely and generous contributions sent from Morris, and there is no question but this aid alone saved many from perishing. Strange and incomprehensible as it may seem, while many of the other settlers acknowledge that these people are and have been destitute and suffering, yet they are

CLOTHING

INDIGNANT AT THE INVESTIGATION, and displeased that measures have been taken to relieve the distress. There is no little comment here over the fact that Dillon O'Brien peremptorily refused to allow Mr. Hutchins to accompany him on his tour of investigation, and his report is looked for with interest. No liquor or any trace of it was found anywhere. Nineteen families were visited and interviewed. It should be remembered that no part of this destitution and suffering is due to any lack of fertility or productiveness of the land where the so-called colony is located. It results simply from the

STUPID AND CRUEL BLUNDER,

or worse, of bringing penniless and practically helpless men, women and children from Ireland and placing them in huts on an open prairie, with no time for raising a crop before the closing in of a severe northern winter, without adequate provision for feeding or warming them, and apparently with little care on the part of the authorities whether they survived or not.

A BLIND boy at Montreal has built a minature house outside an ordinary four-ounce bottle, out of forty pieces of wood neatly glued together. It would puzzle a person with good eyesight to get the parts into the bottle, to say nothing of putting them together.

THE Boston speculators in Bernhardt tickets have had a hard experience. They bought the best parts of the house for the entire two weeks, and found that, after the great rush of the first night, they not only could sell at an advance, but had difficulty in getting their money back. It was usually possible, at a few minutes past 8 o'clock, to buy a $3 seat for $2.

MR. ARCHIBALD FORBES.—An American paper has the following amusing burlesque of Mr. Archibald Forbes' style. Mr. Forbes is supposed to be replying to the toast of the English press:—"Mr. Chairman—I am Mr. Archibald Forbes. I have been everywhere. I have done everything. I am a smart fellow. I am not to be outdone. I know the Emperor of China. I know the King of the Cannibal Islands. I am intimately acquainted with the Grand Lama. I have lived with the Shah of Persia. I am the dearest friend of the Emperor of Russia." The report comes abruptly to an end with the editorial remark, "Here our suppiy of I's gave out."

THE BABY.—The youngest is always emperor of the household. Father and mother, brothers and sisters, all bend to his baby dictation. He can sow the parlor carpet with cake crumbs, tip over the plant stand spill the milk pitcher, and get nothing but hugs and kisses for his rascality; he is kept on the laugh and screech by all the members of his family, and their nerves are not strained in the least; he picks up the art of talking without any trouble, and "gives away" family secrets to high-toned callers, and is rewarded by candies innumerable; he is round and chubby, and sweet and happy, and household affairs revolve in their orbits around him, as though he were a grand central sun. We pity a family who hasn't a "youngest."

The Porte having been persuaded at last to cede Dulcigno to the Montenegrins, and to issue a circular to its creditors requesting the appointment of a commission to inquire into the resources of the country, with a view to paying its debts, the Greekophiles consider this an auspicious moment to press the claims of Greece to the provinces which, according to the treaty of Berlin, should be returned to that country. Lord Rosebery, as President of the Greek Committee, has lately made a speech in which the views of the majority of intelligent people are clearly set forth.

TURKEY AND GREECE

stand at the present moment on the brink of war of what, if once begun, it would be impossible to predict the end. It is certain that, should an appeal to arms be made, England, under her present Government, could not stand by and see Greece beaten, and possibly annexed, by Turkey. On the other hand, should Greece be victorious, it is hardly probable that she would be content with the territory promised her by the Berlin treaty, more especially as she would have the moral support of Russia. In such a case England could hardly remain inactive and permit her ancient ally and debtor to be plundered and the security of her Turkish bondholders to be handed over to the Athenian Government. The Greeks are clever enough to see the horns of the dilemma between which England is placed, and they realise that "now or never" applies to their case. They argue that they have waited long enough for the fulfilment of the promises made to them. Their army is ready and the sentiment of Europe is on their side. Why, then, should they not fire away? Curiously enough, the only hitch in their programme is occasioned by the troubles in Ireland. Mr. Gladstone's Ministry seems to be in such a muddle about Irish affairs, and the English populace are getting so exasperated over what they consider a policy of vacillation, that it is quite possible the Liberals may go out of office as suddenly as they entered it a few months ago. When Lord Beaconsfield was in power the Greeks were shrewd enough to keep quiet, and should he return to the Premiership, it would be a sad blow to their hopes; the Conservatives are much more opposed to a dismemberment of Turkey than the Liberals.

THE ANNUAL CATTLE SHOW

began on the 6th inst. at the Agricultural Hall, London. The distinctive features of cattle show week are as different from those of any other part of the year in London as can well be imagined. In it the farmers throng to the metropolis from all parts of England, and the streets and places of amusement are filled with their burly bodies and merry with their jovial faces and resonant voices. As in the month of May a casual visitor might fairly imagine that the majority of Londoners were clergymen, so, three weeks before Christmas, he might jump to the conclusion that the population was chiefly composed of farmers and stock raisers—or graziers, as they are termed—who might compete, so fat are they, with their cattle for the prizes offered for an excess of adipose tissue.

This is a great season for artists, as the exhibitions of the SOCIETY OF BRITISH ARTISTS,

the Society of Painters in Water Colours, and the Dudley Gallery fully attest. The Society of British Artists, in Suffolk street, contains over a thousand pictures, none of which are very good, though many are very bad.

A different class of picture is to be found in the rooms of the Society of Painters in Water Colors, although here, too, the figure paintings are far behind the landscapes.

The Dudley Gallery is composed of cabinet pictures in oil, which as sketchers are not to be considered in comparison with pictures of more elaborate character. There is, nevertheless, a great amount of talent exhibited here. Among the most noteworthy are M. Fantin's "Panier de Fleurs d'Automne" and an intricate study of nastartiums by the same master.

The Berlin correspondent of the London Daily News reports that the police authorities have paid a strange posthumous to

THE POET HEINRICH HEINE.

A portion of his works it is said, have been confisticated and ordered to be destroyed. The reason given for this singular proceeding is the fact that certain passages in the condemned portion of the dead poet's works contain unflattering remarks in regard to the reigning house of Hohenzollern. This pettty attack on Heine's remains would be in keeping with the spirit now manifested in Germany against all who belong to the Jewish race.

On the 29th of November, 1780, the most liberal, intelligent, and humane monarch who ever ruled Austria took into his own hands, absolutely, the reins of imperial government. It was upon that date that Joseph the Second succeeded to the sole administration of an authority which he had already shared for fifteen years with the Empress Marie Therese. Vienna celebrated this centenary with a popular festival.

JOSEPH THE GOOD,

"the friend of mankind," was conspicuously the sovereign of the people. His universal benevolence, the liberality of his creed, his enlightened devotion to the arts and sciences, made him a grand figure among the monarchs of his time. He emancipated the peasants, introduced freedom of worship and the liberty of the press, and reformed the administration of justice, finance, and education. His especial zeal was directed against the religious orders, whose magnificent establishments he sequestrated and converted to public use as hospitals and asylums. He loved to roam about his capital as Haroun Al Raschid, used to wander through Bagdad, but he had no headsman at his heels. Once, in Moravia, he took a plough from a peasant's hand and finished the serf's work, merely to know by experience the labour it entailed. He was a breakwater for the people, against which the encroachments of the aristocracy and of the priesthood dashed in vain. He ruled thus wisely for ten years and died amid the lamentations of his subjects. The Viennese celebration of his accession to the throne began with a meeting of the Town Council. Their hall was profusely decorated with silken favors and garlands. A large bust of the Emperor stood between crowns of laurel. The civic dignitaries went in state to the chapel of the Capuchin Friars, where a commemorative service was held. One of the most effective features of the imposing ceremony was the singing of the Beati Mortui by the Vienna Manner-Gesang-Verein. At night there was a grand full dress performance at the Stadt Theatre, at the close of which the patriotic hymn, "Gott Erhalte Unsern Kaiser," was sung by an immense chorus. The students held their own celebration the night before in the great Hall of Music, where libations of beer and clouds of incense from pipes and cigars honoured the memory of the good Kaiser. It must be a gratifying fact for the present Emperor to hear the whole press apostrophize him as the only successor of Joseph the Second who has inherited his virtues and his wisdom.

The ancient

HOSPICE OF SAINT GOTHARD

is to be closed. The establishment dates back to the fourteenth century. The tunnel of the Mount St. Gothard will make the hospice useless. It was razed to the ground by an avalanche toward the end of the last century, but was rebuilt shortly afterward on a larger scale. In 1799 it was ravaged by Massena during the attack on Souvorow. The building fell almost into ruins, but was once more restored by the authorities, and and has ever since remained open to poor travellers. These are generally laborers from upper Italy, who come in troops. Over one hundred of them were recently received in a single night. Large numbers of wandering Germans are also accommodated, but Swiss and French applicants for shelter are few. Of late years the refuge received annually an average of 20,000 travellers, for each of whom is provided a warm meal and a night's lodging. The expenses are borne in part by the Governments of the Canton of Ticino and of Italy, and by annual subscriptions which are taken up throughout the Swiss cantons.

There has been but one conspicuous dramatic novelty in Paris for the past two or three weeks. M. Francois Coppee, the well-known poet, has composed a fantastic ballet called "La Korrigane," for which M. Charles M. Widor has contributed the music. It was produced at the Grand Opera in the most sumptuous manner, and achived an immediate success.

A NEW BALLET IS AN EVENT IN PARIS, and the first night of "La Korrigane" was attended by everybody in society, including the ex-Queen of Spain with a brilliant suite. She expressed cordial delight at the triumph of Mlle. Mauri, the premiere danseuse of the ballet, who is a Spaniard, and who, making, with obvious nervousness, her first appearance, took the house by storm, and ascended at once, en pirouette, to an upper niche in the temple of Terpsichore.

LONDON SOCIETY IS HALF PUZZLED, half amused by the extraordinary reports of Mme. Blavatsky's performances among the English civil servants in India. It seems that the Anglo-Indian officials have shown an unusual [illegible] of Blavatsky and Col. Olcott, who claims to be her escort—though why such a wonderfully able person should need an escort is not quite clear. Her miracles, at all events, seem past finding out. At [illegible] teacups [illegible] long-lost brooches turn up unexpectedly in cabbage beds; weird missives of cigarette paper, on which are traced [illegible] from Thibet to people who hardly knew of the existence of such a country; in fact, the most amazing phenomena occur under the most commonplace circumstances. The interest taken in all this by London society seems to promise a world of lionization for Mme. Blavatsky whenever she pays a visit to the British metropolis.

Gift Hunting.

Earlier than usual—indeed every importer endeavoured to be earlier than his fellow, and he almost succeeded this year—the allurements of were spread out before wishful eyes.

A PROSPEROUS CHRISTMAS TRADE

Our shopkeepers have most widely arranged all their departments into a greater number of divisions, or separations, than hitherto, although the fascinations of this generous season have such an opportunity of readily focusing one's attention.

This subdivision of an almost limitless variety of articles that might be classed as fine arts, high arts, decorative arts, and arts picturesque, grotesque, and semi-worthless, offers an easy opportunity for that too common searcher after a gift, the style of which she yet knows not. If she has fixed her mind upon the fabric, or the material, she can visit the locality of such things, and hunt for a formalatic expression of her hitherto vague desires. Last year it was a rare pattern of Oriental rug that won more interest and search than anything else. The year before it was a longing after antique bellows which were carved in disremembered ages; snuffers that had forgotten how hot candle-wicks tasted; porringers which had been for centuries bereft of gruel; halberds that were supposed to have chopped open no end of feudal but vastly heroic brains.

This year this sentiment is still warm, but its blaze is less fierce. Like volcanoes, the bursting forth of all our enthusiasms must begin upon the highest places and pour their molten emotions down upon the lower levels. It is about these humbler surfaces that the warmth for skillets and snuffers now gathers, while the crater burns other sorts of fire.

PICKPOCKETS GO TO FIRES

and funerals, and there ply their trade of robbery, because the minds of crowds are too intent upon the coffin or the tossing furniture to notice just what other motives prevail amid the throng. Annual gift-hunting draws together in the city another and equal preoccupied multitude. Only their eyes are deceived and their purses robbed; but never mind, "Christmas comes but once a year."

We have had our epochs of many things which are droll. This season our enthusiasms are more evenly divided, as I have learned by visiting the various shops where elegance combine with costliness with an unprejudiced, at least an almost even, balance. Fabrics that are painted, or embroidered, take the lead among Christmas gifts that are prepared by young ladies. These articles are for furnishing rooms or for personal decorations, or they may be painted book-bindings, cigar-cases, porte-monnaies, letter-cases, writing-pads, etc., which are on linen, satin, silk, wood, or leather.

Gifts of silver and gold have GIVEN PLACE TO BRASS,

this metal being the only one that causes exclamations of a properly expressed artistic delight, or an ideal enthusiasm, and perhaps very properly. With the rag there seems dreams of hearth with Christmas fires ablaze upon them. These fires suggested brass scuttles, fire screens that are in fanciful and graceful shape, andirons, braziers, shovels, tongs, and pokers, with a pretty stand for their support; also scuttles and fenders; yes, and toddy-kettles, too, and brass coffee-urns, the ingenious internals of which are so subtly cunning and so satisfactory that coffee will be coffee, if not genuine nectar, no matter where its barriers grew, provided it is passed through this last invention of an inspired Russian.

BRASS AS BRASS, and not as a metaphor, is really one of the prime factors of this season's gift combinations.

Vases and lamps from Benares, from Persia, and from Constantinople rouse a wild longing in the souls of purchasers. Their curious engravings and their still more effective carvings in this enduring and but lately-dishonored metal is an illuminator to cabinets and to apartments where, but lately, only the most subdued and ripened (faded was its other adjective, but nobody used it), hues were permitted. The eyes even of trained enthusiasts may have wearied of

A TOO PROFOUND SOBERNESS.

At any rate, they are eager for possession of these articles of real beauty and luminous tints, the more especially as they are Oriental in their fabrication, and cannot be reproduced in a country where skilled labor costs much money. Only handwork is able to perform the quaint, irregular, semi-barbaric, and yet altogether charming ornamentations upon these recently imported objects of real art and indisputable beauty.

A few years ago, when we were young and foolish—the nation, not the individual, is referred to—a pretty list of china, or a single cup and saucer, a dainty gruel bowl, or a tiny tray for wafers made one glad for the whole year. Now we expect to find on our table, or in our stockings, complete dinner sets, dessert sets, soup sets, fish sets, cream sets, fruit sets, or, perhaps, all these at once; yes, and entire wine sets, also, with our own ciphers graven upon them. Nothing less satisfies the maturity of our aspirations and exactions.

A Suicidal Canary.

DETERMINED EFFORTS OF A PET BIRD TO END ITS DISEASE-BURDENED LIFE.

(New York Mercury.)

A canary, the property of a lady well-known in society in this city, who resides on Fifth avenue, within a stone's throw of Major Cooper's private residence, was about ten days ago taken unwell. The little fellow was about 8 years old, and had been reared by the lady, who was extremely fond of it. No amount of coaxing or persuasion could induce the little fellow to open his bill, and when once or twice a drop of diluted brandy was forced into its mouth it resolutely refused to swallow it, and fluttered and pecked so obstinately that its fair owner was forced to let it alone. After being subjected a second time to what it evidently considered an indignity, the bird's mode of action showed clearly that it had determined to put an end to itself. The modus operandi was watched by its mistress and her husband with great and increasing interest, as it first tried one plan and then another to accomplish its suicidal purpose. First it would climb to the top perch in the cage, and seizing the ring which hung pendant from the bell on the top of the cage in its beak, would hang suspended, its little legs tucked in underneath its wings, nor was it very easy to open the beak and take the bird down, for it resented the sligtest attempt at interference. As it was found impossible to prevent the recurrence of these suicidal efforts, the ring was removed. The canary resented this in a very strange fashion. The water-trough used was a very deep one, which was within the reach of the bird when on the lowest perch of its cage; the second perch ran lengthways. Suspending itself by its claws to this, the canary hung with its head down into the water-trough, evidently determined to commit suicide by drowning. When discovered the first time its head was almost entirely covered by the water in the trough. To prevent all chance of misadventure, but very little water was afterward left in the water cup. Getting on the top perch of the cage, it next poked its little head through the wires, and, letting go of the perch with its feet, tried to hang itself, and was only prevented from successfully accomplishing this by the fortunate interposition of the lady. Toward the close of its life it became hardly able to move, but the suicide mania was upon it, and it was constantly caught poking its head through the wires of the side of the cage and trying to strangle itself. Prevented from effecting its purpose, the bird in its last moments seemed to feel affronted, and would not permit itself to be touched, and with its last expiring effort forced its head through the latticing of the cage and died while attempting to commit suicide.

A CINCINNATI man turned his blind daughter into the street, though amply able to support her, because she refused to commit suicide with the poison which he provided.

[illegible] Hefner, who [illegible] Chestnut and [illegible] this city.

A reporter [illegible] Mr. Heffner [illegible] his much-talked-of [illegible] one children.

Heffner is sparingly built, smokes a clay pipe, and makes a living in the rag business. He is 65 years old, and a cheerful [illegible] story of the married life [illegible] himself [illegible] on record. [illegible] 1826. [illegible]—he married his first wife, who lived eight years. She became the mother of seventeen children in that time, having twins in the first year of their marriage. The next year another pair of twins were born. Each succeeding year, for four years thereafter, Mrs. Heffner became the mother of triplets. The seventh year signalized by the birth of only one child. Mrs. Heffner died and was laid away in the village church-yard in Germany. The widower had now a family of seventeen children, the oldest only 7 years of age. Three months thereafter a young lady took charge of the children, and in course of time she became the second Mrs. Heffner. The first wife had died in February, 1848. In February, 1849, this second wife presented Mr. Heffner with a boy. On Christmas day of the same year the nineteenth child was added to the Heffner flock. The family was now larger than any other in that part of the country. Five years passed on, Mr. Heffner's household was increased by the addition of ten more children, a pair of twins being born every year. There was now a lull, and for three years the [illegible] only one child was born into them. In 1854 he came to this country with his family, and the last three children were born in America. In 1857 his wife died, having been married nine years. He was now the father of thirty-two children, twelve of whom had died, leaving twenty to be taken in charge by a widow, whom he had married in 1858. Mrs. Heffner-number-three and one child by a previous marriage. She became the mother of nine more children in ten years, by single births. His last, or third wife, is still living. None of the first set of seventeen children survive. Two of the fifteen of the second wife's children still live and three of the thirds wife's nine. In a period of twenty-eight years—from 1840 when he first married, to 1868, the date of the birth of his last child—he became the father of forty-one children. The five who are still living are girls. When the stepchild that the last marriage to the list, forty-two children have called Jonh Heffner "father." The old man has long since forgotten the names of his numerous progeny, and can only recall those born in later years.

Cutting a Boy's Hair.

There is no use in fooling around about it. When a boy's hair has become long and bleached and scraggy and full of burrs and feathers it is time to cut it, and the inevitable must be faced.

The boy doesn't want it cut, of course. No one ever had a speaking acquaintance with a boy who thought the time had arrived when he could part with enough hair to stuff a sofa pillow. They must be coerced, and kind words and broad promises are thrown away. Coercion is the only method.

I let my boys run about so long, and then when I get a spare half day I play barber. There is no appeal from my decision. When I come out flat-footed I carry my point or die trying.

"Young man, you can get ready to have your hair cut."

"Next week?"

"No, sir—now!"

"With a buzz-saw?"

"Yes, if the shears won't do it."

"Won't you draw blood?"

"I may have to."

"If you don't cut my hair, I'll bring in 'nuff wood and coal to last all winter, and I won't ask for a light when I go to bed!"

"Come out here and make ready!"

I never take any chances on a boy. I have an old chair bolted to the floor, and then I bolt the boy to the chair. I fix him so that he can move neither hand nor foot, put a soft-gag in his mouth to prevent a neighborhood alarm, and begin work. The first step towards cutting a boy's hair is to put in ten minutes' hard work with a curry-comb. If he hasn't been running loose over two or three years this tool will be found sufficient to rake out the snarls, buttons and articles previously mentioned. A basket is placed behind the chair for them to drop into, and they can be decorated with fancy pictures and made to serve as parlor ornaments.

When a boy's hair is ready for the shears brace your feet and shear away. Shear front, back, top and side without reference to lines or angles. The object is to remove hair. There is no use of any conversation, not even when the shears find a piece of wire and refuse to cut it. The boy wouldn't know how it got there if you asked him. He has had his head in closets, cellars, garrets, barns, fence-corners, barrels, boxes and all sorts of nooks, and such extra attachments are no surprise to him.

No one should be less than half an hour robbing an average boy of his capillary substance. Any attempt to hurry the job will result in overlooking a lot of shingle nails, the missing screwdriver, or something which may damage his Sunday hat. My average is thirty-five minutes, and I have only two minutes left after being able to see that he has a scalp. It then takes an additional ten minutes to look him over and identify him as the same boy I began on. His neck has grown larger, the size of his ears increased, and the whole shape of the head is altered. When I feel sure that it is my boy, and not the son of some neighbor who has skulked in on me, I brush him off with an old broom, crack his head three or four times, draw the bolts and remove the gag, and then hold the door open for him to shoot into the back-yard. I am a loving father on all else, but when I cut a boy's hair I'm a stern old Roman of the first water.

Former Steamer Life on the Red Sea.

(Blackwood's Magazine.)

Although it was so hot, our spirits—that is, of the younger members of the party—were quite unaffected by the weather. The sea was calm as glass, and we all had got to be very intimate and friendly. It was a comfort, too, to be assured by the older passengers that the heat on board was much greater than anything we should encounter at Calcutta. We youngsters did not mind the heat a bit; if India was no worse than this we should think nothing of it, and we could not understand why the others should make such a fuss about it. And, the heat notwithstanding, we all had excellent appetites, for satisfying which ample provision was made in a rough sort of way. Stewed tea and coffee, with biscuits, at 6:30 in the morning; breakfast at 8:30, with fresh rolls, and eggs, very catable poached; a profusion of dishes, and light wine for those who preferred it to tea and coffee; at noon there was a slight luncheon, with cheese, sardines, and bottled stout; and then nothing further was supplied till dinner, at 4:30. This was an elaborate meal, served in the good old fashion, with all the dishes put on the table together, to mend up the temperature of the saloon a degree or two higher, while there was hardly room for the stewards running about against each other, with helpings obtained from dishes at opposite ends of the table. Everything was carved at table, and there was always a great run on the roast pork, the preliminary sacrifice of which took place on the previous evening, and might be witnessed by those smoking forward, near the part of the deck partitioned off for the butcher. The butcher was one of the few Europeans among the crew, and a much-employed member of it. The dinner was followed by dessert, with plenty of good strong port and sherry, and everything suited to the climate and the temperature; the Peninsular and Oriental Company prided themselves on doing things in good old English style. Then there would be quoit-playing or single-stick, or mild gymnastic exercises, appropriate the hour and to digestion, until tea-time—tea and coffee again, stewed in a caldron, with plenty of toast and liquid salt butter. This was served at 7. At 9, an array of spirit-bottles graced the saloon-table, with lemons, sugar, an iced water; those who preferred it [illegible] sandwiches and sherry if asked for. We all partook heartily of these meals and refreshments, and then if any one died, as we were told it down to the climate. And I have often thought since that in India the climate, and not the diet, is made responsible for all the illness there; in nor the mode of intemperate peculiar [illegible] India. [illegible]

[illegible] Beach.

The sparkling waters of [illegible] ed with [illegible] forests. [illegible] above an undergrowth [illegible] covering shrubs and [illegible] inaccessible. The white [illegible] mock-orange gleam in the [illegible] the fallen, decayed trunks are [illegible] creepers and strange [illegible] water's edge the plundering [illegible] to the wild [illegible] into which we camped out [illegible] Our beach was [illegible] and pebbly. High up on the [illegible] antastic barricades of [illegible] have been borne there from [illegible] heavy storms. Under the [illegible] winters and the sun of the [illegible] thick bark had decayed and [illegible] leaving the trunks and roots [illegible] the whiteness of ivory. [illegible] we often saw in the [illegible] of the tiny hoofs of the deer, [illegible] down to stop the piquant [illegible] we were never so fortunate [illegible] glimpse of the shy creature. [illegible]

The beach presented to the [illegible] of unvarying brown, but as [illegible] and forth we found much [illegible] ; stones of bright, clear [illegible] slate, rose-tints, browns, and [illegible] plum-color. But these are found [illegible] beach. There were others [illegible] form grey, carved and worn [illegible] into strange shapes, and [illegible] legendary charm.

The aboriginal name of the [illegible] Batisse, and opposite it, on [illegible] Sucre Island, centuries ago, a [illegible] chief. He had one child [illegible] whom the island was named, [illegible] beauty has been handed down [illegible] She had many lovers, but [illegible] her father's lodge, she was [illegible] them all. In vain they [illegible] apathetic ear stories of their [illegible] hunting and in war, and tried [illegible] ear thought by their offerings [illegible] robes of choicest skins, glistening [illegible] bracelets of strange shells and [illegible] But though she smiled on [illegible] slow, they grieved sore, and [illegible] made so many hearts ache, was [illegible] have her peace disturbed.

There appeared to the tribe a [illegible] haughtier and more athletic, [illegible] eyes than any one they had ever [illegible] one knew whence he came, but [illegible] night, around the camp fires, he [illegible] them all with stories of [illegible] wild deeds. The obdurate heart of [illegible] throbbed with a new emotion; [illegible] she was happy away from [illegible] less and disquieted. They passed [illegible] hours in her canoe, which frequently [illegible] them to this island. One morning [illegible] on the rocks of the main shore, [illegible] pacing uneasily near. Her quick [illegible] his footsteps, and raising her eyes [illegible] terrified to see him walking on the [illegible] He vanished from her gaze in a [illegible] which drifted away before the [illegible] breeze, but did not reveal her [illegible]

In her desolate loneliness she [illegible] to this island where they had been [illegible] ply together, and, sitting on the [illegible] idle thought, sifted the sand [illegible] brown fingers. As it fell it took the [illegible] birds, animals, and the arms and [illegible] children, till the beach was thickly [illegible] with the curious shapes.

Once when she went out in her [illegible] progress was mysteriously arrested, [illegible] maidens plied their paddles, and [illegible] over and looking down she saw the [illegible] face of her beloved. She implored [illegible] come back to her, but that he said [illegible] never do. For a long time they [illegible] described to her the strange and [illegible] wonderful cavernous home, and begged [illegible] to go with him there. Her heart [illegible] ed at the familiar voice, but when [illegible] her to come down with him she [illegible] with fear. Stronger, though, than [illegible] love. Bidding her companions go [illegible] tell her father she would return [illegible] she sprang into the water, and the [illegible] eddy hid her from their view. The [illegible] lamentations filled the air as they [illegible] paddled to the land. The whole [illegible] doned themselves to the ritual [illegible] savage mourning, but in five days [illegible] changed to the wildest joy, for the [illegible] up its prisoner.

Her love for her kindered continued [illegible] changed, and her life was divided [illegible] her father's lodge and her mysterious [illegible] beneath the sea. Some gracious [illegible] meet kept for her the freshness [illegible] while those who were young with her [illegible] and dropped out of the ranks of the [illegible] till even the memory of their [illegible] faded into oblivion. As they died [illegible] she withdrew herself from her earthly [illegible] though she did not forget those [illegible] Rising fearless and beautiful above [illegible] waves, she gave warning of every [illegible] She was not altogether enveloped in [illegible] and gray cloud, and her phantom [illegible] bright clear day, was prophetic of the [illegible] of some of the tribe by drowning. [illegible] whites came—but the Indians [illegible] the tradition by the stones found on [illegible] land that by them yet bear her name.

Shall we disenchant you and tell [illegible] we rowed around the end of the island [illegible] afternoon and found a clayey bank [illegible] which issued a spring! Its waters, [illegible] over the bank, cut little channels, and [illegible] ually irregular masses were loosened. [illegible] the storms came these are taken up [illegible] surge and carried out into deep water [illegible] they are tossed and worn and at last [illegible] back upon the beach smooth and [illegible] sometimes wearing but a rude resemblance to form in nature; sometimes so [illegible] elab rated it is hard to believe [illegible] wave alone have sculptured them.

We found bean-pods, the [illegible] rag-doll heads, a seal, a duck, the [illegible] a bird with a very positive beak, [illegible] flasks, discs geometrically accurate, [illegible] baby fists and arms, queer unshapely [illegible] hideous enough to be Hindoo gods, [illegible] many imperfect specimens that would [illegible] seemed very wonderful but for the [illegible] vantage of comparison with nature's [illegible] workmanship.

One would not expect to find so [illegible] mance among the slovenly, stolidly, [illegible] and altogether unattractive "Fish [illegible] as the tribes living near here are [illegible] But they cherish many imaginative [illegible] tions, handed down from those [illegible] when a superior race was undreamed of [illegible] their aboriginal dignities and [illegible] enjoyed without an overshadowing [illegible] soon of the ways of the "Boston [illegible] "King Georgemen."

A Real Great Man.

The New York Sun has a description of Chang, the Chinese giant, whom it describes as being nine feet high. He is 33 years old, is the son of a wealthy silk and tea merchant in Pekin, where he was born; is well educated, speaks, reads and writes English, German, French, Italian and Spanish, and is thoroughly courteous and a gentleman. The Sun, however, errs in saying that the individual is in America for the first time. He came to this country from China in 1870, and in the spring of 1871 exhibited himself at Young Men's Hall, in this city. Old readers of the Free Press will recall the very attractive sketch of him given in these columns at the time, and inasmuch as the article went the rounds of the papers, it is probable that many persons will recognize the new-comer Chang as their old acquaintance. He is very likely, without doubt at present the very tallest man in America.

Horrible Barbarities.

The West of Africa is a nice place to live in. People there very die of any disease; in fact, kings are the only ones who die natural deaths. The Chief of Whydah, in the Kingdom of Dahomey, died recently and, as is the custom with many native tribes, the death was celebrated by the sacrifice of people. The horrible rites were followed by another massacre at the time the new Chase as a token of his [illegible] predecessor. No sooner was this [illegible] the time arrived when the King of Dahomey [illegible] honour of his deceased [illegible] ceremony about 200 [illegible] [illegible] The Europeans were invited to witness the [illegible] they all refused to go. [illegible]

MRS. [illegible] was a generous [illegible] a tramp at Canton, O., [illegible] warded her by poisoning [illegible] through the stomach [illegible] him to fill, and recovered the [illegible]

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 18. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, JAN. 14, 1881. WHOLE NO 8

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY,

77 W. 3d St., New York City

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Billiousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

75,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1878

9.000.000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Ptyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Ptyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indjan Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. RORISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

Firemen, as well as other people, like to talk of their old flames.

The town of Hull, England, is to have its streets lighted by the [illegible] electric illumination.

An exchange says: "Streams all over the country are running dry." This is a canard. When a stream is dry it can't run."

Bismarck's Power.

MORE THAN PRINCE REGENT, AND VIRTUALLY [illegible]

(German Letter to London Standard.)

[illegible]

The above explains how it is that Prince Bismarck can practically be Prince of the Empire as well as of the kingdom. This supreme dignity being vested in a subject in preference to the crown prince, the latter has thought it unavoidable to absent himself from Berlin for more than a year past.

But Prince Bismarck is more than prince regent. Besides being virtually independent of the crown, he has known how to eschew parliamentary control. Under the universal-suffrage system introduced by him the rural vote in the old provinces is absolutely directed by the country policemen and the pastors, who are likewise habituated to live in the pay and the fear of the government. In the new Protestant provinces this is not so much the case; but any opposition that might be offered by them is swamped by the ultramontanes. However opposed to Prince Bismarck, the ultramontanes are still more hostile to liberals, who only helped the prince to enact the late ecclesiastical laws, but as was conclusively shown a year ago, are less inclined to repeal them than the prince, who is always prepared for a bargain. Liberals in politics, the moment the ecclesiastical laws are repealed, the ultramontanes take especial delight in thwarting the liberals while their demands remain unsatisfied. By creating the ultramontane party through his ecclesiastical law, for which nothing like an adequate provocation had been given by the Catholics, the prince divided the liberals against themselves, pitted the independent Catholic against the Independent Protestant vote, and almost nullified the influence of southern Germany on the imperial parliament. Aiming chiefly at the possession of personal power as he does, and regarding everything else as of comparatively secondary interest, the prince no doubt achieved a master stroke in thus emasculating the legislature at the very moment that he created it. But the value of German unity has been greatly depreciated in the eyes of the people both by the ministerial omnipotence created and the unscrupulous tactics employed in playing out one party against the other. Of the accusations made you will be able to form an idea when I tell you that in the recent parliamentary debate the prince was all but openly charged with subsidizing socialists and salarying anti-Jewish editors, with the design of creating dissensions in the liberal camp. With reference to the anti-Jewish agitation more particularly, it is now universally admitted that it was got up by the worthy chancellor for the purpose of controlling the next elections.

The situation, it must be owned, is now [illegible] for the prince than it ever has been. His wild [illegible] of making [illegible] upon the [illegible], and support of the state; his extravagant [illegible] of resisting direct taxes if indirect ones are granted [illegible] A [illegible] effort is evidently about to be made by the liberals. Should they gain a considerable number of seats, and, for the first time since the revival of the empire, resolutely declare against Prince Bismarck, there is perhaps a chance of their being supported by the Catholics, when the power of the chancellor will soon be restricted to its proper and needful limits.

The Baby Witness.

A GLITTER OF COIN THAT ENTRAPPED AND RELEASED THE INFANT'S MOTHER.

The following touching scene recently occurred in a court of justice in Paris:

A poor, pale seamstress was arraigned for theft. She appeared at the bar with her baby of eleven months on her arm. She went to get some work one day, and stole three gold coins of 10 francs each. The money was missed, so after she left her employer, and a servant was sent to her room to claim it. The servant found her about to quit the room with the three gold coins in her hand.

She said to the servant: "I was just going to carry them back to you." Nevertheless, she was carried to the commissioner of police, and he ordered her to be sent before the police court for trial. She was too poor to engage a lawyer, and when asked by the judge what she had to say for herself, she answered: "The day I went to my employer's I carried my child with me. It was in my lap as it is now, I was not paying attention to it. There were several gold coins on the mantlepiece, and, unknown to me, it stretched out its little hand and seized three pieces, which I did not observe till I got home. I at once put on my bonnet, and was going back to my employer to return them, when I was arrested. This is the solemn truth, as I hope for heavens mercy."

The court could not believe this story. They upbraided the mother for the impudence in endeavoring to palm of such a manifest lie for the truth. They besought her, for her own sake, to retract so absurd a tale, for it could have no effect but to oblige the court to sentence her to a much severer punishment than they were disposed to inflict upon one so young, and evidently so deep in poverty.

These appeals had no effect, except to strengthen the poor mother's pertinacious adherences to her original story. As this firmness was sustained by that look of innocence which the most adroit criminal can never counterfeit, the court was at some loss to discover what decision justice demanded. To relieve their embarrassment, one of the judges proposed to renew the scene described by the mother. Three gold coins were placed on the clerk's table. The mother was requested to resume the position in which she stood at her employer's house. There was then a breathless pause in court. The baby soon discovered the bright coins, eyed them for a moment, smiled, and then stretched forth its tiny hand and clutched them in is fingers with a miser's eagerness. The mother was at once acquitted.

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 78,

Uxbridge, Ont.

[illegible]

Spell Kiss.

Spell kiss? What a simple question!
The simplest I ever heard;
No hints—I need no suggestion
To spell so common a word.
A "k," 'tis a kingly letter,
A trifle distant at first,
But you'll soon pronounce it better—
I'd show you if I durst.
Then "i"—O bother that dimple
Just wait till I dot that "i,"
The rest of the word is simple,
And will keep till by and by.
Then the "s," the sibilant sighing,
Make it as long as you will,
Like a chord in music dying
With a shuddering tremulous thrill.
There! that "s" is finished, and sweetly,
But wait; are you ready? Yes?
I must spell the word completely,
Draw breath for the second "s."
'Tis a most important letter,
It shows that the word is done,
And I like it even better,
I think, than the other one.
I hold by these object lessons,
They illustrate things so well—
See, you've learned the very essence
Of the word you couldn't spell.

Fashion Notes.

India shawls never go out of fashion.

The toreador is a new London bonnet.

The Beauharnais is the latest large hat.

Caps are de rigueur for a well-dressed baby.

Fanchon bonnets are becoming vulgarly popular.

Vermicelli lace is the latest novelty in lace goods.

Furniture effects are sought for in recent costumes.

Japanese screen front dresses are of American origin.

Bangles are worn to excess by fashionable women.

White opera toilets are in the majority in London.

The Fanchon bonnet is called the bebe bonnet in Paris.

Hoods on dresses, as well as on wraps, grow in favour.

Fur-trimmed costumes begin to make an appearance.

Lace pins have completely superseded other kinds of brooches.

Deep fur cuffs to match the muff and collarette are much worn.

The Drogan cap is shaped very much like a French pastry cook's.

Dull red is a popular shade for young girls' and children's wool suits.

Deep yellow and coral pink China asters are the flowers of the moment.

Serpent bracelets with golden scales and ruby eyes are coming into vogue.

Driving gloves made to simulate a leopard's or tiger's claw are late novelties.

Wadded and quilted satin slippers worn for comfortable home neligee toilet.

The latest hoods on dresses and wraps are rounded, not pointed, in the back.

Jersey corsages and striped woolens for skirts are leading styles in skating costumes.

The only flowers used for winter hats and bonnets are made of plush, velvet, and satin.

Chenille fringes, with strands of gold or silver thread, are much used for ball-dress trimming.

The harmonies or symphonies of colour must be well preserved in Japanese screen front dresses.

Six bangles on each arm are not considered too many by girls who adopt the extreme of that barbaric style.

Dark-green and seal-brown cloth suits, trimmed with bands of fur, take the lead for elegant street costumes.

Waifs.

THE divorce lawyer's favourite fruit—a tart pair.

A LADY need not necessarily be nervous or athletic to jump at an offer.

"MARRIAGE," says an exchange, "is a knotty question." It is, indeed, but it's nice.

THE young man who was kicked out of his girl's house very properly styled her father a freebooter.

WHEN a married woman buys a pug dog for a low price, she gets a bargain, and her husband gets something to boot.

A FRIEND who has just read a handkerchief flirtation code, advises all men desiring to avoid breach-of-promise suits to wipe their mouths with their coat-tails.

MR. EVER was married to Miss Joy. The friends of the victims were shocked when the press called her "a thing of beauty," because she was a Joy for Ever."

IT is a mean thing for a handsome man to go to a town and give every indication of being in the market until half the girls are wild about him, and then send for his wife.

A FRENCH writer says there was once in the environs of Rouen a miller's daughter so pretty and so cruel that the sighs of her lovers alone served to turn the sails of her father's mill.

"WELL, well," said Billington, majestically, "we mustn't be too severe on the young fellows. I suppose I was as big a fool as any of them when I was young." "Yes," replied Fogg, "and you are not an old man now, Billington."

"DOCTOR, my daughter seems to be going blind and she's just getting ready for her wedding, too! Oh, dear me, what is to be done?" "Let her go right on with the wedding, madam, by all means. If anything can open her eyes, marriage will."

"BEG pardon, sir; but I've just caught these two young rascals making a slide in front of your doorstep, and they say as you gave them permission?" "It's quite correct. I did, policeman. The fact is, I expect my mother-in-law to luncheon."

A HUSBAND of a very fashionable and talkative wife was out walking a few days ago with his little child, when he met a friend, who admired the child very much. "It is a beautiful child," said the friend, "and looks very much like its mother, particularly about the mouth." "May be so," responded the husband-father, "but I have never seen it at rest long enough to tell what it looks like."

Before marriage,—
With wondrous care,
She seeks the mirror
And bangs her hair.

After marriage,—
With angry glare,
She grabs her slipper
And bangs her hair.

A WRITER in an art journal says: "I do not think plates look well hung on a wall. They should be put on shelves and in a kind of dresser." That writer's art taste is low. It needs cultivation. Next thing he will declare that coal-scuttles and wash-tubs do not look well hung on parlor walls, and he will relegate a decorated boot-jack to its proper place. If he were to come here and promulgate such ideas he would get bounced.

NOT long since, in one of our neighboring villages, a young lady who had been engaged to a fine young man for some time, met a richer person and soon put off the old love for the new. She wrote to her old lover requesting him to return her photograph. Here was a chance for revenge, which he took by sending her the following note: "I would gladly comply with your request, but if I do so it will spoil my euchre deck. I have a collection of photographs which I use for playing cards, and I do not wish to break it by giving away the dozen of diamonds."

"YES, I am the lady who advertised for a chambermaid. Can you fill the place?" "Yes'm." "Well, I like your looks, and I think I will take you." "Yes'm." "What is your given name?" "Mary, ma'am." "Well Mary, perhaps I had best tell you now that I am jealous of my husband. I caught him kissing my last girl, and I sent her away. If he kissed you, would you come and tell me?" "Yes." "How soon?" "Well, ma'am, I shouldn't like to set the exact time on that. If it was a little kiss there'd be no hurry about telling you. If it was a great big one, I should want to tell you right away. And yet my conscience would force me to give him a chance to reflect on the enormity of his offence!"

The Philosophy of Corsets.

It is said that the natural figure is much more like an H. than a V. says "The Science of Taste', and therefore Mrs. —— objects to any artificial contraction which draws it out of similitude with an H, supplementing her protestations by physiological diagrams, extracted from some medical work, exhibiting the terrible consequences of tight-lacing. That many women do possess figures more like an H than a V no one will deny, but to the ideal figure, such as that which is based upon an intimate knowledge of the human frame, and which should serve as a guide in all suggestions, the very converse of this description applies. Whenever exercise is taken which develops every part of the body, the waist naturally becomes slim. And not only slim, but so pliant as to succumb to pressure, and need it for "keeping one together." All people habituated to athletic discipline both wear and have occasion for cinctures of some kind. The use of corsets, then, to which the lady in question objects in toto, is dictated by physical requirements, and does not, moreover, necessarily lead to tight lacing; extremes of all kinds are objectionable, but an occasional indulgence in them is no argument for the abandonment of those fundamental rules from which they are offshoots. Indeed, we have already advocated the advisability of never, in any matter, departing from "the modesty of nature."

Fashionable Footwomen.

Footmen are going out, says The London World, and footwomen are taking their place. Dining the other night in Eaton place, the door was opened by one of the latter in a most charming and becoming livery. Black and white mob-cap for headdress, stand-up collar with white cravat and small pin in it, rich brown-cloth coat with livery buttons, cut somewhat like a man's hunting-coat, and a buff waist-coat with a high church collar—such was the uniform. I was so struck with the upper portion of the dress that I never thought of looking at the extremities; but I fancy my eye once got a glimpse, going up stairs, of red stockings and shoes with silver buckles. During dinner four winsome lasses, all similarly attired, waited on me hand and foot, and certainly never was a dinner more deftly, handed and served. Why not? Women are, by their nature much better suited for this sort of work than men. The latter think nothing of eating onions or smoking vile tobacco before serving the soup, or putting their thumbs in the gravy of one's mutton, or breathing stertorously at your ear, or perceptibly on your cranium if it lacks a covering. Besides, there is decided economy; footwomen are not taxed nor do they eat so much.

Jewelry.

Jewelry has undergone a complete revolution of late years. The set, meaning brooch and ear-rings to match, is wholly out of fashion, and the two are brought without reference to each other. Ear-rings, are small and short, solitaire diamonds being preferred to all other styles. Next comes those of tinted gold, a single leaf or flower, with a diamond dew-drop resting in its centre. Their are rubies and solitaire pearls and sapphires, which take high rank among precious stones. The long, slender lace-pin is the brooch of the day, and is shown at all prices, from the bar of wrought gold at a few dollars to the brilliant row of white diamond which costs thousands.

The new floral pins are exquisite—four leaved clovers, buttercups, daisies, geranium leaves, rose-buds,, with leaves and stems, lilies of the valley crusted with diamonds, and calla lilies, the blossom formed of silver like white satin, with leaves of green-tinted gold and pistil of the same metal in its yellowest hue. A dragon-fly, all jewels, diamonds, rubies, emeralds, and sapphires, perched on a slender golden reed, is a novel and most brilliant ornament.

Three or four bracelets are often worn upon one arm, and at a recent English wedding in high life the bride is reported as wearing seven, three upon one arm and four on the other. Serpent bracelets are much liked, and are shown in great variety, perhaps the prettiest of all being the flexible serpents of gold or silver woven in basketwork.

A more repulsive neck ornament has been introduced from Paris in the form of a viper, made of plush in natural hues. The head is of bright metal and the eyes are jewels. The tongue hangs out of the mouth. The head is worn under the left ear.

Baroness Coutts' Mansion.

The mansion of the baroness is in Piccadilly, and a visitor gossiped pleasantly about her in this strain: Her favorite brooch is a cameo of Fan, a dog of infinite good qualities, called some years since to her final rest, and her perpetual companions are Bell, a delightful bull terrier with a beauty-spot on his back, and a perfect little-black-and-tan of perfect race. At luncheon times these interesting little beasts are naturally to the fore. On either side of their mistress is a plate of the daintest Sevres pate tendre, from which these lucky dogs eat their cutlets of minced chicken. There is a vast wealth of Sevres and Dresden in Stratton street and Piccadilly. Some difficulty has been experienced in finding room for the superb garnitures de cheminee—vases and tea services which crop up in every corner, in superb cabinets, in covered cases, and in various nooks behind screens—for the quantity is far beyond the requirements of a dozen households. Besides superb specimens of rose pampadour, vert pomme and gros bleu, including a magnificent dinner service of priceless turquoise, rich in the magnificent heavy gilding of Sevres, there is abundance of that delightful porcelaine which might be called hair-dress Sevres, with the charming, cool, chintz-like patterns, to imitate which a very poor attempt was made at Bristol. Oriental china, too, is not wanting, and vases of malachite and porphyry. More prized, however, than these by their owner is a Shakespeare cabinet, containing the celebrated "Daniell" Shakespeare and another of the early folio editions of his complete plays, as well as the first edition of the "Sonnets." The cabinet itself is a gem carved out of a piece of heart-of-oak which once formed part of the Royal George, given by the Queen to Lady Burdett-Coutts, who has received many similar tokens of regard from her majesty—notably an engraved portrait of the "Queen's Dogs." The Shakespeare cabinet is full of relics of Stratford-on-Avon, a handsome goblet once belonging to Kemble, and a variety of boxes and other knick-knacks made from the wood of a famous mulberry tree. Lady Burdett-Coutts' interest in the higher drama is well known, and no secret is made of her admiration of Mr. Irving, who is a frequent guest of her house.

Indian Marriage.

At the agencies on the upper frontier, say an exchange, thousands of men are employed and it is not an exaggeration to say that the majority of them have Indian wives and live happily. They are not sought after by the [illegible], for the Indian girl's custom is to remain quiet until the marriage contract is made and the marriage portion paid over. The husband must have the dowry, with which he must invest his projected mother-in-law before the ceremony takes place. The process is a little out of the usual run, and a description may be of interest. The aspiring bridegroom must be well-known in the tribe before he can hope to win a wife. Her people want to thoroughly understand him and know if he can support not only her but her relations in the event of a pinch. He must be a kind-hearted man, with a temper warranted to keep in domestic climate, and he must have a good lodge and at least half a dozen horses. If he be and have all these, he can a-wooing go. Selecting the lady, he makes application to her mother, and at a council the price is fixed upon. If the girl be especially pretty her mother will demand a gun, two horses, and a lot of provisions, blankets, and cloth. A gun is valued at $60, a horse at $30, and he must furnish materials to bring the amount up to from $100 to $150. Then he tries to beat the dame down, and if he succeeds he knows there is some reason for letting the girl go; if not, he understands that he is making a good choice. The courtship is left entirely to the mother. She communicates the intelligence to the bride-elect, who dutifully sets upon preparing the lodge for the nuptials. Relatives and friends congregate, form a circle, pound a drum and have a feast, at the conclusion of which the man and girl stand up. A blanket is thrown over their heads, under which they exchange vows of fidelity, after which the mother blesses them, and the ceremony is complete. But it fares badly with a man who plentifully stocks his wedding-lodge. His wife gives away everything he gives her, and stores intended to last a month will disappear in an hour. He, if he be cautious, will give her barely enough to eat, unless he teaches economy, a lesson, which once thoroughly learned, she never forgets. For some little time after the wedding the newly made relatives haunt the lodge, demanding that they be feasted and cared for. Woe unto him who accedes in the slightest. A firm refusal, well persevered in, is all that will save him from a life of misery.

Fool Boys.

THE CALLOW YOUNGSTERS WHO PUFF CIGARETTES.

Physicians and moralists alike are pained by the spectacle, growing more common every day, of pale-faced lads, ranging in age from 16 to 20 years, who are puffing their little lives away in cigarette smoking. Day and night they throng the streets, where the peculiar odor generated by cigarettes made of cheap paper and bad tobacco renders their smoking obnoxious to others as it is hurtful to themselves. Every evening before the doors of the theatres they raise a cloud of foul smoke that is equally injurious to their own rickety constitutions and to the noses of their victims. Doubtless, also, they carry their pernicious habit into their homes—when they are old enough to do so without risk of the spanking that they deserve—thus still further doing harm to themselves and making other people uncomfortable.

The cheap cigarette is a modern invention, and a peculiarly vicious one. Twenty years ago when the cigarettes all came from Cuba and were wrapped in rice paper, smoking them did no great harm. Moreover, being make of Honrades, or some brand of equally strong tobacco, only a boy of stout stomach could smoke more than two or three of them at a time. But to meet the boyish demand cigarettes are sold nowadays both cheap and weak. They are made of mild, often bad tobacco, and for the most part they are wrapped in ordinary white paper. Rice-paper wrappings necessarily increase the cost, and the boy who wishes to prove by the ordeal of smoke that he is not a boy but a man, much prefers the article that he can get the most of for his money. Moreover the boy does not know the difference apparent to the sight between rice paper and ordinary paper, any more than he knows while rice paper burns away with scarcely any smoke at all, common paper burns with a foul smoke that cuts like a saw into the chest and throat. So he spends his money on cheap cigarettes and makes everybody around him uncomfortable while he smokes himself away into an untimely grave.

Of course the boys do not mean to sin against themselves and neighbors. They do not realize what a bad smell their nasty little cigarettes make, and they are very far from knowing what serious injury the smoke from them inflicts upon their throats and broncial tubes, and lungs. They smoke in innocency, knowing not what they do, but most earnestly believing that their smoking make men of them. Down in the depths of their hearts the most of them have no sincere affection for smoking; and in the depths of their stomachs they not unfrequently entertain a feeling of positive aversion toward it. But they hang on their pestilent habit with a persistency that in a better cause would be worthy of all praise; stifling the dictates of conscience and asserting a bad mastery over the rebellions of the flesh. And, if reasoned with, they answer in the words of dear John Leech's bad boy: "But what is a fellow to do, when all the men of his own age smoke?"

Sparrows in a Winter Bath.

Yesterday, during the sunny hour of noon, says the Hartford "Times," a flock of about a hundred English sparrows gathered upon and near a painted tin roof having a protected southern exposure, where a good deal of water had collected in the broad flat gutter. The temperature of the surrounding air was about six degrees below the freezing point, and water was evidently a scarce article, for the eager little birds rushed for it almost furiously. They dashed in by the dozen, fluttering their wings and tails, and sending the shower of water in a spray around. A dozen new-comers would be actually fighting for precedence. As fast as they finished their bath the birds went to the upper slope of the roof, next the sheltering brick wall of a higher part of the building, and there spread themselves out in the sun, like hens shuffling in a warm sand-bath, spreading out their feathers and turning themselves first on one and then on the other side. One sparrow evidently had his misgivings about taking a plunge into a winter bath; he stood shivering at the edge of the pool, like an undressed boy on the river's bank when he hesitates to take the first plunge of the season. Some of his more venturesome companions tried to push the bird in. One seized him by the tail and pulled; another fluttered his wings against him and tried to crowd him in; and a third tried to operate on his head. It was in vain; that particular bird, though seemingly desirous of a bath, evidently mistrusted the temperature of the water—or his own sanitary powers of resistance in these malarial times, and he wouldn't budge. His companions, to the number of about sixty, then gave it up and crowded together in their selected position of shelter, as closely, seemingly, as swarming bees, making a pretty sight. The social and gregarious characteristics of these sparrows are strongly marked. But they fail to find, in this country, the thatched cottage roofs, and the wheat and barley ricks, in which they are so naturally prone to burrow in English rural districts.

Lord Beaconsfield and Thackeray.

Much bitterness, says a London paper, has been excited in some quarters by Lord Beaconsfield's caraciture of Thackeray, whom the great satirist's admirers profess to identify beneath the traits of St. Barbe, the journalist in "Endymion." The uncomplimentary sketch is thought to be intended as the ex-premier's revenge for Thackeray's burlesque novel of "Collingsby." The likeness in the case as in all other cases, has been purposely distorted so as to leave room for a denial by the noble author that any portrait was intended; but everybody recognizes the original. Gushy, the rival of whom St. Barbe is always talking despairingly, is taken to be Dickens. Lord Beaconsfield has undertaken to throw people off the scent by amalgamating their characters—thus Vigo is made to be a combination of Poole, the tailor, and of Geo. Hudson, the Sunderland railway king, once omnipotent in English society, but who died in comparative obscurity some years ago. This artifice however, will not save him from severe attacks by the wrathful friends of Thackeray and Dickens.

A MILITARY commission is considering the propriety of supplying the German army with a repeating rifle instead of its present breechloader.

A lecturer once prefaced his discourse upon the rhinoceros with, "I must beg you to give me your undivided attention. Indeed, it is absolutely impossible that you can form a true idea of the hideous animal of which we are about to speak unless you keep your eyes fixed on me."

Beau Brummell.

Many interesting stories about Brummell, the famous beau, are told in an article in All the Year Round: "We are told that this eminent arbiter required two different artists to make his gloves, one being appointed to provide thumbs, the other the fingers and hand, on the ground that a 'cut' was necessary for each. The valet carrying down the load of crushed neckerchiefs, which the beau had not succeeded in squeezing with his chin down into the proper folds, and which were carelessly described as 'our failures,' is an old, well-worn legend, but trustworthy.

"When he was consulted as to what income was necessary to dress suitably on, he replied, 'that he believed that with strict economy it might be done on eight hundred pounds a year.' It is said that he always went home after the opera, to change his cravat for the succeeding parties. Like Count d'Orsay, the later dandy, he carried about with him an enormous chest, containing every appliance for the toilet, the dishes bottles, and etc., being of silver. The use of these costly articles he justified on the ground 'it was impossible to spit in earthenware.' Another of his pleasant, insolent speeches was to a friend inviting his criticism or admiration of his new coat; 'My dear ——, do you call that thing a coat?'

"At Watier's club, instituted about 1807, where gaming prevailed to an extravagant degree, he reigned. He was particularly noted for his snuff-boxes—a mania of the time—costly jeweled and enameled and beminiated boxes being displayed and given as presents. At this place he (Mr. Rikes says) was the supreme dictator, the perpetual president, laying down the law in dress, in manners, and in those magnificent snuff-boxes for which there was a rage; he fomented the excesses, rediculed the scrupler, patronized the novices, and exercised paramount dominion over all. He had great success at Macao, winning in two or three years a large sum, which went no one knew how. I remember him coming in one night after the opera to Watier's, and finding the Macao table full, one place at which was occupied by Tom Sheridan, who was not in the habit of playing, but having dined freely, had dropped into the club, and was trying to catch the smiles of fortune by risking a few pounds he could ill afford to lose. Brummell proposed to him to give up his place and go shares in his deal; and, adding to the ten pounds in counters which Tom had before him two hundred pounds for himself, took the cards. He dealt with his usual success, and in less than ten minutes won one thousand five hundred pounds. He then stopped, made a fair division, and giving seven hundred and fifty pounds to Sheridan, said to him: "There, Tom, go home and get your wife and brats a supper, and never play again.

"There are many versions of his falling out with his royal friend King George IV. His success as a spendthrift in England ended in his flight to Calais, France, where he was destined to be hunted by French baliffs, instead of English ones; to be immured in a squilid, noisome French gaol with felons; and to die in a madhouse, a painful, odious, and unregretted object. On reaching Calais he quartered himself on a Mr. Leieux, whose rooms he made quite elegant with his charming and costly china, snuff-boxes, bijouterie, mostly purchased out of borrowings from faithful friends who passed through, and who never failed to see him and give him a dinner. His debts in the town had soon mounted to nearly a thousand pounds. When his old patron became king, he fancied, not unnaturally, that the past might be forgotten. But the king visited Calais without seeing him, although Brummell sent to his majesty a gift of cordial and snuff. In time he was appointed consul at Caen, with a saltry of £400 a year. It seemed lide madness that this professional mendicant should throw up his only chance of support. But he wrote to Lord Palmerston to say that the place was a sinecure, and that it ought to be abolished. Lord Palmerston reluctantly accepted the suggestion. There was a cry, he said, for retrenchment, and what could he do? Abolished accordingly it was, and the infatuated man was left penniless. What was the motive of this mysterious act? It can only be set down to the mean, revengeful temper of this most selfish of beings. He was deeply in debt at Caen, and had been drawing on his old creditor at Calais, anticipating his income, even after its mortgage, until no more could be obtained. He was already using as lever to extract money from this person that 'it was his interest' to advance money, as, if he were forced to forfeit his position owing to not being able to pay butcher, baker, etc., all would be lost. It does not seem uncharitable to suppose that he saw no reason for performing the duties of an office the whole emoluments of which were to go to a greedy creditor, whom in a moment of pique he determined thus to panish. His own story is that he sent in his resignation with a view of obtaining something better at Havre, or elsewhere. After taking this infatuated step, the royal arms being removed from over his door, it was all over with this unfortunate. The Calais creditor was not slow to punish such treatment. One morning in 1835 he was arrested at his suit, and drrgged off to the dreadful goal."

The Irish Secretary.

The face of Foster, the Irish secretary, is not, says Pan, an exact index of his mind. He looks unbending, even morose. It is as if he put on the grimace of what he would wish to appear. There is an air of faded ruggedness about his large and irregular features. His bridgeless nose is thick and round in the region of the nostrils, his cheeks are wide and full, his anxious eyes are deep-set beneath a massive forward brow seamed with thought and half covered with pale patches of hair, combed down carelessly from right to left. He wears a ragged red and gray beard and a mustache—which gives the chief point of character to his face—cut close to the top of the upper lip, straight across from corner to corner of a wide mouth. Tall and somewhat fleshy, with large feet and hands, and long legs that are loose from knee to ankle, he walks with quick, uncertain strides, and sits with his body forward, toward the edge of the seat, his chin on his breast, his eyes cast down, and his hands clasped across the region below the bottom of his waistcoat.

For a man 62 years of age, Mr. Foster displays extraordinary physical vigor. In the execution of his office he seems indifferent to fatigue and impervious to its effects—unless, indeed, an occasional nap on the treasury bench can be counted against him. His manner of answering questions is short, to the point, and in extreme cases, someweat imperious. His ordinary voice, however, falls pleasantly upon the ear; it is that of a scholar and a gentleman; and when roused to an effort of oratory, few men in the house are more impressive than the rough but accomplished Yorkshireman and worsted manufacturer. Five years ago he was at the zenith of his fame, and might have been prime minister of England but for his inveterate habit of shilly-shallying. He could not make up his mind that the party would follow him.

A NEW CURE FOR MALARIA.—There is at least poetic justice in a story that comes from British India, tending to show the power of locomotives (when properly approached) to drive away the malaria which railways, or rather railway construction operations, have so long been charged with causing. A poor villager of Kattywar had been afflicted for a long time with remittent fever, and no amount of idol worship and penance availed to arrest the malady. At length a friendly neighbour advised him to approach the "Bhoot" in the newest shape in which the former had seen him recently taking his daily run in that part of the province, chafing and fuming. The fever-stricken villager consequently traveled a distance from home, and at sight of a railway locomotive, fell on his knees, tendered an offering of corn and sweets, and extolled its might. The devil was appeased; the worshipper found himself rid of the malaria.

SOME REASONS FOR DRINKING.—An illustration of fertility of resource is recounted, we think by Dean Ramsay, in the story of the dying rustic who "speered" at the parish minister if there would be any whisky in heaven. On being rebuked for this mundane anxiety and irreverent curiosity, Sandy replied in self-excuse: "That it wasna because he wad tak ony if it were offered him, but jist in respeck that it wad look weel on the table." We have not forgotten that Highland teetotaler who was found drinking the mountain-dew at his breakfast in some wayside inn where he thought he would not be known. "Och, Donald, and we thocht ye were an abstainer!" exclaimed a Deacon who happened to look in quite unexpectedly. "And so I am," replied the detected culprit, who seemed to suggest that his beverage was only toast-and-water—"so I am; but ye ken, my frien', I am no a bigoted ane."

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 14th, 1881.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

Sir John Macdonald stated in Parliament last week, that the debate on the Pacific Railway Contract would be carried on from day to day, to the exclusion of other business, until it was either ratified or rejected.

Anti and pro-syndicate meetings have been held in all parts of the Dominion for the past two weeks.—The Reform journals declare the country dead set against the contract, while the Conservative papers assert that the people are in favor of it by an overwhelming majority. Who is right. As far as we can learn we think there is little doubt but the majority look at it favorably, and are rather delighted with the prospect of having the road built without section B bug-a-boos and St. Francis Lock mismanagement.

EUGENIA.

From a Correspondent.

MR. EDITOR,—Did you ever attend a free musical entertainment by moonlight, given by the "Boys" of your Village? If you have not, you have missed a rare treat. It got whispered around that the Eugenia lads were going to entertain a youthful comrade who had taken to himself, by the usual form of law, a wife and family. Imagine your correspondent ensconced at the upper window of a deserted mansion, (did I say window? Oh, yes! so it was, but minus the glass.) awaiting the opening of the orchestra. To the lover of moonlight, the night was all that could be desired. Presently in the distance we hear some one give the order, "Fall in. Fall into line." Here they come—a motley looking crowd. The performance commences with a salute from about a dozen muskets, then followed the music—the choisest you ever heard. The instruments were the most select the country could produce, comprising an old circular saw, steel mould boards, horns and bells. Not the kind used by the Swiss Bell Ringers; oh, no! but those that do duty in the bush during the summer months. The way in which the performers handled them was a caution; the Swiss Ringers couldn't hold a candle to them. While some performed, others engaged in a dance; but such dancing, Sitting Bull and his whole tribe at a war dance would have been completely eclipsed. A short recess brought the lady to an upper window, from which she delivered an inspiring address, expressing her great pleasure with the entertainment, which soon changed to a wrathful demonstration in the shape of firing a revolver at the performers, explaining that she had got permission to do so from ——— at a neighboring village. If laughing would make one grow fat, it is time I was measured for a new suit. But during a lull, who should make their appearance in their midst, but the laddy accompanied by the venerable majesty of the law, who read the Riot Act in a manner which the "boys" did not like to resist; but it spoiled their fun. Boys will be boys. I often wonder if ever some people ever were boys. Don't press on the lads too hard, they might get their salt water up.

EUPHRASIA.

The Council met pursuant to adjournment, on the 24th ult. Members all present. Minutes of last session of Council read and approved.—By-law No. 294 carried through the different stages and passed. The time for returning the Collectors' Rolls of the current year was extended one month. By-law No. 295, fixing indemnity of Council carried through the different stages and passed. By-Law No. 296, forming a new Union School Section with part of Collingwood Township, to be known as Union School Section No. 20, carried through the different stages and passed. The report of the Committee appointed to inspect the Collector's Roll for 1879, was received and adopted. The Clerk was instructed to hand over to John Clugston, Collector, all his bonds, as soon as the Treasurer furnishes him with receipts showing that the Rolls are all settled up. $3.10, for statute labor, struck off John Hunter's taxes, the labor being performed. The award of the arbitrators on Nelson's Hill job, town line, referred to County Council. $9 for statute labor in 1877, 1878 and 1879 struck off James Lyon's taxes, the labor being performed. The Reeve was appointed to attend to business connected with taxes paid in error by Mr. Way. The Clerk was ordered to request the County Treasurer to strike $10 off defaulters' list for 1878, on N. ½ of lot 3, con 2, this being returned in error. Taxes charged W. ½ of lot 13, con. 7, to be struck off, the land being vested in the crown. The Council moved for petitioning the Postmaster General to permit our Treasurer to deposit funds in the P.O. Savings Bank. The Treasurer was ordered to remit to Messrs Polland & Evans, solicitors, $6.14 for law expenses. The reeve's orders on the Treasurer were issued as follows, viz.,—To pay Thos. Foster $41.60 for road work, Andrew Grier $16.60 for equalizing assessment in U. S. Section in 1879, John Clugston $2.40 taxes over paid by him on part of lot 8, con 12, John Feeny $70 for cutting rock on 3rd line. George Ward $23.80 for work on 6 & 7 S. R. cons. 9 and 11, Jacob Neely $10 as caretaker of Town Hall, &c., Hugh Knott $2 for building culvert, John Neil $2.50 for road work, James Anderson $19.10 payment for himself and colleagues as fenceviewers, the amount to be registered against the lands of defaulters in payment of these fees, Alexander McEwen $2.25 for road work. John Anderson $125 part payment of Contract on Quinton's Hill. Robert Dunlop, Clerk, balance of salary and writing minutes for the papers, and $40 for Levying School Rates for 20 Sections, and $20 postage, I. D. Crabtree $40 for extra services as Treasurer of School moneys. On motion being made and seconded, the Council adjourned sine die.

ROBERT DUNLOP, Clerk.

DUNDALK.

From a Correspondent.

The Skating Rink has been completed, and is now in first-class order for skating. The grand opening will take place on Thursday, 13th inst., when the Shelburne Brass Band will provide select music for the occasion.

It is currently reported that another Hardware Store is to be started in this Village, between Nixon's general store and the railway.

Mr. J. Taylor has opened out a stock of general merchandise, in Hick's Brick Block.

The Presbytery of Saugeen will meet in Erskine Presbyterian Church, Dundalk, on Tuesday, the 18th inst., at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of Inducting the Rev. J. S. Eakin into the pastoral charge of Dundalk and Fraser Settlement. The event is to be celebrated in the evening by a grand reception and Tea Meeting to welcome the new Pastor. A first-class time may be expected from the names of the speakers given on the bill.

A Missionary Meeting was held in the Methodist Church on Tuesday last.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—In your last week's issue I see a long rambling harrangue from some one styling himself "A Farmer," but which occupation I question very much, as I do not think that any farmer in Artemesia (with one exception) could be found with such an amount of Toronto, Grey and Bruce fever on his brain as the said writer seems to have got. I do not wish to go into any correspondence with any unknown writer who is ashamed to give his name, but wish to contradict some of his false statements. He says in his letter that I said at the nomination that I was in favor of the Township of Artemesia giving a bonus of thirty thousand dollars to a railway running from Kincardine to Collingwood. I deny making any such statement, either at the nomination or anywhere else. What I did say, when asked by a farmer if I was in favor of granting a bonus to this new scheme, was, that I was in favor of giving a small bonus to a new enterprise of this kind; but I mentioned no particular sum. I may just state, however, that had I been asked to name any particular sum, it would have been less than one-half the amount I am charged with saying that I was in favor of.—He then goes on to say that "it is likely that Mr. Webster is one of the Directors appointed to aid this new railway scheme." Now, Mr. Editor, I am sorry to have to state that this is not the case. My friend Farmer tries to make it appear that the new railroad scheme is much further advanced than I represented it to be. I said that it was my opinion that it would not be many years until this scheme was before the ratepayers, it might be three, five, or it might be ten years; but that it was a mere matter of time, and that in my opinion it would be built. In regard to me signing the petition for the T., G. & B. Railway by-law, I hold that if any respectable Company is willing to place money in the Township Treasurer's hands to defray all expenses connected with the submitting of a by-law, I am still willing as a ratepayer to sign a petition to bring their scheme before the people, and give them an opportunity to vote yea or nay; and I now hold that it would be very narrow minded of me or any other ratepayer that would not do so and then vote as you see proper. I hope that if A. Farmer airs himself again in your columns, he will be honorable enough to give his right name, not have me and others blaming innocent farmers for his false productions. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for allowing me to trespass so much on your valuable space,

I remain,

Respectfully yours,

ALEX. WEBSTER.

Priceville, Jan. 11, 1881.

INFORMATION WANTED.

To the Editor of the STANDARD,

DEAR SIR,—I rise for information. Can you tell me the reason why several young men and boys were last Sunday congregated at a certain house on Toronto street? and further, why they should persist in making such an uproar as to disturb the neighbors for a block or two on either side? Why were they not at Sunday School or at home, or would they like to visit our good friend on the corner? Surely such things are a disgrace to any neighborhood. What is the special attraction for young men at that place any way? Is it bad whiskey? or what?

INQUIRER.

GENERAL ITEMS.

MAGISTRATES' COURT.—John and Charles Lawrence, of Bentinck, were summoned before the Mayor and Squire Cochrane, on Friday last, on a charge of assaulting Mr. Henry Young, town constable. John was fined $5 and costs and Charles $8 and costs.—Durham Chronicle.

A TUMOR, weighing 6 pounds, was successfully removed from the breast of a Miss McRonald, of Bentinck, on Thursday last, by Dr. Jemeison, of this town, assisted by Drs. Yeomans and Cotton, of Mount Forest, and Bennett, of Priceville. The patient, who is staying at Mr. Jack's in this town, is progressing favorably.—Ib.

BROKEN ARM.—On Thursday last, while skating on the Mount Forest skating rink, a lad about twelve, son of Mr. Arch. McKenzie, post-master, Durham, had his left arm broken near the wrist by coming forcibly in contact with a young man who was skating in an opposite direction, contrary to the rules of the rink. The young man who caused the accident was not recognized as he immediately disappered.—Ib.

THE bonus by-laws in East and West Luther in aid of the T. G. & B. Railway improvement scheme were both defeated; that in the former township by a majority of almost four to one.—Orangeville Advertiser.

AN AWFUL AFFAIR.—As a party of ladies and gentlemen were seeing some friends off on the C. V. R. on Monday, and while they were bidding them adieu, and doing the customary ... away. Two young gentlemen played the part of the bars by ... and leaving the fair ones to take care of themselves, but the obliging conductor "put them off" at Alton, where they remained until the first up train brought them safely home. Young men that jump off, do the square thing and settle the fare with the conductor.—Ib.

LIQUOR CASE.—Erastus Wagner of St. Vincent, was charged last week before C. R. Sing and Jas. Cleland Esq. with selling liquor without license and fined $20 and costs.—Thornbury Standard.

CORONER'S INQUEST.—John A. Stewart, Law student, died last week, very suddenly. Coroner Albery held an inquest, Hugh Chisholm Esq. was the foreman of the jury. A verdict was returned that the Deceased came to his death from natural causes, and the jury exonerated as well the Dr who had the case in charge as the Chemist who prepared the Prescriptions, from all blame.—Ib.

ON Wednesday afternoon a number of liquor cases were tried before F. G. Dunbar, Esq., J. P., of this village, with the following results: Michael Callaghan, charged with selling liquor without a license, was fined $20 and costs, to be paid in thirty days. There was a similar charge preferred against Michael Shoaff, but as the constable failed to notify him, the case was not proceeded with. The charge against F. A. Campbell, of selling quantities less than three half pints was dismissed, as was also that against Wm. Mulien, of selling liquor without a license. The cases of L. Knapp and I. F. Belfrey were adjourned till Saturday, 15th inst.—Free Press.

AN ORDERLY TOWN.—The chief constable has not had a case arising within the town for twelve weeks past. This reflects credit on the vigilance of the constable as it is doubtful if another town in Canada can show a similar record. He deserves an increase in salary. Can any other town show a cleaner sheet.—Bruce Telescope.

FIRE IN PAISLEY.—On Wednesday forenoon last a fire broke out in the upstairs flat of Mr. Alex Colborne's flour and feed store, Queen Street, Paisley. This building is situated in the heart of a block of frame buildings, and it was at first feared that a clean sweep would be made of the whole. Our citizens turned out en masse however, and by their exertions succeeded in confining the flames pretty much to the one building where the fire originated. Mr. Campbell's liquor store on one side, and the store of Given Brothers on the other side of Mr. Colborne's building both caught in the upper story, and it is a wonder that they were saved from utter destruction. When it was feared that it would be impossible to keep the fire under control, the harness shop of Mr. Colborne, the second building south of Given Brothers' was torn down, the object being to stop the flames and save the barber shop on the corner. By the free use of water however, the demon was got under control without doing very much damage to any but Mr. Colborne's store.—Advocate.

MARRIED

On the 11th inst., by Rev. N. A. McDiarmid, Mr. Charles Wesley Bowler, to Miss Mary Ann Hopps, both of Artemesia.

On the 11th inst., at the Parsonage, Williamsford, by Rev. W. T. Hicks, Mr. John McCann, to Miss Adeline Abbott, daughter of the late William Abbott, all of Holland.

At the P. M. Parsonage, Markdale, by the Rev. C. C. Garnett, on the 13th inst., Mr. Wm. Myers, to Miss Mary H. Rodman, all of Euphrasia.

DIED.

In Glenelg, Jan. 5th, 1881, Mary McDonald, beloved wife of John Black, aged 84 years. A native of South Uist, Invernesshire, Scotland.

Farm to Rent.

THE Subscriber wants to rent his Farm for four years, lot 16, con 9, Glenelg; 75 acres cleared; 15 acres ploughed The soil is a good Clay Loam. There is on the premises a good Log Barn and a good comfortable house, and all other buildings necessary. Plenty of Water. Terms easy, as the Proprietor must leave. Possession given 1st April. Apply on the premises to John Black on the premises, or to Arch. Butter, Markdale.

JOHN BLACK, Traverston P. O., Ont,

January 13, 1881, 18-3i

FOR SALE

IN ARTEMESIA,

FIFTY acres of land, Lot 25, south of Durham Road, 18 acres of cleared land with log house, and well fenced. Inquire of Robert Oliver, opposite the lot, or

JOHN KAY, Bentinck, Durham P. O

Jan. 13th, 1881. 18-tf

3,000 Cords Wood WANTED.

THE undersigned is prepared to let the contract for cutting and hauling 3,000 cords of wood from his farm 2½ miles north of Markdale, to be delivered at the station. be let in small lots to suit contractor. For particulars see

C. E. GOULD, Markdale House.

Markdale, Dec. 30, 1880. 16-3in*

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

LOVELL'S

Province of Ontario Directory For 1881-82,

TO BE PUBLISHED IN NOVEMBER, '81, Price $5.00.

MR. LOVELL, at the request of several Merchants and others of the Province of Ontario, of the City of Montreal, &c., begs to announce that his firm will publish a PROVINCE OF ONTARIO DIRECTORY, in November next, containing an

Alphabetical Directory

AND A THOROUGH

CLASSIFIED

Business Directory

of the Business and Professional men in the Cities, Towns and Villages of Ontario, with a

CLASSIFIED

BUSINESS DIRECTORY OF THE CITY OF MONTREAL.

The same care and attention bestowed on the Dominion and Provincial Directories of 1871 will be given to this work. Subscribers names respectfully solicited. Terms of Advertising made known upon application.

JOHN LOVELL & SON, Publishers. Montreal, December, 1880.

CAUTION.

ALL persons are hereby cautioned against purchasing a Note drawn in favor of Samuel Thompson, of Artemesia, and signed by Aaron and William Ernest, dated on or about the 1st day of July, 1880, and due on the 15th day of February, 1881, as we have received no value for the same.

AARON ERNEST, WILLIAM ERNEST.

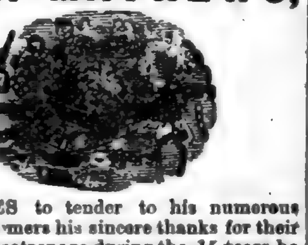
Flesherton Station, Jan. 9, 1881. 18-3i*

SAVE YOUR COMBINGS.

Mrs. T. G. Morgan, begs to announce to the Ladies of Markdale and vicinity that she is prepared to work up hair combings into switches, puffs and curls, terms moderate—A call is solicited. Residence corner of Mark and Queen streets, opposite Mr. Bowes' residence.

Markdale, Dec. 16th, 1880. 14m1

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS

HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates. None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 1o

PHOTOGRAPHS! 12 FOR $1.50

I WOULD again intimate to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country, that I am prepared to give you the BEST SATISFACTION IN PHOTOGRAPHS, AMBROTYPES, COPYING AND ENLARGING!

Please give me a call, and see for yourselves.

GALLERY, two doors from Revere Hotel.

R. BAILEY.

Markdale, Jan. 13, 1881. 18-3i

BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

The only Medicine that successfully purifies the Blood, acts upon the Liver, Bowels, Skin and Kidneys, while at the same time it allays Nervous Irritation, and strengthens the Debilitated System, perfectly and speedily curing Biliousness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Nervous and General Debility, Female Complaints, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, and every species of Chronic Disease arising from Disordered Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels or Blood.

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFYING TONIC IN THE WORLD.

Sample Bottle, 10c. T. MILBURN & CO., SOLE AGENTS, TORONTO. Regular Size, $1.00.

Mrs. Freeman's Worm Powder is a safe, sure and effectual destroyer of worms in children or adults. Price 25 cents or 5 for $1.

Mrs. Freeman's New Domestic Dyes are perfect in every color. For brightness and durability they have no equal. Price 15 cents per package.

MARKDALE HOUSE, MARKDALE.

ALEX. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

THIS HOTEL is a large three storey brick building, recently erected and fitted up with every modern convenience. It is furnished in First-Class Style. The Bar is supplied with the best brands of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, and the table with all the delicacies of the season. The travelling Public may rely upon every attention being paid to their comfort. Good Sample Rooms for Commercial Travellers. The only Hotel that runs a Bus to and from all Trains. Good Stables and attentive Hostlers. 1y

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

FRESH GROCERIES, FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY and

LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unequaled; OLD RYE, the purest; MALT, the best; PORTER, equal to Guiness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in this section. Old Cider equal to Champagne. Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods.

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 2-ly

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes, ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 18 tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment

OFFERED BY THE BRITISH CANADIAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, AND British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES —ATTENDED.—

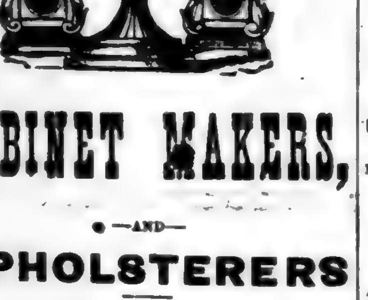
Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me. P. S.—Several improved farms for sale.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 18-5m

GRANT & CHELLEW,

MARKDALE,



CABINET MAKERS, —AND— UPHOLSTERERS

A FULL STOCK OF Furniture! ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

LAST NOTICE TO CREDITORS.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned, either by book or account, will do well to settle with J. P. Sproule, before the 20th inst., as all unsettled accounts at that time will be placed in other hands for collection.

DR. SPROULE.

Jan. 5th, 1881. 17-3i

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, lot 25, con. 7, Township of Artemesia, about the 3rd of December, 1880, A Bay Colt. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses, and take him away. If not claimed within ten days after the date of this will be sold to defray expences.

JOSEPH FENWICK.

Jan. 7th, 1881. 17-3*

TENDERS

WILL be received by the undersigned, up to Feb. 1st, 1881, for building a brick house, in Flesherton; contractor to supply all material. Plans and specifications may be seen at my office.

ROBT. DAVIS, Conveyancer, Commissioner in B. R., Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agent, Flesherton.

Jan. 5th, 1881.

Fine Cheap Stationery, Envelopes, ... for Christmas and New Year Cards ... at the Standard Office.

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to intimate to you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past.

Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 1880. 16-5ih

FLESHERTON Harness Shop!

THE Subscriber having purchased the business lately carried on by Mr. S. Damude, begs to inform the public that he has

REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE,

where he is prepared to furnish

ALL KINDS of HARNESS

usually found in a First-Class Establishment,

And at prices to suit the times, and by using THE BEST OF MATERIAL, AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c., constantly on hand.

COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

Call and satisfy yourselves. Remember the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec., 1880. 16

Auction Sale OF VALUABLE FARM PROPERTY.

UNDER and by virtue of a power of sale contained in a Mortgage, which will be produced at time of sale, there will be offered for sale by Public Auction, by J. M. WEBSTER, Auctioneer, at the

VILLAGE OF MAXWELL,

in the County of Grey, on

Friday, January 14,

A. D. 1881, at the hour of 11, o'clock in the forenoon, the following Freehold Property, in one parcel, viz.:—

Lot No 7 in the 12th Concession of the Township of Osprey in the County of Grey.

The said Lot consits of 100 acres, more or less, of which about 60 acres are cleared and in a fair state of cultivation. Upon the premises, which are situated near the Villages of Feversham, Maxwell, and a few miles from Flesherton Village and Railway Station ...

TERMS OF SALE.—Ten per cent. of the purchase money to be paid at the time of sale, twenty-five per cent additional in one month thereafter, and the remainder to be secured by a first mortgage. For further particulars apply to the undersigned at Toronto.

WILLIAM MULOCK, Solicitor, 6 Toronto st., Toronto

Jan. 4th, 1881. 17-3i

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

... begs to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased the control of the FLESHERTON STEAM FURNITURE AND SASH AND DOOR FACTORY and removed to the Furniture Warerooms

NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUILDING ADJOINING THE FACTORY

Where my numerous customers will always find me, or a competent salesman to ... are now superior to any ... dealing to merit a continuance of ... bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of Furniture in all the Latest Styles and during the Winter I require 100,000 FEET OF GOOD Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and ... LUMBER! for which THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAID.

Also a Quantity of Good Pine ...

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ETC. AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Application.

Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durham st.

H. HOOPER.

Flesherton, December 28, 1880.

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTER AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Days

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEAP

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEAP

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothing CHEAP

Staple and Fancy Dry Goods OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT ROCK-BOTTOM PRICES

BOOTS AND SHOES In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRICES at the "TORONTO HOUSE"

Wm. BROWN

Markdale, December 29, 1880.

WE WISH YOU

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that it has been a year of prosperity with the people of our Country, and as others have prospered, we have been enabled to participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially since moving into our new premises, and we solicit a share of patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Goods

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and Saucers

and a large variety of CHILDREN'S TOYS.

OUR GROCERIES

For the season are, as usual,

Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,

NEW PRUNES,

NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.

The People are all asking for our TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING

WINTER DRY GOODS

At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties, 5,000 Telegraph Poles, Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHERS.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.

... Friday, Jan. 14th, 1881

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

... Bros. keeps the largest and ... of stoves in the county.

... best and cheapest machine ... coal oil, go to Hackett Bros.

... BLACK, of lot 16, con. 9, Glenelg, ... to rent his farm. See adv.

... take a cord and a quarter of ... wood, or one and a ... you can have the ... year.

... oil company, are sole ... of "Castorine machine ... infringements will be prosecuted.

... by-law to aid the T. G. & B., ... was voted on in Orangeville, ... and resulted in 96 ... against the bonus.

... announces that he is ... take photos for $1.50 per ... now is your chance, boys, to ... self and gal taken cheap.

... Lovell & Son, of Montreal, ... issuing a Business Directory ... Province of Ontario, in November. See advertisement.

... your dealers for "Castorine" ... oil, and see that the barrel ... branded "Castorine," as none other ... genuine.

... will take a cord and a quarter ... wood, or one cord of dry two ... wood for the Weekly Mail for ... The paper to be furnished ... the delivery of the wood.

... from the quantities of ... Stone and Sand that is being ... down in our village, building ... promise to be brisk in ... dale next spring.

... members of Eugenia Grange ... holding their annual supper on ... 18th, at 6 o'clock p. m. As the ... is only 25c. each or 40c. per ... a large attendance is anticipated.

... "Castorine" Machine Oil, for ... of machinery, it is also excellent for harness and leather, making ... and weather proof. For sale ... dealers.

... OATES promises heavy snow ... storms just about this time. ... it along Moses, we ain't afraid, ... have our stilts yet that we had ... for Vennor's 11½ feet of snow; ... don't you fool us or we will go for ... sure.

... souls with but a single thought, ... hearts that beat as one."

... said a young man to his deary ... other night when she ... said "yes, that's so if you would ... get me one of those nice locket's ... chain from Wilcox."

... that dire disease, has lost its ... to those who keep Yellow Oil ... Yellow Oil also cures Sore ... Quinsey, Congestion and ... inflammation of the lungs. Now is the ... to guard against sudden attacks ... diseases. Ask your Druggist for ... Yellow Oil.

... Division Grange No. 2, will ... its semi-annual meeting, in Beecher Grange Hall, St. Vincent, on the ... Thursday in this month. The ... of the above Grange wish to ... their friends know that they will ... be happy to entertain them, and accommodate those who stay over night.

MANUFACTURERS of reapers, mowers ... threshing machines, prefer "Castorine" machine oil to any other, it ... out wear lard, seal, or elephant, ... is warranted not to gum.

THOSE of our subscribers, who have ... arrangements to pay their subscriptions to the STANDARD in wood, ... oblige us by bringing it in now ... the roads are good. We are in ... of wood and a few cords ... would be just as acceptable as the ...

THREE red headed men went into a ... popular hotel not a thousand miles ... Markdale, the bar-keeper looking up said, "Hello! has Hanlan won ... other race? Oh! beg pardon," ... he, "I mistook you for a torchlight procession."

WE do not see how it is Markdale ... no band. Villages of less pretensions than ours have their bands and ... good ones too. Will not some one ... make a move in the mater. The instruments might be purchased by ... holding a series of concerts, which ... feel satisfied would be well patronized by our citizens.

THE Walkerton Telescope has ... changed hands, and comes to us much ... improved both in appearance, and ... quantity and quality of its matter. While it it still supports the liberal ... party, the new proprietor says it will ... only do so as long as that party works ... the best interests of the Dominion ... We wish our cotem success.

HAGYARD'S Pectoral Balsam is the ... most safe, pleasant and perfect remedy known for all diseases of the Throat ... and Lungs. It cures Coughs Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Pectoral Complaints, in the most speedy manner. ... doses will relieve the most ... troublesome cough in children or ... adults. For sale by all dealers, at 25 ... cents per bottle.

VICK'S FLORAL GUIDE.—This beautiful magazine is before us, and we ... must say it is a perfect gem, far surpassing anything of the kind we have ... ever seem. It contains 120 pages, ... one colored flower plate and 600 illustrations with the description of the ... best flowers and vegetables and how ... to grow them. Single numbers only ... 10c. or $1.25 per annum. It is a ... work that should be in the hands of ... every one who has a vegetable or ... flower garden. Published by James ... Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

... Blood Bitters is the best ... Liver and Kidney ... Regulator, and Restorative Tonic in ... the world. It acts upon the Liver, the ... Kidneys and the Bowels, curing all ... manner of Billious complaints, Kidney ... Complaints, and diseases of the Blood. Ask your Druggist for Burdock Blood ... Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, ... regular size $1.00.

WE have had our attention drawn ... to the filthy state of the closets connected with our public school. If our ... people do not wish to have another ... from the fatal disease that prevailed here last fall, they will see to ... it that the trustees do their duty and ... have those pest holes thoroughly ... cleaned before the warm weather ... comes on.

MOVA...
STEAM
DOOR F... erooms
ADJOINING THE ... competent salesman ...
Superior to any ...
to merit a continuance ...
the past.
...atest Sty...
GOOD
Birch and ...
R!
...LL BE PAID
Good ...
...ULDINGS, ETC.
...on Application
...the Factory, Durham ...
...I. HOOPE...
OFF!
...INTER
...OST
...O Days
Suits,
...CHEA...
...WIS,
...CHEA...
...derclothin...
...CHEA...
Dry Good...
...AT PRICE...
SHOE...
...EAP.
PRICES at the ...OUSE
... BROWN
...ppy New Ye...
...ut say, that it
...ple of our
...e been enabled
...especially since
...licit a share of
...llection of
...oods
...ps and Sa...
...TOYS.
...ERIES
...ual,
...nd Good,
Value.
...or our
...suits so well.
...ING
...GOO...
...oles,
...Cordwo...
...HERS

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 14th, 1881

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

... weather again.

Haskett Bros keeps the largest and stock of stoves in the county.

... the best and cheapest machine and coal oil, go to Haskett Bros.

... Black, of lot 16, con. 9, Glenelg, wishes to rent his farm. See adv.

... us a cord and a quarter of dry two foot wood, or one and a ... green, and you can have the Standard for a year.

... oil company, are sole manufacturers of "Castorine machine ... Infringements will be prosecuted.

... by law to aid the T. G. & B. Railway, was voted on in Orangeville, the 12th inst., and resulted in 96 majority against the bonus.

... Bailey announces that he is prepared to take photos for $1.50 per ... Now is your chance, boys, to ... yourself and gal taken cheap.

John Lovell & Son, of Montreal, ... issuing a Business Directory ... the Province of Ontario, in November next. See advertisement.

Ask your dealers for "Castorine" machine oil, and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine.

We will take a cord and a quarter of green wood, or one cord of dry two foot wood for the Weekly Mail for a year. The paper to be furnished ... the delivery of the wood.

Judging from the quantities of Brick, Stone and Sand that is being ... down in our village, building operations promise to be brisk in Markdale next spring.

The members of Eugenia Grange ... holding their annual supper on ... 18th, at 6 o'clock p. m. As the charge is only 25c. each or 40c. per couple, a large attendance is anticipated.

The "Castorine" Machine Oil, for ... kinds of machinery, it is also excellent for harness and leather, make ... water and weather proof. For sale ... dealers.

Moses Oates promises heavy snow and rain storms just about this time. ... it along Moses, we ain't afraid, ... we have our stilts yet that we had made for Vennor's 11½ feet of snow; ... don't you fool us or we will go for ... sure.

"Two souls with but a single thought,
Two hearts that beat as one."

... said a young man to his deary ... other night when she replied "yes, that's so if you would ... get me one of those nice locket's and chain from Wilcox."

Croup, that dire disease, has lost its terrors to those who keep Yellow Oil ... hand. Yellow Oil also cures Sore Throat, Quinsey, Congestion and Inflammation of the lungs. Now is the season to guard against sudden attacks ... diseases. Ask your Druggist for Hagyards's Yellow Oil.

Grey Division Grange No. 2, will hold its semi-annual meeting, in Beeton Grange Hall, St. Vincent, on the ... Thursday in this month. The patrons of the above Grange wish to ... their friends know that they will ... happy to entertain them, and accommodate those who stay over night.

Manufacturers of reapers, mowers and threshing machines, prefer "Castorine" machine oil to any other, it will out wear lard, seal, or elephant, and is warranted not to gum.

Those of our subscribers, who have made arrangements to pay their subscriptions to the Standard in wood, will oblige us by bringing it in now while the roads are good. We are in want of wood and a few cords now would be just as acceptable as the cash.

Three red headed men went into a popular hotel not a thousand miles from Markdale, the bar-keeper looking up said, "Hello! has Hanlan won another race? Oh! I beg pardon," said he, "I mistook you for a torch light procession."

We do not see how it is Markdale has no band. Villages of less pretensions than ours have their bands and good ones too. Will not some one make a move in the mater. The instruments might be purchased by holding a series of concerts, which we feel satisfied would be well patronized by our citizens.

The Walkerton Telescope has changed hands, and comes to us much improved both in appearance, and the quantity and quality of its matter. While it it still supports the liberal party, the new proprietor says it will only do so as long as that party works for the best interests of the Dominion We wish our cotem success.

Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam is the most safe, pleasant and perfect remedy known for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. It cures Coughs Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Pectoral Complaints, in the most speedy manner. A ... doses will relieve the most troublesome cough in children or adults. For sale by all dealers, at 25 cents per bottle.

Vick's Floral Guide.—This beautiful magazine is before us, and we must say it is a perfect gem, far surpassing anything of the kind we have ever seem. It contains 120 pages, one colored flower plate and 600 illustrations with the description of the best flowers and vegetables and how to grow them. Single numbers only ...c. or $1.25 per annum. It is a work that should be in the hands of every one who has a vegetable or flower garden. Published by James Vick, Rochester, N. Y.

... Blood Bitters is the best ...er, Liver and Kidney Regulator, and Restorative Tonic in the world. It acts upon the Liver, the Kidneys and the Bowels, curing all manner of Billious complaints, Kidney complaints, and diseases of the Blood. Ask your Druggist for Burdock Blood Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00.

We have had our attention drawn to the filthy state of the closets connected with our public school. If our people do not wish to have another visit from the fatal disease that prevailed here last fall, they will see to it, that the trustees do their duty and have those pest holes thoroughly cleansed before the warm weather comes on.

Good sleighing.

Did you see that wedding that ... ed through town on Tuesday last.

Ladies Gold and Silver Watches very low, at Doll's, Flesherton.

The thermometer has been keeping above zero, lately and we are in hopes it will remain there.

The Durham Chronicle has fallen into the same error as the O. S. Tiser in crediting articles taken from our columns to the Reporter. There is no such paper in Markdale postoffice.

We notice the children of both sexes have a great habit of running and climbing into farmers' sleighs while they are on the move. It is very dangerous practice, and parents should prohibit their children doing it. It often results in serious accidents and not unfrequently has a fatal termination.

Yellow Oil is the great pain panacea, magical in its power over pain and inflammation. It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Lame Back and Spinal Affections, Contraction of Cords and Muscles. Used externally and internally. For sale by all dealers.

Fire.—Union School House, No. 2., Holland and Euphrasia, was destroyed by fire on the evening of the 12th, between 8 and 9 o'clock, with all its contents. The origin of the fire is a mystery.

No medicine is more justly popular than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It is a positive specific for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs leading to Consumption. It loosens the tough phlegm or mucous, soothes irritation, allays troublesome coughing and heals diseased lungs. Sold by all dealers at 25 cents per boottle.

Some time in November we received from the Montreal Witness four local notices to be inserted in the Standard during the month of December, for which we were to receive the Daily Witness in exchange. We have filled our part of the contract; but up to the present we see no signs that the Witness is going to fill theirs. We notice that many of our cotems have published the same items. We wonder if they have been any more successful.

Free the system of impurities, excite the secretions to a healthy action, cleanse the blood, and tone up the weakened nerves, with that matchless medicine Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Jaundice, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Headache, Nervous and General Debility, and all Female Complaits. Every dealer in medicine can supply you with Burdock Blood Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00.

The annual meeting of Artemesia District L. O. L., was held in Flesherton, on Tuesday, the 11th inst. After receiving and disposing of the reports from the various lodges, comprising this district, and transacting the usual business in connection with such meetings the election of officers was proceeded with as follows:—W. D. M., Jas. Brodie; W. D. D. M., Wm. Wright; D. Chaplain, E. J. Merriam; D. Sec., T. M. Bannon; D. Treas., J. Elliott; D. D. of C., James Lackie. There are seven lodges in this District in good working order. The next meeting will be held at Flesherton Station, on the 14th of June.

The Markdale House.—This Hotel under the Managément of Mr. A. Rutledge, is now doing a rushing business, and deservedly so. It is a large three story brick building, centrally located, large and well ventilated bedrooms, and is furnished throughout in the latest style. The bar is well supplied with choice liquors and cigars, and the table is A 1, and we know it, as we have been there, and we ain't a bad judge. You will find the host and hostes corteous and affable, and if you don't feel at home there it will be your own fault. It has the reputation of being the most orderly hotel in the county.

House Breaking.—Some time on Friday morning last, between 3 o'clock and daylight, the dwelling of Mr. John Best Esq., Euphrasia, was entered and $130 in cash taken. It appears that on Wednesday Mr. Best was at Meaford and drew the above amount from the Bank, he did not remain at home that night, but stayed with a sick neighbor, on Thursday night he or some of the family were up on account of sickness till 3 o'clock Friday morning, at which time all was right, but when the boy got up about daylight to build the fires he found all the outside doors open, an alarm being made it was found the money was gone. Evidently Mr. B. had been shadowed from Meaford.

Orange Valley Grange No. 826 met January 4th 1881, by special call of master, for election of officers for this year; weather preventing the last meeting in December taking place. After report of finance committee was read and approved, the Grange proceeded to the election of its officers. The following officers were elected:—Brothers, John Ford, Master; W. McLonghry, Overseer; Robert Blair, Lecturer; Thos. Irwin, Steward; M. Speer, Assist. Steward; Wm. Henry, Chap.; James McNicoll, Treas.; H. D. Irwin, Sec.; S. Cunningham, Gate Keeper. Sisters, Irwin, Ceres; Holly, Pomona; Lever, Flora; Speer, L. Assist. Steward. After installation of officers by Past Master, Bro. S. Cunningham, the Master elect delivered a few well-timed remarks on the necessity of punctuallity. Altogether it was one of the most pleasant of our annual meetings.

Life of Ed. Hanlan.—A handsome illustrated book, entitled "The Life of Edward Hanlan," has just been issued by Richard K. Fox, publisher, New York. The work is embellished with portraits of the great Canadian oarsman and some of his most noted competitors, as well as illustrations of some of the famous rowing matches in which he has taken part. The story of his life is told in an interesting manner, the most salient features being his aquatic achievements, both as an amateur and professional. Every one of the matches in which he has taken part are described in detail. In addition to his life are short biographical sketches of oarsmen who have contended with him for boating honors. No admirer of native pluck and physical manhood should fail to secure the history of a man who has done so much to make Canadians proud of their country as the home of physical wonders. The work will be mailed on receipt of 25c. by the publisher, Richard K. Fox, 183 William street, New York.

... BANKERS,
MARKDALE.
Money Loaned.

... ALLOWED AT 6 PER CENT.
... on Savings Deposits.

... Drafts issued and Collections made on all points at lowest rates.

WM. BROWN & CO.

September ..., 1880. 1-y

VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD,
Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Legacies!
Pensions!
Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

STRAYED

Into the premises of the subscriber, lot 178, con. 2, west, Township of Artemesia, one Dark Bay Horse. The owner is requested to prove property pay charges and take him away.

SAMUEL WAUCHOB.
Dec. 15, 1880. 16-3

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVED

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK

FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

J. MONTGOMERY,
BAKER.

THE Subscriber, in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is how prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.
Markdale, Nov. 18, st, 1880. 10-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS
Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. ..., 1880. 11-3

Meat for All
W. B. Sarjeant's
...
MARKDALE.
...
Fresh and Corned Meats
delivered promptly on receipt of order.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again, thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support

W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice. As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by my self personally. JOHN NOBLE.
Markdale Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, an 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, FINLAY MacRAE.
Clerk. Reeve
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

Stoves! Stoves! Stoves

At the New Tinshop
MARKDALE.

A LARGE ASSORTMENT to select from of the latest and most approved designs, including

PARLOR, COOKING AND BOX
STOVES, extra heavy castings, with silver-plated trimmings,

THE BEST STOVE IN MARKET.

If you want to have comfort the rest of your days, buy a stove from W. R. Walker, that will last you your lifetime,

AT ROCK BOTTOM PRICES.
No puffing here—the real "Limon Pure."

TINWARE!
A LARGE STOCK ALWAYS ON HAND.
ALL KINDS OF
Tin & Copperwork!
made to order on the shortest notice.

EAVETROUGHING A PECIALITY.
Stove Ovens Lined, Hand-Irons Silver-Plated, at very low prices; Stove Polish; Dome Lead, the Challenge, the Rising Sun, Coal Oil; JOB WORK particularly attended to.

You can save money by giving me a call before purchasing elsewhere. Old metal, Hides, Sheep Pelts, Wool-pickings taken in exchange. ☞ Remember the place, next the "Markdale House."

W. R. WALKER.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-tf

John H. Heard,
Manufacturer and dealer in
Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,

WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements
Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets.

FLESHERTON.

To my Patrons.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store
R. ASKIN
General dealer in
GROCERIES & PROVISIONS,
Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas,
Tobaccos &
Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price
CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,
AND WILL
Sell Lower than the Lowest,

as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 1-tf

Subscribe for the Standard.
We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

CHEAP CASH STORE
Reynolds & Son.

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY

Don't Forget the Place.
REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880. 9

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the County at

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers.

Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER. Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received sinc commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward busines with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September ..., 1880.

XMAS
SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,
AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

... Silverware I have ... Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle ..., ... Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earrings, &c., &c.

In Watches, I have ... Hunting, and Open-face ... winders, including the ... Watches (they are the ...) English and American ... Thomas and other ... In Jewelry,—I have ... Gold sets, Chains, ... Cuff buttons, ...

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty. W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Nov. 25, 1880. (6) Flesherton and Dundalk

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the witer.

N. CAMPBELL.
Flesherton, December 15, 1880 14

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 143 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING
PROMPTLY DONE.

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.
Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-11

R. J. SPROULE,
FLESHETRON.

Whilst wishing all

A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thank for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business generally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season

THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES,
Crockery and Classware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!
For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE.

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R J. SPROULE'S,
FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

Ballad of the Wicked Nephew.

It was a wicked nephew bold
Who uprose in the night,
And ground upon a huge grindstone
His penknife, sharp and bright.

And while the sparks were flying wild
The cellar floor upon,
Quoth he unto himself, "I will Dispatch my Uncle John.

"His property is large, and, if
He dies and leaves a will,
His loving nephew (that's myself)
Won't get a dollar bill.

"I'll hie unto my uncle's bed,
His chamber well I know,
And there I'll find his pocketbook
Safe under his pillow.

"With this bright steel I'll slay him first Because that is the way
They do such things, I understand,
In Boucicault's new play."

By this the anxious moon retired
(For all the stars were in);
"'Tis very dark, the nephew cried,
"But I can find my kin.

"Come forth, my trusty weapon, now!"
(Or words to that effect)
He shouted to his little blade,
Whose power he did suspect.

Then out he starts. His uncle's door
Is thirteen doors from his;
He gains the latch, which upward flies,
And straight inside he is!

One pause upon the entry stair,
And one upon the mat—
How still the house at such an hour!
How mewless lies the cat!

"O nephew! nephew! be not rash;
Turn back, and then 'turn in;'
Your uncle still is sound asleep,
And you devoid of sin;

"The gallows tree was never built
For handsome lads like you—
Get thee to bed! (as kind Macbeth Wished his young man to do)."

He will not be advised—he stands
Beside the sleeping form—
The hail begins to beat outside
A tattoo for the storm.

"'Tis not too late—repent, repent,
And all may yet be well."
"Repent yourself," the nephew sneers,
And as it goes pellmell.

To right and left he carves his way,—
At least, thus did it seem;
And, after he had done the deed,
Woke up from his bad dream.

And swift to Uncle John he ran,
When daylight climbed the hill,
And told him all—and Uncle John
Put nephew in his will.

James T. Field.

AT THE TWELFTH HOUR.

BY R. E. FRANCILLON.

CHAPTER II—CONTINUED.

"I knew Derwent well; but I have seen nothing of him for some years—some time, I should say. I hope he is well?"

"He is dead, Mr. Hildreth. He died last November, in town. And his little girl"—

"Dick Derwent dead! Well. . . But a little girl? Well, he was just the man to get married before he died."

"She has no mother. She died, you know, when the child was born. Well, Mr. Hildreth, to make a long story short, Mr. Derwent had two ideas—perhaps more, but certainly two. One was an unbounded trust and confidence in your prudence and honour, as his will testifies. The other was an overwhelming dread lest his little girl should grow up a prey to fortune-hunters, or be contaminated by the companionship of other girls. He believed that every girl ought to grow up alone, with no knowledge of, or communication with, the world. He had had experiences of the other sort of thing, you see, when he was a young man. So, Mr. Hildreth, knowing your prudence, your honour, your friendship for him, and your hermit-like mode of living, he leaves you a legacy of ten thousand pounds on condition that you will, as joint guardian with myself, undertake the sole and entire charge and education of the child (she living here with you) until she attains the age of twenty-four, at which age Mr. Derwent believed that a girl, properly brought up according to his views, ought to be able to run alone. She is now in the charge of an aunt, Mrs. Joy. You accept the charge of course"——

"What, I? No. No, Mr. Dimond. Without hesitation, and most decidedly, No. Few years bring, and shall bring, no new things to me. What should I, a student, who live alone with my books, do with a girl—a child"——

"The orphan of your friend——"

"Whom I do not need, and who does not need me. No. I closed my door last night, and I close it still. I will have nothing new in my life"——

"Not—ten thousand pounds"——

"No. No, once for all." He bowed Mr. Dimond out, and went back to his work, without giving another thought of the New-Year's evening but vain attempt to creep within his doors in the shape of a child.

It was all very well for the lawyer of fifty to speak of a grown girl of three-and-twenty as if she were no more than a child in arms. Equally reasonable was it for Rupert to argue that, since Dick Derwent was unmarried some six years ago, his orphan daughter could hardly be five years old. But there is nobody so good at keeping a secret, when he likes, as your bluff, frank, hearty, talkative, open-mannered man. Mr. Dimond knew, and thought his client's intimate friends knew also, that the Squire of Combe Bassett had married once upon a time and had been left a father and a widower within a year: nor only so, but that, surrounded as he was by society of which he was unwilling to deprive himself as he was anxious that his daughter should not share it, he had taken extraordinary precautions against the discovery of her existence till she was fully grown. His friends were mostly good fellows with no money to spend, who would swoop down on an heiress after the genial manner of their kind.

One bright, cold morning, when, in midwinter, her own heart was overflowing with spring and joy, the old nurse who served and guarded her was suddenly dismissed; she was carried, by road and rail, many miles away from her old home, and presently her father came and took her to travel with him abroad. She could not speak to him of the dream which he had doubtlessly discovered, and had thus answered. It is to be hoped she was satisfied. She was docile and gentle, and her father was always kind—kind now, even in keeping her to himself; for she had seen all the human beings she needed to see in seeing one whom she saw no more. He need not have feared the adventurers and fortune-hunters whom he now, as if ruled by a craze, spent his whole time in avoiding. He need not even have made that will when he died, so that his hand, though dead, might still guard her from lovelessness in marriage and all lesser harm. Mr. Dimond must have been terribly right when suggesting that the Squire's own experiences of the world must have been before he settled down at Combe Bassett with the soul of a girl in his hands.

She mourned, honestly, when he died. Perhaps not the less because he had made her life so dull and empty. But presently she had to mourn for her living self, even more. She was an heiress—she had learned to hate the very sound of the word. And she was left in charge of another guardian: a hard, stern man, named Hildreth, so she heard; a recluse, who had been chosen by her father for the office because of his being the only man in the world who could be trusted to carry out, consistently and thoroughly, her father's views. Hitherto, her life had been slavery, but love therewith. Henceforth it must be double slavery, and therewith what must needs become hate, at least on her side.

And yet it was with a strange feeling, very far indeed from pleasure or relief, that she heard from Mr. Dimond of Mr. Hildreth's decisive, almost scornful and angry, refusal of the charge that had been left to him. She had somehow expected that he would have received her for money's sake, and then, for duty's, have made her life hardly to be borne. But here was clearly a man who would neither do a kindness nor accept a duty, if they were inconvenient to him, even for ten thousand pounds. If there were to be refusals and rebellions, they ought to have come from her.

"It seems to me you have had a lucky escape, Miss Derwent," said the lawyer, when his holiday was over and he came in person to bring her news. "There is something about that fellow Hildreth that I neither like nor understand; he's not like other people at all. He refused a legacy of ten thousand pounds. That is being far too imprudent to have the charge of a young girl."

"At any rate, he is no fortune-hunter," said she. "Perhaps my poor father knew that, and that was why——. And what am I to do now?"

"That's just the point, you see. The terms of the will are perfectly clear. In the event of Mr. Hildreth's refusal to undertake the charge of you—why, then, as you say, he will have proved himself very much of a fool. But, as he will also have proved that he doesn't care about money, I am—I am sorry to say—instructed to make him the offer of your hand."

"Of my hand? Of Me?"

"Even so. And it must be done. For, if I do not, I shall lose my own legacy; and it is too much to lose. If he refuses that—But he can't be such a fool as to refuse the heiress of Combe Bassett, you may be sure. Your honoured father did know men."

"But there is something else to be said, it seems to me! How if I refuse?"

"Then he is to have Combe Bassett without you. You are to have enough to live in comfort while you are single; but under no circumstances will you have anything more if you marry anybody but him. It is a cruel will, Miss Derwent; but it is a clever one for its purpose, I must say. Whatever happens, the man who marries you must marry you for love and for fortune, you see; and"——

She heard no more. No wonder, thought she, that her father had done his utmost, alive and dead, to keep her from a world where men, as a matter of course, assumed only the meanest and most sordid motives in one another—judging, no doubt, from their own experience of their own. She marry! Why, if her heart and soul had not been married and widowed long ago, she would return with joy to her old prison in the wood rather than give herself to any man as an uncomfortable condition attaching to her lands and her gold. Let him who had refused to be paid for the care of her ask her for herself with her lands a hundred times—she would refuse him a hundred and one. Let him take Combe Bassett and welcome, so long as he left her free.

And then the pittance that was to be hers in case she refused—even that, according to what she had been taught of the world, would be all too much; even that might be enough to attract some man who was poorer still. Was she to be a slave to the world's meanness all her days? Her heart went back to him who had loved her wholly for herself, if there was any truth in all these magical signs of love that cannot lie. What had become of him? Where was he now? Had he forgotten her all in these years? Had he sold himself to some other woman, for gold? Like enough, being a man; and men being what she had been taught they were. But, had they never been parted, he would have loved her well enough, she knew.

Since Love had been lost, better now, even than Love, was Liberty, for that had become her all. Passionately she felt, "He shall have everything but Me; I will not keep for myself one smallest coin that may make my No less full and whole." After all, there was under the skies another world, where men made no wills, hunted no heiresses, laid no plots or counterplots, never talked of love when they meant money, and, above all, were free. It is the world where we live without Love, without Gold, and Alone. It was the world wherein she herself had lived for her first sixteen years, where men were not, and where she had been tended as are the lilies of the field. It was where she had had the dream of her life, and where she might—she fancied in her heart—go back, and live alone with her dream and be Free. Never, since she left her hermitage, had she been happy for an hour. She had been, as it were, a wild flower transplanted into a garden, where it can only feel itself a weed, and dread the scents and hues around that others find beautiful. She had once longed for the world, as the wild flowers may for the gardens while they are unknown and far away; and now——Well, if she could not find her field again, any place would be better than the garden of the world; even the wayside.

She could not think or feel as those can who have grown up in the garden all their days. So little, or so much, had she learned that, when she heard such an everyday thing merely named and spoken as the sale, by a woman, of her hand and heart for the sake of keeping her land, she was as struck with unspeakable horror as if she had turned over the soil of a bed of roses and laid open the entrance of a charnel, black and foul. We, with our sensible bringing up, our well-regulated minds, and still better regulated hearts, may think her view of such everyday trifles a little overstrained. But then we have seen such things with our eyes; she had never so much as heard of one of them till now. Such a world was not to be lived in; there was nothing to be done but spread one's wings, and fly from it with all speed.

CHAPTER III.

It was the 12th of January, and Rupert Hildreth had not yet heard another word worth mentioning concerning his friend's orphan and her affairs. It is true he had received a letter from Mr. Dimond containing some rubbish or other about something that was to happen if he married the child when she became of age; but, as that could not happen for nearly twenty years, and as it could not possibly concern him in any way, he had naturally thrown the letter, half read, into his waste-basket, and, being deep in an all-absorbing investigation, had forgotten to send a word of answer. He worked on, without giving a real thought to such impertinent nonsense; and if another girl's form would sometimes come between him and his labour, or between his paper and his pen, he had become used to that ghost, and would even have missed it if it ever ceased wholly to come.

So far, therefore, he had made himself secure for another course of an old year which had so consistently proved good to him, bringing him no evil, and, on the other hand, increasing satisfaction with himself and indifference to all the rest of mankind. Every day he had risen at the same hour and worked on till his brain was heartily tired. Every night he insured himself a long sleep, too deep for dreams. The man, day by day, was turning into a machine; and so he willed.

On this night of the 12th he was working, as usual, and I was even more than usually absorbed. It was a lonely old house in which he lived, near the town, but yet with no close neighbours. These dark winter nights were as long and as noiseless as the heart of a student could desire, even though, now and then, he might hear the rush and scream of the night mail that passed Rainham without stopping, and, every hour, the chiming of the church tower. It was more to keep out these than the rush of the train that Rupert Hildreth had double windows to all his rooms, and kept them close even in summer time;—one of his principal eccentricities was a morbid antipathy to the sound of church clocks, especially when they struck twelve.

He made his servants go to bed punctually at ten, for he liked, during his night work, to feel absolutely alone. And never, since he had settled at Rainham, had he been disturbed after that hour. At first, therefore, he could hardly believe his own ears when, late in the evening, and long after his servants were out of the way, he heard a bell ring through the house—no sound of a church clock, but within the house itself, as if such an impossible thing were happening as that somebody was pulling the bell of his front door.

It could not be fancy—such things often happen to minds so absorbed in thought that outward things often become confused and obscured, and when the senses, cut off from real sights and sounds, are compelled to find their own food. He had almost forgotten the matter, when the bell rang once more.

It must be real, then, thought Rupert, angrily. If it happened again it would wake the servants, threw the house into a tumult, and rob him of a whole night's work—and that must never be. If only to say No to somebody, he must go down himself and stop the ringing, otherwise nothing would have moved him from his desk had all Rainham been on fire.

He opened the door just in time to save himself from another ring. By the bright light of the moon, then at her full, he saw a young girl well wrapped in a cloak with her hand upon the bell.

"What does this mean?" asked Rupert, sternly. "Who are you? What do you want here?"

"I—I'm afraid," said the girl, looking round her doubtfully, "I'm afraid I've lost my way—I saw a light here, and no other house near—I came by the train—is it very far?"

"No. It is straight along the road," said Rupert, rather roughly. It was something more than annoying to be disturbed in full work, and to be rung up at such an hour for such a trifle as a lost way.

"But—is it very far?"

"There were limits to even his cultivated likeness to a machine. There seemed something strange about the girl, he thought, as she spoke thus doubtfully and wearily. She did not look like one to be rambling about alone at midnight; and though nothing concerning a stranger could possibly mean anything to him, he had not as yet wholly ceased to be a man. "I suppose," he said, "you have friends at Rainham and are on your way to them? It is not very far, but I am afraid it is both very far and very late—for you."

"No; I have no friends. I suppose there is an inn?"

"You have business, then? Nobody ever comes to Rainham without business or friends." He thought again; for it began to seem to him that there was something about her not wholly strange. "Yes," he said, "of course there is an inn; but"—— "I have to see a Mr. Hildreth to-morrow, who lives here. That is all."

"You have to see Mr. Hildreth? And what possible reason—— You have to see Me?"

"You are Mr. Hildreth?"

"That is my name. And yours?" All his sternness had returned. Had his well trained Old Year gone crazed?

"You will know who I am," said she, sadly and proudly, "when I tell you why I am here. It is to tell you with my own lips, before I leave such a world as this, where men buy love, and let hearts starve, that Combe Bassett is yours, every blade of grass, every stick and stone, without your having to be put to the shame of asking for the hand of one whom you refused even to look at when she could be nothing more to you than the orphan of your friend. That is all . . . ."

"He looked, almost in amaze, certainly bewildered, from her into the dark entrance through which the night wind had followed her, as little welcome as she. "Pardon me," said he, "but this is a matter which I have absolutely nothing to do. Do you mean to tell me, whoever you are, that you are in league with those who seek to bring into my house and life the child whom I am bidden to make my wife in my old age?"

"What child?"

"What else? Are you playing me some trick"——He turned aside to light the lamp: partly to think, partly to see. "I remember—only eleven days ago some lawyer fellow wanted me to let in the New Year in the shape of a child. I refused him at the right time: it's too late now! What have I to do with Dick Derwent's child? There is an early train to-morrow: take it, and go back again. And tell those who sent you here that if wealth, and power, and glory, and wisdom, and love, came knocking altogether at my door, I would say, as I say to you—I want none of you: Go!"

"I tell you that I, Bertha Derwent, refuse"——

The lamp was lighted. ONE! struck Rainham clock. And never since Rupert had lived there had he heard so loud a stroke. For it made no muffled thud through double windows, but a full, heavy boom through the open door, which Rupert had thrown open at the second ring and had neglected to close—on Old New Year's Eve!

The lamplight was on both their faces: in the ears of both boomed the bell. No chimes heralded the birth of this New-Year of theirs, though that twelfth day of January is as surely New Year's Eve for those who will as Twelfth-Day is Old Christmas Day. For those who will? well, maybe any day in the year will do as well. Only it did so happen that, when Rupert left the door ajar for a young girl to enter, he had forgotten that, where evil is to be let out, and good let in, Time is good enough to give us at least Two New-Year's Days—and Old as well as a New: or rather a New as well as an Old.

"Rupert!"

"Bertha!"

"And I refused you!"

And I barred out you when I barred out the New Years—but how could I tell? And what else have I barred out? Harm, yes—but what else? Heaven knows. One blessing—how many more?"

"Do you bar me out still?"

He looked at her—then far away, as if round the world. "Neither you, nor whatever Time may bring," said he, "This is New Year's Eve for me. Good and Ill—Ill and Good, let all come: they all come from the same place by the same road. Let them all come together, so they come, at last, with you . . . . God will bless the new, and God speed the old!"

Rainham clock took a long time to strike: all this, and more had been told, when it boomed—TWELVE!

[THE END.]

De Lesseps' Luck.

ON WHAT TRIFLES OFTEN DEPEND GREAT ACTIONS.

The empress was the Isabella the Catholic of the Suez scheme. But for the Spanish ardor with which she sustained it, the Isthmus would still divide the Red from the Mediterranean sea. "Your head," she said (speaking of a course in figure) to Comte Walewski, "depends on the skill you show in helping my cousin to cut his canal." M. de Lesseps' father, who was descended from the architect of the Cathedral of Edinburgh, was sent with Lucien Bonaparte to Madrid, because he had been brought up at Bayonne and could talk Spanish as well as French. Lucien was the first ambassador named to the court of Charles IV. by Napoleon. His mission was to obtain the retrocession of Louisiania, which Louis XV. had allowed to slip from his hands. M. de Lesseps the elder went about always with him, and was the soul of his diplomacy. The New Orleans affair brought him into relations with the United States consuls, the most intelligent of whom was Mr. Kirkpatrick, who was in business at Malaga. M. de Lesseps proceeded to that town, and, assisted by Kirkpatrick, who, like himself, was of Scotch origin—but less remotely—studied the resources of Andalusia and the political condition of the south of Spain. They were drawn closer together by a romantic affair which sprang up. A notable of the province, Senor Grevigny, had two very pretty daughters, with one of whom the consul fell in love. The French diplomat became enamored of the youngest, and as Lucien Bonaparte was in high favour at the court of Madrid her father allowed her to marry M. de Lesseps, with whom she went to reside in Paris, where, in 1804, she gave birth to Ferdinand. Her eldest sister became Mrs. Kirkpatrick, and the mother of the comtesse de Montilo, who was drawn by her De Lesseps kindred to winter in Paris when her daughters had grown up. "Thus, you see," observed M. de Lesseps, "what a number of great events have in l'enchainement des choses depended upon my fathers early knowledge of the Spanish tongue."

Another "hinge event," which led to the execution of the Suez canal scheme, was the elder Lesseps having divined in a poor and unlettered Turkish officer, Mehemet Ali, a vast genius, and the man who was to break down the power of the Mamelukes. The French diplomat reported in this sense to his government and was instructed to be guided by his own judgment in bringing the officer forward. M. de Lesseps invited the Turk to his house, and showed himself in various ways his friend. But suddenly the officer withdrew from his company, and kept out of the way. When Mehemet was a great man he said to M. Ferdinand de Lesseps: "Your father must have been puzzled to think what my reason was for keeping aloof from him after I had accepted so much kindness. It was this: A silver knife and fork I heard the servants say, had been stolen from his table at a dinner to which I went. I was so poor that I fancied I would pass in his eyes for being the thief, and never dared after to return." Soon after Mehemet had related this anecdote he asked M. Ferdinand de Lesseps to allow Prince Said, his son, to pass his afternoons at the French consulate, in order that he might pick up the French that was spoken there. The boy grew fondly attached to the intelligent and very kind-hearted diplomat. When he was viceroy and the Suez concession was asked for, he gave M. de Lesseps a carte blanche.

The Utilizing of the Tides.

A Philadelphia engineer has invented, it is claimed, a machine by which the power of the tides can be utilized. Numerous plans have been proposed for the accomplishment of this most desirable end, but only under exceptional conditions have they been practical or economical. If the new device can harness the tide in an open channel, so as to convert any considerable portion of the vast power into working force, the inventor will rank among the great benefactors of humanity. Emerson says somewhere: Hitch your wagon to a star. A device for utilizing mechanically the free tides, as they sweep along our shores, would come next to that, since it would enable us, through converters and carriers of electricity, to hitch our wagons to the sun and moon.

Matters European.

The calling together of the English Parliament a month earlier than the date to which it had been prorogued is undoubtedly caused by the Irish disturbances. Mr. Gladstone's circular, summoning the M.P.s to meet on Jan. 6, announces that important business will be entered upon as soon as they assemble. The session promises to be the most momentous one since that which saw the repeal of the corn laws. The Government will at once grapple with the Irish question, and will unavoidably get into stormy waters. It is certain that nothing it can do will placate the Land League, and it is not probable that any measure the Ministry may propose will receive the hearty support of the Conservatives, unless, indeed, it be in the direction of coercion. Mr. Bright has expressed his opinion that "force is no remedy." It may be no remedy for bad harvests and discontent, but it is a most effective remedy for assassination and "Boycotting." Moreover, it seems to be the only practicable remedy.

Another and not less difficult problem will be forced upon the attention of the Government. There can be no doubt that

PARNELLISM IS SPREADING IN ENGLAND.

The hard times have forced farmers to seriously consider their position, and their ideas on this subject have been freely expressed at the agricultural meetings, which take place all over the country early in December. It is plain that both landlord and tenant are in a quandary. In the midland, western, and southern counties there are thousands of acres which cannot be rented on any terms. In the county of Essex alone fifty thousand acres are left untilled; the farmers have gone to London and hired out as helpers in the stables of London horse-owners at $5 a week. In view of these facts, it is not surprising to hear that, at the recent meeting of the Farmers' Alliance, a delegate was for adopting some of the principles of the Land League. There seems to be no probability of any "let up" for these tillers of the soil.

The committee who have been revising the English version of the have at length finished their work. That this has been no light task is shown by the fact that it was begun in 1870, and that for four days in every month since that time the committee have met to proceed with their duties. This makes one year and seven weeks of actual working days of seven hours each. The private study that the members have performed to prepare themselves for the monthly meetings cannot be estimated. The movement for the revision of the New Testament was initiated by the Convocation of Canterbury, Bishops Ellicott and Thirlwall and Deans Alford and Stanley being its chief instigators. An extraordinary opposition to the whole scheme was raised by the Convocation of York, headed by Archbishop Thompson; he didn't like the idea of the Bible "being laid on the table of the anatomist and subjected to this rude process;" and he "begged for breathing time before they sent their beloved Bible to the crucible to be melted down and recast." This feeling was largely shared by the older lay members of the Episcopal Church, who considered that what had been good enough for them was good enough for their children. It was explained to them that, although the New Testament might have been originally inspired, its translators clearly were not, and that numerous and important additions and errors had crept into the text; that the faults, in the light of modern scholarship, were easily eradicable; that millions of copies of the Bible are being scattered yearly through the world, and that it was an absolute sin to mislead the people into whose hands these erroneous books are put. These arguments were of no avail with the Exeter Hall class of religionists, and their "boss," Lord Shaftsbury, avowed an unconquerable hostility to the notion of having the Bible "diluted and Frenchified." The Convocation of Canterbury, however, was not to be deterred by his lordship's fears, and a working committee was chosen with power to appoint the members of the Revising Committe, who were to be "eminent for scholarship, no matter to whatever nation or religious body they might belong." The men selected were Dr. Angus, Archbishop Trench, Dr. Eadie, Prof. Hort, the Rev. W. G. Humphry, Prof. Kennedy (of Cambridge), Archdeacon Lee, Dr. Lightfoot (now Bishop of Durham), Prof. Milligan, Prof. Moulton, Dr. J. H. Newman (now Cardinal), Prof. Newth, Dr. A. Roberts, Dr. Vance Smith, Dr. Scott (Dean of Rochester), Dr. Scrivener, Dr. Tregelles, Dr. J. C. Vaughan (now Dean of Llandaff), and Prof. Westcott. A little later some additions were made to the number, including Bishop Wordsworth (of St. Andrew's), Dr. D. Brown of the Free Church College, Aberdeen, and Dean Merivale. Churchman and Dissenter, Prelatist and Presbyterian, Independent and Methodist, Baptist and Pedobaptist, the Anglican, the Lutheran, and the Reformed, they who emphasize divine sovereignty and they who put the stress on human freedom, they who see only unity in the godhead and who recognize plurality as well as unity, appear alike in the lists of the men employed.

NEW TESTAMENT

Cardinal Newman declined to assist, and death and other causes brought down the average attendance during the ten years to sixteen. The proceedings of this committee have been kept as secret as possible, but inklings of some of the changes have got abroad, and it is whispered that the verses in the ninth chapter of St. Mark, on which is founded the idea of the good old-fashioned fire-and-brimstone hell, are to be omitted as spurious, and that the last twelve verses of the same gospel are also to be omitted or materially altered.

Probably the alteration that will cause most controversy will be the alteration of the wording of the Lord's Prayer, in which the words "from the evil one" will be substituted for the words "from evil." This will at once give new life to which has so languished of late. Scoffers think, however, that it will be very unfair to encourage the devil in his depredations on the human race, and at the same time to deny him a place in which to incarcerate and torment his captives.

THE DOCTRINE OF A PERSONAL DEVIL,

THE FAMOUS MIDDLE PARK STUD, founded by Mr. Blenkiron, is now dispersed, the founder's sons having determined to give up their business. When Mr. Blenkiron died nine years ago, a grand sale took place, at which 105 yearlings brought about $111,000; 129 mares and foals and 70 mares without foals brought about $340,000, and 12 sires were disposed of for about $175,000. The first day of the present sale showed little difference in the average prices between then and now. It was remarked that the buyers this year were nearly all colonists or foreigners, Australia, the Cape of Good Hope, France, Germany, Spain, and Denmark being represented. One of the mares put up was the dam of the unfortunate Blue Gown—Bas Bleu, by Stockwell out of Vexation—but, on account of her great age, she did not find a purchaser. The highest price, $7,500, was paid by Mr. Malapert, a Frenchman, for Czarina, a King Tom mare. Rosette, the cheapest mare, but by no means the lowest priced, was bought for the Cape of Good Hope. She boasts three Derby winners in her pedigree—Lord Lyon, Thormanby, and Plenipotentiary—and she is half sister to Bend Or.

Some of the English sportsmen have been having a good season. At Duppin,

A WEEK'S BAG OF HARES ALONE WEIGHED THREE TONS.

There must have been a great many times that weight of hares left on the estate; the damage done by them to the crops in the neighbourhood must have been enormous. It is hard to conceive a tamer kind of sport than a battue of hares. One might as well fire at a lot of hay ricks. Lord Sefton, with a party of six guns, killed 7,800 head of game in five days, and in Kent, the Duke of Edinburgh and his party bagged 2,700 head in a week.

To the great delight of Paris, Victorien Sardou has given up his attempts to convert the stage into a lecture platform, and gone back to the composition of comedies.

"DIVORÇONS," which he wrote in collaboration with M. Najac, has been welcomed with an effusion that must more than make amends for the dismal failure of "Daniel Rochat." The play is genuinely witty, intensely amusing, and altogether free from even a suspicion of the didactic vein in which Sardou has conceived most of his later pieces.

Another new play has not been so fortunate. At the Gymnase, by Edmund Gondinet and M. Koning, failed unmistakably on its first production. The critics, with every desire to extenuate the disaster, accuse M. Gondinet of writing obscurely and with a turgidity improper in dramatic composition. They find his story old, and protest that the monotone of misfortune running through the piece grows at last insufferable. The characters, however, are sketched with a good deal of distinctness, and no one denies that, at times, the situations are profoundly interesting. The piece was by no means well acted, and two of the principal actors were palpably conscious of an utter misconception of the characters assigned to them. The partial success of the first performance was achieved by the three sumptuous toilettes of Mlle. Marie Magnier which surprised even Paris.

"LES BRAVES GENS,"

THE LION OF THE HOUR

in Paris is the Marquis of San Malato, the Sicilian nobleman, who, after running through his patrimony, took to teaching the young gentlemen of Florence how to run each other through. He is said to be the best fencing master in Europe, and the most fabulous stories are told of his skill and courage. He is an Italian d'Artagnan, and carries the scars of twenty-two wounds received in actual warfare. He has fought no less than forty duels in his time. One of them was with a young kinsman who had insulted him grossly, and whose mother interceded in her son's behalf. San Malato kept his engagement with the rash youngster, but fought him with averted face so as to give him every chance. To learn the exquisite art of fencing of this great master costs fifty francs a lesson, and the fee for permission to try an assault of arms on him is twice that amount.

Tito Mattei's new opera,

"MARIA DE GAND,"

produced at Her Majesty's, is a contemptible melange of old ideas. It is essentially conventional and commonplace; coming after such a masterpiece of originality as Boito's "Mefistofele," it was received by the London critics with an impatience that perilously bordered on disgust. Mattei is a flippant and tinselly composer who has written a number of songs of a sort sure to be popular in drawing-rooms, but who is utterly incapable of operatic composition. The melody to which he owes his fictitious fame is the "Non e ver," which so long divided the affections of amateur singers with the "Maiden's Prayer" and other sentimental nonsense. Mattei wrote it at Hombourg after he had been cleaned out at the gaming table, and sold it for 200 francs. His publishers have already made £6,000 to £8,000 by its sale. It was their subvention of £500 which induced Mr. Armitt to produce his opera at Her Majesty's.

Around Our Streets.

(From the Toronto Truth.)

'Ere you see another line of my views of things in print, a new Mayor will be elected for the "Queen City of the West," and a new Council likewise. With regard to the mayoralty I have a few words to offer. In the first place, Mr. Ald. Close is not the idol of my heart for two or three very good reasons. I don't like his connection with the Woodside property at all—no more than I like his evidence before the Railway Commission. In the second place, he is guilty of an attempt to bulldoze the Conservative electors of Toronto, by first getting up a convention for the purpose of openly introducing party politics into our municipal elections, and in the second place manipulating the Ward "bosses" and wire pullers, in such a way as to give himself the nomination. If he is elected the case will stand thus:—Nomination for Mayor, Ald. Close nominated by—Ald. Close—seconded by Ald. Close—A convention consisting of Ald. Close, comes to the conclusion that the best man to rule the City Council for 1881, is Ald. Close. Carried unanimously, amidst the wildest cheering by Ald. Close.

Of

MR. M'MURRICH

I have but little to say, and that little is like the business end of a bee—very much to the point. This gentleman poses before the electors of Toronto as an independent candidate, and why? Because he knows to a dot how many chances a Grit has in Toronto as a Grit pure and simple. Because he knows that as 1:100:: a Grits chance against a Tory—even if that Tory is as fossilized as the Onondaga Giant and so poor that he can't stand alone So what does this charmingly ingenuous Ward politician of the Grit persuasion do? He comes out as an Independent; forsooth never dreaming of carrying his own party vote straight. Oh, no. He would never be guilty of such a wicked thought as that. No more would he dream of carrying the "loose fish" by denouncing Tory conventions and party candidature, or would he think that the said loose fish held the balance of power between the parties! I should say not. But these are tick tax, I mean tactics, and I suppose that in the dirty trade of politics anything is fair that "scores one" for you and puts a nail in the other man's political coffin. The third in the field is

MR. JAMES BRITTON.

"Britons never shall be slaves," and Mr. B. evidently acts on that principle, for in spite of two or three previous defeats, he comes up smiling again, and announces his determination to strike another blow at the partizan spirit which is sapping all the vim from the health of our civic institutions, and is leaving his fellow citizens at the mercy of a band of brigands (metaphorically speaking), whose only thought is of squandering the city's money on useless water works, and whose only dreams are of champagne lunches at the public expense. Mr. Britton's integrity as a private individual is well known and his probity as a public man stands untarnished. As the Chairman of the Markets' Committee he was the projector of the Cattle Market Scheme, which scheme he carried to a successful termination, with credit to himself, and profit to his fellow-citizens. As a party man he has always given an independent support to Sir John A. and the Conservative party, but he is too liberal a man, not only in politics but in religion, not to see some good in everybody, no matter how much his opinions may differ as a whole. He has always been one of the foremost in charity, without the least regard for creed. That a good work was to be done has always been enough for him, no matter whether the hungry one was Catholic or Protestant. He is not a brilliant speaker, but he is a good business man, and Toronto has had far worse Mayors than he would make.

THE ALDERMANIC

nominations have given the best exhibit of the right class of men we have had out for some years, and if the people do not do their duty and throw out some of the useless ones (and I could name them if I would, but wouldn't) I for one will be awfully disgusted. There are some ex-Aldermen offering, and among them are some who ought to go in with "whooping" majorities, among them the brewer, who in the council is the right man in the right place. He is not one of those who are very subject to "labial explosions" or in other words talking a great deal, but when he was there before he proved himself to be a great worker, both in council and committee.

MR. TOM DAVIES

HARRY PIPER

will be a great loss to the community mentally speaking, in his mind; no more will that massive intellect make itself felt within those sacred walls on Front st. No more will that musical voice, be raised in ardent defense of the coloured population of St. John's. No more will those eloquent gestures, more expressive than words, be used to signal a friend, that the man with the dog has arrived and is out side waiting to see him. I feel that I am breaking down as I think over it, and reader I have cause for my regrets, I never loved him as I ought to have, and now he is retiring from the council, I feel that we "may never look upon his like again," et hinc illæ lachrymæ.

So Christmas is gone and

NEW YEAR'S DAY

is coming. The custom of visiting is this year revived, and everybody announces his intention of turning himself for the nonce, into a combined walking coffee-pot and cake basket. The young ladies will of course look beautiful as they always do on such occasions and with their bewitching smiles, will be almost enough to tempt a hermit to take a drink. But girls, don't do it. Banish wine from your tables entirely, for all young men are not strong, all young men are not sensible, and above all most young men in the presence of a pretty girl, (like yourself for instance) are absolutely compelled by some mysterious feeling, of chivalry, to do pretty much as they are told. Have you got a brother? Or a lover? If you have how would you like to see him coming home to you, with unsteady step and flushed face? And mind you, my dear, this may be entirely accidental on his part. I have known a good many young fellows to get under the weather, without having had even the slightest intention of taking more than they should have. You would feel awfully cut up, wouldn't you? And now suppose you give some other girl's lover or brother a glass of wine at noon. Suppose it is his first, and before night he has got into a condition, which makes him an object of pity to some and contempt to others.

YOUR FIRST GLASS STARTED HIM, AND NOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT IT?

No my dear, don't do it. It may help to cut off a table, but there is altogether too much danger of your also cutting your friends off.

A word now to [illegible]

I am [illegible] you like a [illegible] you can't fool me, for I have been everywhere. I have a few words to say to you on the same subject. Do you know that you can make more calls, make yourselves more agreeable, be better looking, and have the girls think more of you if you put your foot down on it and say

NO!

I will drink no wine this New Year. I am not one of the goody goody description—not by a large majority, as Judge Elliot says, and I occasionally drink a glass of beer myself, but I wouldn't be paid to drink anything on New Year's day—stronger than coffee. Not if it was offered to me by the prettiest girl in Toronto. But I needn't say that, for the prettiest girl is also the best, and I am quite sure she will have no wine on her table. Who is she? But what an old parson I have become, preaching away on the temperance question. Did I hear you say shut up? Allright. Happy New Year.

PAUL PRY, JR.

George Eliot.

HER LIFE, HER WORKS, AND HER STATUS AS A NOVELIST.

No one will dispute the rank of George Eliot among the novelists of her sex. In England there have been but two women whose novels have gained a place in English literature, but "Evelina" and "Pride and Prejudice" will bear no comparison with the best work of George Eliot. Years ago it was the fashion to speak of George Eliot as the worthy rival of George Sand, but time has modified the estimation in which the clever and audacious Frenchwoman was once held, and though the charm of her style can never be underrated, it is evident that her reputation as a novelist has greatly declined during the past twenty years, and no cool critic would now think of comparing the crude colouring of "Indiana" with the broad and masterly canvas of "Middlemarch." George Eliot is not only recognized universally as the first among female novelists, but she is ranked with the masters of English fiction, and is held by many to be the peer of Thackeray and even of Scott.

It has long been the fashion to say of George Eliot that her genius was essentially masculine, and it is said that her first publisher, to whom she was personally unknown, firmly believed that the "Scenes of Clerical Life" was written by a man. In the attribute of strength George Eliot's novels may be loosely said to be masculine, though this implies, and without sufficient reason, that strength is exclusively a characteristic of masculine genius. Unquestionably she had this quality. She was not confined, as are many novelists, men as well as women, to a canvas large enough only for three or four figures, and her creative power was not exhausted in drawing those. In her more important works she introduced us to a grand gallery of portraits, every one of which had its own and striking merits. In "Middlemarch," which in some respects is her greatest work, there are a dozen people, any one of whom is a distinct creation, and all of whom are painted with a power and fidelity which only a master of fiction could display. To pass from such a book to even so finished a study as Hawthorne's "Scarlet Letter," is to compare the grand canvases of Tintoretto with the cabinet work of Meissonier. No other English novelist has been thus lavish of power. The teeming brain of Dickens gave us countless caricatures; but even in "David Copperfield," the possible people, those who seem capable of self-sustained life, are very few. Sir Walter Scott lavished his best efforts on a few central figures in each one of his novels, and filled in the background with a host of lay figures, of little more individuality than belongs to the "First" and "Second Citizens" of historical dramas. George Eliot did nothing feebly. She gave as much care to the supernumeraries as to the leading actors of her novels, and the result is a sustained and uniform strength that sets them apart from all other works conceived on anything like as broad a scale.

There was, however, one characteristic of George Eliot which was distinctively masculine. There is no lack of wit and sarcasm among women writers, but George Eliot is the only woman in whose novels we find the purest type of humour. The humour displayed, perhaps consciously, by Mrs. Poyser, and, certainly unconsciously, by the delightful Mr. Brooke, is utterly unlike anything that any other woman writer has given us. This is one trait of George Eliot which fully justified her masculine name, and might have excused a careless critic in mistaking its wearer for a man. The femininity of George Eliot was, on the other hand, visible on every page of her boooks. In nothing was it more evident than in her inability to draw a hero who was at once noble and manly and real. Her pet heroes—Adam Bede and Felix Holt and Daniel Deronda—are distinctively women's men. They are as good and as impossible as the heroes of Mr. George Macdonald, whose genius is typically feminine. While George Elliot's women are irresistible—for no painter has ever excelled the long list of female portraits beginning with Dinah and Hetty and ending with Gwendoline—her men are unreal just in proportion as she strives to commend them to our admiration, and her greatest literary failure is that intolerable prig, Deronda.

CHAFF.

Actors have to face the music—that is, the music of the orchestra—and some of it is very bad.

An editor who was told that his last article was as clear as mud, said: "Well, that covers the ground, anyhow."

"I'm a man of few words," said Prendergast. "True enough," replied Fogg, "true enough; but you never tire of repeating them."

Jones thinks a man is fortune who has his will contested after death only. He says his will has been contested ever since he married Mrs. Jones.

A Hamilton man with an ingrowing nail, chopped his toe off. This remedy never fails. For sale at all hardware stores. Beware of imitations.

A Dutchman says that his neighbours are "te verst neighbours people dot never vas. Mine little pigs und mine hens come home mit dere ears split, und toder day two of dem come home missing."

A little girl, a few days since, addressing her sister, asked, "What was the chaos papa was reading about to-day?" To which the latter replied, "'Twas a great pile of nothing, and no place to put it in."

An Irishman who was near-sighted, and who was about to fight a duel, insisted that he should stand six paces nearer his antagonist than the other did to him, and they were both to fire at the same time.

There are so many inventions that "cannot get out of order," and "will last a life-time," that anybody who shall discover something that will get out of order, and will only last long enough to be carried home, will supply a long-felt want.

A public appeal has lately been made for donations and subscription in aid of the "Destitute Children's Dinner Society." Here, certainly, is an innocent and praiseworthy dine a mite plot, which all may safely conspire to help and encourage.

A base-ball boy tripped, fell, and tore his clothes while chasing a stray chicken in a neighbour's lot. He told his mother he had been sent to grass by a foul. She reached for home base, and the youth went on a strike, howling for the old man to act as referee.

An argument once arose in which Sidney Smith observed how many of the most eminent men of the world had been diminutive in person, and, after naming several among the ancients, he added: "Why, look there at Jeffrey; and there is my little friend ——, who has not body enough to cover his mind decently with; his intellect is improperly exposed."

In 1611 Holland offered a reward of 25,000 guilders (about $10,000) for the discovery of that north west passage which Prof. Nordenskjold has at last, in our day, accomplished. This offer was long forgotten, but it was never recalled; and it is now probable that Holland will pay the promised reward to the successful explorer, little though he dreamed of the possibility of such compensation when he started on his enterprise.

A St. Louis young man promised his sweetheart a sealskin sacque as a Christmas present, but had no money to buy it. In that dilemma he slipped into a dark alley, fastened a gag in his own mouth, blackened his own eye, and told those who found him that he had been knocked down by robbers who took away the sacque. But he confessed under cross-examination.

An Ancient Relic.

A NEW ORLEANS LADY WHO WAS REARED AMONG THE DIGNITARIES OF THE COURT OF FRANCE.

One day, in the latter part of the eighteenth century, says the New Orleans Picayune, a number of young men were playing dice in a fashionable gambling saloon in the island of San Domingo. Near a table at which two youthful players were engaged stood an elderly, handsome man, a marquis of France. At a certain stage of the game a dispute arose, and the point in controversy was referred to the gentleman standing by for arbitration. His decision enraged one of the players; hot words ensued, and the gambler struck the noble in the face. The marquis said, sternly: "Only blood can efface the stain of this insult." The young man, repenting of his folly, was profuse in apologies, but the marquis remained obdurate, and replied: "We shall send for two pistols; one shall be loaded, the other empty. We, blindfolded, shall choose our weapons and fire."

The pistols were sent for, the fateful choice made, and the loaded weapon fell to the lot of the noble. That day the lifeless body of the young gambler was borne from the dicer's table. Such was the Chevalier de Sevre, a marquis of France, one of the richest nobles in the Island of San Domingo. In those terrible days of the massacre the chevalier fell under the knife of the infuriated blacks. The marquise escaped in disguise with her daughter, a child, and found a refuge in Philadelphia, where she subsequently married Mr. De Breuil, a rich merchant.

There Mlle. de Sevre grew up a lovely young girl. At that time there were many French officers in America. One of them, Col. David, became enamored of the beautiful young creole, married her and took her to France, where he introduced her at the court of Josephine. Of this union were born two daughters, Cecelia Agnes Gertrude David and Marie Pauline. The first was born at Tours in 1804, and christened in the great cathedral of that city. Her godfather was the Baron de Vaublan, and her godmother the Countess de St. Leon.

Gen. David served in the Italian campaign under Napoleon as an adjutant commandant. He was a favorite of the Corsican, who, during the Egyptian campaign, presented him with a magnificent sword. After his death, in 1816, Miss David returned to Philadelphia, married a wealthy American and came south.

A few days ago the writer had the pleasure of visiting this lady on Jackson street, in New Orleans. Though 76 years of age, she looks scarcely 60, and retains still the traces of that beauty which attracted the admiration of all who beheld her in her youth. When asked to describe some of the scenes she had witnessed, the lady said:

"Yes, I saw Napoleon I. once. I went with my father, Gen. David, to the Tuileries, and he pointed out to me the emperor walking in the garden. I was quite a child then. My father told me to look at the great man, and to cry, 'Vive l'empereur!' When I did so, he slapped me and said: 'I am not mad with you, but I wish this to make an impression on you!'

"On another occasion, when I was going to Versailles, I saw Louis XVIII. I was in a nunnery at Versailles, and afterward went to live at Bordeaux. There I saw the daughter of Marie Antoinette, the Duchess of Angoulême, who had just returned to France. All I can remember of the scene is that there was a great crowd, and that the horses were taken from the carriage, which was pulled by men. The reins were ribbons, which were held by young ladies, who were covered with fleurs de lis.

"One day when I was girl of fifteen, a beautiful lady came in a carriage to visit my grandmother, Madame De Breuil, who recognized the visitors, whom she had not seen for years. It was Madame Jerome Bonaparte. The marquise said: 'I hear that you are married to an Italian Prince.' 'No,' she replied haughtily, 'I am Madame Bonaparte, and I will die Madame Bonaparte. The woman married to my husband is not his wife. I am.'

"I saw Joseph Bonaparte many times; he often came to visit the marquise. I have often heard my grandmother say he was one of the most unassuming men she ever met, and Jerome was just like a boy. It was difficult for him to become dignified when occasion demanded."

Sanitary Reform.

The London Society of Arts recently discussed the feasibilty of keeping a sanitary record of every house, so that the Health Board of a town should be able to give an intending purchaser or tenant a certificate of its healthworthiness. The debate made it apparent that, in the case of old houses especially, sufficient pertinent facts could not be obtained to justify such certificates.

It is easy to see how greatly they might affect the value of property; and therefore they would prove exceedingly mischievous and outrageous if they were not scientifically accurate. And that it is not possible to make them in every case, nor even in the majority of cases. Sanitary inquiry has certainly not yet reached a stage where it can point out with confidence the exact and immediate causes of disease, and fix the blame for them with absolute precision. We call it a science, just as we call political economy a science; but strictly, the term is of course misused. It may become a science, but the day is yet far off.

When municipal authorities assume to pass judgment on the healthfulness, and consequently the value, of the premises owned by individuals, they should be very sure of their facts, and that they have enough of them to form an opinion on. They can now point out remediable nuisances, and palpable defects in sanitary engineering; but if they undertook to give medical certificates as to the comparative healthfulness of the different houses throughout a town, they would be certifying to matters about which they are plainly incompetent to form an opinion of value. No dozen physicians would agree on the subject.

But, in his recent address before the American Public Health Association, Dr. J. S. Billings, its President, advocated modification of the plan suggested in London. He would have the health officer of a place obtain and keep a brief description of all its houses from a sanitary point of view. This would be merely a record of facts, to which individuals proposing to buy or rent houses could have access on the payment of a fee. The Health Board would express no opinion, but simply give a sanitary history of the property, its connection with sewers, the number and the causes of the deaths which had occurred in it, or in the square in which it was situated, and other information of that sort. It would be a sanitary supplement to the record of title, and of course might have a decided effect on the value of the property.

But Dr. Billings's plan, pretty as it is in theory, would involve so much minute detail that it would not be feasible in any municipal government on a large scale. To carry it out there would need to be a great multiplication of sanitary inspectors, and their official visits would become odious to the people. Moreover, the number of deaths occurring in a house may afford no certain indication of its condition as to healthfulness. People may take there the diseases of which they die, and an evil name be given a dwelling which it does not deserve. Property owners would justly cry out against a system of registration which put the value of their buildings in peril by following theories of the origin of disease which are not yet firmly established.

What is called sanitary science promises to become of the greatest benefit to communities. It has already demonstrated its value both here and abroad, for its tendency is obviously in the right direction—that of the prevention of disease. It has undoubtedly helped essentially to bring about the increase in the average of life which this century is showing; and it is not too much to expect that it will in the future obtain a pretty complete mastery over epidemics, though yellow fever and even typhoid fever now baffle its efforts to discover and remove their causes. But there is a growing number of men, laymen rather than physicians, for the most part, who make a hobby of sanitary inquiry, and treat it as if it was a fully fledged science against which there could be no reasonable rebellion. Dr. Billings has too high and justly deserved a reputation to lend himself to the support of the crotchets of these fanatics; but such a proposition as his is likely to be run into the ground by them.

There is, however, a sensible effort now making to effect in part the end he would attain. It is to secure the passage of a law by the Legislature requiring that when specifications for building are filed, there shall go with them specifications of the plumbing and house drainage. These would enable an expert to form an opinion as to a house's protection against sewer gas, and show him its sewer connections.

The Czar Nicholas.

SOME PERSONAL PECULIARITIES—HIS [illegible] OF JOKING WITH A [illegible]

E. C. Grenville Murray has contributed to the Swiss Times some personal reminiscences of [illegible] Of his mental habits and [illegible] says: "He was a man of [illegible] but very full of generous impulses [illegible] on some occasion used harsh [illegible] wards one of his Colonels, and [illegible] the officer had taken his rebuke [illegible] Czar ordered a review, and publicly [illegible] ed him at the head of his regiment [illegible] man, too, who could unbend [illegible] 1st of April a lady, who told [illegible] herself, was surprised by her [illegible] rupting announcing the Czar. [illegible] early in the morning that the [illegible] same joke of her sister in connec[tion with] the day, so she replied laughingly, '[Tell the] Czar to wait,' and went on [illegible] Presently she looked up again, [and] saw the servant standing agha[st at the] door which was still wide open, [and in] it in casque and plume was the [fig]ure of the Emperor. He had come [to bring] her good news of her son, who was [illegible] and had been ill. He was no[illegible] however, of intentional disrespect [illegible] but a modified appreciation of a [illegible] General who was Police-master [illegible] Petersburg for a short time, found [it out] to his cost. The General was [illegible] very stupid man, and was the Czar's [illegible] butt, so his Majesty was [illegible] night at a court ball to send [illegible] search of a thief who had stolen [illegible] statue of Peter the Great. The [Police-]master, finding this statue in [its] place, as any one else would have [illegible] felt mortified at the laugh raised [against] him, and determined to be revenged [in his] own way. Shortly afterward, [illegible] announced to his imperial master [illegible] the theatre, that the Winter Palace [was on] fire. The Czar rose hastily to [illegible] conflagration, and on finding that [his] master had presumed to retaliate [upon his] august self, sent him to reflect on [his in]cretion in Siberia. Finally, he was [a] faithful husband, but he was fond [of his] wife and very jealous. Her Majesty [illegible] aware of this, and unfortunately very [illegible] chievous. Whenever, therefore, [illegible] to get rid of an officer who displeased [her] she commanded him to dance with her [and] so sure as she did so he was sent [to the] Caucasus. The Czar's personal habits [were] soldierly and simple. He ate and [drank] with extreme moderation, and he slept [on] his uniform on a tent bed in his study, [with] only a military cloak to cover him. [He] allowed his son, the present Emperor, £[illegible]000 a month while travelling abroad; [the] Empress spent money so lavishly that [her] expenses for one night that she [illegible] Hanover exceeded £1,600. He gave [illegible] largely, but his personal wants [illegible] cost little indeed."

EMINENT FOLKS.

AMONG the royal people Forbes [illegible] four kings up an opponent's sleeve at a [card] table.

ANDERWERT, the newly elected pre[sident] of the Swiss confederation, shot himself on the street at Berne, last evening.

EX-QUEEN Isabella of Spain takes a [great] interest in M. de Lesseps's Panama scheme, and was one of the first to subscribe for the stock. "Money placed in it [will] reap fortunes," she tells her friends.

GEN. GARIBALDI'S health has been entirely restored by his residence on the Genoese coast. He frequently visits the villages along the coast in a canoe or small boat. [His] friends believe that he will live ten years longer, at least.

IF Queen Victoria only knew the [great] respect with which her daughter Louise Campbell has caused herself to be regarded by the American people for her sterling qualities she would not keep up an unnatural coldness towards her for a breech of convention. [Lou]ise is the one female of the English Royal Family outside of the lamented Alice, [who] has shown to the world that she possesses brains, a good heart, spirit and pluck, [and] the Queen only makes herself ridiculous [by] treating herself as if she was still but a [bread] and butter miss. True, it is none of our [concern], but we can't bear to see so nice a family split up without saying a friendly wo[rd].—Buffalo Paper.

THE Duchess of Westminster, whose [death] is announced by cable, but who was not, [as] the cable states, Mistress of the Robes [—the] Duchess of Bedford is Mistress of the Robes—was the youngest daughter of the late distinguished Duchess of Sutherland, whose name is held in such honored remembrance by many Americans, and inherited also [her] beauty, graciousness of manner, and kindness of heart. She has been for some years [a] leader of London fashion, as far as such a [po]tentate is recognized of late years. Two of her other sisters, were wedded to Dukes—Argyle and Leinster, and her eldest sister [to] Lord Blantyre, whose daughter is married [to] Mr. Gladstone's eldest son. Her last public appearance was at Epsom, when her husband's horse, Bend Or, won the Derby.

ONE of the wealthiest and most eccentric noblemen in Europe, Prince Joseph Sulkowski Duke of Bielitz, recently arrived [at] Copenhagen on his way to Norway, where [he] proposes to spend the winter in bear hunting. He was accompanied by a numerous suite consisting of a lady companion, a maitre de chapelle, a reader, a secretary, a body surgeon, a valet de chambre, two running footmen, an enormous mastiff, a huge ourang-outang, two valuable parrots, and several cages full of singing birds. One favorite member of his household, a Bengal tiger, he had been compelled to leave behind at Hamburg, [the] steamboat author ties positively declined [to] convey that retainer across the seas. Prince Sulkowski's personal habits are somewhat [out of] the common. He rises at 1 P. M., breakfasts an hour later, and listens to musical selections, performed by the members of his household until 7. From 7 to 8 takes a nap, which is followed by more chamber music until [illegible] o'clock A. M., his regular dinner hour. Having dined sumptuously, he sallies out on foot accompanied by his secretary, and walks about the town until 5, when he returns to his hotel and goes to bed.

ABOUT thirty-five years ago, when the German Chancellor was only plain Otto von Bismarck, a Pomeranian 'squire and Inspector of Dykes; he went out one day snipe shooting with a friend on some marshy land, into which his companion, a stout, heavy man, suddenly sank up to his armpits. Vainly struggling to extricate himself, the gentleman shouted for help, and, seeing Herr Bismarck approach him very slowly and cautiously, apparently looking out for the rising of some stray snipe, piteously appealed to him "leave the confounded snipe alone and [get] him out of the abominable swamp into which he had sunk so deeply that its slime was [up] to his mouth!" "My dear friend," [re]plied Bismarck, with the utmost calm, "you will certainly never get out of that hole. [No]body can positively save you. I'll tell [you] what, my dear fellow, I'll save you the agony of suffocation by putting a charge of shot into your head. Thus will you die at once more swiftly and more respectably." Stimulated to superhuman efforts by the imminent peril menacing him, the unlucky sportsman contrived to wriggle out of the mud on all fours, and, and when he had recovered his feet, broke into a storm of vehement reproach. Herr Bismarck listened to him with a sardonic smile, merely observing, "Can't you see how right I was, after all? Every man for himself!" and, turning his back on his infuriated companion, cooly walked away in search of more game.

ABOUT half of Queen Victoria's Ministers are descendants or husbands of descendants of Lord Granville's grandfather.

"WHAT is hell?" asked a Lutheran Sunday school teacher of a boy in class last Sunday. "A shirt with a button off, ma'am," replied the boy. "Explain yourself; what do you mean, sir?" asked the meek-spirited but surprised teacher. "Well, I heard my pa say to my ma the other morning, when he put on a shirt with a back button off, 'Well, this is hell.' That's all I know about it."

ACCORDING to the St. Petersburg correspondent to the Cologne Gazette, a Supreme Council of State is to come into existence in Russia at the Russian new year. This council is to carry on all the business of the empire independently of the Czar, the latter retaining the decision only of questions of war and peace. His union with Princess Dolgorouki will be proclaimed as a legal marriage, without her becoming, however, Empress. She is to receive the title of Duchess of Holstein-Gottorp, and her children will be princes and princesses of the same name. Henceforth the Czar is expected to live with his family in retirement at Livadia, remaining Emperor in name, but so far as Russian circumstances permit, transferring the cares of business to his son.

The [Markdale] Standard
[IS PUBLISHED EVERY] FRIDAY MORNING
[in time] to meet the early mails.
[Containing] the latest Foreign and Provincial [Gener]al Intelligence, County Business, [Local] Matters and an Instructive [illegible]

[illegible] in advance, $1 50 in three months, [illegible] till end of the year. No paper [discont]inued until all arrearages are [paid, excep]t at the option of the publisher [illegible] refusing papers without paying [illegible] held responsible for the subscrip[tion] [illegible] they comply with the rules.

[RA]TES OF ADVERTISING:

[illegible], one year	$50 00
do	27 50
do	15 00
do	8 00
do	4 00
do	50
[illegible] and under, first insertion	15
[S]ubsequent insertion	75
[illegible] ten lines, first insertion	25
[S]ubsequent insertion	8
[illegible] lines, first insertion per line	2
[S]ubsequent insertion

[Num]ber of lines to be reckoned by [space] occupied measured by a scale of [illegible]. Advertisements without [dir]ections will be published till forbid [and ch]arged accordingly. All transitory [advertisem]ents must be in the office of publication [by] 11 o'clock on the Thursday [pre]ceding their publication.
[illegible] W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[PROF]ESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

[Drs.] Sproule & Carter,
[Physici]ans, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
[Office]—Medical Hall; residence at [illegible] House.
[Markda]le, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
[PHYSI]CIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[EUR], Eugenia P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. H. Wilkes,
[Barrist]er at Law, - Owen Sound.
[OFFI]CE.—Miller's building, over Robin[son's], Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,
[BARR]ISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT [LAW], Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[ancers], Owen Sound, have resumed at [illegible], Office open every Thursday, as [illegible]
J. W. FROST, LL. B. [County] Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson,
[BARRI]STER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, [Solicit]or in Chancery, Owen Sound.
[illegible], 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,
[ATTOR]NEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN [Chan]cery, Notary Public, &c.
[Money] loaned at lowest rates on personual [illegible] estate. Lands bought and sold. [Buyer an]d seller introduced free of commis[sion].
DUNDALK.
[Octo]ber 21st, 1880. 1

[Conve]yancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown.
[ISSUER] OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., Commissioner in B. R. &c.
[Convey]ancing in all its branches promptly [and] carefully executed.
Money to Lend on Real Estate se[curity].
[Markda]le, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. L. Smith,
[GEN]ERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN [Gu]ernsey Stock, Williamsford Station.
[Sept.] 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,
[ISSUE]R of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [Life] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [in B. R.] &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [Auctio]neer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [Merch]ants, and Land Sales, Punctually at[tend]ed to and charges made very moderate.
[Pri]ceville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,
[LA]ND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low interest. Principal payable at the [end of] term of years, and interest half year[ly, or yea]rly, or principal and interest repay[able by] instalments.
[A] number of desirable Improved Farm[s for sa]le. 1-y

J. G. Sing,
[DOM]INION AND PROVINCIAL LAND [Sur]veyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, [Owen Sound] and Markdale. Having purchased [the late] Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [sto]ck of original Field Notes, Plans, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [with]in the last fifty-five years, I am [prepared] to make Surveys in strict accord[ance the]rewith. Profiles and Estimates [for Drai]ng Hills, Plans and Specifications [for Buildi]ng Bridges, furnished on applica[tion. M]oney to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [Orders by] letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [illegible], will be promptly attended to.
[Sept. 1]7, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.

Dr. James J. White,
[Successor] to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound,
[WILL] BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, [Ma]rkdale, on the last Wednesday in [each] month, when he will be prepared to per[form] all operations required upon the mouth [in the] most satisfactory manner, and upon [reasonable] terms. 1-y

Hotels.

[M]ANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
[Hav]ing leased the above hotel and thor[oughly] refurnished and refitted it, the trav[elling] public will find every accommodation. [illegible] the best of liquors and cigars kept. [Good] stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
[illegible] 1880. 1-y

[REV]ERE HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
[illegible] SPROULE, - Proprietor.
[This P]opular Hotel has had a large ad[dition] added to it, thoroughly refitted, [and is] second to none in the county. [Good stabl]ing and attentive ostler. First-[class accom]modation for commercial travel[lers. Ter]ms $1.00 per day. 17-ly

[ROY]AL HOTEL.
MEAFORD, Ont.
[illegible] GIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.
[Good acc]ommodation for the travelling [public. T]he bar is well stocked with the [best W]ines and Liquors and the best Cigars.
[Bus] to and from all trains.
[illegible] 1880. 1-y

[COMM]ERCIAL HOTEL.
[P]RICEVILLE, Ont.
[Good an]d commodious Sample Rooms: [illegible] rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [supplie]d with the best the market af[fords]. Stabling and attentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
[illegible] 1st, 1880. 8

[GE]ORGE WILSON,
[BU]TCHER
[M]arkdale, next door to Expositor [illegible]
[Meat] delivered at any house in town.
[illegible] 1880. 1-y

VOL. [illegible]

DYSPEPSIA [illegible] JOH[illegible] Indian [illegible] 77 W.3d [illegible]
CURES FEVER AND AGUE. CURES SCROFULA AND SKIN DISEASES. CURES BILLIOUSNESS.
CURE[S] Billiousness [illegible] The Best REM[EDY] [illegible] 9.000.[illegible]
PRICE OF LAR[GE] [illegible] PRICE OF SMA[LL] [illegible]
Read the VOL[illegible] of Persons [illegible]
FOR DYSP[EPSIA] [illegible]
Dear Sir— [illegible] your valua[ble] [illegible] has benefited [illegible] and Liver Co[mplaint] [illegible] cine I ever be[illegible]
Dear Sir— [illegible] doctors' hand[illegible] eight years, [illegible] that I have n[illegible] After using y[illegible] for a brief sp[illegible] led to do a[illegible] lieve it wa[illegible] life.
CURES DYSPE[PSIA] [illegible] Dear Sir:—I [illegible] Dyspepsia for ab[illegible] Indian Blood Syr[up] [illegible] ever helped me. [illegible] from this disease [illegible] trial.
"Sole General A[gent] [illegible] op and Lyman, [illegible] Toronto. Also A[illegible] Healing Syrup, an[illegible] is well known as [illegible] Blood Purifier thro[illegible]
WM[illegible] Plain & Orna[mental] [illegible]
Estimates for st[illegible] plication. Satisf[illegible] dence—Queen Stre[et] [illegible] Markdale, Sept. 1[illegible]

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 19. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, JAN. 21, 1881. WHOLE NO 19

[Th]e Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

[EVE]RY FRIDAY MORNING

[I]n time to meet the early mails.

[Cont]ains the latest Foreign and Provincial [and] Local Intelligence, County Business, [Comm]ercial Matters and an Instructive [Mis]cellany.

[$1.]5 in advance, $1 50 in three months, [if n]ot paid till end of the year. No pa[per dis]continued until all arrearages are [paid e]xcept at the option of the publisher [Parties] refusing papers without paying [will be] held responsible for the subscrip[tion un]til they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

[One c]olumn, one year	$50 00
do do	27 50
do do	15 00
do do	6 00
do do	4 00
do	50
[Lin]es and under, first insertion	15
[Each] subsequent insertion	75
[Fro]m ten lines, first insertion	25
[Eac]h subsequent insertion	8
[Over ten] lines, first insertion per line	2
[E]ach subsequent insertion

[The] number of lines to be reckoned by [the spa]ce occupied measured by a scale of [solid] brevier. Advertisements without [specifi]c directions will be published till for[bid an]d charged accordingly. All transitory [adverti]sements must be in the office of pub[licatio]n by 11 o'clock on the Thursday [mornin]g preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

[PR]OFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,

[Phys]icians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.

[OFF]ICE.—Medical Hall; residence at [Markd]ale House
[Mark]dale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,

[PHY]SICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH[EU]R. EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,

[Barr]ister at Law, - Owen Sound.
[O]FFICE.—Miller's building, over Robin[son's] store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,

[BA]RRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Convey[ancers] &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at [Flesh]erton, Office open every Thursday, as [bef]ore.
[A.] Frost, J. W. Frost, LL. B.
[Co]unty Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson,

[BA]RRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, [Solicitor] in Chancery, Owen Sound.
[Sept.] 17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,

[ATT]ORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN Chancery, Notary Public, &c.
[Mone]y loaned at lowest rates on personal [and real] estate. Lands bought and sold, [and] seller introduced free of commis[sion].

DUNDALK.

[Dec]ember 21st, 1880. 1

[Con]veyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown,

[ISSU]ER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., Commissioner in B. R. &c.
[Con]veyancing in all its branches promptly [attende]d to and carefully executed.
[N. B.]—Money to Lend on Real Estate se[curity].
[Mark]dale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

W. L. Smith,

[GEN]ERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN [Je]rsey Stock, Williamsford Station.
[Sept.] 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,

[ISSU]ER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and [Life] Insurance Agent. Commissioner [in B. R.] &c. Conveyancer and Licensed [Auction]eer for the County of Grey. Farmers, [Sto]cks, and Land Sales. Punctually at[tended] to and charges made very moderate.
[Flesherton?], Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,

[INS.], LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT [Ow]en Sound. Money to Loan at low [rates of] interest. Principal payable at the [end of] term of years, and interest half year[ly, or ye]arly, or principal and interest repay[able by in]stalments.
[A] number of desirable Improved Farms [for sale]. 1-y

J. G. Sing,

[DOM]INION AND PROVINCIAL LAND [Surve]yor, Draughtsman and Valuator, [Dundalk] and Markdale. Having purchased [the] Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's [sto]ck of original Field Notes, Plans, [&c.], Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys [wi]thin the last fifty-five years, I am [prepare]d to make Surveys in strict accord[ance t]herewith. Profiles and Estimates [of Bui]lding Hills, Plans and Specifications [for Bui]lding Bridges, furnished on applica[tion]. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. [Orders b]y letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, [Markdale], will be promptly attended to.
[Sept.] 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.

Mr. James J. White,

[Assist]ant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, [WI]LL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in [each mo]nth, when he will be prepared to per[form all] operations required upon the mouth [in the] most satisfactory manner, and upon [reasonab]le terms. 1-y

Hotels.

[MA]NSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.

[Having] leased the above hotel and thor[oughly] refurnished and refitted it, the trav[elling pu]blic will find every accommodation. [Only] the best of liquors and cigars kept. [Good st]abling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
[Sept.] 17, 1880. 1-y

[RE]VERE HOTEL,
MARKDALE.

[S]PROULE, - Proprietor.

[This] popular Hotel has had a large ad[dition] added to it, thoroughly refitted, [and is] second to none in the county. [Good sta]bling and attentive ostler. First[-class ac]commodation for commercial travel[lers. T]erms $1.00 per day. 17-ly

[RO]YAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.
[...] McGIRR, - - Proprietors.

[Good] accommodation for the travelling [public]. The bar is well stocked with the [best] Wines and Liquors and the best [brands o]f Cigars.
[Bus]es to and from all trains.
[...] 1880. 1-y

[COMM]ERCIAL HOTEL.
[P]RICEVILLE, Ont.

[Large] commodious Sample Rooms: [Bed]rooms, &c. The Bar and larder [sup]plied with the best the market af[fords. Go]od Stabling and attentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
[Dec]r 31st, 1880. 8

[GE]ORGE WILSON,

[B]UTCHER

[Shop,] Markdale, next door to Expositor [office].
[Mea]t delivered at any house in town.
[Sept. 1]7, 1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S

DYSPEPSIA — LIVER DISEASE

Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY,
77 W. 3d St., New York City
LATE OF JERSEY CITY.

[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Disease, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!
70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870
9.000.000 Bottles.
This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Pytyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pytyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES,	$1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES,	50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.
Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.
MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.
Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.
MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.
Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.
ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.
Mt. Forest,
Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.
Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.
MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.
Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certifiy that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.
W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.
Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.
Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.
Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.
DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.
Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. BORISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

WM. FOX,
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 73,

8 Uxbridge, Ont.

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). Plastering and Country Jobs promptly attended to. Stonecutting a Specialty. Estimates on all work, free. Satisfaction guaranteed. ⁂ Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Streets, MARKDALE.
December 31, 1880. 16-y

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
☞ LOAN ND LAND AGENT,
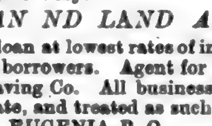
Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.
EUGENIA P. O.
Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Sheep and Cattle.



FARMERS having good fat Sheep or Cattle to sell, will find it to their advantage to leave there names and address at McCutcheon's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, as the undersigned are still on the war path, and will positively pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEERS.
Sept. 17th, 1880. 1-y

GENERAL.

"MY dear," said a sentimental maiden to her lover, "of what do these autumnal tints, this glowing baldric of the skies, this blazing garniture of the dying year, remind you?" "Pancakes," he promptly answered. And then she realized, for the first time, that two hearts did not beat as one.

M. WIENER, the French Vice-Consul at Guayaquil, who has been exploring the upper tributary of the Amazon known as the River Napo, finds it a handsome stream, navigable for a thousand miles above its mouth The district through which it flows, as far as explored is larger than France, and has a fertile soil. The climate is mild, and the country is well adapted for the production of sugar, coffee, cocoa, and India rubber.

LABOUCHERE, in the London Truth says: "I am sorry to hear that all the well-meaning efforts have, up to now, failed to induce Baroness-Burdett-Coutts to reconsider her decision, and to adopt, if she so desires, instead of to marry, the American youth who is leading her into so deplorable a step. She will forfeit the life interest which she has in Coutts' Bank, her house in London, and that in the suburbs. Her relatives have wisely considered that they ought not to assent to any terms of composition which might tend to facilitate this unnatural crime for so it can only be termed. America will thus deprive the poor of the vast benefactions which the Baroness has annually contributed to their wants out of the income derived from the bank."

SAHARA girdled by a railway will no longer be the wild, mysterious desert of yore. Three French engineering expeditions, those of Pouyanne, Choisy, and Flatters, have been busy in tracing a path for a great African railroad from Algiers to the Niger, and thence to Senegal. Choisy examined the routes from Biskra to Wargla and from El Aghuat to El Goleah, south of which latter place he found practicable passes through the big sand dunes that bar the way from Insalah to Tuat. Col. Flatters, too, found these openings south of El Golesh, and discovered that in the desert there was not too arid to support a very large supply of snakes and lizards, and, what was more cheerful, antelopes in abundance. He also found the tamarisk tree luxuriant in Sahara, and claims to have discovered a lake full of fish, surrounded by vegetation.

AN unpleasant incident has occurred in connection with the approaching marriage of the Crown Prince Rudolf. A report was received in Vienna a day or two since that the Prince's wedding orders had all been sent to Paris. The new furniture and fittings of the Hradchin, the palace at Prague, which is to be the principal residence of the Crown Prince after his marriage, are, among other things, alleged to have been ordered from the French capital. Among the Vienna manufacturers this intelligence has created the greatest excitement. The Burgomaster has already interviewed the Lord Chamberlain on the subject. The reply is not yet known, but in case it proves unsatisfactory, the Municipal Council, it is said, will countermand all the orders given in preparation for the civic festivities which it had been determined to institute in honor of the nuptials.

MAJOR Penniman, a lawyer, and O. F. Robinson, Assistant District Attorney, had an altercation in Detroit court during the trial of a horse thief. Penniman accused Robinson of lying, and, tearing up a legal document, threw it into a cuspador saying: "That is what I think of you." Robinson replied that the public could judge which was the liar, and intimated that he considered the Major a coward. The Major invited his adversary to step outside, an invitation that was readily excepted. As soon as the two had crossed the threshold that separated them from the court room, and while Robinson was trying to close the door, the Major suddenly turned and struck him twice in the face with his fist. Robinson had no opportunity to retort, police officers interfering, and conducting both before the Judge, by whom Robinson was fined $10 and the Major $25. A leading lawyer of the city at once paid Robinson's fine, and was immediately reimbursed by contributions of other members of the bar; but nobody volunteered to pay any part of the Major's fine, and that belligerent counsellor had to beg for a week's time to pay his money.

THE city of Memphis, or the Taxing District, as it is now legally known, has fully emerged from the filth which has created such fearfully fatal pestilences. The first step in its rejuvenescence was the establishment of a thorough system of sewerage under the direction of Col. Waring. The merit of the system is a sewer of vitrified pipe six inches in diameter, with eight joints laid in the street, or in the alley between two streets where alleys exist, having at its upper end a field flush tank with a discharging capacity of 112 gallons. All the houses on both sides the sewer are connected with it by four-inch pipes of the same material. The six-inch sewer, after receiving not to exceed 300 house drains, discharges into a main or sub-main sewer of eight inches diameter or more, and the submains discharge into the larger ones. The size of the submains and mains are of eight, ten, twelve, fifteen, and twenty-inch diameter. The greatest flow of the twenty-inch main, about 3,000 houses been connected with it, is about nine inches deep. The discharges are made into Bayou Gayoso. This vast system cost $182,000.00. In addition to this work over five miles of streets have been paved at a cost of $160,000.00. The citizens have not only paid their heavy taxes promptly, but have expended nearly $300,000 in cleaning out, disinfecting, and filling up vaults and carrying on other needed sanitary work.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

Dress Decrees Issued by the Goddess of Fashion to Her Hosts of Willing Followers.

A Survey of the Latest Styles in Costumes and Material—Monastic Designs.

Baby.

"Baby and I are alone,
Just baby and I!
His eyes look up and mine look down,
And the love that flashes in sympathy
Is the gem in the crown."

Fashion Notes

THE combination of pink and garnet is still very fashionable.

HIGH square necked bodices with elbow sleeves are worn with most evening toilets.

WHITE or tinted ostrich feather trimming is a very fashionable garniture for handsome dresses of satin brocade.

NECKERCHIEFS of tinted mull with delicate flower borders, and edged with Grecque lace, are very lovely and becoming.

FULL ruches of black Spanish lace form high frills about the necks of many handsome toilets of black brocaded velvet.

POINT colbert, which resembles Venetian rose point lace, is very effective trimming for reception dresses of ruby velvet.

IMMENSE bows of satin are fastened at the left side of the belt. These have in a measure taken the place of the belt bouquet.

HUSSAR jackets are very pretty and serviceable, made of black silk, with revers, cuffs, pockets, and wide collar of black velvet, either plain or embroidered.

BROAD colars and cuffs of Carrickmacross point are very stylish and pretty. One thing greatly in favor of the lace is that it will "do up" beautifully.

THE newest French linen table spreads have a rich silk embroidery upon the borders, done in Italian stitch. The designs are varied and often grotesque.

THE hand-painted French fans of satin and silk are masterpieces of art, and are the most elegant and fashionable of all the styles lately imported.

SMOCK polonaises are made of brown plush, shirred in at the waist and about the shoulders and wrists and trimmed with zibelinette, a handsome but very perishable feathery trimming.

HANDSOME Roman aprons are made of black satin with insertions and frills of Oriental striped silk. Bright cashmere girdles with heavy tassels or spikes attached are worn with these aprons.

PRETTY ball toilets for young girls are made with short round skirts, not coming down any lower than the ankle, and shown by the pretty XV. shoes or embroidered satin with high heels and narrow bands across the instep.

THE shoulder-knots and corsage flowers of the moment are made of artificial wild roses, a spray of Cape jasmine and clustering branches of eglantine leaves and blossoms. For trimming whole toilets, crushed roses in pink and tea shades are much employed.

STYLISH young ladies wear with the Jersey suits a long silk scarf of bright colored India silk plaid, which they wrap about their shoulders, cross in front and tie in the back, a little to the left, Highland fashion. This scarf is most appropriate as a jaunty finish to a skating costume.

SHORT ball dresses are decidedly gaining in public favor, and young ladies who attend a large party or ball, with a view to enjoy dancing, and not merely for the display of a long train to be stepped upon and mangled in the swift mazes of the "racket," are delighted with the innovation.

SILK openwork Jersey bodices are imported. They are sleeveless and call for twenty-five button kid gloves. With these bodices are to be worn a plain silk underwaist of some contrasting color. These dressy waists are more favoured by the Parisian ladies that were the original Jerseys made of stockinet.

Mother Hubbard bonnets have square crowns, towering feathers and flaring brims, which are drawn down at the sides over the ears, and tied under the chin with broad satin strings. Arrayed in one of these bonnets and enveloped in a Mother Hubbard cloak made of Roman plaids, a young lady of the period might pass for a weary wandering relic of the sixteenth century

MALTESE lace is once more coming into fashion. Those who possess a store of this once favorite lace will doubtless congratulate themselves upon the announcement. Most people, however, prefer the new popular makes, of Alencon, Languedoc, Spanish, Chantilly, and Vermicelli laces infinitely better. But tastes differ and change is inevitable, and fashion never was so famous for fidelity, and is ever declining to let "well enough" alone.

THE Beauharnais hat is affected by most ladies who like extremes in fashion. The brim of this hat is simply immense, and is covered on the outside by a heavy wreath of ostrich plumes, the ends of which reach to the shoulder. The insides of the cavern is filled in with short drooping ostrich tips, tigers' claws, owls' heads, birds' wings and beaks, and a general conglomeration of barbaric-looking trophies, brought from every point of the globe, from the Arabian desert to the Jersey flats.

Waifs.

As with a woman, so with a horse. His back hair is his main trouble.

Maiden lady's aphorism—"Where singleness is bliss it is folly to be wives."

The ladies wear gold tuning-forks for hair-pins in these degenerate days. "There's music in the hair," so to speak.

A celebrated silver-working company advertises the "Princess Louise spoons," when, in fact, the princess never spoons.

"Kissing your sweetheart," says a trifling young man, "is like eating soup with a fork; it takes a long time to get enough."

A young man in love is not necessarily a mathematician, but is nearly always a sigh for her. If you can't cipher this out we sigh for you.

Beaconsfield ascribes his success to women. Adam laid all his troubles to the same source. Adam, we are ashamed of you. Beaconsfield, you are a gentleman.

"I'd sooner be cursed than kissed," says Tennyson in his latest volume, which leads us to think that there are a great many homely women in his neighborhood.

Mr. Garfield, his wife, and the young lady who is to assist in doing the honors of the white house, have all been school teachers. The reins of government will be kept taut.

When you hear a young lady very carefully say: "I haven't saw," you may be quite confident that she is a recent graduate of one of the most thorough of our numerous female seminaries.

Leap year is over, and the rich old bachelors are beginning to raise the windows a little and get a breath of fresh air once more. In a few days they will again venture to leave their rooms.

An English magazine discourses on "Cheap Girls." It says: "No young man, not even the worst, wants anything to do with a cheap young lady." This is a mistake. No matter how cheap a girl may be, her young man always thinks she is a "little dear."

Public opinion on the subject of faithless husbands is very strong in Somerset, Ky. Mr. Love was that kind of an offender. His wife led a mob against him. He fled hastily, without coat, trousers, or boots, with the crowd in close pursuit. At the end of a mile he was overtaken, and left suspended, head downward, from a tree. He was almost frozen to death when, two hours afterward, a humane preacher cut him down.

A Wedding with Millions in it.

(From the San Francisco Chronicle.)

The bridal robe was one fit for a queen, and never before was such a costume seen in this country. The gown was of a new style of silk known as gros de tour, the point of the skirt being one solid mass of embroidery wrought upon white satin with beads, crystals, and pearls of the very finest description, the pattern for which was copied from a painting of an old court robe now hanging in the gallery of the Louvre in Paris. Down the sides of this embroidered frontpiece were panels of point d'Angleterre lace, fifteen inches wide, with revers of the pearl embroidery that joined on to the undertrain, over which fell a second train of the same magnificent silk, and which is known as the Manteau de Cour, or, to put it in English, the same style of court train that is worn at the presentation to the English Queen of to-day. It was put in deep plaits on a band, and joined to the waist under the body, which was cut in points both front and back, with bands of the same embroidery around the square-cut neck, down the front, and around the side, and laced in the back. The demi-sleeves were finished with a fall of the same rich lace about two and a half inches wide, and above it a band of the embroidery; but the crowning feature of the robe was the rich piece of lace (also point d'Angleterre, and the same width of the panels), which commenced at the point of the body in front, was carried gracefully over the hips and met in the back, falling over the entire train, and reaching to the bottom of it in two broad ways, being caught to the ground with bunches of white flowers of an indescribable style. A drapery of point d'Angletrre lace fell over the shoulders, meeting in the front, and was held together by a bunch of aubepine flowers. A perfectly plain, long tulle vail reaching to the floor was fastened to the hair with a little knot of aupepines. The ornaments were most magnificent diamonds, that once belonged to her mother. The bridegroom had mislaid the ring. The bride and groom stood beneath the floral bell, facing the minister, and Senator Sharon stood a little back of the bride, and Mrs. Davis near the groom, by Fred Sharon's side. Sir Thomas looked a trifle nervous and pale, while the bride's beauty was enhanced by a deep colour. The presence of Dr. Beers as officiating clergyman was a surprise to many of the guests, who were not aware of the fact that Miss Sharon had renounced Catholicism, and several weeks ago decided to be married by an Episcopal clergyman, and join the Church of England upon her arrival at her new home. The room was hushed into perfect silence, when Dr. Beers opened his prayer book and pronounced the first word of the beautiful service. From the beginning to the close not a word of the grooms responses could be heard by those standing even a few feet away, but Miss Sharon responded in a low, yet clear and distinct tone. Previous to the placing of the wedding ring the bridesmaid removed the bride's glove, and the groom found the ring only after a considerable search in his vest pocket, which disclosed his possession of a match box and several other useful and ornamental knick-knacks, unhappily stowed away in the same pocket. At the conclusion of the ceremony the married pair, after receiving Dr. Beers's congratulation, faced the guests and received the pleasant wishes of all those present. After that Sir Thomas relinquished his bride to the escort of her brother, and himself taking Miss Sedgwick on his arm, the four promenaded up and down the main floor corridor and through the reception rooms, dancing being started by the guests in the music hall.

An Amazon In Ireland.

Miss Gardiner, whose valiant exploits in defending herself against a large and threatning crowd in the streets of Ballina, in the county Mayo, Ireland, has been called and is well entitled to the historic sobriquet of "Awful Gardiner." Long before Boycotting was introduced, she was an object of terror and hatred in the country for the fierce severity with which she enforced what she deemed her rights, and the fearless pluck with which she encountered the consequences. Her property, which was but a small one, is situated near Killala, a small town in the north of Mayo, and not far from the confines of Sligo, which is the seat of a Roman Catholic bishopric, now filled by the Most Reverend Hugh Conway, and which, with the property round, is principally owned by the Knoxes and Knox-Gores, of the old school of tyrant tory landlords. She is entirely of this kidney herself. Her rents are high, and she has been so savage in their exaction, going round herself and ringing the last farthing from the rags of the poor, that she has been fired at twice at periods when landlord game was not in season. She is now of an uncertain age, medium-sized and of very masculine appearance, wearing hunting-boots, and a short dress; is a crack shot, and in a country celebrated, like Argos of old, for its noble deeds and daring horsewomen, ranks second only to two others, Miss Dennis and Caroline Persse, as a horsewoman. She hunts often with the same pack as she did in her girlhood, Mrs. Brassy, a daughter of Lord Clamorris, who is regarded as at present the crack horsewomen in England, and whom many Americans may have met at Melton. Miss Harriet, as she is called, always carried, before revolvers came in fashion, a huge cutting-whip, with which she has repeatedly inflicted punishment on those who provoked her anger. She will not blanch, as Boycott did, before any danger. She is game to the bone, and revels in a fight.

Gave 'em Away.

A certain fashionable lady in San Francisco, whose lovely daughters are regarded as the most elegant belles of the city, having become disgusted with the arrogance, lies, and neglect of the "coloured gemmam" who deigned to wait upon them, suddenly discharged that personage and employed a Celestial, who had been strongly recommended to her for his strict attention to his duties and perfect truthfulness. Soon after his installation, his mistress determined to give an informal "hop," and on the afternoon of the day on which the party was to take place told Lung to say "Not at home" to anyone who called. As chance would have it, one of the young ladies' most fastidious beaus, and one on whom they all wished to make a favourable impression, came to ask permission to bring a friend with him in the evening, and, on inquiring for the ladies, was told by the truthful Young: "They tell me say all gone out, but old woman she in kitchen washee dishee, the young misses they up-stairs paintee faces." It is needless to say the young man did not put in his appearance that evening, and truthful Lung is seeking another situation.

Turkish Carpets.

Ooshak, a large village of artisans, about six days' journey due east from Smyrna, is the headquarters of a manufacture of the carpets known for generations as "Turkey carpets." The patterns are Turkish, or rather, Arabesque. A carpet between seven and eight yards long will employ eight women at once, working side by side. Their wages are about eight piastres a week, which, it is calculated, comes to about forty-three cents for each yard of carpet woven. The wool used comes from the villages round about, and is bought for about a halfpenny a pound in its uncleaned state. When washed and bleached it loses at least one-third of its weight. The foundation of the carpet is made of an inferior wool, and the whole material of the fabric may cost about sixty-seven cents a yard. This does not include the dyeing, which is managed by the men, and forms the chief item of cost. The colors are produced for the most part with madder, cochineal and indigo.

Flirting on Ocean Steamers.

The officers of the ocean steamers, it is said, can, from their post of observation on "the bridge," tell more of what is going on among the passengers — flirtations and elopements—and better judge of their characteristics, whether they are fugitives from justice, commercial travellers, clergymen, or grass-widows, than the passengers learn below. One of these observing captains declares that he knows whether a young woman has left her lover at one port or expects to meet him at another. The explanation, like the explanation of many other amazing things, is simple enough. If her lover is behind her, she cares nothing for wind, rain, or fog, but gets tanned, freckled, and roughened in a highly healthful and independent fashion. But, if her lover is waiting for her, she takes infinite trouble with veils and other complexion preservatives.

Strange Experience with a Madman.

The following extraordinary story is vouched for as true: A few days ago, while a lady of Providence, R. I., of artistic tastes and habits was walking leisurely along Fifth avenue, New York, she noticed a sign of an artist's studio, whereupon she entered an open door, ascended one flight of stairs, rapped at the artist's door, heard the words "Come in," and entered a spacious room elegantly furnished. Its high windows were richly draped with heavy curtains, and, standing on the floor, was an easel after the fashion of most artists. In the room sat a man alone, with easel and [illegible] immovable, and with eyes glaring fiercely on his visitor, as if enraged at her intrusion, but not uttering a word. A few moments passed, she made a casual remark in regard to some picture, when he rushed upon her, seized her by the throat, his eyes glaring wildly, and his features indicating the fiercest excitement, and exclaimed madly: "Now I have you! I have been looking for you for the last ten years, and now I have got you at last, and I'll kill you!" At first the shock to her was terrible and overwhelming, and she became quite unconscious, but recovering herself a little she struggled, screamed, and entreated, but to no purpose. He clung to her throat with one hand, and with the other tried to fill her mouth with her clothing. Finally, having loosed his hold, he rushed to the door, locked it,

SUDDENLY JUMPED FROM HIS SEAT,

SEIZED A LARGE KNIFE, and began to sharpen it upon his shoe, telling her that her time had come, and she must prepare to meet her God; that he was going to cut her into inch pieces. She fell upon her knees, prayed, entreated, told him of her husband and child, and wept in the wildest agony, fully believing that her time had come, and that she must die—but with no avail. He continued to make his preparations in the most violent excitement. He told her that he should put her body in the large stove in his room, to burn it up. Finally, overcome by excitement, she sank upon the floor. At this the rage of the madman seemed to subside a little. Still, he continued his threats and preparations. After having recovered a little from her exhaustion, having now been in the clutches of the lunatic for during which time she suffered untold agony. She now entreated him to give her some food, or something to revive her. It was now about 6 o'clock in the evening. He then went to the door, saying that he was going to get something for himself, unlocked it, opened it, went out, and locked the door behind him. Alone in the room, she screamed to the top of her voice, hoping she might bring some one to her rescue, but to no avail. He soon returned, still threatening her with instant death if she was not silent. The fiend seemed to have no other purpose but to torment her or to take her life. Finally he told her that, if she would take his arm and go quietly down stairs, she could go. Hope now dawned upon her. She told him that she would do anything. He accordingly made her walk down with him into the street. She felt having got out of prison. Here she strove to extricate herself, but he threatened to dash her brains out against the walls of the building unless she went quietly. She told him she wanted to take an "up town" car. He said, "I'll go with you. I'll follow you to the ends of the earth." He entered the car with her, sat down by her side, and appeared perfectly sane. He paid her fare, and never uttered a word till she got out of the car. He followed her, and, on arriving at her residence, said to her: "You must be at my place to-morrow at 11 o'clock. I shall follow you.

OVER TWO HOURS,

INEXPRESSIBLE RELIEF,

YOU CAN'T LIVE WITHOUT ME."

She then opened the door and closed it upon him with unutterable relief. Thus she was once more free from the clutches of a maniac, and had escaped impending death. The affair occurred near the Fifth Avenue Hotel. The man was thin and spare, above the medium height, of sandy complexion, bald, wore a mustache, was richly dressed, wore diamond bosom-studs, and nicely-fitting buff gloves. These he put on carefully whenever he went out.

Man.

[Extracted from an Old Volume.]

The average weight of an adult man is 140 pounds six ounces.

The average weight of a skeleton is about 14 pounds.

Number of bones, 240.

The skeleton measures one inch less than the height of the living man.

The average weight of the brain of a man is three and a half pounds; of a woman two pounds eleven ounces.

The brain of a man exceeds twice that of any other animal.

The average height of an Englishman is five feet, nine inches; of a Frenchman, five feet, four inches; and of a Belgian, five feet, six and three-quarter inches.

The average weight of an Englishman is 150 pounds; of a Frenchman 136 pounds; a Belgian, 140 pounds.

The average number of our teeth is thirty two.

A man breathes about twenty times a minute, or 1,200 times an hour.

A man breathes about eighteen pints of air in a minute, or upwards of seven hogsheads in a day.

A man gives off 4.08 per cent. carbonic acid gas of the air he respires; respires 10,666 cubic feet of carbonic acid gas in twenty-four hours, equal to 125 cubic inches of common air.

A man annually contributes to vegetation 124 pounds of carbon.

The average of the pulse in infancy is 120 per minute; in manhood, 80; at 60 years 60. The pulse of females is more frequent than that of males.

The weight of the circulating blood is about twenty-eight pounds.

The heart beats seventy-five times a minute; sends nearly ten pounds of blood through the veins and arteries each beat, and makes four beats while we breathe once.

Five hundred and forty pounds, or one hogshead one and one-quarter pints of blood pass through the heart in one hour.

Twelve thousand pounds, or twenty-four hogsheads four gallons, or 10,782½ pints pass through the heart in twenty-four hours.

One thousand ounces of blood pass through the blood in one hour.

One hundred and seventy four million holes, or cells, are in the lungs, which would cover a surface thirty times greater than the human body.

Mr. Trueman H. Bartlett, the sculptor, when about to visit New York, some time since, received a letter from his friend X., a resident of that city, in which the latter mentioned, with much admiration, a fine bust of Miss Maggie Mitchell, then upon exhibition there. When Mr. Bartlett reached Gotham, X. took him to see the bust in question, expressing his enthusiasm with much warmth. "There," he said, placing the sculptor before it, "how do you like that? Isn't that fine, eh? I tell you that's stunning. Why in the world, Bartlett, don't you do something like that? Something pleasing. That's a capital bust!" "I'm glad you think so," Bartlett answered, coolly; "I thought it was fair when I made it."

MILTON was asked if he intended to instruct his daughter in the different languages; to which he replied; "No, sir! one tongue is sufficient for a woman!"

Mental Ill Health.

Mind and body are, as everybody knows, so closely related, so interdependent, that what affects one must affect the other. Nobody can be mentally well who is physically ill, and yet one who is mentally ill may not show any signs of physical ailment, and may defy diagnosis. Good health usually refers to the body; when it is sound, all desirable conditions are thought to be fulfilled. But no man can be healthful who is continually anxious and troubled without cause; who is restless, discontented, depressed, as might be said, on general principles.

Many persons, especially of our race, are chronic sufferers in this way, though they appear to be in perfect health as respects all the corporeal functions. They admit that they have little or no hope of or for anything; that they are scarcely capable of positive enjoyment; that what is called recreation, pastime, pleasure, wearies and bores them; that life is at best a burden, the world a failure, creation a blunder. Nevertheless, their brain, lungs, stomach are, they declare, just as they should be. They sleep well, have good appetite, are wholly free from aches or ailments of any and every kind. They doubtless speak the truth: their disease is not of the body, but of the mind—it is mental dyspepsia, and far harder to cure than if it were physical. It is a very subtle and singular disorder; indeed, it is not recognized as a disorder at all, but is explained as a temporary condition by general and often remote causes which have nothing to do with it. The source, or sources, of it are generally unknown, even unsuspected, either by the sufferer or by his friends. They elude research, wisdom, insight. Sympathy cannot reach them nor materially alleviate their outcome. Everything connected with the distemper is mysterious and unreducible to form. It is as evanescent as a shadow, yet as real as sorrow.

The mental dyspeptic is never conscious that he has the disease, nor can he be persuaded that he has any disease. He is aware that he is unlike other men, but he rejoices privately in the unlikeness, intrepreting it to his own vanity. His peculiar views and feelings he conceives to be, if not natural, at least proper, because, whether pleasant or otherwise, they are his. They are evidence of his understanding, his insight, his sagacity; if the world could be illuminated as he is, it would see the vanity of effort, the folly of ambition, the emptiness of life. If anybody intimates that he is morbid, he treats the intimation derisively; he is hale and hearty, though he may be neither cheerful nor hopeful. He perceives things as they are; he is not deluded by appearances, imposed upon by shams, duped by tricks. The truth is not inspiring nor encouraging. Boldness is required to confront it, and intimate acquaintance with it destroys faith and reduces contentment to a minimum. They alone have aspirations and expectations and keen enjoyments who are ignorant of the verities of the universe. If they could actually see and understand with their own eyes and their own minds, instead of receiving impressions at second hand, depending on echoes, as it were, they would be disenchanted of their fancies and surrender their illusions.

So the mental dyspepsic is inclined to think and talk. In place of considering himself out of health he believes he is robust, and that others are puny in their ideas and judgment. The highest health in his conception is evinced by the lowest view of human nature and the greatest dissatisfaction with the world. In his bitterness he looks down upon and pities the many—the vulgar multitudes he would style it—who are so unwise and so unintelligent as to hold that there are compensations in life and that the good of existence far outweighs its evil. They should pity him—for he is really pitiable—on account of his unfortunate organization, whence arises his inability to recognize beauty and virtue, and his equally unfortunate habit of looking only at the dark side of things. Pity him? How deeply he would resent the idea! Should subtle insight and profound sagacity evoke the humiliating passion of pity?

Mental dyspepsia is apt to be an inheritance, like gout, cancer, consumption, though it may be developed by a variety of external circumstances. As a rule it inheres in the temperament, and while it may be mitigated, perhaps cured, by very careful and continued treatment, it is usually too deep seated, too stubborn to be much modified. It is commonly in the blood and constitution of the child, and cannot be eradicated, because it colors the opinions and shapes the habits of mature life, and these act and react on the original ailment until both becomes chronic. It has divers names—melancholy, discontent, skepticism misanthrophy, cynicism, insensibility, cloyment,—all ranked as phrases of the mind or effects of certain conditions. That it in any manner belongs to pathology never occurs to the mass of medical practioners, and naturally enough, since they do not pretend to deal with other than the body, albeit the true physician must understand the mysteries of the brain. It is still a problem whether mental dyspepsia can be affected by anything contained in the pharmacopœia. Nevertheless, it is incontestably a disease, though too strange and variable to be classified, and displaying very different symptoms in different individuals.

Many men of distinction, especially literary men, have suffered from it. Poets and philosophers are particularly subject to it, and have been from the earliest time, Timon, Antithsenes, Diogenes, Lucretius, Byron, Pushkin, Heinrich, Heine, Musset, Schopenhauer, Poe, Tourgueneff, Carlyle, have each and all been its victims, as well as hundreds, yea thousands, whose names are unknown. It is a distemper of the era, and notably of our Nation—it should not by rights be with us and ours—and steadily grows with aggravated symptoms. Women almost never have it, and action seems inconsistent with its progress. Thought, study, seclusion, privacy, stimulate it, and, so far as it can be remedied, activity, intercourse with nature, contact with the outside world, are efficient to such an end. Mental dyspepsia may be arrested at the beginning by diligent, unwearied efforts and by counteracting influences. But it is always dangerous, and often leads to insanity and suicide—its natural results.

Marry or Pay.

AN INDIANAPOLIS STORY.

A very singular and also ludicrous story, which is none the less true, however, is told of a clerk in one of the leading business houses of this city, who became so involved that he needed $500 to extricate himself from the difficulty. By some means he discovered that a table girl of one of the hotels had by hard work saved up a considerable sum of money, and to her he applied for a loan. This was readily granted, and a note, with interest and a day of payment only some months in the future, was executed in acknowledgement of the same. The time came, and with it the same chronic inability of the maker to pay it. He pleaded for an extension of time, but this the waiter maiden refused utterly to grant, and informed him that he must either pay the sum at once or marry her. The woman was about 40 years old, and much more than correspondingly ugly, so that the debtor demurred against the imposition of such hard terms. The woman, however, was firm. With her it was either the money or a husband, and on the whole she seemed quite anxious to choose the latter. When the hero discovered the gravity of the situation he perceived no way to escape it, and finally capitulated. So the marriage was performed one evening in the early part of this week. The man belongs to a good family, and is said to be greatly humiliated by the condition in which he so unwillingly finds himself in being allied by force to a woman so inferior to himself in social position and intelligence. The woman, however, was so well pleased that she rented and furnished a house, and was ready for business before the wedding day. The names of the parties are withheld for obvious reasons.

A MAN was arrested in New York the other day, with a coffin under his arm, which he was trying to sell for ten cents. The man wanted two biers worse than one coffin.

A COUPLE arrived at San Francisco on their bridal tour, and took a room at a hotel. The bridegroom then informed the bride that he was out of money, and did not know how to get any. He said that the best thing for them to do was to commit suicide. She agreed, and suggested the use of laudanum, of which she had a bottle. They divided the drug into two equal parts, and swallowed it. The man died, but the dose proved insufficient to kill the woman, and she has recovered.

THE King of Italy, travelling in the strictest incognito as the Count of Pavia, is expected to spend a few days in Paris, and he will make a short visit to England, where he will be the guest of the Prince and the Princess of Wales at Sandringham, and will visit the Queen at Osborne.

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 21st, 1881.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

THE Meaford Monitor is after us with a sharp stick for saying we did not approve of its disseminating party principles under the guise of independence, claiming that, while it is not a non-political paper, it is a non-partizen one. If landing the Reform party, or individual members thereof, up to the skies on the slightest pretext, and damning the Tories with faint praise, is being non-partizan, the Monitor is correct in its statement; but it will excuse us if we are of a different opinion. As regards our having no opinion of our own, if our worthy cotem will take the trouble to look over our first i[illegible] will see we distinctly stat[illegible] politics we w[illegible] do, but confin[illegible] matters exclusiv[illegible] at questions of the [illegible] by our bigger brot[illegible] believing that a count y paper could serve its patrons to better advantage by so doing. What our private political opinions are concerns no one, as long as we do not obtrude them on the [illegible] to be non-p[illegible].

FL[illegible]

From our Corresp[illegible]

SOCIAL.—A very successful entertainment was given by the Ladies' Aid Association (M[illegible]) in the basement of the [illegible] Tuesday evening, the 18th inst. The programme consisted of [illegible] of readings, recitations, [illegible], and vocal and instrumental music. During the evening a sumptuous repast was served. The Association intend giving another entertainment two weeks from the 18th inst. We trust that on that occasion the house will be crowded.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL. — We will give full particulars of the masquerade carnival in our next week's issue. It was held on the 19th inst.

BREVITIES.—The Band gave some "NEW" music on the Rink Saturday night last......The Presbyterian Sabbath School intend purchasing an organ......Richardson's display of groceries is very tempting to people with "sweet teeth."......We have had considerable weather during the past week......The Ladies' Aid Association (Presbyterian) met for the transaction of business last Thursday.

OSPREY COUNCIL.

Twenty-ninth Council, first meeting. Maxwell, Jan. 17. 1882. The members elected for the year 1881, met, took the oath of office and qualification, and took their seats. Members present—Messrs. McGirr, Reeve; McIntyre, Deputy-Reeve; Johnston, Sing and Taylor, Councillors. Minutes of last meeting read and adopted. Communications were read from Jno. Rutherford, Wesley Long, John Winters, C. F. Heron, Joseph Maxwell, C. W. Rutledge, A. Bell, Pellat & Osler, J. Stolery and Hiram Somberger. Mr. McIntyre moved seconded by Mr. Johnston, that Joseph Taylor, Thomas Johnston and J. R. Sing be a Committee to inquire into the validity of the Treasurer's securities, and report to Council.—Carried. Mr. Sing moved, seconed by Mr. McIntyre, that A. McGirr, J. Taylor and T. Johnston, be a Committee on Roads and Bridges.—Carried. Mr. McIntyre, seconded by Mr. Joenston, that J. R. Sing, A. McIntyre and A. McGirr, be appointed a Committee on Finance and Assessment.—Carried. Mr. McIntyre moved, seconded by Mr. Sing, that all communications and petitions be referred to there respective Committees.—Carried. Mr. McIntyre moved seconded by Mr. Taylor, that the sum of $2 be granted for the use of each polling booth, and the sum of $8 be paid to each of the returning officers for the election of 1881; that the Reeve issue his orders for the same.—Carried. Finance Committee's Report No. 1, handed in, and reported as follows: 1st—That the account of J. Rutherford for printing, amounting to $22.42, be paid. 2nd That the account of W. Long, amounting to $1.25, for locks and repairs to ballot boxes, be paid. 3rd —That the application of A. Bell, Esq., re taxes, lot 73, 2nd N. D. R., be laid over. 4th and 5th—That this Committee recommends a grant of $5 each to Mrs. Glover and Flora McQueen. 6th—That the application of Joseph Maxwell, for Assessing, be laid over for further consideration. 7th—That the offer of the Markdale STANDARD be laid over for further consideration; the Clerk to ask for Schedule not enclosed as stated; and that the Reeve issue his orders for the amounts recommended. All of which is respectfully submitted, J. R. SING, Chairman. Report received. The Committee on Roads and Bridges hand in Report No. 1, as follows:—That this Committee would recommend this Council to accept the terms offerred by the North of Scotland Mortgage Company, i. e., to pay the said Company the sum of $25, and fence deviation through lot 29, con. 18, in consideration of right of way granted and deeded to this Municipality. That the Collector be instructed to collect the arrears of taxes on lot 28, range 8 S. D. R., from George Parsons, less $15 by him performed in road work, and certified by John Winters. All of which is respectfully submitted. J. TAYLOR, Chairman.—Report received. W. Suggitt appeared before the Council asking that a reduction be made in the taxes payable by G. W. McKenzie, on account of his having received no benefit from the property assessed. Reduction refused. The Reeve nominated Samuel B. Edwards as his Auditor. Mr. Sing moved, seconded by Mr. Taylor, that Neil A. McLean be appointed Auditor for the current year.—Carried. Mr. Sing moved, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that Mr. Joseph Taylor be, and is hereby instructed to apply to the heirs of the late James Gibson for the Consolidated Statutes of Ontario belonging to this Municipality, for the use of the Clerk.—Carried. Mr. Sing moved, seconded by Mr. McIntyre, that the Council adjourn until the 7th day of February, to meet in the Village of Feversham, and that the Clerk be instructed to get notices printed and posted up of such meeting. Carried.

W. MILNE, Clerk.

HOLLAND COUCIL.

Council met in Vogan,s Hall, for the transactions of business. Reeve in the chair. Members all present. Minutes of former meeting read and approved. Moved by Mr. Norton, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the following persons be exempt from paying taxes for 1880:—Widows, McDiarmid, Ball, Cæsar, Chambers, Graham, Mathews, and Jas. Robinson. Moved by Deputy Reeve, seconded by Mr. Norton, that W. J. Spears get an order for 90c., and Thomas Lyons an order for 68c., on account of error in assessment. Moved by Mr. Shute, seconded by Deputy Reeve, that Jas. Robinson receive an order for $5, being indigent. The Reeve appointed Joshua Milligan, and the Council Jno. Sutherland as Auditor's, on motion of Mr. Shute, seconded by Mr. Norton. Moved by Deputy Reeve, seconded by Mr. Shute, that the petition of Mr. P. Lyons, with regard to U. S. S. No. 8, Holland and Euphrasia, be laid over for further consideration. Moved and seconded, that the Clerk have a column put in the Assessor's Roll, for taking census of children between 5 and 16 years of age. Moved and seconded, that R. McKinnet, be assessor at a salary of $55, and to take the censes of all the children between the ages of 5 and 16, in each section and do all the work except selecting Jurors. Moved and seconded, that the Clerk be retained at a salary of $120 per annum. Mr. Norton asked for the yeas and nays, with the following result:—yeas, Shute, Cameron & Gillespie. Nays, Norton. Moved and seconded that the accounts of Rutledge and Rutherford for printing be paid. Moved and seconded, that the Collector's Roll be extended. Moved and seconded, that S. C. Langley be refunded the sum of $20. Moved and seconded, that R. M. Galbraith be exempt from paying taxes for 1880. Council adjourned to meet on the 25th Feb 1881.

C. PRICE, Clerk.

JAN. 17th, 1881.

HAGYARD'S Pectoral Balsam is the most safe, pleasant and perfect remedy known for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. It cures Coughs Colds, Bronchitis, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all Pectoral Complaints, in the most speedy manner. A few doses will relieve the most troublesome cough in children or adults. For sale by all dealers, at 25 cents per bottle.

PROTON AGRICULTURAL SO'Y.

The annual meeting of the above society took place in the Orange Hall, Dundalk, on Thursday, Jan. 13th. The Sec'y read the Annual Report, showing the society in a very satisfactory condition, financially and otherwise; the increase in membership being over one hundred per cent. The directors recommended that the exhibition he extended to two days for this year, and that a fall ploughing match be held in connection with the society. After the report was adopted, the meeting proceeded to the election of officers for the current year, with the following results:—President, T. Hanbury; Vice-President, John Anderson; Directors, John Rundle, Jas. Robinson, Jas. Rosborough, Andrew Riddle, D. K. McArthur, Geo. Campbell, Robt. Black and Samuel Stock. Joseph McArdle was appointed auditor for 1881 on behalf of the members. The auditors for 1880, having failed to make a report, Messrs. Isaac Traynor and Joseph McArdle were appointed to audit the treasurer's books. Their report showed a balance in the treasurer's hands of $176 after paying all prizes and expenses. Vote of thanks were given to all the office bearers for the past year, and regret was expresed by all at the retirement of Duncan McMillan, late Vice-President with the hope that, although not connected with the society in an official capacity, they would still receive his good advice and encouragement.

[We are indebted to Mr. A. G. Hunter, Secretary of the society for the above report. We had to cut it down considerable, however, for want of space.]

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR.—I notice in your paper of the 7th inst., that a person signing himself "Farmer," in reporting the proceedings of the Nomination, did me a great injustice in stating that I was opposed to giving any further aid to the Toronto, Grey and Bruce Railway. I stated the very opposite, I said I was in favor of granting the required aid, provided they would carry our stuff at a reduced rate; but I was opposed to giving one cent if they would not furnish the above security. After studying the subject still more carefully, I am convinced that the above is the wisest course for us to presue. It is certain that we have the improvements to pay for in either case. The company stated positively, that if they do not get the required help that they will put on a heavy rate, and so compel us to pay it. Mr. Wragge, the present manager of the T., G. & B. Railway, stated to a ratepayer of Artemesia, that one dollar now would be worth as much to them as ten would be when the road was completed. The company has stated that if we would give the bonus they would discrimnate in our favor. If they bind themselves to reduce our rates 2½ cents per hundred each way, it would pay us to give them ten thousand dollars, as we would get back every dollar in the higher prices our grain buyers could afford to pay us for our grain. It would not be a proper business transaction on our part as a township to grant a bonus under existing circumstances, as we would be giving our money to the T., G. & B. Company, and expecting favors from the Grand Trunk Company in return for it. Bonds entered into by both companies should be sufficient security for us. I would advise "Farmer" before he attempts to write again for the press, to study Phonography in order to be able to give correct statements. Wishing the standard every success.

I remain yours &c.,

THOS. BOLAND.

Jan. 15th, 1881.

FREE the system of impurities, excite the secretions to a healthy action, cleanse the blood, and tone up the weakened nerves, with that matchless medicine Burdock Blood Bitters. It cures Scrofula, Liver and Kidney Complaints, Jaundice, Consumption, Dyspepsia, Headache, Nervous and General Debility, and all Female Complatts. Every dealer in medicine can supply you with Burdock Blood Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00.

WE learn from the Mail's Telegraph reports that a fire broke out in Meaford on the 14th inst. about four o'clock in the office of C. R. Sing, totally destroying seven buliding in the central part of the town. The fire is supposed to have originated from a defective stove-pipe passing through the floor from a small eating-house, occupied by Mrs. Menary, in C. R. Sing's office. The lossers are as follows:—W. H. Arkness, Jewllery and stationery, stock partly saved, insured in the Phœnix for $1,000 and Standard for $1,000; building, frame rough-cast, owened by Chas. Little, insurance $1,000. Chas. Hunter, hardware merchant, frame rough-cast building insurance on building, $1,000, and on stock $2,000, in the Phœnix, $2,000, in the Queen's, and $2,000, in the Citizens; stock partly saved. C. R. Sing's Red Block of frame buildings, occupied by Drecker Bros., barber shop; Mrs. Meanary, eating house; office of C. R. Sing, and J. F. Brownridge's grocery store; stock partly saved; no insurance; small insurance on building. Frame building owned by Thos. Plukett, occupied by Brady and York, groceries stock partly saved; insured for $800. Frame building owened by Thomas Plunkett, occupied by the Montreal Telegraph office and F. Oliver's Grocery; stock partly saved; no insurance. Total loss on buildings from $8,000 to $10,000. Had it not been for the energy of fire company here the whole of the business part of the town would have been destroyed.

WE will take a cord and a quarter of green wood, or one cord of dry two foot wood for the Weekly Mail for one year. The paper to be furnished upon the delivery of the wood.

GENERAL ITEMS.

YESTERDAY's fair was very largely attended by both drovers and farmers. Cattle sold well, considering the quality of some of them. The merchants did a large business in their respective lines.—Orangeville Advertiser.

IT is stated that during the recent cold snap an up-country editor froze to death while sitting by his office stove endevoring to keep warm on the promise of his subscribers to pay wood for their paper.—Ib.

MUNICIPAL DEPUTATION.—A deputation consisting of Mr. Kenneth Chisholm M.P.P. for the county of peel, Mr. Colwell Scott, mayor of Orangeville, waited upon Attorney-General Mowat Friday morning in reference to the organization of the county of Dufferin for judicial purposes with Orangeville as the county town. The deputation strongly urged the issue of a proclamation establishing the new county according to the legislation of last session, stating that the county buildings were now nearly completed and would be entirely ready for occupation in a few days. The reply of the Attorney-General was favorable, and the proclamation is likely to issue within a week.—Ib.

No medicine is more justly popular than Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam. It is a positive specific for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs leading to Consumption. It loosens the tough phlegm or mucous, soothes irritation, allays troublesome coughing and heals diseased lungs. Sold by all dealers at 25 cents per boottle.

WHAT might have resulted in a very serious accident occurred at Mr. A. Gifford's residence one evening last week. Miss Gifford was walking accross the room with a lamp in her hand when the top of the lamp becoming disconnected from the lower part fell and broke in pieces. Some of the oil spilt on the stove and becoming ignited set fire to the carpet and a brisk little blaze at once shot up. It was extinguished, however before any serious damage occurred.—Monitor.

A YOUNG man named Alex McDonald, a late arrival in town, was up before the Mayor on Wednesday evening, charged by Mrs. Myles with breaking into her house. The Mayor imposed a fine, which with costs amounted to $7.50. Failing to come down with the "needful" he was sent to jail for 20 days.—Monitor.

A proclamamation issued by the Governor General directs that the census of the Dominion shall be taken on Monday, April 4th, and that the procedure to be followed shall be after the de jure system, or of the domiciled population. Of the eight shedules to be filled the first gives the nominal return of the living, and the second the nominal return of deaths within the last twelve months. The third treats of real estate, public institutions and industrial establishments. The fourth gives a return of cultivated land, of field products, plants, fruits, etc., and the fifth of live stock, animal products, home made fabrics and furs. The sixth is a return of products of the forest, the seventh of shipping and fisheries, and the eighth of mineral products.

MOUNT Forest can now boast of a new institutions yclept a Police Court. Mayor Swan is to be the presiding beak and Clerk Perry is to officiate as Police Clerk. Police office will be at the clerk's office Main street and be open from ten till four. Police Court to be held in Council Chamber, Town Hall.—Confederate.

BIRTHS.

In Markdale, on the 14th inst., the wife of Mr. George Wright, Cabinet Maker, of a son.

MARRIED

At the residence of the bride's father, on December 29th, by the Rev. T. Snowdon, Mr. John Herron, of Artemesia, to Miss Eliza Ann, fourth daughter of Thomas Gamey, Esq., of Osprey.

DIED

In Markdale, on the 15th inst., infant son of Mr. Geo. Wright.

THE MARKETS

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Jan. 7th, 1881.

Flour	5.0o	to	5.5o
Spring Wheat per bush., new	1.00	to	1.00
Fall do.	1.00	to	1.06
Barley	0.60	"	0.80
Oats	0.27	"	0.28
Peas	0.60	"	0.60
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.18
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.75	"	6.00
Beef	4.50	"	5.50
Geese per lb.	0.06	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.75	"	1.00
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.25
Hay	6.50	"	0.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.3o
Green Apples, per. bushel	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	2.00	"	2.1

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL CURES RHEUMATISM.

National Pills, superior to all other purgatives in strength and virtue, in safety and mildness of action.

—VICTORIA— BUCHU & UVA URSI THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR ALL DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS & URINARY ORGANS.

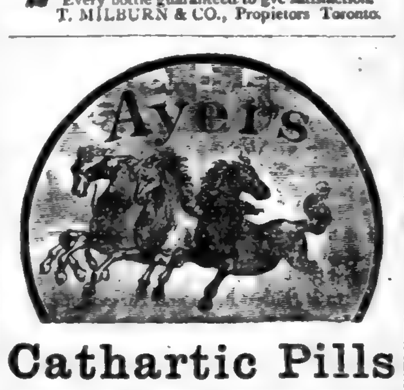
BBB Burdock BLOOD Bitters

Burdock Healing Ointment should be used in connection with Burdock Blood Bitters for curing Ulcers, Abscesses, Fevers, Sores, &c. Price 25 cents per box. T. MILBURN & CO., SOLE AGENTS, TORONTO.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM.

Has no equal for the permanent cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and all Lung Diseases.

Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction. T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors Toronto.



Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

LOVELL'S Province of Ontario Directory For 1881-82,

TO BE PUBLISHED IN NOVEMBER, '81, Price $5.00.

MR. LOVELL, at the request of several Merchants and others of the Province of Ontario, of the City of Montreal, &c., begs to announce that his firm will publish a PROVINCE OF ONTARIO DIRECTORY, in November next, containing an Alphabetical Directory AND A THOROUGH CLASSIFIED Business Directory of the Business and Professional men in the Cities, Towns and Villages of Ontario, with a CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY OF THE CITY OF MONTREAL.

The same care and attention bestowed on the Dominion and Provincial Directories of 1871 will be given to this work. Subscribers names respectfully solicited. Terms of Advertising made known upon application.

JOHN LOVELL & SON, Publishers. Montreal, December, 1880.

CAUTION.

ALL persons are hereby cautioned against purchasing a Note drawn in favor of Samuel Thompson, of Artemesia, and signed by Aaron and William Ernest, dated on or about the 1st day of July, 1880, and due on the 15th day of February, 1881, as we have received no value for the same.

AARON ERNEST, WILLIAM ERNEST.

Flesherton Station, Jan. 9, 1881. 18-3i*

TENDERS

WILL be received by the undersigned, up to Feb. 1st, 1881; for building a brick house, in Flesherton; contractor to supply all material. Plans and specifications may be seen at my office.

ROBT. DAVIS, Conveyancer, Commissioner in B. R., Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agent, Flesherton.

Jan. 5th, 1881. 17 tf

JOB WORK done neat and prompt at the STANDARD Office.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All!

Now that [illegible]

FRESH GROCERIES, FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY AND LIQUORS! Everything First-Class and at RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDS [illegible] TER, equal to [illegible] section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 2-ly

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by Dr. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes, ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13 tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment OFFERED BY THE BRITISH CANADIAN LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, AND British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES ATTENDED.

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me. P. S.—Several improved farms for sale.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 18-3m

MARKDALE HOUSE, MARKDALE, ALEX. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

THIS HOTEL is a large three storey brick building, recently erected and fitted up with every modern convenience. It is furnished in First-Class Style. The Bar is supplied with the best brands of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, and the table with all the delicacies of the season. The travelling Public may rely upon every attention being paid to their comfort. Good Sample Rooms for Commercial Travellers. The only Hotel that runs a Bus to and from all Trains. Good Stables and attentive Hostlers. 18

PHOTOGRAPHS! 12 FOR $1.50.

I WOULD again intimate to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country, that I am prepared to give you the BEST SATISFACTION IN PHOTOGRAPHS, AMBROTYPES, COPYING AND ENLARGING!

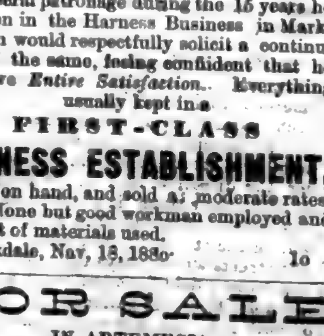
Please give me a call, and see for yourselves.

GALLERY, two doors from Revere Hotel.

R. BAILEY.

Markdale, Jan. 10, 1881. 18-3r

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a FIRST-CLASS HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT, always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.

None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nov, 18, 188o. 1o

FOR SALE IN ARTEMESIA,

FIFTY acres of land, Lot 25, south of Durham Road, 18 acres of cleared land with log house, and well fenced. Inquire of Robert Oliver, opposite the lot, or

JOHN KAY, Bentinck, Durham P. O

Jan. 13th, 1881. 18-tf

SAVE YOUR COMBINGS.

Mrs. T. G. Morgan, begs to announce to the Ladies of Markdale and vicinity that she is prepared to work up hair combings into switches, puffs and curls, terms moderate—A call is solicited. Residence corner of Mark and Queen streets, opposite Mr. Bowes' residence.

Markdale, Dec. 10th, 188o. 14m1

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to intimate to you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past.

Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 188o. 16-5ih

FLESHERTON Harness Shop!

THE Subscriber having purchased the business lately carried on by Mr. S. Damude, begs to inform the public that he has REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE, where he is prepared to furnish ALL KINDS of HARNESS usually found in a First-Class Establishment, And at prices to suit the times, and by using THE BEST OF MATERIAL, AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c., constantly on hand. COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

Call and satisfy yourselves. Remember the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec., 1880. 16

Farm to Rent.

THE Subscriber wants to rent his Farm for four years, lot 16, con 9, Glenelg; 75 acres cleared; 15 acres ploughed. The soil is a good Clay Loam. There is on the premises a good Log Barn and a good comfortable house, and all other buildings necessary. Plenty of Water. Terms easy, as the Proprietor must leave. Possession given 1st April. Apply on the premises to John Black or the premises, or to Arch. Butter, Markdale.

JOHN BLACK, Traverston P. O., Ont.

January 13, 1881. 18-3i

FOR Cheap Stationery, Beautiful Christmas and New Year Cards call at the Standard Office.

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

The undersigned wishes to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased the [illegible] control of the FLESHERTON STEAM FURNITURE, AND SASH AND DOOR FAC[TORY], AND REMOVED TO THE Furniture Warerooms TO THE NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUILDING ADJOINING THE FA[CTORY]

[illegible] now Superior to any [illegible] commencing business, and I trust by honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of Furniture in all the Latest Sty[les] and during the Winter I require 100,000 FEET OF GOOD Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and LUMBER! for which THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAID. Also a Quantity of Good P[ine]

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ETC. AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Applicat[ion]

Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durham [Road].

H. HOOP[ER]

Flesherton, December 22, 1880.

SELLING OFF! FALL AND WINTE[R] AT AND UNDER COST For Cash, for 30 Day[s]

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEA[P]

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEA[P]

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothi[ng] CHEA[P]

Staple and Fancy Dry Goo[ds] OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT ROCK-BOTTOM PRIC[ES]

BOOTS AND SHO[ES] In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRI[CES] at the "TORONTO HOUS[E]" Wm. BROW[N]

Markdale, December 20, 1880.

WE WISH YOU A Merry Christmas and a Happy New [Year]

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say [illegible] been a year of prosperity with the people of our [illegible] and as others have prospered, we have been [illegible] participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially [illegible] moving into our new premises, and we solicit [illegible] patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Good[s]

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and S[aucers]

and a large variety of CHILDREN'S TOYS

OUR GROCERIE[S]

For the season are, as usual, Well Selected, Fresh and Goo[d]

NEW CURRANTS,
NEW PRUNES,
NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.
The People are all asking for our TEA DUST, nothing suits so w[ell]

WE ARE OFFERING WINTER DRY GOO[DS] At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties,
" 5,000 Telegraph Poles,
" Also, a quantity of Cordwoo[d]

HILL BROTHER[S]

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.

STANDARD.

Jan. 21st, 1881.

OTHER NOTICES.

[illegible] weather. [illegible] was never better. [illegible] good, consequently every [illegible] beautiful hair sofa's at [illegible] Bros keeps the largest and [illegible] of stoves in the county. [illegible] parlor or bed-room set of [illegible] J. W. Bates, Flesher[ton].

[illegible] happy to see that Mr. John [illegible] about again after his ac[cident] last week.

[illegible] communications are held [illegible] until next week for want of [space].

[illegible] MCCORMICK has all [illegible] this grocery to Mr. Gould [illegible] new premises [illegible]

[illegible] on the T., G. & B. Rail[way] [illegible] been considerably behind [illegible] the past few days from snow [illegible]

[illegible] RICHARDSON has just received [illegible] lot of the excelsior tea, which [illegible] such general satisfaction.

[illegible] boat race between Han[illegible] Laycock, which was to have [taken] place on the 17th was postponed [illegible] count of the quantity of ice in [illegible] Thames.

[illegible] on Tuesday, 11th inst., on [illegible] south and Sydenham Road be[tween] Markdale and Noble's corners, [illegible] parcel containing a pair of [illegible] The finder will confer a [favor] by leaving them at this office.

[illegible] as we go to press of the [illegible] death of Mr. Jacob Keefer, one [of the] oldest settlers on the Lake [illegible] Line, Mr. Keefer paid a visit to [illegible] Mr. Geo. Keefer of Flesherton, [illegible] weeks since. [illegible] return journey home, and al[illegible] about 80 years of age. It [illegible] to last for a number of [years].

[illegible] have received the steel plate [illegible] of the late Hon. Geo. Brown [illegible] presented gratuitously to the [illegible] of the Weekly Globe, [illegible] frequently seen the Hon. [illegible] we can pronounce the [illegible] very life-like. Now is the [illegible] to subscribe. Call and see [illegible]

[illegible] COMMERCIAL HOTEL, PRICEVILLE [illegible] attention to the notice of [illegible] hotel to be found in another [illegible] The house has been [illegible] improved, and [illegible] courteous proprietor, Mr. [illegible] we bespeak for it a good [share of patronage].

[illegible] third annual supper of Eugenia [illegible] Orange, No. 684, came off on the 18th [illegible] The hall was crowded, and a very [illegible] evening was spent. [illegible] readings, recitations [illegible] features of the [illegible] Of course Mr. J. [illegible] with his daughter [illegible] a host in himself.—Sec'y.

[illegible] annual meeting of [illegible] cultural society for the [illegible] the following officers [illegible] R. Y. Burk; 2nd do. do., Jos[illegible] Taylor. Directors, Jos[illegible] R. Linley, J. R. Sing, [illegible] J. McMaster, [illegible] J. Menchions, David [illegible] Treas., Josiah Gamey.

ARTEMESIA agricultural society [illegible] annual meeting in the Town Hall [illegible] Flesherton, on the [illegible] the following officers [illegible] ensuing year:—President [illegible] Brown; Vice do., R. Oliver, Directors [illegible] Brodie, J. M. Webster, G. [illegible] Elliott and J. Bannon [illegible] elected J. Bredie, Sec.-Treas.

A DECIDED hum in the matrimonial [market] [illegible] this neighborhood. We [illegible] a gay and festive crowd leave the Markdale House on Wednesday, after previously having paid a visit to one of our ministers, we'd like to [illegible] quite expert, from the amount [illegible] practice he has had of late. The [illegible] young people will do it, we [illegible] the frequent warnings they receive [from] those who have been there.

MOUNT OATES' cold dip, promised [illegible] about the 15th arrived on [illegible] thermometer registering 10 degrees below zero on Friday morning last, and sitting round the stove [illegible] warm was the most prominent [illegible] business transaction of the day. The weather has moderated considerably since, and at the present time of writing (17th) the thermometer stands 18 degrees above zero. No [illegible] sons as yet of the promised thaw.

A CONCERT will be held in the Orange Hall, Berkeley, on Friday, Jan. 28th inst. The following [illegible] Dougal, Owen Sound, Reid and Ford of Markdale, and Messrs W. McDougal, Ford, Cæsar, Mason and Tanner are to be present. The Markdale string band will also be present. Admission 25c. and 15c. Proceeds to assist in furnishing Christ Church, Markdale.

THE annual meeting of East Grey agricultural society was held in the Town Hall, Flesherton, according to notice, on the 19th inst. The annual report was read and adopted. The President [illegible] which was received. (We will publish it next week.) The Directors [illegible] following officers:—President, Thos. Kells; 1st Vice do., R. Myles; 2nd Vice do., W. J. McGregor. Directors, S. Damude, A. Munshaw, Wm. Burnett, Josiah Gamey, R. Y. Burk, D. R. Ellis, R. Ruthven, J. Abbott, E. Shaw. Delegate, Thos. Kells.

SERIOUS FIRE.—On Monday last while Mr. James Sullivan, who resides on lot 15, con. 5, Glenelg, six miles from Priceville was attending the fair, a fire broke out in a house. The house was used for holding clothes. It is supposed that the children went into the room with a light and unknowingly set the clothes on fire, shutting the door after them, nothing was known of it until the building was in flames and past being extinguished. Loss about $4,000 [illegible] very [illegible] has the sympathy of all who know him.

EMOVAL
that he has ...
STEAM
D DOOR FACTO
erooms
ADJOINING THE FACT
a competent salesman ...
w Superior ...
Stock of Latest Sty
F GOOD
, Birch and RI
LL BE PAID
Good
OULDINGS, ETC.
on Applicatio to the Factory, Durham
H. HOOPE
OFF!
WINTER
COST
30 Days
Suits,
CHEA AWLS,
CHEA
nderclothi
CHEA
Dry Goo
AT PRICE
SHOE
EAP.
USE
. BROW
New ollection of Good ps and S
TOYS
ERIES sual,
nd Good
l Value. for our suits so well
RING
GOOD hem out.
oles,
Cordwood
HER

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 21st, 1881.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

Beautiful weather.

Sleighing was never better.

Business good, consequently every one happy.

See those beautiful hair sofa's at Bates', cheap.

Haskett Bros keeps the largest and stock of stoves in the county.

For a parlor or bed-room set of furniture, try J. W. Bates, Flesherton.

We are happy to see that Mr. John ...tyre is about again after his ac... of last week.

Several communications are held over until next week for want of ...

Mr. Joseph McCutcheon has disposed of his grocery to Mr. Gould, who will carry on the business in the ...e.

The trains on the T., G. & B. Railway have been considerably behind time for the past few days from snow ... and intense cold.

... Richardson has just received another lot of the excelsior tea, which has given such general satisfaction. Everybody wants it.

The great boat race between Hanlan and Laycock, which was to have taken place on the 17th was postponed on account of the quantity of ice in the River Thames.

Lost, on Tuesday, 11th inst., on the Toronto and Sydenham Road between Markdale and Noble's corners, a small parcel containing a pair of rubbers. The finder will confer a favor by leaving them at this office.

We learn, as we go to press of the sudden death of Mr. Jacob Keefer, one of the oldest settlers on the Lake Shore Line. Mr. Keefer paid a visit to his son, Mr. Geo. Keefer of Flesherton, ... two weeks since. We saw him on his return journey home, and although about 80 years of age, he seemed fair to last for a number of years yet.

We have received the steel plate engraving of the late Hon. Geo. Brown to be presented gratuetously to the subscribers of the Weekly Globe. Having frequently seen the Hon. gentleman, we can pronounce the likeness very life-like. Now is the time to subscribe. Call and see engraving, and leave your subscripton with us.

Commercial Hotel, Priceville.—We direct attention to the notice of this hotel to be found in another column. The house has been much enlarged and otherwise improved, and ... under the able management of its courteous proprietor, Mr. Thos. ...inson, we bespeak for it a good ... of business.

The third annual supper of Eugenia Grange, No. 684, came off on the 18th inst., the hall was crowded, and a very pleasant evening ... [illegible]

At the annual meeting of ... Agricultural Society ... present year the following officers were elected:—President, Wm. ...; 1st Vice ..., R. Y. Burk; 2nd ..., Joseph Taylor. Directors, J... Gamey, ... Linley, J. R. S..., ... M..., ... McGirr, J. W..., ... J. McMorris, ... Sec.-Treas., Josiah Gamey.

Artemesia agricultural society held ... annual meeting in the Town Hall, Flesherton, on the 13th inst., when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, A. ...own; Vice do., R. Oliver. Directors, ... Brodie, J. M. Webster, G. Buskin, ... Elliott and J. Bannon. Directors then elected J. Brodie, Sec.-Treas.

A decided hum in the matrimonial market in this neighborhood. We saw a gay and festive crowd leave the Markdale House on Wednesday, after previously having paid a visit to one of our ministers, who are getting quite expert, from the amount of practice they have had of late. These young people will do it, notwithstanding the frequent warnings they receive from those who have been there. Such is life.

Moses Oates' cold dip, promised us about the 15th arrived on time, the thermometer registering 10 degrees below zero on Friday morning last, and sitting round the stove to keep it warm wa the most prominent business transaction of the day. The weather has moderated somewhat since, and at the present time of writing (17th) the thermometer stands 18 degrees above zero. No indications as yet of the promised thaw.

A Concert will be held in the Orange Hall, Berkeley, on Friday, Jan. 28th inst, at which, the Misses McDougal, Owen Sound, Reid and Ford of Markdale, and Messrs W. McDonald, Ford, Cæsar, Mason and Tannar are to particpate. The Markdale String band are also to be present. Admission 25c. and 15c. Proceeds to assist in furnishing Christ Church, Markdale.

The annual meeting of East Grey Agricultural society, was held in the Town Hall, Flesherton, according to notice, on the 19th inst. The annual report was read and adopted. The President read the Directors report which was received. (We will publish it next week.) The officers are as follows:—President, Thos. Kells; 1st Vice do., R. Myles; 2nd Vice do., Dr McGregor. Directors, S. Damude, ... Munshaw, Wm. Burnett, Josiah Gamey, R. Y. Burk, D. R. Ellis, R. Ruthven, J. Abbott, E. Shaw. Delegate, Thos. Kells.

Serious Fire.—On Monday last while Mr. James Sullivan, who resides on lot 15, con. 5, Glenelg, was at Priceville attending the fair, a fire broke out in a back room of the house, used for holding clothes. It is supposed that the children went into the room with a light and unknowingly set the place on fire, and closing the door after them, nothing was known of it till the place was in flames and past being extinguished. Loss about $4,000.00; no insurance. This is a very serious loss to Mr. Sullivan, who has the sympathy of all who know him.

For the best and cheapest machine oil and coal oil, go to Haskett Bros.

J. J. White, Dentist, will be at the Revere Hotel on Wednesday next 26th inst.

Toronto oil company, are sole manufacturers of "Castorine" machine oil. Infringements will be prosecuted.

Toronto papers are still complaining about the lack of snow. We could easily spare them some and not miss it.

Ask your dealers for "Castorine" machine oil, and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine.

Although snow is plentiful sleighing is anything but good, the roads being considerably drifted, and the pitch-holes something awful.

Bring us a cord and a quarter of good dry two foot wood, or one and a half green, and you can have the Standard for a year.

If your eyesight is failing, you try a pair of Lazarus & Morris' Spectacles. For sale only at Wilcox's.

Use "Castorine" Machine Oil, for all kinds of machinery, it is also excellent for harness and leather, make it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers.

A Tea-Meeting is to be held by the Methodists of the Town Line appointment, on Friday, 28th inst. Admission, 25 cents; children, 15 cents. Go and enjoy yourselves.

The concert held in Lyon's Church by "Hawkins Troupe," was well attended, and the entertainment was we are told even better than that given in Markdale, on the previous evening.

Manufacturers of reapers, mowers and threshing machines, prefer "Castorine" machine oil to any other, it will out wear lard, seal, or elephant, and is warranted not to gum.

Elder Hawkins, colored, preached in the C. M. Church, here on last Sunday. The Church was filled to its full capacity. The Elder was listened to with great attention. He preached at Walter's Falls in the evening.

Ladies—Don't you fail to see those Gold Watches at Wilcox's.

On Friday morning, a woman named Mrs. Bills, who lived about two miles from the village of Shelburne, was found frozen stiff within a short distance of her home. An inqest was held in the evening, we have not heard the results.

Croup, that dire disease, has lost its terrors to those who keep Yellow Oil at hand. Yellow Oil also cures Sore Throat, Quinsey, Congestion and Inflammation of the lungs. Now is the season to guard against sudden attacks of diseases. Ask your Druggist for Hagyards's Yellow Oil.

Mr. Joseph McCutcheon announces, through the medium of posters, that he is desirous of disposing of the Revere Hotel and his two farms, one in the Township of Euphrasia, and the other in the Township of Mono. Parties desirous of purchasing real estate should not fail to call on Mr. McCutcheon, from whom full particulars ... had.

Burdock Blood Bitters is the best Blood Purifier, Liver and Kidney Regulator, and Restorative Tonic in the world. It acts upon the Liver, the Kidneys and the Bowels, curing all manner of Billious complaints, Kidney complaints, and diseases of the Blood. Ask your Druggist for Burdock Blood Bitters. Sample bottles 10 cents, regular size $1.00.

The annual meeting of Euphrasia Agricultural Society, was held in Rocklyn on Jan. 13, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, D. R. Ellis; Vice do., C. Kelley; Sec'y, T. Abercrombie. Directors, W. McConnell, R. H. Stinson, F. Eaton, S. M. Night, Thos. Gilray, Thos Jordan, J. Boyd, E. E. Knott, Auditors, R. Clark, J. D. Crabtree.

Yellow Oil is the great pain panacea, magical in its power over pain and inflammation. It cures Rheumatism and Neuralgia, Lame Back and Spinal Affections, Contraction of Cords and Muscles. Used externally and internally. For sale by all dealers.

The concert on Monday evening by the Jubilee singers, was a success, Dufferin Hall, being crowded to the door. We believe the singing was all that could be desired. The Elder gave a history of his life whilst in slavery, and narrated the incidents connected with his escape. He also gave a solo entitled "On the Road to Canada," which was received with rounds of applause.

We last week spoke of the habit children of the village have of running after sleighs, and the danger arising therefrom. We see a report in the Toronto Mail of last Monday, an account two accidents from this cause. In one case the boy's leg was so mangled as to require amputation. In the other the leg was badly fractured. We expect to have to chronicle something of the sort here before the winter is over if a stop is not put to the practice.

The annual meeting of the Glenelg Township Agricultural Society was held, according to notice, in Dufferin Hall, on Thursday, Jan. 13th, when the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Wm. Douglas; Vice President, Jas. Struthers; Secretary, A. Butter; Directors, Edward Rutledge, jr., Edward Davis, Benjamin Coleman, William Brown, Thomas Davis, Shepperd Boyce, Robert Walker, James Leander, and Adam Shiels; Auditors, A. Turner and Wm. McLaughry.

Canadian Almanac.—This old and reliable Almanac, now in its thirty-fourth year of publication, for the year 1881 has been laid on our table. It contains, besides the usual matter contained in such books, a statement of the Public Accounts of the Dominion and the various Provinces for the past fiscal year, Exports and Imports, Fisheries, Emigration and Vital statistics, Bank statistics, list of Banks and their Agencies, members of the Senate and House of Commons of the Dominion, members of Provincial Legislatures, tarif of customs, Postal information and list of officies, list of Township, County, Division and County Court Clerks, the names of the Clergy of every denomination, list of officers of Grand Lodges of the the various secret Societies, &c., &c. In fact it contains more information, indispensable to every one, than any other work of the kind we know of.—For sale by A. Turner & Co. Price 15 cents.

Wm. Lucas & Co.,
BANKERS,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

In large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER,
Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER

AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS

—IN—

Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE

IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

J. MONTGOMERY,
BAKER,

THE Subscriber in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is better prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented.

and a large

Variety of Other Cakes.

always on hand, Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials,

AND

OTHER PARTIES,

supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.
Markdale, Nov, 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN,

Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to

FILL ALL ORDERS
Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed

—AT—

LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

STRAYED

INTO the premises of the undersigned, lot 25, con. 7, Township of Artemesia, about the 3rd of December, 1880, A Bay Colt. The owner is requested to prove property, pay expenses, and take him away. If not claimed within ten days after the date of this will be sold to defray expences.

Joseph Fenwick.
Jan. 7th, 1880. 17-3*

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support

W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice. As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOBLE.
Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

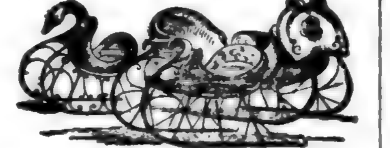
The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MacRAE, Reeve.
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,



WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets,

FLESHERTON.

To my Patrons.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any ... cording to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS,

AND WILL

Sell Lower than the Lowest,

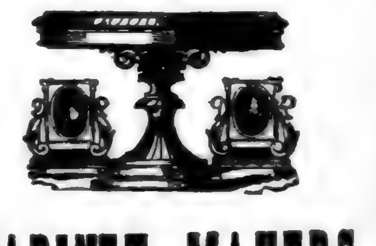
as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

GRANT & CHELLEW,

MARKDALE.



CABINET MAKERS,

—AND—

UPHOLSTERERS

A FULL STOCK OF Furniture!

ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

Subscribe for the Standard.
We will give it from now till the First of January, 1882, for one year's subscription.

CHEAP CASH STORE.

Reynolds & Son.

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries,

BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY

Don't Forget the Place.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880. 9

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the Countyat

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received since commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward business with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.

ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.

HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.

BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.

GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns

GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880. 1

—XMAS—

SILVERWARE, WATCHES, JEWELRY, CLOCKS,

AND FANCY GOODS.

The largest and best assorted stock, WITHOUT EXCEPTION, ever shown in this section of Country.

In Silverware I have Tea sets, Fruit Dishes, Preserve Dishes, Pickle Dishes, Cake Baskets, Butter Coolers, Card Receivers, Ladies' Companions, Cruets, Cups, Napkin Rings, Knives, Forks, Spoons, Chains, Lockets, Earings, &c., &.

AT DOLLS

In Watches, I have—Gold and Silver Hunting, and Open-Faced key and stem winders, including the celebrated Waltham Watches (they are the best) ... English and American key and stem winders, from $4 up. The celebrated ... Thomas and other Clocks, from 75c up. In Jewelry,—I have colored and Bright Gold sets, Chains, Seals, Lockets, Rings, Cuff Buttons, Studs, Pins, &c., &c., &c.

DIAMOND, WEDDING, AND GEM RINGS.

My Goods have all been purchased for Nett Cash, and will be sold at Bottom Prices.

Watch Repairing a Specialty. W. F. DOLL, Watchmaker, &c.
Nov. 25, 1880. (6) Flesherton and Dundalk.

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY,

AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to.

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the witer.

N. CAMPBELL.
Flesherton, December 15, 1880 14

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 148 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING

PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.
Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-yr

R. J. SPROULE,

FLESHETRON,

Whilst wishing all

A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,

And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business generally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season, THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES,

DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,

BOOTS AND SHOES,

Crockery and Glassware,

AND

Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millnery, Furs,

AND

LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Grain or FARM PRODUCE.

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods,

MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,

Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R J. SPROULE'S,
FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

Loving and Waiting.

T. M. GREGG.

Waiting for Him,
In patience waiting,
Waiting to see Him as He is,
Waiting to see truth and justice,
Purity and love,
Mercy and goodness
Personified in God.

Waiting for this,
In patience waiting,
Is something well worth waiting for.
Through days and nights,
Through storm and sunshine,
Waiting to see God
In clouds and majesty.

Waiting in love,
In patience waiting,
Until the clouds which spread o'er Olivet,
Shall spread o'er an astonished world,
Bearing in their soft folds
The Judge of all,
Whom every eye used to the sight
Of purity and truth
Shall behold with rapturous delight.

Waiting for Thee,
In patience waiting,
Oh God! the way of truth is slow
And hard, often winding and turning on itself;
But do Thou help us,
And we will follow it and Thee
Out of this long vale of darkness
Into the light of endless day.

Shorter! shorter
Grow the shadows—
High in heaven the sun appears;
Wake! my soul, this is the noon-tide
Of endless time—
Of endless years.

Waiting is no longer waiting,
Patience is no longer tried,
Love is all and all-absorbing
In our Lord, the Crucified.

Love is truth, and mercy love is;
Love is justice, goodness, faith;
All is love, and all is love;
Love is God, and God is loving.

Waiting then is only loving,
Loving truth and loving man,
Loving goodness, loving mercy,
Loving God, and God made man.

Thus in waiting and in loving,
We shall each God's goodness prove,
Face to face and heart to heart, then
In a life of endless love.

TEN O'CLOCK AT NIGHT AT RIVINGTON HALL.

It was with great pleasure that I heard, about a year ago, from my old friend Harry Danvers that he had succeeded to the Rivington Hall estate, and an income of some thousands a year, on the death of a distant relation. Harry and I were school and college friends; and though in late years our paths in life had widely diverged, the old affection never slumbered. We met rarely, but we kept up a more constant correspondence than is usual even among brothers.

Our last meeting was on the occasion of his marriage to a charming girl, to whom he had been long attached; soon after which event he left the —— Hussars, and went to live in Wales, near his wife's family, till the death of his far-away cousin, old Luke Danvers, of Rivington Hall, put him in possession of a fine estate and ample fortune. Old Danvers died abroad, in some German town, where he had led a life of absolute seclusion for several years—nearly forty, I think. Harry came to London on business connected with the succession, and spent most of his time at my chambers in the Temple. His parting words to me were a cordial invitation to visit him at the old Hall as soon as he had made it habitable. It had been shut up since the late owner, a man of eccentric habits, retired somewhat suddenly abroad, and would probably require to be put in thorough repair before it could be equal to the modern ideal of luxury or even comfort.

After his first letter, full of enthusiastic descriptions of the quaint beauty of the old Hall and plans for its immediate restoration, months passed without my hearing anything of or from Harry Danvers. I went on my plodding way as a struggling barrister, gaining inch by inch of the steep uphill path which leads to ease and competency in the profession I had chosen. But busy as I was, I found time to wonder at Harry's silence; and at length I wrote, having, unexpectedly, a week or two of leisure, to propose passing my holidays with him. I addressed my letters to Rivington Hall, and the post brought me an answer in due course. The tone of Harry's letter struck me very painfully. It was as affectionate as ever, but there was a deep melancholy pervading it, which was scarcely to be accounted for, even by the news which it contained, that Mrs. Danvers was even now scarcely recovered from a long and serious illness. It ended thus: "I shall be only too happy to see you, old fellow, if you can put up with indifferent accommodation and dull company; and I hope you will come as soon as you can, for the moment Helen is able to travel we are going abroad." The letter was dated "Woodfield, Rivington." I packed up at once, telegraphed to say I would be with him on the morrow, and started by the morning express.

The autumn day was drawing to a close as I jumped out of the train at the station, and found Harry waiting for me. I was quite shocked by the change in my friend's appearance and manner. Instead of greeting me with his usual cheery laugh, he came up as if we were meeting at a funeral, wrung my hand with scarcely a word, and only replied by the shortest sentences to my inquiries about his wife's health.

We drove about three miles out of the town, past a lodge with fine old iron gates, and a long park-wall, within which at some distance I could just discern the gables and chimneys of a large handsome house.

"That's it?" he said, pointing with his whip. "We live at Woodfield."

"So I saw by your letter. But why did you not carry out your plans for the restoration of the Hall?" I asked.

"Don't speak of it!" he said sharply. "And while I think of it, Burly, I must beg you not to make any allusion to the Hall before Helen. It upsets her completely."

"Why, what is the matter with it? It looks a very fine old place, and surely you lived there for some time?"

"Yes, we did," he answered gravely; "and that is why we both wish to forget that such a place exists. It is killing Helen to remain here, and yet the doctor says she must not be moved before the spring."

"Has she been very ill?" I asked, passing over the first part of his speech, though I mentally resolved to get at the truth somehow.

"Very; as nearly dead as possible with nervous fever. I doubt if you would know her again, Burley. But here we are."

While we were talking he had driven on, down a steep lane to the left, and through a little village nestling in a hollow among woods and cornfields, and quite out of sight of the Hall and its neighbourhood. We stopped at the porch of a long low house by the road-side; a groom took the reins from my friend and the servant who came to the door ushered us through a low side-passage into a cheerful room, bright with fire and lamplight, and amply though simply furnished. A lady rose from a sofa by the fire to welcome us.

I could scarcely refrain from exclaiming aloud, so great was the change in Helen Danvers. The fair young smiling bride, whom I had seen in the first bloom of happy youth, had become a pale, grave, nervous woman, startled by the slightest sound, with heavy eyes that filled with tears without any apparent reason, and bearing every mark of having received a serious shock, both bodily and mental. She welcomed me with friendly kindness; and as we chatted round the fire I could trace more resemblance to the Helen Danvers whom I had last seen on her wedding morning. We separated early for the night, and Harry carried his wife up-stairs, and returned to me with a hurried apology for leaving me to my solitary cigar, as he said Helen was too nervous to be left alone.

The next morning was bright and frosty; and after breakfast, at which meal Mrs. Danvers did not appear, Harry proposed to me to accompany him to the house of a friend, who had invited us both to shoot. Our way lay past the lodge-gates of Rivington Hall, and by daylight I could see that the house was a very large and handsome one, in the Tudor style, with terraces, stone-mullioned windows, and quaintly-twisted chimneys. The shutters were closed; the avenue, between two rows of magnificent old beeches, was grass-grown, and the lodge was uninhabited; in short, the whole place bore unmistakable signs of being left to go to ruin unheeded.

I could not resist observing to Harry that it seemed a pity to abandon so fine a place. His reply was rather startling.

"Would to Heaven that not one stone remained upon another!" he said vehemently. "The entail prevents my pulling it down, or it would have ceased to exist before now!"

"Why, what ails the place? Is it haunted?" I asked laughingly, knowing that Harry was as free from childish superstition as I was myself.

"I'll tell you that, Bob," was his earnest answer, "if you had seen what we have seen inside those hateful halls, you would never be the same man again. I know I am not; and as for Helen, poor girl, it has nearly, if not quite, killed her."

My curiosity was now thoroughly aroused; and with, perhaps, less of tact and good taste than I ought to have shown, I plied him with questions, to all of which he gave vague and unwilling answers. Somehow the subject was renewed at King's Lea, the place to which we were bound. Mr. Easton, Harry's friend, said he was possessed with the most ardent desire to see the apparition which Danvers acknowledged to have seen twice in a certain room of the old Hall; and I, little troubled by fears of the supernatural, expressed a decided opinion that I should like to see the ghost who could drive me from a place like Rivington Hall, if I was its fortunate possessor.

Between us, I think, we pushed matters too far; and at last Harry said, in a tone of deep annoyance,

"I'll tell you what it is, my good fellows, you shall judge for yourselves whether I am the fool you both take me for. We will all pass an evening in the oriel-room at the old Hall, and I shall be curious to see how you like it."

Mr. Easton and I eagerly took up the challenge. It was arranged that, the next day but one being the last of the month, on which alone, as Harry told us, the spectral appearances were visible, we should meet at King's Lea, and proceed together to the Hall, Danvers agreeing to tell his wife that we were engaged to dine and sleep at Easton's.

"We must be at the Hall before ten o'clock," he said. "That is the only time at which anything is seen."

On our way home we called at the cottage of an old man who was formerly gardener at Rivington Hall, for the keys of the house.

"Now don't 'ee be going there, Muster Danvers, now don't 'ee," he implored. "No luck nor good ever come of it, and never won't. It's tempting Providence, like, to put yourself in the devil's clutches."

My curiosity was strongly excited. It was as much as I could do to refrain from speaking of the old Hall before Mrs. Danvers; and during our walk the following day after the partridges, I entreated Harry to tell me what he had seen. This he firmly declined to do, but added,

"I will tell you this much. We went to the Hall, as you may remember, on our return from Italy in the spring. Old Jennings—the man you have just seen—and his wife lived there in some rooms over the stable, and kept the house aired and in tolerable order. When we arrived we found everything ready, and supper laid for us in a comfortable dining-room. It was late, and we went to the rooms prepared for us in the new wing of the house, and slept soundly. The next day Helen wished to explore the place, and we sent for Mrs. Jennings and the keys. There were a number of rooms almost bare of furniture, and the best the house contained had been collected to furnish those prepared for us. At the further end of the drawing-room was a door, concealed by a heavy velvet curtain. Helen laid her hand on the handle, but Mrs. Jennings hurried up to her. 'That's a locked door, ma'am; that don't lead nowhere, it don't. Don't 'ee try to open that, my dear lady!' 'Why not?' asked my wife, with some surprise. The old woman changed her tone at once. 'It isn't a door, ma'am, only a sham like, and I was afraid you might hurt your fingers.' 'But if it is not a door, why is there a curtain hung before it?' persisted Helen. 'Just for ornament, maybe, or to keep off the draught,' said Mrs. Jennings confusedly. 'The draught from a sham door!' laughed Helen. But the old woman hurried away without saying more. Some days passed, and we began to feel quite at home, and to plan many alterations and improvements to be carried out in the course of the summer. It was now the end of May, but the evenings were still chilly. We were sitting by a bright wood fire in the drawing-room on the evening of the 31st, when the church-clock began to strike ten. The church, as you have seen, is nearly half a mile distant; but it has a remarkably loud and sonorous bell, so that we heard it as distinctly as if it had been in the house. At that moment an icy gust of wind swept through the room, and a sound, as if of a heavy body falling, came from the farther end, near the mysterious door. Helen jumped up and caught hold of my arm. 'What was that?' she said in a frightened whisper. I thought it was something falling in the room overhead, though I heard plainly that the sound did not come from above. She was reassured by the matter-of-fact answer, but still stood, holding my arm, till in a few minutes the same icy-cold wind passed over us again, with a strange sickly smell. I own that a shudder ran through me, though I did not know why; and my wife was so terrified that she would not remain another moment in the room. The next day I was obliged to go on business to Staunton, and only returned in time for dinner. I noticed that Helen was pale and silent; and as soon as the servants had left the room she said gravely, 'Harry, that is not a false door in the drawing-room. There must be a small room there with a window like this.' The dining-room had a large bay-window at one end, raised by two or three broad steps from the rest of the room. 'So you have been making investigations, Mrs. Bluebeard?' I said, laughing. 'No; I have not been into the room. To say the truth, I think I should have been a little frightened alone; and, besides, I did not like to tell Mrs. Jennings that I had found out that she had told me a story about it. But I was walking on the terrace, and it suddenly occurred to me that the large window which corresponds to this one must be in some room we have not yet seen. It was closed with shutters; and then I thought of the false door in the drawing-room. I measured the walls by pace, and I find there must be a spare room there, lighted by the large window.' 'Shall we go and explore it?' I asked. 'Not tonight, please,' said Helen with a shiver. 'Let us stay here to-night.' And so we did. The next morning the sun shone brightly, and my wife seemed to have forgotten her fears. We made an excuse to get the keys from Mrs. Jennings; and after some difficulty, for the lock was very rusty, we succeeded in penetrating into the locked-up room. It was, as Helen had imagined, nearly square, and raised, by two or three steps, above the level of the drawing-room. It contained a heavy oak table with carved legs, which stood in the centre, a few chairs, and a cabinet of two of similar workmanship, all deeply coated with dust and cobwebs, and was panelled with oak to about two-thirds of the height of the walls. One picture, that of a dark young woman in some foreign dress, hung over the high chimneypiece; gilt dogs for burning wood stood on the wide hearth; and altogether, in spite of the forlorn state of neglect in which we found it, the room had a cheerful home-like air, which at once took Helen's fancy. To make a long story short, in spite of Mrs. Jennings' tearful remonstrances and the unwillingness of all the servants to have anything to do with the square-room, as we called it, we occupied it as a sitting-room during the whole of June, without any annoyance. Once or twice, as the clock struck ten, I was sensible of a kind of chill for which I could not account; and, glancing at Helen, I noticed that she turned pale at the same time. But we neither of us mentioned the subject, and before the end of the month I had almost forgotten that there were any suspicious circumstances connected with our favourite sitting-room. Of the circumstances of the night of the 30th of June I will not speak. You shall see and judge for yourself if I have decided rightly that Rivington Hall is not fit for human habitation; and I have no doubt that you will be in a position to form an opinion on the point after to-morrow night. My poor Helen has, as you may see, never recovered the shock she received that night; and the doctors feared so much for her reason if she remained longer in that hateful house that we were obliged to remove her as soon as she was out of danger, and as soon as possible we shall quit the neighbourhood for ever."

"But," said I, as soon as Harry had thus brought his communication to a close, "have you thoroughly sifted the matter, and satisfied yourself that no trick has been played on you?"

"Of course I have. On the night of the 31st of July I went alone, without giving a hint of my intentions to any human being, to the Hall, which had remained empty and locked up from the day we left it. I carefully examined the drawing-room, through which entrance to the square-room could be had, sounded the panels, the back of the chimney, the floor, every spot, in fact, where any one could possibly be concealed. Then I locked the door and waited."

"And then?"

"Precisely the same scene was repeated. You will, I have little doubt, witness it to-morrow night; and I will accompany you. I think you will be satisfied that I have not lightly given way to a groundless fear."

Harry spoke so gravely, and was altogether so unlike his cheery light-hearted self, that I felt some prickings of conscience in permitting him to undergo again, for the gratification of my sceptical curiosity, an ordeal that, to him, was evidently one of no little suffering. But my intense desire to witness the phenomena, of whatever nature they might be, which had so deeply impressed my friend, got the better of all my scruples, and I looked forward with impatience to the following night.

In the morning Harry told Mrs Danvers that he had accepted an invitation for us to shoot with a friend of Mr. Easton's, who lived several miles off, and that we should sleep at King's Lea. She turned whiter than ever, if possible, and exclaimed,

"O Harry! have you forgotten what night it is?"

"Come, come, little woman," he said, "I must not have you give way to uneasiness. We will ask Mary Talbot to come and stay with you. I am sure you would not wish to deprive Burley of a good day's sport."

"Certainly not," she answered, in her sweet sad voice.

I felt like a great brute; but as she was not supposed to know that I was aware of the strange events that had so deeply shaken her, I could only say a few commonplace words, hoping that I should not be allowed to cause her any inconvenience, and the matter passed over.

Our shooting that day was little more than a pretext, and after dinner we left King's Lea in Mr. Easton's dog-cart. He insisted on taking some wine in a hamper, and we were besides provided with a lamp, a packet of candles, and materials for making a fire. Harry brought with him the keys of the Hall, and on our arrival Easton sent away the dog-cart, with instructions to the servant to be at the stable-entrance, which was close to the road, at half-past ten o'clock —an order which the man received with evident unwillingness.

Passing through a large entrance-hall, and along a broad passage lighted at the end by a window through which the moon gave a faint light, we entered the drawing-room, and through it the scene of action. The room was as Harry had described it—a square chamber, well furnished with handsome carved oak, and raised by two broad steps above the level of the room through which only it could be entered. A Turkey carpet lay in the centre of the floor, showing the oak boards at the sides, and on this stood a large heavily-carved oaken table. An armchair of similar workmanship stood on each side of the large open hearth, and other chairs were scattered about. We carefully examined every portion of the room, Easton measuring the depths of the walls and I sounding the panelling on all sides, as well as the floor. Harry looked on with a faint smile on his face till I raised the carpet in the course of my investigations, and discovered a large dark stain on the boards, on the side of the table furthest from the fireplace. A similar mark ran across the floor to the top of the steps, and then spread out into another wide stain like that beside the table.

"That looks very like a stain of blood," I said, pointing it out to Danvers.

"Does it?" was all he answered, but the smile died out of his face and did not return.

When our examination was concluded we lit the fire, and piled the hearth with a number of logs of wood to make a cheerful blaze. We also trimmed the lamp, and stuck lighted candles into a variety of candlesticks which stood about on the tables. Then Easton proceeded to unpack the wine; but as he was setting it on the large oak table, Danvers called out,

"Don't do that, Easton—don't put the wine down there!"

"As you please," answered Easton; and he drew forward a small spider-legged table from a corner, and placed it near the fire. We gathered round it, and Harry drank two or three glasses of sherry in succession; but conversation flagged, and we began to feel that our experiment was not altogether an agreeable one. Harry's ill-concealed horror at the idea of the wine being placed on the large table gave me, at least, an uncomfortable sensation, while it excited my curiosity; and when Danvers and Easton seated themselves in the two large armchairs by the fire-side, I drew one to the table which was now connected in my mind with the sight we had come to see, and leaned my elbow on it. I noticed that Harry looked sharply at me as I took up my position, but he made no remark.

Some time passed in conversation more or less well sustained; then we began to look at our watches as the hour drew nearer and nearer. We replenished the fire and sat on, waiting almost in silence. If any one wants to make the most of an hour, I may suggest that he should sit doing nothing, and waiting for some unknown event which may be expected to occur at its close. I began to fancy that ten o'clock never would strike; but it did, and quite soon enough. As the first stroke of the appointed hour sounded from the church-clock, I seated myself firmly at the table, with my left arm resting on it. A glance at my companions showed me each seated in his chair, with a hand on each of its arms.

At the same instant every vestige of light from fire, lamp, and candles suddenly vanished. A cold wind swept through the room, with an indescribably nauseous smell, as of a newly-opened charnel-house.

I tried to rise, but a heavy hand was laid on my shoulder and kept me motionless. There was a sound as of two persons struggling; then a moan and a dead dull sound, such as might be made by a human body falling, and I felt the table on which I leant violently shaken. I thought one of my companions had fainted; but to save my life I could not have moved. The hand still pressed heavily on my shoulder, and with an effort I turned my head and covered my face with my arm. I felt at that moment that if I saw anything horrible I should go mad.

Things remained in this state for a time which appeared interminable—we afterwards found it must have been about ten minutes. Then the icy wind swept over us again with its sickening odour, and through my closed eyelids I felt that the room grew suddenly light.

An exclamation of horror from Easton roused me. I heard my two companions rush to the door, and followed them without opening my eyes. I forgot the steps, and fell down them. In a moment I was on my feet again, and looked back into the room. A strange bluish light pervaded it. On the table lay a human head, with ghastly staring eyes, and long hair, matted with blood, which was dripping slowly to the ground. As I gazed, horror-stricken, I saw a small white hand, like that of a woman, suddenly appear upon the table, and give a push to the ghastly head.

It fell, and rolled slowly towards me. With a shout of horror I flew down the passage, through the hall, and out into the dark autumn night. I found Danvers on the terrace supporting Easton, who had fainted when he reached the open air.

Rallying all my strength, I helped to carry him to the dog-cart which was waiting for us in the road. We were long before we could restore him to his senses, and after he recovered consciousness he made us both promise on our honour never to mention the subject to him again.

As for myself, I cannot describe the effect that horrible sight produced on me. When morning brought me some calmness and power of reflection, I attempted to apologise to my friend for having in a manner forced him to be again a spectator of the weird horrors of the oriel-room.

"He took it very quietly, and only said, "I have now gone through that scene three times, and my poor delicate Helen saw it as you did. I firmly believe that it is reenacted on the last night of every month. I suppose you will now agree with me that Rivington Hall is not a desirable habitation."

I stayed a few days longer with my poor friend, though I must confess that the place, and all about it, had become odious to me. On giving a hint to Mr. Talbot, the rector, that I should like to know what induced Danvers to leave the Hall (Harry had bound me by a promise not to speak of what I had seen), he told me that it was generally believed to be the scene of ghostly disturbances, and that old Luke Danvers had left it suddenly in consequence of something which he had seen. The former proprietor, Luke Danver's uncle, had brought a foreign bride to Rivington Hall some fifty years ago. She was very beautiful, but the marriage was not a happy one. Some time after their arrival a stranger appeared at the Hall, some friend or relation of the lady. His presence was evidently unwelcome to the husband, and high words were often heard among them; but in a few weeks all three suddenly disappeared one night. Mr. Danvers was known to be alive for several years after, but never returned to Rivington Hall; and when his nephew succeeded to the property he also left suddenly, after remaining about three months, and went abroad to the German town, whence he never returned.

Harry and his wife are now in Italy, and I hear that she is recovering her health; but they will never return to Rivington Hall, which is left to go to ruin as quickly as it may.

BIG THING ON ICE.

A Winged Steed that is Fleeter than the Tempest.

(From the Detroit Free Press.)

The speed of the ice boat is incredible, and it will when sailing across the wind go faster than the gale that propels it. This seeming paradox has been so clearly shown that I shall not take the space to explain it now.

The reason for the amazing numbers of ice boats is because anybody with a hammer and saw and a few boards can make one. Even the largest of them are not expensive except as far as the sail is concerned.

Toronto Bay is about three miles wide and seven or eight miles long, at least those were about its dimensions when I was there quite a few years ago. A long low sandy island keeps out the waves of Lake Ontario and as there is no current the bay has nothing to do when winter sets in, but freeze, and it generally stays frozen until navigation is open everywhere else.

I only had one ride on an ice yacht, but I remember the trip with tolerable clearness.

There is nothing quite so bright and fresh —especially the latter—as a student who is taking in his first experience of city life. Two of us in this callow condition had trotted down the crisp frozen street to the Esplanade, where Toronto turns out to see the skaters and the ice yachts. A gay party of four were just hoisting the big triangular sail of a yacht that lay on the ice at the wharf. The captain marked us as his prey.

"Have a ride over to the island, gentlemen?"

The delicately applied flattery which he disguised in the word "gentlemen" captured us, and my comrade answered for both and said: "We would be most happy."

We sprang down on the ice and took our places on the triangular framework.

There were no seats, unless the cross scantlings could be so called; some sat on those and some on the flooring. One of the men shoved around the sharp end of the triangle, which had fixed at the point a moveable skate attached to a lever, after the manner of the helm of a sail boat. At each other point of the triangle was a fixed skate, and from between them rose the mast. The man pushed the ice yacht out from the lee of the wharf and sprang on board. The wind merely touched the sail, yet we slid along faster than some boys who were skating could keep with us. One urchin asked if he might hang on. He was given a cordial permission, and he held the point of the triangle, and placing his feet together, skated along without any exertion. The instant we were out of the influence of the warehouses, the boat shot ahead like a thing of life. The man at the wheel winked at his companions, and suddenly veered the boat around. This was for the benefit of the boy on skates. Instead of tumbling over, however, he slid out at right angles, triumphant, kept his feet like a little man, and found time to make a derisive motion with his hand. He had been there before.

Now that the gale struck us the speed became terrific. We two held on by the timbers, but were laughed at by our companions, who, accustomed to the motion, sat unconcerned. Every now and then a patch of snow would be encountered that perceptibly lessened the speed, and when a boat struck a patch it was with difficulty that we kept our places. We skimmed among the other yachts and threaded between skaters in a way that made freedom from accident, marvelous. Most of the time one skate rarely touched the ice, merely dipping down on the crystal surface now and then to flirt a white flake of spun ice from the glistening blade. I was in a constant terror that the boat would upset, which, I gathered from the conversation of the boatmen, was a frequent occurrence. We now rapidly neared the island.

"Where do you wish to land gentlemen?" asked the wheelsman.

My friend was past speaking, so I answered: "Oh, anywhere; we're not particular."

"All right," he cried, making straight for the island until within a few rods of it, when he suddenly turned the helm about at right angles.

Natural philosophy has taught me that the ice-boat must have very hastily left her course when the helm was changed. I therefore firmly believe to this day that she did change, but personally I have no knowledge of the fact. I wasn't agoing to change my course merely because the boat did. I kept right on, and I will do my friend the justice to say that he stuck by me.

We slid the remainder of the distance to the island, rapidly assuming new postures all the while, and, allowing for increased friction, made almost as good time as the yacht would have done. The speed wasn't what we grumbled about. We rolled over a good part of the way across the island before we concluded to stop.

My friend, being a man of piety and principle, was deprived of the consolatory influence that I—who had no such scruples—proceeded to surround myself with. I gave him my opinion of our late companions in a style of rhetoric that I flatter myself did justice to the occasion. He silently brushed off his clothes and quietly took a sort of inventory of the damages, listening all the while, doubtless with some satisfaction, to my impassioned eloquence.

Our friends on the boat, who had braced themselves up when the turn came, were more than a mile away, but they again veered around, and before we could say Jack Robinson, they swooped down beside us and got out.

"I say," cried the leader with an offended look, "what did you fellows get off for? Why didn't you stay with us?"

This was adding insult to injury, and I think I expressed my sense of the fact in a manner that no one could misunderstand.

"You said you were not particular about landing, but it seems to me that if you were more particular your clothes would last longer."

I had a wild scheme at that moment of capturing the yacht and running a-muck across to the city. I whispered the idea to my friend, for the yacht was standing empty nearer to us than to the other gang, but he believed in turning the other cheek also, and wouldn't help, but proposed walking back to the city, which I objected to, so back he started alone, never answering a word to the party, who now urged him and me to go back with them.

"He'll soon get tired of that. We'll catch up to him and take him on. You'll go with us, won't you?" This was to me.

"Oh, certainly. When I'm thrown among a nice, gentlemanly lot of fellows I hope I know enough to stick to them."

"You didn't a few minutes since." Then they laughed.

"I was going to suggest," remarked another, "that he meant 'thrown from among a nice gentlemanly lot of fellows,'" and then the rest laughed again.

Brooding over my wrongs I went with them up to a hotel, which I think now must have been Hanlan's. There was an untuned piano there, and one of the fellows pounded thereon, while others sang. I was darkly plotting all the while. Meanwhile the four seemed determined to drink all there was in the hotel, and I wouldn't be sure but they succeeded. They started out boisterous and boosy and we were soon in the boat again.

My comrade had made very little progress, and the strong breeze was sending him further in its direction than he was making towards the city. In a few seconds we were beside him, but he would not even answer their invitations to come on board. Off sped the yacht again for half a mile, and then turning, swept back past him within a foot of his body, at a frightful speed. Then the half-drunk helmsman whirled it around and brought it to a stand-still before my frightened but stubborn chum, who again refused to come on board."

"Get aboard for any sake," said I incautiously. "don't you see he's drunk?"

"Who's drunk?" cried the helmsman, indignantly.

"You are," said I, "the whole gang of you."

Then they all solemnly affirmed that I was the only drunken man on board, although the wheelsman wanted to fight me, but was prevented by the others.

"Well, anyhow," said he, "I'll take a slice off the coat and the conceit of the other fellow," and to this they all agreed. I now trembled for the safety of my friend, and begged them to desist. With a whoop we slid along the ice for nearly a mile, and then came around. Like an arrow the boat sped towards the doomed man. The helmsman kept his eye fixed on him alone, and consequently could not attend to such trivial things as the other yachts around us. We narrowly missed several, only escaping by the quickness of their steersmen, but one big fellow, with two sails, came racing up the bay, and a rapid mental mathematical calculation induced me to fling myself once more on the ice. I heard the crash. Both boats were instantaneously reduced to kindling wood. The proverbial luck of the drunkard saved the four, but two on the other boat were somewhat badly injured.

The reason that the four were sentenced to pay for the damage they did was because of the straightforward testimony my friend gave against them in court.

"I thought you didn't believe in revenge," I said to him afterwards.

"Well," said he, dryly, "some people take theirs in idle words and in swearing. I don't swear till I get into court, and then the words count."

LUKE SHARP.

Baby's Christmas.

(Detroit Free Press.)

I'm a little one. I was just a year old Christmas eve. That's the kind of a Christmas stocking I am, and I don't care who knows it.

They've treated me shabby mean around the house this year, and I won't stand it without complaining. It's my solemn opinion that babies have as much right to "kick" as grown folks, and so here goes:

In the first place, I didn't get a thing in my stocking—not even a stick of candy. Was that the right way to use a boy a year old? Suppose there are other children in the family—who is any better than me? Ever since I came here I've had to scrub along on milk, and gruel, and sling, and soft crackers, while the rest of the family have got themselves outside of melons, grapes, apples, peanuts, pop corn and a hundred other good things. My brothers and sisters have had heaps of fun around the house, while I have had to go slow and put in half of my time in the land of Nod. They knew all this, and yet they gave me the cold shake on the Christmas business.

Whew! but wasn't I mad! I heard 'em gabbling away for a month before it came off. The children told what they were going to buy pa and ma, and nights after we went to bed pa and ma would tell what they were going to buy the children—all but me. With me right between 'em they had the brass to say that a dose of paragoric would be a good enough Christmas present for me. I just put my fat heels into pa's ribs, and clawed ma, and when they said I had the colic, I chuckled to think they couldn't tumble to the racket.

Every time anything was mentioned about Christmas I was left out, but when they tried to make a cipher of me they got the wrong boy baby by the ear. I can stand as much as any other yearling of my size, but when they tread on my coat-tails my fighting weight balances a barrel of sand.

Sick? You bet I made 'em sick! I saw the stockings all hung up and filled, and I patiently waited to give that obstinate family one more chance. They didn't take it. Not a stocking was hung up for me—not a stick of candy was saved out for the jewel of the family. On the contrary, mother slid into bed beside me and said:

"Some day this little rat will be big enough to enjoy Santa Claus."

"It will be years yet," replied the Governor as he turned over.

That's where they fooled themselves. I waited until their eyes were full of sticks, and then I suddenly began to kick and howl. It was enough to kill a horse to see 'em skip out of bed and dance me around and rush for remedies, but I didn't let up until I heard them declare that a doctor must be summoned. I gave them another racket about one o'clock, and another at five, and when Santa Claus came down the chimney he had lively music to march by.

That wasn't much of a Christmas at our house, and I was the cause of it. The more I thought of the way they snubbed me the madder I got, and when I'm mad things jingle clear back to the woodshed. They jingled at intervals all day Saturday, and when I had made the whole family wish they had never heard of Santa Claus, a doctor was called in, looked me over, and said:

"I can't see that anything ails him. I guess he's mad."

If I wasn't then I'm a clothes-pin! Let 'em snub me next year, when I'll be old enough to walk, and they'll see fur fly. I've got rights, and I'll have 'em, or break out with the chicken-pox.

Are We Building Too Many Railroads.

Whether we are building too many railroads is an extremely important question, which very closely concerns the future of the country, but whether too many or not, there can be no question that the activity in that direction now has a great and favourble immediate effect on the business of the country. The whole subject we hope to consider further when we come to review the construction of the year. But we may safely say that the construction of 6,139 miles since the 1st of January, and when all the information has been collected we shall find probably that something like 7,000 miles of railroad have been completed during the year, an amount that has only once been exceeded, and which is equivalent to an increase of fully 8 per cent, in the total mileage of the country, while the annual income in population is not usually 2½ per cent., and with the unprecedented immigration of this year can not have been more than 3 per cent. The inevitable result is that there is a smaller number of people to support a mile of railroad. At the beginning of 1880 there was about 566 people in the United States to one mile of railroad; at its end there was only 550. Already for a long time we have had a much larger proportion of railroad to population than any other country; and, though there may be circumstances, which in this country quite frequently occur, where comparatively few people can support a railroad, because its service is of extraordinary value to them, yet this process of reducing the number of persons per mile cannot go on forever. The construction in 1879 was about 4,500 miles. The effect of the additional construction of 2,500 miles over 1879, and of 4,000 miles over 1878, when already this industry had begun to recover, in many important industries, and on the demand for labor, has of course been great. All the adult male immigrants of 1880 could not have done the work of railroad construction in this country in the year, to say nothing of the productions of the materials used in construction.

Waste of Horse Life.

The number of horses in the United Kingdom has been estimated at rather more than 2,250,000, and their average value can scarcely be set down at less than £30. Their collective value, therefore, falls little short of £68,000,000. That the nation incurs a loss if this sum is spent quicker than it needs to be is a self-evident proposition; that it is so spent is certain, if horses on an average become useless at a time when they ought still to be in full vigor. On this point few will be disposed to challenge the verdict of Mr. W. Douglas, late veterinary surgeon in the Tenth Hussars, who tells us that a horse should live from 35 to 40 years, and live actively and usefully during three-fourths of this period. "All authorities," he says, "now admit that animals should live five times as long as it takes them to reach maturity. A dog, which is at its full growth when between 2 and 3 years old, is very aged at 12 years. Horses do not, unless their growth is forced, reach their prime until they are 7 or 8 years, which, by the law, leaves them to live some 30 years longer. When these facts are kept in mind, together with these other facts that three-fourths of our horses die or destroyed under 12 years old, that horses are termed aged at 6," [he should have said 8,] "old at 10, very old when double that number of years, and that few of them but are laid up from work a dozen times a year, ... the viciousness of a system which entails such misery and destruction of life cannot be to strongly commented upon." If we take the age of three years as that at which horses begin to work, and 12 as that which they are worn out, it follows that the period of their efficiency is shorter by at least 14 years that it should be. In other words the nation has to buy three horses when it ought to buy only one, and thus upward of £200,000,000 are spent every 21 years in the purchase of horses, when £68,000,000 ought to suffice. The loss, therefore, to the nation at less than £135,000,000 in 21 years.

A Locomotive to Run Eighty Miles an Hour.

The Baldwin Locomotive Works have just entered into a contract with Col. G. A. L. Roberts, of Titusville, for the construction of a passenger engine which will be able to run eighty miles an hour, and maintain this rate of speed for 100 miles without stopping. The locomotive is to weigh 38 tons, and will comply with standard guage. The driving wheels will be six feet in diameter. The forward trucks and those on the tender will be made of paper, which, it is said, will endure more wear than iron or steel. The wheels will all be of the pattern known as the broadtread, which will enable the engine to run on roads of either 4 feet 8½ inches or 4 feet 10 inches gauge. The most important feature of the locomotive will be the introduction of the Roberts patent cylinder and piston, which has proved capable of saving at least 20 per cent in steam pressure. The exhaust ports are in a continuous circle around the cylinder, in addition to the usual ports at the ends, and the steam escapes without the waste of force necessary to expel it, as in the cylinders of the old style. The tender will be so constructed as to carry a foot of water under the coal, as well as the usual amount on the sides. There will be a water chamber on the locomotive so arranged that compressed air from the air pump can be admitted in the top of the chamber upon the water, by which means a stream may be forced upon any hot bearing connected with the engine or tender. This is expected to overcome the trouble of hot boxes. The nozzles through which the steam is to pass and create a draught will be 8 inches in diameter—about three times the usual size—and the boiler will be the largest that can be put upon the standard gauge tracks. It will be the strongest locomotive ever built, and perfect in every detail. Col. Roberts, the inventor, built a similar locomotive a few years ago, which drew the fast mail train over a portion of the Lake Shore Railway, but it was not a success, owing to its poor construction. The improvements it suggested will be taken advantage of in building the new engine. It is stated that Col. Roberts, who has visited Europe several times, and studied the railway system of that country, is building his new engine for use upon the European continent.

The Discoverer of Penny Postage.

"He said, and the tears came into his eyes as he spoke, that he resolved in those early days to be like the characters in her stories, and to do something for the world." . . . . "I early saw," said Rowland, "the terrible inconvience of being poor. My mother used to talk to me more than all the others together of all difficulties, and they were very grievous. She used to burst into tears as she talked about them. One day she told me that she had not a shilling in the house, and she was afraid lest the postman might bring a letter which she had no money to pay the postage." . . . . "If, when residing at Birmingham, we received a letter from London, the lowest charge was 9d., while the slighest enclosure to 2s. 3d., though the whole missive might not weigh a quarter of an ounce. In the year 1823, taking a holiday excursion through the lake district to Scotland, and wishing to keep my family informed as to my movements and my health, (then in a depressed state,) I carried with me a number of newspapers, and in franking these, according to the useless form then required, while I left the postmark with its date to show the place, I indicated my state of health by selecting names according to previous arrangement, the more Liberal members being taken to indicate that I was better, while Tories where to show that I was falling back; "Sir Francis Burdett; was to imply vigorous health, while probably "Lord Eldon" would almost have brought one of my brothers after me in anxiety and alarm.

Turkeys in Ancient Greece.

(From the London World.)

The books will tell you that the Turkey was unknown to ancient naturalists, and even to the Old World before the discovery of America. And that it was first imported into France in the reign of Francis I., and into England in that of Henry VIII. Don't you believe it. I would back the author of sweet Monte Christo and the supberb D'Artagnan to be in possession of more wonderful knowledge than all the books in the world. What does? He says, first of all—what is true of other delightful creatures besides turkeys—that the female is always smaller and more delicate than the male. So she is, God bless her! And he adds that turkeys were known of the Greeks, who called them Meleagrides, because Meleager, King of Macedonia, introdued them into Greece in the year of the world 3559. But there are a great many learned ones (myself among the number) who look on this statement with suspicion. Nevertheless Monte Christo-D'Artagnan declares that Pliny (1. 37, c. ii.) unmistakably describes the turkey. Moreover, he states that one of the lost tragedies of Sophocles there is a chorus of Turkeys who wept over the death of Meleager.

ONE evening at a Paris cafe a group of idlers were discussing politics and people who change their opinions. "Well," said one, "I've never cried, 'Long live anybody.'" "Quite so," remarked one; "but then you're a doctor."

"I'm told that absence conquers love," quoted a husband, in writing home to his wife, from whom he had been some time away: "I hope, dear, it won't be so in your case." "Oh, no," she replied in her next letter, "the longer you shall stay away the better I shall like you."

German Despotism.

(From the Pall Mall Gazette.)

Those who now rage so furiously in print about Ireland and tell us that Bismarckian methods are the only way of dealing with the state of things we all deplore, that martial law will soon put down opposition, and so forth, directly turn their heads aside from what is going on in Germany. There the laws against the Socialists are strained to the utmost limits of illegality. In South Germany action is being taken in the most ruthless manner, while family after family is ejected from Hamburg without any form of trial, and their means of subsistence cut off by the police. And this, of course, must succeed. The Socialists and their friends must at once forget their grievances and fall down and worship the power which tyrannizes over them. But, then, the misfortune is that this is not so. The party of Social Democrats is making head rapidly throughout Germany at this hour. A telegram in the newspapers tells us that Herr Koempfer has been elected for the Reichstag by an overwhelming majority. Herr Koempfer is a Progressist, a member of the party which is opposed to the anti-Socialist laws, and his election has been carried by a combination between the Progressists and the Social Democrats in a direction supposed to be strongly in favor of the Government. Even the middle class is joining in the protest. It seems, then, that repression pure and simple, though it may keep disaffection out of sight for a time, but strengthens the organization below to act at a fitting opportunity.

The Home of Mark Twain.

THE PLEASANT IMPRESSIONS IT MADE UPON THE IOWA HUMORIST.

In a recent letter from Hartford, Conn., to the Burlington (Iowa) Hawk-Eye, Mr. R. J. Burdette writes:

"The pleasantest view I had of the city was from the cozy fireside of that wonderful home of Mr. S. L. Clemens, who was my host during my stay in Hartford. I am not a man addicted to cold weather. I am not sufficiently 'British' to wander through December and January in a short checked coat and no ulster. I am given to much wrapping up when I do go out in the snow, and to very little going out in the snow at all. I begin to shiver with the first frost, and I keep it up until the following April. And so when I can sit down before a bright wood fire, and burn up cigars while somebody entertains me, I love the icy Winter.

"I think I have never been in a home more beautifully home-like than this palace of the king of humorists. The surroundings of the house are beautiful, and its quaint architecture, broad East Indian porticos, the Greek patterns in mosaic in the dark-red brick walls attract and charm the attention and good taste of the passer by, for the home, inside and out, is the perfection of exquisite taste and harmony. But with all its architectural beauty and originality, the elegance of its interior finish and decorations, the greatest charm about the house is the atmosphere of 'homelikeness' that pervades it. Charmingly as he can entertain thousands of people at a time from the platform, Mr. Clemens is even a more perfect entertainer in his home. The brightest and best sides of his nature shine out at his fireside. The humor and drollery that sparkle in his conversation is as utterly unaffected and natural as sunlight. Indeed, I don't believe he knows or thinks that most of his talk before the sparkling fire, up in the pleasant retirement of his billiard-room study, is marketable merchandise worth so much a page to the publishers, but it is. And it is not all drollery and humor. He is so earnest that his earnestness charms you fully as much as his brighter flashes, and once in a while there is in his voice an inflection of wonderful pathos, so touched with melancholy that you look into his kind, earnest eyes to see what thought has touched his voice. And he has a heart as big as his body; I believe there does not live a man more thoroughly unselfish and self-forgetful. Two little girls and a boy baby, bright-eyed, good-tempered, and with a full head of hair as brown as his father's, assist Mrs. Clemens to fill the heart of the reigning humorist, and they do it most completely. Personally, Mr. Clemens is, perhaps a little above the medium height, of good symmetrical physique, brown hair, scarcely touched with gray, the curls over a high, white forehead; friendship in his eyes, heartily cordiality in the grasp of a well-shaped white hand, strong enough and heavy enough to be a manly hand; his age is 40 something, and he looks 35; in the evening 'after the lamps are lighted' his face has a wonderfully boyish look, and he loves a good cigar even better than Grant does.

A Big Bruin.

A THRILLING ADVENTURE WITH A GRIZZLY BEAR.

(Pittsburgh Dispatch.)

The train was delayed several hours. There were but a half a dozen passengers all told, and they all all got out on the station platform. In looking down the valley from the station (Truckee is away up in the mountains on the main line of the Central Pacific railroad) we could see some kind of an animal coming down out of the timber and making its way over the top of the snow toward the river. It looked like a steer or a mule, and none of the passengers thought it was anything else. The snow was four feet deep and frozen so hard that one could walk over the top without breaking through. Capt. Vincent Yore of St. Louis, a man well-known in steamboat circles both in St. Louis and Pittsburgh, and in fact all along the river, was one of the passengers.

The station agent, who was at once the express agent, ticket agent, and baggage-man combined, went into his little office and brought out a beautiful breach-loading rifle. Handing it to Yore, he said, sarcastically, "Here's a gun." Capt. Yore took the gun and started toward the end of the platform. The passengers, of course, never dreamed he was in earnest.

The station agent called him back when he had gone down one of the steps, and bringing out a rat-terrier dog of the light woolly Scotch pattern, said:

"Here, you'll want a dog when you go bear-hunting."

Capt. Yore turned back, picked up the dog, and putting it under the flap of his coat, started down toward the bear. The grizzly had by this time got out far enough to be plainly seen, and he made his way across the narrow valley. He looked to be the size of a horse, and did not seem to care whether there was anybody within a short distance of him or not. The Rocky mountain grizzly is the largest, and, when aroused, the most ferocious of all animals in western North America. Travellers on the Union and Central Pacific railroad are familiar with the specimen that is caged on the platform at Lathrop, the California end of the line. It has a foot like the "fifteenth amendment," and is as large at a Kerry cow.

The bear kept quietly in his course, and Capt. Yore went straight toward him. The station agent realised the danger Yore was in, and his anxiety was quickly communicated to the passengers. They got closer and closer until they were only about the length of a train apart. Yore stopped, took out the little dog and set him down. The terrier made for the bear at once, and, going behind him, bit him on the heel. The bear turned around to see what had scratched him on the foot, and the minute he turned, Yore, who had been standing motionless, watching the bear as it came face toward him, brought the rifle up to his nose and flashed it at him. The bear immediately slapped himself on the shoulder with his paw and went toward the captain. The passengers, who were watching him, were now wild with excitement. "He has hit him," said the old Californians on the train, "and now he must look out for him. The bear slapped himself on the shoulder and straightened up as if to go quickly for Yore. Then the beast broke through the snow and almost disappeared from our sight. He tumbled and rolled and waltzed around. The old Californians were almost breathless fright. "The bear is tramping out a place to fight; run, run, run!" they screamed to Yore; but he stood motionless as a statue. The little dog flew around the top of the pit the bear had made and barked.

Presently the bear got ... his assailant's position ... on Yore, he crawled out of the snow. He had just ... four legs when the dog ... and Yore let him have it ... flesh, the moment he ... the grizzly slapped ... indicating he had been hit ... a trot toward Yore, who ... left in his rifle. Twice ... bear, and at each time ... unloaded into him, bringing ... his face as quickly as if ... shuttle. After he had ... the grizzly's pace was ... much, as you could ... Yore turned to move back ... as he did so he broke through ... went down to his armpits ... expecting every moment to ... ed monster crush poor Yore ... eyes in perfect terror.

The bear had got within ... Yore, and but a few ... it. The dog bit him ... had the rifle firmly sighted ... him, two loads in quick ... stretched him as he was ... of the rifle. The whole ... less time than it takes to ... sengers rushed down with ... brought the immense bear ... and clubbed together and ... for Capt. Yore, and the ... a $20 gold piece for the little ... brought back with him to ... said he, "that dog saved my ...

MATTERS DRAMATIC.

Terence on the Modern ...

The most attractive of all ... Terence, the "Andria," ... has again been performed ... minster scholars, to the ... suitable classical scenery and ... Once more appears the old ... whose one object in life was ... suitably married to a ... damsel of whom the willful ... be enamored. Once again, ... few nights, has been seen ... minster stage that wayward ... doing all in his power to ... friend to elope with the ... so that he himself may not be ... having to marry her. We ... these annual representations of ... piece of ancient humor do good ... performers and to the audience ... follow the Latin-like nature ... Italy, or at least try to do so ... however, is not so antiquated a ... his remarks cannot be appreciated ... modern audience, and even applied ... ing circumstances. Thus it does ... quire great twisting ... few lines, which occur in the ... case of a clerical "martyr" ... ately imprisoned in England ... of court. "Now that hope is ... says Charimus, the rejected ... heart is bowed down with care" ... his friend replies with the ... counsel, "Prythee, Charimus ... cannot have what you wish, ... what you can." Better advice ... be tendered to any individual ... modern, who may happen to ... from a grief which is entirely ...

The Actress as a Rifle Markswoman.

The charming actress, Mrs. Scott-Siddons, ... is devoted to a rather unusual ... ladies, being a most enthusiastic ... shooter. With the dueling pistol ... and with catridge rifle her performance ... a matter of wonder. The lady has ... fine assortment of weapons, and ... neglects an opportunity to practice ... the fortune of a St. Louis Post ... reporter yesterday afternoon to ... little rifle soiree in the shooting gallery ... the Laclede hotel. The fair ... agreeable husband, Harry S... ... energetic manager, and a couple ... composed the audience, the ... closed to the regular run of custom ... party being introduced, and having ... of the weather and mud and the ... the Performance at Pope's, Mrs. ... stated that she was ready to ... and would shame Ira Paine. The ... attired in a rich walking suit, and ... jauntiest of little fur caps, which ... terfere with her sight in the least ... of rifles were offered for her ... With the air of an expert, she ... amined each of them until suited ... said: "Diana is ready for the ... an improvement this rifle must ... bow and arrow of her time." ... smiled, and then Mrs. Siddons ... self, squinted alone the glittering ... and was greeted with applause ... sonorous ring of the bell indicated ... eye. There was nothing unusual ... scene, except it looked very ... handsome and richly dressed ... away at the targets seventy-five ... and making one bull's-eye after ... a precision that awakened the ... the keeper of the gallery, and ... most profuse commendation from ... Sargent, who is himself a crack ... Mrs. Siddons, after some very ... ing, making seventeen bull's-eyes ... possible twenty, and the misses ... close, was introduced for the ... globe-sight rifle. She soon got the ... it, and after fifteen minutes' practice ... ten shots at the No. 5 target, making ... bull's-eyes and two elevens. Mrs. ... explained that she had always been ... pistol shooting, but only recently ... to rifles, with which she is delighted.

THE divine Sara was never intended ... crematory. She will Bernhardt.

A SOMEWHAT pathetic fact comes ... the course of a lawsuit between Mrs. ... Seguin, the singer, and the manager ... Emma Abbott opera company. ... Seguin, her husband, was in bad health ... his once brilliant abilities as a ... actor were waning fast. Mrs. Seguin ... informed that his salary was to be ... $50 a week. Knowing that he was ... on the subject of his deterioration ... former, she induced the manager ... the reduction in her own pay and ... unaltered. This was done. The ... arose when, after his death, she claimed ... salary again.

Of Course She Failed.

"So she's all broken up, ..." ... Detriot landlady when she heard of the ... ure of another woman in the same ... in Toledo. "Well, I knew it was ... question of time. I was in her house ... week, and I saw plainly that she ... economy about her. I tell you a ... must think and plan."

"Yes."

"Not only in great things but ... There's philosophy in running a ... house."

"How?"

"Well, I can't stop to tell you ... one instance. I have buckwheat ... every morning for breakfast for ... boarders. They use butter on them ... I keep the butter on ice until it is ... as a rock. The cakes are all placed ... table, not smoking hot, but mildly ... just warm enough to soften the outside ... lump of butter. In this way I ... ing of two pounds of butter per week ... the usual way of rushing on hot ... It's only one dodge out of a hundred ... the landlady who doesn't play more ... of them must ultimately come to grief."

LANDLADY—"Lor' a mussy, Mr. ... what's the matter, sir?" Maddox ... (with lively demonstrations of delight) ... "Glorious news! I'm going to be ... last! Hooray!" But he only meant ... picture was going to be hung at the Academy.

LITTLE six-years-old was taking a ... lesson in addition, and when the ... asked him: "If I were to give ... more, how many cats would you ... quickly replied, "Why, pretty ... wouldn't have any, for mamma would ... their necks with the broom. She don't ... cats."

Lord Clarina must be that Irish peer ... whom Brummagem exhausted its ... in creating a coat of mail; for he has ... temerity to announce that he is ... not to be coerced by the Land League ... will visit with the severest penalties ... whose rents is not paid on time.

A SERIOUS split has taken place ... Lord Bute ("Lothair") and the trustees ... his property. There have been differences ... for some time, and his recent action ... them in the Court of Sessions, the ... which was that he failed to obtain ... of his mother's jewels, &c., in the ... brought matters to a crisis. Col. ... who is one of the resigning trustees, ... presumptive to the Marquisate and ... large portion of the estates that ... settlement.

A clergyman meeting an inebriate ... ber, exclaimed, "Drunk again, Wilkins ... to which Wilkins, in a semi-confidential ... tone, responded, "Sho am I, parson!"

... FRIDAY MORNING ... PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY. ... Medical. ... Legal. ... Dentistry. ... Hotels. ... MANSION HOUSE, MARKDALE. ... REVERE HOTEL, MARKDALE. ... ROYAL HOTEL, MEAFORD, Ont. ... COMMERCIAL HOTEL, PRICEVILLE. ... GEORGE WILSON, BUTCHER ...

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 20. | MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, JAN. 28, 1881. | WHOLE NO 20

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED

EVERY FRIDAY MORNING

in time to meet the early mails. Contains the latest Foreign and Provincial Local Intelligence, County Business, Local Matters and an Instructive ...y.

...in advance, $1 50 in three months, ...paid till end of the year. No paper discontinued until all arrearages are paid, except at the option of the publisher. Parties refusing papers without paying will be held responsible for the subscription until they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

...mn, one year	$50 00
do do	27 50
do do	15 00
do do	8 00
do do	4 00
...and under, first insertion..	50
...subsequent insertion	15
...to ten lines, first insertion..	75
...subsequent insertion	25
...lines, first insertion per line	8
...subsequent insertion	2

...number of lines to be reckoned by the space occupied measured by a scale of ...brevier. Advertisements without directions will be published till forbid and charged accordingly. All transitory advertisements must be in the office of publication by 11 o'clock on the Thursday preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter,
Physicians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.
OFFICE.—Medical Hall; residence at ...e House.
Markdale, Sept 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY,
PHYSICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR. EUGENIA P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes,
Barrister at Law, - Owen Sound.
OFFICE.—Millers's building, over Robinson's store, Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost,
BARRISTERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT-LAW, Solicitors in Chancery, Conveyancers, &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at ...erton, Office open every Thursday, as before.
...Frost. J. W. Frost, LL. B.
County Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson,
BARRISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, Master in Chancery, Owen Sound.
...17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon,
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN Chancery, Notary Public, &c. Money loaned at lowest rates on personal or real estate. Lands bought and sold. Buyer and seller introduced free of commission.
DUNDALK.
September 21st, 1880. 1

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown.
ISSUER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancing in all its branches promptly attended to and carefully executed.
B.—Money to Lend on Real Estate security.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

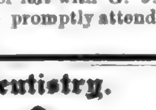
W. L. Smith,
GENERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN Nursery Stock, Williamsford Station.
...17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown,
ISSUER of Marriage Licenses, Fire and Life Insurance Agent. Commissioner in B. R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed Auctioneer for the County of Grey. Farmers, ...ants, and Land Sales, Punctually attended to and charges made very moderate.
...ville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr.,
LAND, LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT Owen Sound. Money to Loan at low rates of interest. Principal payable at the end of a term of years, and interest half yearly, or principal and interest repayable by instalments.
A number of desirable Improved Farms ... 1-y

J. G. Sing,
DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, ...ord and Markdale. Having purchased ...ncial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's stock of original Field Notes, Plans, ...ts, Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys within the last fifty-five years, I am prepared to make Surveys in strict accordance therewith. Profiles and Estimates ...rading Hills, Plans and Specifications ...uilding Bridges, furnished on application. Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. ...s by letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, ...dale, will be promptly attended to.
...t. 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White,
Assistant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound,
WILL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in ...month, when he will be prepared to perform all operations required upon the mouth ...e most satisfactory manner, and upon ...onable terms. 1-y

Hotels.

MANSION HOUSE
MARKDALE.
Having leased the above hotel and thoroughly refurnished and refitted it, the travelling public will find every accommodation. Only the best of liquors and cigars kept. ...stabling. Careful hostler.
JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor.
...pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

REVERE HOTEL,
MARKDALE.
...SPROULE, - Proprietor.
THIS popular Hotel has had a large addition added to it, thoroughly refitted, ...now second to none in the county. ...l stabling and attentive ostler. First-class accommodation for commercial travellers. Terms $1.00 per day. 17-ly

ROYAL HOTEL,
MEAFORD, Ont.
...J. McGIRR, - PROPRIETORS.
Every accommodation for the travelling public. The bar is well stocked with the best Wines and Liquors and the best brands of Cigars.
...'bus to and from all trains.
...pt 17, 1880. 1-y

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.
PRICEVILLE, Ont.
Large and commodious Sample Rooms: ...Bed Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder supplied with the best the market affords. Good Stabling and attentive Hostler's.
THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor.
October 31st, 1880. 8

GEORGE WILSON,

BUTCHER
...St., Markdale, next door to Expositor ...
Meat delivered at any house in town.
...pt. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S Indian Blood Syrup.
DYSPEPSIA — LIVER DISEASE
LABORATORY,
77 W. 3d St., New York City
LATE OF JERSEY CITY.

[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!
70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870
9,000,000 Bottles.
This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Pytyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Pytyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.
Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.
Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefitted me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.
MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.
Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.
Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a physician. After using your Indian Blood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.
MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.
Burford, Brant Co., Ont.
DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.
ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.
Mt. Forest,
Wellington Co., Ont., Can.
DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.
Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.
DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.
MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.
Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.
DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.
W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.
Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.
DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.
Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.
DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.
Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.
DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.
DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.
Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.
DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. ROBISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

WM. FOX,
Plain & Ornamental Plasterer
Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guaranteed. - Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.
Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,
LOCK BOX 73,
Uxbridge, Ont.

8

T. E. DAVIS,
BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). Plastering and Country Jobs promptly attended to. Stonecutting a Specialty. Estimates on all work, free. Satisfaction guaranteed. _ Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Streets, MARKDALE.
December 31, 1880. 16-y

J. M. Webster,
LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.
☞ LOAN AND LAND AGENT,
Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.
EUGENIA P. O.
Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Sheep and Cattle.

FARMERS having good fat Sheep or Cattle to sell, will find it to their advantage to leave there names and address at McCutcheon's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, as the undersigned are still on the war path, and will positively pay the highest prices.
C. W. & A. SPEERS.
Sept. 17th, 1880. 1-y

Instructions in the use of Belting.

Oak tanned leather belts are the best for general use.

Cotton belts are best for dry places.

Rubber belts are best for damp places.

Belts should not be run too tight.

Belts too tight will tear out lace holes.

It is economy to put on a wider belt rather than make a narrow one too tight.

Vertical belts should be drawn moderately tight.

Adhesion of leather on turned iron pulleys being 1.00, adhesion of leather on turned wood pulleys is 1.25; on cotton covered pulleys 1.50; on leather covered pulleys 2.00; on rubber covered pulleys 2.50.

Narrow pulleys are usually covered by one or two widths of covering.

Broad pulleys are covered by winding narrow covering spirally around surface of same, riveting or cementing same as it is being wound around.

High speed belting should always have covered pulleys.

Belting will last longer on covered pulleys.

Leather belting with ordinary care and under ordinary circumstances will last three to five years, according to margin of power in belt.

Surplus power in a belt is never lost.

The greater the care, the greater the economy in belts.

Leather belting rots when oiled too much.

Belting rots with heat generated by slipping.

Lathes and other tools clatter mostly from elasticity of belting, caused principally by carelessly allowing them to become saturated with oil.

Heavy single, or light double, leather belting is preferable for machine tools.

Leather belts should not have a greater tension than 350 pounds per square inch in section.

Belts for ordinary work should not be run over 1,200 feet per minute.

Fan belts often run from 4,000 to 5,000 feet per minute.

Effective radius of a pulley equals radius of pulley plus half thickness of belt.

In a good working belt all air is excluded between the belt and surface of pulley; in such cases, 14 to 15 pounds atmospheric pressure is secured on the contact surface of belt on pulley.

Belts are run on pulleys with flesh side out; first because the grain side being smooth and straight makes a more perfect surface for adhesion and the exclusion of air between belt and pulley, thus transmitting 30 to 35 per cent. more power than flesh side of belt could. Second, because the flesh side being softer than the grain side, will not crack as would grain side in passing around a pulley, particularly a pulley of small diameter.

A belt one inch wide making 1,100 feet per minute is equal to one horse-power with average arc contact on pulley.

Strain on driving side of belt, independent of tension necessary to produce friction equals 33,000 h p times divided by v equals pounds. In which h p equals horse power transmitted, v equals velocity of belt in feet per minute.

Example 1: 48-inch pulley, 128 revolutions per minute has a velocity, at periphery, of say 1,600 feet per minute. Let h p equal 20, then 33,000 times 20 divided by 1,000 equals 412 pounds strain on belt due to power transmitted.

Width of belt is equal to 5,333 times h p divided by c v equals in w inches, in which w equals width of belt in inches; h p equals horse power transmitted, c equals conduct of belt on small pulley in linear feet, v equals velocity of belt in feet per minute.

Example 2: Want to transmit 20 horse power. Small pulley is 4 feet diameter, of which belt has 5 feet 3 inches arc contact, velocity is 1,600 feet per minute, or 128 revolutions; then 5,333 times 20 divided by 5.25 times 1,600 equals 12.5 inches. Supposing this 12½ or more proper 13 inch belt was 5-16 inch thick, it would contain about four square inches in section; then, as in first example, 412 divided by 4 equals 103 pounds per square inch in section would be due to power only being transmitted.

These are very simple and effective rules giving not less than 25 per cent. margin in power, which all belts need.

Profanity.

Is there any excuse whatever for profanity? To be sure there are times when it really seems as though one must fly all to pieces unless he can utter certain words which are forbidden by the second commandment, but can't we let off the explosive element by taking the name of Julius Cæsar, or pronouncing the words "mustard and vinegar!" with great emphasis. If they were only forbidden words they would answer the purpose very well, for the great necessity is to say what we ought not to say, and in that way only can we find immediate relief. We heard the other day of a man who said something intensely wrong, apparently, but who defended the utterance as quite right. He had an acquaintance who could never engage in any business without getting his partners into such a snarl that they were glad even to give the business up in order to get rid of him. He was to the last degree disagreeable. One day while in pious company and talking of this acquaintance, he said, slowly and deliberately, "Do you know, I wish that man was in—well, you know where I mean." "How awful, how monstrous, how downright wicked!" "No, not at all, he retorted. "If you only think of it a moment you will agree with me. That man never yet engaged in any enterprise which didn't bust up sooner or later, and I verily believe that if he should go to the bad place the institution wouldn't last six months. I am not profane; I am only speaking in the interest of humanity."

WOMANGOSSIP.

Fashion Notes.

Muffs are an essential part of dressy toilets.

Jersey suits are worn by both boys and girls.

Seal-coloured plush wraps are very fashionable.

Shot glace silks are fashionable for demi-toilets.

Satin is not a suitable fabric for young girls' dresses.

Scarlet jackets embroidered with gold take the lead.

Long gloves are de rigueur with the demi-long sleeves.

Fur caps of Jersey webbing to match suits are worn by little boys.

Small boys wear knee breeches and jackets of ribbed Jersey webbing.

Owls' heads in cut jet, with yellow eyes, make fanciful brooches.

No dressy toilet is complete without a lace jabot or cascade down the front.

Monastic or nun-like costumes are all the rage with Parisian young ladies.

Lace and crepe lisse flutings for the neck appear to be more popular than ever.

Every very handsome costume has its muff and pelerine or collar to match.

Dry goods are selling at marvellously reduced prices to make way for spring goods.

Plain dark stockings of wool or silk, ribbed, are the most fashionable at the moment.

Children wear large furry felt with very broad round brims turned up on one side.

Ladies are beginning to wear turned-down collars again, either of cambric or of lace.

Sleeves do not reach the wrist of fashionable dresses, even for those worn in the morning.

Silver serpents of the finest workmanship, with jewelled eyes, are much worn by English women.

Initial letters in hemstitching, in block or old sampler patterns, are the latest fancy in handkerchiefs.

Quiet-coloured dark cloth jackets for dressy wear have collars and cuffs of velvet embroidered with gold.

Clicking fringes of jet, with each strand of jet finished with a spike or ball, are among the handsomest trimmings worn.

Little girls wear large turned-down collars of embroidered cambric, edged with lace, and cuffs to match turned over the sleeves.

Black satin dresses are made very striking with embroideries of fine cut jet in the form of ivy leaves, fringed with jet on the lower edge.

The skirts of short dresses are fuller as a rule than they were last winter, but the front and side breadths have the same clinging effect.

Ladies who have dresses of gros-grain faille silks can make them fashionable by trimming them with brocades of satin or velvet or with plush.

Cats' heads in diamonds, with topaz eyes, a little pink coral tongue, and a blue enamelled collar around the neck, are the most fancy in jewelry.

For little girls' evening dresses the favourite material is pale blue, pale rose, or cream white nun's veiling, trimmed with satin folds and pipings of the same colour.

Corsages a la vierge—that is, round waists confined by a sash tied on one side back of the hip, not in front—are worn by young girls and young married women for evening toilets.

All Parisian dresses, whether for house or street, evening or day, country or town wear, are made to have a tapering effect, narrow at the bottom and somewhat bouffant on the hips.

After black, which bids fair never to go out of fashion, the favourite colours for street costumes are dark greens, garnets, violet, lapis blue, seal brown, copper red, or amber red, and all dark shades of red.

Muffs take all sorts of forms, as, for instance, envelopes, bonbon boxes, reticules, and work bags in all sorts of fanciful shapes, and then they are trimmed and ornamented with ruffles, shirrings, lace, fringes, balls, tassels, and jewelry ornaments.

For inexpensive but exceedingly effective evening dresses the dry goods houses display nun's veiling in all the loveliest evening shades of rose, blue, violet, heliotrope, water-green, white and cream colour, to be combined with brocaded grenadines and gauzes to match.

Crepe de chine in pale tints of rose, blue, violet, and heliotrope, white and cream-white forms the basis of the handsomest evening toilets, the revers, bands, pipings, and frequently the tablier and side draperies being of brocaded silk grenadine and gauze matching the crepe in colour and shade.

IT is easier to conquer the world twice over than to make a woman confess that another woman, her rival, is beautiful.

IT is more comfortable to keep house on the point of a cambric needle than to live in a fashionable set and not be in the fashion.

A CYNIC is a man who never hesitates to tell a falsehood if a falsehood will help him to make a good point. In illustration of this fact are the following lines, which were written in revenge by a man whose path of love did not run smooth:

Men have many faults;
Poor women have but two—
There's nothing good they say,
And nothing right they do.

How Women Vote in Wyoming.

In Wyoming elections, as is well known, the women are a power which can not be ignored. When the occasion seems to require it, the better sort of ladies go to the polls as well as the ignorant and vicious. From my own observation I should say that the woman voter, while less familiar with character and party principles, is most conscientious, independent and instinctively right than the male voter. They scratch their ticket a good deal. At the polls there is nothing objectionable to the lady voter. The law requires a cleared space of fifteen feet square in front of the ballot-box. The utmost quiet prevails, and when a lady walks up to deposit her ballot she meets nothing but deference and politeness from officials and inspectors. Usually they ride up to the polling-places in carriages provided by the party managers. The lady with her vote already prepared, alights from the carriage. The crowd, if any, quietly falls back to open the passage-way while she walks to the window or opening behind which sit the clerk and election judges, gives her name, drops her vote in the box and returns. Her age is not inquired into.

Healthy Women.

(Boston Traveller.)

A writer, in urging the necessity for more attention to physical culture, notes as a favorable sign the fact that the pale and interesting type of the female beauty is fast losing its popularity, and that men of position and influence are declaring for the healthy standard of womanly beauty, such as was ever recognized by Greece and Rome. This was certainly an important and happy change in public taste, and already the effects of it are to be detected in an improved condition of feminine health, for it will hardly be denied that on an average the women of to-day are physically superior to what they were a few years ago, when tight lacing and similar destroying customs prevailed.

Young people take more exercise than they formerly did. They ride and walk more, and are more in open air. They have not the insane dread of the sun's rays which they once had; but there is much room for improvement yet. Many homes are still presided over by invalid wives and mothers, who furnish a constant spectacle of sadness and misery to their families and friends, and are a subject of unlimited expense to their husbands. In such homes the greatest blessing that could be wished for would be the health of the mistress restored; but too often it is the one blessing which never comes.

American homes more than any other, perhaps, in the world, are saddest by sickly women. If this shall be so no longer it will be a great blessing to the nation. And the remedy is simple. American men are as strong and healthy as men of other nations; there is no good reason why American women should not be. All that is needed is proper attention to dress and exercise. Let women dress, as men do, so that their bodies shall not be squeezed and pressed together, but have free room for motion, and let them go out into the air and sunshine, as men do, and exercise their bodies, and the race of American women will not become extinct, as it is threatened to do. On the contrary, it will be improved, built up and beautified, and the time will shortly come when the healthy man will not have to hunt the country over for a healthy wife. We are on the right track now; and that is needed is to go ahead—and the result will soon be manifest. Women will die to be in fashion; therefore let the fashion of female beauty be vigor and strength, and all the ladies in the land will be swinging dumb-bells, practising archery, riding on horseback, and walking for a wager, but they will be in style.

A Benevolent Man.

WHOSE OFFERS WERE NOT APPRECIATED BY THE SOLICITORS FOR A LADIES' BENEVOLENT SOCIETY.

(Detroit Post.)

At a meeting of the Ladies' Benevolent Society, held the other day, it was resolved that a committee of four ladies be appointed to canvass for denominations, and in the course of their peregrinations this committee yesterday dropped into Mr. Wixham's office. He received them as a gentleman should, and after the usual formalities one of them began:

"Mr. Wixham, we are asking aid for benevolent purposes."

"Ah! yes. Benevolence is a bump which should be cultivated. Are you looking after poor folks?"

"We are."

"Very proper—very proper. You all have children of your own?"

"Oh, yes."

"All of them are well fed, well clothed, and well cared for, are they?"

"Yes, sir."

"That's very proper. I presume their stockings are properly darned, buttons in their places, and they say their prayers when they go to bed? Am I correct?"

The women looked at each other in a sly way, and then at him, and one of them said:

"We shall be happy for any contribution."

"Yes'm, yes'm. You don't want this contribution for your own families, eh?"

"No, sir!" answered four voices in chorus.

"Well, I am somewhat inclined to benevolence. Hardly a day passes that I don't do something for charity. Here's an old account of $26 against Mr. ——, I know he's hard up and having a close time to get along, and yesterday I cancelled the debt.'

One of the canvassers turned red, white, and blue and looked out of the window. That was her husband, but Wixham didn't know it.

"And yesterday I found a poor, forlorn-looking little boy out here crying with hunger and cold. He said his name was Tommy ——, and he lived at No. 36 —— street. He hadn't been washed or combed for a week, and I felt sad for him. I was going to take him home and feed him, but he slipped away."

Another woman suddenly looked out of the window, and her pulse ran up to one hundred and twenty a minute, but Wixham was as innocent as a lamb of any knowledge that it was her boy.

"Then you won't aid us?" queried the spokesman.

"Oh, yes, certainly I will. I was simply figuring to see how much I could spare. I signed a note with Mr. —— last fall, and I had to pay it yesterday. That makes me feel rather poor."

The third woman didn't turn red but green, but Wixham couldn't have possibly known that it was her husband.

"Let's see. Let's see. I want to give you all I can spare. Mr. —— on —— street owes me four months' house rent, and I'll give you an order on him for $20."

The four women rose up. They rushed in a solid body for the door. They went out in a heap. Some were red and some were pale, and all mad. They tried to speak, but they couldn't and as they hastened to get away from each other, Wixham held up the half-written order, and gasped:

"How very, very singular! Perhaps they thought they couldn't collect the money."

"The Trapper's last Shot."

(From Forest and Stream.)

He was probably christened James, but is always Jim now, and along with the greater part of his Christian name he has almost entirely lost his surname. If he had been a few shades lighter he might have been "Colored Jim," but black being the absorption of all colour this name would not fit him. So he is known, wherever known at all, as "Nigger Jim." He is an expert trapper and fisherman, but, rather singularly, considering these gifts, a poor marksman. For years he lugged about or carried in his boat an ancient flint-lock Queen's arm, so deadly in its action that it would kill pickerel with only a charge of powder, so Jim said, yet he rarely brought home any spoils of field or flood but such as were gained by trap or hook. Once, however, he made a very telling shot. It was on an October morning, and he was padding his light trapping skiff up the channel of Wonakakatuk as silently as any Indian could, when, as he rounded a bend, he saw through the tall stalks of the wild rice at least a dozen ducks sitting among the lily pads in the edge of the channel, not six rods from him. Here was his long-sought opportunity, and no sooner did he descry them than a backward stroke of his paddle stopped the headway of the craft just before she poked her sharp nose in sight of the unsuspecting fowl. Then he laid his paddle in the boat without the slightest noise, and as silently lifted from its resting-place his old gun, whose true inwardness at that moment consisted of all the powder in its owner's possession and a handful of BB shot, both wadded with a half pound or so of wasp-nest. He cautiously thrust its muzzle through the rice stalks, cocked it without a tell-tale click of the ponderous lock, set the breech-plate firmly against his shoulder, laid his cheek to the stock, and took such a long and deliberate aim that a spider, setting his snare among the rushes, made fast an end of his web to the rusty barrel before Jim, shutting both eyes, set his teeth, and with a sturdy pull unhiched. There was a dazzling flash in the pan as if a kettleful of lard had caught fire, and then the noble weapon belched forth a horizontal column of flame and smoke, kicked Jim and his skiff half a boat's length astern, and gave a roar that went bellowing down the creek, across the lake, and was tossed back and forth from Split Rock Mountain to Shellhouse for five minutes before it lost its voice. When Jim got his eyes open and his wits gathered, he peered through the eddying smoke and saw—not a feather raised nor one wounded duck fluttering its last, but some riding unconcernedly with their heads knocked off and some keel up in a quarter acre of fine splinters. Then up rose two Boston men from among the rushes, and the fire, and smoke, and uproar, and vicious recoil of Jim's gun were as nothing to the vials of wrath which they poured out upon his early, devoted head. Never was such paddling done on these waters as Jim did till he put half a mile of Wonakakatuk's channel, seething with his rapid strokes between himself and the scene of bloodless slaughter. Then he shoved his boat into the rushes and skulked ashore. Next day he offered his gun for sale, giving as a reason that she burned so much powder no poor man could afford to keep her. He effected a sale at $1.53, and has done no duck shooting since. He says, with emphatic shakes of the head, "Any man that'll try to fool ducks with them wooden images 'll steal sheep! Yes, sir, course he will!"

A Village Buried in Snow.

HEROISM AND SUFFERING IN THE VIRGINIA MOUNTAINS—A THRILLING STORY OF ESCAPE FROM A TOMB OF SNOW—300 PERSONS IMPRISONED IN THE MOUNTAINS—A MESSENGER FOR AID FOUND HALF FROZEN—A RELIEF EXPEDITION SENT OUT.

BERRYVILLE, Clarke County, VA.—This evening about dusk Mr. Richard A. Ward, residing on the outskirts of the village, found a man lying in the snow near the roadside, partially insensible from cold and terribly emaciated. The stranger was at once removed to Mr. Ward's residence, where, after he had been revived and had been supplied with food, which he devoured in a ravenous manner, he startled his preserver by one of the strangest and most thrilling narratives of human distress that has ever been chronicled. The man stated that his name was Roger S. Cooper, and that he resided in the village of Paris, a small town near the summit of the Blue Ridge Mountains, on the dividing line between Clarke and London counties. He had volunteered to come to Berryville to urge the residents by all the ties of humanity and manhood to organize a relief party and go to the assistance of the villagers, who were literally buried in the snow, and to the number of about 300 were in danger of death from both cold and hunger.

The village of Paris is on the west side of the Blue Ridge, and it was directly exposed to the terrible northwesterly gale which began on the night of Dec. 20. The villagers at first beheld the snow without alarm, although as the flakes came steadily down it became evident to them that the fall would be an unusually deep one. For forty-eight hours the storm continued. On Wednesday night the snow was piled high above all the roads and paths, and was heavily drifted against houses. As the villagers retired for the night the snow was coming down faster than ever. Cooper and his family occupied a small cottage near the western slope of the plateau on which the village stands. He says that when he awoke Thursday morning he found it still dark, and supposed that the day had not yet dawned. After remaining in bed for several hours, awaiting daybreak, he got up, and lighting a lamp, saw by the clock that it was half past ten. Somewhat puzzled he went to the front door. It offered resistance to his push. To his astonishment he was confronted by a solid wall of snow. His house had been buried in a deep drift. His young wife and child, when informed of the position of affairs, at first became greatly alarmed, but were soon soothed by his assurances of safety.

Cooper is a hardy, handsome young fellow of 25. He is evidently a cool-headed, intelligent man. He says that the first thing he did was to build a rousing fire, and to insist on having breakfast before doing anything. That through with, he took a long-handled shovel and started to cut his way through the imprisoning wall of snow. He made rapid headway at first, but had not penetrated five feet before he began to be troubled by the snow taken from the tunnel. He had thrown it behind him on the floor, but it threatened soon to fill the entire interior. To add to the difficulty, it began to melt under the action of the fire, and inside of an hour the floor ran with water. The husband and father struggled gallantly at his work. The snow flew from the little tunnel into the room, where his wife endeavoured to pack it to one side. By 3 o'clock in the afternoon Cooper had cut a narrow pathway for nearly thirty feet without seeing an signs of daylight. Suddenly the roof of his tunnel dropped, and he was buried in the snow. Putting forth desperate exertions, he struggled to extricate himself. The snow was light and easily penetrated. Following the track of the tunnel he finally succeeded in bursting into the doorway, to find his wife lying senseless on the floor.

In describing his struggles through the snow, Cooper shuddered. "The feeling of suffocation which came over me," he said, "was awful. Three or four times, as I plunged blindly along striving to keep in the course of the tunnel, my head struck against the hardened walls of the track I had cut through the snow. The relief I experienced when I burst into my house is indescribable. It was a miracle that I ever got out alive." When he recovered from his exhaustion he succeeded in reviving his wife, who was now completely prostrated by cold and anxiety.

By this time the fire in the house had died away, and the floor was covered with an icy slush. Cooper made up his mind that the attempt to cut through the drift was impracticable. It occurred to him to try to get up the chimney. Placing his wife and child in bed and covering them up warmly, he made the attempt. He ascended with ease until about ten feet from the top, where the chimney narrowed, and there he stuck. He descended and got a hatchet and chisel. Reascending the chimney until he was above the level of the roof, he cut his way through the brick wall. After an hour of severe toil he crawled out upon the peaked roof of his house. Bestriding the ridge, he took a survey of the situation. The snow had piled in an immense drift, reaching to the eaves against the front of his house. He could never have cut his way out from the doorway, as he would have had to penetrate nearly three hundred feet, only to find himself on the edge of a precipice overhanging a sheer fall of several hundred feet into a small valley forming the western boundary of the plateau. Glance which way he would he saw nothing but round, unbroken mounds of snow, from many of which rose columns of smoke, indicating that there were houses beneath.

"Sitting on that ridge," said Cooper, "with the north wind whistling around me with cutting force and almost benumbed with cold, I shuddered as I thought of the coddition of the inmates of those houses from which those columns of smoke were not rising." Cooper found that the most available exit would be through the second-story frone window of his cottage, where the incline of the drift made the distance to be cut through the snow only about ten feet. Resuming his labours in that direction, in about an hour he had the satisfaction of seeing daylight through the opening, and eventually with great difficulty made his way to the house of his father, which, being in a most sheltered position, had escaped the worst fury of the storm. The men of the family soon brought out Cooper's wife and child in the same way that he had himself gotten out, and the family were soon enjoying warmth and comfort again.

The snow still descended. Christmas day dawned cold and dreary, bringing no gladness to the belated villagers. The dark sky and occasional scurrying flakes of snow were ominous of another storm. The only thermometer in the village registered 10° below zero at 8 A. M., and as the day advanced the mercury fell slowly until it registered 18° below. On Christmas night the suffering from cold, owing to the scarcity of fuel, was very great, and early the next day there were not half a dozen fires in the village. The residents, in order to keep warm, were compelled to either remain in bed or envelop themselves in extra clothing or blankets. At about 10 o'clock the burgomaster, Thomas Aldine, went around and called for volunteers to assist in cutting a way into the house of a poor widow named Mrs. Kate Witman, who, with two children, occupied a cottage in one of the most exposed portions of the village. Nothing had been heard from her for several days, and there was no sign of fire from the chimney. Within an hour about forty men were gathered around the house of the unfortunate widow, and, armed with shovels and hoes, went bravely to work in a blinding snow storm. The first man to enter the house was Mr. Aldine. Stretched upon the bed was Mrs. Witman, stiff and cold in death. When the strong men had gently moved her corpse they found by her side two children who were carefully wrapped in a blanket and some old clothing. The mother had placed herself over them in the effort to keep them warm. Mary, the eldest child, was found to be past all aid, but the other, an infant eighteen months old, showed signs of animation, and in about two hours was out of danger.

The next day, and Saturday ... In the afternoon a meeting of the villagers was held in the school room. Peter Wright, a leading citizen, presided. He spoke substantially as follows: "Men, we have got to do something. As sure as there is a God above us, if we do not there will not be a live man, women, or child in the village within a week. Let us organize a Relief Committee, who shall take charge of all fuel and provisions we have among us. By living together in as few houses as possible we can greatly economize our fuel. We have got to act promptly, or the lives of our wives and daughters will be lost. If there is any man here who has anything to say let us hear him right away. We have no time to lose and must take hold right away with a hard grip. I am ready to hear any plans you have in your heads."

There was a solemn silence. Finally an old, gray-haired farmer stood up and said: "Mr. Chairman, in the name of God, appoint the committee." A hum of approval ran through the crowd, and Mr. Wright promptly exclaimed. "All right. I'll do it." He then named a committee of fifteen, with himself as Chairman, after which he exclaimed: "Look here, men, there is no good appointing this committee unless what it says is going to be done. Are we to have full authority here or not?"

"Yes; do as you please," replied the gray-haired farmer.

"Do you all agree?" asked Mr. Wright again.

"Yes, yes," was the general response.

"All right. Now, you all hear. I propose to take hold at once; and I give all those fellows who won't do as they are told fair notice that we'll make 'em do it. Now, gentlemen, the committee is going to meet at the other end of the room, and you can all wait until we tell you what we have done."

The committee remained in consultation for about half an hour. When they returned Mr. Wright, springing on a desk, announced the result quickly and forcibly:

"Men, what I say the committee agrees to. You will all be ready to hand over your supplies of wood and food to men who will be sent around for it to-morrow. We want everything—everything, mind you—which you can eat or burn. It will all be brought here and put under lock and key. A fixed quantity of food will be given out to each family according to the number of persons. To-morrow you will move with your families into the houses around this building, and the committee will see that as many go in each house as it will hold. These houses will be heated by fires supplied by the committee, and no one must touch them or put anything on them except the committee. Each day we will appoint a number of men who will forage for food and wood. There are millions of birds frozen to death lying around in the woods about two miles from here, and if we can get through the snow we will not want for meat. All the barns and outbuildings not covered by drifts will be torn down for fuel. Now, this is all we have to say."

The next day the plans of the committee were faithfully carried out, and by night all the entire population of the village was gathered in about twenty houses in the immediate vicinity of the schoolhouse, which had been converted into a supply station. During the day the committee at times found some difficulty in enforcing the order for the surrrender of food. Several of the villagers showed a disposition to rebel, but the inexorable committee, led by Mr. Wright, helped themselves indiscriminately, ignoring all complaints. Once a man named Emory refused to comply with the requisition, and when the committee attempted to take the desired articles by force, he and his three sons seized their shot guns. Wright went up to Emory and knocked him down without a word of warning. In a moment the rebellious villagers were all prisoners in the hands of the committee, who had quickly supported their leader.

The Emorys were disarmed, and after their house had been ransacked for fuel and provisions, they were liberated. There was great suffering from frost bites. The energetic committee established a hospital in which the ailing could be cared for by the sole physician of the place. As many as fifty were suffering at one time, and several amputations had to be performed.

It was decided to send a messenger to Berryville for help. Cooper was selected. He started on Tuesday mounted on a strong horse, and supplied with a flask of whisky and a package of provisions. He travelled all that day and night. The next day the horse gave out and could go no further. Cooper went ahead on foot. He was thoroughly familiar with the woods. Throughout Wednesday night the faithful messenger tramped through the snow, Thursday morning found him still pursuing his weary way in an almost insensible condition. Cooper remembers singing, praying, and laughing alternately up to noon on Thursday, after which time he lost all sense of what took place. When found by Mr. Ward, Cooper was half covered by snow, and death would undoubtedly have ensued in a few hours.

This fearful story was told by Cooper to your correspondent in a modest, straightforward way. He passed lightly over his own brave deeds, but dwelt with earnestness on the pitiable condition of his fellow villagers. As soon as his story was made known, a party of three men in a four-horse sled were despatched to Paris with provisions and medicine. One of the number is a surgeon and another a clergyman. It is not yet known whether they can make their way through the snow. Their is great anxiety in regard to the fate of the devoted villagers on the bleak side of the Blue Ridge. A number of lives will certainly be lost by this singular blockade.

The Value of Politeness.

(From the London World.)

John Bright, the orator—whose use of pure Saxon, by the bye, is marvelous—once unconsciously converted a political opponent by the suaviter in modo, as contradistinguished from his usual quality, the fortiter in re. As the right honourable gentleman is, perhaps, unware of the circumstance himself, he will be grateful to me for telling him of it. He was riding on horseback at Llandudno, and came to a gate, near which stood a gentleman, who, though recognizing the horseman, did not show any readiness to unlatch it. Addressing him in a manner almost courtly, the Apostle of Radicalism asked that favour at his hands; and the stranger, surprised into compliance, was still further pleased when the present Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, waiting until the pedestrian had reclosed the gate, leisurely walked his animal along, and continued an agreeable conversation, in which everything local, but nothing national, was discussed. On the two separating, something like complimentary expressions were exchanged, and at the last general election John Bright had no more effective, but unobtrusive, supporter than the stranger whose political animosity he had disarmed by politeness and sociability. This story I learn from a letter written by the man himself.

A Rude Man.

(From the London World.)

A country cousin writes: "A short time ago I was staring at the lovely diamonds and beautiful things in a shop window in Regent street, (not covetously, as I am content to see others wear them,) when a man came and stood close by my side. I don't understand why men should speak to me in the street, because I am sure I look the model of stout, British matronly respectability. But they do sometimes; and this man remarked how pretty the stones were, and edged up close, and suggested that I might like diamonds. I said frankly I did. He said he should like to buy me something. I said how kind. What did I want he asked. 'Oh,' I said, 'there are so many things; but let me think. Now what is it I want most? Why, some new shoes, stockings, flannel petticoats, a scrubbing-brush for the kitchen, two sauce-pans, and three loads of manure for the garden. Oh, I do so want the manure, because it's getting late for mulching.' That rude man positively turned away, saying something unmentionable. It was so very rude, when he had asked me what a should like, and I had told him quite the truth."

A QUICK answer is like the sharp cut of a whip. "You are no gentleman, sir," said an irate individual to the person next to him. "Are you a gentleman yourself?" was the sneering inquiry. "I am, sir," was the reply, in a tone which implied a duel if any doubt was expressed. "Then you are quite right in saying that I am not one," retorted the party of the second part, "neither do I wish to become one."

THEY tell a queer story about the doctors in a certain Texas town, who were away last summer to attend a medical convention. They were absent about two months, and on their return found all their patients had recovered, the drug stores had closed, the nurses have opened dancing schools, the cemetery had been cut up into building lots, the undertakers had gone to make fiddles, and the hearse had been painted and sold as circus wagon.

KOFFEENE! KOFFEENE!! KOFFEENE!!!

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Jan. 28st, 1881.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager, Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

We have received a communication from a ratepayer of Artemesia, asking us why we do not publish the minutes of the Council of that Township, and further wishing to know if it was from malice at the loss of the Township printing. We have to inform our correspondent that the reason of their non-appearance is, we do not receive them, otherwise they would appear as regularly as those of other Townships.

We sincerely hope the advice given to the Reeves by the Thornbury Standard will not be acted on, but trust they will see the propriety of placing Mr. Creasor on the High School Board. We consider Mr. C. one of the most pai[illegible] and best men on the boar[illegible] not for a moment believe he [illegible] his feelings towards Mr De La Matter to influence the course he has taken in regard to [illegible] School, but was actuated [illegible] best interest of [illegible].

The Editor of the Thornbury Standard is allowing his feelings towards the Owen Sound School Board to over-ride his better judgement, when he advises the people of our County who are desirous of giving their children a better education than our Common Schools afford, to send them to Toronto in preference to Owen Sound. He must think those whom he appeals to are [illegible] simpletons, if he imagines he can make them believe that it is no more costly to send their children to a city to be educated than to send them to a country town. We venture to say that it would cost from $350 to $400 per annum to send a boy to any of our city schools, while in Owen Sound the cost would not exceed $250 at the most. We cannot see where the superior advantages come in, unless the Standard man considers the billiard saloons, theatres, gambling hells, concert halls, low groceries and houses of prostitution with which Toronto abounds are necessary adjuncts to a finished education. If so, then the preference must be awarded to Toronto, for assuredly the "hamlet on the Sydenham creek," as the Standard designates our County Town, hath them not; but we think the majority of our readers will agree with us, that these accessories can be very well dispensed with to the great advantage of our children.

Owen Sound has recently erected a very fine building for High School purposes, at a cost of something like $24,000, and has now a staff of teachers engaged second to none in the Province. With the exception of the University and Colleges, we know of no educational institutions in Toronto capable of imparting a better education than can be acquired in Owen Sound. Unless some of the learned professions are aimed at, we see no necessity for a Collegiate education, then why send our children to places where temptation stares them in the face at every street corner, when all that is necessary can be obtained nearer home, at less cost, and at a place free from the dens of infamy and vice that are always to be found in all large cities.

Prof. C.A.Grimmer must be a jovial companion. He is just brimful of fun. He has bee[illegible] and the following is the result of his cogitations: "The comming conjunction of the perihelia of the planets Jupiter, Uranus, Neptune and Saturn will be momentous. From 1880 to 1887 will be one universal carnivel of death." This will have a tendency to make every one feel happy, no doubt. The Pacific Coast, he goes on to say, will not suffer in comparison to any other portion of the globe.—Evidently the Professor has taken up a large tract of land in that neighborhood, or is a member of some railway syndicate and advertises it in this way with a view of disposing of it.—"Diseases will appear, the nature of which will baffle the skill of the most eminent physicians. Every drop of water on the earth or above the earth will be more or less poisonous." We will bet a nickle the professor is about starting a brewery or distillery on an extensive scale. He then goes on to tell how many people died of plagues, &c., at previous periods when some of the planets were in perihelion, and says the present occasion will outrival anything before seen or heard of. That America will loose over 15,000,000 inhabitants unless correct sanitory measures are taken. Listen to that, now, good people of Markdale, and see that your alleys, back-yards and out-houses are thoroughly cleansed, unless you wish to be entirely wiped out. We are further informed that no fish or animal food should be eaten from 1882 to 1885, as all the flesh of the animal kingdom and finny tribes will be diseased. Butchers and fishermen, hang up your fiddles and bows, for your occupations, like Othello's, will be gone. In addition to all the above horrors, we are to be overrun with murderers and robbers. He however holds out a faint hope that some of us may pull through if we drink nothing but copious drafts of warm water, confine ourselves to a vegetable diet, and keep our nostrils full of cotton saturated with spirits of camphor. How long the vegetables will remain on our stomachs after the copious drafts of warm water the Professor does not vouch for. For our part we think the cure would be worse than the disease. From 1885 to 1887 fires are to rage all over the world, and this is to kill off the plague and purify the atmosphere, and everything will return to its normal condition.—We can't see why, if fire is the only thing that is going to stop the march of this fearful scourge that is coming upon us, it could not be done at first and nip the thing in the bud. After the fires have ceased to glow those of our fellow mortals who remain on this scene of desolation will then have a high old time. The earth will never have been so healthy or fruitful, and everything will be lovely, at least so says the Professor.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTORS OF EAST GREY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY.

Your Directors, in presenting their Annual Report, regret their inability to report the Fall exhibition a great success. The very unfavorable weather which visited us during the time the Exhibition was held, prevented members from bring their stock and articles of manufacture for exhibition. The same cause prevented members and others from putting in an appearance, consequently the receipts at the gate were less than on former like occasions. There is also a slight decrease in membership, owing to the fact that the members did not all compete, and as their was no dollar to retain, their membership has ceased until renewed in the usual way.—It therefore becomes necessary that an extra effort be made by our successors to work up a good membership for the Society in the current year. And we would further recommend that as soon as possible proper accommodation be provided for the safe keeping of good thorough bred stock on the Show Ground. A visit to a few of the Township Exhibitions has taught us, that East Grey has within its limits some of the very best thorough-bred cattle Ontario can boast of, and unless your Directors make provisions for the safe keeping of such valuable stock, we need not nor can we expect them to be brought upon the Grounds. We believe the services rendered to the country by those enterprising agriculturists, who bring good thorough-bred animals into our midst, is under-estimated. Mixed farming is generally admitted to be the best for this part of the country; and as feeding rough, scrubby cattle does not pay, therefore the necessity of improving the grade is evident, and in the various neighborhoods throughout the riding where thorough-bred Durham bulls are kept, it is very pleasing to notice the vast improvement there is in grade cattle. Therefore every possible encouragement should be given to the importers of good thorough-bred cattle into this country. Sheep are likewise becoming a very important part of farming, the country being well adapted for that purpose. Of these we had a good display at the Fall Exhibition. Sales were effected at remunerative prices. The parties purchasing having for their object the improvement of their flock will no doubt be well repaid.—We wish them good success. The show of horses was good. A vast improvement in this class was evident. Improvement in pigs is very noticeable, caused by the importing of good stock. Of these we had some very fine specimens shown, but not as many as we should have liked to have seen. The poultry was fairly up to the average. In implements every year seems to show an improvement on the preceeding one. The display, on the whole, was grand throughout. Fall wheat was excellent, barley, peas and oats were likewise good. Spring wheat was up to the average in quality; but for some reason hard to be understood, is not yielding so as to sufficiently remunerate the producer. There was a good exhibition of roots and vegetables, and of these there has been an abundant crop. There was a large display of dairy produce, excellent in quality. The show of fruit was likewise No.1. In the departments of ladies' work, manufactures and fine arts the exhibits were numerous, beautiful in design and finish, and reflects great credit on the exhibitors.—In conclusion, it becometh us to acknowledge that we are the recipients of many favors which tend to make the people of a country happy and content. The educational system of our country is good; we have good laws to be governed by; the people are generally law abiding and orderly. We are the subjects of a noble Queen, and are proud to live under Her sovereign sway; we have reaped an abundant harvest. For these, with all other blessings liberally bestowed, we have a right to give thanks to that Great Being, who alone giveth us all good things.

FLESHERTON.

From our Correspondent.

MASQUERADE CARNIVAL.—The second carnival of the season came off on Wednesday evening, the 19th inst., and was in fact a greater success than any previously held in Flesherton. Mr. F. Sarjeant the proprietor of the rink, paid good attention to it and had a splendid sheet of ice for the performers. The band discoursed sweet music during the evening, which added greatly to the enjoyment. There was between forty and fifty skaters present, besides a large audience. We were only able to obtain the names of the following characters:—Hamlet, R. Hooper; The Globe, Miss B. Philip; The Mail, Miss B. Hooper; Chineese Mandarian, J. H. Strain, Bride, Miss M. Cheesman; Tornado, A. Ferguson; Scotland, Miss M. E. Wright; Etheopian, H. Strain; Turkish Pasha, Wm. Keefer; Highland Chief, W. A. McDonnell; Base Ball, Bert Ghent; Lacrosse, F. Leitch; Gipsy Queen, Miss M. Trimble; Negro Preacher, R. Trimble; Monk, E. Strain; and a host of others. The best dress of the evening was the lady, Gipsy Queen, who took every one by surprise when she appeared on the ice, owing to her general contour and richness of dress. We hope that Mr. Sarjeant will give us another such entertainment before many weeks.

VERY TOUCHING.—The following beautiful lines were left with us the other day, to be sent to the Markdale STANDARD for publication. We will not attempt to alter the spelling or wording for fear we might destroy the "poets" meaning. To the corispondent of the Markdale STANDARD would you Be Kind enuf to send this poustry to the STANDARD for publication Dear Sir A few simple Verses I will try to relate of my friend being going to the Western States he carried parsils four years in A Store and he asked his Boss for a rise or he would do it no more Then he Went to The dock for to shovel Some Grain he shoveled scarcely one hour till his back took to pain tairing of his colar and giving his Brother his cote said he tell my Mother Im shoveling this Boat said he to the Boss will you give me some pay said he you young blagyard be out of the mens way So I went to the Steamer to Stour away in the Boat down came the captain with a big tar Roap Saying be ashore and let me see you no more that is what you get for leaving that store. Yours truely, A FRIEND.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it disinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

On Wednesday of last week I attended the annual meeting of the East Grey Electoral District Agricultural Society. There were present quite a number of experienced farmers from different parts of the Riding. After the Directors Annual Report was read, the President invited discussion on matters interesting to the Society, and the farming community generally. I was strongly impressed with the force of the arguments used in favor of the importance of improving the stock of the County by crossing with thorough-bred animals, and the vast amount of profit to be derived from so doing. But as far as Artemesia is concerned we are minus the means, but few of the farmers being able to do it, it takes quite a sum of money to do so, and those who have got the money, for some reason best known to themselves, are not willing, consequently Artemesia in this respect has come to a standstill, and it is to be feared a great many other municipalities as well. Now it is quite evident that some change in the general mode of farming must take place in order that the sons of toil may prosper. The practice in the past has been too much of grain growing—grain, grain all the time, until a great deal of the soil is worked to death, or in other words, overcroped. The grain growing properties natural to the land have, in a great many instances, become exhausted. Grain is sowed and Canada thistles and other noxious weeds are reaped. The land wants more rest than is generally given it, and more manure than our barnyards afford. Artificial manures are costly and inconvenient to get. Feeding scrubby, run-out cattle is similar to seeding a poor run-out field; the result is small profit, therefore the necessity of improving our stock. Would it not be well for our municipal Councils throughout the different municipalities to purchase say one good thorough-bred bull for each ward in their Township, and give them into the care of a proper party for the season; charge a reasonable rate for their service and keep, then sell in the fall of each year, add the amount realized over keep to the proceeds of sale and purchase again in the spring successively for a time. The bulls sold would, no doubt, be purchased by ratepayers in the Township. By persuing this course thorough-bred animals would increase rapidly in the Township, and consequently instead of the low priced, scrubby cattle that we now have, we would soon have first-class grade cattle, thereby largely increasing the profit for feeding.—And further, our cattle would be saleable; John Bull would attend our fairs every time, and his gold would be useful. I hope Reeves and Councillors will give this matter a fair consideration, and that the farmers shall try to impress upon them the necessity of carrying out some such scheme, as it would be a great boon to the farmers of their Township and the country generally. Mr. Editor, if it be your pleasure to give this a space in the columns of your valuable paper, you will oblige, ENTERPRISE.

[We unite discussion on the above subject. We consider it a move in the right direction, and see no reason why the suggestion may not be acted upon. Agriculture is the backbone of our country, and we believe stock rising in its different lines, will be the main dependence of farmers.]—ED.

FIRE AT EUGENIA,

To the Editor of the STANDARD,

A fire of a very serious nature occured at Eugenia on Saturday morning, the 22nd inst., between the hours of 8 and 9 o'clock, resulting in the destruction of Mr. Michael Akitt's large stable, together with its contents, which consisted of one horse, three cows, cutting box, set of single harness, half of a set of double harness, a quantity of hay straw, and numerous other articles. As far as we have been able to gather the following are the facts:—About 6.30 the horses were fed and harnessed for work by Mr. John Philips, one of Mr. Akitt's teamsters, while the cows in the adjoining stable were fed by Mr. John Learmont. The lamp used in connection with the stable being blown out and hung on a pin in the cow stable, as usual, the men repaired to breakfast. After breakfast, it being a stormy morning, Mr. Akitt told Mr. Philips to cut some wood at the door for a while, and make but one trip for sawlog in the forenoon. Mr. Akitt and his men then went to the saw mill to work. Mr. Philips remained at the house cutting wood, when about half-past eight he heard a noise proceeding from the cow stable, and went to ascertain the cause. Upon opening the door smoke and flame issued in a large volume. At once he gave the alarm, and ran to the saw mill for assistance. Several people seeing the smoke and hearing the cry of fire, arrived at the scene about the same time Mr. Akitt and his men returned from the saw mill. All seem to have exerted themselves to the utmost to save the three horses that were tied in the horse stable.—After repeated and hazzardous efforts two of the horses were got out, but the third, an animal of considerable value, could not be forced out of the building, and perished in the flames. We canot help but notice the heroic efforts of Mr. John Linton to rescue this third beast from the burning building. Determined never to let the best horse in the stable "die in the fire," he stuck to him until the flames were issuing from every opening in the stable, and there was no the slightest hope left, and it was with difficulty that he (Mr. Linton) was dragged out of the fire by Mr. James Learmont. Yet, Mr. Editor, while three cows, one horse, a large amount of hay, straw and implements of various kinds, together with the large stables were being burned, imagine one of our so-called Village ladies, beholding the scene with Satanic pleasure and fiendish grin, allowing such thoughts to enter her heart, and such words as the following to escape from her lips as—"It serves him right. He could not expect any better. He'll let us alone. People don't always escape. They'll catch it some time," and such like expressions. We could scarcely believe such persons lived amongst us; but the proof is conclusive. We say, Mr. Editor, we have had business transactions amounting to ever ore thousand dollars with Mr. Akitt, and found him an upright, honest and honorable man, and we feel confident that this community generally will say the same, and are only to sorry that the accident occurred.

DAVID WRIGHT.

Eugenia, Jan. 24, 1881.

[We have omited the last paragraph of our correspondent's letter, thinking that, although the porson against whom the remarks are directed might have richly deserved them, such things are best unsaid.—ED.]

YELLOW OIL is unsurpassed for the cure of Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Frost Bites, Wounds and Chilblains. No other medicine required in the household. It is for internal as well as external use. Every bottle is guranteed to give satisfaction. All medicine dealers sell it.

MARRIED

On the 26th inst., by Rev. Mr. McCleland, Mr. J. R. Carson, of Eugenia, to Miss Ellen, oldest daughter of George Richardson, Esq., of Euprasia.

DIED.

In Egremont, on the 23rd inst., after a lingering illness, James Wilson, sr., one of the oldest residents of the Township, aged about 75 years.

In the Township of Sydenham, on the 19th inst., after an illness of three days, Mr. Jacob Keefer, (father of Mr. Geo. Keefer, Flesherton,) aged 77[illegible]

THE MARKETS.

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Jan. 27, 1881.

Flour	5.00	to	5.50
Spring Wheat per bush, new	1.00	tc	1.00
Fall do. do. do.	1.00	to	1.06
Barley	0.60	"	0.80
Oats	0.27	"	0.28
Peas	0.60	"	0.60
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.18
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.75	"	6.00
Beef	4.50	"	5.50
Geese per lb.	0.05	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.75	"	1.00
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.25
Hay	6 50	"	0.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Green Apples, per. bushel.	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	2 00	"	2.1

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Mothers! Mothers!! Mothers!! Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with the excruciating pain of cutting teeth! If so, go at once and get a bottle of MRS. WINSLOW'S SOOTHING SYRUP. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately—depend upon it; there is no mistake about it. There is not a mother upon earth who has ever used it, who will not tell you at once that it will regulate the bowels, and give rest to the mother, and relief and health to the child, operating like magic. It is perfectly safe to use in all cases, and pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the oldest and best female physicians and nurses in the United States. Sold everywhere at 25 cents a bottle. 20-ly

REST AND COMFORT TO THE SUFFERING

Brown's Household Panacea has no equal for relieving pain, both internal and external. It cures pain in the Side, Back or Bowels, Sore Throat, Rheumatism, Toothache, Lumbago and any kind of a Pain or Ache. "It will most surely quicken the Blood and heal, as its acting power is wonderful." "Brown's Household Panacea," being acknowledged as the great Pain Reliever, and of double the strength of any other Elixer or Liniment in the world, should be in every family handy for use when wanted, "as it really is the best remedy in the world for Cramps in the Stomach, and Pains and Aches of all kinds," and is for sale by all Druggists at 25 cents a bottle. 20-ly

PIMPLES.

I will mail (Free) the recipe for a simple VEGETABLE BALM that will remove TAN, NRECKLES, PIMPLES and BLOTCHES, leaving the skin soft, clear and beautiful; also instructions for producing a luxuriant growth of hair on a bald head or smooth face. Address, enclosing a 3c. stamp, Ben. Vandef & Co., 5 Beekman st., N. Y. 20-ly

TO CONSUMPTIVES.

The advertiser, having been permanently cured of that dread disease, Consumption, by a simple remedy, is anxious to make known to his fellow sufferers the means of cure. To all who desire it, he will send a copy of the prescription used, (free of charge,) with the directions for preparing and using the same which they will find a SURE CURE for CONSUMPTION, ASTHMA, BRONCHITIS, &c.

Parties wishing the Prescription, will please address, Rev. E. A. Wilson, 149 Penn st., Williamsburgh, N. Y. 20-ly

AGENTS WANTED.—Big pay.—Light Work. Steady Employment. Samples free. Address, M. L. BYRN, 46 Naussau street, New York. 20-ly

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who sufferred for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers whishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 20-ly 42 Cedar st. New York.

PAY UP.

ALL parties indebeted to Dr. T. S. Sproule, either by Note or Book Account, are requested to call at the Medical Hall and pay the same at once, and save trouble and costs.

A TURNER.

Markdale, Jan. 27, 1881, 20-2i

50,000 FEET OF FIRST-CLASS MAPLE! WANTED,

By the undersigned, for which $1 per Standard will be paid in cash, to be cut 14 feet long. Butternut and Cherry, $2.25 to $2.50 per Staedard.

Good White Basswood, 75,000 Feet Wanted.

$1 per Standard for a good article. Paid on delivery.

JAMES CHAPMAN.

Markdale, Jan, 27, 1881. 20-2i

HALL'S VEGETABLE SICILIAN HAIR RENEWER

Has been in constant use by the public for over twenty years, and is the best preparation ever invented for RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS YOUTHFUL COLOR AND LIFE.

It supplies the natural food and color to the hair glands without staining the skin. It will increase and thicken the growth of the hair, prevent its blanching and falling off, and thus AVERT BALDNESS.

It cures Itching, Eruptions and Dandruff. As a HAIR DRESSING it is very desirable, giving the hair a silken softness which all admire. It keeps the head clean, sweet and healthy.

The State Assayer and Chemist of Mass. and leading Physicians endorse and recommend it as a great triumph in medicine.

BUCKINGHAM'S DYE FOR THE WHISKERS will change the beard to a BROWN or BLACK at discretion. Being in one preparation it is easily applied, and produces a permanent color that will not wash off.

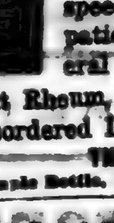
PREPARED BY R. P. HALL & CO., NASHUA, N. H. Sold by all Dealers in Medicine.

TENDERS

WILL be received by the undersigned, up to Feb. 1st, 1881; for building a brick house, in Flesherton; contractor to supply all material. Plans and specifications may be seen at my office.

ROBT. DAVIS,
Conveyancer, Commissioner in H. R., Real Estate, Loan and Insurance Agent, Flesherton.

Jan. 5th, 1881. 17 4i



BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS

The only Medicine that successfully purifies the Blood, acts upon the Liver, Bowels, Skin and Kidneys, while at the same time it allays Nervous Irritation and strengthens the Debilitated System, perfectly and speedily curing Biliousness, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Constipation, Headache, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Nervous and General Debility, Female Complaints, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Salt Rheum, and every species of Chronic Disease arising from Disordered Liver, Kidneys, Stomach, Bowels or Blood.

THE BEST BLOOD PURIFYING TONIC IN THE WORLD.

Sample Bottle, 10c. T. MILBURN & CO., SOLE AGENTS, TORONTO. Regular Size, $1.00

[illegible] Powder [illegible] children or [illegible]

Mrs. Freeman's New Domestic Dyes are perfect in every color. For brightness and durability they have no equal. Price 15 cents per package.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

Now that the season of Good Cheer is at hand, I wish to call Public attention to my stock of

FRESH GROCERIES, FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONFRY AND LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, the purest; MALT, the best; PORTER, equal to Ginness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in this section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

Get your Holiday's supply of above Goods

A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 24y

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by DR. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY, Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes, ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Montreal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13 tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of Repayment OFFDRED BY THE BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY, AND British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES —ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me. P. S.—Several improved farms for sale.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3m

MARKDALE HOUSE, MARKDALE, ALEX. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

THIS HOTEL is a large three storey brick building, recently erected and fitted up with every modern convenience. It is furnished in First-Class Style The Bar is supplied with the best brands of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, and the table with all the delicacies of the season. The travelling Public may rely upon every attention being paid to their comfort. Good Sample Rooms for Commercial Travellers. The only Hotel that runs a Bus to and from all Trains. Good Stables and attentive Hostlers. 18

PHOTOGRAPHS! 12 FOR $1.50.

I WOULD again intimate to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country, that I am prepared to give you the BEST SATISFACTION IN PHOTOGRAPHS, AMBROTYPES, COPYING AND ENLARGING! Please give me a call, and see for yourselves.

GALLERY, two doors from Revere Hotel.

R. BAILEY.

Markdale, Jan. 13, 1881. 18-3i

Farm to Rent.

THE Subscriber wants to rent his Farm for four years, lot 16, con 9, Glenelg; 75 acres cleared; 15 acres ploughed. The soil is a good Clay Loam. There is on the premises a good Log Barn and a good comfortable house, and all other buildings necessary. Plenty of Water. Terms easy, as the Proprietor must leave. Possession given 1st April. Apply on the premises to John Black, or to Arch. Butter, Markdale.

JOHN BLACK,
Traverston P. O., Ont.

January 13, 1881, 18-3i

R. M. Galbraith,

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on Commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implements, and Machinery of all kinds for sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881. 20-ly

CARD.

TO MY PATRONS.

GENTLEMEN—While thanking you for the liberal patronage extended me in my Harness Business, and wishing you the complements of the season, I beg to intimate to you that I have disposed of that branch of my business to J. GORDON, and bespeak for him the liberal patronage accorded me in the past. Yours truly,

S. DAMUDE.

Flesherton, Dec. 28, 1880. 16-5ih

FLESHERTON Harness Shop!

THE Subscriber having purchased the business lately carried on by Mr. S. Damude, begs to inform the public that he has REMOVED TO THE BUILDING OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE, where he is prepared to furnish ALL KINDS of HARNESS usually found in a First-Class Establishment, And at prices to suit the times, and by using THE BEST OF MATERIAL AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP, hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c., constantly on hand. COLLARS A SPECIALTY. Call and satisfy yourselves. Remember the stand, the Drug Store is next door.

J. GORDON.

Flesherton, Dec. 1880. 16

REMOVAL! REMOVA[L]

The undersigned wishes to inform the Public generally, that he has purchased control of the FLESHERTON STEAM FURNITURE, AND SASH AND DOOR FA[CTORY] AND REMOVED TO THE Furniture Warerooms TO THE NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUIDING ADJOINING THE [illegible]

Where my numerous customers will always find me, or a competent salesman, and attend to their wants. My facilities are now Superior to [illegible] commencing business, and I trust by honorable dealing to merit a con[tinuance of the] patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of Furniture in all the Latest S[tyles] and during the Winter I require

100,000 FEET OF GOOD Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and [illegible] LUMBER! for which THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PA[ID]. Also a Quantity of Good [illegible]

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, [illegible] AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Applic[ation]

Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the Factory, Durha[m] [illegible]

H. HOOP[ER]

Flesherton, December 23, 1880.

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTE[R] AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Da[ys]

Gents Over-Coats and Suits, CHEA[P]

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS, CHEA[P]

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothi[ng] CHEA[P]

Staple and Fancy Dry Goo[ds] OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT ROCK-BOTTOM P[RICES]

BOOTS AND SHO[ES] In every Variety—CHEA[P]

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW P[RICES]

"TORONTO HOU[SE]" Wm. BROW[N]

Markdale, December 20, 1880.

WE WISH YOU A Merry Christmas and a Happy New [Year]

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that [it has] been a year of prosperity with the people of our C[ountry] and as others have prospered, we have been enab[led to] participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially since moving into our new premises, and we solicit a share of patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Good[s] —NAMELY— Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and Sa[ucers] and a large variety of CHILDREN'S TOYS

OUR GROCERIES For the season are, as usual, Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,
NEW PRUNES,
NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.
The People are all asking for our TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING WINTER DRY GOODS At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties, 5,000 Telegraph Poles, Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHERS

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.

[THE] STANDARD.

[Fri]day, Jan. 28th, 1881.

[LOCA]L & OTHER NOTICES.

[Let]ter from "Farmer" is crowded [out this] week.

[Ric]kett Bros keeps the largest and [best sto]ck of stoves in the county.

[For] cain bottom, perforated, or [woode]n chairs, try J. W. Bates, [Flesher]ton.

[Pet]rolea oil company, are sole [manufa]cturers of "Castorine machine [oil." In]frangements will be prosecuted.

[The] minutes of Euphrasia Council [came] to hand too late for this week, will appear in our next.

[Mr.] W. SPEERS has returned from [illegible]. We hope to get some [illegible] from him with reference to his [illegible] the country.

[illegible]cox is still rushing off the [illegible] don't fail to see those ladies' watches, which are really good for the money.

[VA]LENTINES, VALENTINES,—All sizes, [style]s and prices, suitable for persons [of all] ages, colors and sexes, at the [Medi]cal Hall, A. Turner & Co.

[Jam]es Chapman wants 50,000 feet [of ma]ple, and 75,000 of good white [bass]wood. See advertisement in an[othe]r column.

[Ask] your dealers for "Castorine" [mach]ine oil, and see that the barrel [is br]anded "Castorine," as none other [is ge]nuine.

[S]CHOOL BOOKS.—All modern authorized text books for public schools, [reg]ularly in stock, at the Medical [Ha]ll, A. Turner & Co.

[A] SOCIAL will be given by the ladies [Asso]ciation of the Presbyterian church, [Mar]kdale, at the Manse, on Friday [even]ing, Feb. 4th; admission 15 cents. [All a]re invited to attend.

[Ja]mes F. Sproule of this place start[ed o]n Monday last together with his [brothe]r John and Wife, for Winnipeg. [We w]ish them success in business in [the S]ister Province.

[The] weather is stormy and very [cold, o]ut-door work can be done. [Bette]r get one of those Hair Cloth [illegible]s, at J. W. Bates, Flesherton, [and t]ake comfort. Its all in a life-time.

[U]se "Castorine" Machine Oil, for [all] kinds of machinery, it is also ex[celle]nt for harness and leather, make[s it w]ater and weather proof. For sale [by all] dealers.

[On] account of the late arrival of [illegible] from Owen Sound, we are [illegible] to give our readers any of [illegible] proceeding of the Co[illegible] [illegible]k, further [illegible] [illegible]istoe was [illegible] [illegible]osition.

BURDOCK Bl[ood Bitters illegible] [illegible] the Bowels [illegible] nervous irritation [illegible] syst[illegible] to the worst [illegible] all dealers [illegible] size $1.00.

MANUFACTURERS of reapers, [illegible] and threshing machines, pref[illegible] "Castorine" machine oil [illegible] will out wear lard [illegible] and is warranted not to gum.

WE have received several communications which we consi[der] rather too personal a nature to [be in]serted under an anonymous [illegible]. We have made it a rule that w[hen] personalities are indulged [in the] writer must do so under his proper name.

CURE that cough! you can do it [illegible] safely and surely with Hagyard's P[ectoral] Balsam. Now is the season to guar[d] [illegible]. If you want to prevent consum[ption] [illegible]

READ B[illegible] ment.

THE place [illegible] Doll's adver[tisement illegible]

FOR the b[est illegible] oil and coal [illegible]

OUR than[ks illegible] M. P., for [illegible] papers.

"AND STI[LL illegible] to have and [illegible] shortly. Meaford, [illegible] the Marble [illegible]

BURDOCK B[lood Bitters] that acts up[on] the Bowels a[nd] nervous irri[tation illegible] tated system [illegible] ordinary pi[illegible] For sale by [illegible] regular size [illegible]

AMONG [illegible] not the lea[st illegible] Saw Mill, [illegible] capacity. [illegible] good sleig[illegible] logs fast [illegible] ment to q[illegible] teams.

OUR L[illegible] on our ta[ble illegible] it bears [illegible] beautifull[y illegible] teresting [illegible] better wa[y illegible] subscribi[ng illegible] lished by [illegible] 149 Tren[illegible]

ONE do[illegible] will relie[ve illegible] vince th[illegible] Throat [illegible] specific f[illegible] ing tow [illegible] pleasant [illegible] known. [illegible]

THE an[nual illegible] Agricultu[ral illegible] Town H[all illegible] Jan. 19th [illegible] transacti[on illegible] officers w[ere illegible] ed as f[ollows illegible] Edge; 1s[t illegible] 2nd vic[e illegible] Direct[ors illegible] H. Will[illegible] Edward [illegible] dock, [illegible] A. Mun[illegible]

WE [illegible] to News[illegible] zine, en[illegible] superior [illegible] Magazin[e illegible] seen, [illegible] most e[illegible] travels [illegible] boys [illegible] them [illegible]

BUSINESS calling us to the thriving village of Williamsford, a few days [illegible] we noticed, among other [illegible] provements that our old friend [illegible] Price, Esq., has erected a new store [illegible] and [illegible] stock [illegible] and largest stock of goods in the [illegible] Mr. P. is a pushing and [illegible] thorough business man, and [illegible] success [illegible]

BARONESS Burdett-coutts' marriage to Mr. Ashmead Bartlett takes place [illegible] The ceremony will be [illegible] at the Baroness' own residence. The bride [illegible] is somewhere about 30 years [illegible] Bridegroom being the [illegible] the younger. But we heard of [illegible] [illegible]

YELLOW Oil is the most deservedly popular remedy in the market for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Frost Bites, [illegible] Pain, Lame Back, Contraction of the [illegible] Croup, Quinsy, and every [illegible] internal [illegible] or Inflammation. For [illegible] never fail you. Sold by all dealers in medicine [illegible]

Mr. James Sullivan, the burning of [illegible] house was noticed in last week's STANDARD, informs us [illegible] expects to have all the material [illegible] on the ground for the erection of a [illegible] in the spring [illegible] trying to engage a large staff of carpenters with the intention of pushing it to completion rapidly [illegible]

[illegible] a [illegible] powder exploded scattering [illegible]

THE regular meeting of [illegible] Vision Grange was held in the [illegible] Hall, Durham, on [illegible] 18th. After the [illegible] were elected for the ensuing year: [illegible] Bro. Jas. Edge; Overseer, [illegible] Bro. W. Irvine; Steward, [illegible] Asst. Steward, W. Glenerose; Chaplain, J. Wier; Lecturer, W. [illegible]; Treas., James Matthews; Gatekeeper, F. Doupe; Lady Asst. [illegible] and Flora, Sisters Edge, Moffat and Bedford, respectively; Auditors, [illegible] Edge and Moffat; Executive [illegible] Bros. Wier, Moffat and [illegible] to their respective offices.

EMOVAL
STEAM
ND DOOR FAC
rerooms
G ADJOINING THE Latest Sty
OF GOOD
d, Birch and ILL BE PAID
Good F
MOULDINGS, ETC
on Applicat
H. HOOPE
OFF!
WINTER
COST
30 Day
Suits,
CHEA
AWLS,
CHEA
nderclothin
y Good
BROWN
Goods
TOYS ERIES
nd Good.
HERS

THE STANDARD.

Friday Jan. 28th, 1881.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

A letter from "Farmer" is crowded out this week.

HASKETT BROS keeps the largest and best stock of stoves in the county.

FOR cain bottom, perforated, or common chairs, try J. W. Bates, Flesherton.

TORONTO oil company, are sole manufacturers of "Castorine machine oil." Infringements will be prosecuted.

THE minutes of Euphrasia Council came to hand too late for this week, will appear in our next.

C. W. SPEERS has returned from Winnipeg. We hope to get some items from him with reference to his trip, and the country.

WILCOX is still rushing off the goods, don't fail to see those ladies' gold watches, which are really good value for the money.

VALENTINES, VALENTINES,—All sizes, shapes and prices, suitable for persons of all ages, colors and sexes, at the Medical Hall, A. Turner & Co.

JAMES Chapman wants 50,000 feet of Maple, and 75,000 of good white Basswood. See advertisement in another column.

ASK your dealers for "Castorine" machine oil, and see that the barrel is branded "Castorine," as none other is genuine.

SCHOOL BOOKS.—All modern authorized text books for public schools, regularly in stock, at the Medical Hall, A. Turner & Co.

A SOCIAL will be given by the ladies' association of the Presbyterian church, Markdale, at the Manse, on Friday evening, Feb. 4th; admission 15 cents. All are invited to attend.

JAMES F. Sproule of this place started on Monday last together with his brother John and Wife, for Winnipeg. We wish them success in business in the sister Province.

THE weather is stormy and very little out-door work can be done. Better get one of those Hair Cloth Sofa's, at J. W. Bates, Flesherton, and take comfort. Its all in a life-time.

USE "Castorine" Machine Oil, for all kinds of machinery, it is also excellent for harness and leather, make it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers.

ON account of the late arrival of the train from Owen Sound, we are unable to give our readers any of the proceeding of the C[illegible] until thi[illegible] D.

[illegible]

MANUFACT[illegible] threshin[illegible] [illegible] [illegible] and is war[illegible]

WE have [illegible] communications which [illegible] of rather too personal a [illegible] to be inserted under an anonymous name. We have made it a rule that when personalities are indulged in the writer must do so under his own proper name.

CURE that cough! you can do it [illegible] safely and surely with Hagyard's P[illegible] Balsam. Now is the season to guard against colds. If you want to prevent consumption neglect not the most trifling symptoms. Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will never fail you. It cures Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, Whooping-Cough and all Pulmonary complaints. Obtain it of your druggist.

BUSINESS calling us to the thriving village of Williamsford, a few days since, we noticed, among other improvements, that our old friend C. Price, Esq., has erected a new store, and had moved into it. He has now the neatest store, and the best selected and largest stock of goods in the village. Mr. P. is a pushing and thorough business man, and deserves success, and we have no doubt but that he will meet with it.

BARONESS Burdett-coutts' marriage to Mr. Ashmead Bartlett takes place next week. The ceremony will be performed at the Baroness' own residence. The difference in the ages of the above couple is somewhere about 30 years, the Bridegroom being that many years the younger. But we heard of a case a day or two since, that will knock the above into a cocked hat. Although the prize to be gained is not quite so large. It is stated that a young man aged in the vicinity of [illegible] is about leading to the altar a blushing young bride of about 75 summers. The parties live within a hundred miles of Markdale.

YELLOW OIL is the most deservedly popular remedy in the market for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Frost Bites, Sore Throat, Lame Back, Contraction of the Muscles, Croup, Quinsey, and every variety of Pain, Lameness, or Inflammation. For internal as well as external use. Yellow Oil will never fail you. Sold by all dealers in medicine.

Mr. James Sullivan, the burning of whose house was noticed in last week's STANDARD, notwithstanding his heavy loss, expects to have all the material on the ground for the erection of a new building by next Monday, and is now trying to engage a large staff of carpenters with the intention of pushing it to completion rapidly. If we had a few more such energetic men it would be no detriment to us. Mr. S. informed us that had it not been for a can of coal oil and a flask of powder [illegible] been so heavy [illegible] under cover [illegible] the oil and the powder exp[illegible] scattering the fire in all directions making it impossible to save th[illegible]

THE regular meeting of South Grey Division Grange was held in the Orange Hall, Durham, on Thursday, Jan. 13th. After the usual transaction of business the following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—Master, Bro. Jas. Edge; Overseer, C Moffat; Sec., W. Irvine; Steward, H. Willis; Asst. Steward, W. Glencross; Chaplain, J. Wier; Lecturer, W. Cranston; Treas., James Matthews; Gatekeeper, F. Doupe; Lady Asst. Steward, Sister Irvine; Ceres, Pomona and Flora, Sisters Edge, Moffat and Redford, respectively; Auditors, Bros. Edge and Moffat; Executive Committee, Bros. Wier, Moffat and Derby, all of whom were then installed into their respective offices.

READ R. M. Galbraith's advertisement.

THE place to buy watches, see Mr. Doll's advertisement this week.

FOR the best and cheapest machine oil and coal oil, go to Haskett Bros.

OUR thanks are due Dr. Sproule, M. P., for parliamentary and other papers.

"AND STILL THEY COME."—We are to have another industry in Markdale shortly. Mr. John McKenzie, of Meaford, is about opening out in the Marble Works line.

BURDOCK Blood Bitters is the only medicine that acts upon the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and the Bowels at the same time, while it allays nervous irritation, and tones up the debilitated system. It cures all humors from an ordinary pimple to the worst form of Scrofula. For sale by all dealers. Sample bottle 10c., regular size $1.00

AMONG the industries of Markdale, not the least is Mr. James Chapman's Saw Mill, which is running to its full capacity. Taking advantage of the good sleighing he is rushing in the logs fast and furious giving employment to quite a number of people and teams.

OUR LITTLE FOLKS for February is on our table. For those whose name it bears it has no superior. It is beautifully illustrated and full of interesting stories. We know of no better way of investing $1.50 than by subscribing for this magazine. Published by the Russell Publishing Co., 149 Tremont street, Boston, Mass.

ONE dose of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam will relieve a Cough so promptly as to convince the most sceptical of its merits as a Throat and Lung healer; it is the great specific for all Pulmonary complaints tending towards Consumption. The safest, most pleasant, best and cheapest Cough cure known. For sale by all dealers in medicine.

THE annual meeting of South Grey Agricultural Society, was held in the Town Hall, Durham, on Wednesday, Jan. 19th, 1881. After the usual transaction of business the election of officers was proceeded with and resulted as follows:—President, James Edge; 1st vice-President, Jas. Park; 2nd vice-President, H. J. Middaugh. Directors—Chas. Moffat, Geo. Binnie, H. Willis, Andrew Park, John Blyth, Edward Ard, Geo. Huston, Jas. Murdock, C. B. Jackes. Auditors, John A. Munro, Jas. F. Mowat.

WE have received from the Toronto News Company an English Magazine, entitled The Union Jack. It is superior to any of the American Magazines for youth that we have seen, as the tales contained in it are most connected with historical events, travels &c. If you want to keep your boys off the streets at night supply them with good reading. We can recommend this work to parents as in every way unobjectionable. Price 15c. per number, to be had through your [illegible]

[illegible] Seaforth [illegible] of some in[illegible] was tried at [illegible] court [illegible] a man [illegible] cutter [illegible] town, for [illegible] his work. After [illegible] Brownlee's [illegible] evening, [illegible] the horse, on [illegible] Seaforth, the [illegible] cause started to [illegible] its flight got both [illegible] broken and had to be killed. The man refused compensation for the horse and Mr. Forbes brought action against him to recover the price of the animal. The case was decided on Monday, and the verdict was against Mr Forbes. Judge [illegible] in giving his verdict, took the ground which is, no doubt, the proper one, that in hiring a horse and vehicle all risks of accidents rest with the owner, so long as it can be proven that the person hiring and using the animal or vehicle us all proper precautions for its safety, the same as he would were it his own property. It was not proven in this instance that the person in possession of the horse at the time of the accident had made default in this respect, but on the contrary both the defendant himself and several witnesses swore very positively that he had not, and, consequently, the verdict was given against the plaintiff, and he will not only suffer the loss of the horse but have the cost of the suit to pay as well.

GLENELG COUNCIL.

The newly elected Council met at the Town Hall on 17th inst., pursuant to statute. All the members present. Each member made and subscribed the declarations of qualification and of office. The Reeve appointed Chas. Moffat an auditor. Mr. Hall Moved, seconded by Mr. Glencross, that John Lyons be appointed an auditor for 1881, at a salary of $5.50.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Glencross, that John S. Black be appointed assessor for the current year, at a salary of $75.—Carried. A by-law was passed confirming the foregoing appointments. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Niel, that R. J. Doyle be refunded $22.78 paid by him at tax sale for a lot in Glenelg, as no interest has been conveyed by said sale.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Glencross, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that Geo. Binnie be paid $4, and Thos. Davis $6, for inspecting and letting contract of bridge on con. 2. N. D. R.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Neil, seconded by Mr. McMillan, that N. Haley be paid $2, for services as fence viewer.—Carried. Moved by Mr. Glencross, seconded by Mr. Hall, that widow Smith, S. ½ lot 30, con. 3, E. G. R., and Mrs. Priel, lot 1, con. 15, be exempt from taxes for 1880.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Niel, that expenses of the municipal election be paid as follows:—For each polling place $4; Deputy Returning Officers $4 each; Door-keepers $1.50 each.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Niel, that Mr. Hall be road commissioner for Ward No. 1, Mr. McMillan for Ward No. 2, Mr. Niel for Ward No. 3, and Mr. Glencross for Ward No. 4.—Carried. Moved in amendment by Mr. Hall, seconded by Mr. Glencross, that Wm. Hall be commissioner for Ward No. 3.—Lost. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Hall, that the commissioner of Ward No. 3 be authorized to repair the bridge at lot 20, con. 11.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Niel, that N. McIntyre be paid $4 for delivering ballot boxes.—Carried. Moved by Mr. McMillan, seconded by Mr. Niel, that widow McCormick be exempted to the extent of $8.50, taxes on lot 21, con. 5, for the year 1880.—Council adjourned to meet at the same place on 14th February next.

WM. LUCAS & CO., BANKERS,
MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

In large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTEREST AT 6 PER CENT.
Allowed on Savings Deposits.

Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.
September, 1880. 2-y

VETERINARY.
J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER, Claim Agent.
Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,
JUST RECEIVED AT THE
"BELFAST HOUSE."
I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply
OYSTERS —IN— Every Style!
By the Plate or Can
CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE IN TOWN
My Stock of
Provisions and Groceries
Together with
Wines and Liquors,
ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.
ANY AMOUNT of PORK FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-ly

J. MONTGOMERY, BAKER.

THE Subscriber in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is now prepared to supply the Public with FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,
either plain, or
Iced and Ornamented,
and a large
Variety of Other Cakes.
always on hand, Also,
BISCUIT!
of every description. from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the
CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!
BRIDES' CAKES!
supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.
Tea Meetings, Socials,
AND
OTHER PARTIES,
supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.
Markdale, Nov. 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

TAILORING
C. A. OWEN,
Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to
FILL ALL ORDERS
Promptly and Tastily!
CUTTING!
Done while Customers are waiting.
THE LATEST FASHION PLATES
Always on hand to chose from.
A Good Fit Guaranteed
—AT—
LOW RATES.
☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.
Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

CAUTION.

ALL persons are hereby cautioned against purchasing a Note drawn in favor of Samuel Thompson, of Artemesia, and signed by Aaron and William Ernest, dated on or about the 1st day of July, 1880, and due on the 15th day of February, 1881, as we have received no value for the same.

AARON ERNEST,
WILLIAM ERNEST.
Flesherton Station, Jan. 6, 1881. 12-3

Meat for All
AT
W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of
MARKDALE
and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their wants in his line as
CHEAP
as any one north of Toronto.
Fresh and Corned Meats
delivered promptly on receipt of orders.
SAUSAGE & POULTRY
always kept in their Season.
Special inducements to large Purchasers
☞ Shop on Mill street, opposite the "Revere Hotel."
☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continuance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.
Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice, As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOBLE.
Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MACRAE, Reeve.
Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

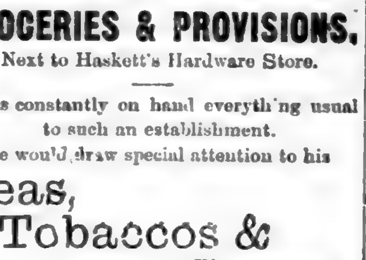
John H. Heard,
Manufacturer and dealer in
Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies,
WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS,
HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS,
HARROW AND
All kinds of Farming Implements
Manufactory and Depository, Durham and Hill streets.
FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store
R. ASKIN
General dealer in
GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.
Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.
Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.
He would draw special attention to his
Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,
Which for quality and Lowness of Price
CANNOT BE SURPASSED.
As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that
I MEAN BUSINESS,
AND WILL
Sell Lower than the Lowest,
as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.
☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.
Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

GRANT & CHELLEW,
MARKDALE,


Cabinet Makers,
—AND—UPHOLSTERERS
a full stock of Furniture!
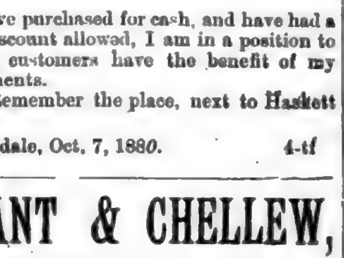
ALWAYS ON HAND.
FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER
LUMBER WANTED.
GRANT & CHELLEW.
Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

THOS. MATHEWS,



WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, and would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a
FIRST-CLASS
HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,
always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.
☞ None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.
Markdale, Nov. 18, 1880. 1o

FOR SALE
IN ARTEMESIA.

FIFTY acres of land, Lot 35, south of Durham Road, 18 acres of cleared land with log house, and well fenced. Inquire of Robert Oliver, opposite the lot, or

JOHN BAY, Dundalk, Dufferin P. O.
Jan. 13th, 1881.

CHEAP CASH STORE.
Reynolds & Son.
JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF
Dry Goods, Groceries,
BOOTS AND SHOES.
TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.
As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.
BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY
Don't Forget the Place.
REYNOLDS & SON.
Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880. 9

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!
In the Countyat
McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots
To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFarland's. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.
W. J. McFARLAND,
IMPORTER, Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."
BUTTER & RAE
Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received sinc commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward busines with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.
DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
CLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.
Keep your Eye on the Place!
WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.
Douglas' Brick Block opposite the Drug Store.
BUTTER & RAE.
September 21st, 1880.

THE PLACE TO BUY
WATCHES!
Over $400 worth sold in the last month
BEAUTIFUL LADIES'
Gold Hunting Watches!
From $15 up WARRANTED.
Silver Watches.
VERY LOW.
A Time Piece To Suit All
AT
W. F. DOLL'S,
FLESHERTON AND DUNDALK.

Weaving. Weaving.
Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done
DONE WITHOUT DELAY,
AT THE
Flesherton Woolen Factory.
Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to
EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS
Will be carried on throughout the witer.
N. CAMPBELL.
Flesherton, December 15, 1880 11

LUMBER AND SAWING.
The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his
Saw Mill at Little Falls
On Lot 148 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish
LUMBER, LATHS ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.
CUSTOM SAWING
PROMPTLY DONE.
By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.
ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.
Wm. HOGG.
P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.
Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-j1

R. J. SPROULE,
FLESHERTON,
Whilst wishing all
A Merry Christmas and a very Happy New Year,
And Many Returns of the Same,
Would take this opportunity of tendering his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which he has received in the past; for, whilst it is the general cry on all sides of dull times, it has been taxing our utmost ability to keep pace with our rapid increase in business, as I find, by reference to my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, and business generally have
ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING ONE.
In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season
THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF
GENERAL GROCERIES,
DRY GOODS, CLOTHING,
BOOTS AND SHOES.
Crockery and Classware,
AND
Fancy Holiday Presents!
ALSO
CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.
Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of Millinery, Furs,
AND
LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,
Ever shown in this Norther Country.
ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE
LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.
Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the
HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!
For any Quantity of good Crain or FARM PRODUCE.
And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered
I will now commence a
GREAT CLEARING SALE
Of my large and complete stock of
Fall and Winter Dry Goods,
MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING,
Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,
And will continue to sell at a
Very Small Advance on Cost!
Until all is cleared out.
A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,
☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT
R. J. SPROULE'S,
FLESHERTON.
Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 12-15

"A Joy Forever."

We passed from out the dazzling light,
We left the rustling throng of dancers:
Miss Smith had said to me: "We might,
I almost think, sit out the Lancers."
And, wandering on, we lost our way—
A country house is most perplexing—
Miss Smith was filled with sweet dismay,
And closer clung—'twas very vexing.

We rested at a window seat,
My hand detained a hand half willing,
We murmured of the flood, the heat,
And other things as wildly thrilling.
Some mistletoe, o'erhead entwined,
Gave rise to arch but tempting banter,
I kissed her—lost my piece of mind—
And got a piece of hers instanter.

She stamped her foot, her bosom rose
And fell with maidenly vexation;
She said—but what she said, Lord knows!
For I was lost in admiration.
But there she stood, a deer at bay,
A picture for a master's sketching;
I soothed her, as a mortal may,
And thought she never looked so fetching.

My deeds were rash, my words insane—
At length we could no longer tarry—
And when we joined the dance again
Miss Smith was Kate and I was Harry.
Ten years' possession has not tired
My love, but I'm in this position:
The tantrums which I once admired
Have palled from frequent repetition.

THE PARSON'S OATH.

BY MRS. HENRY WOOD.

I.

The day was drawing toward its close, and the young charity children, assembled in the newly prepared school-room of the small village of Littleford, glancing impatiently through the windows at the shadows cast by the declining sun; for none knew better by those shadows than they that five o'clock was near.

"First class, come up and spell," called out the governess from behind her table by the window.

"There ain't no time, Miss," replied one of the girls, with the easy familiarity apt to subsist between scholar and teacher in rustic schools. "It's a'most sleek on the stroke o' five."

The governess, a fair, pleasant-looking young woman, dressed in mourning, and far too lady-like in appearance for the paid mistress of a charity-school, glanced around the hour-glass, and saw that it wanted full ten minutes to the hour.

"There is time for a short lesson, children," she said. "Put aside your work and come up."

The first class laid their sewing on the bench, and were ranging themselves round the governess's table, when a young lady, in a hat and riding-habit, followed by a groom, galloped past the windows, and reined in.

"Governess!" exclaimed a dozen voices, "here's Miss Rickhurst."

"Go on with your work, children; what do you mean by pressing to the window? Did you never see Miss Rickhurst before? Jane Hewgill, open the door."

"How d'ye do, Miss Winter?" said the young lady they had called Miss Rickhurst, carelessly nodding to the governess, as she entered. "How are you getting on? What class have you got up now?"

"Spelling," replied Miss Winter. "Jane Hewgill, why don't you shut the door?"

"'Cause here's Mr. Lewis and his aunt acoming up," answered the child. "I'm a-keeping it open for them."

Miss Rickhurst hastily rose form the governess's seat, which she had unceremoniously taken, and went to the door to meet the new comers.

Mr. Lewis, the clergyman of the parish, was a meek, quiet man of 30 years. It is certain he was not ambitious, for he felt within him an everlasting debt of gratitude to the noble patron who had stepped forward and presented him with this village living and its stipend of £150 per annum. He had never looked for more than a curacy, and half the sum. His father, dead now, had been a curate before him, and he, the son, had gone to Oxford as a servitor, had taken holy orders, and struggled on. And when the Earl of Littleford, who had silently been an eye-witness of the merits and unassuming piety of the poor young curate, presented him unexpectedly with the little village church on his estate, John Lewis raised his heart in thankfulness to the Earl, who had thus under God put WANT away from him for his span of life.

Once inducted into the living, the Reverend John Lewis worked undefatigably. Among other good works, he re-established the girls' charity school, an anciently endowed foundation, which had fallen nearly into abeyance, as many other ancient charities have in the present day. The mistress of it, Dame Fox, was old; so Lord Littleford and the clergyman superannuated her, and looked out for another; and while they were looking, Miss Winter, the daughter of Farmer Winter who was just dead, went up to Littleford Hall and asked for the situation.

The whole village liked Regina Winter; although she had received an education, and, for five years of her life, enjoyed a home (with her dead mother's London relatives) far above what Littleford thought suitable for a working farmer's daughter. They likewise took numerous liberties with her name. Regina! it was one they could not become familiar with, so some called her Gina, many Ginny, and a few brought out a short "Gin." After her father's death, she found that scarcely any provision was left for her; and, as she one day sat musing upon what should be her course, the servant Nomy, a buxom woman of forty, who had taken care of the house since its mistress died, now ten years ago, suddenly suggested that she should apply for the new place.

"What place?" asked Regina.

"The schoo missus's," replied Nomy. "The Earl and the parson are a-wanting to find one, and they do say, in the village, it will be a matter of £30 a year. Surely you'll do, Miss Giny, with the grand edication you've had."

"Too much education for a village school mistress," thought Regina. "But it would keep me well, with what little I have besides."

"Go up to Littleford Hall; go right up yourself; Miss Gina, with your own two good legs," advised Nomy. "Nothing like applying to the fountain head one's self, if business is to be done," added the shrewd woman.

"Apply to Lord Littleford myself," ejaculated Regina.

"Why not? Ain't he as pleasant-mannered a man as one would wish to come across? One day lately, not three weeks afore poor master died, the Earl was a-crossing our land on horseback, and he axed me to open the gate o' the turnip-field, and he kept on a-cutting his jokes with me all the time I was a-doing of it."

The servant's advice was good, and it proved so. Miss Winter made her own application to the Earl of Littleford and she was successful, though the Earl demurred at her request at first, for her own sake, telling her she was above the situation, and that the renumeration was very small.

As the clergyman came into the school this afternoon, he shook hands with the Squire's daughter; he then advanced and held out his hand to Miss Winter. Miss Rickhurst followed him with her eyes and curled her lips; what right had the Vicar thus associate, to be shaking hands with a charity-school governess.

"I was going to hear the class, Mr. Lewis," said the young lady, after some minutes had been spent in talking. "Jane Hewgill, tell my groom he may go on with the horses—I shall walk home. Pray, Miss Winter, where did you say they were spelling? Three syllables! how very ridiculous! C-a-t, cat; c-o-w cow; that quite as far as they need go."

"Do you think so?" returned Regina, in a cold tone, for she did not like these repeated inferences of Miss Rickhurst.

"Highly rediculous," snapped Miss Budd. "What can such girls want with spelling? If it were not for reading the Bible, I should say never teach them to read at all."

A very domineering widow was this aunt of the clergyman. Upon his appointment to the Vicarage, down she came and established herself in it, assuring him that the house would never get on without somebody to manage it. Mr. Lewis had a dim perception that he and his house would get on better without her; but he never said so and she remained.

Miss Winter went to the mantelpiece, and turned her hour-glass. It was five o'clock, and the children flocked out of school. The Vicar, Miss Budd, and Miss Rickhurst followed.

"Mr. Lewis," began the young lady, in a confidential tone, "don't you think your schoolmistress is getting above her business?"

"In what way?" he asked looking surprised.

"There is such a tone of superiority about the young woman—I mean implied superiority," added Miss Rickhurst, correcting herself.

"I have always thought there is much of real superiority about her," replied the Vicar. "But I have never known anyone who, in manners and conversation, gave one less the idea as implying it. And she gets the children on astonishingly; one might think, by their progress, she had taught them two years, instead of barely one."

"It is of no use to argue with John about Miss Winter," interposed Mrs. Budd. "He thinks her an angel, and nothing less."

"No, I do not," laughed the Reverend John, "I only think her very superior to young women in general." And Miss Rickhurst once more curled her haughty lips.

Meanwhile, Miss Winter left the school-room, with her assistant, a sickly-looking girl of 15 or 16, named Mary Brown. Regina lodged at a farm-house near, occupying a parlor and bedroom, and was partially waited on by the people of the house. As soon as they got in, Mary Brown, whose weak health caused her to feel a constant thirst, began to set out the teacups and make the tea.

"Mary," observed Miss Winter, when the meal was over, "you had better go up to your brother's for the calico, and to-morrow set about making his shirts; you know he was scolding you yesterday at their not being begun. Start at once or you will have it dusk. I will wash up the tea things."

Mary Brown put on her things and departed. But not long had she been gone when the parlor door opened and a tall, fine young man, about six-and-twenty, walked in. He was dressed in a green velveteen shooting-jacket, leather breeches, and gaiters, and a green kerchief was twisted loosely round his neck. Altogether, there was a careless, untidy look about him, and it might have puzzled a stranger to tell whether he was a gentleman or a man of a lower order. The face would have been handsome (and, indeed, was) but for the willful, devil-may-care expression that pervaded it. His complexion was fair, his eyes were blue, and his light hair curled in his neck. This gentleman was Mr. George Brown, universally known in the village by the cognomen of "Brassy." He had acquired the appellation when a boy; partly because he was gifted with a double share of that endowment familiarly called "brass," and partly because in his boyhood he displayed a curious propensity of collecting together odds and bits of brazen metal. Once, when a young child, he had stolen a small brass kettle, exposed outside a shop for sale, lugged it home, and put it in his bed. His mother on going to her own room at night, looked at Georgie, and there he was sleeping, with the brass kettle hugged to him. He had been "Brassy Brown" since, and would be to the end of his life.

Mr. Brassy Brown did not enjoy a first-rate reputation. He had inherited a little land from his father, on which was a small house, where he lived, called "The Rill," and, though he certainly could not subsist upon its preceeds alone—he had no other visible means of support—he lived well, and never seemed to lack money. He was upon friendly terms with the whole neighbourhood, from Squire Rickhurst down to the worst poacher in it; indeed, so intimate was he with the latter suspicious fraternity, that some people said he must be a poacher himself. Until recently his sister had lived with him in his cottage, no one else; but when Miss Winter found she wanted some assistance in the school she thought of Mary, compassionating the girl's lonely life, want of proper society, and weak health, and she took Mary to live with her. It may be questioned, however, if Miss Winter would have made the proposal to the girl had she foreseen that they should be inundated with visits from her brother.

When he came in Miss Winter put down the book she was reading, poured out some hot water into a basin, and began to wash up the tea things.

"Where's Poll?" began Mr. Brassy.

"She's gone to the Rill for the calico," answered Regina. "What a pity that she will have her walk for nothing!"

"It will stretch her legs for her," returned Mr. Brown, sitting down in the chair from which Regina had risen, and extending his own long legs across the hearth. "Now, Regina," he continued, "I want an answer to that question of mine."

"What question?" she inquired, a crimson hue flushing her face.

"Don't pretend ignorance, Gina, for it wont go down with me to-night," was Mr. Brassy Brown's rejoinder. "You know what I have been asking you this year past: we are by ourselves now, and I'll have it out. Will you come up to the Rill and make your home there, and be my wife?"

"Why do you persist in persecuting me thus?" exclaimed Regina, in a tone of vexation. "I have told you already that I could not be your wife. You behave like a child."

"Why don't you say like a fool?" he rejoined. "Twould be as polite as the other. What fault have you to find with the Rill—or with me? Perhaps you think I can't keep you there like a lady?—but I can. Never you mind how: I can. You shall have a good servant to wait upon you, and everything as comfortable and plentiful about you as you had in your father's home. I swear it."

Regina shook her head. "I would not go to live at the Rill—I could not be your wife, Brassy, if you offered me a daily shower of gold. And if you continue to pursue this unpleasant subject I shall send Mary home and forbid your entrance here."

"So ho, my fine madam! it's defiance between us, is it?" uttered Brassy, rising and grasping Regina's arm in anger. "Then may the devil take the weakest! I have sworn to marry you, and I'll keep my oath; I'll keep it by fair means or foul."

At this moment, after a gentle knock, the door was pushed open disclosing the person of the Vicar. He saw the angry look of Brassy Brown, and his hold upon Regina's arm.

"What is the matter?" he exclaimed. "What game are you after now Mr. Brown?"

"None of yours, parson," returned Brassy, flinging aside Regina's arm. "She affronted me, and I had as good a mind to treat her to a shaking as ever I had to treat anybody to one in all my life."

"He will kill me, some of these days, with his shakings," interposes Miss Winter, laughing, and trying to pass the matter off as a joke, for she was vexed and annoyed that the clergyman should have been a witness to it. "If he does, sir, I shall look to you to give me a Christian burial. Will you promise to do so?"

"Yes," said Mr. Lewis, falling into her mood, for he quite understood it.

"You had better swear to it, parson," added Brassy, with a sneer, for he felt savage at the interruption. "It may be more satisfactory to her."

"I swear it," returned John Lewis, giving no heed to his words in the moment's heat. But a flush rose to his brow when their purport came to him. He, a minister, to swear at this man's bidding!

"Mind you keep your oath, parson, as I'll keep mine," said Brassy Brown, swinging out of the room. "Do you hear, Miss Winter?" But neither of them answered him.

"Regina," said the Vicar, looking after the man, "he is not a desirable visitor for you."

"No," she answered, "and I wish he would not come. Not that I think there is any real harm in him, but I dislike his conversation."

"The plain fact is," resmed the clergyman, speaking with agitation, as a hectic spot appeared on his cheek, "your home here is too unprotected. Regina, will you suffer me to provide you with another?"

Oh, deeper than the flush Brassy Brown's words had called up was the rosy blush that now dyed her face! Neither she nor he for some little time past had been unacquainted with the heart of the other.

John Lewis took her hand. "Regina, you cannot be ignorant that I have loved you. Will you take pity on a lonely man, one who has had but few ties hitherto to care for him, and be his wife?"

"But—I—" she stammered, her trembling hand lying passively in his—"it will be said I am not your equal—that my birth does not qualify me for a clergyman's wife."

"Not my equal!" repeated the astonished Vicar, who was surely one of the most unworldly wise. "You are so far my superior, Regina, that I have hesitated to ask you. And it was but the thought of your unprotected state here that gave me courage to speak now."

"I was but the daughter of a small working farmer," she persisted, the tears filling her eyes with the extent of her emotion. "I am but the paid teacher of a charity school."

"I was but the son of a working curate," he whispered. "We were four children and my father and mother, all to subsist upon [illegible] pounds per year. I am indebted to charity, which helped to educate me, for being in the position I now am. A working farmer was immeasurably above us, Regina. We are both alone in the world; we have no ties of kindred to consult; from this time forth let us be all in all to each other."

The news traveled forth to the village, throwing up a fine hubbub in its wake; the Reverend John Lewis was about to marry Regina Winter. Mrs. Budd was pleased to be satirical over it, Miss Rickhurst was indignant, and Brassy Brown furious.

"What on earth possessed you to do it, John?" exclaimed Mrs. Budd to her nephew, when he came into the vicarage at dinner-time the day she first heard the tidings.

"Do what?" cried the Reverend John, with a conscious look and that suspicious hectic rising to his cheek.

"You have been offering yourself and your name to the charity school-mistress, they say," retorted the aunt, who feared the introduction of a wife might lead to her losing her snug home at the vicarage. "You must be out of your senses, John?"

"We shall be able to find another governess for the school," answered John, evasively. "It is past one, aunt. Is not dinner ready?"

"Dinner! You'll get bread and cheese to-day for dinner, if you get anything," resorted Mrs. Budd. "I and Betty have been too much upset this morning to think of cooking. Oh, John, you are a great fool! you might have had Miss Rickhurst."

"Miss Rickhurst!" exclaimed the Vicar, opening his eyes at the assertion.

"Miss Rickhurst, yes," mimicked the lady, "if you had not been more blind, more simple, than anybody ever was yet."

"I don't want Miss Rickhurst," answered the young clergyman, "Let her marry in her sphere of life; she would have domineered me out of house and home."

These events happened in March. The Vicar proposed being married in May, until which time Regina had to retain her place in the school. One day in April, as she was walking home from its duties, she suddenly came upon Brassy Brown, who was looking over the hedge.

"I have been watching for you, Gina," he said, very quietly. "I want to hear from your own lips whether it's true that you have promised to marry that cursed parson?"

"Yes, it is true," she timidly answered, not seeing how she could deny to him what was public news.

"How came you to conceal it from me all the time you were fooling me on?"

"I fooling you on!" uttered Regina, in surprise.

"Well—let that pass. Why did you not tell me you loved the black-coat?"

"I—I could not tell what I—did not know," stammered Regina, a blush dyeing her cheeks.

"Bosh! don't make excuses to me. I'd stake my Skye terrier against his holding-forth sermon-book that there has been love between you two this many a month past. What is it you have got in that paper parcel?"

"It is only some work," said Regina. "Good morning, Brassy. Mary is gone home already. She will wonder where I am."

"Let her wonder. I say, Regina, you remember what I told you—that I'd taken an oath. I'll keep it yet, and have you sooner or later."

The words might have imparted to Miss Winter a sort of dread, but that Brassy Brown was smiling as he spoke them—and a pleasant smile was Mr. Brassy's, with all his imperfections. Her spirits rose at seeing that smile, and she arrived at the conviction that he was forgetting his preference for her. It pleased her much. Setting these persecutions aside, and a few slips of language he was wont to indulge in, she did not dislike Brassy, and had never thought so ill of him as some in the parish were disposed to do.

"Won't you shake hands before you go?" asked Mr. Brassy.

She held out her hand over the gap in the hedge. He shook it warmly; and away she went, silently thankful that all animosity between Brassy Brown and herself was over.

Nomy, Farmer Winter's old servant, had lately married the under-keeper of Squire Rickhurst, a widower with some grown-up sons. They lived in a cottage about half a mile beyond the Rill, following the high road. That same afternoon, on coming in from school, Regina told Mary she though, as it was so fine, she should go and see Nomy. "Do you feel well enough to accompany me?" she asked.

"No," replied the girl, "my breathing is very much oppressed to-day. I feel I could not get so far. Do you mind calling in at the Rill, Rigina?"

"What for?"

"To get my cotton shawl. This is such a weight, now the spring weather's coming on, I can hardly drag to school in it. If the door should be open, and Brassy not just in the way, you can get it yourself; its lying on the middle shelf of the press in the keeping-room."

Regina started on her walk, and had nearly gained the Rill, when who should come swing down the road in front of her but Brassy Brown.

"Hallos, Regina! where are you going to?"

"I am going to see Nomy. The afternoon is so fine, I quite longed for a walk. And I want something for Mary from your house, Brassy. Can you come back and give it me?"

"Oh, bother," was Mr. Brassy Brown's rejoinder, "I have not got a minute to lose. Ted Timms is waiting for me down yonder in the gap; he is a shuffler; and he'll make it an excuse to slink off if I'm behind time. What is it you want!"

"Mary's cotton shawl. Her woolen one is too warm for this weather. Do you know, Brassy, that Mary seems to me to get weaker."

"It's no fault of mine if she does. Have the doctor to her. I'll pay."

"Can you bring the shawl down to-morrow?"

"I don't know that I can. If I get what I want from Ted Timms, I am going off for a few days. You can call in for it as you come back from Nomy's. I shall be at home then."

"Very well," rejoined Regina.

Mr. Brassy Brown went on his way and Regina on hers. She found Nomy up to her eyes in work, brewing. She was delighted to see her young lady, and hastened to set out the best china for tea, in the little keeping-room, darting away every five minutes to her work in the brew-house. Nomy had heard of Regina's new prospects, and in talking of them the time slipped away unheeded, Regina forgetting the hour, and Nomy her brewing. The former at length started up.

"I dare not leave the wort, Miss Gina," exclaimed the woman, as she attended Regina to the door. "To think that you should have come this very evening, of all others, when I can't see you back to the village."

"Oh, I shall soon be there," rejoined Regina, speaking valiantly. "The moon is shining, and I have to call up at the Rill for Mary's shawl; that will break the way. Good night, Normy."

"The Lord be with ye, dear Miss Gina!"

[TO BE CONTINUED.]

Two Rejected Lovers.

(N. Y. Evening Post.)

The following story is told by a gentleman who is intimate with President Hayes and President-elect Garfield, and whose personal truthfulness is vouched for by the Cleveland, Ohio, Herald. "In the little village of Bedford, only twenty miles distant from Cleveland, there lived, some thirty years ago, two charming and attractive girls. To one of these President Hayes had become an ardent suitor; but the parents of the young lady had vigorously opposed their courtship, on the ground that young Hayes was poor and gave evidence of hardly sufficient ability to warrant risking their daughter's future. The match was broken off, and the lady is to-day married and well-known to Cleveland people. The other young lady had received some attentions from young Garfield, and was well disposed to reciprocate them. Her parents, however, objected to their intimacy, giving as the reason of their opposition the poverty of Garfield and the anything but bright prospects of his future. The most remarkable coincidence of the courtships was that both young ladies lived in a village of not more than five hundred inhabitants and both refused two future Presidents of the United States, because of their poverty."

It is truly said that there is only one way not to get cheated in a horse trade, and that is not to buy the horse.

The Paris Police.

HOW PEACE AND GOOD ORDER ARE MAINTAINED IN PARIS.

Pall Mall Gazette.

For purposes of description the Parisian police may be classed under three principal heads. These three branches are charged respectively with the political, criminal and civil police of Paris, and, indirectly, of all France. The several divisions are, of course, independent, and the functions of each frequently commingle and overlap, but they are, upon the whole, broadly separate and distinct. Each has its administrative, each its active portion. For the first they depend upon bureaus organized carefully, and working with that indefatigable, painstaking minuteness which is so remarkable a feature in French official life. They are served actively by an army of agents or inspectors, in uniform or out of it, according to their duties, and varying in number with the services they have to perform. The political police is ruled direct from the cabinet of the perfect. This is the central headquarter office; it consists of three bureaus, and of the general secretariat, which deals with the archives, the material, and the finance of the department.

Among the most important functions of the prefecture are those which concern the mentally afflicted. The responsibility for the first incarceration of a lunatic rests with the police. Except in case of extreme urgency it is only through the intervention of the prefecture that he can be placed under restraint. Even where the necessity for immediate removal to an asylum is obvious, its superintendent is bound to inform the police within twenty-four hours, and a close and constant inspection by numerous functionaries is kept up for six months following of the individual thus summarily disposed of. Under the ordinary process the placement or order of restraint can only be obtained after many formalities have been observed. A medical certificate, the formal request of friends, a report from the commissary of the quarter—these are the preliminary steps. Then the prefect quietly dispatches his own agents—officials in plain clothes—to bring the lunatic to the prefecture. There he is lodged in the special infirmary attached to the depot. The utmost privacy is assured; no one but the officials watches the arrival, which is by a private door. After a short stay at the depot, during which the medical officers of the prefecture examine and decide upon the mental condition of the patient, the latter, if the case is clear, is transferred to a padded cellular carriage and driven to the Asylum of St. Anne.

The whole of the arrangements by which Paris is fed are closely watched and supervised by the civil police. Laws not of yesterday have confided full powers to the prefect in this respect. The control of all halls and markets, the verification of weights, the inspection of all articles of food, have long fallen exclusively within the province of the prefecture. The system is thoroughly well organized and very efficiently worked. The eye of the police is everywhere. It examines closely all the carcasses slaughtered at the abattoirs, and, through its inspectors, who must affix the official stamp before it is sold, guarantees the circulation of sound, pure meat. A body of sworn tasters, again, are visiting perpetually all establishments for the sale of liquors; and they have full powers to seize and condemn all wine, brandy, or beer which they find to be adulterated. Other officials known as "inspecteurs ambulants," are constantly employed in watching the retailers of all kinds of food. It is difficult to deceive their keen and practiced senses, and woe to the traders who are found tripping. These inspectors have other and more inquisitorial functions; it is also part of their duty to descend into the kitchens of all restaurants and eating-houses, where they strictly scrutinize the pots and pans, not only insisting upon cleanliness, but forbidding the use of utensils which might prove injurious to health. Most important of all, the prefecture of police shares with the prefecture of the Seine the charge and control of the great Halles Centrales. Upon the police falls the government and discipline of the personnel and the general administration of the markets. The facteurs, or broker salesman, to whom all goods are consigned by the producers for sale, are nominated by the prefect, to whom they give security and are otherwise amendable, although their integrity is so proverbial that cases of misconduct are unknown. There is in all this a close attention to the creature comforts of the population which might be imitated with advantage on this side of the channel. Another service in which the Parisian is more actively useful than in London police is the control and management of the public vehicles and those who drive them. It is true that, as regards the regulation to street traffic, our own constables have little to learn—the whole active army of the prefecture would probably be perfectly helpless in dealing with a "block" in Oxford street, or on Ludgate hill. But the Parisian police authorities rule the cabmen of Paris with a much tighter hand. There is much more difficulty than with us in obtaining a license to drive: it is easier lost or suspended. The first application is followed by close inquiry into antecedents, references are made to former employers, and it is not unless thoroughly satisfied as to the candidate's character that the man's dossier is formed, containing his whole history, and he is numbered among the cabmen of Paris. He is now directly responsible to the prefecture, which immediately attends to and adjudicates upon all complaints against him. Short shirt is given to offenders. The most ordinary punishment is the mise en pied, or temperory withdrawel of the license to drive; serious cases are met with absolute prohibition, but this sentence is only pronounced by the prefect himself. The better to control the cab-men a surveillan, or police agent, is posted at each cab-stand or station, who records the numbers of the cabs on the rank, with the hours of departure and return. In his office is a special register for the inscription of complaints, and all charges thus entered are forwarded without delay to the prefecture. Another excellent check upon the cabmen is the law which obliges him to examine his vehicle whenever he has set down a fare; the same law exists, under pain of punishment, that he shall hand over to the police any articles that he may find. These are passed on without delay to the lost property depot at the Prefecture, where their owners can always have them on application. The depot is a curious sight, and contains a heterogeneous mixture of the most diverse and nondescript things. Only 40 per cent. of these are ever claimed, and after three years the remainder becomes the property of the state.

Another branch of the civil police seems peculiar to Paris. This is the service de garnis, which is charged with the domiciliary visitation of all hotels and lodging houses in the city. This work is intrusted to a body of inspectors, one hundred and twenty-four in all, whose duty it is to examine daily the registers which the law compels every landlord to keep of the names of all who have passed the night under his roof. The names extracted are transmitted at once to the Bureau des Garnis at the Prefecture. Here they are at once entered alphabetically in the records, and with such precision and promptitude that it is easy to ascertain almost at a glance the name of any individual, and where he was lodged at any particular day. The power which such a machinery must give to an execute inclined to be despotic must be obvious to everyone. No hotel escapes the law; the descent of the Prince of Wales at the Hotel Bristol, the arrival of John Smith, of London, at the Grand hotel, figures in the daily list with the names and aliases of Fil de Sole and Brute-Cervelle, whose favorite haunts are in the old palace of the Reine Blanche, near the place Maubert, or in the low dens of the Rue des Anglais (formerly Rue des Crimes) and the Rue de Galande. It is against the criminal, however, that the organization is principally directed, and as it exists to-day, it scarcely affects the personal freedom of any but those who habitually break the law made a peer," guessed Lady T. It was true; but Macaulay said he was quite disappointed. He had wished to surprise them. My only wonder is that Lady T. did not say: "You have been made a duke."

He was very modest in choosing his title, "Baron Macaulay, of Rothley Temple, in the County of Leicester." Before assuming it, he took pains to find out if anybody else had a better right to date from Rothley temple. And yet he was honestly proud of his elevation to the peerage. In a few days he could repeat Garter's Roll by heart—laughing the while.

As far as one can judge, Macaulay was a deist who approved the forms of Christianity. He had also a historic love of Catholicism tempered by a historic love of Puritanism. He had been required to choose a patron saint out of each century, I think his choice would have fallen upon St. Bernard for the twelfth century; Lewis of France for the thirteenth; Wycliffe for the fourteenth; Huss for the fifteenth; Luther for the sixteenth; Pascal for the seventeenth; Voltaire (or Wesley) for the eighteenth. To do him justice, his ideal saint would have combined all that was good in the French encyclopedist and the English revivalist.

The Brush Electric Light.

The ancient saw about the chase of milk obtained by the still [illegible] seems to be pretty well borne out in the progress of the brush system of electric lighting. A dozen systems, so-called, have made more noise and have attracted more newspaper attention; but while they are for the most part still "promising," the Brush system has been quietly taking possession of the field. How far this is due to the superior business management of the company controlling the Brush patent it is impossible to say; the indications are, however, that the remarkable success of the brush system is mainly due to the practical genius of Mr. Brush in meeting the requirements of outdoor or large room lighting with an efficient generator, and a lamp which is so simple in construction so automatically regular in action, and so easy to keep in order, that practical business men can afford to use it. It is perhaps the least ornamental in appearance of all lamps, but it gives the light required, and calls for comparatively little care. On the score of economy the users of the lamp profess to be well satisfied; and the rapid and largely extended adoption of the system, abroad as well as at home, would seem to justify the favourable judgment which those who have tried the lamp have freely expressed with regard to its practical value.

The latest list of prominent users of the Brush light embraces twenty-five rolling mills, iron and steel works, machine shops, car works, and the like; twenty saw mills, paper mills, oil works, printing houses, and other factories and manufacturing establishments; twenty woollen, cotton, linen, and silk factories, several of them employing over a hundred lights each; a dozen mines, smelting works, etc., more than a dozen wholesale and retail stores, using from six to sixty-four lights: a dozen public parks, docks, summer resorts, and the like including a mile and a half of river front and docks at Montreal; circuses, colleges, hotels steamers; and large numbers of city lights in San Francisco, St. Louis, Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Grand Rapids, and other cities besides New York and Brooklyn, where a hundred or more lights are already in use. The contracts of the company in San Francisco called for the erection of about a thousand lamps by the beginning of the current year. Wabash, Indiana, claims the credit of being the first large town to adopt the electric lamp for general illumination, four Brush lights, of 3,000 candle power each, on the court house dome, sufficing for the outdoor needs of the entire town of 10-000 inhabitants.

The company formed in London to introduce the Brush light there have already placed two hundred lights in various parts of the city, and have ordered from Cleveland nearly as many more, contracts having been signed for the lighting of the Houses of Parliament, Charing Cross Station, Ludgate Hill Station, Blackfriars' Bridge, St. Paul's Churchyard, and other conspicuous places. Even the extremely conservative British Admiralty has taken kindly to the Yankee invention, 432 lights have been purchased for the use of the Royal Navy. Mr. Brush is now making a 40-light machine (80-000 candles) designed to throw the entire current into one huge lamp, which has been ordered for the British torpedo service. The carbons for this artificial sun will be as large as a man's arm, and the light, when directed by a projector of corresponding size, will of itself be a formidable weapon of defense. With a proper system of curtains it will be possible to flash upon an approaching enemy a sudden glare of light that will be little less than blinding.

A less imposing but more admirable application to this light, and one that is being rapidly adopted, is in connection with locomotive headlights. The generator is operated by a small engine taking steam from the boiler and placed opposite the air compressors of the Westinghouse breaks. By attaching the reflector to the forward truck the light may be thrown so as to illuminate the track ahead even when rounding curves. It is obvious that the same machine which supplies the headlight will also furnish a current for illuminating the cars.

Wherever the electric light has been brought into competition with gas for lighting large rooms or open spaces, it has given a good account of itself in comparisons of cost. In very many cases, however, any comparison with gas is out of the question. With gas it is simply impossible to do certain kinds of work at night, or to do it as rapidly and well as by daylight. With the electric light night production is brought up to the level of day production. The gain of one night's increased production will often pay the cost of electric lighting for months. Practical business men are not slow to appreciate advantages of this sort. The question with them is how much will the electric light cost, but can the light be depended on for steady, uniform, certain operation, without requiring too much expert attention? The ability of the Brush lamp to meet such practical requirements would seem to be the secret of its substantial progress.—Scientific American.

A Good Family Cow.

(Rural New Yorker.)

I have often admired a little Alderney cow belonging to a lady friend, who modestly wishes her name not to be made public. Simply to look at such a cow is suggestive of creamy milk and golden butter. A few days since I had a talk with this friend about milk and butter, during which she showed me her account with this cow, the only one she has. A family of twelve (including servants) with occasional visitors, have to be supplied with milk; but she has generally managed to save one milking each day for butter.

She began keeping an account on the 28th of February, when the churning yielded five pounds. On the 25th of August (the day before I saw the account book) the churning gave four pounds and a half. The whole amount of butter made during the interval of six months was one hundred and ninety-one pounds. This, it seems to me, is a great show from a small cow when you take into consideration the prolonged drought, and that a large family was supplied with milk at the same time. If all the milk had been saved for butter the result would have exceeded four hundred pounds for the six months; and the lady thinks she does better than this when there is plenty of good grass. She is very careful to know that the cow is well cared for and gently treated.

I find from the dates that there were two churnings a week, those in the first week in March yielding eleven pounds, and the next week, nine and one half pounds. In the first week of June the yield was ten and a half pounds, and in the two following weeks it amounted to nine and ten pounds respectively. The last two churnings (August 25) or one week, gave eight and a half pounds. The reader can get the weekly average from the figures before given, but he must keep in mind that only one milking a day was saved for butter, and that hay had to be used for feed during a part of the drought. I have more than once eaten the butter, and can ask for nothing more delicious. I inquired, "Do you ever use artificial colouring for your butter?" The reply was decidedly earnest and characteristic. "No! I don't want any frauds about my butter." This case is given to show what can be done with a good cow, good food, kind treatment, and a goodly share of the "know how;" and this "know how" might be learned by many who have all the requirements for keeping a nice little Alderney.

There are a good many indications that republican simplicity and the idea of equality before the land cure disappearing first in the United States. The worship of wealth is everywhere, and the efforts to create a something which will pass for aristocracy is very apparent. The idea of Presidents sneaking back quietly into the ranks of mere citizens is beginning to be thought low and unworthy of a great people. Pensions and permanent Senatorships are talked of for them. There are some who fancy that General Grant can never be too much rewarded. A new office in the army is proposed for him, and new pensions bestowed, though he has been honoured and pensioned in a way never dreamed of in the early days of the Republic. All this gives indication of corruption and decay, and if the feeling grow and gather, the fear of Cæsarism as the ultimate result may not be so chimercal after all.

DAWSON habitually whipped his wife at Paducah, Ky. Wyatt, his neighbour, said to him, "If you don't stop the practice I'll kill you." The next time Mrs. Dawson screamed, Wyatt went in and kept his promise by shooting her husband through the body, though the wound did not prove fatal until a week later.

To realize how it feels to be better off, sit down on a hot stove.

KOFFEENE! KOFFEENE!! KOFFEENE!!!

Good Intentions.

"The road to hell is paved with good intentions," sounds bitterly cynical, and yet [illegible] The figure certainly expresses what a great many persons have felt, and will continue to feel, on account of the irreparable harm done by those whose benevolence is altogether superior to their understanding. Our impatience with, our intolerance of, that class, increases with our years and experience of the world. In youth we are prone, more or less to sentiment, and to take sentimental views of life. As we ripen toward middle age we harden, as it is styled; that is, we grow more and more practical, judging by results, and pinning our faith to common sense and sagacity, rather than to emotional effusiveness, and kind though empty purpose. We so tire of hearing of good intentions, seeing on every hand the injury they may work, that we are doubtless inclined, through a fierce reaction, to undervalue sensibility and more sympathetic effort.

A large number of men and nearly all women are uniformly swayed by their feelings. They obey their impulses to the neglect of reason and principle, which they seem to think the agencies of selfishness and calculation. They give credit to their fellows for their aims, irrespective of the manner of carrying them out, and take, of course, ample credit to themselves for the same sort of thing. No matter how much trouble a man may cause or how much evil he may produce, the fact that he wanted to do good is regarded, not only as an excuse and justification, but as a title to honour. They are fond of saying, "We cannot control circumstances; the best laid plans may fail; the clearest judgment may be mistaken. If we are sure of our intent, and the intent be commendable, it is all that can be asked. We must leave the rest to fortune." That is just what they do, and this is why their intents yield the reverse of desirable consequences. Fortune is blind, dull, indifferent; she must be watched guided, protected vigilantly and actively, lest she fall into pits and drag her followers after her. Even when she is so watched and guided she goes astray, and to leave her alone is worse than folly.

Good intentions are not sufficient. It would be better not to have them at all than to have them and disregard their fulfilment, which, indeed, requires more than diligence, energy, and caution. Such intentions come from the heart, but that which yields them weight and advantage in execution comes from the head; and head and heart are often, unfortunately, very ill mated. The latter may be of the gentlest and best, and the former, if not weak, far from strong. The two are seldom adjusted to one another; they cannot act in concert, and so they put things at cross-purposes. A good head—meaning a clear, thoughtful, reasoning one—will bear fuller and finer and richer fruit than a good heart unassisted, because the heart simply inspires, it does not achieve or digest.

We love to think that what we call the moral forces accomplish noble results, and they do unquestionably, though fewer than we are led to believe. Unless supported and pushed by intellect and intellectual ambition, they are frequently inoperative, and run to impressive waste. Good intentions are a moral force of a certain order, and are so seldom allied with discretion, foresight, wisdom, or any intellectual quality, that they are incapable of redeeming their fair promises. If they should merely fall short of adequate performance it would be of small moment. But they beget results the opposite of those anticipated—turning reward into loss and pleasure into pain.

We are constantly told of noxious persons that they mean well—as if meaning well were a vindication for doing ill. They say themselves that they mean well, and this is the principal testimony in their behalf. They probably speak truth; but whether they do or not is of little concern compared with the effect of their meaning. We are all too busy, life is too short, for the investigation of motives or causes. We must judge by results, and if these be desirable we do not care to inquire how they were brought about. We all prefer achievements to aims, deeds to words, performances to promises, and, however unreasonable, it is hard to convince us that excellence of purpose will repeatedly miscarry unless accompanied by a deal of inertness, misjudgment, or stupidity. When we are annoyed or disappointed or injured by some attempt ostensibly to benefit us that has really hurt us, it is simply exasperating to learn that it was conscientiously made in our behalf, but that circumstances were averse. If the attempt had been at our wish, or with our assent or knowledge, we should be obliged to pardon its consequences. But made independent of us, and in definance of our antecedents, opinions, and principles, it is not strange that we chafe and scold and long for some friendly foe to conspire against our comfort and our peace just to see if his machinations will not trouble us less than the efforts of our inimical friends.

The world and the cause of humanity and progress have probably suffered as much—perhaps more—from people with good intentions as from people with ill intentions. Some of the greatest rascals in history, as they must be regarded from any moral point—men who have persecuted, plundered, murdered, destroyed, violated all natural and ethical laws—have undeniably been impelled, as they conceived, by good intentions. They were bigots, marauders, brutes, barbarians, as we see them; but, as they saw themselves, they thought that the end justified the means, and they marched to it ruthlessly over burning towns, devastated plains, and dead and dying for. They meant well, and, while so meaning, filed the earth with evil in every form. If they had meant ill, they would have stopped short of their recorded cruelties and manifold wrongs, for the consciousness of malevolence would have made them hesitate and doubt the policy of such widespread crime.

Individuals and communities, as well as countries and ages, are hindered and afflicted by good intentions and good intenders, generally married and sometimes extinguished by lack of perception, experience, and worldly knowledge. Good intentions have done so much harm that there are few men who do not sometimes ask to be protected from their friends. Evil intentions can be more easily guarded against, and they seldom cause such great mischief. And when they result to our detriment we have the satisfaction of knowing that they were so meant. But good intentions are, if misdirected, the irony of fortune, the cynicism of friendship, the choicest food of misanthropy.

A Remarkable Diamond.

Of the many millions in value which the diamond mines and river diggings of Griqualand West have yielded, the Kimberley Advertiser says the "Porter Rhodes" diamond stands alone in water, purity, and size combined. The Advertiser says:—"This remarkable diamond was found on the 12th of February last, in one of Mr. Porter Rhode's claims in Kimberley mine, and handed to him by one of his overseers, who will reap substantially the reward of his fidelity. Mr. Rhodes has kept his secret well until the last week or two, when a few personal friends were treated to a view, some of whom suggested exhibiting it in aid of the Carnarvon Hospital, and although the seemingly high sum of one sovereign per head was charged, the sum of £120 was netted in one day in Kimberley. In weight it is 150 carats, in shape that of a dodecahedron of perfect form, spotless and flawless, with small secondary natural facets finely ribbed, which impart a beautiful satin like appearance to it. A piece has been broken off very cleanly in the line of grain or cleavage from one side of about 35 to 40 carats, and another piece of about 10 carats is gone on the opposite line of cleavage, also a very clean fracture, and at the same end of the stone, so that the whole has the appearance of the top of an egg with a small piece off one side. That it will cut a brilliant as perfect in form as in purity is the opinion of our best experts, whilst as to its water or whiteness one and all unite in pronouncing it so exceptionally fine that the sight of it can never be effaced from memory. Experts know that there are various kinds of whiteness known to the trade, some more valuable than others. The whiteness of this diamond has been tested in every known way, and it is generally described to be of a satin-like whiteness, without a particle of steely blue, pinkish or any tinge or taint of any colour whatsoever."

A comic London paper, Moonshine, has a sketch of the Dublin trials with Judge May "invisible" behind an iron barricade and the jurors and witnesses all fortified by bullet-proof breastplates, while the police, with rifles cocked, look out anxiously for danger, and the only comfortable individual in the neighbourhood is the man in the dock, who, with a comical leer, is contentedly smoking a dhudeen.

An Arizona Wonder.

A REMARKABLE CAVE IN THE SANTA RITA MOUNTAIN—THE BOTTOMLESS PIT.

(From the Tucson Citizen.)

For several years the existence of a curious cave near Greaterville has been known to the miners of the vicinity but the difficulty of thorough exploration has deterred many from visiting it, and half its wonderful extent is yet unknown. From P. J. Coyne, a well-known and reliable prospector, who is in the city, in company with Mr. Johnson, a Citizen reporter, gathered some interesting facts regarding the cave, which is known by the miners as the Aztec, is located about four miles south of the Greaterville placers, in a limestone ridge. Quite recently a party of miners, numbering eight or ten, including Mr. Coyne, determined to discover, if possible the extent and resources of the cave, and provided themselves with ropes, candles, and other necessities. They explored seventeen rooms in all, the corridors and approaches to which extend for nearly a mile from the entrance. They experienced great difficulty, as their progress was frequently interrupted by abrupt breaks in the plane of the cave, at which breaks they rapidly used up their available supply of ropes. The cave has two entrances, which lead into an oval cavity, thence a corridor leads into a large room, and thence into a still larger. In from the larger are to smaller cavities, and these comprises the extent of former explorations. In them have been found at various times in the past relics of Indian occupation, including arrows and skeletons. In one place several Indian skeletons were found in a depression in the floor of the cave, evidently fashioned by human hands. The latter room is described as being of marvellous beauty. It is irregular in shape, and is full of all the various forms which the action of lime has the power to create. In one of these rooms is a group of almost perfect statuary. It consists of a large block of limestone in the shap of a man, woman, and child, the man being in the centre, and also having the closest resemblance to humanity. The head is especially like that of a man, having the features almost distinct, and surmounted by a hat. A short distance away from the group in the flinkering candle light, the illusion is said to be absolutely perfect. At this point the cave discloses the strange feature of being two storied, to to reach the lower rooms of which it is necessary to descend by means of ropes. Here the extent of the old explorations cease, and the adventurers had to be careful lest some new and strange feature of the cave caused them trouble. In one of a group of three lower rooms was found a huge stalagmite, which was instinctively called Pompey's Pillar. It is three feet in diameter at the base, and lessens gracefully in size to the roof of the cave, 30 feet high. This is probably 600 feet below the surface. From the rooms last mentioned a corridor leads to very beautiful rooms, which were given the names of different members of the exploring party. The one named for Mr. Coyne is the largest in the cave. From what was named "Hale's Room" the party followed a steeply inclined tunnel, seventy-five or eighty feet long, which terminated in a large abyss sixty or seventy feet in diameter. After lowering one of the party down the perpendicualr sides from the mouth of the tunnel as far as the remaining rope would permit (about seventy feet), and failing to find bottom, the explorers named it the "Bottomless Pit," and returned.

Concerning Beards.

(From the English Magazine.)

The hirsute appendages of the face have, somehow or other, been invariably connected with politics, religion or fashion. Adam is always represented on the ancient monuments as wearing a flowing beard, and the Jews have so fully accepted the tradition that the more orthodox of the race cherish the appendage with pious jealousy. The Israelitish envoys "tarried at Jericho until their beards were grown;" and during the accute stage of Russian tyranny to Poland, no more severe punishment could be decreed a Hebrew than shaving—and washing—him. A Chinese without his pigtail or an Indian brave divested of his lank locks could not be more an object of commisoration than a beardless Polish peddler. In all the days of their bondage and slavery in Egypt the children of Abraham clung to their beard. For a stranger to touch it was an insult, for children and kinsmen to kiss it, the sign of supreme affection. The fugitive who reverently raised his hand to it might hope for succor, and to swear by the beard was to take an oath which not even the most infamons of them would break. The Moslem, until he got corrupted by the fashions of the Giaours, had an equal reverence for the appen-of his chin; and when Selim I. shaved, the Mollahs were too shocked to appreciate the wit of the Sultan's reason for the heinous transgression. He declared that he cut off his beard in order that his vizier should have nothing to lead him by," a reason not unlike that which induced Alexander the Great to ordain the shaving of his Macedonians, namely, to prevent their enemies laying hold of them in close combat.

The beard has often been the cause of religious schisms. The Greek and Roman Church fought over it, and the Belgian reformers were so hot on the question that they would fain have ejected all save the shaven from their ranks. Peter the Great, with that utter indifference to authority which distinguished the shipwright Czar, laid a tax on the beards of Popes and people alike, though the idea was not possibly original with the Emperor, since more than a century earlier Queen Elizabeth, unable to carry out her father's edicts against them, ordained that every beard above a fortnight's growth should pay a yearly tax of three shillings and fourpence. There have even been battles over beards, for history records how Tartars, Persians and Chinese have shed blood over some disputed questions anent shaving and clipping. But of the broils which fashion has ever caused, the greatest was that which followed the shaving of Louis, VII, of France. This monarch was married, and lived happily enough with Eleanor of Aquitaine, until in a fatal hour he cropped his hair, and, like Hotspur, "smoothed his chin." Then the troubles began which ended, as the chroniclers relate, in the King's divorce and the Queen's remarriage to the Count of Anjou, who is better known to us as Henry II. of England. With this beard-loving dame came Poitou and Guienne as a portion, and from these rich Provinces originated wars which ravaged France for three hundred ...and cost the ... lions of men who might ... peacefully in bed had ... refrained from cropping ... offending his wife.

Mr. Barnum on his ...

(From the New York ...)

Mr. P. T. Barnum, after ... the residence of his ... Samuel S. Hurd, for ... sufficiently recovered ... with his young wife for ... Bridgeport. He lay on a ... parlor, waiting for the ... his wife's sealskin coat ... "Yes, I have had a long ... he said, "and for twelve ... near going. My old ... in, lay sick at the same ... regularly every day to ... me. And yet he went ... remark regarding the ... voice, he said: "It is ... my lungs are perfectly ... kept clear of liquor and to... life, and have not an ... in my whole body." On ... if he had not lost flesh ... exclaimed; "I should ... lost fifty pounds. Look ... he said, pulling up his ... how it has fallen away. ... he remarked, as he stood ... ed his coat and vest, " ... for you, after all the ... filled it." "Mr. Barnum, ... talk any more," called ... from the adjoining room ... obey orders; she is very ... said, as she entered to enforce ... mand. Soon afterward, Mr. ... in an overcoat and fur cap, ... by his son-in-law, tottered ... the door to the carriage.

Trees with a History.

IN one grove in California ... trees, none measuring less ... in diameter.

A MAGNIFICENT white oak ... in the Quaker burying ground ... em, N. J. It is more than ... old, and is remarkable for its ... of shade. In one direction ... have a spread of 112 feet.

THE tallest trees in the ... Australia. A fallen tree ... measured 435 feet from the ... highest point of its branches ... standing in the Dandenong ... Victoria is estimated to ... from the ground to the top.

THE largest chestnut tree ... country is growing on the farm ... omon Merkle at Berks, Pa. ... nearly forty feet in circumference ... the base. The top of the tree ... ed without danger by steps ... fastened between the limbs. It ... mated that this tree contains ... seventeen cords of wood ... yields about three bushels of ... annually.

SKATING AND HUNTING ...

SOME OF THE PERILS AND MISHAPS ... OUR WINTER SPORTS.

STELLA BURGESS, an Elmira, ... aged 19, broke through the ice ... ing at Southport, Tuesday and ... ed.

IN hunting in a stalk field ... Green, Edward Mullins shot ... George Hutchinson, mistaking ...

HARRY KERR of Olean, N. Y. ... precarious condition from the ... his sled with a jutting plank ... pierced his body.

OTTO G. PAGE, aged 14, of ... skating on the lake, slipped into ... and was not missed by his companions ... life was extinct.

HARRY THOMPSON of Cleveland ... rabbit shooting on the morning ... he was to be married. The ... charge of his gun cost him his ...

SUNDAY hunting cost Mat Price ... Mills, Pa., his life, and Frederick ... Pelham, F. H., lost his by put... in the wagon with the barrels ... ward him.

THE brother of John Stevens ... ville, Ohio, cut a hole through ... the river for the purpose of ... John came along on skates, slid in ... and was drowned.

PART of the clothing of Daniel ... of Winslow, Me., was blown ... through his body by the explosion ... as he was climbing a fence with ... against his stomach.

A MR. French, a miner living ... Jefferson River, Montana, heard ... thought was the splashing of ... Hastily getting his rifle, he ... object, and William Davis lost ...

JOHN MAXWELL of Mount Ve... used his gun while hunting as ... which to leap a ditch. His ... hammer, the gun was discharged ... Maxwell lost his right hand ...

IN the regular army William ... of Shelbyville, Ky., lost a leg ... dental discharge of a gun, and ... while hunting lost his arm by ... as a crutch in dismounting from ...

ADAM WEISS of Alder, Pa., ... the rabbit but will lose his ... brakesman, as the result of a ... cursion. He carried a new ... shot gun that exploded and ... hand.

WHEN Robert Christy's gun ... ed by his slipping from a log, ... watch chain, coat, vest, and ... transferred from his person ... He was but 16 years of age, ... Plummer, Pa.

SIDNEY TALLERDAY of ... had killed one rabbit, and was ... for the spit, when his dog ... the hammer of his gun, which ... the muzzle against his breast, ... dead.

JAMES WHITESIDES, aged 21, ... Township, Ind., was all excited ... companion scared up for him ... rabbits. His gun slipped from ... and the entire charge went into ... causing instant death.

THE boat in which Isaac Bailey ... Ball were gunning on Easton's ... mouth, R. I., capsized, and ... prisoned up to his neck in ... than an hour. Ball got upon ... the boat and was rescued.

A BROKEN oar and an overturned ... all that is found of a joyous ... party who went down the ... near Richmond, on Tuesday. ... consisted of Mr. J. M. Vest, ... Morrison, accompanied by a ... wind was very high when they ... snow storm prevailed.

The farmers of Austria are ... great numbers and agitating for ... protect them against the large ... ing importations of grain and ... United States and Russia, ... made at prices with which it ... ous to try to compete. The ... also seek a reduction of the ... on the part of the banks to ... is a kind of granger movement.

EVERY advertisement which ... leading London papers for ... clerk elicit from 100 to 200 ... graphy having become of late ... education, very generally ... the number of really qualified ... ers is everywhere small; in ... of a large staff in London ... batim reports he had but ... quite a young man—whom ... implicitly.

WHAT a delightful thing is ... One dreams for weeks of the ... ner, but during the night that ... animal in Noah's ark become ... nightmare and helps to hold ... so jubilee that he wishes for ... to swallow him and get him ... Anticipation is good, but the ... better.

... FRIDAY MORNING ...
... in advance, $1.50 in three months ... till end of the year ...
... OF ADVERTISING ...
... W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

... Sproule & Carter, ... Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c. ... Medical Hall; residence ... Sept. 17, 1880.

DR. PURDY, ... SICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCHEUR ... Eugenia P. O.

Legal.

Chas. H. Wilkes, ... at Law, - Owen Sound ... Miller's building, over ... Poulet Street.

Frost & Frost, ... TERS, AND ATTORNEYS-AT ... Solicitors in Chancery ... Owen Sound, have ... Office open every Thursday ... J. W. FROST ... Crown Attorney.

James Masson, ... TER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW ... in Chancery, Owen Sound ... 1880.

James Lamon, ... NEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR ... Notary Public, &c. ... at lowest rates on ... Lands bought and ... seller introduced free of ... DUNDALK. ... 21st, 1880.

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown, ... OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, ... missioner in B. R. &c. ... conveyancing in all its branches ... to and carefully executed. ... Money to Lend on Real Estate ... Markdale. Sept. 17, 1880.

W. L. Smith, ... GENERAL AGENT AND DEALER ... Nursery Stock, Williamsford Station ... 17, 1880.

Alexander Brown, ... of Marriage Licenses, ... Life Insurance Agent. ... Conveyancer and ... tioner for the County of Grey. ... chants, and Land Sales, ... ed to and charges made very ... ceville, Sept. 17, 1880.

George Corbet, Jr., ... LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT ... Sound. Money to Loan ... interest. Principal payable ... term of years, and interest ... yearly, or principal and interest ... instalments, ... number of desirable Improved Farms ...

J. G. Sing, ... DOMINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND ... Surveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator ... and Markdale. Having ... Land Surveyor Charles ... stock of original Field Notes ... Instructions, &c., of all his ... within the last fifty-five years ... to make Surveys in strict ... therewith. Profiles and ... ing Hills, Plans and Specifications ... ing Bridges, furnished on ... Money to Loan at 8 per cent ... letter, or left with G. J. ... will be promptly attended ... 17, 1880.

Dentistry.

Dr. James J. White, ... to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, ... BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE ... Markdale, on the last Wednesday ... when he will be prepared ... operations required upon the ... satisfactory manner, ... terms.

Hotels.

MANSION HOUSE, MARKDALE.

... the above hotel and ... shed and refitted it, ... will find every accommodation ... best of liquors and cigars ... Careful hostler. JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor. ... 1880.

REVERE HOTEL, MARKDALE. ... ROULE, - Proprietor. ... popular Hotel has had a ... added to it, thoroughly ... second to none in the ... ling and attentive ostler ... accommodation for commercial ... Terms $1.00 per day.

ROYAL HOTEL, MEAFORD, Ont. ... McGIRR, - - Proprietor. ... accommodation for the ... The bar is well stocked ... Wines and Liquors and ... Cigars. ... to and from all trains. ... 1880.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL, PRICEVILLE, Ont. ... commodious Sample Rooms, &c. The Bar and ... with the best the m... ... Stabling and attentive ... THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor. ... 31st, 1880.

GEORGE WILSON, ... BUTCHER ... Markdale, next door to ... delivered at any house in town. ... 1880.

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 21. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, FEB. 4, 1881. WHOLE NO 21

The Markdale Standard

IS PUBLISHED EVERY FRIDAY MORNING

in time to meet the early mails ... the latest Foreign and Provincial ... Local Intelligence, County Business, ... Matters and an Instructive ... y.

... in advance, $1.50 in three months, ... paid till end of the year. No paper ... continued until all arrearages are ... cept at the option of the publisher ... ties refusing papers without paying ... be held responsible for the subscrip- ... til they comply with the rules.

RATES OF ADVERTISING:

... an, one year	$50 00
do do	27 50
do do	15 00
do do	8 00
do do	4 00
do do	50
... and under, first insertion	15
... subsequent insertion	75
... to ten lines, first insertion	25
... subsequent insertion	8
... lines, first insertion per line	2
... subsequent insertion

... number of lines to be reckoned by ... occupied measured by a scale of ... Advertisements without ... directions will be published till for- ... charged accordingly. All transitory ... must be in the office of pub- ... by 11 o'clock on the Thursday ... preceding their publication.

C. W. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

PROFESSIONAL & BUSINESS DIRECTORY.

Medical.

Drs. Sproule & Carter, ...icians, Surgeons, Accoucheurs &c.

...—Medical Hall; residence at ... House.

...dale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

DR. PURDY, ...SICIAN, SURGEON, ACCOUCH... ...Eugenia P. O. 6-tf.

Legal.

Chas. R. Wilkes, ...ster at Law, - Owen Sound. ...—Miller's building, over Robin... Poulet Street. 1-y

Frost & Frost, ...RRISTERS AND ATTORNEYS-AT ...Law, Solicitors in Chancery, Convey... &c., Owen Sound, have resumed at ...ton, Office open every Thursday, as ...

... Frost. J. W. FROST, LL. B. ...nty Crown Attorney. 1

James Masson, ...RISTER and ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, ...aster in Chancery, Owen Sound. ... 17, 1880. 1-y

James Lamon, ...ORNEY-AT-LAW, SOLICITOR IN ...ancery, Notary Public, &c. ...er loaned at lowest rates on personal ... Lands bought and sold. ... introduced free of commis...

DUNDALK.

...ember 21st, 1880. 1

Conveyancers & Land Agents.

Wm. Brown, ...ER OF MARRIAGE LICENSES, &c., ...missioner in B. R. &c. ...veyancing in all its branches promptly ...d to and carefully executed. ...—Money to Lend on Real Estate se...

...dale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

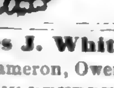
W. L. Smith, ...NERAL AGENT AND DEALER IN ...ursey Stock, Williamsford Station. ... 17, 1880. 1

Alexander Brown, ...R of Marriage Licenses, Fire and ... Insurance Agent. Commissioner ...R. &c. Conveyancer and Licensed ...eer for the County of Grey. Farmers, ...ts, and Land Sales, Punctually at... ...o and charges made very moderate. ...ville, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

George Corbet, Jr., ...D. LOAN AND GENERAL AGENT ...wen Sound. Money to Loan at low ... interest. Principal payable at the ... term of years, and interest half year... ...arly, or principal and interest repay... instalments. ... number of desirable Improved Farms 1-y

J. G. Sing, ...MINION AND PROVINCIAL LAND ...rveyor, Draughtsman and Valuator, ...d and Markdale. Having purchased ...cial Land Surveyor Charles Rankin's ...stock of original Field Notes, Plans, ... Instructions, &c., of all his Surveys ...thin the last fifty-five years, I am ...d to make Surveys in strict accord... ...herewith. Profiles and Estimates ...ding Hills, Plans and Specifications ...ding Bridges, furnished on applica... Money to Loan at 8 per cent interest. ...y letter, or left with G. J. BLYTH, ...ale, will be promptly attended to. ... 17, 1880. 1-y

Dentistry.



Mr. James J. White, ...tant to Dr. Cameron, Owen Sound, ...LL BE AT THE REVERE HOUSE, Markdale, on the last Wednesday in ...onth, when he will be prepared to per... ...l operations required upon the mouth ... most satisfactory manner, and upon ...able terms. 1-y

Hotels.

...NSION HOUSE MARKDALE.

...n, ...d the above hotel and thor... ...re...shed and refitted it, the trav... ...will find every accommodation. ... best of liquors and cigars kept. ...tabling. Careful hostler.

JOHN VAN HORN, Proprietor. ...17, 1880. 1-y

...VERE HOTEL, MARKDALE.

...PROULE, - Proprietor.

... popular Hotel has had a large ad... ... added to it, thoroughly refitted, ...ow second to none in the county. ...tabling and attentive ostler. First-... accommodation for commercial travel... Terms $1.00 per day. 17-ly

...OYAL HOTEL, MEAFORD, Ont.

... McGIRR, - - PROPRIETORS.

... accommodation for the travelling ... The bar is well stocked with the ... Wines and Liquors and the best ... of Cigars. ... bus to and from all trains. ...17, 1880. 1-y

...MMERCIAL HOTEL. PRICEVILLE, Ont.

... and commodious Sample Rooms: ...and Rooms, &c. The Bar and larder ...lied with the best the market af... ...ood Stabling and attentive Hostler's.

THOS. ATKINSON, Proprietor. ...er 31st, 1880. 8

...EORGE WILSON,

...UTCHER

..., Markdale, next door to Expositor

...eat delivered at any house in town. ...17, 1880. 1-y

DYSPEPSIA — DR. CLARK — LIVER DISEASE

JOHNSON'S Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY, 77 W. 3d St., New York City

LATE OF JERSEY CITY.

[TRADE MARK.]

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9.000.000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

It stimulates the Ptyaline in the Saliva, which converts the starch and sugar of the food into glucose. A deficiency in Ptyaline causes Wind and Souring of the food in the stomach. If the medicine is taken immediately after eating the fermentation of food is prevented.

It acts upon the Liver.
It acts upon the Kidneys.
It Regulates the Bowels.
It Purifies the Blood.
It Quiets the Nervous System.
It Promotes Digestion.
It Nourishes, Strengthens and Invigorates.
It carries off the Old Blood and makes new.
It opens the pores of the skin and induces Healthy Perspiration.

It neutralizes the hereditary taint, or poison in the blood, which generates Scrofula, Erysipelas, and all manner of skin diseases and internal humors.

There are no spirits employed in its manufacture, and it can be taken by the most delicate babe, or by the aged and feeble, care only being required in attention to directions.

PRICE OF LARGE BOTTLES, - $1.00
PRICE OF SMALL BOTTLES, - - 50

Read the VOLUNTARY TESTIMONIALS of Persons who have been CURED by the use of the BLOOD PURIFIER.

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND LIVER COMPLAINT.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup has benefited me more for Despepsia and Liver Complaint, than any medicine I ever before used.

MRS. M. J. BRIDGE.

SAVED HER LIFE.

Kelvin, Brant Co., Ont.

Dear Sir—I have been under the doctors' hands almost continually for eight years, this year being the first that I have not employed a ...ny ...cian. After using your Indian ...ood Syrup for a brief space of time, I was enabled to do all my work. I truly believe it was the means of saving my life.

MRS. MARY LEONARD.

CURES COUGHS AND COLDS.

Burford, Brant Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—In February, 1876, I was afflicted with a severe Cough which grew worse, confining me to my room, and was finally pronounced incurable by my physician. In Jan., 1877, I commenced using the Indian Blood Syrup, when I at once commenced to gain in strength, and in a short time I was enabled to do a fair day's work. My Cough is now entirely gone.

ISAAC HORNER, J. P.

CURES ERYSIPELAS.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I was severely afflicted with Erysipelas for two years, and a short trial of your Indian Blood Syrup effectually cured me. MRS. JANET ANDERSON.

LIVER COMPLAINT.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—I have used your great Idian Blood Syrup for Liver Complaint, and have received great benefit therefrom. I recommend its use to all similarly afflicted.

MELSON CARR.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Mt. Forest, Wellington Co., Ont., Can.

DEAR SIR:—This is to certify that your valuable Indian Blood Syrup cured me of Cramps in the Stomach.

W. N. CURROW.

DISEASE OF THE STOMACH.

Cross Hill, Waterloo Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—I was troubled with severe Pains in my Stomach, and also with Loss of Appetite and was unable to get anything to relieve me until I took your Indian Blood Syrup which effected a speedy cure. I shall always give your medicine the praise it so justly deserves. NANCY LEE.

SCABBY HANDS.

Neustadt, Grey Co., Ont.

DEAR SIR:—My Hands became Scabby, and I was unable to tell what it was and went to a doctor, who gave me medicine, which did no good. I then procured some of your Indian Blood Syrup and had taken it only a short time, when the Scabs disappeared, and now my hands are as well as ever. I can safely recommend it as a valuable remedy. MRS. HENRY HUFF.

DYSPEPSIA AND KIDNEY COMPLAINT.

Westport, Jan. 29, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been suffering for years with Dyspepsia and Indigestion and Kidney Complaint, and have tried a great many remedies, but without effect. I became very bad and could not leave my bed. I sent to your Agent, William Dier, for a bottle of your Indian Blood Syrup, and I do not hesitate to say that it saved my life. I am completely cured and feel like a new man. Last week my son was taken sick with severe Headache, and a few doses of your valuable medicine cured him.

DAVID BLACK.

CURES DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

Westport, Ont., Jan. 26, 1879.

DEAR SIR:—I have been afflicted with Dyspepsia for about nine years, and your Indian Blood Syrup is the only medicine that ever helped me. I would say to all suffering from this disease to give your medicine a fair trial. W. H. RORISON.

"Sole General Agents for Canada, Northop and Lyman, No. 21, Toronto St. West, Toronto. Also Agents for Mother Noble's Healing Syrup, an English Discovery which is well known as a valuable and effective Blood Purifier throughout the World."

WM. FOX, Plain & Ornamental Plasterer

Estimates for stone and brickwork on application. Satisfaction Guranteed. Residence—Queen Street, Markdale.

Markdale, Sept. 17, 1880. 1-y

Pianos and Organs.

J. A. CRAWFORD

DEALER IN

PIANOS AND ORGANS!

OF THE

Uxbridge Manufacture.

Having a thorough knowledge of Musical Instruments I would invite those desirous of purchasing an instrument to

GIVE ME A TRIAL!

I can furnish good testimonials from parties to whom I have sold that they will be dealt honorably with in all cases. By corresponding with me I will convince parties that I will sell cheaper than they can buy elsewhere.

Monthly or quarterly instalments would be accepted, with a small payment down.

All Instruments warranted for Six Years.

ADDRESS,

J. A. CRAWFORD,

LOCK BOX 73,

3 Uxbridge, Ont.

T. E. DAVIS,

BUILDER & CONTRACTOR, (Stone and Brick). Plastering and Country Jobs promptly attended to. Stonecutting a Specialty. Estimates on all work, free. Satisfaction guaranteed.  Residence corner of Brown and Sproule Streets, MARKDALE.

December 31, 1880. 16-y

J. M. Webster,

LICENSED AUCTIONEER FOR THE County of Grey.

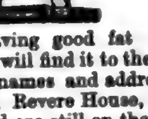
☞ LOAN ND LAND AGENT,

Money to loan at lowest rates of interest, in sums to suit borrowers. Agent for Farmers' Loan and Saving Co. All business matters strictly private, and treated as such.

EUGENIA P. O.

Sept. 17th 1880 1-tf

Sheep and Cattle.



FARMERS having good fat Sheep or Cattle to sell, will find it to their advantage to leave there names and address at McCutcheon's Hotel, Revere House, Markdale, as the undersigned are still on the war path, and will positively pay the highest prices.

C. W. & A. SPEERS.

Sept. 17th, 1880. 1-y

ALL SORTS.

He was a genial, smiling man,
And fond of whisky plain;
But when he joined the temperance club
He never smiled again.
—[Somerville Journal.

Go and get your horse and cutter,
Take your girl a ride,
And if you hear her "Jolly!" mutter,
Just make that girl your bride.

"I will get my horse and cut her,
Take her rival out to sleigh;"
Then suppose he heard her mutter:
"I'm so glad he kept away."

ALL the year round—the earth.

RAISED in a printing office—The elevator.

WE personally prefer silver coin to golden opinions.

STANDS to reason—a debater who won't sit down.

MOLASSES is like adversity. Sweet are the uses of both.

CANNIBALS sometimes have their neighbors at dinner.

THE blunt talker doesn't try to get his words in edgewise.

AN epitaph for a faithful car-conductor: He took his last farewell.

THE man who was cured by a mesmerist says he was trance-fixed.

THE sign "Beware of the Dog," is stuck up that he who reads may run.

WHEN he came home tipsy he told his wife he had been out sherrynading.

"FINE sleighing," remarked the young man who paid $10 and costs for fast driving.

IT is predicted that Tennyson's new dramatic venture, "The Cup," will turn out well.

THE shoemakers very [illegible] hold a national convention on the last day of the year.

"Go, father, and fare worse," as the son said to the old man sent to jail for wife-beating.

THEY tell us matches are made in heaven, but somehow they never smell that way when you strike 'em.

"I AM just throwing out a feeler," remarked the saloon-keeper as he put the blind man into the street.

YOU can be cremated at Gotha, Germany, for sixteen dollars. But then it will cost you considerable to Gotha.

THERE are many true words said in jest, as the thoughtful compositor remarked when he set it up "mother-in-jaw."

THE race is not always to the swift. The slowest boy in the schoolroom will likely enough be the first to catch a "licking."

LET a young man once get on the trail of a young lady in a crowded ball-room and he will find her very soon and find her mad.

"IN an angry instant a man may do what a lifetime of repentance cannot undo," says Henry Ward Beecher—he may break an egg.

WE have heard of no tobacconists or liquor dealers relinquishing business, notwithstanding the advent of the swearing-off season.

THE butchers of Brooklyn have just started for sociability "The Leg of Mutton Club." Their motto should be, "In Ewe-nion there is strength."

THE population of the city of Cork is about 75,000. Think of the 75,000 Cork souls. And the bottles in which these spirits are preserved.

THE worst about kissing a Pittsburg girl is that you carry the marks of coal dust about your nose and other features till you reach the nearest pump.

"THOUSANDS have tried it and will never use any other," is the significant and pathetic encomium of a cough balsam which circulates in New England.

"FAR from the old fox at home" was what the young fox said when he was chased from his cover and had to run ten miles before he got to his hole.

BEECHER says if the city of New York were built of glass its morality would be fifty per cent. higher. And, we beg leave to add, nobody could throw stones.

IN reply to the question, "What are the wild waves saying?" we would suggest that it must be, "Come and see us next summer, and don't forget we charge $4 a day board."

"GOOD morning, Smith," said a man in a shoe store the other day, "what's this pair of boots sold for?" "What are they soled for? Why, to keep the snow out and the feet in."

TOMMY: "What does it mean, sissy, 'Laying up something for a rainy day?'" Sissy: "Don't know, Tommy; 'spect it means borrowing a friend's umbrella and never returning it."

"NOW I understand, remarked Oldenborg, with a sigh, after vainly trying to get a view of the stage over the bonnet in front of him, "now I understand what they mean by the 'height of fashion.'"

A NEW HAVEN brute saturated cotton with alcohol, tied it to a dog's tail, and then set fire to it. The dog started on a run to go under the brute's barn. Then it didn't seem so funny to the brute. He madly howled at the dog and ran after him, but before he could overtake the animal it got under the barn, but somehow the cotton went out and didn't set the barn on fire. This was poetic justice. Barn was insured for twice its value.

WOMAN GOSSIP.

Fashion Notes

Irish poplin is again in favor in Europe.

Dresses are worn fastened at the back this winter.

Rose-colored tufted gauze veils are very becoming.

Gold, silver, amber and jet beads are embroidered in Roman, Persian, or elaborate flower designs upon table fabrics.

Gold-embroidered scarfs of black lace are wound around the neck and fastened with a large, old-fashioned gold brooch.

Chatelaines of gold or silver, with a multiplicity of breloques, are again worn by both French and English ladies of fashion.

Changeable broche satin sublime is a very fashionable material for combining with the new delicately-tinted cashmere goods.

The dainty Sabot casaquin, or peasant-girl's coat, has a well deserved popularity among the bewildering array of semi-long basques.

A nest of little gray mice, with shiny, lifelike eyes of jet, was lately seen upon a Quaker gray plush bonnet worn by a well-known lady milliner in Paris.

The "Directoire," "Louis XV.," and "Watteau" styles are greatly favored by the grand couturieres in Paris, as most pleasing to their customers.

The matinees of tinted cashmere, trimmed with plush and frills, jabots and fichus of cream lace are exquisitely beautiful, and nothing can exceed them for grace and becomingness.

The "Portia cloak," or "Louis XIX. mantle," or Barrister's rope," is almost a facsimile of the garb worn by Miss Ellen Terry as a doctor of laws in the play of the "Merchant of Venice."

High, full plaited ruffs of Spanish lace are immensely popular. Very often there is a frill of white lace inside, and another of black surrounding it. This makes a very effective and becoming neck dressing.

The comb worn just now with the Grecian style of hair-dressing is called a barette. The straight back is about three inches high, and is formed either of tortoise shell, solid chased silver, or pure gold and coral.

Gold-dusted and powdered locks have appeared in American ballrooms, and towering puffs and curls, adorned with glittering stars, crescents, and bandeaux of brilliants or jets, effectually complete the antique styles of dress now the rage in Paris.

Ulsters of black satin de Lyon and also of gros grain silk in black, or in colors matching the dress, have appeared. They are trimmed around the bottom of the skirt, and upon the hood and sleeves with bread bands of fur. They have usually a hat and muff en suite.

Some full-dress bonnets have been made by court modistes with the trimmings of feathers or lace held in place by an old-fashioned paste buckle. This ornament can not become common, as real paste is by no means easy to obtain. A companion buckle is placed on the muff to match with the bonnet.

Crinoline, when worn at all, is very small. The bustle, however, continues in favor. Those made of fine steel and lace net or pique, are most desirable, as they are light, and really form a support for the skirts worn. For wearing with long-trained evening-dresses they are an absolute necessity.

Waifs.

KISSING a girl on the cheek is like eating the skin of an orange and throwing the juicy pulp away.

THE girl who was courted by a spruce young lawyer said she liked to be protected by the strong arm of the law.

THE young girl of the period is generally pert with the other sex until she is married, and then she becomes ex pert.

PHILADELPHIA girls are quick travelers. One of them who went sleighing the other night made twelve miles on one lap.

TEACHER—Has fire any gender? Pupil—Yes, feminine. Teacher—What makes you think so? Pupil—Because I heard mamma tell papa not to hug the fire.

EXTRACT from a letter from Angelina:—"Dear Henry, you ask if I return your love. Yes, Henry, I have no use for it, and return it with many thanks. By-by, Henry."

"WELL, miss," said a knight of the birch rod, "can you decline a kiss?" "Yes, sir," said the girl, dropping a perplexed courtesy, "I can, but I hate most plagnily."

"WHERE are you going so fast, Mr. Johnson?" "Home, sir, home; don't detain me, I have just got a new bonnet for my wife, and must deliver it before the fashion changes."

SUNDAY SCHOOL Teacher (reprovingly)—"Boys, do you know what day this is?" Street Boy—"Hi, fellers here's a cove that don't know what day this is! I guess he's been out all night!"

Andrew's Bazar says that a lady who owns an amiable husband was asked how she had ever brought him to such perfection; whereupon she sweetly answered that she did it chiefly with a croquet mallet.

LADY-LIKE qualities cannot be concealed, no matter in what position she who possesses them may be placed. A Leadville lawyer was cross-examining a woman on the witness-stand, and becoming somewhat abusive, she exclaimed: "I am a lady, by thunder, and don't you forget it!"

MISTRESS—"As you've never been in service I'm afraid I can't engage you without a 'character'" Young Person—"I have three school board certificates, ma'am." Mistress—"Oh, well, I suppose for honesty, cleanliness——" Young Person—"No, ma'am; for literatoor, joggr'phy, an' free 'and drawin'!"

A COUNTRY girl at a fashionable hotel in New York noticed that all the guests used their forks only in eating their pie. Upon her return home she reported the fact to the old lady, who comforted her by observing: "You shouldn't mind 'em, Jemima; it's all because they're too tarnal lazy to use their knives."

TABLEAU Vivant—Bridegroom (to his little sister-in-law at the breakfast)—"Well, Julie, you've got a new brother now——" Julie (enfant terrible)—"Yes; and ma said the other day to pa, she didn't think he was much account, only it looked like Lottie's last chance!" (Great clatter of knives, forks, and spoons.)

ENTER Jones, the magnificent, with stranger—"A little surprise for you, Mrs. J.! Let me introduce Mr. Wiggins, whom I have persuaded to take his chance, and come and try pot luck with us; and I hope you won't starve him, hey, my love?" Mrs. Jones (courtesying)—"There's no fear of that, Mr. Wiggins. I got my husband's telegram in time."

A THIN old man with a rag-bag in his hand was picking a number of small pieces of whalebone which lay on the street. The deposit was of such a singular nature that the quaint-looking gatherer was asked how he supposed they came there. "Don't know," he replied in a squeaking voice, "but 'spec some unfortunate female was wrecked hereabout somewhere."

A GYPSY QUEEN.—At Kirk Yetholm, on the Scottish border, lives Esther, a gypsy, who enjoys the title of Queen. Her cottage is neat and vineclad. She was crowned at the age of 65 and is now 80. She has many pictures, much jewelry and a sword which was found on Flodden Field. Kirk Yetholm is the place where the original of Scott's Meg Merriles lived.

Bernhardt at Home.

Mlle. Sarah Bernhardt's Parisian household is not unlike that of the "Countess Julie Walker," in the sparkling comedy of "L'Age Ingrat." It is a constant whirl of visitors, coming and going; everybody can call who likes, and everybody does call. All the newspaper writers of Paris, the foreign correspondents, the rising artists, the aspiring dramatists are to be found in the vast studio in the Avenue de Villiers. A dozen people will happen in to breakfast and twenty will drop into dinner. There will be 20,000 francs in the house one day and no money on the morrow. In the midst of the crowd revolves the mistress of the house—talking, receiving, painting, modeling, writing, studying, the wildest, most capricious, most extravagant Bohemienne of Paris. Yet withal she is comparatively simple as regards her personal tastes. She dresses in an original and eccentric style, but not gorgeously.

George Eliot.

No one who had ever seen her, says a writer in The Evangelist, could make the large head (her brain must be heavier than most men's), covered with a mass of rich auburn hair. At first I thought her tall, for one could not think that such a head could rest on an ordinary woman's shoulders. But as she rose up her figure appeared of but medium height. All distance was moved by her courtesy. Her manners are very sweet, because very simple, and free from affectation. Never did a sweeter voice fascinate a listener, so soft and low one must always bend to her. But I should do her great injustice if I gave the impression that there was in her conversation any attempt at display. She is above that affectation of brilliancy which is often more flippancy. Nor does she seek to attract homage and admiration. On the contrary, she is very averse to speak of herself, or even to hear the heartfelt praise of others. She does not engross the conversation, but is more eager to listen than to talk. She makes you forget the celebrated author and think only of the refined and highly cultivated woman. You do not feel awed by her genius, but only quickened by it, as by something that calls out all that is better and truer. There is a singular earnestness about her as if those mild eyes looked deep into the great, sad, awful truths of existence. To her life is a serious reality, and the gift of genius a grave responsibility.

A Chinese Wedding.

Yesterday afternoon a bright looking Chinaman named Ah Gong appeared in the County Clerk's office at the old City Hall, San Francisco, accompanied by a very pretty Chinese girl named Toy Yenn, and asked for a marriage license. Deputy County Clerk Whalen proceeded to fill out the blank, but consumed considerable time in so doing, as he found it hard to ascertain the names and ages of the applicants, owing to his slight acquaintance with the Chinese language. The task was finally accomplished, and Ah Gong was about to consider himself well started upon the road to matrimonial happiness, when there was an invasion of the office by a crowd of chattering Celestials, men and women, at the head of whom was an old heathen who claimed the prospective bride as his own private and personal property, which he had bought and paid for, and which was worth $800. He grasped the trembling Toy by the arm and attempted to drag her from the office, but her lover objected strenuously, and the clerks in the office, sympathizing with the young people, ejected the old man and his followers from the place.

Outside the hall there had gathered by this time the whole female female population of Chinatown, and the chattering they indulged in made it seem that one or two hundred parrots had assembled together. It was seen to be a difficult thing to get Ah Gong and Toy through this crowd to Justice Burk's office, in Washington street, and sympathetic clerks showed them a way to reach that goal through a back door and Dunbar alley, when an old Chinawoman, hideous in appearance, rushed upon them, and, grasping the maiden, attempted to drag her away.

The friends of Ah and Toy, however, rescued the girl from the old harpy's claws, and, defending her from the crowd, escorted her and her beloved to Justice Burke, who tied the nuptial knot in true "Melican" fashion. Ah and Toy were then rushed into a carriage, which was waiting for them at the door, and they were quickly whisked out of sight. Whither they have gone on their wedding trip is not known.

A Duchess' Wardrobe.

There was in London, a few weeks ago, an unusually attractive public sale of the personal effects of a lately deceased duchess. The catalogue described a vast number of article of wearing apparel, all of which belonged to the late dowager Duchess of Somerset, the second wife of the eleventh duke of that title. A notion of the extensive character of this wardrobe will be given when it is stated that of shawls alone there are no less than five hundred specimens, while there are five hundred lace and other handkerchiefs, six hundred pairs of silk hose, and two thousand pairs of gloves, be, sides other articles in like proportion. These were divided into no less than sixteen hundred lots. Most of them appeared to have never been in use, and scores upon scores of handkerchiefs remain neatly folded as when they were originally purchased. In almost every case the different effects had a ducal coronet and initials embroidered upon them, but beyond this there was nothing which could be supposed to give an adventitious interest to any of them, except in two or three instances.

Of historical relics, considering the long life and distinguished position in life of the deceased lady, there were indeed singulrly few, and nothing like sensational or "fancy" bidding had been indulged in up to the arrival of the last London mail. Even a magnificent Indian shawl, embroidered in gold, and described as a present from the Shah of Persia, went for more than nineteen guineas; while a Brussels lace satchel, mounted with coronet and pearls, and said to have been offered by the Sultan of Turkey, fetched only the low price of thirty-two shillings. A Stuart tartan court dress, embroidered with a thistle and eagle in gold, the gift of the Emperor Napoleon III., realized £6, and beyond these was nothing worth noting as being specially associted with any personages of distinction. A number of cloaks and dresses of rich materials were among the lots put up, and for these, notwithstanding that they were considerably more than of average dimensions, the competition was tolerably keen. A white satin court dress, trimmed with pearls and silver blonde, with worked flowers in gold and embroidered satin front, fetched £7, and the same price was given for another dress of the same kind, but trimmed with silver lace, blonde and flowers, together with thirty old paste collettes.

Rudolph and His Bride.

The next few weeks, says the London Standard, will provide abundance of work for hofmarschals, royal chroniclers, court milliners, and imperial chaplains. The crown prince of Austria is on the eve of marrying the second daughter of the king of the Belgians, and the last days of February are fixed for the wedding of the future emperor of Germany with the princess Augusta Victoria Frederica Louise Feodora Jenny of Schleswig-Holstein-Sonderburg-Augustenburg. The Archduke Rudolph is universally considered a youth of more than ordinary promise. An admirable linguist, familiar with all the court tongues of Europe, and with nearly every dialect spoken or likely to be spoken by his father's subjects, actual or presumtive, at the age of twenty-two, he has gained the reputation of a pundit, accomplished enough to merit the doctorate which Buda-Pesth recently bestowed on him.

His bride, the Princess Stephanie-Clotilde, is only "sweet seventeen." She is the second child of King Leopold, though between her and her sister, the Princess Louise of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, there is an interval of nearly sixteen years. She is reported to be as amiable as a girlish princess ought to be, and as accomplished as befits the wife of a husband so learned as the Archduke Rudolph. As for other qualities, of course it would be extremely churlish to even hint that beauty is not the least valuable part of the dower of the future mistress of Austria, Hungary, Bohemia, Dalmatia, and Jerusalem, and of the at least five other kingdoms, principalities, grand duchies, counties, lordships, and baronies which are among the titular appanages of the line of Rudolph von Hapsburg [illegible] is the fair princess altogether a stranger to Austria and Hungary. Great-grand-daughter of Louis Philippe, and second cousin of Queen Victoria, she is also the granddaughter of the Archduke Joseph, who, as Palatine of Hungary, established a popularity which, if followed up by the Viennese cabinet, might have saved much subsequent misery for the apostolic kingdom. The bride and bridegroom are thus near relations. Through the father of the former, who, it is needless to say, is the son of Leopold of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, uncle of the queen and the late prince consort, there will for the first time for many ages be formed a relationship between the royal families of Great Britain and Austria.

South American Warfare.

A REMARKABLE NAVAL ENGAGEMENT BETWEEN CHILIAN AND PERUVIAN VESSELS.

(From the Panama Star and Herald.)

The loss of one of their torpedo launches on the sixth of December so annoyed the Chilians that they recommenced bombarding, and for several days they treated Callao to a greater or lesser number of shots, but in no instance doing the least damage, while their own losses have been important. The heaviest firing took place on the 11th. The Angamos took up her customary position at a range of 8,000 metres and opened fire. The monitor Atahualpa, which can only steam about two knots an hour, and that only for a quarter of an hour at a time, moved from the dock and went towards the enemy. She was accompanied by two small steam launches. When about a mile from shore they opened fire on the enemy's fleet, consisting of the iron clad Huascar, the Angamos, Pilcomayo, Chacabuco, Princess Louisa, and Toro. The firing became general, and was kept up with spirit until 4 P. M., when the gun of the Angamos having burst, the whole of them moved back to the island of San Lorenzo. One hundred and five projectiles were expended by the enemy, without one of them striking a ship, launch, or battery.

In return the land batteries fired six shots, Atahualpa two, and the launches about thirty. A forty-pound shell from the Arno struck the Pilcomayo amidships, below the deck, and, bursting upward, killed a number of men who were in a group watching the fight. One of the heavy guns in the turret of the Huascar burst, killing all who were near it; and to add to their other mishaps the Armstrong gun on board the Angamos burst, blowing out the breech piece, and leaving only the muzzle part on board in the jacket to which the trunnions are attached. The part blown out went overboard, carrying a great deal of the upper works and gear with it, and damaging the vessel so severely that she was at once despatched south for repairs. Three men were killed.

This gun was the most formidable in the Chilian navy. Its range enabled the Angamos to choose a position miles beyond the reach of the batteries and fire thence with impunity. The noise which accompanied each discharge was louder than that produced by the 1 000 pounders, and it possessed the peculiarity of making two distinct reports. Although these disasters to the Chilians were not all directly produced by the Peruvians, they are immensely pleased at the result.

The Front Platform.

A CHAT WITH A GENIUS WHO HAS VIEWS ON THE COLD SNAP.

"Cold?" exclaimed the driver. "Well, I should weep! It's a wonder to me that all the car drivers in town weren't frozen stiff. I've been driving now for nearly five years and I wish I may be roasted if that cold snap didn't get down to me worse'n anything I ever struck. You folks ridin' inside were growlin—we fellers on the front was freezin'. How do you think you would like to get out of bed half a day before sun up, bolt your breakfast and anchor yourself on this stool for seventeen hours with the thermometer where it was last week? You'd want about $10 a minute—wouldn't you?—and then you wouldn't want to work mor'n about ten minutes for a day." "Frost-bitten? Oh, no; there ain't nothin' frost-bitten about me. I went out with the snow-plow—drivin' ten horses, you know, an' that's no joke on a nippin' cold day. Well, if you'll believe me, them lines cut my gloves out as if they'd bin paper. Then I went it bare-handed. Cold? I thought ever minute I couldn't stan' it no longer. Hands began to git warmer, an' I sez, 'hello, freezin' by George!' an' off I jumps an' jis soused my hands into a bucket of ice-cold water. You'd a thought I was bein' murdered, I howled so. Ain't had no trouble with my hands sence."

"How about your feet and body?"

"I never get cold in the body. I wear heavy underclothes, a fireman's shirt over that, a knit jacket, a coat an' this big over coat. Then I muffle up my ears and I'm all right but my feet—they do ketch it sometimes."

"Couldn't the company do something to shut in the platform and give you some protection?"

"Of course they could, but they won't. They don't care nothin' 'bout the men—plenty men, you know—ain't nothin' cheaper that I know of. Why, I tell you it's a wonder to me that car drivers ain't hung for murder. They have enough to make 'em kill somebody every day. Passengers swear at 'em, policemen swear at 'em, waggon drivers swear at 'em, the superintendent swears at em, the stable boss swears at 'em—it's jis' one level streak o' swearin' all day long. A man gits tired o' that and feels like takin' a hand himself with a club. What's a man to look forward to, anyhow? You git used up an' off you go. You can't save anything here, and when you git out o' this job from sickness you might jis' as well say your prayers."

The Preacher Gets Left.

George Bovard is, says the Pittsburg Commercial, the name of a young Methodist minister, who attended the annual conference of the M. E. church at Mercer, a couple of years ago. While there, he and a young lady teacher of the Soldiers' Orphan school, located in Mercer, fell in love with each other. Her name was Clara Shaffer. He was about to start for India to Christianise the heathen. A correspondence kept up between the two, and he wanted her to come to him, be married, and assist him in his labors. He had no money to pay her expenses, and she had none. In this emergency, a few months ago, she made a confident of "Dick Wright, a heavy clothing merchant of Mercer, and he being a big-hearted man with generous impulses, offered to supply her with what money she needed to reach her far-off lover. She gladly accepted his offer, and at once began her preparations for the long journey. "Dick" and Miss Shafer were thrown much together for a while, and about the time she was ready to start he was deeply in love with her himself. But he said nothing, and she started for New York with enough of "Dick's" money in her pocket to take her to India.

Two or three days after her departure he grew despondent, and chided himself for having given away his chance for marrying Miss Shaffer himself. A thought struck him, and that was to follow her, and, if possible, overtake her before she boarded a steamer in New York for distant India. He acted promptly on the thought, took the cars, reached New York, and found the vessel on which she was to sail. Miss Shaffer was already on board; he made known his affection, asked her for her hand for himself, was accepted, and the two returned to Mercer a few days ago as man and wife.

The outcome is a little rough on the young minister who is wrestling with superstition and idolatry in the jungles of India.

AT Tiffany's: Mr. W. H. Vanderbilt, loquitur—"Give me another half pound of diamonds, but larger ones. Tie them up more securely. The string broke off the last bundle and half of them tumbled out."

TEACHER—"Peter, you are such a bad boy that you are not fit to sit in the company of good boys on the bench. Come up here and sit by me, sir."

[illegible]! [illegible]!! [illegible]!!!

Prophets of Evil.

[illegible]

In response to this subject of absorbing interest now under discussion by scientists as to the simultaneous arrival of all the major planets to their perihelia, inflicting dire results and bringing about the most fearful calamities known to history and resulting in the most devastating disasters to men and beasts, Prof. Lewis Swift has written a letter to the Rochester Herald, in which he says:

For the last two years the popular mind has been excited to an unusual degree over the statements made by a few visionary enthusiasts, who, with a great flourish of apparent wisdom, have spread before the world the prediction that, owing to the simultaneous arrival of the major planets to their perihelia during the present year, the most dreadful calamities ever recorded in history are to occurr, such as earthquakes on a vast and destructive scale, devastating tornadoes, widespread pestilences, great loss of life by shipwrecks, famine and wars, and a thousand other things too dreadful to contemplate. In all communities there is a certain class who will give a listening ear to anything, no matter how absurd, that partakes largely of marvelousness; hence this belief, which has not a particle of evidence to support it, is widespread in all civilized countries.

I am constantly receiving letters asking when the planets will severally be in perihelion (nearest the sun), and when we are to look for a fulfillment of these predictions that will make the year 1881 famous for all coming time. These questions convince me that the delusion still exists, and has sunk deep in the minds of men, and that perhaps it would be advisable to prepare a statement setting forth the facts as they exist, and, with slight variations, will continue to exist as long as time lasts.

All planets move in orbits or paths more or less elliptical, the sun occupying the common focus of them all. It therefore necessarily follows that a planet is sometimes nearer the sun than at others. In our age (but it will not always be so) the earth is about three million miles nearer the sun on the 1st of January than on the 2d day of July. On Jan. 1. therefore, the earth is in perihelion, and of course is in that situation once a year. Every planet is in perihelion once during its year.

Mercury, the planet nearest the sun, has a smaller orbit than ours, and hence its year is correspondingly shorter, being only eighty-eight of our days, and must therefore be in perihelion every eighty-eight days. On the contrary Neptune, the most distant planet known, has a year equal in length to one hundred and sixty-four and one half of ours, and is consequently only once in perihelion during that time. It follows that the time must come when all the eight planets will be in perihelion at once. It is only a question in simple arithmetic how often this will happen.

It has been stated, and insisted upon, that this rare event, which probably has not occurred since the Mosaic creation, would take place during the present year. That this is not the case the following table will show:

Mercury	Feb 21 May 20 Aug 16 Nov 12, 1881
Venus	March 6, Oct 16, 1881
Earth	Jan. 1, 1881
Mars	May 26, 1881
Jupiter	Sept. 25, 1880
Saturn	Aug. 20, 1882
Uranus	March 25, 1882
Neptune	Oct. 23, 1882

It is not denied that this is a close agreement, when it is considered how long some of the periods of revolution are. But what of it? Who has ever proved or presented evidence that has any semblance of proof that planets arriving at their perihelion points have the least perceptible influence on either the sun or earth or any of the other planets?

Each planet, even the giant Jupiter, is a pigmy compared to the sun; in fact he will outweigh all of them combined by more than 700 times. What effect then can the simple difference in distance of any single planet, say of Jupiter, have on the heat, and light, and spots, etc., on the sun, almost 500,000,000 miles distant?

The planet Mercury is comparatively near the sun, and almost as dense as lead, and the eccentricity of his orbit is so great that he is over 20,000,000 miles nearer the sun at perihelion than at aphelion, but has any one ever perceived any changes on the sun once in eighty-eight days? Has any recurrence of magnetic storms, earthquakes, plagues, or an excess of calamities of any kind ever been noticed during his perihelion passages? If not, then it is safe to say none exists, and the subject may be classed with the thousand other delusions which exist in the minds of men, and for which no remedy is known save a through and universal education of all classes of society.

South American Republics.

(South American Gngales.)

But if pure Spaniards can do no good for themselves or their fellow-beings at home or abroad, what can be expected of Hispano-Indians, a mixture in which all the faults and vices of the European and native and American character are so blended and exaggerated as to bring forth whatever is worst in both? The Government of those South American Republics is a strange tissue of North American institutions, interwoven with the lawless practices of which the mother country is endlessly setting the example. It is a theoretical constitutionalism, illustrated by the practical pronunciamientos—a scramble for power and office, a contest of persons instead of principles, a chaos and a pandemonium, out of which domestic and foreign war, peculation, bankruptcy, general miscarriage of justice, and want of public security, emerge as dominant evils—now singly, now all at once, in a complex and formidable array. * * * For the present those countries must be looked upon not as States, but as mere embryos of States. * * They are more vaperous, nebulous meteors, destined, perhaps, at some incalculable future periods, to assume the consistency and living light of genuine heavily luminaries, but for the present only puzzling men of science, as they endeavor to ascertain what is there real substance, and what place they may be called to fill in the economy of the firmement.

Nautical Terms.

An "old tar," says The San Francisco Post, has prepared a hand-book of nautical terms for the use of persons who intend to follow the sea. In order to correct popular belief, our author gravely asserts that the berths on board ship do not necessarily add to the census. The hatchways are not hens' nests. The weigh of the ship is not the extent of her avoirdupois. The boatswain does not pipe all hands with a meerschaum. The ship does not have a wake over a dead calm. The swell of a ship's side is not caused by dropsy, nor is the taper of a bowsprit a tallow candle. The hold is not the vessel's grip. The trough of the ship is not dug out of the ship's log. The crest of a wave is no indication of rank. The buoy is not the captain's son. The men are not beat to quarters with a club. Ships are never boarded at hotels. The bow of a ship is no evidence of politeness. A sailor's stockings are never manufactured from a yarn of his own spinning. The sails of a ship are not made by an auctioneer, nor are the stays constructed by the milliner.

Retracted.

Mr. Maguire, of a Kansas town, was elected constable, and the local papers which opposed him said: "Mr. Maguire will wash himself before he assumes the office of constable." The notice maddened Maguire and he called on the editor to complain. "You object to that statement?" asked the editor. "I do," replied Maguire. "Very well, I'll retract it," said the editor, and then he put in his paper the statement that he wished to retract his announcement that Mr. Maguire would wash himself before assuming office, as Mr. Maguire denied the statement, and even that retraction didn't satisfy Maguire, but instead increased his wrath. Some men are hard to satisfy.

EDWIN BOOTH says that the most genuine compliment he ever received was on the occasion of his playing Iago for the first time at Grass Valley, then a new mining camp. The audience, who had not seen a play for years, were so much incensed at his apparent villany that they pulled out their "shooters" in the middle of the third act, and began blazing away at the stage. Othello had the tip of his nose shot off at the first volley, and Mr. Booth only escaped by rolling over and over up the stage and disappearing through a trap door. A speech from the manager somewhat calmed the house; but even then Mr. Booth thought it best to pass the night in the theatre, as a number of the most elevated spectators were making strenuous efforts to induce the Vigilance Committee to lynch "the infernal sneaking cuss."

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Feb. 4th, 1881.

NOTICE.

THE Canada Advertising Agency, No. 29 King Street West, Toronto, W. W. BUTCHER, Manager. Is authorized to receive advertisements for this paper.

There has been considerable ill-feeling displayed in Owen Sound over High School matters. The Trustees are elected by the people to manage their school affairs, and when once elected should be permitted to use their own judgement without interference from the outside public. If in their opinion they deemed it necessary in the interest of the school to make a change in the teaching staff, they would, in our opinion, be neglecting their duty did they not do so, and the "tempest in a teapot that has resulted in consequence, was uncalled for and anything but wise.

INFORMATION WANTED.

We would like to know whose fault it is that papers and letters mailed to us from Owen Sound, seldom reach their destination before the expiration of three or four days after being mailed, and then always by the train going north. The O. S. Advertiser, which should reach here on Thursday morning, came to hand on Saturday evening by way of Toronto; the O.S. Times, due here Friday mornings, reached us Tuesday afternoon by the same route. Have the Sounders gone back on the T., G. & B. Railway and send their mail matter by way of Collingwood, or does the fault lie with the Mail Clerk on the train. Will some one please rise and explain.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—Mrs. Jno. Miller of the 6th con. of Bentinck, met with her death on her own farm on Tuesday last, by being run over by a team of horses driven by her husband. It appears that deceased and her husband did not live agreeably and the wife was stopping at her son's place which adjoins her own. She was on the road leading to her son's when the team ran over her. An inquest was held by Dr. Landerkin, Coroner, when a verdict of accidental death was returned. There are suspicions of foul play connected with the case, but the verdict of the inquest would seem to remove all cause of such doubts.—Hanover Post.

WARDEN'S SUPPER.—The Warden gave a supper on Friday evening last in the Queen's Hotel, to the members of the Council and a large number of the citizens. Like all such entertainments, this passed off to the satisfaction of everybody. But unlike most suppers of the kind, pure sparkling water graced the table instead of the decanters of wines, etc., so often used. The temperance principles of the Warden are well known, and we were rejoiced to see he sustained his professions by placing nothing in the shape of liquors before the guests. The programme was the same as is usual upon such occasions, and the gathering broke up at a late hour. We clip the above from the O. S. Tribune, we think the Warden's departure from the usual course pursued in such cases a move in the right direction, and we would say to others giving such entertainments "go thou and do likewise."

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—A very enjoyable affair came off in the New England P. M. Church, on last Tuesday evening, it being a continuation of a Tea Meeting held in the same place on Thursday, the 27th ult., which, owing to the stormy night, was partly a failure, hence the affair of Tuesday. One of the noticeable features in the affair was the abundance of native talent displayed. Surely no other locality is so blessed with native orators as New England; and as for a choir, where all apparently can sing, there is no trouble in selecting a really excellent choir, and such vocal music we seldom hear now a-days as is heard in New England.—With a good audience, and our genial friend, James Yelland, Esq., in the chair, backed by such an array of names as the following, viz.: Messrs. Cartwright, Hicks, R. Abercrombie, Ellis, Morwood and the pastor, together with a couple of readings from Misses Williams and Lyons, you may be sure that we had, as I said in the beginning, a very enjoyable time, and now our P. M. friends are proud to think that their last circuit debt is cleared. NEMO.

February 2nd, 1881.

ARTEMESIA COUNCIL.

The newly elected Council of Artemesia met in the Town Hall, Flesherton, Jan. 17, 1881. Present—Messrs. Christoe, Webster, Elliott, Wright and Pedlar. After making the necessary declaration and qualification of office, they took their seats. Minutes of previous meeting read and confirmed, the Council then proceeded to elect a Deputy Reeve for 1881. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. Webster, that Mr. Webster be Deputy Reeve for 1881.—Lost. Mr. Pedlar moved, seconded by Mr. Wright, that Mr. Wright be Deputy Reeve for 1881.—Carried. Communications as follows presented and read:—J. J. Middleton, Esq., Reeve of Proton, re bridge on town line, laid over until next meeting of Council; from Luke Bradbury, re 30th side road, laid over from F. Nixon, re damages to horse on 200th side road; A. Turner, re taxes in Priceville; C. W. Rutledge, re Township printing and stationery; John McArthur, re statute labor on lots 1 and 2, 3 N. D. R., 1877. Copy of motion of Euprasia Council, re arbitration Nelson Hill contract, presented and read. Award of abitrators between Euphrasia and Artemesia deposited. By-law No. 324, appointing Auditors for 1881, introduced by Mr. Pedlar and passed in the usual way; C. C. James, Esq., Priceville, Wm. Brown, Esq., Markdale, being chosen as such Auditors. Mr. Elliott gave notice that he will, at next meeting of Council, introduce a By-law to license livery stables in the municipality, and to regulate the amount to be paid for the same. Mr. Webster moved, seconded by Mr. Wright, that John McArthur be paid $2, being statute labor charged in excess in 1877, against 1 and 2, 3 N. D. R.—Carried. Mr. Webster moved, seconded by Mr. Wright, that A. Turner be refunded $2.40 on property on Priceville, building having been burned.—Carried. Mr. Elliot moved, seconded by Mr. Wright, that the Reeve issue his order for $9, being half cost of arbitration re town line Artemesia and Euprasia. Mr. Pedlar moved, seconded by Mr. Elliott, that the Reeve and Deputy Reeve be a committee to inquire into Treasurer's security, and report at next meeting.—Carried. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. Webster, that the Deputy Reeve, and Messrs. Webster and Pedlar, be a committee to devise some plan for the better protection of road scrapers, and report the same at February meeting.—Carried. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Mr. Pedlar, that the Reeve, Deputy Reeve and Mr. Webster be a committee to whom all applications for aid to indigents shall be referred during the current year.—Carried. Mr. Elliott moved, seconded by Webster, that the Clerk be and is hereby authorized to enter on Collector's Roll the Police Village rate omitted in Police Village of Markdale, and request the Collector for Ward No. 2 to collect the same with as little delay as possible.—Carried. Mr. Pedlar moved, seconded by Mr. Webster, that the Clerk put up notices asking for applications for the office of Assessor for 1881, at a salary of $75.—Carried. Council adjourned to meet in the Town Hall, Flesherton, on Monday, February 7th, at 10 a. m.

W. J. BELLAMY, Clerk.

EUPHRASIA COUNCIL.

The members elect of the Township Council of the Township of Euphrasia, for the year 1881, being, Robert Myles, Reeve; James Boyd, Esq., Deputy Reeve; William Fawcett, James Loughead and Thomas Gilray, Esqs., Councillors. The said members elect of said Council having assembled at the Hall of said Township at 11 o'clock a. m., on Monday, the 17th day of January, A. D. 1881; made and subscribed their declarations of qualification and of office, in due form; deposited the same with the Clerk, and took their seats at the Council Board. Minutes of last session of Council were then read and confirmed. James Johnston, on nomination of the Reeve, and William Douglas, on behalf of the Council, were appointed Auditors, and a By-law passed accordingly. By-law No. 298, appointing John Clugston Assessor, was carried through the different stages and passed. The time for the Collectors for 1880 to make their returns, was extended to the 1st day of February next. Jacob Neely was appointed Caretaker of the Township Hall, at a salary of $10. The Reeve and Deputy Reeve were appointed a committee to inquire into the validity of the Treas's. security as required by statute. The Reeve, Mr. Fawcett and Mr. Gilray were appointed a committee to investigate all matters connected with a report laid before Council regarding injury said to have been done to a horse on the Valley Road, and report to Council. The Treasurer was ordered to remit to the Deputy Returning officers, who acted at last municipal elections, as remuneration for their own services and that of their Poll Clerks, (and in one case a constable) the amounts placed opposite their names, as follows:—James Struthers, $7.50; James Yelland $7; Nicholas Hewson, $7.10; James Curry, $6.70; Daniel Silvethorn, $6.70; John Winter, $7.50. The Reeve's order was issued on the Treasurer in favor of J. Farewell for $10, for printing ballot papers, &c. The Treasurer was ordered to pay to Trustees of School Sections for the use of School Houses used as polling stations at last municipal election, viz.: School Sections Nos. 4, 9, 14 and 15, $2 each. The Clerk was allowed $20 for extra services connected with the municipal elections, and the Reeve's order on the Treasurer issued accordingly. The Reeve's order on the Treasurer, in favor of John Pentland, for $79, part payment for building bridge over Beaver River, and in favor of James Arthur, for $2.40, for repairing road scraper. On motion being made and seconded, the Council adjourned until the last Saturday in February. ROBT. DUNLOP, Clerk.

Correspondence.

NOTICE.—We wish it distinctly understood, that we do not hold ourselves reponsible for the opinions expressed by our correspondents.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—I would like to call the attention of the public generally, to what some of us have felt to be not only a violation of the law, but also a very great nuisance, viz: the very mistaken and self-conceited notion that some have, that public roads were built for their convenience alone, and that when they come along every body must clear the track, especially if they have the strongest rig. Now, these same self-conceited ones, not only show their lack of common courtesy, but also their ignorance as well; and some of them will, I am sadly afraid, have to be taught in the school of some Justice of the Peace, before they will learn to know that others have just as much right to the road as they, and that unless they are willing to yield a compliance to the requirements of the law, then those who are the sufferers have it in their power to compel them. As a sample of the carelessness, (to call it nothing worse) of which I complain, take the following: A short time since, a son of Mr. Freeman's, who resides on the town line east of this Village, was walking along on his road home, when a team, driven by one of the above-described overtook him, knocked him down, and drove over him, they being without bells, which is also contrary to law, and he being hard of hearing, did not perceive them in time to get out of their way, and then to show to its fullest extent their cowardly, brutal nature, they drove on as fast as possible and left him lying in the road, where he might have perished had not a neighbor heard his outcry. Perhaps some might say they were drunk, well, if so, then much the worse, for it is also contrary to law to be drunk, and drunken men have no right to be at large, much less to attempt to drive a team. Others think they are justified in trusting their teams in the hands of inexperienced and careless boys, and that if accidents result from either their carelessness or recklessness, they would not be responsible. This is also a mistake, for if a man employs an improper agent, he is bound to abide the result. As for instance, an individual, not such a long time since, trusted his team in the hands of his son, a young lad just in his teens, he gathered some others of the stamp, and then—Hurrah, boys! for a sleigh ride and some fun. After passing a team, they think it would be fun just to turn round and chase them. Reader, a sudden ... The same party only last week, with his careless driving, brought the Rev. Mr. Garnett's cutter to grief. Now all these things are just the way to get into trouble, and some day, some of them will run against a snag. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your kindness, I am, yours, &c.,

OBSERVER.

Markdale Feb. 1, 1881.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

SIR,—In a late issue I noticed some scribling from my friend Mr. Webster, of Priceville, who doubts my occupation being that of a farmer. I will here say, I have followed that occupation all my life, and am likely to do so in the future; have been a resident of Artemesia about twenty years, and have hewn out a home from the woods. As to my having Toronto, Grey and Bruce fever on the brain, I will now say it is still on the increase. I cannot turn a cold shoulder to a railroad that was the first to come to our help, and that assisted us in disposing of the produce of our farms and the timber of our forests; brought us money and wealth; built up little towns; established many industries. I am sory my friend, Mr. W., has deserted the ship that picked us up in the storm, and is now advocating a new railway across the township of Artemesia, and says that in his opinion it will be built. Mr. Editor, we know that all new railways constructed in the County of Grey must be built by the municipalities, hence it will cost the ratepayers of Artemesia probably more than thirty thousand dollars, and when built will be of no more use to Artemesia than the fifth wheel would be to a coach.—My Friend, Mr. W., put his foot into it signing that petition, while he held the opinion it would have been norrow minded hand he not done so, and then vote against the by-law if he thought proper. Sensible men cry shame. So goodby my friend, Mr. W., for the present. It is a long lane that has no turn. Sir, I remember when the Northern railway was constructed; its troubles; the second help it received. The Grand Trunk difficulties. The building of the Credit Valley railway—its receiving help the second time. The sumbmission of the first by-law for the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway. Mr. Wm. Lackie, the then Reeve of Artemesia, lost no opportunity, either in public or private, to persuade the ratepayers to give the bonus and secure the railroad. Let it be remembered that at that time there were a number of ratepayers who held the opinion that they need not tax themselves if they only waited awhile a railroad would come to them without cost. If the township officials had encouraged that feeling, the by-law would have been voted down, and no railroad constructed. Sir, how different of late, when we remember the bonfire on the street, made of barrels and oil, by way of rejoicing; the stamping of the feet and the tallyhoing at public meetings.—Some one is to blame, for if we would consider we will say we may do without our relations, but we cannot want the railroad, and if the cost is not too much, better for us to be friends with the Co., for they may remember us for good or they may remember us for ill. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your valuable space, I must not forget to tell you that my occupation is

A. FARMER.

Flesherton P. O., Jan. 25, 1880.

GOOD CATTLE AND BAD CATTLE.

To the Editor of the STANDARD.

DEAR SIR,—Permit me a small space in the columns of your valuable paper, to give some of my views and experience of the necessity of improving our stock of cattle in this part of the country. It is a well know fact, that we are far behind in that respect in this neighborhood, I see the necessity more and more every day of a change being made in that respect. It is very evident that we are far in the back ground in that line, and consequently it is detrimental to our interests. Mr. Editor, what is the reason we scarcely ever see any drovers going through this part of the country, buying cattle for the foreign markets? I think, sir, the reason is, we have not got the right quality of cattle they require, and as long as we pursue the course we are taking we never shall see them. It does not take these men long to find out where this sort is to be found. If we had the right sort, we would soon find purchasers for them, and at remunerative prices. Now, sir, in my travels and observations, I see a marked difference in the quality of cattle and the prices their owners receive for them, beside the quality of stock in this part and the price we receive for them. There is a great difference in one cross between a thorough bred bull and a common cow. Now, sir, there is no difficulty at all in getting from 4½ to 6 cents a pound, life weight, for well bred and well fed animals; whereas we cannot get more than half that price for the common scrubs, for all they may cost as much to raise and feed them as the better grades of cattle, or, indeed, I am sure it costs more to make them of an equal weight with the better quality. I have been on a tour through the township of St. Vincent recently. Now, sir, the people in that part of the country are alive to their own interests. If you could just see what they are doing in the line of breeding and feeding cattle.—As soon as they got the right quality of cattle, they were not long without the right men to buy them. They go through in the fall of the year, and buy up the cattle to be stall fed through the winter, and delivered in the spring at a certain time, and at so much per hundred, live weight. Now, sir, it does me good to go through their stables to see these fine cattle, lying snuffing and as warm in the month of January as in the month of June. Now, sir, I think it is quite time we were making a move in the right direction. I was thinking about purchasing a thorough-bred short-horn Durham bull and bring him into the neighborhood, if I could only get the requisite patronage for an animal of that sort; but if any other person wishes to purchase one, I would withdraw my intention, and I would guarantee them my patronage at fair remunerative charges, say $1 cash, $1.25 or $1.50 credit. Hoping that some one will move in the right direction, and that all intelligent farmers will support an enterprise of that kind, I suppose we might as well give the local butchers ... I think they would not ... the farmers move in that direction. I think they would rather see the country filled up with rough, scrubby cattle, just the sort no other man would think of buying for the foreign or better market, and by that means they would have every facility for getting what they wanted for just about nothing, and still sell it at a pretty big figure.

Yours respectfully,

JOHN FORD, Farmer,

Artemesia, Feb. 1st, 1881.

MARRIED.

CARSON—RICHARDSON.—On the 26th ult., by the Rev. Mr. McLaren, Presbyterian Minister, at the residence of the bride's father, Mr. James Carson, of Artemesia, to Miss Mary Ellen, eldest daughter of George Richardson, Esq., of Euprasia.

MOORE—HOPKINS.—On the 20th ult., by the Rev. J. H. Barkwell, B. A., at the Methodist Parsonage, Priceville, George Alex. Moore, Esq., to Miss Annah Hopkins, all of Glenelg.

DIED.

JONES.—Suddenly, after a few hours' illness, on Saturday, 29th ult., James Jones, Esq., of Artemesia, aged 78.

THE MARKETS.

MARKDALE.

FRIDAY, Feb. 4, 1881.

Flour	5.00	to	5.50
Spring Wheat per bush., new	1.00	to	1.08
Fall do. do. do.	1.00	to	1.02
Barley	0.60	"	0.80
Oats	0.28	"	0.29
Peas	0.60	"	0.62
Potatoes.	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.18	"	0.20
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed,	5.75	"	6.00
Beef	4.00	"	5.50
Geese per lb.	0.05	"	0.00
Ducks, per pair	0.40	"	0.45
Fowls, per pair	0.20	"	0.25
Turkeys, per lb.	0.07	"	0.07
Sheepskins	0.75	"	1.00
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Grass seed,	2.00	"	2.40
Hay	8.00	"	10.00
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Green Apples, per bushel.	0.40	"	0.50
Lard	0.10	"	0.10
Tallow	0.06	"	0.07
Dry Cord Wood	2.00	"	2.10

FLESHERTON.

(Corrected weekly for the Standard by R. J. Sproule, Flesherton.)

THURSDAY, Feb. 3rd, 1881.

Flour, per bbl.	$5.00	to	$5.50
Spring Wheat per bush.,	1.00	to	1.07
Fall do. do. do.	1.00	"	1.00
Barley	0.60	"	0.78
Oats	0.00	"	0.28
Peas	0.60	"	0.60
Potatoes	0.30	"	0.30
Butter, per lb.	0.17	"	0.19
Eggs, per doz.	0.14	"	0.15
Pork, dressed.	5.50	"	5.70
Beef	4.00	"	5.00
Sheepskins	0.60	"	1.25
Hides	7.50	"	8.00
Hay	6.00	"	9.00
Timothy seed,	2.00	"	2.39
Wool	0.25	"	0.30
Lard	0.10	"	0.12
Tallow	0.05	"	0.07

DUNDALK MARKETS.

Fall wheat 80c to $1.00; Spring wheat 75c to $1.05; Barley 50c to 75c; Peas 55c to 59c; Oats 29c to 30c; Pork $5.75 to $6.25; Potatoes per bag 40c to 45c; Butter 16c to 18c; Eggs 15c to 18c.

TORONTO.

(Special to the Standard.)

TORONTO, Feb. 3, 1881.

Wheat, fall, per bush		$1 08	to	$1 10
Wheat, spring,	do.	1 10	to	1 18
Barley,	do.	0 79	to	1 00
Oats,	do.	0 36	to	0 37
Peas,	do.	0 63	to	0 67
Rye,	do.	0 80	to	0 80
Clover Seed	do.	0 00	to	0 00
Dressed hogs, per 100 lbs.		6 50	to	7 00
Beef, hind quarters		5 50	to	6 50
Beef, fore quarters		3 00	to	4 00
Chickens, per pair		30	to	0 45
Fowls,	do.	40	to	0 40
Ducks, per brace		50	to	0 60
Geese, each		50	to	0 60
Turkeys		77	to	1 25
Butter, large rolls		12	to	0 15
Butter, tub dairy		20	to	0 21
Butter, store-packed		18	to	0 20
Eggs, fresh, per doz		0 18	to	0 00
Eggs, packed		0 00	to	0 00
Apples, per brl		1 00	to	1 10
Potatoes, per bag		0 50	to	0 25
Onions, per bag		0 00	to	1 55
Hay		8 50	to	14 25

HAGYARD'S YELLOW OIL

CURES RHEUMATISM.

National Pills, superior to all other purgatives in strength and virtue, in safety and mildness of action.

FOR SALE.

OR TO RENT, that eligible property situate on Toronto Street, in the Village of Markdale, at present occupied by Mr. Graham, shoemaker. Possession immediately.

WM. BROWN,

Markdale Jan. 31, 1881. 21-3i

—VICTORIA—

BUCHU & UVA URSI

THE GREAT SPECIFIC FOR ALL DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS AND URINARY ORGANS.

ERRORS OF YOUTH.

A GENTLEMAN who sufferred for years from Nervous DEBILITY, PREMATURE DECAY, and all the effects of youthful indiscretion, will for the sake of suffering humanity, send free to all who need it, the recipe and directions for making the simple remedy by which he was cured. Sufferers whishing to profit by the advertiser's experience can do so by addressing in perfect confidence, JOHN B. OGDEN, 42 Cedar st. New York. 20-ly

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM

Has no equal for the permanent cure of Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, and all Lung Diseases.

Every bottle guaranteed to give satisfaction.

T. MILBURN & CO., Proprietors Toronto.

NOTICE.

ALL persons are hereby cautioned against purchasing two notes drawn in favor of John Patchard, of the Township of Euprasia and signed by George Hale, of the said Township of Euphrasia. Said Notes were dated some time in December, 1880, one for $30, due in October, 1881; and one for $40, due in February, 1882, payable at Blantyre P. O, in the said Township of Euphrasia, as I have not received value for the same.

GEORGE HALE.

Dated this 31st day of Jan'y, 1881 21-3i*

B B B

Burdock BLOOD Bitters

Burdock Healing Ointment should be used in connection with Burdock Blood Bitters for curing Ulcers, Abscesses, Fevers, Sores, &c. Price 25 cents per box. T. MILBURN & CO., Sole Agents, Toronto.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year to All.

Now that the season of Good Cheer is at hand, I would call Public attention to my

FRESH GROCERIES,

FRUITS, CANNED GOODS, CONFECTIONERY,

LIQUORS!

Everything First-Class, and at

RIGHT PRICES!

My BOTTLED BRANDY is unsurpassed; OLD RYE, the purest; BASS'S PORTER, equal to Ginness' Stout; and the finest stock of Draft and Bottled Ale in this section. Old Cider equal to Champagne.

Give me a call. A. McINTYRE.

Markdale, Dec. 16, 1880. 2-ly

MEDICAL HALL.

CHANGE of BUSINESS.

We take pleasure in announcing to the residents of Markdale and surrounding Country, that we have purchased

THE DRUG AND STATIONERY BUSINESS

Lately carried on by Dr. SPROULE, and trust by strict personal attention to business, and by keeping a full assortment of the BEST MATERIALS in the above lines to merit the support of the general public.

As the Holiday season is fast approaching, we have purchased a LARGE and VARIED Stock of

Fancy Goods, Toys,

And many other Articles, Useful and Ornamental, for CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

Job Lots for Christmas Trees at Reduced Rates.

A FULL ASSORTMENT OF

PATENT MEDICINES, AUTHORIZED SCHOOL BOOKS, STATIONERY,

Dye-Stuffs, Paints, Oils Teas, and Tobaccoes,

ALWAYS ON HAND.

Agents for Monteal Telegraph and Vicker's Express.

Physicians Prescriptions and Family Recipies dispensed at all hours.

A. TURNER & CO.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13 tf

Get Money at 7 per Cent.

To discharge a Mortgage bearing 8, 9 or 10 per cent.; to buy more land, or improve your buildings.

Liberal Privileges of epayment

OFFERED BY THE

BRITISH CANADIAN

LOAN AND INVESTMENT COMPANY.

SPECIAL RATES FOR SPECIAL SECURITIES.

AGENCY OF THE

LANCASHIRE FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY,

AND

British America Assurance Co.

THE UNEQUALLED

Wanzer Family Machines.

Organs at Reduced Rates.

AUCTION SALES

—ATTENDED.—

Parties requiring anything in my line, will do well to call and see me. P. S.—Several improved farms for sale.

T. HALL, Markdale.

Markdale, Dec. 9, 1880. 13-3m

MARKDALE HOUSE,

MARKDALE.

ALEX. RUTLEDGE, Proprietor.

THIS HOTEL is a large three storey brick building, recently erected and fitted up with every modern convenience. It is furnished in First-Class Style. The Bar is supplied with the best brands of Wines, Liquors and Cigars, and the table with all the delicacies of the season. The travelling Public may rely upon every attention being paid to their comfort. Good Sample Rooms for Commercial Travellers. The only Hotel that runs a Bus to and from all Trains. Good Stables and attentive Hostlers. 18

PHOTOGRAPHS! 12 FOR $1.50

I WOULD again intimate to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country, that I am prepared to give you the

BEST SATISFACTION IN

PHOTOGRAPHS, AMBROTYPES,

COPYING AND ENLARGING!

Please give me a call, and see for yourselves.

GALLERY, two doors from Revere Hotel.

R. BAILEY.

Markdale, Jan. 13, 1881. 18-3i

50,000 FEET OF

FIRST-CLASS MAPLE!

WANTED,

By the undersigned, for which $1 per Standard will be paid in cash, to be cut 14 feet long. Butternut and Cherry, $2.25 to $2.50 per Standard.

Good White Basswood,

25,000 Feet Wanted.

$1 per Standard for a good article. Paid on delivery.

JAMES CHAPMAN.

Markdale, Jan. 27, 1881. 20-2i

FLESHERTON

Harness Shop!

THE Subscriber having purchased the business, lately carried on by Mr. S. Demude, begs to inform the public that he has

REMOVED TO THE BUILDING

OPPOSITE THE POST OFFICE,

where he is prepared to furnish

ALL KINDS of HARNESS,

usually found in a

First-Class Establishment,

And at prices to suit the times, and by using

THE BEST OF MATERIAL

AND GOOD WORKMANSHIP,

hopes to receive a fair share of your patronage. A good supply of

WHIPS, TRUNKS, &c.,

constantly on hand.

COLLARS A SPECIALTY.

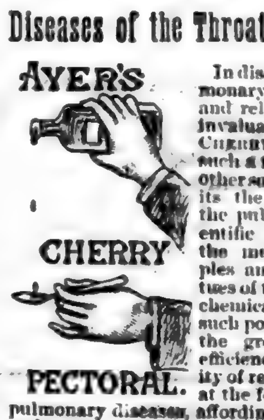
Call and satisfy yourselves. Remember the stand, the Drug Store in ...

J. GORDON.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.



AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy, and no other so eminently merits the confidence of the public. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures, or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to deceive and disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is a standard medical preparation, of known and acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it in their practice. The test of half a century has proven its absolute certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

PAY UP.

ALL parties indebted to Dr. T. ... by account ... are requested to call at the Medical Hall and pay ...

Markdale, Jan. 27, 1881. A. TURNER.

REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

... to inform the Public generally, that he has removed ...

FLESHERTON STEAM

FURNITURE AND SASH AND DOOR FAC...

AND REMOVED TO THE

Furniture Warerooms

NEW AND COMMODIOUS BRICK BUIDING ADJOINING THE FA...

... or a competent salesman ... and attend to their wants. My facilities are now Superior to any ... and I trust by honorable dealing to merit a continuance of the patronage so liberally bestowed in the past.

I have now a Large and Varied Stock of Furniture in all the Latest St...

and during the Winter I require

100,000 FEET OF GOOD

Butternut, Cherry, Basswood, Birch and ...

LUMBER!

for which

THE HIGHEST PRICE WILL BE PAI...

Also a Quantity of Good P...

ALL KINDS OF SASH, DOORS, MOULDINGS, ET...

AS USUAL.

Estimate of Supplies Given on Applicat...

Don't forget the Warerooms are removed next door to the ... Dar...

H. HOOP...

Flesherton, December 23, 1880.

SELING OFF!

FALL AND WINTE...

AT AND UNDER COST

For Cash, for 30 Day...

Gents Over-Coats and Suits,

CHEA...

LADIES' FUR MANTLES AND SHAWLS,

CHEA...

Ladies' and Gents' Underclothi...

CHEA...

Staple and Fancy Dry Goo...

OF EVERY DESCRIPTION AT

ROCK-BOTTOM PRIC...

BOOTS AND SHOE...

In every Variety—CHEAP.

Everything AT UNUSUALLY LOW PRICES at the

"TORONTO HOUS...

m BROW...

Markdale, December 20, 1880.

WE WISH YOU

A Merry Christmas and a Happy New Y...

In reviewing the past year we cannot but say, that ... been a year of prosperity with the people of our C... and as others have prospered, we have been enab... participate with them in their prosperity.

Our business has rapidly increased, especially sinc... moving into our new premises, and we solicit a share o... patronage for the year 1881.

We are now offering a fine collection of Christmas Good...

—NAMELY—

Vases, Ladies' and Gentlemen's Cups and S... and a large ...

CHILDR...

OUR GROCERIE...

For the season are, as usual,

Well Selected, Fresh and Good.

NEW CURRANTS,

NEW PRUNES,

NEW TEAS, at 45c, Splendid Value.

The People are all asking for our

TEA DUST, nothing suits so well.

WE ARE OFFERING

WINTER DRY GOOD...

At LOW PRICES to clear them out.

NOTICE.

WANTED—10,000 Railway Ties,

5,000 Telegraph Poles,

Also, a quantity of Cordwood.

HILL BROTHER...

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880.

REMOVAL ... STRA ... ND DOOR FACTO ... Warerooms ... G ADJOINING THE FACTO ... Latest Sty ... OF GOOD ... Birch and ... ILL BE PAID ... Good Pin ... HOULDINGS, ETC., ... on Applicatio ... OFF! ... WINTER ... 30 Days ... Suits, ... CHEA ... Underclothin ... CHEA ... Dry Good ... PRICES ... SHOE ... BROWN ... New Ye ... Goods ... ERIES ... and Good. ... GOOD ... HERS

THE STANDARD.

Friday, Feb. 4th, 1881.

LOCAL & OTHER NOTICES.

STEADY winter.

Snow is very dry.

SATURDAY last was a busy day.

Don't forget the masquerade on [illegible]k to-night.

Owen Sound town Council met [illegible] evening last.

There are twenty-seven prisoners in Owen Sound gaol at present.

The best and cheapest machine coal oil, go to Haskett Bros.

Snow shovels are in demand, but not used as much as they might [illegible].

Some time the the Tam O'Shanters [are] going out of date. The very [illegible] are wearing them.

[We] heard of several of the school [childr]en having had their hands and [feet] slightly frozen on Tuesday last.

[One] dose of Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam [will re]lieve a Cough so promptly as to con[vince] the most sceptical of its merits as a [Throat] and Lung healer; it is the great [remedy] for all Pulmonary complaints tend[ing towa]rds Consumption. The safest, most [pleasa]nt, best and cheapest Cough cure. For sale by all dealers in medicine.

[JAM]ES OATES' cold snap was again [on ti]me, the thermometer standing at [20 be]low zero at 7 a. m. on Tuesday [illegible].

[Ask] your dealers for "Castorine" [machi]ne oil, and see that the barrel [is br]anded "Castorine," as none other [is ge]nuine.

The County of Dufferin was duly [establ]ished on Saturday and the [Coun]ty Council met at Orangeville [on T]uesday.

[Bri]ng us a cord and a quarter of [goo]d dry two foot wood, or one and a [half] green, and you can have the [STA]NDARD for a year.

VALENTINES, VALENTINES.—All sizes, [style]s and prices, suitable for persons [of al]l ages, colors, and sexes, at the [Medic]al Hall, Turner & Co.

[MANU]FACTURERS of reapers, mowers [and th]reshing machines, prefer "Cas[torin]e" machine oil to any other, it [will n]ot wear lard, seal, or elephant, [and i]s warranted not to gum. Sold [by H]askett Bros. only.

[VIT]AL STATISTICS.—The following [have] been registered with Mr. W. J. [Bell]amy, Township Clerk of Arte[mes]ia, to whom we are indebted for [the] report, for the past year:—Births, [illegible] Marriages, 12; Deaths, 13.

[Stop] that cough! you can do it speedily, [safe]ly and surely with Hagyard's Pectoral [Bals]am. Now is the season to guard against [it]. If you want to prevent consumption [neglec]t not the most trifling symptoms. [Hagy]ard's Pectoral Balsam will never fail. It cures Croup, Asthma, Bronchitis, [Whoo]ping-cough and all allied pulmonary com[plain]ts. Obtain it of your druggist.

[M]R. A. S. Irving, who two years [ago] was foreman in C. Watt's foundry, [and] on leaving Collingwood the [othe]r day to take a position in a shop [in] Detroit was presented by his shop[mat]es with an address and a hand[som]e gold signet ring.—Monitor.

[M]ost of our subscribers, who have [made] arrangements to pay their sub[scrip]tions to the STANDARD in wood, [will] oblige us by bringing it in now [whil]e the roads are good. We are in [need] of wood and a few cords now [woul]d be just as acceptable as the [illegible].

[O]N the night of Jan. 1st while skat[ing] on the Priceville rink, Mr. [illegible] [Sim]pson, slipped and broke his leg, [whi]ch was attended by Dr. Ghent. [He] was able to walk unaided in two [wee]ks. The very successful issue of [the] cure reflects great credit on the [sur]geon in attendance.—Grey Review.

YELLOW Oil is unsurpassed for the [cure] of Burns, Scalds, Bruises, Frost [Bite]s, Wounds and Chilblains. No [oth]er medicine required in the house[hold]. It is for internal as well as ex[tern]al use. Every bottle is guaranteed [to] give satisfaction. All [illegible] [dea]lers sell it.

THE annual meeting [of the] Agricultur[al] Society of the N[orth] Riding [of Gr]ey was held at Owen Sound on the [illegible]th ult. when the following officers [wer]e duly elected for the year 1881:—[Pre]sident, Wm. Thompson; Vice [Pre]sident, John Douglass; 2nd Vice [Pre]sident, Jas. Cochrane; Secretary, [illegible] Gordon; T[reasurer] S. J. Park [illegible] Directors, W[illegible] [illegible]s, J. Thompson, [illegible] [Go]rdon, A. Frost.

THE Steam Hay Press of Messrs. [illegible] & Beatty, commenced operations [in] the barn of Mar[illegible] Esq., [o]n Tuesday last. T[illegible] [illegible] tons of hay to [illegible] [illegible]ge. It requires about [illegible] hands [to] manage the machine. It [illegible] [illegible]ing for the country [illegible] [d]emand has taken place, as it [illegible] [m]eans of cleaning out the overplus [illegible] [illegible] that was throughout the country, leav[ing] in its place that which is much [mo]re easily handled—cash.

ACCIDENT.—A serious accident oc[cu]rred on Friday morning last, the [illegible]th ult., at Mr. Jas. Chapman's saw [m]ill. It appears that Mr. Samuel [M]artin went to put the belt on the [pu]lley of the large circular saw, when [hi]s mitt caught between the belt and [th]e pulley, giving him a sudden jerk, [wh]ich threw him on the saw, result[in]g in the loss of all the toes on the [ri]ght foot and mangling the left foot [t]o a considerable extent. Dr. Carter's [o]ffice being close at hand he was im[m]ediately taken there by his fellow [w]orkmen. The Doctor, with the as[si]stance of Dr. McGregor, of Chats[w]orth, dressed the right foot, but [f]ound it necessary to remove the big [to]e and part of the foot on the [l]eft leg. The patient, at the present [t]ime of writing, is progressing favor[a]bly.

THE weather up to Monday even[in]g, though somewhat stormy, was [n]ot very cold. On the above evening, [h]owever, the thermometer commenced [a] retrograde movement and on Tues[da]y morning it marked 10 below zero. [It r]ised through the day and at 4 it [illegible] 2 below, from that hour it [sa]nk rapidly, at 6 p. m. marking 10 [b]elow, and at 7 a. m. Wednesday the [m]ercury was down to 20. Fortunate[l]y there was no wind, otherwise we [f]ear we should have had to record a [g]ood many casualities arising there[f]rom. We give below a register of the [s]tate of the weather during Tuesday [a]nd Wednesday. The minus mark [si]gnifying below zero:

	7 a. m.	12 m.	6 p. m.
Tuesday,	—10	—2	—10
Wednesday,	—20	—5	—10

VERY SHARP.

ROADS badly cut up [illegible].

CHEAP JOHN is around again.

A BRANCH of the Land League has been established in Toronto.

HASKETT Bros keeps the largest and best stock of stoves in the county.

F. C. STEWART, Esq., was elected the first Warden for the County of Dufferin.

A NUMBER of our towns men are laying in their stock of ice for next summer.

MR. Blake's amendment to the Pacific Railway contract was defeated on Wednesday morning by a majority of eighty-six.

TORONTO oil company, are sole manufacturers of "Castorine machine oil. Infringements will be prosecuted. For sale by Haskett Bros. only.

BURDOCK Blood Bitters cures Scrofula and all humors of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and the Bowels at the same time, while it allays nervous irritation and tones up the debilitated system. It cures humors from a pimple to the worst form of Scrofula. For sale by all dealers. Sample bottle 10 cents, regular size $1.00.

SCHOOL BOOKS.—All modern authorized text books for public schools, regularly in stock, at the Medical Hall, A. Turner & Co.

USE "Castorine" Machine Oil, for all kinds of machinery, it is also excellent for harness and leather, make it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers.

COOL.—James Struthers, Esq., of Euphrasia, informed us, that on rising on Wednesday morning just as day was dawning, his thermometer, which hangs on the north side of his house, registered 34 below zero. How is that for low?

ON Thursday of last week a young man named Jacob Loughead, while chopping in Mr. T. W. Vanderburgh's bush was struck on the head by a falling limb and rendered insensible for some time. A very deep and long wound was cut in his head from which the blood flowed freely.—Monitor.

THE Orangeville Council has supplented the reward of $400 offered by Mr. J. Lindsay by offering a reward of $500 for the apprehension and conviction of the person who set fire to that gentleman's granary at the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway station on Sunday morning last.

THE Anniversary of the Meaford Road Union Sabbath School, will be held in the Frame Church, on Tuesday, the 8th inst. Tea served to children, from three p. m. to five; to adults from five to seven p. m. Progamme will consist of Recitations, Dialogues, Speeches and Music.

FIRE IN ORANGEVILLE.—On Sunday morning the 30th ult., about four o'clock a fire broke out in Lindsay's grain elevator, which was totally consumed with 20,000 bushels of grain. Mr. Lindsay is insured in the Hartford and Royal Insurance Companies, but the amount is not yet know. Supposed to have been the work of an incendiary.

THE following are the newly appointed officials for the County of Dufferin as far as we have learned:—Mr. Thos Bowles, Mono Road, Sheriff; Wm. McKim, West Wellington, Registrar; John McLaren, Mount Forest, Clerk County Court; J. P. McMillan, Orangeville, County Crown Attorney; Alex. Sutherland, Barrie, Govornor of Jail. Clerks of Division Court not yet appointed.

THE AMERICAN AGRICULTURIST for February has been received, and as usual is replete with information for the agriculturist, horticulturist, gardener, and the home circle, no one should be without it. Remember, this very valuable magazine can be had in connection with the STANDARD for only one dollar; without the STANDARD $1.50 per annum. Subscriptions received at this office.

YELLOW Oil is the most deservedly popular remedy in the market for Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Sprains, Bruises, Frost Bites, Sore Throat, Lame Back, Contraction of the Muscles, Croup, Quinsey, and every variety of Pain, Lameness, or Inflammation. For internal as well as external use. Yellow Oil will never fail you. Sold by all dealers in [medicine].

THE minutes of Artemesia Council would have appeared in the STANDARD last week, had the mail in which they came been on time. But the mail did not arrive until about dark and our space was by that time taken up, hence they had to lay over. The Clerk wrote us stating he would have forwarded them at an earlier date had [illegible].

A TEA-MEETING at Town Line Methodist Church was held on 28th ult. The attendance large; the eatables excellent; music by the Markdale choir, choice; proceeds about $30, applied [illegible]. Everything passed off pleasantly, and those that were there say they would like to go again. The minister and his lady left their photograph in a snow bank at Burton's [illegible] coming home.

THE concert at Berkeley on Friday evening the 28th ult., was (considering the state of the roads) a success. Those who entertained the audience with music &c., did no discredit to themselves. Miss Sargent of Williamsford, and Miss Douglass of Markdale, were the candidates nominated to cut the cake, a canvas took place at once and resulted in the election of Miss Sargent by a majority of two; after which it was cut and disposed of. We did not learn the exact amount of the proceeds.

BURDOCK Blood Bitters is the only medicine that acts upon the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and the Bowels at the same time, while it allays nervous irritation, and tones up the debilitated system. It cures all humors from an ordinary pimple to the worst form of Scrofula. For sale by all dealers. Sample bottle 10c., regular size $1.00

IN the first terrible winter spent by the Pilgrims at Plymouth, in Massachusetts, the seeds of pulmonary diseases were planted, and took deep root in families which became the progenitors of thousands of the American people. The prevalence of consumption, thus early developed, directed the attention of the most eminent physicians and scientific men to an investigation of its cause and the means of prevention and cure. The best results of professional studies on this subject are combined in Dr. J. C. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is now recognized as the world's remedy for coughs, colds, consumption and other diseases of the throat and lungs. We believe it to be absolutely certain in its remedial effect. It is a safe, pleasant and reliable remedy, and if kept on hand in every household, will prove in many cases of colds, coughs, &c., a means of preventing more serious results.—Richmond, Va., Religious Herald.

AUCTIONEER AND GENERAL LAND Agent, Williamsford Station. Auction Sales attended in all parts of the County. Goods sold on Commission. Rates moderate. Pianos, Organs, and Sewing Machines; also Fruit and Ornamental Trees, Vines, Agricultural Implements, and Machinery of all kinds for sale.

Williamsford, Jan. 27, 1881. 20-1y

Wm. Lucas & Co., BANKERS,

MARKDALE.

Money Loaned

IN large or small amounts, at all times, on good endorsed notes, or on collateral security.

INTERE T AT 6 PER CENT.

Allowed on Savings Deposits.

☞ Drafts issued and Collections made on all points, at lowest rates.

WM. LUCAS & Co.

September, 1880. 2-y

VETERINARY.

J. BLOOMFIELD, Veterinary Surgeon,

HAS commenced the practice of his profession in Markdale, and from his long experience and extensive practice in England and this country, is enabled to guarantee satisfaction. Regulating Powders, the admiration of thousands that have used them, warranted to purify the blood by removing diseases lurking in the system of horses and cattle, always on hand. Medicines may be procured at his office, over Dr. Sproule's Drug Store, Markdale. 1-y

Legacies! Pensions! Bounties!

Parties having any of the above claims to investigate will please communicate with me at once.

A. G. HUNTER, Claim Agent.

Dundalk P. O., County Grey. 6

OYSTERS, OYSTERS,

JUST RECEIVER AT THE

"BELFAST HOUSE."

I have fitted up a room over my Store where I can supply

OYSTERS —IN— Every Style!

By the Plate or Can

CHEAPER THAN ANY ONE IN TOWN

My Stock of

Provisions and Groceries

Togther with

Wines and Liquors,

ARE VERY CHEAP AND GOOD.

ANY AMOUNT of PORK FOR SALE.

As I do no puffing or blowing, I want the Public to give me a call and be convinced what bargains I am giving, before you purchase elsewhere.

WILSON BENSON.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 5-1y

J. MONTGOMERY, BAKER,

THE Subscriber in returning thanks to the inhabitants of Markdale and surrounding country for their patronage during the past eight years, begs to intimate to them he is how prepared to supply the Public with

FRUIT, POUND & PLUM CAKES,

either plain, or

Iced and Ornamented,

and a large

Varietv of Other Cakes.

always on hand. Also,

BISCUIT!

of every description, from the best manufacturers in Ontario. Also, a large and varied assortment of the

CHOICEST CONFECTIONERY!

BRIDES' CAKES!

supplied on the shortest notice, and got up in the best style that is done this side of Toronto.

Tea Meetings, Socials, AND OTHER PARTIES, supplied on the shortest notice and on the most reasonable terms.

JOHN MONTGOMERY.

Markdale, Nov. 18, st, 1880. 1o-ly

TAILORING

C. A. OWEN, Fashionable Tailor,

HAVING rented the Tailoring Department over McFarland's store, wishes to inform the public of Markdale and surrounding country, that he is prepared to FILL ALL ORDERS Promptly and Tastily!

CUTTING!

Done while Customers are waiting.

THE LATEST FASHION PLATES

Always on hand to chose from.

A Good Fit Guaranteed —AT— LOW RATES.

☞ Remember the Place, Over McFarland's Store.

Markdale, Nov. 25, 1880. 11-tf

Meat for All AT W. B. Sarjent's.

The subscriber returns thanks to the inhabitants of

MARKDALE

and vicinity for their liberal patronage during the past five years, and begs to remind them that he is prepared to supply their [illegible] wants in his line as

CHEAP

as any one north of Toronto.

Fresh and Corned Meats

delivered promptly on receipt of orders.

SAUSAGE & POULTRY

always kept in their Season.

Special inducements to large Purchasers

☞ Shop on Mill sreett, opposite the "Revere Hotel."

☞ Cash paid for Fat Cattle and Sheep

Again thanking you for past favors he trusts by faithful attention to your wants to merit a continnance of your support.

W. B. SARJEANT.

Markdale, Sept. 17th 1880. 1

NOTICE.

ALL parties indebted to the undersigned either by note or book account will call at my shop and settle without further notice, As I have not time to visit you all at your homes, and it is too expensive to send out a collector, I hope the above notice will be sufficient.

JOHN NOBLE.

N. B.—Warning is hereby given, that receipts are of no value unless signed by myself personally. JOHN NOBLE.

Markdale, Dec. 17, 1880. 14-tf

Public Notice.

NOTICE is hereby given that the new road open through lots 99, 100, and 101, on the 3rd concession W. T. & S. R., in the township of Glenelg, is not properly established.

The corporation of the township of Glenelg not having any title to the road through said lots, will not be responsible for any accident that may happen on said road.

JAMES BROWN, Clerk. FINLAY MACRAE, Reeve.

Township of Glenelg, Oct. 19, 1880. 6tf.

John H. Heard,

Manufacturer and dealer in

Cutters, Sleighs, Buggies, WAGGONS, CULTIVATORS, HORSE RAKES, PLOUGHS, HARROW AND All kinds of Farming Implements

Manufactury and Depository, Durham and Hill streets.

FLESHERTON.

TO MY PATRONS.—Always ahead of any in my trade, and having the largest and most convenient Factory in this locality, I am prepared to sell Carriages and Implements of every descriptron in the best style of any in the market, and at prices as low as any according to the quality of the work.

Having upwards of twenty years' experience, I am confident that purchasers will get the advantage in having the very best made.

Parties in want of a carriage or Implement will do well to give me a call, as there are none in the market which will compare with them in quality, style and finish for the price. 11-ly

China TEA Store

R. ASKIN

General dealer in

GROCERIES & PROVISIONS.

Next to Haskett's Hardware Store.

Keeps constantly on hand everything usual to such an establishment.

He would draw special attention to his

Teas, Tobaccos & Sugars,

Which for quality and Lowness of Price

CANNOT BE SURPASSED.

As puffing is no part of my desire, I merely ask intending purchasers to give me a call and be convinced that

I MEAN BUSINESS, AND WILL Sell Lower than the Lowest,

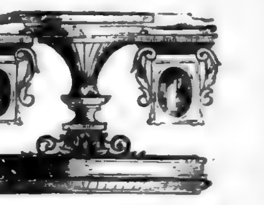
as I have purchased for cash, and have had a good discount allowed, I am in a position to let my customers have the benefit of my investments.

☞ Remember the place, next to Haskett Bros.

Markdale, Oct. 7, 1880. 4-tf

GRANT & CHELLEW, MARKDALE,



Cabinet Makers, —AND— UPHOLSTERERS

a full stock of

Furniture! ALWAYS ON HAND.

FURNITURE MADE TO ORDER

LUMBER WANTED.

GRANT & CHELLEW.

Markdale, Dec. 23, 1880. 1-ly

THOS. MATHEWS,

WISHES to tender to his numerous customers his sincere thanks for their very liberal patronage during the 15 years he has been in the Harness Business in Markdale, an would respectfully solicit a continuance of the same, feeling confident that he can give Entire Satisfaction. Everything usually kept in a

FIRST-CLASS HARNESS ESTABLISHMENT,

always on hand, and sold at moderate rates.

☞ None but good workman employed and the best of materials used.

Markdale, Nav. 18, 1880. 1o

FOR SALE IN ARTEMESIA;

FIFTY acres of land, Lot 25, south of Durham Road, 18 acres of cleared land with log house, and well fenced. Inquire of Robert Oliver, opposite the lot, or

JOHN KAY, Bentinck, Durham P. O.

Jan. 13th, 1881. 18-tf

CHEAP CASH STORE.

Reynolds & Son.

JUST ARRIVED A FULL SUPPLY OF

Dry Goods, Groceries, BOOTS AND SHOES.

TEAS A SPECIALTY, 5lbs. FOR $1.00.

As we are doing a CASH BUSINESS, we will not be undersold by any other house in town.

BOOTS & SHOES A SPECIALTY

Don't Forget the Place.

REYNOLDS & SON.

Markdale, Dec. 31, 1880. 9

The NOBBIEST CLOTHING!

In the County at

McFARLAND'S.

See his $5.00 Overcoats.
See his $10 Ulsters.
See his $12 Suit.
See his $16 dress suit.
500 pairs of Boots

To choose from—Men, Women and Children's. Get your AXES at McFARLAND'S. Those $2.50 MANTLES selling fast. New DRESS GOODS at McFarland's. New FLANNELS at McFarland's. New SHAWLS at McFarland's. New BONNETS and HATS at McFarland's. New TWEEDS at McFarland's. New CARPETS at McFarland's. New Fringes, Buttons, Silks, Laces, Flowers and Feathers. Prices never were lower or value better. A comparison solicited.

W. J. McFARLAND, IMPORTER, Markdale.

"FACTS CANNA BE DENIED."

BUTTER & RAE

Thank the public and friends in general for the liberal support they have received sin commencing business, and will still stick to the rule of doing a straightforward busines with all customers. No flattery used or baits given to gull the public. Every article sold on its own merits, and by keeping their stock well assorted and fresh in all the lines, they will always give their customers good value for their money.

DRY GOODS in all the lines.
ORDERED CLOTHING a specialty.
HATS and CAPS, new and stylish.
BOOTS and SHOES, Cooper & Smith's celebrated make that has stood the test against all comers in all styles and newness.
GLASSWARE and CROCKERY all paterns
GROCERIES, cheap and fresh.

Keep your Eye on the Place!

WHEN YOU VISIT MARKDALE.

Douglas' Brick Bloch opposite the Drug Store.

BUTTER & RAE.

September 21st, 1880.

THE PLACE TO BUY WATCHES — Over $400 worth sold in the last month — LADIES' BEAUTIFUL Gold Hunting Watches From $16 up WARRANTED — Silver Watches, VERY LOW. — A Time Piece To Suit All, AT W. F. DOLL'S, FLESHERTON and DUNDALK

Weaving. Weaving.

Any person having work to do in the above line, can get it done

DONE WITHOUT DELAY, AT THE

Flesherton Woolen Factory.

Having nearly all orders completed at present on hand, as is usual at this season of the year, those favoring us with work, may rely upon having it promptly attended to

EVERY BRANCH OF THE BUSINESS

Will be carried on throughout the witer.

N. CAMPBELL.

Flesherton, December 15, 1880 14

LUMBER AND SAWING.

The subscriber begs to intimate that he has his

Saw Mill at Little Falls

On Lot 143 in 3rd Range N. E., Toronto and Sydenham Road, Artemesia, in full operation, and is prepared to furnish

LUMBER, LATHS ETC., ETC., TO ORDER.

CUSTOM SAWING PROMPTLY DONE,

By the thousand or on Shares. Parties delivering Logs can have their lumber for return loads. The sawyer at the Mill can arrange for sawing.

ALL KINDS OF SAW LOGS PURCHASED.

Wm. HOGG.

P. S.—Wood turner wanted to make broom handles on a gauge lathe, steady job if work satisfactory.

Flesherton Station, Nov. 25, 1880. 2-p

R. J. SPROULE, FLESHERTON.

Whilst wishing al[l]

A Merry Christmas and a very [Happy New Y]ear, And Many Returns of the Same,

Would take this opportunity of tender[ing] his sincere thanks for the very liberal patronage which [illegible] the past; for, whilst it is the general cry [illegible] dull times, it has been taxing our utmost abili[ty] [illegible] with our rapid increase in business, as I find, b[y] [illegible] my Books, my cash sales and grain receipts, [illegible] rally have

ALMOST DOUBLED THE PAST YEAR THAT OF THE PRECEDING [ONE].

In view of which I have now on hand for the Holiday Season THE LARGEST and MOST COMPLETE STOCK OF

GENERAL GROCERIES, DRY GOODS, CLOTHING, BOOTS AND SHOES,

Crockery and Classware, AND Fancy Holiday Presents!

ALSO

CHRISTMAS AND NEW YEAR'S CARDS.

Also, the Largest and most Complete Stock of

Millinery, Furs, AND LADIES' COATS AND MANTLES,

Ever shown in this Norther Country.

ALL OF WHICH WILL BE SOLD AT THE

LOWEST REMUNERATIVE CASH PRICES.

Having made extensive alterations and improvements the past season in my Grain Warehouse, at Flesherton and Flesherton Station, I am prepared to pay the

HIGHEST PRICE IN CASH!

For any Quantity of good Crain or FARM PRODUCE.,

And as I keep buyers constantly on both Markets, Flesherton and the Station, all will find a READY SALE for Grain when offered

I will now commence a

GREAT CLEARING SALE

Of my large and complete stock of

Fall and Winter Dry Goods, MENS' AND BOYS' CLOTHING, Hats, Caps, Furs, Ladies' Coats and MILLINERY,

And will continue to sell at a

Very Small Advance on Cost!

Until all is cleared out.

A call is respectfully solicited to get quotations before purchasing elsewhere,

☞ REMEMBER THE PLACE FOR BARGAINS IS AT

R. J. SPROULE'S, FLESHERTON.

Flesherton, December 16, 1880. 14-ly

The Ice.

Now the men are on the ice—
Crystal ice—
And they fill up all their houses in a trice.
How they giggle, giggle, giggle,
In the frozen air of day,
While the mercury runs lower
And their saws go never slower,
But up and down alway,
Like the stocks, stocks, stocks,
Or like Jacky-in-the box,
Through the crystal congelation that hides the ponds so nice
With the ice, ice, ice,
Ice, ice, ice,
Through the frozen aqua pura, through the ice.

In the summer, oh, how nice,
Cooling ice!
On the table what a blessing is a slice,
In the heated air of noon,
When the butter sinks in swoon
And the water is lukewarm
And hard to drink,
And the flies about you swarm
Like the chickens on the newly planted farm!
Oh, to think,
As you hear the sound so nice
Of the cart all drip, drip, dripping with the ice,
Once or twice
That the price
Does not pinch you like a vise.
A dollar for a slice
No thicker than the liquor
Of the ice, ice, ice,
Ice, ice!
Oh, the ice cream! oh, the cobbler! oh, the ice!

THE PARSON'S OATH.

BY MRS. HENRY WOOD.

CHAPTER I. CONTINUED.

The evening grew late, and Mary Brown sat on, in Regina's lodgings, shivering and trembling. [illegible]

II.

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] sort of convenience to ourselves. When we find that anybody will take care of us, that we are not compelled to earn our own bread, it is surprising and humiliating to think, how many of us will consent, under various pretexts and for specious causes, to be indirectly, if not directly, dependent.

The thing is continually exemplified in men who wed rich women. They may be very independent in disposition; they may declare that they will never touch a dollar of their wives' property; they may proclaim that they will bear the entire expenses of their home. But, unless they be themselves wealthy, or have an exceptionally large income, they will fail of their high purpose. They may for a while execute their intent, but it cannot be for long. They will eventually compromise with their proper pride and share their wives' fortune, growing indifferent by degrees to the proportion that they receive.

If a woman earns but little—a few hundred dollars, say—barely enough to meet certain extraordinary expenses, or to use in charity, it is very much as if she should earn nothing. But when her earnings equal, or nearly equal, her husband's, particularly when they exceed those, a very unfavourable influence is pretty certain to be felt and a marked interior change to occur. Except he be very different from his kind, he will steadily, perhaps insensibly, lessen his exertion until his calling, whatever it be, becomes more nominal than real. As his earnings decrease his power of self-deception will increase. He will be likely to discover that it is more profitable to look after the wife's business than to attend to his own. He will degenerate in due time into her agent, and flatter himself that, but for his counsel, wisdom, and managing talent, she would be able to do nothing. He is constrained for her interest, indeed for their mutual interest, to withdraw measurably from his affairs to insure the prosperity of hers. He may not deceive himself by this transparent fallacy, but he strives to deceive others by it, and to such end expresses it constantly. When a man is willing to play second financial violin to his wife's first, there is no chance of his ever leading an orchestra of any kind.

There are men entirely virile, of ample pride and sensibility, who marry women for no better reason than love, when these already have a vocation they are averse to relinquishing. They may be actresses, musicians, writers, physicians, painters, teachers, and so deeply interested in their employment that it would seem unjust, if not cruel, to demand that they should give it up. So long as the husband can earn more than his wife, so long even as they earn nearly the same amount, they may jog on smoothly. But when his earnings, from any cause, fall below hers, there must be a shock to his self-esteem that he cannot wholly resist. It may not be from any fault or remissness of his, it may be the result of uncontrollable circumstance. Nevertheless, it marks the date of his discontent, which is well-nigh certain to increase in geometrical ratio. He is apt to grow peevish and bitter—the man who dislikes himself seldom likes anybody else—finally, so morbid and misanthropic that he will, unless remarkably strong, seek relief in dissipation. If he drink, drink will soon so abase him that he will loose all sense of shame from his peculiar position. He will not care whether he earns anything; he will surrender morally and abjectly; he will allow himself to be supported by a woman's wages; he will be, in the worst sense, a petticoat pensioner, and lose the power of blushing.

Not a few husbands of this sorry sort have grown to be sots; others have kept sober, but have sunk out of notice; others, again—and these are the luckiest, perhaps—have terminated their own lives. If the inner history of the divorce courts could be ascertained, the cause of many separations would be found to be the superior earnings of wives. It is doubtful, even if a right-minded man could be tranquil under the transfer of financial protency and authority to a woman, whether she can ever completely respect in her inmost heart the man who has permitted her to usurp his proper function. Generally speaking, it is as much the business of a man to earn the money needed for a household as it is for a woman to furnish its children, and when he neglects or shirks that business [illegible]

The Cub Bear's Delight.

(From the Little Rock Gazette.)

[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] much obliged to the collector if he could only give the young man something to do—some light work, such as watchman—as he was in need, and his health would not admit of exposure. Collector Tutton was exceedingly pleased to see Dr. Paddock. Mr. Tutton's rector at Downington and Dr. Paddock were, in fact, well acquainted, and Mr. Tutton talked freely of Downington's spiritual needs. To the reverend gentleman he explained that no reliance could be placed on the recommendations of politicians, while a minister's endorsement was nearly always a safe guide. The sham clergyman got quite shaky when Mr. Tutton touched on Downington matters, but soon switched off the conversation and avoided embarassment. It is now disclosed that "Shoey" Miller, who was mixed up in the bogus naturalization business, and was sentenced to two years' imprisonment in the Eastern penitentiary, personated Rev. Dr. Paddock, and was a party to the job. The young man recommended by him was appointed and made a watchman. By a strange coincidence the young fellow was assigned to that end of the building where the sub-treasury is located. For weeks he was attentive to his duty, but all this time he was gathering points and familiarizing himself with every part of the building, and with all the persons employed in it. These facts were made known to the gang, of which he was a member, and some of the confederates visited the place to learn the by-ways.

The robbers exhibited no undue haste in moving upon their prey, but waited until the time when the quarterly interest on the United States bonds fell due. They knew that large sums of money were stored in the vaults. On Sunday morning it was discovered that a hold had been made in the side of the custom-house wall, large enough to admit of the passage of a man's body through it. A closer examination revealed the fact that this led directly into the vault. The place had been cleaned out, but the robbers had been fooled. In this apartment were stored the pennies and small coins. Next to it, and with only the thickness of a few bricks, was the huge pile of interest money. It has been presumed that the thieves believed they had struck bags of gold, and that in the darkness they merely felt of them to learn whether they were coin or not, and immediately passed them out to their confederates to carry to a place of safety. Instead of going further, the job was, for some reason, abandoned at this time, and after an outlay of thousands of dollars the burglars captured but a couple of hundred dollars' worth of pennies. It is thought that daylight came too fast for them, and they were compelled to vacate the premises, which was a good thing for the government.

George Eliot's Life.

THE INSANITY OF HER HUSBAND, MR. CROSS—A LETTER FROM HERBERT SPENCER.

The notices of the London press upon the death of George Eliot add little to what has been said here. The Examiner tells of the insanity of her husband, of which no previous public mention has been made. It says:

"It seems but little more than a year since we lost George Henry Lewes, her first and most trusted counselor and companion, and hardly a twelve-month since the world learned with, perhaps, some degree of surprise, that she had married a gentleman of the stock exchange named Cross. While they were on their wedding trip—it is no use now to conceal the sad facts—he lost control over himself at Venice, and threw himself from the balcony of their residence. Happily, the sea, and not the ground, received him, and he survived, but only to be placed in a maison de sante. Bravely Mrs. Cross set herself to face her now doubly lonely life, but the struggle, not surpassed in intensity by that of any of her heroines, did not last long, and she has now gone, at the age of 60, to the rest that must have come to her as a relief."

The following letter from Herbert Spencer was published in the London News:—"Though, as one among those intimate friends most shocked by her sudden death, I would willingly keep silence, I feel that I can not allow to pass a serious error contained in your biographical notice of George Eliot. A positive form is there given to the belief which has been long current that I had much to do with her education. There is not the slightest foundation for this belief. Our friendship did not commence until 1851, a date several years later than the publication of her translation of Strauss, and when she was already distinguished by that breadth of culture and universality of power which have since made her known to all the world."

The Standard gives some reminiscences of her early literary life. "For twenty years," it says, "the name of George Eliot has been before the public. 'Adam Bede' was published in 1859, and the only clue to its authorship was the announcement on the title page that it came from the same pen as the 'Scenes of Clerical Life,' which had previously appeared in Blackwood's Magazine. Several claimants to the honour of its production presented themselves. Such impostors are the common-places of literary history. Sir Walter Scott was asked by an acquaintance to congratulate him on his identity with the 'Great Unknown' who had written 'Waverley.' The master-pieces of Akenside, Sheridan, and Thompson were appropriated by Grub street highwaymen. Hood had some difficulty in establishing the fact that he wrote 'The Song of the Shirt,' and more recently there were three candidates in the field for the laurels which belonged to Mrs. Lynn Linton as the author of 'Joshua Davidson.' The pretender in the case of 'Adam Bede,' whom it ultimately became necessary for Messrs. Blackwood to expose, was a Mr. Joseph Liggins, of Nuneaton. Strangely enough he had his supporters, and a Warwickshire clergyman declared that in his part of the world every one not only knew that Mr. Liggins was the creator of 'Adam Bede,' but could identify perfectly well the chief characters. It was not for some little time afterward that the name of George Eliot became generally known, and it was still later that it transpired that the owner of the nom de plume was a lady."

A NEVADA miner who nearly starved to death, had nothing to eat for three weeks but snow. Pshaw! we've known people to live on snow all winter. Livery stable men with sleighs to hire at $5 an hour, will live through the summer on the last snow.

A Strange Story.

[illegible]

Nearly fourteen years ago the people of the State of Arkansas teemed with the gossip of the mysterious disappearance of the wife of Robert d'Ossel, a wealthy planter, who, at that time, lived on his plantation on Arkansas river. The lady dropped out of sight and hearing as suddenly and unaccountably as if the earth had opened and swallowed her up, leaving no trace behind. Search was made everywhere, but without avail, and it was at last given up, and the theory that she had flung herself into the river gained general belief. Why she should take her life was a mystery. She had a comfortable and luxurious home, an indulgent husband, and everything that makes life enjoyable. Though a beauty, she never went into society, preferring, so she said, to shine exclusively in the domestic circle. She was childless. People envied her, but she didn't seem to care. Her whole life was centred upon one object, and that was her husband, whom she idolized. After her disappearance he married again, installing as mistress of his heart and home a fair young bride. But it began to be whispered about that the old plantation house was haunted. One old darkey had seen the ghost of the planter's first wife walking up and down the lane; another had seen the same object standing motionless in the centre of the dining-room, looking white and ghastly; strange noises had also been heard; groans and sighs awakened one servant or another at midnight, and the spirit of the dead and gone lady seemed to fill all space. Perhaps it was this which caused the planter to dispose of the property at a sacrifice. At any rate he sold out, and, with his bride, went away. Some said he forthwith returned to France; others that he left for Canada; but, as he took no one into his confidence on this point, none knew positively, and the talk about his prospective destination was nothing more than idle conjecture.

The new proprietor didn't believe in ghosts or in any sort of disembodied spirits. He moved into the house and set about making a good many improvements, not only upon it, but also upon the plantation. He cut trenches, built fences, felled forests of oak and pine, erected additional buildings; in short, changed or rather checked the advance of decay and dilapidation. Last week, in cleaning out a well, the water of which had not been used for some years, a strange object was brought to light. It was a human skeleton, evidently that of a woman. How it had come there none could tell. But the ghastly "find" revived the speculations concerning the mysterious fate of the missing wife of the former owner of the plantation, and it was readily divined that this grisly, loathsome skeleton was all that remained to tell the story of her doom. But how did she come there? Did she, in a fit of madness thus seek death? or had she been murdered, and her body flung into that dark abyss with the hope of hiding the crime? These are questions which agitate people in the vicinity, and to which no satisfactory answer can be found. All or nearly all the actors in the strange scene have disappeared. D'Ossel is no one knows where. His second wife did not figure in it to any great extent, and besides she went away with him. The servants are scattered and some of them dead. Those who are now living in the neighbourhood believe that d'Ossel murdered his wife, having grown weary of her. In support of this theory they recount numberless conversations which they overheard in which he threatened her life, he at the same time being drunk and desperate. They say, further, that his wife was slightly insane, not so much so however as to attract attention or be troublesome, but enough to make her an incubus upon such a man as d'Ossel. They assert, now since her bones have been properly interred, her spirit will no more wander about the old house where she spent so many happy hours, and where (if their story is just) she was so foully murdered. The case is a strange one and is something seldom developed—something which, when trying to decide whether it be murder or suicide, must raise a train of ugly doubts and vain surmises in the strongest mind.

A Fencing Fiend.

Imagine, if you can, says a Paris correspondent, and English newspaper office being converted into a fencing-saloon, and, if you are able to stretch your fancy thus far, you will nevertheless fail to form any idea of the scene presented recently in the house of the Rue Drouot, built for the printing and publishing of Le Figaro. It was announced a short time ago that a certain Baron di San Malato, the most redoutable swordsman of Italy, and who had acquired a notoriety as a fast man about Florence, intended to exhibit his prowess in Paris. The Figaro accordingly offered to him the hospitality of its house, for the purpose of giving a private assault of arms, to which an exceedingly small number of invitations were issued, these being restricted to the best swordsmen of the metropolis and the writers on the paper. The publishing office is of itself worth a visit, and it is especiallly interesting to English journalists by reason of its being utterly unlike any establishment of the kind in Britain. It consists of a large and lofty hall, open to the roof, and surrounded by a gallery running round the first floor, similar to that which is to be seen in many an English country house. The walls are adorned with admirably frescoes, depicting episodes of the plays of Beaumarchais, of which Figaro is the hero, and the polychromatic ornamentation is gorgeous in the extreme. Rich panoplies of arms are fixed against the walls of the ante-rooms, and on the staircases are big vases, containing handsome plants. The decoration of the central hall is completed by pictures of the royal personages who have been guests of the staff of the Figaro, the prince of Wales occupying the place of honour in the middle. A low platform was put down along the centre of the hall, and here the Baron di San Malato pitted himself against M. Merignac, the first professor of Paris. The Italian appeared with a foil of a peculiar description, the handle of which he held between his first and second fingers, and he wore boots, which are here never donned in the fencing-room, but are reserved for dueling purposes. He exhibited extraordinary suppleness in his movements, and assumed attitudes which, effective though they would be on the stage, would be dangerous "upon the ground." It was amusing to contrast the wild gestures, the foot-stamping, and the defiant cries of the Italian with the calm, quiet, unassuming bearing of his French antagonist. But it soon became evident in whose hands the mastery would remain, and, after a bout which lasted more than half an hour, M. Merignac scored eleven "palpable hits," against one very doubtful touch of the Baron di San Malato. One of the most curious aspects of the evening was the intense excitement exhibited by the few spectators, who were almost all adepts in the brilliant art.

In Luck.

A pretty story is being told, says the Springfield Republican, about one of Springfield's attractive girls, a "round and rosy" creature of many accomplishments. As the gossip runs, she was hurrying to take a train, tripped and so gracefully recovered herself as to win the admiration of a very substantial-looking old gentleman. He assisted the young woman on the train and to a seat beside himself. Conversation flowed pleasantly and acquaintance ripened fast. On parting at a station not many miles west of this city the couple exchanged addresses. The old gentleman proved to be a wealthy Chicago merchant, who opened a correspondence with our heroine. She apparently wrote as agreeably as she talked. Letters winged their way faster between the city by the river and the city on the lake. Then came a proposition—not of marriage, but that the worthy son of the susceptible parent be admitted to the correspondence. The father gradually drew out of the field, and the son more than made his place good. Do you guess it? Yes, in the fullness of time, or rather in a very little while, came an offer of marriage. It was accepted. Three souls are happy, a brilliant wedding and luxurious home are in prospect, and the railroad officials have been greatly puzzled of late by the number of Springfield girls who come stumbling, with more or less grace, aboard trains bound for the great and glorious west.

"Yes, I am going to skate," he answered, as his teeth rattled together, and his ear stood out like [illegible] on the rink at the park, like sheet-iron medals. "They tried to stuff me with a story, but I won't take it." "Did one freeze to death?" "Now, come to find out about it, he just froze his ears and nose and fingers and toes, and the rest of his body wasn't touched at all! They can't scare me with any of their tales of horror!"

Paying Cash.

"How was trade last year?"
"Oh, first-rate."
"Got stuck much?"
"Well, we had to charge up about a thousand dollars to the 'D. B.' account, but will make it up out of you cash customers this year."

The foregoing conversation occurred in a city grocery store. The grocer meant all he said when he replied that the dead beat account would have to be made good by cash customers. All merchants intend to make the men who pays cash responsible for the debts of those who do not pay at all. This has come to be generally understood, and the wonder is that cash has not rebelled against it.

Any retail dealer can buy closer with cash than with credit. The closer he buys the greater are his profits. Money put down on his counter gives him a chance to discount his paper, meet his notes and pay current expenses. Charges on the book mean cash next month, or the month after, or next year. Cash asks no favours except to be waited upon. Credit must have a bookkeeper, a collector and a lawyer. If a retail dealer in groceries asks the price of starch, he is told that he can have it so much on credit, or so much for spot cash. If the consumer asks the price of the retailer, it is one price to Cash Down or Dead Beat.

The more one thinks this matter over the more he realizes the force of the remark of a prominent Western financier, who lately observed: "The man who pays cash when he can get credit is a foot." And so say we all. If Dead Beat is to have the same price as Cash Down, with an additional advantage of sixty-six days time—which means ninety in nineteen cases out of twenty—why do any of us pay cash? Why not all take credit?

We know of several city firms who have long realized the injustice of making cash pay credit's debts. They have said that it was all wrong, but they could not see how a change could be made. They would not say to customers: "This is so much for cash down, and so much if you want credit." That plan would be offensive, but there are others. Suppose a grocer should adopt the rule of handing back to every cash customer five per cent. of the purchase? If Cash bought $5 worth of goods his rebate would be twenty-five cents. If Credit bought $5 worth, he should have the same price but no rebate. Cash would be encouraged, and Credit would only be paying for the favor, the same as he would have to if he borrowed the money. Let any grocer now doing a half-cash, half-credit business, put this plan in operation and his cash customers would increase faster than he dreams of. Scores who now ask for credit would turn about and pay cash. It is simply adopting the plan of the wholesalers. It is no experiment with them, and would not long be with retailers. Cash has preference and advantage everywhere and in all cases except buying at retail. It must be accorded an advantage there. If retailers refuse, then a citizen who pays cash when he can secure time is indeed a fool. Credit should be made the same business transaction in a grocery that it is in a bank, and cash should be appreciated in a dry-goods store the same as in dealing with jobbers.

Only a Dog.

We were all crying, every one of us. Father declared it was smoke that had got into his eyes and made them smart; but mother threw her apron over her head and sat rocking and sobbing for ten minutes. Phœbe and I just threw ourselves down on the floor by poor Leo, and I took his dear old shaggy head in my lap, and the hot tears dropped one by one; and Phœbe petted his poor old stiff ears and smoothed out his thin, gray hairs; and then we took off the old brass collar that was marked all over with hieroglyphics that we had scratched with pins in the proud days when he first wore it; then we cried again, and just then in walked Squire Toots, and he didn't seem to know what to do when he saw us all so distressed; he looked at us and then at Leo; then he took out his handkerchief and gave his nose a real Sunday school blowing, and said kind of huskily:

"Why it's wicked to feel so bad. Anybody d' spose it was a pusson; 'taint only a dog!"

That just made us all feel worse. There wasn't any Heaven for him to go to, and we knew we never could see him again, and we couldn't remember any life without Leo, we were such little tots when he came to us, and he had been one of the family all the time. Father used to lecture him just as he did us children. "Where did I see you to day, sir?" he would say, "Over at Mr. Mason's, associating with that dog that steals! Shame!" And then Leo would whine, and pretty soon father would say, "Go to bed, sir!" and he'd sneak off to his box in the back shed and lay awake all night to protect us while we slept, and he never once in over fourteen years was forgetful of his trust—and he was "only a dog."

Only a dog! Why, was there ever a time that we went racing home from school that Leo hadn't met us half-way to race with us and do all sorts of funny tricks at our bidding, and how proud we had always been of him with his handsome stately presence and superior manners, and how safe we felt to hear his deep-chested bark as we went to sleep.

Well, death had found him sure enough, and we buried him out in the grove in a little hollow, where he loved to lie on hot summer days, and there will be no resurrection for him, though there will be for the vilest thief he kept from our doors; but none the less, in looking over his honest, blameless life, in which he was never faithless to any, even the smallest trust, I dare apply to him the Master's meed of praise, "Well done, good and faithful servant;" though, as Squire Toots said, "He was only a dog."

A Romance of British High Life.

Many years ago, says the Toronto Globe, a young man made his appearence in Stratford, and passed a few weeks at the tavern which then existed to afford shelter to stage coach travelers. Whence he came, and what was his business, none could guess. Directly opposite the tavern stood the small cottage and forge of a blacksmith named Folsom. He had a daughter who was the beauty of this village, and it was her fortune to captive the heart of the young stranger. He told his love, said he was traveling incog; but, in confidence, gave her his real name, saying that he was heir to a large fortune. She returned his love, and they were married a few weeks after. The stranger told his wife that he must visit New Orleans. He did so, and the gossips of the town made the young wife unhappy by disagreeable hints and jeers. In a few months the husband returned; but before a week had elapsed he received a large budget of letters, and told his wife that he must at once return to England, and must go alone. He took his departure, and the gossips had another glorious opportunity to make confiding women wretched. To all but herself it was a clear case of disertion. The wife became a mother, and for two years lived on in silence and hope. By the end of that time a letter was received by the Stratford beauty from her husband, directing her to go at once to New York with her child, taking nothing with her but the clothes she wore, and embark in a ship for a home in England. On her arrival in New York she found a vessel splendidly furnished with every convenience and luxury for her comfort, and two servants ready to obey every wish that she might express. The ship duly arrived in England, and the Stratford girl became mistress of a mansion, and, as the wife of a baronet, was saluted by the aristocracy as Lady Samuel Stirling. On the death of her husband, many years ago, the Stratford boy succeeded to the title and wealth of his father; and in the last edition of "Peerage and Baronetage," he is spoken of as the issue of "Miss Folsom, of Stratford, North America."

The Baroness Burdett-Coutts to Contest the Duchess of St. Alban's Will.

(From the London World.)

It seems to be taken for granted that the provision known as the forfeiture clause in the will of Harriet, Duchess of St. Albans, will, on the approaching marriage of Baroness Burdett-Coutts and Mr. Ashmead Bartlett, be allowed to take effect without remonstrance, and that the property therein indicated will pass to other persons. I am assured that this belief is wholly without foundation. The opinion of high legal authorities on the subject has been taken, and every effort will be made to prevent a forfeiture arising from a legal accident which was not contemplated by the Duchess, and which would be oppressive and unjust in its operation. The appeal in favor of her retaining that fortune, hitherto dispensed with such thoughtful generosity, will undoubtedly be carried to the highest legal tribunal.

[illegible]

Another year [illegible]
A new Year [illegible]
To [illegible]
[illegible]

It [illegible] with solemn [illegible]
And whispers of the [illegible]
And bending low it [illegible]
"How spent, the [illegible]

"Where is the record [illegible]
Where is the ledger, kept [illegible]
How has the book been [illegible]
What statement [illegible]

I open it, and turn the [illegible]
And pondering page by [illegible]
Here, on the first, its [illegible]
It needs no [illegible]

The next is fairly [illegible]
And even a wish for [illegible]
How without prayer [illegible]
Will such wish [illegible]

Here is a page bears [illegible]
Written with firmest [illegible]
No surface-reading critic [illegible]
Finds fault with [illegible]

What stands upon this [illegible]
Scarce the calligraphy I [illegible]
Ah! I remember! [illegible]
The light burned low. [illegible]

But what now follows? [illegible]
I turn the pages o'er and o'er [illegible]
Each after each contains [illegible]
And nothing more!

Ah! here at last, a well-[illegible]
Its lines in full, traced [illegible] through;
Yes must contain some [illegible]
Some good in you.

And is it so? Ah no! ah no!
I find of earth, what's earthly [illegible]
Earth's joys, earth's pleasures [illegible] renown,
On you appear.

I read its lengthy-worded [illegible]
Its boast—what "I" have [illegible]
How shall I on its pompous [illegible]
Strike balance true?

No! Close the book and seal it [illegible]
Anew I dare not through it go;
The lesson which it well has [illegible]
By heart I know!

Could we but blot out of our lives [illegible]
The days and hours we've spent [illegible]
How easily might be [illegible]
What would remain?

And if our years for Him were [illegible]
Doing His work—His work [illegible]
We need not fear the "B[illegible]
When life is done!

PROMINENT PEOPLE.

LORD CHIEF JUSTICE COCKBURN [illegible] a bachelor, but always [illegible] £4,000; Chief Baron Kelly, [illegible] married and leaves children, [illegible] and Lord Justice Thesiger, who [illegible] but childless, and only half the [illegible] other two, left £80,000.

JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL'S eyes have clear blue and gray tones, [illegible] dark mottlings. In [illegible] strongly indicative of his moods. [illegible] ed upon study they are [illegible] ing: in ordinary conversation they are [illegible] and cherry, but in moments of [illegible] they become very lustrous.

VICTOR HUGO has been further [illegible] the placing on the house at [illegible] he was born, Feb. 26, 1802, a [illegible] scribed with his name and birth [illegible] letters, surrounded by gilt laurels [illegible] go promised to attend the [illegible] his honor, but at the last moment [illegible] cuse.

THE first person of prominence [illegible] fashion, now so prevalent among English people, of wintering on the [illegible] the Mediterranean, was Lord [illegible] who took up his abode at Cannes [illegible] years ago, and was the means of [illegible] advantage as a winter resort into [illegible] Mediterranean shore may now [illegible] lined with the villas of rich Britons [illegible] number has steadily increased. [illegible] able that Ruffini's charming [illegible] Antonio," helped to assist the [illegible] Besides these residences on the [illegible] nean numbers of other Englishmen [illegible] country seats in other land. Sir [illegible] Dilke has a beautiful retreat near [illegible] Sir Robert Peel one on the Lake of [illegible] Lord Salisbury owns the Chalet [illegible] Dieppe; Lady Holland has a [illegible] Naples, and a millionaire Briton [illegible] lovely place where Queen Victoria [illegible] spent some days on the Lake of [illegible] our own continent, twenty years [illegible] similar movement will probably [illegible] southward, and Florida will [illegible] atial cottages as Newport.

ALONG with the news that [illegible] yachtsmen are taking an unusual [illegible] the cup won at Cowes in 1851 by [illegible] ica, comes the information that the [illegible] been thoroughly overhauled. She [illegible] ed the other day from Duffy's [illegible] at Boston. In speaking of her [illegible] ments, her commander, Capt. [illegible] a Boston branch pilot and a deep-sea [illegible] gator of celebrity, said: "The [illegible] been rebuilt from four strakes below [illegible] ter line with new top timbers and [illegible] hackmatack, and ceiling and [illegible] low pine. The fastenings are of [illegible] vanized iron, and locust treenails. [illegible] deck there are four large staterooms [illegible] four berths. All has been finished [illegible] with polished mahogany trimmings [illegible] now the same spars as when [illegible] against the Madeleine in 1876, two [illegible] from Sandy Hook and back for the [illegible] Cup. In order to remedy a [illegible] America has of running herself [illegible] and setting aft, all the time [illegible] like a Virginia fence, she has been [illegible] with an overhang of six and [illegible] Capt. Reid adds that he intends [illegible] out in racing trim early the [illegible] son.

EXCEPT an Irish landlord, says the World, no member of the peerage [illegible] be pitied than Lord Airlie. For [illegible] years past he has been [illegible] the career of a clever adventurer, [illegible] been pleased to adopt the name of [illegible] son, Lord Ogilvy, and, under [illegible] tion, to run up debts, forge bills, [illegible] dle people generally in all parts of [illegible] The number of applications which [illegible] lie has received for "payment of [illegible] count" from tradesmen, who [illegible] were trusting his son and heir, [illegible] credible. These bills come in [illegible] shower from all parts of the [illegible] the United States; and although [illegible] tices and warnings of all kinds [illegible] launched at the head of the [illegible] once or twice he has actually been [illegible] yet, after a short time, he is [illegible] found at his old tricks again, and [illegible] Airlie is obliged once more to [illegible] phalanx of clamorous tradesmen [illegible] have been duped and robbed. [illegible] was ever trusted half so much [illegible] one one. His manner are said [illegible] tinguished," his personal appearance [illegible] tractive, and with the fair sex [illegible] been a great hit. Meanwhile the [illegible] Ogilvy is always with his [illegible] Tenth Hussars, in India, and [illegible] such a good time of it as his [illegible]

THE Duke of Richmond enjoys [illegible] tary pension of £19,000 per annum. [illegible] Charles II. granted to the Duke of [illegible] and his heirs 1s. per chaldron on all [illegible] ported from the River Tyne and [illegible] England. This duty was received [illegible] Dukes of Richmond until 1778, when [illegible] exchanged for £19,000 per annum [illegible] upon the Consolidated Fund. By [illegible] statute, in 1801 £444,611, [illegible] £146,194 14s., and in 1834 £[illegible] 6d., were invested, in the name of [illegible] in Three per Cent. Consols in order [illegible] er these pensions. The Duke of [illegible] still receives a direct pension, [illegible] granted by Charles II., and a [illegible] sion granted by the same [illegible] deemed in 1856 for £193,777, [illegible] in addition to all this, Charles gr[illegible] Duke's ancestor and to his heirs [illegible] butlerage of wines through [illegible] butlerage being the King's right [illegible] to his own use, and at his own [illegible] much of all merchandise belonging [illegible] chant strangers out of every ship, [illegible] the same as he had occasion for. [illegible] the then Duke of Grafton [illegible] right for a perpetual annuity [illegible] chargeable upon the Consolidated [illegible] 1806, £135,563, 18s. 5d. where[illegible] purchase Consols in the name of [illegible] meet this charge. The main object [illegible] copious investments seems to [illegible] conceal from public observation the [illegible] that are received by the holders [illegible] title of Richmond and of Grafton [illegible] to evade awkward inquiries as to [illegible] ancestors did to entitle them and [illegible] terity to three handsome pensions.

[illegible] DAY MORNING
[illegible] the early mails.
[illegible] Foreign and Provincial [illegible], County Business, [illegible] and an Instructive [illegible]
[illegible] if paid within three months, [illegible] of the year. No paper [illegible] until all arrearages are [illegible] option of the publisher [illegible] paper without paying [illegible] responsible for the subscrip[illegible] comply with the rules.

[illegible]ADVERTISING:

[illegible]	$50 00
[illegible]	27 50
[illegible]	15 00
[illegible]	8 00
[illegible]	4 00
[illegible]	50
[illegible] first insertion	15
[illegible] insertion	75
[illegible] first insertion	25
[illegible] insertion	8
[illegible] insertion per line	8
[illegible] insertion	2

[illegible] to be reckoned by [illegible] measured by a scale of [illegible] advertisements without [illegible] be published till forbid [illegible] All transitory [illegible] in the office of pub[illegible] on the Thursday [illegible] publication.
[illegible]LEDGE, Proprietor.

[illegible] & BUSINESS [illegible]CTORY.

[illegible]dical.

[illegible]le & Carter, [illegible]geons, Accoucheurs, &c.
[illegible] Hall; residence at [illegible]
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1-y

[illegible] PURDY, [illegible] SURGEON, ACCOUCH[illegible] P. O. 6-tf.

[illegible]egal.

[illegible]R. Wilkes, [illegible]W, - Owen Sound. [illegible]'s building, over Robin[illegible] Street. 1-y

[illegible] & Frost, [illegible] AND ATTORNEYS-AT [illegible] in Chancery, Convey[illegible] Sound, have resumed at [illegible] open every Thursday, as [illegible]
J. W. FROST, LL. B. [illegible] Attorney. 1

[illegible] Masson, [illegible] ATTORNEY-AT-LAW, [illegible] ncery, Owen Sound. 1-y

[illegible] Lamon, [illegible]-LAW, SOLICITOR IN [illegible] ary Public, &c. [illegible] lowest rates on personal [illegible] ands bought and sold. [illegible] produced free of commis[illegible]
[illegible]NDALK.
[illegible] 1880. 1

[illegible] & Land Agents.

[illegible] Brown, [illegible]RRIAGE LICENSES, &c., [illegible] in B. R. &c. [illegible] all its branches promptly [illegible] fully executed. [illegible] Lend on Real Estate se[illegible]
[illegible] 17, 1880. 1-y

[illegible] L. Smith, [illegible] AGENT AND DEALER IN [illegible], Williamsford Station. 1

[illegible]nder Brown, [illegible] Marriage Licenses, Fire and [illegible] Agent. Commissioner [illegible] Conveyancer and Licensed [illegible] the County of Grey. Farmers, [illegible] Sales, Punctually at[illegible] charges made very moderate. [illegible]ept. 17, 1880. 1-y

[illegible] Corbet, Jr., [illegible] AND GENERAL AGENT [illegible] Money to Loan at low [illegible] Principal payable at the [illegible] years, and interest half year[illegible] principal and interest repay[illegible] [illegible] desirable Improved Farms [illegible] 1-y

[illegible] J. G. Sing, [illegible] AND PROVINCIAL LAND [illegible] Draughtsman and Valuator, [illegible]dale. Having purchased [illegible] Surveyor Charles Rankin's [illegible] Original Field Notes, Plans, [illegible], &c., of all his Surveys [illegible] last fifty-five years, I am [illegible] Surveys in strict accord[illegible] Profiles and Estimates [illegible] Plans and Specifications [illegible], furnished on applica[illegible] an at 8 per cent interest. [illegible] left with G. J. BLYTH, [illegible] promptly attended to. 1-y [illegible]ntistry.

[illegible] J. White, [illegible]ameron, Owen Sound. [illegible] REVERE HOUSE, [illegible] the last Wednesday in [illegible] will be prepared to per[illegible] required upon the mouth [illegible] tory manner, and upon [illegible] 1-y [illegible]tels.

[illegible]ON HOUSE [illegible]ARKDALE.
[illegible] the above hotel and thor[illegible] and refitted it, the trav[illegible] find every accommodation. [illegible] liquors and cigars kept. [illegible] ful hostler. [illegible] HORN, Proprietor.

[illegible] HOTEL, [illegible]DALE.
[illegible]E, - Proprietor.
[illegible] has had a large [illegible]t, thoroughly refi[illegible] none in the cou[illegible] attentive ostler. [illegible] for commercial tr[illegible] per day.

[illegible] HOTEL, [illegible]RD, Ont. PROPRIETOR.
[illegible]on for the trave[illegible] well stocked with [illegible] Liquors and the [illegible] all trains. 1

[illegible]AL HOTEL, [illegible]LLE, Ont.
[illegible] Sample Rooms [illegible] The Bar and la[illegible] best the market [illegible] attentive Hostler [illegible]KINSON, Proprietor.

[illegible] WILSON,

[illegible]CHER [illegible] door to Exposi[illegible] any house in to[illegible] 1-y

VOL. I.[illegible]

DYSPEPSIA DR. [illegible] JOHN[illegible] Indian B[illegible] LAB[illegible] 77 W.3d St. [illegible]
CURES FEVER AND AGUE. CURES SCROFULA AND SKIN DISEASES. CURES BILIOUSNESS.
CURES [illegible] Biliousness. [illegible]
The Best REMED[illegible] 70,000 AGENTS [illegible] 9.000,00[illegible]
This Syrup Poss[illegible]
It stimulates the [illegible] which converts the [illegible] food into glucose. [illegible] causes Wind and [illegible] stomach. If the me[illegible] ately after eating [illegible] prevented.
It acts upon the [illegible]
It acts upon the [illegible]
It Regulates the [illegible]
It Purifies the Bl[illegible]
It Quiets the Nerv[illegible]
It Promotes Dige[illegible]
It Nourishes, Stre[illegible]
It carries off the [illegible]
It opens the pores [illegible] Healthy Perspiration [illegible]
It neutralizes the he[illegible] blood, which generates [illegible] manner of skin diseases [illegible]
There are no spirits [illegible] and it can be taken by [illegible] the aged and feeble, [illegible] tention to directions.
PRICE OF LARGE [illegible]
PRICE OF SMALL [illegible]
Read the VOLUN[illegible] of Persons who ha[illegible] use of the BLOOD [illegible]
FOR DYSPEP[illegible] COM[illegible] Kelvi[illegible]
Dear Sir—Th[illegible] your valuable [illegible] has benefited me [illegible] and Liver Comp[illegible] cine I ever befor[illegible] M[illegible]
SAVED [illegible] Kelv[illegible]
Dear Sir—I [illegible] doctors' hands a[illegible] eight years, this [illegible] that I have not e[illegible] After using your [illegible] for a brief space [illegible] led to do all my [illegible] lieve it was the [illegible] life. MRS. M[illegible]
CURES COUG[illegible] Barton[illegible]
DEAR SIR:—I [illegible] was afflicted wi[illegible] which grew wo[illegible] my room, and w[illegible] incurable by my [illegible] 1877, I commenc[illegible] Blood Syrup, [illegible] menced to gain [illegible] a short time I [illegible] fair day's work. [illegible] entirely gone. ISAAC[illegible]
CURES E[illegible] Mt. Forest[illegible] Wellin[illegible]
DEAR SIR:—I wa[illegible] Erysipelas for two y[illegible] your Indian Blood [illegible] me. MRS. [illegible]
LIVER C[illegible] Mt. Forest, Well[illegible]
DEAR SIR:—I hav[illegible] Blood Syrup for Liv[illegible] received great bene[illegible] mend its use to all s[illegible]
DISEASE OF [illegible] Mt. Forest, Well[illegible]
DEAR SIR:—This [illegible] valuable Indian Blo[illegible] Cramps in the Stom[illegible]
DISEASE OF [illegible] Cross H[illegible]
DEAR SIR:—I wa[illegible] Pains in my Stomach [illegible] Appetite and was un[illegible] relieve me until I t[illegible] Syrup which effected [illegible] always give your me[illegible] justly deserves.

Markdale Standard,

VOL. I.—NO. 22. MARKDALE, ONT., FRIDAY, FEB. 11, 1881. WHOLE NO 22

DR. CLARK JOHNSON'S Indian Blood Syrup.

LABORATORY, 77 W. 3d St., New York City

LATE OF JERSEY CITY.

(TRADE MARK.)

CURES Dyspepsia, Liver Diseases, Fever & Ague, Rheumatism, Dropsy, Heart Disease, Biliousness, Nervous Debility, etc.

The Best REMEDY KNOWN to Man!

70,000 AGENTS HAVE SOLD SINCE 1870

9.000.000 Bottles.

This Syrup Possesses Varied Properties.

